All rights reserved

Foreword

When I read the second series of "Cultural Problems of the present", I promised the audience to tell you why I changed publishers. Mr. Johannes Rade, who produced the first series of eight Volumes of this company have been published, the Gebusiness practices of this publisher in general, as well as mentally the process that Mr. Theodor Duimchen, the Author of Volume VI ("The Trusts and the Future of Cultural humanity") for fraudulent reprinting against him are also quite suitable, not only the readers of "Cultural Problems of the Present", not only the German authors, but also the larger pubkum to be keenly interested.

But the material has become too big: the Taktics of the law firm (Justice Counsel and Notary Felix Kaufmann, Justice Counsellor Georg Mankiewitz and Dr. Hugo Bamberg), which represents Mr. Rade, already fills a dicken file and actually earns for himself a monograph. It would take me way too far if I tried wanted to give a somewhat vivid picture of this attractive thing, and I therefore limit myself to say that today, after the trial has already a year, the main witness, printing shop owner Uschmann in Weimar, his statement still not although he had already been asked to do so in three instances has been convicted! So I am with Mr. Duimchen agreed that he himself would give this process a chaptertel in his book on "Our Legal System", which will be released as Volume V of the new series.

Possibly the grotesque even grows into a in a way that it requires a whole volume: the The relationship between German authors and their publishers is also a cultural problem, and not the smallest one. And the The trial Duimchen contra Rade will then be the district court, Regional Court, Chamber Court, Imperial Court, Bar Associationmer, the publishers and the printing owners' association etc. etc. have dealt with extensively and very be capable of protecting the value of German copyright law, Jurisprudence of German courts in copyright matters and the protection that the most decent property, that exists at all, the ownership of an author in his works, actually enjoys in Germany.

Tendency and attitude of the "Cultural problems of the present" remain unchanged. They will also be included in the The following series aim to identify the typical phenomena of modern culture and their causes examine and present their development. They serve no party or group, are completely independent dependent on all influences, from coteria or special interests and also give every employee full freedom his individuality and conviction.

The only thing that is relevant for the publisher is the Importance of the topic, as well as the spiritual power and the literary ability of the person who deals with it. Writing producers who are completely independent, who do something for our Culture Have important things to say and express them in a good, formal perfect German, are hereby invited to Invited to collaborate.

Berlin W. 50.

Leo Berg.

Table of contents

Introduction.1

Chapter 1: Sources.13

Chapter 2: Biblical Ideals and Reality.24

Chapter 3: The Jewish Problem.43

Chapter 4: The Essence of Judaism.51

Chapter 5: Development of the Idea of Judaism.70

Chapter 6: The predominance of ethics in Jewish literature .90

Chapter 7: Origin and Implementation of the Jewish Idea.... 104

Chapter 8: How did the Jews survive? 125

Chapter 9: Modern Judaism.133

Chapter 10: Zionism.159

Conclusion.172

Notes.179

Introduction

For thousands of years the Jewish problem has been discussed discussed without success. Blinding love on the one hand, distorting hatred on the other side, in the middle the broad army of the ignorant and selfish. Between Due to these factors, an agreement was not possible achieve.

In ancient times, the Middle Ages and modern times whom the Jews despised, hated, and persecuted. From Russia country one currently hears of Jewish riots and Ju¬ In the Western European countries, the The gap between Jews and Christians is getting deeper and wider. Germany is discussing the repression of the Jews by the government, about keeping them away from all sued state offices.

In view of this bleak fact, I have says: the undoubtedly existing Jewish question is the symptome of a disease, the determination of the nature, the development and conditions of existence of the Judentum the same as what the diagnosis means to the doctor Without them, any attempt at a solution is in vain, Quackery.

However, a correct diagnosis can only be made by find the mind striving for truth. That of hate and love-moved mind can, in such an undertaking, investigation only disturb and confuse and must therefore be possible be suppressed as much as possible.

I belong, as far as my mind is concerned, body and soul to Judaism. I live in the Jewish religious associations and intends to continue remain.

The tragedy of this self-destructive Conflict between mind and reason can only to fully empathize and understand whoever Has experienced something similar himself.

To what extent I have succeeded in this writing is to suppress any emotional excitement and always The reader can judge whether to remain objective. In order to
To facilitate this judgment, I want to explain the circumstances from which I have emerged, represent and show which assumptions from which my thoughts originate, in how I form the concepts, how the world view in my mind is reflected. Then I want to present to the reader my thoughts develop step by step. Because only This much-lamented evil can be remedied by unprejudiced people often do not, even with the best will in the world, can communicate because they are linguistically competent, but not understand each other spiritually.

I was born in a Russian-Polish ghetto.
My parents belong to those orthodox Jews who see the welfare and salvation of their children solely in the Study of the Talmud and all profane knowledge condemn.

I spent my youth in the Talmud schools where, by neglecting all secular education, a the study of Talmudic literature becomes.

Only as a mature youth was I Acquaintance with modern Hebrew literature to the world outside the ghetto. I learned the German through Hebrew translations Classics and philosophers know. The new, strange
The world that confronted me here made a overwhelming impression. I was irresistibly drawn to the sources of modern education.

Since any attempt to follow this urge is at the Resistance from my fanatical environment failed,
I decided to leave home and everything that was dear to me, to leave in order to find a place in the strange world

the one where I could satisfy my thirst for education.

So in my twentieth year I went to abroad, penniless, inexperienced, lacking in reading and Speaking any language other than Jewish ian jargon. After years of planning and After hopeless wandering I finally found a galizian town, the place where I was granted Hebrew instruction to learn the essentials of life Here I was able to acquire skills without the help of a teacher in

Over the course of several years, the university will have previous education.

I studied at a German university
then philosophy and Semitic languages. After Erlan After completing my doctorate, I acquired the Prussian State citizenship and took up the post of Librarian at the Jewish Community in Berlin.
I left this position at the end of 1904 as a result of the publication Publication of an article on which this paper is based lies, 1) has been released.

For many years I have been working on a real concord dance of the entire Talmudic-Rabbinic literature.
This work will, for the first time, provide a clear and authentic ical picture of that gigantic creation that the entire thinking, feeling and acting of the Jew tum since the exile to the present day and no even the slightest expression of life is subject to the arbitrary will of the dividuums.

I also deal with special love with the Platonic Socrates, with Aristotle, Cartesius, Spinoza, Kant, and Schopenhauer. From them
I have developed my worldview lays.

As a child I sat at the Tish-be-Ab*) at the feet of my Mother and listened intently as she, on the floor sitting, surrounded by a circle of illiterate women surrounded by a yellowed

---

* Fast day because of the destruction of Jerusalem.

Zeena-ureena* ) read the Churban"). The mother cried the women cried, and I cried with them. And for a long time, after the adults had risen to their to pursue everyday activities, the Child silent and sad there and pondered the great tragedy that of his people.

I was heartbroken. Why was so much blood shed?
why these torments, this misery, these tortures, this misery?

"The Jews sinned, and so God punished them punishes," my mother said to calm me down.
Well, it couldn’t be any other way. If the Jews had sinned, they had to be punished, that was clear. But I still wasn't completely satisfied.

The child had grown up. One evening I went and, lost in thought, fell into a goji-sche Gasse. Then a crowd of Schkuzim attacked me) and beat me mercilessly. And when I was covered in blood
When I came home, the old one awoke in me, still unsolved question: Why? "We are in Golus (Exile)", my mother consoled me. Certainly, if one lives in Golus was, the "Patsch" were self-evident, but They still hurt.

Years passed, and I became a Maskil (re-

---

* Name of a book written in Jewish jargon, in which the literature and Jewish history is presented in a way that is understandable to the general public.

 In a figurative sense: the story of suffering of the Jews.

'" '-'"Christian boys.

clarified), and as such I read with tireless Zeal for modern Jewish literature, which has set itself the task had made it his mission to mock Orthodox Judaism ten and the "dachas", as we call the non-Jews to be called, and now I was finally everything was clear. Now I fully understood why Mil¬ million Jews were murdered, why this whole Misery had come upon my people, and why I I had been slapped in the face. We Jews were
We have always been a stubborn people; we did not want Reading novels, not shortening our long skirts, not go to the theater, not dance with ladies. Yes, we have always been a fanatical, worthless people, we wanted and still want from civilization know nothing. But from now on, things had to be different.
We, we enlightened young people wanted to natism of the old, on our flag the lie¬ be, good, worshipped civilization; then with you go to the camp of the "dachas" and shake their hands offer reconciliation. If I now offer a "Datsch" on the street, I secretly laughed at him:
"I have left civilization behind the long caftan Yes, it's there."

But this dream would not last long.

Shortly after the assassination of Alexander II, Bad news from Russia to us in Russian Poland.
Burning, plundering and murdering, the raging Mob through the Jewish communities. Like an unbridled
This flame stretched

This corruption continues to spread, horror and despair spread throughout the Russian and Polish Jewish It was as if the Zeena-ureena, the children not) and whatever they are called, the proclaimers of Jewish Suffering, alive. They were raised from the grave stood, the Tituses, the Hadrians, the Crusaders and what the great army of Jewish persecutors is otherwise called.

Now there were no orthodox and enlightened Jews no more inner strife and discord. The misfortune had united us.

And civilization?

As devastating as the recent events on had worked on me, they were still not able to to regain my faith in my idol, civilization
What did these sad excesses prove?
At most, that in Russia one is still far from the culture. In the West, such proclamations
There was no way to Discord between Jews and Christians will come more, because both had civilization in their bodies. Yes, over there In the West, the era had already begun where Wolf and lamb grazed peacefully together.

One of my friends was at the time of this sad
Excesses traveled to Vienna for a few days.
When I returned, I quickly went to see him, and my first
The question was: "What does

---

* Lamentations and prayers of repentance sung in the synagogue on the day of the destruction of Jerusalem be recited.

I was firmly convinced that that the Viennese mock civilization over this speaking riots would be just as outraged as I; and I found comfort in having companions in my to be in pain.

A few years later, I had the opportunity to my fellow sufferers in the civilized West, On the spot, to get to know each other. And again I had to bury a beautiful illusion.

What I had not thought possible became to reality. Antisemitism could also be found in German countries, in this Canaan of civilization, Take root. Initially shy and unattractive,
This monster grew in size day by day and audacity. And when finally his destructive power had come to light, it was about the still dwindling small remnant of my optimism.
My belief in the refining and reconciling power civilization was destroyed.

I have these sentences a few years after I had left the ghetto, in another community curtains. Whether I had a clear idea at that time attitude towards my idol, civilization, whose Loss made me so inconsolable? Hardly. And but in these sentences the state of mind of the ghetto child's life. The storms and To see the struggles that the transition from the limited ten to the free worldview in him his desperate groping and struggling for some kind of stop amidst the swaying and fading ideals.

It seems to be in the nature of the ghetto Jew, that he cannot live without an ideal worldview can.

In my youth, the Talmud was the most most precious good. To immerse myself in him, to follow his teachings To live was my noblest endeavor, my highest Goal. He was an inexhaustible source of comfort, Peace of mind. He gave me the certainty that everything happen, all action somewhere and sometime in a a good, wise purpose, a just principle must be completely resolved. From him I drew the confidence view that I am not a plaything of stupid chance, the unjust arbitrariness; that a higher being controls every Hair of my head, guard, protect, the iniquity punish, repay the unjust suffering and the benefit reward. I was convinced that the Talmud had followers to good, noble and happy people che.

That was the worldview of my youth.

Then were days of the hardest trial, the deepest deepest spiritual distress for me. With all my strength
I struggled against the doubts that flooded my Belief, to destroy my peace of mind, my happiness in life threatened. And when my faith was broken, the world of my ideals under the weight of doubt collapsed, I clung to a new ones that promised to replace what I had lost. What formerly the Talmud, were now for me the modern sciences, modern culture and customs.

That's what I called civilization. And as before, from the valley mud, I now expected a good and just explanation for everything that happens and Act, I believed that they made people good, noble and make you happy.

In these expectations, I saw myself as a Jew on the Most painfully disappointed. Civilization had the Christians are not happy, the Christians are not good and noble power; she had protected the Jews against the most brutal hatred volitions, riots and persecutions protect me. And she also gave me a satisfying sufficient explanation for the unjust suffering of my volkes cannot give.

Now I was, as before, in need of support and support robs me of something that I now need less than before.
Without a moral faith, a high ideal,
I walked on the thorny, impassable path that I, since leaving the ghetto, have not entered, to move forward.

In this desperate time I searched and found in philosophy the guide that led me out of dull, breath-taking and desolate lowland to liberating, luminous, unlimited heights.
Here I learned the world of appearances, unclouded by affections, passions, inclinations and dislikes, hatred and love,

Beauty and ugliness, badness and goodness, one from the point of view of correctness and truth Now I finally found the lost peace of mind the vanished vitality and the sunken courage again. What once seemed to me to be unjust and wounded my mind, was now for me an effect whose cause I did not yet know.

And I found that logic is superior to practical action.
like man, who, by being in his de¬ conclusions only from purely factual moments, but not is guided by considerations for his family, this far more useful than if he were to base his decisions on his relatives.

In ancient times and the Middle Ages, research, searching and striving moves in a circle and is never to the successes of today. Except for minor Exceptions have been made in earlier times in science scientific research from the ethical and aesthetic cannot completely free oneself from this philosophical point of view.
If one examined an object, according to its nature researched, the investigation and the research itself were end in itself to determine the truth, but only means to do something pleasant, beautiful, useful to achieve something good.

We do find thinkers and researchers who have a run to purely logical thinking; but their Energy is broken by the prevailing current their achievements are destroyed.

striking example of the stark contrast between ethical–aesthetic to logical thinking, the two thinkers Galileo and Cremonini. While that ruthlessly explores his object and believes that known result, unconcerned about the consequences, openly speaks, Cremonini does not want to look into the telescope so that he can escape the unpleasant truth not convincing.

And it is precisely this ruthless research, which, concerned about what is pleasant or unpleasant, beautiful or ugly, useful or harmful seems good or bad, has followed its path, unintentionally brought immeasurable blessings to humanity, an infinite abundance of life's goods and benefits
She is a sun that shines everywhere her Rays penetrate, the shadows of fanaticism disappear scares, dries swamps, attracts cultural germs, blooms grow and mature. But the rays of this Sun does not reach all lowlands, ravines and morasses te of the human mind. Still stored create dark prejudices, hatred, envy and malice considerable limitations in many areas of life.

These are the problems that humanity currently suffering, and with which she cannot cope sooner will be until it is replaced by purely logical research, which is called scientificity, radiates has been.

Chapter 1: Sources

I now decided to look from a purely logical point of view points to examine the Jewish problem.

The Old Testament consists of 24 books men, which fall into 3 groups.

I. Torah (the teaching) consists of 5 books (Pentateuch) and treated, after sending a short Report on the creation of the world and prehistory of humanity:

1. the fate of the Hebrews since the appearance of their of the progenitor Abraham until their immigration into Palestine (approximately 2000–1400 BC);

2. Rules and teachings about their conduct God, their country and each other.

II. Nebiim (Prophets) consist of 8 books and deal with the fate of the nation since its arrival reign in Palestine until the Babylonian exile (586 BC). Chr.).

III. Ketubim (hagiographs) consist of 11 books and contain:

1. a review of the entire Hebrew history layer since Abraham until the return from the Babylonian-Persian exile (2000–516 BC);

2. epic, lyrical and didactic works that are not the nation as its object.

The time when the Old Testament was completed and canonized, its text fixed and vocalized, is cannot be determined exactly. The conclusion and the canonization ization is said to have taken place around the 1st century AD, the fixation and Vocalization may have occurred in the 6th or 7th century. The text of the these books, in the form in which he came to us, is called Masoretic.

In addition to the Masoretic one, there is also a Samaritan Tanian text and a Greek translation of the Bibel.

The Samaritans are remnants of the Samaritans who lived in 722 BC. by the Assyrians from their northern Palestine Israelites exiled from their land. Their Bible consists from the Pentateuch and the Book of Joshua and departs differs significantly from the Masoretic text.

The Greek Bible translation, Septuagint called, had been with the Greeks for about 200 years BC Chinese-speaking, especially among the Alexandrian Jews in use. It contains, in addition to the Torah, the Prophetes and hagiographers nor the Apocrypha (Book Judith, Wisdom, Tobias, Sirach, Baruch, Maccabees) and pseudepigraphs (Esther, Susanna, Beth of Babel, Dragon of Babel, etc.). As the Samaritan Bible The Septuagint also differs considerably from the Masoreti ical text.

The most important and for the assessment of Judaism
The most authoritative book is the Torah. According to Orthodox Interpretation from the beginning to the last 8 verses, which deal with the death of Moses, from God to Moses word for word has been dictated. 2) Therefore, every word is absolutely true and holy, every precept for all eternity dend; and no letter shall be added to this book added or removed.

The remaining books of the Bible are for the Jews also holy, but they have no binding force and have therefore never embraced Judaism in the way that Torah influenced. The most respected prophets and the Psalmist, who is no less highly regarded, speaks with disdain, often even with contempt for the victims and the entire Jewish cult. 3)

But this opposition has never existed in Judaism have had any practical success because they are against the Torah, which explicitly requires sacrifice and worship,
"When the prophet Elijah comes and says something says something against the Torah, you must not listen to it," says a generally accepted tradition. 4)

Whether the Torah was really written by Moses with or without Inspiration, or in the time of Hezekiah, Joshua, Ezra or otherwise when it was written, whether it was written by one or many have been edited once or more than once, which Basics used in the editing process, and what was added has been added: these are all questions that the taught the already

300-year-old biblical criticism is still not in agreement and will hardly ever agree unless a happy Chance should reveal such discoveries that shed light on can bring this darkness. 5)

This much is certain: at the time of Ezra, towards the end of the 5th century BC, the Torah was already generally known among the Jews been known to me and a divine authority
It is also highly likely that her Text was already fixed at that time.

The Torah first wants to shed light on the original history of humanity in general and of the Hebrews in particular. Then their laws, regulations writings and teachings the entire religious, public and regulate the nation's private life.

The Torah probably already wanted to fulfill this task in its origin only to a limited extent.
The expressions of life can never be completely Written statutes are drawn up and regulated.
The duration had to be in constant flux and never-before-calculated life phenomena transcend the narrow confines of written statutes and form side currents that, in the course of the diverse simple, often very stormy shaping of Jewish life bens the Pentateuchal statutes in extent, meaning and importance far exceeded. Should the Torah nevertheless retains its measure and direction for all time
To maintain its influence, one had to Torah-related currents, all traditions, sit¬ customs and traditions, which already existed among the people at the time of the Torah's writing which, but not taken into account by the Torah, or caused by the development of living conditions in Over time, with the Torah in ir¬ any connection. This task was solved by the Interpretation.

Its interpretation is probably as old as the Torah itself.
oldest professional Torah interpreters known to us a message has come, the Soferim (scribes) taught), who found in Ezra the most famous master
They were chosen by the men of the great Synod
the Persian period, the Sekenim or Gerontes of the Greek Chisto-Syrian period, the Synhedrine of the Roman period, In the last period of the Synhedrin, since the practically minded Sadducees were completely suppressed and the Pharisees living exclusively in religion, the Al¬ had seized power in the Synhedrin,
The interpretation of the Torah took on a new character.
they used to be just a means to an end, just to make life easier
To keep the script in harmony, it was now Main purpose. According to the principle "Research and you will receive reward" (Sota 44) were now in the Synhedrin Questions from the Torah or into the Torah inter¬ presented, which life has never produced, which practically never This desire for interpretation for the sake of Interpretation grew enormously since the Temple destroyed and the Jews were denied anything of their former glory than the Torah, "with which God presented the Creation of the world filled his leisure hours has". 6) In the past, the interpretation of the Torah was a matter for a single institute, which at least appears to be a unit represented, 7) so after the destruction of the Temple this task the Tanaim, the teachers who are in the University of Jabne and finally in Tiberias under the Nasi united, but not for the long term, as it was aimed at, were able to hold together. Inconsequence of the fragmentation and the disappearance the political-national shackles are increasing The research addiction grew over time, the material that has been attributed to countless authorities, such that a single person can hardly control it anymore.

This material, which, in contrast to the written called the Oral Torah,
For a long time, one could escape an insurmountable
Don't be afraid to make a decision. 8)

The restructuring of the situation meant that but forced to do so.

After the unfortunate revolt under Hadrian
the pressure of the Romans against the Palestinian Jews so that they had no choice but to to emigrate from their homeland.
wind directions, an uncertain future
One could not expect the crowd to the tremendous material that even the professional scholars in quiet times and under orderly conditions to control more in its entirety wanted to remember for the duration. Ande¬

rer-

On the one hand, oral teaching was the soul of Judaism become.

So, towards the end of the 2nd century, it was decided derts n. Chr. under the Nasi R. Jehuda the entire To collect, sift through, and interpret oral teaching material organize and write down. 9)

Nasi R. Jehuda, who was responsible for editing this work was incumbent upon, seems to be a man of education and taste This comes from classical Hebrew in which the Mishnah is written, and the very pleasantly away from the Aramaic gibberish which was the colloquial and written language of the Jews. This contrasts no less favorably with Work of the later monumental work of the Jews, the Talmud, through a serious pursuit of systematic ical order.

The material of the Mishnah is divided into 6 orders:

1. Agriculture is about what, where and when may be sown, planted and harvested,

2. the festivals,

3. Marriage and inheritance law,

4. Civil law,

5. Victims,

6. Purity laws.

After the completion of the Mishnah, the Tanaim, the Amoraeans, the explainers. They stood at the Head of the Babylonian and Palestinian Academy While Palestinian universities are of the pressure on the Jews there, and the increasing emigration over time sank lower and lost their reputation and lost importance, the academies reached Babyionia to the highest splendor and prestige.

The Amoraeans have the same attitude to the Mishnah relationships, like the Tanaim to the Torah; they seek the mixed to explain na, to demonstrate their relationship to the Torah, Contradictions between the individual Mishnas or with the sayings not included in the Mishnah of the Tanaim and to create a correct Mishnah text. Then the Halachas are the regulations for religious and public life, examined for their validity and fixed.

Approximately two to three hundred years after its writing The Mishnah faced the necessity to the results of the Mishna, which has been orally transmitted to date, To write down hermeneutics and hermeneutics criticism. In Palestine This work was done in the 4th century, in Babylonia in the 5th. century under the name Talmud or Gemara.

Both names mean "what has been learned" or the Conclusion drawn from the teaching (Mishnah).

If one compares the two monumental works, the Mishnah and the Talmud, together, so the un¬ the great degeneration which the Jewish spirit has undergone during the which has been in decay for three centuries. Already in the Mishnah There are numerous signs of mental confusion. It often contains absurd speculations. But the Jews still cling to their native soil, who supplies the people with those juices that will nourish their spirit preserved fresh and naturally. The root of the young dian spirit healthy. With the separation from the homeland, this root. The Mishnah teachers were already on the unhappy thoughts that ritual enjoyment ability of the egg laid on the holiday to become an object to make an extensive speculation. 10) The valley Mudists have now gone further and have in all Seriously the question was raised as to what it would be like if the egg laid half before and half during the holidays 11) Such offspring of a pathological Hirns do not occur sporadically in the Talmud, but are the rule. In other respects too, we look the Talmud, how much taste and sense of order the Jews suffered. From the correct language of the There is no trace of Mishnah in the Talmud. Language is a lazy, careless, grammatical Aramaic that mocks the rules. The editors have the found material in a clumsy and tastelessly unpolished and without any architectural plan. In the As a rule, entire academic lectures are presented in the exact Wording reproduced, one and the same object is used in various places, in a variety of forms and from the most diverse points of view The discussion is endless, in the In most cases, it is caused arbitrarily. It confuses through its subtle form the clear meaning and makes It is often impossible to find out the factual core.

However, as confusing as the presentation, as confusing the Content mixed up, however absurd the greatest th part of the content, the Talmud remains after two directions an admirable and important Work. It encompasses the entire feeling, thinking and actions of the Jews and leaves no matter how insignificant expression of life of the individual's will. In The sum of all knowledge of that time is stored in it chert, which, properly exploited, can be used for every subject of could be of great value.

After its completion, the Talmud received the same Reputation that the Mishnah and the Torah once enjoyed. And like the Mishnah and the Torah, the Talmud the subject of ongoing research in Educational institutions and among the people. The results of this research sions that continue to be written down extend to the present day. The literature tur, which, unlike the Talmud, is rabbinic literature and has grown to infinity, has a triple task:

1. to comment on the Talmud;

2. which is recorded in the Talmud in a confused jumble laid halachic material for practical use to organize and check its validity;

3. the new ones that emerged in the post-Talmudic period Living conditions and circumstances in halachic norms to add men.

Rabbinic literature thus breaks down into commentaries re, codices and responses.

Judaism has a fourth literary genre after conclusion of the Talmud, which the whole Middle Ages and modern times, the largest part of the Jewish has occupied us most vividly: the Kabbalah. But In this literary genre it has been shown that the Judentum is instinctively averse to any kind of mysticism.
Although it was pursued with great zeal, but the Kabbalah never became central to the Jews it was basically seen as a minor matter and has no lasting influence on religious life Joseph Karo, the author of the ten Jews in canonical standing, Shulchan Aruch, was one of the most ardent Kabbalists.
It is characteristic that in his book there is no trace the Kabbalah can be found.

The total number of Jews currently living is amounts to approximately ten million. Around eight million lions live in the East (Russia, Poland, Türkiye, Balk¬ against two million in the West. 12) The Jews of the East still live entirely under the rule of the valley muds; the Jews of the West have for the most part abandoned the Talmud and the culture of their host peoples assumed.

These are the sources that I have found useful for orientation about the Jewish problem.

Chapter 2: Biblical Ideals and the reality

Let us first consider the most important and decisive most important source, the Torah.

"And God said to Abraham, Go out from your a country, your birthplace, your father's house, in the land I will show you. I will ma¬ to a great nation and bless and make great your name, and you will be a blessing, and Through you all the nations of the Earth." (Genesis 12:1 ff.)

Whatever the actual basis for this count, whoever wrote it may be: it certainly shows clearly how the most authoritative Authority of Judaism the origin and future fate of his people.

A man steps out of his family, breaks away from Soil and clan and moves into the distant world to find a to found a nation. Such heroes are in the nations This is not without precedent. Cadmus and Aeneas also to found a nation. While this Men are only concerned with the founding of a nation, should

for the forefather of the Jews the founding of the nation only a means to higher ends: he has a great religious idea, and he wants to bring a people into being, that will become the bearer of this idea. This people with this The idea is to replace the morally corrupted their atrocities doomed humanity a warning example, a beacon, a blessing
the.

"I, the Lord, have called you with righteousness and have made you a light to the Gentiles, that you open the eyes of the blind..." (Isaiah 42:6-7)

The view that Judaism is responsible for the spread was created because of a religious idea, which the peoples, as soon as they have recognized them, Inspire respect and admiration and to see can be found throughout the biblical Literature. "And you shall give me the most excellent of the nations, and a priestly kingdom and a holy people," the Pentateuch has Jehovah tell the Israelites the Exodus from Egypt. (Exodus 19:5)

"That you keep all his commandments and that he may make you Most High make you above all peoples and you will be praised, praised and honored ... that you may be a holy people est." (Deuteron. 26, 18 ff.)

"For this will be your wisdom and your understanding among all nations, when they hear all these things messenger, and they will say, what a wise and understanding people this is. For Where is a glorious people that has such just customs and messenger than this Torah." (Deuteron. 4:6 ff.)

But of course, the achievement of this great, glorious
The goal was still far, unforeseeably far away. Until then Israel had a difficult, thorny path back
It was necessary to fight against the age-old prejudices of a whole world, and it was to be expected that in the this struggle Israel for an indefinite period of time, would be disrespected, ridiculed and mistreated.

"Surely my servant will prosper: he will rise up and be exalted and be highly lifted be! Although many have been astonished at you, His appearance was disfigured and no longer human-like and his form no longer resembles that of humans children, he will amaze many peoples with wonder and awe make them jump up; because of him kings will Press your mouth shut, because what they never tell was, they look, and what they have never heard, they take they are true. Who has proclaimed to us what was believes, and the arm of Jehovah - to whom was it revealed? And so he grew up before him, like a root sprout and like a root out of a dry ground: he had neither form nor beauty that we should look at him like, and no appearance that we should like him He was despised and abandoned by men, a man of pain zen and familiar with illness, and like one before whom one covers the face, despises him, that we consider him nothing But he has borne our infirmities, and He took our pains upon himself, but we held considered him punished by God, struck by God and plagued, while he wills for our transgressions pierced, torn apart for the sake of our accusations was malmt: punishment, for our salvation, lay upon him, and by his stripes we are healed." (Isaiah 52:13-15, 53, 1-6.)

But the victory should be all the greater, the success become all the more glorious.

"Thus says the Lord: In that day ten men ner from all kinds of Gentile languages a Jewish Man by the tail and say, we want to go with you, for we hear that God is with you." (SaCharia 8:23.)

"And many nations will go and say: Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to House of the God of Jacob, that he may teach us his ways and we walk in his paths." (Isaiah 2:3)

"And kings shall be your guardians and princesses of your a nursing mother, they will fall down before you to Earth on your face and the dust of your feet cken." (Isaiah 49:23)

The ideal envisaged by the Pentateuch is:

sole worship of Jehovah and observance of his precepts writings.

"And I will give these lands to your children, and through your children will be blessed all Nations of the earth, because he (Abraham) obeyed me and has observed my commandments, laws, and teachings." (Genesis 26:4)

These two cardinal virtues: Worship of Jehovah and the practice of his commandments, Moses continually sharpens in the most eloquent words to the Israelites.

"And you should now know and take to heart, that the Lord is a God in heaven above and in the earth beneath earth and no one else. That you keep his rights and commandments that I command you today, it will be yours and your your children after you will prosper." (Deuteronomy 4:39)

"Observe my laws and statutes and do not these abominations ... for all such abominations have the people of this land, those who were before you and who Land polluted." (Levit. 18:26.)

As a means to realize this ideal,
The Torah offers proofs, promises, and threats.
Proofs are the unheard-of miracles and benefits that Jehovah has exercised for and upon Israel.

"For ask about the former times, which were before you beings, from the day that God raised man up on Earth created...

whether anything so great has ever happened, or the same has ever been heard been: that a people had heard God’s voice from speak to the fire as you have heard, and yet live, or whether God ever attempted to create a people from a
To take people by temptation, signs, wonders, Struggle, by a mighty hand and an outstretched
ten arm and terrible deeds, as all this the Lord, your God did for you in Egypt, before your eyes (Deuteron. 4. 32.)

But much more eloquent and effective than the evidence are the promises and threats.

"If you faithfully obey the voice of Jehovah your God tes, obey and take care to do all his messengers that I give you today, then Jehova, your God, exalt yourself high above all the nations of the earth.
And all the following blessings will be come to you and realize itself in you, if you hear the voice of Jehovah: Blessed are you in the city, Blessed in the field, blessed is the fruit of your womb and your crops and the produce of your livestock ...
Blessed is your basket and your baking bowl, blessed you are blessed when you enter, blessed when you go out Jehovah will destroy your enemies who rise up against you ben, strike down before you.

... But if you do not obey Jehovah's requirement chest ... so all the following

The following curses will come upon you Cursed are you in the city, cursed in the field, cursed is your Basket and your baking dish, cursed is the fruit of your body and the fruit of your field, the produce of your Cattle and the clothing of your sheep, cursed are you, when you enter, and cursed are you when you leave Jehovah will send against you the curse, the Dismay and cursing in all business, that takes hold of your hand until you are The wickedness of your deeds, because you have forsaken me sen you have, are quickly destroyed and destroyed.
Jehovah will make the plague cling to you until she has wiped you out of the land ... Jehovah will you with consumption, fever, inflammation and heat, with dryness, burning and yellowing ... the
The heavens above your head shall be bronze, and the earth uniron will be with you. Jehovah will strike you with the Egyptian ulcer, with plague boils, scabies and scabies, which are incurable. Jehovah will strike you with madness sense and blindness ... you are always oppressed and be robbed ... Jehovah will strike you on the knees and Thighs with incurable, malignant ulcers,

from the sole of the foot to the top of the head ... you will become an object of horror, ridicule and scorn are spread among all the peoples among whom Jehovah will lead you ... Jehovah will against you ... a people that flies like an eagle ... that has no Shows consideration to the old man and has no mercy with the boy ... in the fear and distress, in the your enemy will put you out, you will lose your womb feed on the flesh of your sons and daughters..." (Deutron. 28, 1 ff.)

According to Jewish tradition, since the days when Abraham went abroad at the command of his master went to found a nation, four thousand years re passed.

Since then, countless peoples have passed through the Schaubühne of life. They have striven, struggled, suffered and, when their time was up, the law of becoming and passing away. Only IsRael has to defy the destructive power of time liked and still wanders among the living. His bones are rotten, his flesh is dried up, he is consumed the marrow. But animated by a mysterious power, the wandering Jew gasps like a ghostly being, mocked, ridiculed, and abused by the mischievous youth follows, on the endless road, still restless towards his goal.

But there are moments when the elderly wanderer, exhausted by the endless toil, for a while pauses in his walk and looks back There, like ghosts, all phases of his life pass by layer passed before his eyes.

A youth, full of radiant strength, indomitable Courage and noble enthusiasm, Abraham came into the world stormed out to accomplish great things, things never imagined. Humanity had strayed from its good, noble origin jumps away, was in the pool of sensuality, Idolatry and the common, low mentality and conduct and doomed to ruin And Israel wanted to save them from the pit, wanted himself to be a good, noble and holy priest and serve as a shining example to the peoples right path. Whether his goal is desirable and was feasible? When has the enthusiastic youth ever possessed of a cold, deliberate mind, their ideal worthless and to find it unfeasible? The value was shaped by the unflexible will; and the tremendous difficulties, which has been with the people of Israel from the very first step challenges were only able to strengthen the youthful strength, to strengthen defiance, increase enthusiasm and Israel in the hope that despite all the travails experiences and cruel disappointments his ideal would finally be realized.

And what cruel disappointments and gloomy This old man has gained experience in his earthly life not experienced!

Already at its first appearance, the tribe

father of the Jews, who, according to the command of his God, blessing of the peoples, in continuous conflict te with its surroundings.

These increase with the increase in his bad and reach their peak in Egypt:

"And the Egyptians were afraid of the children of Israel."
(Exodus 1:12)

The Israelites had finally managed to build a home
But internal disputes and external hostilities de constantly shook the foundations of their state, until he finally under the Babylonian king Nebuchadnezzar came to an end and the largest and most important part of the population was transplanted to Babylonia.

Shortly thereafter, the Jews came to power through Cyrus' victory over the Babylonians under the rule of the Persians.

The customer service is sparse and not at all reliable.
which is taught in the Bible in the Book of Esther about the
The Jews came to us under the Persians
But this sparse and unreliable information is nevertheless extremely characteristic. The Persian minister Haman appears before his king with the following accusation:
to the Jews: "There is a people scattered and dispersed among the peoples in all the lands of your kingdom; their laws are different from those of other peoples and they do not act according to the king's laws ... please the king, let him issue an order to kill them."
(Esther 3:8-9.)

As a result of this accusation, the King issues a decree to all countries who gave his kingdom the order: "To destroy, to strangle and kill all Jews, young and old, children and women, in one day." (Esther 3, 13.)

From the context it is clear that this Order not only to the authorities, but to the population of the entire empire; that he fer¬ ner would undoubtedly have been carried out if the king nig had not withdrawn in time.

Whatever the historical basis of this narrative may always have, the fact that they were written down has been done so that it can be considered credible could, the inhabitants of the entire Persian Empire would have been able, at a royal command, to act in such a cruel manner against the Jews hen, establishes a relationship between Jews and Persians predict that it was not at all friendly could.

On the fate of the Jews since their return from the Babylonian-Persian exile up to the Maccabees (536-169) we have no news of any significance.

With the conquest of the Persian Empire, Palestine na, which was previously a Persian satrapy, under the Bot¬ moderation of Alexander the Great. Only with the Syrian king Antiochus Epiphanes (175–163), under whose sovereignty Palestine was, the Jewish History suddenly emerges from the darkness light.

"In those days there went out of Israel wicked men schen; they persuaded many, saying:
Let us, therefore, with the peoples around us, us brothers. For since we separated ourselves from them, Much misfortune has befallen us. Such a speech pleased them And some of the people declared themselves ready, to go to the king, who gave them authority to sit of the Gentiles. So they built in Jerusalem a gymnasium according to the custom of the heathens, the foreskin was restored and thus removed treacherous from the holy covenant, joined themselves with the Gentiles and sold themselves to do evil ... Then The king sent a letter to his entire kingdom that all may become one people and each one his customs. And all peoples submitted the king's command. Many people from Israel also found fell from his religion, sacrificed to idols and consecrated the Sabbath." (1. Maccabees 1, 12 ff.)

The outcome of this unprecedented struggle between Hellenism and Judaism is well known.
The Jewish worldview has emerged as the victor gone.

The phenomena that this victory has produced are instructive in three ways. Firstly, shown that the Jewish religion is not influenced by any power means can be suppressed. The socially anarchic and politically untenable conditions that have existed since this victory until the complete collapse of the Jewish state in Jerusalem have ruled, prove secondly that the Jewish religion in its consistent implementation makes the existence of a state impossible; that finally with the representatives of other worldviews cannot live in peace permanently, regardless of whether it remains firmly orthodox or to adapt to the prevailing spirit as much as possible seeks.

The Alexandrian Jews are said to have been Alexander the Great settled in Alexandria From the written monuments of that period it is that the Alexandrian Jews were completely hel- They have Greek names, know The Bible is almost exclusively from a Greek Translation and writing an educated Greek. They also seem to lack male and bourgeois Efficiency not to be inferior to their fellow citizens Since the Alexandrians generally have a higher education education and manners, one could easily assume that in that city between Jews and non-Jews with whom a good relationship existed. But this assumption turns out to be wrong. In the 1st century AD, suddenly in Alexandria for a minor event omission of a persecution of Jews with the most ugly and most cruel side effects: looting, Desecration and murder.

From the writings of Josephus against Apion, the then leader of the anti-Jewish party in Alexandria,
It is clear that the reason for this announcement tions are not a momentary aberration of the human ly mind,

but an old hatred that remained ever alive.

If one reads the accusations of the rhetoricians Chaeremon, Lysimachos and Apion, against whom Josephus defended himself one is astonished that a three-hundred-year-old Living together and participating in culture
tur of fellow citizens has not been able to create a basis where understanding and friendly coexistence could be achieved; that the Jews in their nature, thoughts and feelings to their fellow citizens have remained so completely alien and unsympathetic.

It was no different at that time in the rest of the Diaspora around the Jews We hear of exterminations many Jewish communities. 13)

On the relationship between the Jews and the Romans
We have an abundance of Jewish news.
They leave no doubt that the Romans, since Pompey's appearance in Jerusalem until his downfall of the Roman Empire, a true scourge of God for the Jews were. In moving and shocking words
It describes how cruel and merciless the Romans acted against the Jewish people. 14)

Among the anti-Jewish statements of Roman For writers, the most serious aspect is the external of a historian who always keeps himself well informed directed and the pursuit of the greatest possible objectivity vity reveals.

"They harbor hostile hatred against everyone. They separate from table and bed ... they abstain from mixed marriages themselves, those who have converted to their religion take these habits, and first and foremost, they are taught to reject the gods, to abandon the fatherland, Eltern, children and brothers." (Tacitus, historiae 5, 5.)

Since the final destruction of the Jewish religion by the Romans, the hatred of Jews has increased in intensity and extensity increased. Even during the existence of the Jewish state, a very large part of the Jews lived in the Diaspora. Numerous and large Jewish We find Christian communities not only in Asia and Africa ka, but also in all countries and islands of Europe, where Greek and Roman culture and power had expanded. 16) These communities were never popular with their fellow citizens. But they had, as long as the state existed, a base in their Motherland. The Jewish Empire also never had a great power, but it was the case with the then political situation, where the possession of the Middle East was fought over was, after all, a factor that not even the rival great powers (Ptolemies, Seleucids, and Romans). Therefore, they often found themselves forced to act against the Jews living under their protection to take various considerations into account.

After the fall of the Jewish Empire

The Jews emigrated as a result of the unbearable The expression of Roman rule. This fact has increased the friction between the Jews and their host populations has increased. The elementary violation of the now freed from all considerations of Jew-hatred This prevented the migration of peoples, which began at that time zend, the national bonds of the old world were broken, the most heterogeneous elements of people thrown together and national differences have not been allowed to develop.

Under the flood of peoples, the Roman World domination collapsed. On its ruins two world religions have emerged: the Christian tum in the countries of the Mediterranean basin, Islam in Western Asia and North Africa. Under this constellation Jew-hatred has found a new source of nourishment. The Gentiles' hatred of Jews was always only national and political origin, religious motives were alien to him. With the emergence of the Christian and Islamic religions region came for the first time to the national and political Jewish hatred is joined by religious hatred. This religious hatred is the throughout the Middle Ages and the modern era up to the The present has remained alive, but where the national fragments were not yet united, not But once national unity had emerged, Then, in addition to the national hatred of Jews, there was also the religious gious and caused those cruel phenomena: as Oppression, looting, mass murder and land dismissals that the whole

Jewish history from the Middle Ages to modern times fill out.

Mohammed, who initially sympathized with the Jews ized, as soon as he comes to power, he acts with relentless Hostility towards them. In the Near Eastern Mohammedan countries, which exist to this day day to national unity, has The hatred of Jews found no nourishment. In those Mohammedan countries, however, in which they stand, as in Persia and North Africa, the Jews are always oppressed and persecuted.

The Christian Church, barely having come to power, created under Constantine those hostile edicts which, up to the Modern times made Judaism outlawed.

And not only the Catholic Church remains today in the anti-Semitism, also the Be¬ founder of Protestantism, Martin Luther, expressed a hatred of Jews that surpassed that of the anti-Jewish popes perhaps even exceeds it. But everywhere in the Mohammedan Medan and Christian countries this hatred only operates where national units have been formed In Spain, Portugal, France, England, Germany and Poland kicked the peoples as soon as they against the Jews, created exceptions laws, plundered and murdered for the slightest occasions and drove the survivors out of the country.

These sad conditions have, from

Except for minor interruptions and exceptions, preserved to this day. In Russia, where more than half of the entire Jewish population lives, before our eyes the same scenes of horror that hardly more cruel in Speyer, Worms and Mainz, in Morocco, Fez and Tunis, in the Middle Ages and in modern times, in Alexandrien, Antioch, Cyprus in ancient times have shown themselves ben.

In the Western European countries, until the end of
of the 18th century roughly the same conditions.

In the first three quarters of the 19th century
The Western European peoples are faced with the task of to achieve political freedom and their national unity During this difficult, all strength absorbing battles, they were forced to the Jews who fought honestly with them, to make peace and grant them political and civil to promise and grant equality. But when Once these battles were over, a change immediately occurred tion.

In Germany, since the freedom struggles and the granting of emancipation of Jew-hatred for suffocated. But hardly has the idea of unity been firmly established was established, anti-Semitism suddenly emerged and poured over the Jews like a raging flood, the two far larger and more dangerous dimensions would have taken if they had not attended other denominational Disputes and political divisions would have broken.

The same phenomena can be observed in Austria respect. In France, where since the revolution the Jews hate seemed to have disappeared, a minor thing to revive this dead man.

In the United States of America there is still no
a unified nation. But those familiar with the situation ensure that anti-Semitism is latent there. Only England and Italy are currently an exception.
But these countries have a negligible youth dian population, which is also in the process of dissolving is grasped. 16)

This is the course of expectations with which the Judaism entered history.

Chapter 3: The Jewish Problem

In this historical consideration, two things come to mind:

Questions arise. How did the Jews fight against the all-destroying the power of time and despite the constant deceptions and unbearable pressure And where does the hatred come from that almost all nations persecute them?

The answer to this question can be either immanent or transcendent. Immanent is the answer, if the causes in the nature and the life-existence ments of Judaism. Transcendent is them, if the causes are sought in factors that have influenced Judaism from outside, much whether these factors are metaphysical or natural.

Orthodox Judaism answers this question in metaphysical-transcendent sense. God has the Jews chosen as the eternal people and to escape the hatred and the Persecutions of the peoples to test them, to purify and become worthy of future world domination
This answer is from the point of view of the believer completely consistent and satisfactory. For him is just the whole world of appearances a complex of wonderful Divine providence, and humanity has no other purpose of existence, as the purification process of the Jewish people.

But the modern man, who in school and life
Who has come to know nature and people, who does not believe can believe that God has created a people in a miraculous way for a specific purpose, can do not find satisfaction in this answer.

Also in the metaphysical-transcendent sense, but decorated with educated phrases, the modern Jews the question of the preservation of the Judentums.

Unlike Orthodox Jews, they seek to overcome hatred of Jews in a naturally transcendent way clarify, or through an untrue historical construction to eliminate from the world.

They want to find the reason for hatred of Jews in the lower rough, not yet tempered by culture and morality ing instincts of the peoples. Irritated these feelings through religious fanaticism, social hatred and envy. But because the hatred of Jews in the moral and cultural lows of the peoples det, they expect an increasing culture and Morality a decrease in anti-Semitism. What now the
As for secondary causes, this explanation is probably correct. However, the primary reason and the resulting The conclusions drawn are decidedly wrong. The peoples, with which the Jews have faced throughout their history have come into contact with, and whose hatred arouses them were for the most part educated and well-mannered.

Among them were even some peoples, such as the Greeks and Romans, whose culture and customs formed the basis of modern civilization and culture, whose ideas and cultural achievements also respect modern Jews and admire and certainly no longer do without can.

But supposing that the hatred of Jews among these peoples an outflow of low, common instincts and barbaric scientific attitude. How can one expect that this always existing, inherent in the nature of the peoples antipathy could suddenly cease? Certainly, Humanity is progressing and has already achieved many Prejudice overcome; but these prejudices have not in the nature of people, but hatred of Jews is as old as Judaism itself. It accompanies it like a Shadow is therefore rooted in human nature. And one has never heard of people changing their natur would have ever denied.

Others deny the fact that hatred of Jews has always been and is present everywhere. They claim, the peoples had always been friendly to the Jews, the Contrary phenomena are an exception to the rule gel and were only brought about by chance, the Hatred must therefore disappear over time. These people may know Jewish history and literature not; but if they know them, then their claim tung a deliberate distortion of the truth.

Anyone who is familiar with the Bible, the Talmud, the rabbinic literature culture, especially with which the Jewish soul is most clearly liturgy is found that Judaism in antiquity, in the Middle Ages and in modern times it has always been taken for granted that the nations, until the time when they Jehovah as the only God, hostile to him will be minded to do so, where they can, express this attitude in the most ruthless manner But the peoples were a tool in the Hand of God, and as long as God protected the Jews, They could do nothing against them. But nevertheless, it was a sign that God had because of sins he had turned away from them. And there were no outbursts of anger against the torture but asked God repentantly and humbly for forgiveness.

"If Jehovah were not with us, says Israel, people rise up against us, they will devour us alive when their anger was kindled against us ... Praise be to Jehovah, that he does not give us as prey into their teeth," says the ancient Psalmist. And in every a genuine folk book, the Pesach Hagada, which Spirit of the Jews in the Middle Ages and in modern times In its purest form, it is said: "At all times, They will destroy us, but God will protect us from them."

But one should not believe that only the Orthodox Judentum had this view. Josephus and Philo, the most outstanding representatives of the enlightened Jews of the Roman-Hellenistic Period, Maimonides and Abravanel, the most outstanding representatives of the clarified Jews of the Spanish-Arab period, think on this point no different from those Jews who do not participate in the culture of their surroundings.

Only the modern Jews of the 19th century
It is reserved to a complete misunderstanding or Distortion of historical facts the Jewish To deny martyrdom or to abdicate it for false reasons and thereby confuse people's minds and create an un¬ to create a sustainable condition. 17)

They draw on the endless suffering of the Jewish history and present them as the characteristic and lasting. Such light points actually offers the location of the Ju¬ on the Pyrenean Peninsula. There the Jews took active part in the culture and fortunes of the Holy matlandes, lived in perfect harmony with their fellow citizens and achieved respected and high positions. But that was at a time when the local Peoples lived in national divisions and continued to maintain their independence with the Islamic peoples
But as soon as they had overcome the foreign elements wounded and displaced, the situation of the local against Jews is untenable. And it is instructive and character¬ ristic that shortly after the fall of Granada the Jews, with

who had apparently gotten along so well until now, were expelled.

Then the followers of that false doctrine the favorable shaping of the situation of the Western European Jews in the first three quarters of the 19th century
But this favorable design is due to the the same causes as on the Pyrenean peninsula And we have seen that here too, as soon as these causes have disappeared, in the situation of the youth which an unfavorable change has occurred.

The transcendent explanatory reason is thus in both the metaphysical and natural sense untenable bear.

But not only Orthodoxy, which is the faith blinds, but also the modern-thinking Jews to this untenable explanation with indestructible clinging on with tenacity is purely human understandable. We often have the opportunity in everyday life life to observe the same thing. We often see people who make themselves unpopular wherever they go and suffer from neglect, disregard and But instead of either to go and in their own actions to reflect the to look for the reason for dislike, or consciously to bear the consequences of their actions,
They always blame society for their misfortunes society, the conditions and the circumstances. It is It is human nature to avoid any unpleasant sensation from to go the way. And it is unpleasant to that one has made mistakes or has been inconsistent

But as understandable as this self-deception is, it is undoubtedly of a higher ethical standard points from reprehensible and even according to the principles of low ethics, of utility, foolish and harmful

Anyone who attributes their misfortune to false causes, will never recover from misfortune in his entire life
Only when the true causes have been identified, Through energetic self-discipline one can change and improve the situation.

For thousands of years, the Jewish problem has been solved by the transspectant point of view. And there is no doubt felt that the Philo, Josephus, Judah Halevi, Menashe Ben Israel, Mendelssohn, Geiger, Grätz etc. from the best intentions, as they represented Judaism in presented in an extremely favorable but false light Nevertheless, their procedure remains as reprehensible as it is foolish and harmful. Words like a lot, but only for a short time. In the long run it depends on whether they correspond to the facts If this is not the case, then the words fadete, and people are guided by the facts. Despite all the apologies, hatred of Jews has never disappeared the.

But this procedure has nothing to do with the outside world benefited, it has definitely caused damage internally. Whether Jews are persuaded that their suffering is caused by God created them for some higher purpose; whether they are told that the source of their martyrdom is the wickedness of people: the effect is the same. They do not look within themselves and do nothing to eliminate ence of evil, but wait until God redeems them or humanity will improve. But that means remain for all eternity in a state in which one can neither live nor die.

Chapter 4: The Essence of Judaism

The immanent answer to the question of the norms preservation and unpopularity of Judaism leads to another question, which, because so far exclusively the transcendent explanation was popular, very was neglected.

What is the basic idea or essence of the Jewtums?

The requirements that the Torah places on the Jews are: sole worship of Jehovah and the obedience of his regulations. Among these commandments there is an number, for the observance of which the Torah expressly requires reward, such as: long life, well-being and persistence ben in the Holy Land. For the greatest But part of the commandments sets them apart from those already mentioned general promises no special reward For the violation of some prohibitions, In addition to the general threats mentioned above, penalties announced, such as: physical and financial punishment and the extermination of the soul from the community of Israels. Otherwise, the Torah will never contain any precedent writing of the preferred to others or even one as the first most important and important.

In the prophets and hagiographers and also in Some Talmudists show the desire to understand the most important ten points of the Jewish religion.

The Talmud comments on this as follows:

"R. Shimlai recited: 613 prescriptions are Moses handed down: 365 prohibitions, according to the number of days of the solar year, and 248 commandments, corresponding to the number of human limbs..."

"Then David tried to reduce the number of commandments to 11 bring: 'Whoever acts blamelessly and does righteousness and He speaks truth in his heart, and does not slander on his tongue tains no evil to another and does not shame on his neighbor, to whom (from God) rejected as contemptible, while he considers those who Jehovah fear, honor, who, when he comes to (his) own) harm, not to change it who does not lend his money at interest and does not against the innocent: whoever acts in this way will never be shaken'." (Psalm 15:1-5.) 18)

"Isaiah brought them to six: 'He who is righteous walks in righteousness and speaks the truth, whoever has profit by Blackmail is spurned by anyone who refuses to accept orders He who blocks his ear to avoid murder plans to hear and closes his eyes in order not to see the evil look'." (Isaiah 33:15)

"Mika brought it to three: 'He told you, o Man, what is pious! And what does Jehovah require of you, except to do right, to strive for love and bedepart to walk before your God." (Micah 6:6)

"Elsewhere, Isaiah brought them to two: 'So says the Lord: Keep what is right, do justice.'" (Isaiah 56:1)

"Then Arnos came and brought them to one conclusion: 'Thus says the Lord to the kingdom of Israel: Seek me, that you may stay alive." (Arnos 5, 4.)

"R. Nahman Ben Yitzhak objected: Perhaps he: search for the whole doctrine of the law? Rather Then Habakkuk came and brought them to one conclusion: 'The pious me will live by his faith'." (Habakkuk 2:4)

Hillel’s saying (Sabbath 31) is well known: “What what is not dear to you, do not do to your neighbor either; that is the whole Torah, everything else is explanation."

R. Akiba and B. Asai express themselves similarly: "'Love your your neighbor as yourself' (Levit. 19, 18) is the supreme th maxim of the Torah. B. Asai says: 'This is the book about the origin of mankind' (Genesis 5:1), that is the highest maxim of the Torah." (Sifra, ed. Weiss, 89.)

These efforts to extract from the Torah one or more to highlight key points

However, in the Mishnah and the Talmud not only no not only found favour, but they were even fights. "Observe a lesser commandment just as like an important one, because you know the rewards not those who are based on the commandments," warns R. Jehuda, the author of the Mishnah. (Abot 2, 1.) And in the Midrash is it [called:

"God gave the Israelites the Torah, which 613 contains minor and major provisions;
But people do not pay attention to them (the less important regulations), but ignore them because they seem easy. Therefore, David said before the day of judgment and said: Lord, I am afraid me not because of the important regulations, which is why I am afraid that these are the less important regulations
how easily I could have overlooked them;
But you have commanded: observe the less important Commandments as precise as the important ones." (Tanchuma, Deuteron 7, 12.) 14)

During the Spanish-Arab period, the Jewish ian scholars, probably under the influence of Greco-Arabic philosophy and Christian and Islamic dogmatics, attempts to identify the most important To fix the dogmas of the Jewish religion. The results Maimonides (1135-1205) has described these attempts in the following summarized in the following 13 articles of faith:

1. I believe with unwavering loyalty that God Creator and ruler of all beings, that

He alone brought everything into being, everything happened and will leave it standing;

2. that he is unique, that there is no unity in any Conditions of his same, that exclusively he un¬ who God was, is and will be;

3. that he is not a body, that he is not a human grasp it and no visual image can describe it can draw;

4. that he was the first and would be the last;

5. that he alone should be worshipped and no other whose being is worthy of worship;

6. that all the proclamations of the prophets are true and are undeniable.

7. I believe in the reliability of prophecy of our teacher Moses, and that he is the most excellent of all previous and later prophets;

8. that the entire Torah in its present state which was handed down to our teacher Moses;

9. that the Creator leaves this teaching unchanged nor will any other teaching be given in its place de;

10. that the Creator controls all actions and thoughts of all people;

11. reward the observance of his commandments and the punish violations of the same;

12. that the Messiah would come;

13. that the dead will rise again."

Moses Mendelssohn wants in his book "Jerusalem" the essential difference between

Judaism and Christianity find that the Christian tentum believe, while Judaism acts. 19) Now However, it is an exaggeration when he claims that Judaism is exclusively a religion of law and have no dogmas. Biblical Judaism may
This claim is probably largely correct.
Biblical regulations were state laws, to whose Exercising the Jews through state power
It didn’t matter whether you believed in the laws or not; the main thing was, that they were exercised. Where state resources are not were sufficient, the evidence, promises and Threats have been used, but these are not yet strictly dogmatic matic character, as nowhere was it said and for¬ mulated that one believes in these proofs, promises and threats.

After the fall of the Jewish state, Judaism no longer has sufficient means of power to to compel individuals to exercise the laws. Now anymore, their observance was exclusively a matter of conscience;
But conscience had to be grasped and controlled by dogmas.
be directed.

The basis for these dogmas was provided by the biblical Evidence, promises and threats that are being used by the newly shaped conditions a new form and partly also had to be given new content. Since the youth who no longer had any land, had the promises, that they may remain long in their land and sow good seed and harvest, and the threats that the Heaven

over their heads iron and the earth bronze, that finally the Holy Land would spit out the Jews, no no more sense.

So the threats and promises were transferred into a distant future, into the time of the Messiah, to the Last Day and the Hereafter. 20) In this way was that eschatological dogmatics which was expressed in the 13 expressed in Maimonides' articles of life.

However important the dogmas are for post-biblical Judaism, dentum, they are not ultimately main purpose, but means to express conscience exercise of the laws. From this point of view points out, Mendelssohn is mainly right, if he thinks that Judaism is exclusively a religion of law.

But he could have gone further and said, that not only the Jewish, but all religions, so¬ far as they influence their followers, religions of law
To understand this, one must understand the origin of religions and their historical development regard.

Primitive man finds himself at the mercy of the forces of nature protection and helpless against elements, illness and Death destroys his possessions, snatches away his most precious things, break his courage, paralyze his work and hope
In this feeling of uncertainty and helplessness he turns to the invisible powers the same remedy as against the visible overpowering enemy. He seeks them through subservience, through

Requests, gifts and a favor pleasing to these powers to make a lifestyle favorable for themselves.

The forces of nature do not only cause harm, but but also blessings. They have a fertilizing, encouraging, Man feels the need for the
to be grateful for the good things received.

Unable to find the authors of his misfortune and blessing to think abstractly, he gives them body and shape and places them in specific spaces: in temples, forests, into the desert, into rivers and seas, into the air. Because these Powers never or only in particularly solemn and extraordinary moments to the human eye are visible, the feelings of fear, gratitude Ability and love for reverence, worship and idolization Since the gods always deviate from human feelings jump and take shape through human imagination
The principle applies: as the people, so the Gods; and vice versa: as the gods, so men.
The God of the Shepherd is the essence, the form and the According to his way of life, he was a shepherd. And so the gods of all professional classes and social classes.

When primitive man emerges from his isolation into the clan, so do the gods. Expands the clan to the tribe, the tribe to the nation, so united
The gods unite to form a pantheon.
individual to the ruler of the tribe or nation on, a divine being emerges from the Pantheon to whom the other deities submit. And depending on the tribe or nation next to the Ruler an aristocracy exists or not, remain besides the Theos Hypsistos the subordinate gods exist, sink into demons or disappear.

If human customs become more refined,
The gods also become nobler. At the lowest level, people are free from all sensual desires. They are len, rob, murder, indulge in all kinds of debauchery and fornication. They impose the same way of life on themselves other gods, elevating their obedience to one that Work pleasing to the gods, for worship and ceremony al.

As culture progresses, the human customs, take measure, order and harmony never and strive for beauty and sublimity.

The thirst for knowledge awakens and demands truth
ity. Then the gods of art and science arise.
The luminous figure of the beauty-loving Apollo, the wise Mercury, the wisdom-giving Athena, the art-experienced Hephaestus, and the relief-bringing Aesculapius. Above them sits the beautiful, sublime, almighty, wise, fearsome and blessing Zeus.

The human being also strives for a higher happiness.
Man. He finds nothing permanent in the world of the senses, in physical pleasure does not provide true satisfaction. Then He turns his mind to spiritual goods. His God appears to him

just, good and holy; and purity of morals, just tes, good and pious actions are his cult and his ceremony.

Thus, religion is rooted in customs, traditions and views of men, rises above them, like the plant over the topsoil, without being What a person can learn from his God believes that how he imagines him depends exclusively depends on the way of life and thinking of the person, which finds its distinctive expression in cult and ceremony print. Give the savages the most perfect dogmatics, brings them the most sublime concepts of God tells them that God is a single, unimaginable, infinite being, the dogma for them soon sinks down to an incomprehensible formula, the height
The deity becomes a fetish; there is nothing in its essence Only when you give them good, noble and reasonable rules and to exercise these rules ten, can, over time, become a change can be achieved.

Are the dogmas for the we¬
If the beliefs of a religion are not decisive, the 13 beliefs Maimonides' article of life is the least suitable, to represent the core of the Jewish religion. First one is presented in a strikingly unsystematic manner articles of faith in vain for a unified Seek an idea to which all articles of faith can be traced can be.

If we take the most important point that was made in the first God's five articles of faith expressed understanding, one will find that this God is not not Jewish, but the "first mover" of Aristotle Of Jehovah it is said (Exod. 33:20): "For Man cannot see me and remain alive ben." It is also often and explicitly warned against to make a picture of him. But so abstract and completely unpersonally, as Maimonides presents him, he is nowhere and never included in the Bible. Such a incomprehensible, unthinkable being could not possibly be enter into a personal relationship with a people, Moses and the prophets revealed themselves, down to Mount Sinai rise and give his people a Torah. The fact is, that throughout the Bible God is described as invisible, but was perceived as personally and spatially existing, that this view of the Talmudists is completely was divided and that Maimonides was concerned about this new, Aristotle's concept of God strongly differs from his was attacked by his contemporaries. In this sense Abraham Ben David, a contemporary of Maimonides, which is held in much higher esteem by Orthodox Jewry higher reputation than Maimonides, the corresponding utterance of the same. Maimonides says (Mishne Torah, Hilkot Teshuba 3, 8): "Whoever says that God has body and form is a heretic." Abraham then replies Ben David: "Why does he call him a heretic?

more important and better men than he (Maimonides), thought so (did God physically presented)." (Ibid.) 21)

The relationship between dogmatics and the speculation about God to the law by the following Saying marked:

'"And they have forsaken me, and my commandments not observed' (Jeremiah 16:11). I wish she had left me out of the game and only kept my commandments observed" (Midrash Eka, Introduction, 1).

From this consideration it emerges that the essence of Judaism primarily in cult, ceremonial and is to be found in the way of life of the Jews; that the dogmen have only a secondary meaning and only in sofar from being taken into consideration for the determination of Jewish nature come when they draw conclusions about the sources from which from which they flowed, on the way of life and thinking of the people, to give.

I now proceeded to use the resources at my disposal available material, from the Bible, the Talmudic and rabbinic literature and the practical life of the currently existing Jews, the essence of the Jewtums to determine.

But before that, there was still one difficulty to be overcome gene.

If we believe the Jewish tradition want - and there is no reason to participate in this tradition to doubt - the origins beginnings of Judaism in the time of Abraham. We have So we are dealing with a 4000 year old religion. During this period, the Jews were only approximately They lived in their country for 1200 years. The rest of the time They live abroad among the most diverse peoples Although they always strove to distance themselves separate and keep away any foreign influence to keep, it could under such circumstances It is inevitable that over time they will Cult, their ceremony and their way of life, the manifold absorbed the simplest foreign elements. the Jews from Moses to the destruction of the first Temple pels, i.e. about 800 years, devoted to idolatry

The prophets testify so eloquently that they were. Even the Jehovah’s Witnesses’ sacrificial cult is highly true probably not of Jewish religious origin, otherwise the prophet could not say (Jeremiah 7:22): "For I told your fathers the day I brought them out of Egypt led, neither said nor commanded of burnt offerings and other victims." About Jewish angelology, the Talmud: "The Jews took the names of the angels from BaBylonia" 22) The Persian origin of the talMudish demonology is obvious. Talmudic dic theology, jurisprudence and other sciences Sens areas are largely influenced by Persian, Babylonian African, Greek and Roman elements On the influence of the West on the Jews of the Middle Ages and the modern era, the abolition polygamy and levirate marriage, the negligent observation or even the invalidation of the ceremony monial laws by the modern and reformed ten Jews.

On the difficulty of understanding what is in the Jewish religion Distinguishing the essential from the unessential helped I now use the following method.

Has anyone, I said to myself, through the influence of the Conditions assumed properties that were are foreign or opposed, he will be revealed lose these qualities when subjected to new circumstances that are different from those before or are opposed to them. But does he retain any which properties under the most diverse circumstances these properties are obviously essential, or – since everything essential is contained in some Time must have become – the result of circumstances, which must have had a more intense and longer effect than the conditions known to us.

Now I looked for the features in Judaism that entire biblical and Talmudic-rabbinic literature and are still found among the Jews. These undoubtedly essential features of Judaism I traced it back to a unit and received the following de result:

One can view the world from three points of view from the ethical, aesthetic and logical. The Ethics asks "why" and answers with "useful" ous" or "harmful", "fair" or "unjust", "good" or "bad", "holy" or "horrible"; aesthetics asks about the "how" and antwords with "pleasant" or "unpleasant", "beautiful" or "ugly", "sublime" or "mean"; logic asks the "what" and answers with "right" or "wrong", "true" or "false".

Aesthetics and ethics arise from the mind, the unconsciously called sensation, consciously called feeling. Your The focal point is the subject, its criterion pleasure and un desire.

Logic originates from the intellect, which perceives to capture the sensations and feelings temporally, spatially and causally sen is looking for.

The lowest level of aesthetics and ethics is the Sensation: here their lines touch. Their relationship nis to each other is that of the present to the future. What is pleasant in the future is considered useful in the present But their only point of contact is the useful and useful. From there they go to the higher developmental stages forever apart. "Beautiful" and "good", "sublime" and "holy" are in their essence are different and have no points of contact.

These three perspectives essentially contain what philosophers from Aristotle to Kant wanted to express through their categories. They form the only way to capture the objects. But only: to grasp. As soon as we decide about what we have recorded, evi– dent want to communicate, let us know this reasons in the lurch.

The aesthetician will be indifferent whether a phenoun has this or that purpose, whether it should be explained can or not. The only thing that matters to him is the fact whether it is beautiful or not. Did he find it beautiful found, it is valuable to him. The ethicist only asks according to its harmfulness or usefulness, the logician However, only on the basis of recognizability. But all three their point of view is the only valid But even if they had agreed to consider one or all three approaches as a benchmark for evaluating the phenomenon leave: the possibility of an understanding would still be always extremely low. Because just as different as the Taste is the concept of good and evil, true and wrong. Neither authorities nor majorities, which one can rely on, could invoke are decisive because can always find others who have good and think differently about evil, true and false, beautiful and ugly.

Nevertheless, the reasons for an agreement exclude, low in people who are affected by the influence of the same climate and a uniform inheritance Education and upbringing have approximately the same life needs beliefs, views and aspirations. They will usually about equally affected by things ziert, receive from them almost the same ideas and

In most cases, they use the same criteria for their evaluation These people are, for example, the loss of certain items for inappropriate take, the murder for selfish motives is bad and the claim: Berlin is in England, Friedrich the Great lived in ancient times, people died because they are not on four, but on two legs nen go, consider untrue.

But if they still have a difference of opinion about something decisively, it is because they neither know it at all nor know it only poorly.

In this case, an agreement can be reached under the law of Identity of will can be achieved with absolute certainty.

By identity of will I mean the law where after no one wants something at the same time and not can want.

In this way we can take action against a course of action that displeases, as long as they violate the laws we want, does not violate customs and institutions, with reason reasons, if they have a clear intention happens. Only when someone tells us their will, that he wants to go to the right and do good, and the still goes to the left and acts badly, we can dissuade him from his path by reasoning, we look at the contrast between his will and his indicate action.

In this case, however, we only have one seemingly complicated plot in a simpler form and thereby showed him the comparison chung between the action and the intended Just like we would the beginner who Five, easily convinced of his error. We show him the two groups of numbers in their simplest form, so that he recognizes the four units in them. Then we make him realize how foolish it is to Units to which he assigns the number four by an act of will to give the number five. Such a The procedure is called analytical.

According to this law of identity of will, the question is, what influence we have on ethics, aesthetics and logic to grant our lives, is synonymous with the Question in what relationship our will or, what is the same is to adapt our nature to these three perspectives point out.

Anyone who wants to answer this question must not only individual phenomena and expressions of will but must cover the entire course of human history. And it becomes clear that these three Worldviews essential, ineradicable functions of the intellect, and that therefore humanity in all times and at all levels of culture from the in¬ instinctive striving to continue on a line proceed, which results from all these three views ted. That is what they call civilization. But as often as they talk about this Line, it was treated like the diseased organ mus of feverish twitches and tremors seized.

The relationship between these functions of the intellect in human life appears similar to that of a family, where the father has logic, the mother has ethics and the children that represent aesthetics. The inclinations and interests The diets of these three family members are basically and often diverge widely.
but coexistence is to be prosperous, they must learn to understand and respect their inclinations and desires The father must provide the children with the toys and satisfy the woman’s heart’s desires, even though he feels neither sense nor inclination for either. The other members must respect these considerations, repay in kind and finally, since they themselves are unable to manage, leave the management to the landlord sen.

The logic that, with the greatest possible consideration I call reason what guides ethics and aesthetics.

The basic idea or essence of Judaism is is striving to establish the sole dominance of ethics and the logic and aesthetics, insofar as they serve non-ethical purposes, to be recklessly battle.

Chapter 5: Development of the idea of Judaism

Following the example of the oriental family, the Jews saw their God as a wise, good, pious Patriarch, who with loving devotion, but unrestricted, rules and governs his own people and with unrelenting jealousy of his autocracy He is a hero, invincible in battle and relentless when it comes to avenging his own. And as outwardly, so he also understands the Sa¬ He knows no other purpose than to raise his children to be good, pious and capable citizens. He leads them to this goal with his towards a safe hand, on a straight path, over all sins temptations and intellectual ruminations. Never asks he does not know whether something is beautiful or true, but only whether it useful, good and holy. What does not serve this purpose speaks is reprehensible, no matter how beautiful and be true.

"Honor your father and mother, so that you may live long in the Land that your God is giving you." (Exodus 20:12)

"I have set before you life and death-laid, the blessing and the curse, you shall experience life choose." (Deuteron. 30, 19.)

"You shall be holy, for I, the Lord, am holy, your God" (Levit. 19, 1.)

These principles, which run through the entire scale of ethics, Principles dominate the entire literature of the Jewtums and their most striking features are still present today in the life of this people.

Anyone who has a sense and understanding of moral will and moral greatness, must look with astonished reverence to the look up to the moral heights that Judaism has reached climbed throughout its history. What no one cares about the people have even come close to succeeding in highest rating of the individual the best possible and happiest common good, that is what the Judaism to a certain extent achieved by that for the sake of his heavenly Father, his goods and life was always willing to sacrifice for the common good.

But only to a certain extent. Despite the unparalleled energy that the Jews mustered to achieve their goal achieve, they had to face the one-sidedness of their striving reach limits where all human Will shatters.

Since only ethics should prevail, they had the Fight against the aesthetic and logical views ways of behaving that are peculiar to humans.
In the fight against nature they had to lose.

The Bible repeatedly appears again and again

Apostasy of the Jews from their God and the almost all Prophets rebuked with passionate bitterness
The crimes of this people were essentially nothing other than res as the elementary emergence of the suppressed aesthetic and logical needs. It was tired, to a constantly questioning purpose, the meaning sacred, hostile to pleasures and unapproachable God. Always anew
The irresistible desire for gods broke out who lived and let live according to common human manners who did not despise the flesh and admired the beautiful satisfied the cravings of their worshippers.

So we see throughout the biblical era ters the two opponents in gigantic wrestling with each other the. Clumsy one, but of invincible and unbreakable disruptable force; less strong the other, but clever and nimbly with inexhaustible energy the impact of the opponent's evasive action, or, where it is no longer possible is, ducking in front of him and then attacking him from behind Thus, ethics and aesthetics stood in opposition to each other.

In the early beginnings of Jewish history
The fight against aesthetics was still moving in narrow borders. They were content with fighting the idols sprung from the natural sense of man But when the flesh was found wanting and repeatedly broke through the barriers set for him, the battle increased in intensity and extent and finally degenerated into an all-boundary-possible

They tried to find the source from which the invincible inclination to idols service flowed. Since they could not get to grips with it, their influence was sought through distance and isolation Anything that does not meet ethical requirements served: the people around, the pulsating leak ben, the whole of nature was declared impure; to be To stir, to enjoy, was only permitted when it was unavoidable became necessary, and even then only under countless Restrictions. The monstrous state in which Judaism before the collapse of its state lived, draws the bitter mocking phrase: they want the Clean the sun ball!

With the same fanaticism, but since the enemy has no such harsh resistance, in something milder form, the fight against logic was If Jehovah chooses Israel as his favorite son had koren, so this tiny people had to The delusion that all nations, as after the planets revolve around the Earth, around Israel Whether they achieved power and victory or were exposed to shame and destruction:

all this depended on the interest of Israel and on the respective relationship in which it is to its God For Jehovah was not only a good man, but also a strict father who rules relentlessly over his Darling, when he had transgressed, swung the rod of discipline.
He led nations as a scourge and gave them power to to chastise his unruly darling until he repentant returned to his father.

This view could persist among the Jews for so long preserved undisturbed when they were still with some nomadic gangs of robbers roaming the borders Then they invited their Jehovah, after they had in a good mood, onto a cart and with him, under the sound of drums and trumpets, fresh and cheerful against the enemy. 28) And when they are victorious rich, they sang a hymn of praise to the heroic deeds of Jehovah, who again reveals himself as the most powerful among the gods. But the war ended in disgrace and defeat, so was Jehovah had just angered them because of their sins and had So they only had to be punished with their God again: then they could go to the oppressors take bloody revenge.

But this idyllic time was not to last long.
Due to its location at the crossroads of the entire old world representing three continents, Palestine could be Do not escape fate, into the hustle and bustle of nations struggling for world domination to be conquered. Conquerors came and went, crushed the fields of Israel, its inhabitants made tribute obliged or dragged them into captivity.

Now the fiction of the invincible Jehovah no longer so easy to obtain, because the facts showed unequivocally that Rah, Bei,

Ashur, and how else the gods of the respective great powers were more powerful than the God of Israel. And while every other people in this case always from the Facts knew how to draw the consequences and to whom God had converted, to whom victory had fallen was, Jehovah remained for Israel the leader and leader of the battles fought between the greats of the earth
He caused the nations to rise and fall
- for Israel's sake.

But the common man could not understand the advice of Jehovas cannot be fathomed. Only a few experts could chosen to whom Jehovah from time to time revealed his purposes
They knew exactly why the Assyrians the Egyptians, the Babylonians the Assyrians, the Persians who defeated the Babylonians. All this was for and through Israel. They also knew how the Jews were had behaved to avoid the impending danger and to put the approaching enemy to flight. One only had to turn to Jehovah with confidence to ask him repentantly for forgiveness of sins and to serve him faithfully and obediently from now on: and everything suddenly turned for the better.

But Israel was a faithless, ungrateful people. Jehovah has already given him many proofs of his omnipotence give and with so many benefits he had showered it; This people has always been inclined to betray Jehovah, his To despise commandments and to court foreign gods. And if they humbly approached their God and offered him repentance and obedience, they carried hypocrisy in their hearts and Lies on their lips. They never stopped secretly To serve idols, to deviate from the commandments of their God give way.

When warnings and threats did not help, Jehova nations to chastise and humiliate Israel And when that didn't help either, he showed no mercy. men anymore. He let Israel's men, women and infants slaughter and take the survivors into captivity But when the anger had subsided, he God took pity on his beloved and led him back into his country.

Now Israel was rid of its defiance and recklessness heals. It had experienced how unforgiving and strict Jehova could be when he was angry. And they took never to anger him again. Soon he disappeared without a trace Idolatry was removed from Jewish life. with a tireless, no-sacrifice Zeal for the study of the Holy Scriptures in order to to search for and faithfully fulfill Jehovah’s messenger can.

But a tragic fate befell Israel. No matter how meticulously one observed Jehovah’s laws, no matter how much you mortify your body and wear sackcloth and ashes Repent: it was never possible to restore the relationship with Jehova as intimately as in the days of old He seemed to neglect his children more and more casual.

He made them sigh under the yoke of the Gentiles, languish and collapse. As the measure of suffering the full, the pressure of the Greeks and Romans unbearable people began to lose faith in Jehovah. Job natures arose and hurled Jehovah doubted accusations in the face. Faithless and unjust You are, they shouted to him. We have done everything for you, what was in our power, we have served you with Property, with heart and soul. We have our possessions sacrificed to sanctify Your name. But You You have sold your loyal followers, betrayed them, mercilessly exposed to murderous heathens. AndeThey cried out to him with bitter mockery: Wake up, O Lord! Why are you sleeping? Don't you hear the heathens crying and mock: where is the God in whom you trust have? Your almighty, invincible Jehovah?

But such outbursts of despair were The reason for self-flagellation. Jehovah was deeply involved in the heart of the Jews: he was their breath, their Life. If they wanted to break away from him, they had to they bleed to death, die.

Thus, the leaders of the Jews were in a position
People who, in order to speculate, give the wealth of their Initially, small sums were stolen from the ward, in the gu¬ intention to increase their wealth, but since his If his ventures fail, he takes them in despair of daring, ever larger sums, until he and brought his wards to ruin.

With a harmless, under the prevailing circumstances
This useful lie had begun when persuaded the Jews that the Almighty Jehovah had called them his favorite and protégé. To To prevent the bankruptcy of the first lie, one had to bigger lies.

When there was finally no way out, they dared a step that for Judaism is the cause of thousands of years a source of long, agonizing suffering.
annoying, mercilessly destroy any web of lies To avoid the criticism of reality, one referred people expect you in the distant future the Messiah, to a last day when Jehovah General¬ settle accounts, bring Israel to splendor and glory long, to inflict shame and pain on his opponents would inflict.

But they did not stop there.
the individual Jew for his sufferings here on earth sufficiency promise and reward and gave him the hope to the grave, to be awakened on the last day, to participate bodily in the glory of his people Since it is not everyone's cup of tea to respond to such general ne, distant promises his life to sacrifice happiness, a temporally closer lying and satisfy individual demands more sufficient reward. Jehovah wrote nau the deeds and sufferings of every Jew. And Jehovah was a good and accurate payer - in the afterlife after the Death.

Under such desperate efforts, the Al¬ domination of ethics at the expense of aesthetics and morality gik, the Jewish state building collapsed in al¬ len joints and finally collapsed under Titus.

It is the law of all organic structures that they adapt to the neighbouring structures, integrate with them connect and after their functional power has ceased in other, stronger structures dissolve. In the usual
In life we speak of development and death;
but the Greek says: Everything flows.

If a structure eludes itself for any reason this river, it gets into a state that can be Rot, and this rot also affects the neighboring structures and causes them to phenomenon called illness.

This law of becoming and passing away applies generally mine. Plant, animal, human and state: they flourish, develop and when their time comes, go into other structures. And not only the structures of the world of appearances, but also all ideas, whether be opinions of individual people or truths, which all humanity has recognized as eternally valid:
all must, when their flowering and development time is is disappearing and new opinions and other make way for "eternal truths".

So we see in the course of human history
Peoples emerge who, in the powerful, unstoppable Victorious run through the world and at the end in other other peoples and with their gods, heroes, Ideas and truths disappear. The Egyptians are dead.
ter, dead the Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Greeks and Romans mer; everything they worshipped and conceived is dead. And It will never be possible to rescue the mummies from the mold and characters of these peoples come alive for us again close.

Only the Jews were allowed to oppose this to rebel against the law of becoming and passing away and to stop the dissolution process for thousands of years.

Driven out of their own country, powerless and scattered defenselessly in all directions, every other people to the unchangeable circumstances and from the peoples among whom it had fallen, let it be absorbed.

Not so the Jews. For them there was no unalterable chen relationships, no generally valid causal law.
For them, everything that happened had to have a purpose, be the result of a moral order. And that The highest principle of morality was Jehovah. Jehovah had they were chosen as an eternal people; through his prophets He had announced to them that heaven and earth were pass away than they would ever cease to be a people And Jehovah’s Word had to be true for all eternity remain.

From this point of view,
the collapse of their state may be only an episode.
They were not defeated by the superior power of the Romans
but Jehovah had condemned them for their sins expelled from their land for a while. And it was close, that one should not deal with the Romans, but to come to terms with Jehovah. All that was needed was by strictly obeying his commandments men; and he was ready to send the Messiah and his to redeem a darling.

But the laws of nature are like the flooding of the sea
res, and people are like children who are now the low tide on the seashore their castles and palaces build. They look back with satisfaction on the painstakingly constructed established work, as it, resting on solid ground, proudly in the height rises, and in their inexperience believe that their structures will stand unshaken for all eternity

But before you know it, the flood approaches these structures and gnaws with tireless toughness at its foundations until it finally a house of cards collapses.

From such a fate, faith would also have to a purposefulness inherent in everything that happens, whose ultimate goal was the salvation of Israel, must be overtaken.
He would be shocked by the contact with reality and would have protected the Jewish people who had could not free him, dragged into the abyss
if not the Pharisees – or, as they later were called, the Talmudists – would have come and gave things a new twist.

One may admire the performance of these men from the standpoint point of culture and humanity no matter how much we regret and condemn: Her brilliant view deserves admiration and the unprecedented energy with which she pursued her work in Antaken hold and accomplished.

Until the complete dissolution of his empire, the Judaism has always suffered from the contradiction that it Hova regarded him as the master of his destiny and nevertheless, to shape his own destiny, like others re peoples went to war against the enemy.

In the beginnings of Jewish history, where Jehovah thought of himself as a general who would give his people went into war, this contradiction was even more not so much to consciousness. But since the ethical
The idea of Judaism became more prominent and Jehovah the sole, absolute controller of all events had made, the contradiction became stronger and stronger
So we finally see prophets with the serious Demand arise, in case of war, for any self-help, which, in their opinion, shows a mistrust of the All-Jehovah's power meant renouncing and trusting to fully place their fate in God's hands. And since they to support this demand, numerous facts in biblical history to point out ten, where

Jehovah has brought down mighty armies without a sword found their demand, however absurd it was, sounded, more and more applause.

As long as the Jews were still in their land,
But they could not escape the temptation to Jehovah turned away from them because of their sins and had given them up to the enemy to seek their own salvation
Only after the terrible end of the last Uprising under Hadrian, self-help for the mer abandoned and the party of trust in God the ala ruling party. This party was formed by the Talmudists.

They were faced with a variety of tasks.
attached to the Palestinian soil and to the Dualism between trust in God and self-help institutions and historical traditions of the Bible were no longer suitable for a people who persecuted, was despised, wandering abroad and against all attacks only by bending, ducking and could defend itself by temporarily going into hiding. And so The Talmudists made the Bible with strot¬ youthful strength, with armor and sword against the Jehovah, who is moving towards the enemy, a pious, hypochondriac ish old man who gets up from his bed at night and laments that he drove his children out of their land have, 23) who in the morning according to the manner of the pious Ju¬ the one who puts on the phylacteries and performs the prayers, 24) who provides for the needs of his family and oversees the Behavior of everyone exactly book leads 25) and after completing the day's work to recovery deals with marriage brokerage. 26)

And like Jehovah, all biblical heroes suffered. David, who had grown gray in raids and wars, became de a man who sat in his cell day and night and brooded over Talmudic problems. 27)

The same fate befell the biblical festivals. The original festival of ears of corn was already in an earlier period or transformed into a Passover and Redemption Festival 28) Now the feast of the firstfruits also became a Revelation Day, 29) from the Feast of Trumpets a day of Court. 30) Esther Day, this genuine festival of the Er¬ remembering the salvation brought about by fasting and prayer of the Jews, was celebrated as the greatest of all festivals, while the memory of the Jewish people history unprecedented heroic deeds of the Makkah bear to the soundless and songless festival of a wonderful her oil lamp sank down.

All facilities and memories that no longer could be preserved, such as the sacrificial service and the le– vitic and priestly functions and offices, simply abolished it, or – as they claimed – until Arrival of the Messiah postponed.

But this was only the legacy of the past ballast removed or replaced by modern modes fication has been made usable. The main task was now, in scattered groups and among the diverse peoples living

Equip Jews so that they are not could be absorbed.

In the correct foresight that the Jews would be under such abnormal living conditions of a very bleak future The Talmudists were above all lem concerned to emphasize the value of this worldly life ter to the lowest level. Life Here below was only a forecourt for the life beyond ben 31) and all the doing and suffering in this world had only then value and meaning, if it is for the otherworldly was beneficial to healing.

The rich were not conducive to salvation beyond power and enjoyment of life, but a pious, penitential lifestyle, charity and studying because of the Holy Scripture. 32) And because the life hereafter an absolute, the earthly one only a relative Value, one could where the need for a election approached the individual, not a moment's hesitation gladly to give up this world for the Hereafter. 33)

Was any attempt to exterminate the Jews by force ways to turn away from their God, so the most complete isolation possible was ensured that the imitation and the drive to adapt brings about what coercion cannot The biblical ban on food, the prohibition of Mixing with foreign peoples was so strictly that any contact with was impossible for those of other faiths.

Everything that was sacred to the Goyim, their customs and Customs, the products of their minds and their hands, was declared impure and damnable. 34) One finally issued the slogan that the Jew must always act and think differently than the Goyim. 35)

To protect the Jews under these abnormal living conditions mentally and physically, they were given the study of the Talmud as the most important task in life made.

Then they were among the most difficult and had to live in the saddest conditions, with a people ge of good, sensible rules for life.

Starting from the view that a pure, virtuous family life is the basic condition of life strength and viability, the Talmudists have the Regulations on marriage, cohabitation The spouses' lives and the upbringing of children are the greatest Dedicated to care. Not money and beauty, but Efficiency and virtue should be considered when entering into a Marriage can be decisive. 36) The man had to respect the woman than respect each other; 37) Peace had to reign in the house, to allow God to stay in the house. 38)

The vice was fought particularly strictly. The age of twenty was the last date for the Bachelors: anyone who had not married by then was extinct the curse of God. 39) Self-pollution was an un¬ this crime, 40) and Even an immoral thought is a crime. 41) It was forbidden to look at a strange woman or to talk to her to stay alone in the room. 42) Social life was accompanied by a pure, healthy and good tone strengthened, lifted and clarified. Pride and arrogance were 43) The lie was considered the most abhorrent vices. 44) Friendly and loving polite behavior towards everyone was urgently recommended. 45) Hospitality was one of the most beautiful Virtues 46) and charity was the world's support. 47) Who was not shy, merciful and grateful, was allowed do not consider themselves to be of the Jewish tribe. 48)

Health maintenance was also Anyone who could not take a bath every day had to do it at least every week. 49) Voluntary fasting, the Abstinence from meat and wine is a sin. 50) But the boundaries of Moderation and modesty are exceeded. The memory of the destruction of Jerusalem must be some deprivations in food and drink, in clothing ing and domestic furnishings are expressed men. 51) Singing and dancing and carousing, which are not among the ritual festivities are prohibited. 52) Hazard players have lost their credibility and are will not be admitted to a certificate. 53)

This is the history of the development of the idea of the Ju¬ This idea of the sole dominance of ethics stabilize and aesthetics and logic, unless they are for ethical purposes were needed, to be considered without reservation fight, has broken all state and national shackles blows up, separates the Jews from nature and then surrounded by a crust that protects them from the outside against any made insensitive to stimuli and from within with so much life strength as was necessary to enable them to live thargic state until the time when their Ideal could become reality.

This was the development of Judaism until at the end of the Talmud.

Since that time, Judaism has not developed When I speak of Judaism, I mean not the modern Jews who consciously or unconsciously broken and from which any development inhibiting crust have been released, but the large masses of Eastern European Jews who were still strictly live under the rule of the Talmud. People who like shadows scurrying through life, making this world as a waiting room and always wait for when they are the Messiah to the promised land or death in the realms of the blessed. These people, whose eyes have forgotten how to enjoy the beauty of nature and art that have no sense of a harmonious, well-ordered and systematic have a development of gratitude that, despite all sensations, Thinking and acting always according to purposes, even if it is not always mean are not merely utilitarian purposes, but very often good, noble and sacred purposes; these people live or vegetate exactly as they were about one and a half millennia ago They are not a foot wide apart made progress.

Chapter 6: The predominance of ethics in the Jewish literature

Let us now summarize the results of this study together.

The essence of Judaism is the endeavor to establish the sole rule of ethics and the logics and aesthetics, unless they serve ethical purposes to fight ruthlessly.

It should be emphasized again that my formulation derogation from the generally accepted definitions of this handles differ in many essential points.

The Torah consists of regulations and historical Stories. The rules have as their subject the cult, the ceremony and the way of life of the Jews The cult and the ceremony bring the relationship nis of the Jews to Jehovah and the character of Jehovah to Expression.

The Torah says of his character:

"Jehovah is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, steadfast in his full and faithful, preserves grace to the thousandth generation, forgives iniquity, transgression transgression and sin, seeking forgiveness for the iniquities of the fathers Children and grandchildren home, up to the third and fourth member.” (Exodus 34:6-7)

"For Jehovah your God is God of all gods, and Lord of all lords, a great God, mighty and terrible, who respects no person and no best He gives justice to the orphans and widows and loves the stranger, giving him food and clothing gives." (Deuteron. 10, 17.)

"You shall be holy, for I, your Lord, am holy." (Levit. 20, 26.)

Have the same exclusively ethical character all regulations that affect the way of life of the individual and his behavior as a whole. The Reason for their observance: usefulness, justice, Charity and holiness.

Usefulness. "Behold, I have set before you today the Life and good, death and evil. I command you today that you love Jehovah your God and in his ways and keep his commandments, laws and rights, so that you may live and multiply and Jehovah bless you in the land where you go to possess it take." (Deuteron. 30 , 15-16.)

Justice. "You shall appoint for yourself judges and officers. zen in all your gates ..., to judge the people with righteous judgment. You shall not pervert the law, you you shall not look at any person, nor accept any gift; because the gifts make the masters blind and return the things of the righteous. What is right, you shall pursue." (Deuteron. 17, 18-20.)

Charity. "You shall not hate your brother in your heart ... you shall not be vindictive, nor be angry with the children of your people. You shall Love your neighbor as yourself." (Levit. 19:17-18.)

"If a stranger sojourns with you in your land you shall not abuse him ... you shall love him as yourself." (Levit. 19:33–34.)

Holiness. "You are children of Jehovah your God, you You shall not pierce yourselves with marks, nor shave your heads the eyes because of a dead man. For a holy people you are Jehovah your God, and Jehovah has given you chooses you to be his own, from among all peoples, who are on earth." (Deuteron. 14:1–3.)

The historical narratives of the Torah are also purely ethical in nature. The basis on which they rise. With the creation of the universe and the The history of all humanity begins. But When we reach Abraham, human history breaks abruptly, and from now on, only the fate of the Hebrews. So we are dealing here with a to do historiography, which is not an end in itself, but but a certain tendency, an ethical purpose because of which the case is brought.

"The Torah should have begun with the verse (Exod. 12:2): 'This month shall be the first month for you', for this is the first commandment given to the Israelites Why does the Torah begin with the creation history? So that when the Gentiles confront the Israelites should throw: you are robbers, for you have the land of the seven nations (Palestine) taken by force, they could answer them: the whole world belongs to Jehova, he created them and distributed them as he pleased." (Rashi on Genesis, 1:1.)

The prevailing ethic in the Torah is the ästhetical point of view and official Otherwise, aesthetics will be fought in vain. 54)

"You shall not do according to the works of the land Egypt, in which you lived, nor according to the works of the land of Canaan, where I will bring you. And you shall not walk in their ways." (Levit 18, 3.)

According to the description of the Torah, the Jews were so strictly forbidden worship and lifestyle of those Countries purely aesthetic. People were inspired exclusively by guided by sensuality. And everything was permissible and moral, what was liked.

Like the aesthetic, the logical view was possibly fought against in the Torah.

Logic seeks truth. What is true for us is what we have recognized as correct with regard to of time, space and causality. And truth The miracles that the Torah explicitly mentions are with the purpose of making the people submissive.

In the other biblical books, ethics is if predominant, only the lowest and the highest level. What is missing is what is so prominent in the Torah principle of utility, and the requirements of the cult and ceremonies leading to holiness

as. But the middle levels: righteousness honesty, justice, charity and piety moderation is emphasized all the more sharply, the more passionately required.

The fight against aesthetics is coming to a head Fight against idolatry and will be all the more more bitter and destructive than he sometimes expresses in scorn and turns into mockery.

"The makers of idols are all vain, and their food Cash is worthless... Who are they who make a God chen, and cast idols that are worthless? ... It One strikes the iron in the tongs, works in the Embers and prepares it with hammers and works on it with with all the strength of his arm; he also suffers hunger until he can never; neither does he drink water until he becomes faint.
The other carpenter wood and measures it with the string and draws it with redstone and hews it and circles it it off and makes it like a man, like a beautiful a person who lives in the house...

He makes a god of it and worships it;
He makes an idol out of it and kneels before it.
He burns half in the fire, over the other half he eats meat, roasts a roast and satisfies himself, warms himself and says: Oh, I have become warm, I I see my desire for fire. But he makes the rest God, that it is his idol before which he kneels and falls down and prays, saying, Save me, for you are my God. They know nothing and understand nothing; for they are blinded so that their eyes do not see and their Hearts cannot notice. And do not enter into her Heart, no reason or wit is there that they think ten: I burned half of it with fire and put it on the Coal bread baked and meat roasted and eaten and should make the rest an abomination, and should kneel before a log?" (Isaiah 44:9)

The Psalmist mocks in a similar way.

"But their idols are silver and gold, made by men
They have mouths and talk not, eyes and do not see, ears and do not hear, Noses and do not smell, feet and do not walk, hands and do not grasp, they do not speak through their throats. The they make, may they be like them, and all who look upon them hear." (Psalm 115:4-8)

With the increasing political powerlessness and the inevitable collision with the harsh, ruthless reality, the fight degenerates

the logic to one that transcends all limits of possibility
The already established in the Torah te belief that in war victory and defeat are only brought about by Jehovah, attacks with all his monstrous consequences in practical life and robs the Jews of any sense of reality of things.

In the second book of Kings it is said that in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah, a mighty Assyrian army besieged Jerusalem.

"Then Rabshakeh (the messenger of the Assyrian King) to the walls of Jerusalem and cried with a loud Voice in Jewish and said: Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria. Thus says the King: Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he may not deliver you from my hand. And let let not Hezekiah make you trust in Jehovah, saying, Jehovah will save us and this city will not be be given into the hands of the king of Assyria. Do not listen to Hezekiah, for thus says the king of Assyria rien: Receive my grace and come out to me; so shall every man give his vine and his fig tree eat of the tree and drink of its well ... obey Hezekiah, for he deceives you, saying, Jehova will save us. Have the gods of the heathen each one saves his land from the hand of the king of Assyria? ... When King Hezekiah heard this, he tore his clothes and put on sackcloth ... and sent ... to the prophet Isaiah. And they said to him, Hezekiah says, “This is a day of trouble and rebuke, and blasphemy; the children are come into the birth, and There is no strength to give birth. Perhaps Jehovah, your God, wanted to hear all the words of Rabshakeh ... Then Isaiah sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith Jehova: What you prayed to me about Sennacherib, the king I heard that about Assyria. That is what Jehova spoke against him: ... because you rage against me and your arrogance has come up to my ears, I will put a ring on your nose and a Bit in your mouth and lead you back the way where where you came from... And that same night went out the angel of Jehovah and struck in the camp of the Assyrians 185,000 men. And as they rose early in the morning made, all were dead corpses." (2nd Book of the Kings 18-19.)

This story reveals the worldview of late biblical and all later Judaism most clearly. The Psalmist summarizes them in the words men:

"A king is not helped by his great power, a giant She will not be saved by his great power; horses help neither do they, and Their great strength will not save them. Behold, the eye of Jehovah looks on those who fear him, who hope in his mercy." (Psalms 33:16-18).

It is this worldview from which the biblical chronicler colored the story in such a clumsy way by adding the profound remark to all events adds: "and this happened because he or she was from Jehovah apostatized or was or were attached to him"; these Worldview, the small group of Maccabees in the unequal fight against the mighty Syrian army, has inspired tiny Judah to the daring struggle with the world-dominating Romans, has encouraged the late

Jews the courage and strength to fight against the eternal prevailing laws of becoming and passing away to rebel.

During the existence of their state, the Jews were at least by caring for the native soil still forced to stay in touch with nature, to preserve the aesthetic sense and to guide of the state to take into account the real circumstances. Since the fall of the Jewish Empire and the expulsion But with the departure from the country those shackles have been lifted those with which the Jews believed in aesthetics and logic were chained.

In the Talmud, the ideal of the Torah is realized. Jew has only one purpose: the protection writings of the Torah and with their Teaching day and night to be busy. The occupation Any contact with secular literature is strictly frowned upon.

"And these are the ones who have no share in the Hereafter ben ... Rabbi Akiba says: also the one who is with the profan literature" (Mishna Synhedrin 11).

Otherwise, all actions and events must be in the good holy purposes.

"Why are human fingers as sharp as the Pegs? So that if a person does something indecent heard it, put my fingers in my ears. Why is that whole ear hard and the cartilage soft? So that the Man, when he hears something indecent, with the Cartilage blocks the ear." (Ketubot 5.)

The fight against idolatry was about decline of paganism has become irrelevant. As before, people had been idolatrous, now they were Sharpen the excesses in sexual intercourse return towards.

"And they cried to Jehovah their God with a loud Voice" (Nehemiah 9). What did they shout? R. Judah, after another R. Jonathan, said: Woe, woe! It is he who has Sanctuary destroyed, the temple burned, the pious killed and drove Israel out of its land. And He is still jumping around among us. You only therefore granted to us, so that through him we might receive a reward We don't want him or the reward

Then they fasted for three days and begged for mercy men ... Then he came out of the Holy of Holies like a fiery lion. Then the prophet said to the Israelites ten: that is the genius of idolatry. When they discovered him grabbed, a hair came loose; then he pushed a scream that could be heard 400 parasangs away. They said, "What shall we do now? Perhaps one remembers him in heaven. Then the Prophet said to them nen: Lock him in a lead cauldron and close the Opening with lead, because the lead muffles the voice ... Then they said: Since now is an hour of grace,

We also want to ensure the extradition of the genius of the So they asked, and he was given to them extradited. After being imprisoned for three days, they searched a freshly laid egg for a sick person, and they found none. Then they said, "What shall we do now? Shall we Ask for half? Half is granted from heaven not. Then they blinded his eyes; thereby de has achieved that he no longer forces people to blood shame tempts." (Synhedrin 64.)

That this exclusively ethical worldview not only the Jews who were averse to secular education, but the entire Judaism in all times, cultures and and educational epochs, the results prove statements of the most important representatives of the clarified Jews of the Roman Hellenic, Spanish-Arabic and German eras.

Josephus (Against Apion, B. 2. Chapter 6) says: "Our Legislators, however, have... the production of images forbidden because they do not belong to God or man bring benefit, and are therefore worthless." Ibid. Chapter 20: "Dar¬ This also explains how some of the throw could be made, we would have neither on the neither practical nor theoretical rian minds. Other peoples see a Advantage in that one does not stick to the old ways hen remains, and who is most eager to progress strives to achieve a particularly high degree of wisdom. We, on the other hand, consider only the one who is wise and virtuous, who in his actions and thoughts is in harmony with the original legal provisions at all comes into contradiction."

On the saying of Rabbi Akiba (Mishna Synhedrin 11), that whoever deals with secular literature, a share in the afterlife, Maimonides notes in his a comment on this passage: "Profane literature, the are those books that are found among the Arabs, such as:
E.g. history books, chronicles, genealogies, books about music and similar things that neither have a neither mental nor physical benefit, but but only cause a waste of time." 55) That in such a constantly questioning of purposes

Worldview genuine art and science not on that such a way of thinking a Homer, a Phidias, a Euclid and Archimedes and
It is immediately clear how this could have happened.
Renan, who always spoke with great enthusiasm about the Jewish ian idea, must admit (Histoire du peuple d'Israel, III, p. 426): "Inutile de dire que nulle culture d'esprit, null art, null science, null philosophy, aucune de ces flowers exquisses que la Grece a fait eclore, ne can sortir d'un tel regime."

Although we find literary monuments in the Bible, which is characterized by a touchingly naive point of view and a fine sense of purposeless beauty. They are the books of Ruth and the Song of Songs. But these Writings only prove the cultural historian himself understandable fact that there was a time when the Jews, like all other people, are naturally lives and perceived purely aesthetically.

Those times are gone forever. and conditions that are largely unknown to us known, have with unusual power and intensity ity has worked on the Jewish spirit for so long, until he sees the world only from the point of view of expediency The Jew is certainly able to see, as as can be seen in the Psalms, to the most moving nature admiration to rise. But she is no longer naive. It always ends in the chorus: How wonderful are your works,

O Lord! How beautifully you have made them! "Whoever is in the days of Nisan and sees the trees in bloom, says the Talmud (Berakot 43), "say: Blessed be He, who lacked nothing in his world and in the selfhas created beautiful creatures, beautiful trees, with which people delight in them." On the other hand but: "Whoever walks the way and studies the law and interrupts his studies and says: How beautiful is this tree, how beautiful is this field, which counts it looks at the writing as if he had forfeited his life." (Abot 3, 9.)

Chapter 7: Origin and implementation of the Jewish idea

When did the Jewish idea emerge? Persons, to which circumstances does it owe its existence origin?

Answering these questions is just as difficult how to answer the question about the origins of Hebrews themselves. The Bible, which alone provides information on this could be, lets us discuss the most important points in the unclear up.

The origins of Jewish history as we know them encountered in these books are in dark, unshrouded in penetrating fog. Here and there we believe to have solid outlines, real figures before us. But when we grab hold of them, they dissolve into an empty Mist, into nothingness.

But the little that emerges from this dark, floating mass stands out clearly, is like a Lightning in the dark night, whose light only illuminates the shows penetrating darkness; a leaf, torn out from the ancient history of unfathomable times, the can stimulate our curiosity but not satisfy it.

Who are the Hebrews, where do they come from, in which In what environment did they live, think and write?

The historical background has no actual Stories of the Bible? These are questions that the Human wit has been trying in vain for thousands of years has blunted. It was a vicious circle in which the Bi¬ Bible researchers have moved so far, since they have studied the Bible wanted to explain and control through the Bible.
Documents are needed that are temporally, spatially and historically are close to the Bible and yet independent of it A key seems to have been found in the last century by deciphering the Assyrian-Babylonian cuneiform writing. Among the Semitic In terms of idioms, this language is closest to Hebrew ten; their literature reaches back to the very beginning of the Bible and even further and comes from a people in the origins of the Hebrews are undoubtedly to be found are. As young as the knowledge of Assyrian is, theirs have been slumbering in darkness for thousands of years mernden and as if by magic now so suddenly brought to light literary treasures of the Bible researchers have already provided a rich and valuable yield Through them, people, places and events have been units that even in the Bible already in one a legendary veil. But this Science is too young to use its results for Bible research are too small to penetrate the impenetrable to illuminate the darkness of the Hebrews' origins.

We are still forced to follow the biblical Information to help us find our way.

The Bible places the Homeland of Abraham, the forefather of the Hebrews.
Assyrian-Babylonian treasures now unearthed have many clues about the probability of Mesopotamian origin of the Hebrews.
more important than those given to the Babylonians and Hebrews common legends and institutions is for the truth probability of their Mesopotamian origin the fact that among all the Assyrian-Ba¬ Bylonian sculptures not a single erotic depiction tion as it is in the Greek and Roman ical excavations, and in general in all peoples with a pronounced erotic cult, such as among the Phoenicians and Canaanites.
This sexually ethical trait, which is so prevalent among the Hebrews pronouncedly present, but also in the Ara¬ bern is verifiable, confirms the recently discovered hypothesized that not only the Hebrews, but the Arabs also came from the Euphrates countries. Whether the Hebrews also the Jehovah worship and the seeds for the ethical worldview that later became so prominent brought from Mesopotamia, is in the opposite current state of Assyriology cannot yet be determined.

What influence the Egyptian stay had on the
We do not know what practice the Hebrews had.

After their settlement in Canaan,

The Hebrews were not particularly distinguished by their cult, customs and customs from their surroundings
In the book of Judges (chapter 17) it is said, like a man in the hill country of Ephraim, named Mika, prepared a temple of Jehovah by placing in it a idol cast from two hundred pieces of silver That one had no interest in this idol shock, the further story proves that an entire Israelite tribe when it was before this Jeho¬ temple, kidnapped the idol to make it to use at home in his temple. In the book of Ruth, which probably dates back to that time and is a quite naive aesthetic point of view, will still quite harmlessly tells how men from Judah to Moab emigrated and took wives there.

From the account given in the books of Judges, Samuel and Ruth from the circumstances of that time, one gets the impression that Jehovah at that time was the Hebrews occupied approximately the same position like Chemosh among the Moabites or Dagon among the Philistines. They served Jehovah, the people's God, in the same way as other peoples worship their gods
In addition to the Jehovah worship, attempts were made and fortunately also with the other gods, who often more powerful than Jehovah had shown himself. From a Fight against the aesthetic way of life and from a Observance of the laws as they are stated in the Torah
There is no trace yet of where prints are coming from.

The creation of the Song of Songs dates back to this time.
Only in such a time, when the sense of nature is was not yet afflicted by ethical musings, could such pure natural sounds, such intimate, wildly beautiful and intoxicating love tones are produced.
later generations knew with this pearl of their love temperature nothing more to do. In the time before the ceremonies disturbance of the Second Temple was already considered a
It has always been a well-established fact that in this poem not human love, but in an allegorical way the relations between Jehovah and the Jews
be. 56)

With the appearance of the prophets, Jewish Idea to shine out of the twilight. The first Prophet mentioned in the Bible was called Elijah (around 900 BC). He approached the Israelites with the following knowledge question:

"How long will you limp on both sides? Is Jehova God, so walk after him; but if it is Baal, then walk after him." (2 Kings 18)

Since the people had no answer to this,
Elijah used the following means of violence. He said to the people:

"I alone am left as a prophet of Jehovah,
But the prophets of Baal are 450 men. So give us two bulls and let them choose one bull and him cut it up and put it on the wood and do not light a fire
I also want to take a bull and place it on the wood and do not put fire on it. You call Now therefore remember the name of your God, and I will remember the name Call on Jehovah. Which God will now answer with fire is God. And the people answered: This is right ... And they (the prophets of Baal) took the Farren ... and prepared and called on the name of Baal

from morning until noon, saying, Baal, hear us! But there was no voice nor answer ... And Elijah prepared the wood and cut up the bull and laid him on the tree ... and said: Jehovah, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, let it be known today that you are God in Israel! ... Then the fire of Jehovah fell and devoured Burnt offerings, wood, stones and earth ... Since the people saw, it fell on its face and said, Jehovah is God! Jehovah is God! And Elijah said to them, Take hold the prophets of Baal, so that none of them escaped. And they
And Elijah led them down to the brook Kishon and slaughtered them there." (2 Kings 18)

Since then, the question of whether Jehovah or the foreign gods should be worshipped in Israel and Judah constantly influence public and private life. In Names and in the interest of Jehovah the Nach¬ followers of Elijah, stirred up the people, sparked revolutions and overthrew dynasties.

A decisive victory for the cause of Jehovah Prophets completely leads to the downfall of the Israelite Empire (720 BC). For the miraculously escaped from the same fate Judah, which had been spared, was now undoubtedly Jehovah punished Israel so severely because of their apostasy from him and they resolved to be faithful to Jehovah and to serve completely. The Baal altars are destroyed under Hezekiah (723-694) torn down, the temple was cleared of idols

On this occasion, a copper serpent, which came from Moses, from the Temple taken and destroyed (2 Kings 18:4).

Two generations later, one more thorough cleaning and renovation of the temple under Josiah (638-608) the book of the Torah was found.
The incident unfolded as follows: "And Hilkiah,
the high priest said to Shaphan the scribe:
I have found the Torah in the house of Jehovah. And he gave the book to Safan to read. And Safan broke told the king and said: Hilkiah gave me a book, And Shaphan read it before the king. But when the king heard the words of the Torah, he tore his clothes ... and said, Go and inquire of the Lord for me, for the people and for all Judah for the words of this book, that is found, for there is great wrath of the Lord, who is angry with us because our fathers who have not obeyed the words of this book and did not do what was written in it. Then Hilkiah went... and Shaphan ... to the prophetess

Huldah and spoke with her. But she said to them, saith Jehovah, Behold, I will bring calamity upon these City and its inhabitants bring ... so that they have abandoned me and burned incense to other gods... and the king went up to the house of Jehovah, and all Men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with them, priests and prophets and all the people ... and one read in their ears all the words of the Book of the Covenant, which was found in the house of Jehovah. And the king came to a pillar and made a covenant before Jehovah that they should walk according to Jehovah and keep his commandments messenger, testimonies and rights with all my heart and with all their soul; that they might uphold the words of this covenant which were written in this book. And all People entered into the alliance. And the king commanded the high priest priest Hilkiah and the subordinate priests that she should remove all the stuff from the temple of the Lord that is to Baal, Astarte and all the host of Heaven mels was made ... and he also had the Tofet in the valley Ben Hinom, so that no one can defile his son or let his daughter go through the fire of Moloch ... and the king commanded the people: Prepare Jehovah, ye Lord, the Passover, as it is written in the Book of this covenant. For no Passover was kept so than this, from the time of the judges on..." (2 Kings 22–23.)

Here we see for the first time clearly three factors work together to bring Judaism under the yoke of the law. Priests, prophets and Scribes. The tool they used to carry out of their plan was the king.

The further implementation of this goal is only Two more prophets had a decisive influence: Jeremiah and HeSekiel.

Jeremiah foretold the collapse of the Jewish state tes and the bankruptcy of the hopes that were placed on the observance of the Torah had set regulations. After a hard, desperate struggle has finally found in him the confidence in Jehovah and the trust in the Jewish future has triumphed. He proclaims:

"Thus says Jehovah, who sets the sun for the day light and the moon and the stars of the night to Light ... If these orders cease before me, the seed of Israel shall cease from being a people before me forever." (Jeremiah 31:35 ff.)

What was not thought possible was so Become reality: the country, so far the only bond between Jehovah and the Jews, was lost to them ren. This meant that they had to exist as a nation stopped. In view of these extraordinary circumstances nesses therefore had to be taken extraordinary measures be affected.

Until now, religion was only a means to an end,

In order to preserve the Jews in the country, it was now It was intended to strengthen the bond between Jehovah and the Jews, torn apart by the loss of the land was, restore. Now everything had to be called upon to make Judaism inseparable from the Torah Jeremiah set himself this task.

"The days are coming, says Jehovah, when I will House of Israel and with the House of Judah a new covenant Not like the covenant that I made with them their fathers, when I took them by the hand and from the land of Egypt, which covenant they did not make have kept ... but this shall be the covenant that I with the house of Israel after this time, says Jehovah: I will put my law into their hearts and write in their minds. And no one will teach him more and say to him: Know Jehovah; but but they shall all know me, great and small, says Jehovah." (Jeremiah 31:30 ff.)

Admittedly, this task was not easy. The Jews still lived too much in the view of their pagan environment, were still too attached to nature to they would have been able to integrate themselves into the new order of things so quickly can.

In response to a sermon delivered by Jeremiah to the emigrated Jews, they answer:

"According to the word which you have spoken in the name of Jehovah said to us, we will not obey you; but we want to do as we have said and the Queen of Burn incense and offer drink offerings to heaven, as we and our fathers, our kings and princes have done in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem

lem. We had enough bread and we were well and we saw no harm. But since we stopped have to burn incense to the Queen of Heaven and offer her To offer libations, we have all suffered lack and perished by the sword and by famine men." (Jeremiah 44:16 ff.)

The Jews deported to Babylonia seem the founders of the new order also fierce resistance. The one in Babylon exiled prophet Ezekiel, who was very energetic and consistently implement the Jehovah's laws ren, exclaims bitterly:

"What you are striving for and saying: We want to be like the Holy and worship wood and stone will never be be, as I live, says Jehovah. I will over rule over you with a mighty hand, with an outstretched Poor and with wrath poured out." (Ezekiel 37:11 ff.)

With Jeremiah and Ezekiel the prophecy disappears tentum, which since the days of Elijah has been with passion and Energy the cause of Jehovah and his Laws, forever. The few epigos like Haggai, Zechariah and Malachai, win in the Judaism no longer has any significant influence.

Now it was the priests and scribes who who took over the development of the Jewish religion and led. Their work is described in the book of Ezra.

In 538, Cyrus had granted the Jews permission to return to Palestine. This permission Only a small part of the exiles - one estimates the number of returnees at 42,000 - and although all members of the lower and poorer Class, have made use of.

Eight decades had passed since this return

The news about the fate of these Colony to the Jews who remained in Babylonia were not favorable. Particularly dissatisfied were the Babylonian Jews, who had a high degree of piety seem to have reached, with the religious conditions of their Palestinian brothers. In
In 458, the priest and scribe Esra prepared Babylonia an expedition consisting of a select group of priests and lay people, and moves to Jerusalem. Once there, he comes into contact with the heads of the Jews and takes a series of measures men.

Then the Scripture tells us:

"When all this was arranged, the heads of me and said: The people of Israel and the priests and Levites are not separated from the indigenous people, namely the Canaanites, Hittites... for they have taken their daughters and their sons, and have made the holy seed common with the natives ... And when I heard that, I my robe ... tore out my hair and beard and sat sorrowful. And all gathered around me, who feared the word of the God of Israel, because of because of great iniquity ... and I spread my hands out to Jehovah my God, and said: My God, I I am ashamed to lift up my eyes to you ... for Our iniquity has risen above our heads, and un¬

Our guilt is great, even to heaven.

"From the time of our fathers we are in great debt been to this day, and for our iniquity sake we and our kings and priests are in the hand of the heathen kings, the sword, subjected to captivity, plunder and shame been given ... now we have a little grace from Jehova, our God, that something still remains for us has remained that he has given us a nail in his holy against place ... and a fence in Judah and Jerusalem has given...

"What shall we say now, O Lord, after we have have abandoned the commandments which you gave through your servants, the prophets, commanded and said, The land which you are going to inherit is a impure land, which the natives through their abominations

You shall therefore give your daughters to their
You shall not give their daughters to your sons, and you shall give their daughters to your sons not take, and never seek their peace and you good things, so that you may become strong and eat the good things in the land and leave it to your children as an inheritance.

"...and Ezra wept and prayed and confessed before the house of God, gathered to him a very large Crowd of men and women and children, for The people wept bitterly. And Zakania, the son of Jehiel, answered and said to Ezra ...: Let us make a covenant conclude with our God that we all women and who are born of them, according to the Council
God and those who fear the commandments of our God, that one should act according to the law..." (Ezra 9.)

The last attempt to throw off the yoke of the Torah, was built during the reign of the Syrian king Antiochus Ephiphanes (175–163) made.

In those days, Jews arose who had recognized what misfortune lies in isolation. They built a Gymnasium in Jerusalem, were apostates from the holy covenant and joined themselves with the Gentiles. (Cf.
above p. 34.)

This attempt at rebellion was motivated by the religious zeal of the Maccabees suffocated.

Since then, the Torah and the associated religious tradition unrestricted in Judaism.

Josephus, who lived in the 1st century AD, testifies: "At
We, on the other hand, like to be told by the first person who comes along about the law ze, and he will consult all the provisions of the same ben easier to say than his own name ... About As a result, violations are rare." (Against Apion, Book 2, Chapter 18).

"Haven't one often seen prisoners of war, which in the performance of plays involves torture and endured all kinds of agony just to not a word against the laws and the associated Scriptures. What Greek would de endure this for his law or even just the ge¬ tolerate the slightest damage, even if he through the entire literature of his fatherland from the Un¬ could save the future?" (Ibid B. 6 Chapter 8.)

Let us now consider Judaism with its exclusive ethical worldview towards the peoples, with which it has come into contact.

The countries of Asia and Africa are being considered the Mediterranean coast and Europe. All people living there Peoples have many in their cult and way of life characteristic features in common. They could be described as medium domestic breed. The most characteristic trait this

Race is the predominantly aesthetic point of view.
We can best see this move in the typical and most distinguished representatives of this race, the Hellenes, observe and see him most clearly in the Homeric chan songs. There is everything that people say, act, strive and worship, naive, not afflicted from the eternal question of "why", the usefulness ity, goodness and holiness. One lives, enjoys in the Present. One does what pleases and what the senses
If the sensory stimulus is harmful, then You don't want to live forever, neither as an dividuum, nor as a people. One draws a pleasantly lived moment a life full of hardship.
Sexual intercourse is perceived as natural,

respected and even become objects of worship
Bravery is sought after, heroism is revered, Beauty admired and grandeur worshipped.

The concept of purpose is also there, but it is regarded as an unavoidable evil; one submits him, but only out of compulsion. If the compulsion is lifted, then one returns to aesthetics. In any case, ethics could never be elevated to the highest principle.

Zeus's most distinguished qualities are: Brave ity, masculinity, beauty, majesty. Justice and wisdom are subordinate to them. Goodness, holiness and love of truth are not given to them at all-lays.

In its higher development, Hellenism produces mus men like Parmenides, Heraclitus, Democritus, Archi-Medes, Euclid and Ptolemy, which led to a purely logical way of thinking. Even ethical thinkers like So¬ Krates exhibits Greekness, but its basic essence remains aesthetic.

Since the beginning of the Middle Ages, the Christianity, rooted in Christian ethics, the fight against the aesthetic outlook and way of life of the Telland race and initially successfully.
The old gods disappeared; new endeavors, new Ideals took hold of people, a revaluation of goods seemed to be preparing. No more after Be¬ satisfaction of sensual desires, strived for earthly goods but rather for a higher, purely spiritual happiness ity, according to the kingdom of heaven. "You shall not Lay up treasures on earth, because moth and Rust eats. Seek first the kingdom of God.
tes." (Matthew 6:19, 33.)

But what about the Jews, who are inherently committed to ethics tended, after thousands of years of desperate struggle and using the most monstrous means had hardly succeeded, that could not be said of the Mediterranean Peoples whose essence is aesthetic and who, if they first begin to reflect, first to the logic and finally turn to ethics, impossible of lasting be.

If you want to know what influence the already changed half a millennium old influence of Christianity on the Mediterranean race has exercised, so observe one can see exactly their current life and activities.
go to the theaters, the circus, the arenas,
the gymnasiums and dance halls, the racecourses and sports fields, visit the museums and public statues, one observes the doings and activities, the striving and Traditional costumes on the street and in private life, one follows modern literature, art and science.
see how little it is for Christians despite the commandment of Charity has succeeded in overcoming selfish interests
You can see how they envy each other, slander, feud; how they wage war against each other and expect their God to give them against their Christian give victory to the enemy. Observe the worship worship and idolization of Madonnas and saints and the ancient pagan festivals celebrated under Christian guise Festivals. One will then find that the present Christians from the pagan Phoenicians, Phrygians, the Greeks and Romans, Germanic tribes, Celts and Thracians only externally, through the progress of culture and the Christian names, but essentially the have remained the same.

What feelings must a people have had when faced with such a Mediterranean race, to whom the customs of the Non-Jews were an abomination, their customs an abomination ren, which is strictly forbidden was to eat, drink or even to meet with the Gentiles

A people who were taught:

"Destroy all the places where the nations whom you have conquered will have served their gods ... and tear down their altars, break their pillars, burn their hane, cut down the images of their gods and destroy their Names from the same place." (Deuteron. 12.)

Could now already at the time when the Jews were still in their were in this country, with such religious regulations a friendly relationship with other peoples and possible, the situation had to be unbearable since the Jews were expelled from their country, were dependent on and living with these peoples while maintaining the same religious rules and still preserve it to this day. That these Regulations are still considered binding, unambiguously from the Talmud and Shulchan Aruch
This is proven by the fact that the Jews, insofar as they live religiously, nor now with the host peoples in-laws and not allowed to eat or drink with them
The highly educated and orthodox Maimonides, who was condemned as a heretic, writes in his Mishnah commentary (Aboda Zara, I, Ed. Pr.).

"And know that every city of Christians in which a Church, which is a house of idols, is located that one not travel through this city, let alone in it may live.

But unfortunately, because of our sins, we are under them their hands and are forced to live in their own country."

Kayserling says of Moses Mendelssohn: "It is beknows that Mendelssohn himself did not drink the wine, which his bosom friend Lessing handed him." 57)

In a metropolis of the Jewish intelligentsia, Even now, one occasionally has an argument about whether one whether the synagogue should or should not introduce an organ, the Bible verse: "And you shall not follow their customs imitate." 58)

Finally, it should be noted that as a Jew, I find it unI found it difficult to write down the last sentences.
But it was my job to do things without any whitewashing. Is speaking the truth

ity in and of itself is justified and necessary, then if one can certainly benefit from the truth ben wants, this open discussion will be far more useful than those childish representations that distort the truth tions of Zunz, Abraham Geiger, Graetz and others more, which sees the reason for Jewish martyrdom solely in the brutality and barbarism of the host peoples
The purpose they may have achieved through this false layer construction has not been achieved could not be achieved because the People care more about facts than words.
against these untruths have caused Judaism det; they have confused the minds and made them think about the true
The causes of their suffering were concealed.

The reason for the Jewish Jewish martyrdom, but among the Jews themselves.

This is the immanent explanation of the question, where the eternal hatred of Jews will come.

Chapter 8: How did the Jews survive?

To exist means to stand out from the environment, Bodies without self-consciousness exist only spatial or material and for our perception also formally. The stone exists because it comes from the ground, on which he lies and the objects that surround him ben, stands out spatially and for our perception has a specific shape. If you break the stone, then it has to exist materially and formally as such stopped.

In bodies with self-consciousness, matter and Form only subordinate moments of their existence, the
The most important moment of their existence is time. The child develops and becomes a mature human being.
This developmental path includes the child's body and shape of the disappeared and in its place the body and the
The figure of a mature human being has entered. And yet the Man is aware that yesterday and the day before yesterday and since the time he became conscious, the same be was, as now. This continuous self-consciousness is a temporal existence.

The content of the continuous self-consciousness or of temporal existence are formed by experiences and tions.

A nation of the past exists in the present was, if their offspring are aware of their historical connection with the past, the memory of their historical experiences and experiences have been preserved. The Romans of antiquity no longer exist. The current Roman population has brought a lot of foreign blood into But the same fate has two fellos also the English since William the Conqueror, the Magyars since Stephen I, as indeed no currently existing people has remained unmixed Otherwise, the current Roman population has perform and form, language, customs and traditions in a development that complies with the laws of development And yet these people have nothing in common with the ancient Romans, because the layered thread is torn because it no longer with an Aeneas, Remus and Romulus because them for what the ancient Romans experienced and learned ben, feel nothing anymore.

Of the currently existing 10 million Ju¬ Approximately 8 million people live under the rule of the Talmuds. They have all the characteristics of a historical Nation. Customs, traditions, cult and ceremonial have remained essentially the same as they were two thousand years ago.
were sent. The Hebrew

Language is no longer colloquial, but the language of prayer, scientific and fine literature. More important than these moments te are the vivid memories of the historical experiences of the nation, the clear awareness of descent from the biblical patriarchs and finally the hope that the Return to the former homeland.

Of the 2 million modern Jews who have read the Talmudic ic way of life, the Jewish-Na¬ national customs and traditions are largely disappeared, but in cult and ceremonial they are remained Jewish-national.

The prayers emphasize the continued existence of the nation exposed. "You have chosen us from among all nations."
(Festive prayer.)

The return to the former homeland is also prayed:

"Blow the great trumpet for our deliverance; let fly the banner high, free us from captivity and lead us from the four corners of the Earth together." (Eighteen Prayer.)

Circumcision and the holidays are Jewish national character. The historical memories have faded. But there will hardly be a German There would be no Jew who would be in doubt about whether he Teut or Abraham.

How did the Jews defend themselves against the all-destructive Power of time and despite the constant disappointment experiences and unbearable pressure as a nation can hold?

By focusing on present enjoyment, the ethicist and expects everything from the future, he is the ban de free, which binds people to transience.
He knows the goal he is striving for, the path that will take him there sees the obstacles and dangers of this path and carefully avoid them. Is an ID chen is no longer possible, then he understands how to Wisdom and flexibility, through bending and to escape the danger.

"When he bows before the wave," say the Talmudian sages, these greatest teachers of ethics, "so the wave passes and he remains; whoever follows the wave opposes, he will be swept away" (Midrash Rabba Genesis, 1, chapter 44).

"Those who allow themselves to be insulted and do not reply, allow themselves to be insulted and remain silent, the Bible applies to them verse: (Judges 5): "and the friends of God will shine like the sun"" (Yoma 23). At the end of the eighth The ten prayers say: "And my soul shall be as dust for all" (that one steps on).

Countless such ethical maxims and an un¬ a vast army of regulations that govern the entire Sensing, thinking and acting and no even the slightest expression of life is subject to the arbitrary will of the dividuums, form that crust with which the the Torah past Talmud surrounded Judaism. It made the Jews insensitive to any external stimulus, equip but from within with as much vitality as necessary was necessary to keep them in their lethargic state until to preserve the time when their ideal becomes reality should.

Is such a life worth living and striving for?

Modern man answers: no. He recognizes Although ethics is an ineradicable function of human intellect; but he finds that the Aesthetics and logic ineradicable functions of human intellect and therefore just like the Ethics must be considered and maintained. He strives to achieve one of these three points of view the resulting line, which he calls civilization, However, if a conflict arises between the Ethics and aesthetics or logic, then it is not in Ethics always remains the winner. This is proven by the great flowering of those arts and sciences, of which Maimonides would say that they "neither have a spiritual still provide physical benefits".

Modern man cannot imagine the civilization he strives, even without a monotheism, without an absolute principle of justice and holiness, without happiness blessedness and the Kingdom of Heaven. At least, he that the purpose for which the Jews have been suffer, but never can be achieved - because the aesthetics and logic cannot be subjugated by ethics in the long run. Martyrdom for a purely ethical worldview is for him as absurd as it was regrettable.

But since "good" and "bad", "true" and "false" are mere ways of looking at things have only a relative have value, then you can take action against the person who

Ethics is higher than civilization and the former Victory of ethics believes that rational reasons cannot be What one can demand of him, however, is that he talks about what he wants and does, and what comes out of his Will and action must follow, be clear.

Until the end of the eighteenth century
all of Judaism at all times, in all countries and at all cultural levels of his will and action and the necessary consequences of this will lens and actions. The Torah and the
The Talmudic regulations that flowed through her were valid in her in its entirety as inviolable. Never The Jews doubted that staying among the host peoples would only be temporary that the Messiah would one day bring them back to their country. So that they are not absorbed by the environment,
They have taken the strictest isolation measures.
They are related by marriage, do not eat or drink with the host peoples, do not take part in their joys and sorrows share, do not demand from them offices and honors
the,

but live modestly, contemplatively withdrawn in their Talmudic world, which their intelligence, speculation on-, vanity, fame, pleasure and amusement addiction completely absorbs and satisfies. You know that because of their special existence they are subjected to hostility, Persecution, shame and torment are to be expected.
But they endure everything in the comforting knowledge that their Father in heaven who has forgiven them all these sufferings to test them, to purify them and to bring them into the messianic realms or in the afterlife, after death, the
To share in bliss.

There were certainly times when some peripheral young dian elements, influenced by the culture of the surrounding area stripped off the Talmudic crust. But always in them the saying of the Talmudic sages is lasts: "As fish die outside of water, so the Jews also disappear as soon as they forget the Torah have left." (Aboda Zara 3.)

These elements have been lost to Judaism without leaving any trace. Those men but, those like Saadia Gaon, Salomon Ibn Gabirol, Moses Ibn Ezra, Abraham Ibn Ezra, Yehuda Halevi, Moses Ben Maimon Isaak Abravanel, Manasseh Ben Israel, at the Kulture of their environment have participated in this only on the side. Her main occupation was the Bible and the Talmud. They were law-abiding Jews, have done everything "that is written", have to the extent that business allowed them to do so, from the Non-Jews were kept away, were prepared for martyrdom and awaited the Messiah.

How little the profane science with which these Men have been busy on the side, from the Jews was taken seriously, is proven by the fact that the profane poems of Moses Ibn Ezra, Salomon Ibn Gabirol, Jehuda Halevi and others to the Jews and known and only recently by bibliographers phen have been discovered and published; that a Series of other secular writings of those educated Jews still awaiting release or disappeared are.

The religious text written by Maimonides (1135–1205) philosophical book "More Nebukim" was written after the Death of the author by Orthodox Jewry as declared heretical. Following a denunciation by the Jewish Orthodoxy, the French Inquisition had 13th century the Maimonides' writings in Mont¬ Pelle and Paris were publicly burned. In 1306 spoke Salomon Ben Aderet, a recognized authority of the Jewry of that time, a solemn ban against anyone who has a scientific scientific writing. Only pharmacology was excluded.

Chapter 9: Modern Judaism

In 1671, the Great Elector had granted a number of Jews expelled from Vienna were given permission to settle in Prussia, where since the last expulsion un¬ ter Joachim II (1614) Jews were no longer allowed to live there.
In Berlin, 70 families were registered as regular shelters Jews settled down. The state granted them protection and the Right of permanent residence; for this they had certain to pay taxes.

In addition to the regular ones, there were also extraordinary regular protected Jews. They lived there as servants were not allowed to marry and could not be married at any time Since the number of ordinary Protected Jews should not increase, only one son marry from the family.

From time immemorial, Jewish communities have had a threesimple aristocracy exists: the intellectual, noble and
The intellectual aristocrats were the tal-Mudic scholars. Had the Talmudic scholarship in a family several generations have been passed on planted, thus the nobility (Jichus) arose.

The Jews who immigrated to Berlin had neither intellectuals and aristocrats.
The money aristocracy was only modestly represented among them
In general, they were what we now call in the ghetto called "Prostakes", simple, plain people from the common people. Only the business sense was They developed excellently. Already at the beginning of the 18th century Century they have become quite rich
The rich houses Bernhard, Veitei, Rieß, who opposed the Great Elector’s introduction silk and porcelain industries.

With prosperity came the need for a respected political and social position.
But here they encountered insurmountable obstacles.
The citizens of Berlin looked with undisguised Envy of the strangers who have become one in such a short time had brought prosperity, and sought it from every the opportunity to use contempt and humiliation
The government was given the increased prosperity

the Berlin Jews reason to raise the Jewish taxes heights, without the undignified and very oppressive
The situation of the Jews improved. The body tax, which the Jews to cattle, remained. As before, They donated to the Royal Porcelain Manufactory for a large sum of money to buy porcelain that is rarely good quality and therefore without significant losses could not be resold. The restriction
the

Marriage permits were a problem due to the sharp increase of the community members to a calamity. From the Re¬ government as well as by the bourgeoisie, the Jews were treated so like in the feudal era the peasants were Landlords: as a low, lawless class of people.

The Berlin Jews had a fortunate coincidence Help.

Towards the middle of the eighteenth century on Prussia's throne a man of philosophical and He drew a circle equally educated men in order to develop his philosophical to exchange philosophical and aesthetic thoughts with them
The court followed the king's example and - what could not be avoided - even the middle class.
It was now considered good form to talk about philosophy and to speak of literary fiction. Families who gave up on their reputation, got teachers and let their children a style that reflects the prevailing taste appropriate education. The adults gathered as often as business allowed, in circles and conventicles and talked about Leibniz, Wolff, on Shaftesbury, Locke and Hume, on Moliere, Corneille and Racine. In Prussia, only one nobility, the hereditary aristocracy, so now through the example and protection of the King a new nobility, the intellectual aristocracy. This nobility could everyone, without distinction of birth, status, denomination and nationality, through talent and diligence, swing.

It is easy to understand that the Berlin Jews this favorable opportunity to rise from their low position to get out of the situation, with lively zeal have. The study of philosophy and beauty intellectual literature was against the religious tradition on. Since the days of Abraham Ben Aderet, the Bil¬ hostility towards Jews has progressed so far, that everyone, regardless of age, is considered a heretic which was held other than Talmudic studies But Talmudic scholarship was never felt at home among the Berlin Jews; the strict measures of the Prussian government against the influx of Jewish elements from Poland, the center of Talmudic scholarship and genuine, unadulterated Jewish tradition, had prevented the Berlin Jews from receiving fresh religious juices, cutting them off from the Jewish Whole body separated and so in matters of religion made casual and indifferent.

Moses Mendels tore the hesitant and wavering son into the movement.

As a 13-year-old boy he moved from Dessau to Berlin
At home he was, as usual, strictly religious educated religiously and encouraged to study the Talmud Poverty and a not yet clearly conscious His desire for education led the boy his teacher, the Dessau rabbi, who went to Berlin
be-

He was called to follow. Here he was suitable as an todidact a literary and philosophical education was introduced to the educated world by Lessing and acquired through some popular-philosophical Christian scholars from all over World entered into written correspondence with him and did not miss the opportunity to visit the Jewish sage in to visit Berlin.

This is how Klosterstraße, the former Zen¬ trum of the Berlin Ghetto, a second Sanssouci, a Gathering point of the select and leading minds.

The example of the poor Jewish boy whom the Bil¬ rise from a low, despised position to fame and had brought glory, had to face his Jewish surroundings exercise will make an overwhelming impression. What Wealth, pomp and servility were not able to had completed the education She had the hitherto for un¬ surmountable barriers between servant and Lord, the disregarded protected Jews and the take society, torn down. The educated Jew could count on the best Christian society as equals and respected become.

The favorable economic situation was exploited with zeal.
A true educational frenzy took hold of the Berlin
Judaism. On the religious concerns of those in the pious Those who remained in the tradition were helped by the fact that Mendelssohn, despite his education, was a law-abiding had remained a Jew.

The example of the Berliners was later followed by the German Jewish and Western European Jewry. This is how the modern Judaism.

But as understandable as the decision to enter the culture of Host peoples, from a purely human standpoint points, the way in which this decision was was carried out, ignorance of history and man¬ lack of logical thinking.

Since his entry into history, the Jew has the odd one out among the other children of men plays. Under the cheerful, carefree and frivolous le¬
In his youth he always went about with a frown on his face, testified by word and deed his contempt and his a disgust for their actions and activities, stayed in the Conscious of his superiority, he proudly stood away from her and only came into contact with her when he needed her.
It was natural that the peoples treated in this way

Eccentric mocked, disrespected and mistreated and finally drove him out of their midst. But he despised their disrespect, the abuse was only God's punishment, only a test that will purify him and should make one worthy of future happiness. Because but he himself was the author of his martyrdom, so He could free himself from it at any time. He needed only his hurtful nature and his strange an¬ views, and he was able to use his Intelligence, energy and moral purity a highly respected achieve a good position.

Examples of this can be found in history innumerable find.

But those who are looking for such earthly, common honors and dignities, knew what price that could be achieved: by complete abandonment of the Jewish religion or, what is the same, the Jewish ian nationality. To accept half-measures,
They were too honest and too clever. They were reluctant to
They also considered it impracticable to have a lifelong To play comedy in a narrow circle of Jewish religious to represent foreign and national interests, but outside to portray the cultured people and patriots.

Only one of low, rootless and degenerate elements emerged from the genus, the knowledge of the mind, history and literature of Judaism, the proud and dignified consciousness his ancestors were lost, it was precedent keep playing this comedy for generations, a torment to herself, a mockery to her fellow human beings.

In the head of Mendelssohn, the model of the mo¬ Jews, Jewish history is depicted roughly as follows:

Due to the intolerance of the priests and other bad Jews were disrespected by many people in the Middle Ages, mistreated and persecuted and as a result of this bad Treatment of participation in the culture of Host populations have been excluded and neglected.
Need and

In desperation they have turned to the Talmud and other Scharteken created, in and after which they made their thorn spend their life in a rose garden until the morals are softened and a tolerant, generous attitude Host peoples awaken them from their Talmudic slumber and bring them into cultural life.

Mendelssohn saw these expectations in his time arrived. Protestantism had taken over the power of the fa¬ weakened and broken by the orthodox, intolerant church.
In the empire of Frederick the Great, religions merely a means to a higher end, to make people According to men, happiness was achieved delssohn's view all revealed religions: the Jewish no less than the Christian and Mohammedan sche.

For him, the Jewish religion consists exclusively

It has no laws or dogmas. Many of these laws
He considers them to be outdated and uncomfortable. But they are once all given by God through undeniable signs remain binding until God has given will fall, they will be marked with such undeniable signs to lift.

On the meaning of the Talmudic and rabbinic
He is not entirely sure about Jewish literature clear. He often suggests that these works are spawns idle, obscure minds. On the other hand, he holds in in practice the Talmudic regulations for equally bin¬ as the Torah. He daily lays out the dentum unbe–

Tefilin (phylacteries) known to the Jews, performs the Talmudic prayers, keeps the Sabbath, observes the dietary according to Talmudic precepts. He drinks with his a bosom friend Lessing no wine, because, as the Talmud fears that the heathen will give wine to his idol could sacrifice; but the enjoyment of idol sacrifice is in forbidden by the Torah as an abomination.

Moreover, he has the naive conviction that faithfully practice the Jewish ceremonial laws and cultivating the culture of the host peoples and interacting with them could live in eternal peace. 59)

If one were not convinced of the opposite, one could easily believe that Lessing with his name than the wise man, this strange Jew who was between Berlin in the 18th and Jerusalem in the 13th century unable to distinguish between Mendelssohn and the wanted to parody modern Judaism.

Soon after Mendelssohn’s death, the hollowness and
The untenability of Mendelssohn's Judaism becomes apparent.
Growing up in contact with educated Christians, Jewish youth perceived the ceremonial laws as unbearable and absurd. In the long run, it was considered impossible to have friendly relations with a companion to cultivate a community with whom one cannot dine or even Nor did they understand why these laws had to be observed. The undeniable signs with which God, according to the opinion of men, delssohn's were for this enlightened Gender is no longer undeniable, therefore not binding. But what remained after the abandonment of the Ze–

What remonial laws remain of Judaism? The dogmas?
But Mendelssohn had clearly demonstrated that Jews have no dogmas. But why then in a continue to adhere to a religion that one does not believe in, and that offer nothing but rejection and persecution can?

Mendelssohn's children and with them a large number
The enlightened Jews drew the consequences of this insight and converted to Christianity. More honest Natures, however, could not decide to take this step close because Christianity is a confession of dogma men who did not believe them.

In 1799, David Friedländer, who was most talented and important pupil of Mendelssohn, with a an open letter to the Berlin provost Teller. In In this anonymously published text, Friedländer describes on behalf of several Jewish heads of households in Berlin, The futility of remaining in Judaism is on the other hand, to the impossibility of conscientious human being to confess to dogmas that one doesn't believe. He finds a single way out. The protests tantic church to which those Jewish heads of households wanted to take this step, they should be given the dog Teller also rejected the publicly published document rejects this imposition.

A few years later, the Prussian Jews granted citizenship. This meant that the Jews clarified the main reason for the Exiting Judaism eliminated. The Wars of Liberation finally took full advantage of the minds and There was neither time nor leisure to deal with religious questions.

However, these events were only temporary Inhibitions to the unstoppable dissolution process of modern Judaism.

The Wars of Liberation and their happy outcome in the German people the slumbering national consciousness awakened. With this awakening, the
The reaction against the Jews was all the more violent as a result of equal rights, the Jews deeper into the organization mus of the German people without but to give up their individuality. A flood of hate and Insulting writings were poured out against German Jews.
The provocative words were followed by brutal riots
gene.

This sudden outbreak of anti-Semitism had numbing and confusing to those affected. It has In recent decades, they have become so completely enthralled by the illusion that they are distinguished from their fellow citizens by They believed that the Jewish Religion, to which they only clung superficially, for their Christian citizens no longer existed because they themselves neglected. Now it suddenly became apparent that this religion, which was no longer held in high esteem, an unbridgeable gap between them and their fellow citizens liked to educate.

At the same time Schleiermacher caused a stir with his sermons and lectures attracted the widest attention ness. He taught a Christianity that was connected with reason in full harmony, while, like no other religion, to fully satisfy the religious feeling was able to.

Under these circumstances, the already since that of¬ Friedländer's letter, the movement for to no longer delay the exit from Judaism.
About half of Berlin’s Jewish population is said to be against
At the end of the 2nd decade of the 19th century,

These almost entirely come from the Renegades from the upper classes undoubtedly the fluctuating lower classes with them torn, if not by a powerful countermovement
A dam has been built to counteract the waste were.

In 1821, some young Jewish people in Berlin People came together and founded an association for culture and science of Judaism.

Like Ezra twenty-three hundred years ago,
These contemporaries of David Friedländer also decided to task of saving modern Judaism from destruction
But while that Babylonian regeneration tor a Jewish nation is assumed and the possibility
The only way to preserve them is through strict observation of the ceremonial laws, they denied enlightened, German-feeling Jewish young Men despise the continued existence of the Jewish nation the ceremonial laws, believed neither in Moses and the Prophets still remember the Talmud and its successors. And yet they considered it necessary to to continue to adhere to the religion of their fathers. Two moments of the Jewish past seemed suitable to them, the new, unbelieving generation with the old, unbreakable

They found that Judaism had not always been fanatical and afraid of education, that it has always had highly educated men,
which the young man, who boasts of his education, bad because of their loyalty to Judaism as a model
Then, in the course of their history has suffered immensely. It was therefore a Commandment of piety, the banner under which the fathers fought and bled not to be unfaithful.

In the excitement of the great discovery, which they believed they had made, the Ver¬ members a kind of Rütli oath, faithful in Judaism to persevere and to work for its preservation and However, this youthful intoxication was soon People realized the senselessness of a religion that has always been a national, ceremonial and dogmatic had as its basis a mere knowledge. The uncertainty
The majority of the members shortly after the founding of the association, despite the achievements oath, converted to Christianity. As a result of these flags
The club dissolved.

Among its most outstanding members are heard Heinrich Heine, Eduard Gans, Moses Moser and Leopold Zunz. The first three deserted Only Leopold Zunz remained behind. Tirelessly he searched he will continue to propagate the idea of the dissolved association through research into intellectual heroes and the Martyrdom of Judaism.

The lonely man was soon joined by a group of young theologians.

Education, food worries, sometimes also a artificial idealism had these young people to the young dic-theological profession. Like the entire then well-educated Jewish youth were also these theologians are internally alienated from Judaism. A solution of the conflict between profession and conviction to find them in the direction indicated by Zunz.

They rummaged through the archives, searched through yellowed Manuscripts based on secular achievements of the Jews. And whenever they have any philosophical or grammatical treatise, a drinking or love song or any other had discovered a beautiful, intellectual expression of a Jew, they shouted triumphantly with the naivety of the parvenu the world: Look, we Jews have not always old trousers and spent the leisure hours with wasted away on bizarre speculations. We have men like Saadia Gaon, Salomon Him Gabirol, Yehuda Halevi, Moses and Abraham Him Ezra, Moses Ben Maimon, Judah Al-Charizi and Immanuel. They have argued with Aristotle about the bet philosophized and the troubadours and minstrels in their art. So respect, dear fellow citizens ger! And you Jewish educational braggarts, take a Example of those highly educated Jews!

But they concealed the fact that those outstanding young the occupation with profane things only incidentally that their secular works, insofar as they were in the public, from the official Judentum firmly rejected, but otherwise, in contrast to their theological works, remained unnoticed and would have fallen into decay if they had not been modern theologians have discovered. They concealed also the even more important fact that those formed ten men of the past law and faith remained faithful Jews and, if they lived now, the modern Jewish shepherds along with the sheep we¬ against their apostasy from faith and law and ban.

With the same love of truth and the same fine psychological sense and tact these historians felt the Jewish suffering. With painstaking detail every drop of blood shed is registered, the endured The tortures are shown in the most vivid colors, Peoples that represent approximately the entire civilized humanity portrayed, branded as executioners and murderers.

One can understand Treitschke’s desire to Reading the ten-volume Grätz historical work he wrote the sentence: "It is It is unthinkable that a two-thousand-year-old struggle on on the one hand only cruelty, domination, greed, on the other hand, should only show tolerant innocence. The question cannot be dismissed: why have so many noble, highly gifted nations the common – yes I Do not shy away from the word – the diabolical forces that are in slumbered in the depths of their souls, just at the young dian people, and only on him?" (One word about our Judaism p. 11).

Anyone who knows Judaism from within must The methods of this "historian" are not merely nonsensical nig, but also disgusting.

Certainly, the Jews have, throughout their history, suffered unspeakably. And the memory of all these cruel events must be felt by every national cause the most vivid pain among the Jews. But Judaism never thought of protecting itself from to present the peoples and condemn them for their cruelty People were convinced that the tormentors were only a rod of discipline in the hand of God; people complained that his sufferings not to man, but to God. The sense of justice and truth was never present among the Jews sunk so low to demand from the peoples a better action than the one they themselves, since they who had the power to bestow on the peoples. In They were sent to the foreign land of Canaan with the slogan: "You shall not leave a soul alive." The foreign denrecht in the post-Ezraic Jewish kingdom was very humane. But it set as a conditio sine qua non the participation of the foreigners in the Jewish cult and their gradual Dissolving into the Jewish tribe. If it were one foreign colony ever invaded, in a city of Jewish Empire to erect a temple to Astarte or Jupiter then they would undoubtedly have done far worse lives than the Jews among the host peoples.

Otherwise, the same unchangeable Law as in the whole natural kingdom: the weak will absorbed by the strong or, if he resists, condemned to a painful existence. When Charlemagne force the Saxons to accept Christianity wanted, they fought like a male people, for religion, for customs and needs of their fathers until they are unable to fight. their strength was exhausted, they submitted to the unchanging terrible fate. Had they done it like the Jews, if they had confidence in the God of their fathers and in emigrated in the hope of a better future, and they had surrounded themselves with a Talmudic crust by bending, ducking and temporarily obscuring the view tried to continue living as heathens: of what unhis suffering and cruelty would not have happened now, after a thousand years, the Saxon Zunz and Grätz to And now the consequences that from the suffering of the ancestors for modern Judaism to pull!

"Blood has flowed. And because blood has flowed, one should not be unfaithful to the religion of one's fathers."

But the fathers who gave their blood for the preservation of the Judentum were real Jews. They believed ten to a personally almighty, the Jews with fathers Jehovah, who protects with his love for God. They believed in Moses and the Prophets and the Talmud, practiced faithfully ly the prescribed statutes, did not rush to the Goyim, did not want to take part in their amusement participate in entertainment, did not demand of them offices, honors and dignities, did not interfere in their public and national affairs: son¬

They lived modestly, contemplatively, withdrawn in their own world, did not make noise or complain against their oppressors and harassers, do not call them Barba¬ and monsters. But they complained to their God about their suffering, asked him for forgiveness of their sins, for their for his sake he allowed them to be harassed and oppressed.

These were real Jews. They knew what they were shed blood.

But what right do you want to demand from people who no longer believe in all these things, the other idea le, have other aspirations, demand that they be in the religion of their fathers, simply because blood was shed, should wait?

The modern rabbis also seem to have to have seen that these historical pillars al¬ lein is not enough to understand religion

They now turned to their main activity: the reconciliation of religion with modern life.

If one wants to distinguish Judaism from supernaturalistic or naturalistic standpoints: in any case one will have to admit that for a people like the Judentum, which has been abroad for almost two millennia to survive under the most adverse circumstances liked, there is no analogue in history is.

The traditional Jew simply says: God and his Torah performed this miracle. Under the Torah he imagines the whole complex of the Pentateuchal Regulations as described by the Talmud and its successors designed and further developed.

Subjectively speaking, this explanation is correct tig: Judaism has always been aware that it lives with and through God and the Torah. But objectively The naturalist will probably not accept divine intervention as a reason for preservation. Then only the Torah regulations in their Talmudic form development as a reason for preservation. And truly! Whoever has ever Once you have learned these regulations from the inside, have found that we are dealing with a finely differentiated ted organic structure whose branches development and molting, as is the case with the superficial observer may appear accidental, but necessary and therefore not without damage to the The whole thing can be eliminated.

He will finally find that these regulations, strictly carried out to preserve a people to infinity assets.

But our reformers considered this organic form a pile of rubble that was created by the fanaticism and the persecutions of the centuries arose, and under which the core of the Jewish religion is hidden So these men came without psychological and historical sense with the spades and rested and did not rest until they had seen all creations and Institutions of post-biblical Judaism removed If they were consistent, they would now have must say openly: With the Talmud we have nothing more to do. This is the confession they have but cannot decide. On the contrary: they mock and ridicule even the Karaites, who do the same did as the reformers did, but openly and honestly.

They accuse these biblical Jews of being Renunciation of the Talmud any possibility of development cut themselves off and therefore faced destruction would be exposed.

So they mocked themselves and did not know how.

But these spade men also made before the Bi¬ bel, which otherwise constitutes the stable element of Jewish religion on, no support. That is also easy to The two and a half millennia ago given to the agricultural people living in the Orient could not possibly have existed in 19th century Germany derts

should be applied completely. Should the isolation maintain the laws of the Torah?

The obvious question was: is the Torah a divine work or not? If so, then every word is binding and unchangeable. So put away your spades! If the But Torah is a human creation, then I can never mand to do something that any human being - and no matter how important he was - has arranged.

In the synods that the modern rabbis held in the 1850s
ben, as well as in the religious writings of these men
As often as these questions are raised, one finds such a confused and endless torrent of words that makes you feel It's like a mill wheel is turning in your head.
you recover from the anesthesia, then you are so wise
as before. After the convoluted speeches and general
The phrases of these men can be reminiscent of the Revelations believe it or not. The Bible is stable, but also liquid. The food and segregation laws are still binding, but also not binding, depending depending on how you look at it. The Talmud is also not to be despised entirely. It contains many precious your treasure.

For about half a century, the modern a rabbi reformed Judaism.
the endless flood of phrases with which they describe the essence of the Jewish religion have tried to portray, ra¬ three fixed points

monotheism, ethics and mission.

If you ask them about the value of monotheistic Thought, they answer superiorly: The monotheism mus is the eternal truth. They then refer to the sensually incomprehensible divine being, which, as we have seen hen, Maimonides took from Aristotle.

But if one objects that such a being cannot be expected to deal with the fate of humanity or even with that of a specific people to deal with and respond to the prayers, then give They admit that their monotheism actually has a personal living God as its object. Now Such a being is necessary for any religion agile and is completely dominated by an exclusive ethical religion such as the Jewish one absolutely But the eternal truth does not care whether one has a personal monotheism or polytheism mus accepts. She rejects both.

Ethics as a subordinate or subordinate to aesthetics and logic
We find an equally ordered factor in every higher developed kelt pagan religion. Judaism has the ethics superior to other perspectives. To achieve this to achieve an unnatural goal and to realize oneself keep, it had to create the ceremonial laws.
If you reject these laws, you get the Urchris¬
But as a person of culture, does one want to be more concerned with ethics also aesthetics and logic as

If we accept equivalent factors, then we can hig close the synagogues and the Society for ethical culture. There you will find what you are striving for in a much purer and modern view more appropriate form than in the Bible.

That Judaism was originally a world-enhancing We have seen what the mission was striving for. We have but also saw that in the course of its history necessarily with nature and humanity in insoluble conflicts and in the constant struggle for his existence could never come to the humanity. Some prophets try to to rise to universalism. But this Attempts are becoming increasingly sad due to the the poor situation of the Jews.

The Christian religion has Judaism against its produced a will.

Then in the Middle Ages the Jews had the Western ian peoples a forgotten idea treasure. But this treasure was not Jewish scher, not a Semitic, but an Aryan: they were the writings of Aristotle. Since that time, however, As Jews they have done nothing for humanity and tried to do nothing.

Or is the purpose of the Jewish mission fulfilled, if modern Jews every newly emerged movement through their participation and their involvement, ten?

Liberalism was in the middle of the 19th century
It is a strong sapling that may produce some good had borne fruit. Then came the modern Jews with their need, their longing for emancipation, clung to him until he collapsed under her weight. And it will be the Social Democrats, the stock exchange and newspaper beings fare better with their cooperation?

With Leopold Zunz, Zacharias Frankel, Abraham Geiger, Samuel Holdheim and Heinrich Graetz are the hermost outstanding creators and designers of modern German Jewry has passed away. They have an unfortunate misunderstanding of the essence, the development development and the conditions of existence of Judaism, Minds confused and for an indefinite period of time an unsustainable condition. But they must be allowed to will stand: they wanted good, an unequal They have striven for a charitable ideal. no effort, no struggle to achieve their aspirations They also did everything in their power tan to understand Judaism.

But how completely different are their epigones.

"Does the shoemaker have to believe in his boot?" one of these gentlemen once replied to me when I saw him on the contradiction between his sermon and his drew attention to the views expressed. This answer is typical for the vast majority this theologen who see their profession as a craft, an industry It is possible, even likely, that the The grievances raised also affect the theologians of other denominations prevail. But that is why the evil not excused, and the one who has the evils in his camp well, is not relieved of the duty to to be discussed publicly.

The study of Jewish theology does not require no or very little material resources and speaks, with relatively low work performance, a safe, pleasant and in most cases very good and respected existence. For this reason, and because Jewish youth are already involved in the choice of academic limited to theological professions, are pushing for the theology elements, the majority of which are for their future have neither inclination nor conviction for this profession, have even the slightest prior knowledge.

In the first beginnings, you are rebelling against the mostraight, healthy people brought from their schools ian understanding against the Talmudic subtleties, against the world incompatible with modern thinking view that is presented in Jewish source literature as expression comes.

Now the different directions, the orthodoxe, the historical, the liberal, the reform movement, and whatever else they may be called, in action. They attack the mind until it is flattened oppressed, dazed, numb and against no matter how absurd imposition more to react. This flattened mind A lot of phrases are then instilled. And when the man has learned to use some of these phrases in to make a speech at every opportunity chen, he is a fully qualified rabbi. He then moves into his Office with incredibly little knowledge of Jewish

Source literature, with the most confusing, crooked views on Judaism, and, what is worst, without an ideal striving, without an honest conviction without a worldview. He is a more or less less well-functioning machine. If you throw a Coin in, a speech comes out. A dull, a lively one, a sad one, a cheerful one, an orthodox, a radical one: depending on the situation and the Size of the coin. These are the typical Schiller ian bread-scholars. In the big cities they are always on the way between a wedding, a funeral, a a festival or club meeting, a commission meeting or something else. In their relentless pursuit of money and popular favor, they never find and seek the leisure to the meager knowledge brought from the school to refresh, to expand. In the small towns, sleepy They spend their free time. These people will always, regardless of whether whether they call themselves orthodox or liberal, every new movement in the religious field mock, envy, unsuppress, because otherwise they would be forced to give up their little To revise and expand knowledge. 60)

Chapter 10: Zionism

In the seventh and eighth decades of the 19th century
In the 19th century, a ray of light shone into the Russian ghettos Alexander II made it his task makes his Jewish subjects into modern culture to introduce relief in military service and all sorts of social and economic benefits should be considered Russian Jewry considered this Procedure for inducing apostasy from religion of their fathers and sought through the most stubborn passive resistance stood outwardly and fanatically, sparing no means terrorism internally the intentions of the government Meanwhile, there were quite a few young People who had the courage and strength to leave the ghetto and acquire a modern education.
Most of these "apostates" now set themselves the Task to save their brothers "languishing in darkness" through Enlightenment writings that they wrote in Hebrew and Jewish written in German.

Despite the strictest measures by which the Orthodoxy this heretical literature away from the ghetto tried to stop it, it could not be prevented, that some curious Bachurim (Talmud disciples) secretly read these strange books and from the were infected with new ideas.

Thus, inside and outside the ghetto, a Group of young men who openly or secretly practice religion of their fathers, and only through the millennium old instinct for togetherness, through education hunger and existential considerations remained in Judaism.
They worshipped civilization as their new god and dreamed of fraternization with humanity through civilization.

Due to the sudden outbreak of anti-Semitism
After the death of Alexander II, they were expelled from these Dreams awakened in the most cruel way. Unforgettable will be the flight to all who witnessed those events newspaper that appeared shortly after the horrific Jewish crises wallen and bore the inscription: "Lomer gein in Schul aran!" (Back to the synagogue!) It moves from one of the most influential apostles of enlightenment, who for years has been acting in a manner bordering on cynicism what was sacred to Judaism, mocked and ridiculed and now, after the sudden collapse his ideals, his hopes, like a man who has emerged from the hurdle escaped animal, which in the exuberant enjoyment of the Freedom is surprised by a thunderstorm, shy and returned without will.

Some energetic, indomitable natures were driven to the extreme by desperation. She went into the camp of the Nihilists and sought with the Dyna¬ with a bomb in his hand to take revenge on society chen.

The majority of the enlightened, however, withdrew returned to the ghetto and tried to get the Alther¬
But when the anesthesia was over, it became clear that human knowledge cannot be forcibly suppressed. Whoever Once he had lost his faith, he could not, despite all Without faith, however, I felt The martyrdom became unbearable. People longed for a a new faith, a new ideal.

At the beginning of the 90s, like lightning, dull, sultry night a slogan arises and ignites dete blaze the minds of the enlightened: the Zionismus.

The longing for Zion is as old as the Jewish exile.
Three times a day the Jew prays to his God: "May but our eyes will return you to Zion with mercy
But this pious longing has nothing in common with political Zionism.

Apart from the grotesquely fantastic legends that woven around the arrival and reign of the Messiah have, there are still two fixed points, that no pious Jew can overcome: The by a divine miracle and not by human addition be-arrival of the Messiah and the return to the status quo ante. 61)

"I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roe deer and hinds of the field, that you may friend does not wake up or stir until she himself pleases." (Song of Solomon 2:7)

Regarding this verse, the Midrash notes:

"Four times God has admonished the Jews because of four generations who bring about salvation by force wanted to, and perished in the process ... They have banded together and gone to war
They were destroyed because they did not believe in God believes and did not trust in his help." (Mi¬ drasch Rabba, Song of Songs Chapter 2.)

This view is also completely consistent.
If Judaism were a people like any other, then it would have perished long ago. Only an unshaky belief in miracles could, despite the destructive the power of time and adverse circumstances,
And only a belief in miracles can keep the hope to nourish that the winds scattered in all directions blew themselves up and as a nation into obscurity finite will be preserved.

But because the believing Jew sees exile as a pre-
If we look at the current national sleep state, then He expects that after the national awakening will pick up where we left off 1800 years ago remained.

"Because of our sins we are banished from our land been displaced ... and cannot move to to appear before you ... and to do our duty in the hot temple ... Gather us from all corners of the Earth ... and bring us ... to your city Zion ... there we want to prepare sacrifices according to our duty" (Festival daily prayer) .

But the Zionism of the enlightened Jews wanted neither linked to religion nor to history.

For them, Zion was a defiant rejection of the Christian society that is striving for rapprochement shamefully rejected. But Zion meant also for them a rebellion against the yoke of the Jewish ian tradition, against the belief in providence.
They wanted to shape their own destiny.

These Zionists, however, were too few in number, had too little influence and practical sense to Ideally to be able to give some tangible form.
The masses were indifferent to this movement or hostile towards.

At about the same time as in Russia, the Hatred of Jews also arose in Germany and Austria.
Anti-Semitism in these countries is probably not so brutally expressed as in the uncivilized East,
It had a profound impact on modern Jews which is more like the ghetto.

For the ghetto Jew, anti-Semitism was an old

Acquaintance, against whom he was always prepared by the Talmud and was largely insensitive. And if he like a wild animal, hunted, chased and killed, so he left with the comforting awareness, for everything he suffered here on earth, in the hereafter to be rewarded.

But what satisfaction could the modern "Citizens of the Mosaic faith" who neither believe in a Jewish future nor a reward in the afterlife believed, for the shame and rejection they now suffered daily, find?

In their stupor they acted like the ostrich: they did not want to see the cruel reality, did not want If one is personally affected by anti-Semitism been spared, this movement was only against some usury and haggling Jews, who already rightly happened; if one was personally hit, then it was Coincidence, a mix-up. But if this coincidence repeated and very sensitively, so were temporary phenomena that caused the anti-Semitism. In the Catholic Ös¬ Austria it was the clergy, in Germany it was For some of the nerds, it was envy of bread and competition.
this "shame of the century" as soon as possible from the
To create a world, defensive clubs were founded.

Meanwhile, the movement became bigger and bigger and stronger; and before you knew it, the modern Jews into a ghetto invisible only to the blind to urged.

As a savior from this shameful, unbearable
Theodor Herzl now took over.

He was a man of great talent, but a journalist. As such, he believed that every problem, much, whether it was far or near to him, in a few hours or days and, if it came to a very high, in a few months to be able to solve problems.

And he devoted a whole
this year.

As a modern and religiously indifferent person
He had previously known about as much about Judaism, such as the average educated European from Chinesentum. From the textbooks and history books of the mon¬ of their Judaism, he now quickly sought out to inform the subject of his problem.

However murky his sources were, he still found intuitively correct that hatred of Jews is as old as Judaism dentum itself and for an immanent reason Herzl saw the reason in the persistence of the Jews by their nationality. As an indigestible foreign body, the Jewish people had to be in the organism of Host populations always elicit a reaction. In the Middle Ages and in the uncivilized states of the present
The reaction took brutal forms. In the civilized States that no longer tolerate such brutal statements are able, low levels of social Instincts and poison

the noblest juices of the people. The states are in the uniform implementation and exercise of their laws hindered and are forced to make exceptions laws or tacitly about the best existing laws. In both cases, the state organism is paralyzed in its functions.

Despite the confusing situation, Herzl was able to sights that he has in his textbooks and history books to see clearly what he had found.

When asked: what is Judaism actually was, wanted and should? Could Herzl separate himself from his sources which he believed he could master, but not free.

The beliefs and teachings of Judaism, as they who met him was common property of the entire civil mankind, therefore, could not possibly be the reason of Jew-hatred. Ceremonial laws had the Jews At least he never read or hear preaching that one should put on phylacteries, on the Sabbath asked not to work and not to eat pork and the like.

He then drew from these premises, which he considered to be true held, the only possible consequence: if the Jew neither dogmas nor ceremonial laws is obliged, then what binds him to Judaism can only be the national moment.

Thus he constructed a Judaism analogous to the Austrians striving for national independence ian peoples fragments or the 19th century to new life awakened ancient peoples core. Herzl now said to himself: What these peoples can do, Judaism also likes it. The host peoples show us the Door. That is their right. Let us now establish a home. Thus, Herzl, independent of the Russian Zionism, the idea of a Jewish state.

The realization of this idea was certainly within the realm of possibility. He had once read, that in America people who are dissatisfied with their situation are joining together to form cooperatives and Night colonies and cities form and thrive there bring prosperity. Why should the Jews couldn't do something similar? The world was big enough to give them a free spot.
Money was essential, as the rich Jewish bankers were there. Intelligence was also in abundance present. But the farmers and craftsmen - these were in the age of highly developed technology and information industry is an outdated standpoint.

This is the solution to the Jewish question that Herzl proposed in a years and published in a book entitled: "The Jews¬ state".

In trying to realize this ingenious idea Herzl encountered a difficulty. The bankers, who were supposed to give up the money did not want to participate.
The majority of the intelligentsia stayed away. The few but those who followed him could certainly make spirited speeches keep and spiritual

write rich articles, but they did not think in the ent¬ far from leaving their homeland. This should be others. The broad masses of modern Jews and their leaders behaved in accordance with the Heartfelt Idea opposite as in a similar case, but from opposite reasons, their Russian co-religionists - indifferent or hostile.

But Herzl was not the man to stop halfway to stay. He finally realized that the The focus of Judaism and human matter al for his state not in the West, but in the East There lived enormous masses of Jews in need and misery and had to joyfully accept the heartfelt message of salvation welcome the community.

He had heard that those unfortunate Jewish masses for thousands of years longed for Zion, that there there were already a number of men who to satisfy this pious longing through worldly means Herzl would have preferred any other place been that center of a backward religious ous worldview. But he recognized that material interests without an ideal a group of people for the unable to hold together in the long run. He brought now a victim of the intellect and moved his Jewstate to Zion.

But that was the only concession he made to his pious brothers was willing to make. For the Wiethe restoration of the old temple with the sacrificial cult and the other fanatical customs he was not He wanted to have Opposite Zion to a haven of modern culture and Zivilisation, a model for all European States that, in Herzl’s view, are far from being on the The height of culture and civilization. With the Jewish ian zealots, who perhaps bring about the status quo ante Herzl believed that the people were already finished to be able to become.

Herzl had just as little luck with Zionism as before with the purely political and philanthropic thought Jewish state.

The Sultan was not at all willing to surrender Zion The great masses of the East and their official nal representatives found that the "Chaser-eating" Herzl could not possibly be the Messiah sent by God. They said: If we have waited 18 centuries have, we can wait a little longer.

Only the enlightened Jews who had already heard of the Zionist idea, and a number of people, where the need was stronger than the trust in God, joined Herzl.

Also in Western Europe, especially in Austria and Germany, Heartfelt Zionism has an appendage, consisting largely of children and fools, found.

The children are the students.

These young people were raised in the belief grow that they become entirely a nation of their Christian meraden. The Mosaic confession, through which only they differed from those, they were equal to valid; and with contempt and contempt they looked at history, literature and tradition of the fathers.

Then came the catastrophe.

Suddenly the Christian comrades withdrew from The corps and fraternities pushed them. In college, in the military, in public careers
They were mocked in the family and on the street mocked, ridiculed, rejected, abused. Initially they sought to take satisfaction with their fists and sabers to make amends for the humiliation they suffered.
But when they realized the futility of this rebellion
they did the same thing that their enlightened Russian co-religionists in the same situation
tan. They resignedly turned to Judaism.

But far fewer than those returning ghetto children, Judaism could express this in the aesthetic Modern young people who grew up with this Satisfy people. They were addicted to intoxicating blows words, glittering pomp and frivolous life
But they found this in the brooding, always searching Purposes questioning Jewish religion not.

This is how they discovered Zionism.

He offered them a Jewish state with Maccabees and other heroes, a Jewish soul and a Jewish Art and other intoxicating buzzwords, colorful hats zen, a flag with the Magen David (Jewish coat of arms pen), a Jewish national anthem and drinking songs.

That satisfied her.

The fools are those few writers who, although Talmud, but on the basis of atavistic Ways the spirit of the Talmudic "Tomer perverted" (much (slightly reversed). With this spirit
They turn all cultural values and works upside down
When they had finished their reversal work and no longer have any surprises to offer the world liked - they became Zionists.

I know some Zionists from the time when they knew nothing about Zion or Herzl. They had preferred to visit Christian circles and correct language and acceptable manners are used there accustomed.

After a few years I found them again as Zionists and was amazed at how these people have become were untruthful. In the unashamedness of their exclusive chen traffic "among us" these have in German¬ people born and raised in the country a mouth lazy jargon, flippant manners and a sloppy Even her once healthy istic understanding has suffered greatly. They babble and dream of Jewish culture, Renaissance and art.
They want to destroy the Jewish heart and soul
But the language of their fathers and their future state to at least learn to read, they still have always found no time.

Ending

The task I set myself in this book was the doctor's.

For thousands of years, Judaism has been in a a state in which it can neither live nor die.
I have now undertaken to investigate the causes of this normal condition and am at the following result.

In the religion of Judaism, only ethics, and logic and aesthetics, unless they serve ethical purposes are ruthlessly fights.

The fight against aesthetics is evident:

1. in the suppression of all aesthetic natural religions arising from the needs of humans;

2. in the post-biblical Judaism increasingly sharp prominent purity and separation laws, which is a pointless, unethical contact with nature
ture and the neighboring peoples almost impossible;

3. in the absence of any non-religious art, especially especially in post-biblical Judaism.

The fight against logic is evident:

1. in the narrative of miracles that the Bible tells us forcefully to make the people submissive;

2. in the belief that the elements of nature are people's relationship to God is influenced;

3. believing that wars are not caused by the human superiority, but solely through the divine chen will guided by a moral principle be decided;

4. that a people, which as an organic entity
once created in time, can exist forever.

All these concepts are spatial, temporal or causally incorrect and therefore untrue or illogical.

The basic idea of Judaism is unnatural and un¬ executable.

The unnaturalness and impracticability of the
The idea of the Jewish people has been preserved during the existence of the ian state:

1. in the ever-reappearing waste of the Jews from their God and in the proclamations of almost all The crimes of this people, which were criticized by the Jews, de nothing other than the elementary emergence of the suppressed aesthetic and logical needs
were;

2. in the socially anarchic and politically unsustainable conditions that have existed in Judaism since the Maccabean period

ten, that is, since we have had a somewhat controlled liable Jewish history possess, until the dissolution of the state continuously have prevailed.

After the Jews were expelled from their country and powerless and defenseless in all directions have been blown up, has the difficulty of finding the Jewish to maintain the culture has increased even further.

Since "good", "beautiful" and "true" are mere concepts of perception can only have a relative value for us, so the only relevant norm for our actions remains and thinking the law of will identity.

The ghetto Jew, who strictly adheres to the Talmudic spirit lives, acts according to the law of identity of will. He considers his current stay among the Nations as a temporary solution from which the Messiah will emerge will solve.

May his Judaism be from the point of view of civilization and humanity may be reprehensible, it is at least consequential, logically justified and because of its tragical heroism is admirable.

The modern Jew does not live according to the law of Identity of will. He wants the Jewish idea and himself as a Jew received. As a result, he is like the ghetto Jew Anhostilities, persecutions, shame and torments sets.

The ghetto Jew is prepared for these sufferings. His life lifestyle and worldview offer him comfort, Lindeand insensitivity and prevent the formation of solution that he doesn't want.

The modern Jew has the Talmudic life way and worldview, is in the cultural life of the host peoples, takes part in their friethe and suffering share and claims social and political equality. He is not has no consolation, no relief for this suffering and is against the dissolution, which he does not want, by nothing protected.

This Judaism is inconsistent without He is aware of the literary sources that thetic information about the nature, development and the living conditions of the Jewish people ben able, inaccessible.

The teachers and leaders of modern Judaism, the are called to bring instruction and clarification, deceive consciously or unconsciously through a tendentious colored historical construction about their situation and suartificially in the unsustainable state to maintain.

The effort to implement the Jewish idea has the martyrdom and the unprecedented long preservation of the Judaism caused.

With the abandonment of the Jewish idea, the Jewish Martyrdom will disappear, but with it the Jewish tum itself.

The Jewish idea is abandoned when one insulating, preserving and insensitive the crust created by Ezra or his predecessors and was further educated by the Talmudists, and adopts the culture of the host peoples.

– 176–

If a moving body is given the driving force If power is suddenly withdrawn, he can still recover through the accumulated energy continues to move for a while.

After the abandonment of the Jewish idea, the Jewish tum and his martyrdom will continue for a while remain.

A complete dissolution of Judaism can only through physical assimilation with the host peoples The physical must be preceded by the spiritual go, that is: the appropriation of the secular and religious customs, traditions and beliefs of the host people ker.

The consumption capacity of nations is also limited like that of all organisms.

In the countries where large numbers of Jews have accumulated are, therefore, a physical assimilation for the foreseeable Time impossible.

It is an immutable historical law that a people without a land must dissolve. Since the Jews eighteen hundred years ago against this law have created a situation from which their descendants may never fully can free.

Due to the host populations’ reluctance to physical mixing will be the Jews who already have the have abandoned the Jewish idea, returned to Judaism urges.

The Jews are in the same situation as the Earth. Eclipse remains because it has nowhere to fall.

– 177–

As far as Judaism as a whole is concerned, Therefore, the Jewish question remains insoluble for the foreseeable future.

But the modern Jews, who in relation to the form a small part of the entire Jewish community, if they do not want to or cannot return to the ghetto nothing will remain but to stand on the path once entered to progress towards complete assimilation. And if they only reach the goal after many generations and on the way there many unpleasantnesses have to suffer.

It is necessary to atone for the guilt of our fathers! The path must be covered once!

The host peoples also have a fathers' debt to pay gene.

Since their fathers welcomed the Jews and have kept, they have a duty to their descendants to take care of the fate of their charges take care of attracting them, and if it is no matter how much effort and sacrifice it might take.

This requires justice, but also utility possibility.

The situation in which the Jews now find themselves is shameful and harmful to the host populations.
It is important that the states continue to treat the Jews while existing laws must be violated.

The current situation is harmful because the necessarily resulting anti-Semitism with his raw, low instincts the noblest juices of Host populations poisoned.

A solution to the Jewish question, if it can be possible, can only be achieved by purely logical knowledge.

Without hate and love the forces must be traced which promote the abnormal preservation of Judaism and which have caused the continued hatred against it.

Only when these forces have been recognized will show whether and how the Jewish question can be solved
can.

Until then, however, every attempt at a solution is a quagmire.
mess.

Notes

1) "Zukunft", June 18, 1904. Year 12 No. 38.

2) Baba Batra 15.

3) Isaiah 1:11; Jeremiah 7:22; Psalms 40:7.

4) Yebamot 102. Megillah 3.

5) See pp. 105-106.

6) Midrash Rabba, Genesis 1.

7) Synhedrin 88; Yerush. Synhedrin I, 4.

8) Gitin 60.

9) Maimonides, Mishneh Torah, Introduction; J. Brüll, Mebo ha-Mishnah II, I ff.

10) Beza I.

11) " 7.

12) The total number of Jews currently in existence is cannot be determined precisely, since in the countries where the majority of Jews live, a census has either not been introduced at all or very poorly. The American immigrants
I count the non-assimilated Jews among the Jews of the East.
See Statistics of the Jews, ed. by A. Nossig.

13) Josephus, antique. XX, 8, 7; de bell. Indian II, 17, 2-4; II, 18,
1; VII, 3, 3-4.

14) Notes 14-18 (pp. 37-52) are incorrectly typed.

14) (p. 54.) Yerush. Pea I, 1.

19) Mendelssohn, Jerusalem (Berlin 1783), section 2, p. 31.

20) Midrash Rabba, Exod. 52, 3.

21) See Spinoza, Tractatus theologico-politicus (Hamburg 1660), p. 5: "... also the law revealed to Moses ... has no prescribed to believe that God is incorporeal, even that he has no visible form or shape." Cf. Reggio,

The Torah and Philosophy, p. 67, where it is demonstrated that The most important men of Jewish culture in the time of Maimonides thodoxie God imagined physically.

22) Yerush. Rosh Hashanah I, 2 ; Midrash Rabbah, Genes. 48, 9.

23) p. 740 1. B. Samuel 4, 3 ff.; Numbers 10:35-36; 1. B. Samuel 7:8-9.

23a) (p. 83.) Berakot 3.

24) Berakot 6, 7.

25-26) Abbot 3, 20; Targum Yerushalmi, Deuteron. 32; Midrash Rabba, Genes. 68, 4.

27) Berakot 3.

28) Exod. 34, 18; Levite. 23:10-11; Deuteron. 16, 1 and 9.

29) Sabbath 86.

30) Mishnah Rosh Hashanah I, 2.

31) Abot 4, 21.

32) " 1, 2.

33) Synhedrin 74.

34) Sifra (ed. Weifs) p. 86; Shulchan Aruch Yore Dea 178.

35) Yalkut to Torah 190.

36) Kiddushin 70.

37) Yebamot 62.

38) Sota 17.

39) Kiddushin 29.

40) Nidda 13.

41) Joma 29.

42) Ketubot 13; Synhedrin 21.

43) Midrash Rabba, Levite. 87, 6; Berakot 28.

44) Synhedrin 103; Chullin 94.

45) Abot 1, 15.

46) " 5.

47) " 2.

48) Yebamot 79.

49) Sabbath 25

50) Taanit II; Nazir 19.

51) Baba Batra 60.

52) Gitin 7.

53) Synhedrin 24.

54) See also Numbers 15:39.

55) "... But Mendelssohn also allows himself to be influenced in his investigations ments of moral purposes and draws the moral doctrine into the fine arts." Kayserling, M. Mendelssohn. 1862.
p. 104.

Mendelssohn speaks about his relationship to philosophy (Collected Writings V, p. 447): "Philosophy should make me happier than I would be without it; and this determination must She will remain loyal to me. As long as she is a good companion and in a pleasant way, I will stay with her; as soon as she makes noble, frosty or sour faces and is in a bad mood comes, I leave her alone and play with my children."

Those Jews who have succeeded in making a significant contribution to the areas of logic and aesthetics, one would first have to Jewish spirit as much as possible. And it is characteristic that Spinoza, who from his youth onwards worked with tenacious energy on the the Jewish spirit, his book, in which chem the sole rule of logic is proclaimed, but the title
"Ethics" is added.

56) Yedaim 3:5; Synhedrin 101.

57) Kayserling, M. Mendelssohn p. 143, note 4.

58) Levit. 18, 3.

59) On Mendelssohn's attitude to Judaism, see Jerusa¬
Section 2, pp. 31, 93 ff., 127, 128 ff.; Ges. Schriften V, p. 494, 503, 669, VI, 5 ff.; Kayserling, M. Mendelssohn, pp. 352 ff., 385 ff., 492, 532, 536.

60) Recently, a modern rabbi has written about the of Judaism. Once you have read these 160 pages
If you have finished reading your work, you still don't know what Judaism is, wants and should be. For this one has the pleasure gen, the whole army of phrases that have been in the Textbooks and history books and on the pulpits of modern Ju¬ who were almost hunted to death, in line and file again to see marching.

With solemn pathos it is said here that Judaism exclusive, but also inclusive; that the Bible "is the element of persistence", but also of progress; that the ceremonial laws are binding, but also non-binding, depending on the case.

They're all there, the good old friends.

You get the feeling that these phrases are grinning at you and said: we cannot be killed, for we flow from a
A source that never runs dry - from human stupidity.

And now an example of how history is made. S.
144 of this book states: "The Messianic Mission of the Christian religion and also Islam is always accepted in Judaism without hesitation known ... The two most outstanding thinkers of the Middle Ages ters, Jehuda Halevi and M. Maimonides, may instead of all other speak. As self-confident as their convictions are, and as They declared their belief in the future of their religion as un¬ explain it as irreversible and irreducible, but they do not emphasize it less that Islam and Christianity are the peoples of the earth for the mes¬ prepare and lead to the sian period, so that they 'the holy have a calling to prepare the coming of the Kingdom of God."

The passage in Maimonides to which the author refers has following wording:

"Even the one who claimed to be a Messiah and was condemned to death, about him Daniel prophesied: 'and some Apostates will rise up to fulfill the prophecy, and they will cause harm' (actually: fall). Is there a greater damage? All the prophets have prophesied that the Messiah that the Jews would be redeemed, gathered, and their commandments confirmed.
But he caused the Jews to be persecuted, scattered and were humiliated, that the Torah was changed, that people were misled to serve anyone other than Jehovah. But we can do God’s Thoughts cannot be fathomed. This and his successor (Mo¬ hammed) was sent by God to pave the way for the Messiah
... The whole world is already concerned with the Messiah and the Torah ... They say these commandments were valid, but are now abolished ... When the true Messiah comes, all to realize that they had made false statements." (Mishne Torah, Hilkot Melakim 11, 4th Amsterdam [censorship-free] edition.)

61) See Maimonides 1. c.: "And if a king from the House of David, who, like David, deals with the Torah and will follow the biblical and Talmudic commandments that Jews to obey them and for the cause of God will argue, he can be considered the Messiah.

assumes that he will succeed, conquer the nations, and build the temple on his original place and bring the Jews to Palestine will be returned."

CULTURAL PROBLEMS
THE PRESENT

edited by LEO BERG

The cultural problems of the present are dealt with in individual representations of the big questions of our time.

Their tendency and attitude remains unchanged: the ty¬ pictorial phenomena of modern culture and to critically examine their causes – completely un¬ dependent on all parties and directions.

For this second series, the excellent most promising employees have been recruited.

It will be published over the course of about a year a series of 8 volumes.

Each volume is equally elegantly furnished, It is a self-contained work and can also be viewed individually for sale.

Peg

Säitert 1896.
Publishing house of the "Reichspost", Vienna, VIII., Strozzigasse 41.
Ambr. Opitz printing house, Vienna.

92897-

©: It was foreseeable that the one by Dr. Theodor Herzl in The world-hunted proposal that the Jews might be involved in a thorough Solution to the Jewish question: voluntarily emigrate from all countries and to establish a separate state for themselves, enthusiastic approval from I will find all Zionist-minded Jews; but also from Decisive opponents of this idea were found in the center of the Jewish community, which not only considers the establishment of such a Jewish state impossible not only to hold, but even to consider the very idea of it as one for Judaism describe as extremely dangerous.

The writer of these lines has in a special brochure: “Jews out?”, Vienna, 1896, this “Jewish state” of Herzl’s It was subjected to quite thorough criticism; all the more interesting for to learn about a refutation of the "Jewish state" that is a Jewish Dr. Ludwig Ernst, under the title: “No Jewish state, but freedom of conscience” (Leipzig and Vienna, 1896), he wrote. A plan for saving Judaism is presented there, which includes—It seems to have a prospect of realization. However, this could mean that Anti-Semitism and with it Christianity from the world to be created. The founding of a special Jewish state. would be superfluous in this case, because the whole world would then being Jewish.

It's a clever plan, but transparent enough for everyone to see through. who only has a basic understanding of the situation.

One thing is immediately apparent, even upon a cursory reading. the brochure by the Jew Ernst states that he [is] anti-Semitism not judged with the same calm objectivity as his opponent Fellow countryman and fellow believer Herzl. — Both are Jewish freethinker, but Men ijt is less prejudiced in the Jewish question than his Opponent. In the small, only 20-page pamphlet of the The latter contains a whole rat's tail of the long-disproven Historical falsifications, distorted views, monstrous prejudices, snobbish phrases, combined with a downright disgusting—Respect to the anti-Semitic opponents, who almost spoil the pleasure of the calm reader.

Publisher of the "Messenger of St. Joseph", Weinhaus, 18th century.

Mission with Heinrich Kirsch.

8, SU asd

behaves, fic) to continue dealing with such writing; only the clever plan, the implementation of which is ultimately insisted upon,
This makes it necessary to take a closer look at this brochure. Before However, since I am discussing this plan, it might be advisable to consider the aforementi to dissolve rat's tail a little, in order to understand the Jewish point of view to identify the author more precisely.

1. “The Jews,” chases Dr. Ernit (p. 7), “have been around for 2000 years.”
in Europe; no part of this part of the world that is not of their blood "Saturated ijt ... since 2000 years they have been involved in art and knowledge" company, culture and everything that the states in which they live have, possess material and intellectual assets, have worked with and with⸗
"Created." I ask, are these perhaps the results of modern Historical research, or isn't that just a lot of historical falsification?
It may be that even before Christ's birth a few Jewish merchants were in the were based in trading posts of the Roman Empire; the majority the Jews whom Europe is currently hosting, the dubious
But they have only been lucky since the destruction of Jerusalem and since They immigrated during Hadrian's time, or rather, through captivity as prisoners of war.
scattered among various peoples; of the 2000 years are missing
So probably several centuries. And perhaps one acquires it simply by...
Does immigration already grant a right to own a country?
From the martyr's blood with which Jews shed the soil of Europe—
"They should have been soaked," said a failed Jewish member of parliament.
in the Austrian Imperial Council, to the delight of all historians;
Because almost every child knows that the medieval Jews⸗
Persecutions were mostly just consequences of the unbearable usury practiced by Jews.
The Jews were thus often martyrs of their usury, but not martyrs of their faith. Unless they are martyred by their own actions.
Religious fanaticism, the lynching of the Christian people, or the fell under the regulated justice system of the state. One might compare this to modern law
One can express regret about certain viewpoints; but one cannot call it "martyr's blood".
to name them, and through this blood the Jews truly have no right.
acquired through ownership in European countries. The other euro—
In contrast, the Prussian peoples have either the homeland they possess conquered, or defended with their blood; thereby they have, according to our
At least a glimpse, a right to their homeland.

And through 2000 years, the Jews, who have only been here for 100 years, would have crawled out of their partly voluntary, partly forced ghettos are and formerly carefully separated themselves from all Christian culture, to have participated and contributed to — this very culture?
That's truly bordering on outrageous. Even those who went into the euro—Jews who have joined the Spanish cultural community are not allowed to do so by the others

a EE ee

As we can see, they owe everything they have in terms of education to the Christian civilization, not their Talmud. One may have their fellow...
The labor movement has admitted this for 100 years; however, many people doubt it.
in the true value of the same and are not badly inclined to the same to describe it as exploitation. Herder, for example, views the Jews
They are known to be a parasitic people.

2. When the Jews in Austria, Romania and Russia rarely who have received a government office or are completely excluded from it, he says.
Dr. Ernst continues (p. 7), so this withholding of the right However, this is an injustice, because the Jews gave the state their property and blood.
make themselves available in the same way as all other citizens of the country.

This is based on the well-known and continuously practiced for 100 years.
exploited confusion between people, right and Civil rights. Human rights may be protected according to the principles of Reason and the Christian faith are not forbidden even to strangers-defend oneself; it is quite different with civil rights; these Foreigners have no claim, even if they were born in the country.
are. This was the case, and even stricter, with the Jews when they ...still formed a state community. Strangers were even excluded by the Land ownership in Palestine was excluded; at least, they were excluded in this regard.
very limited; their testimony was not valid in court, let alone that They were allowed to become judges or hold other state offices. Even if If someone became a proselyte, he was not considered a full citizen and only after For several generations, the descendants of the same were considered full-Rightful Jews were considered. If a new Jewish state were to be established nowadays... founded and the Shulchan Aruch, the current law book of the Jews, if any non-Jew were considered the determining factor, would be from the state.
Community, at least from the perspective of full citizenship rights in the Jewish state≠ closed. So can the Jews in Romania and Russia... complaining that they cannot access government offices?
But if they are in other states where they have the same civic rights Rights that were constitutionally granted, difficult to obtain for state offices.
Should they succeed, the reason for this is that they...
“Right” against the conviction of the majority of the local population population would be granted and because the modern idea of the “Jews-emancipation”, the achievement of the French Revolution, quite
It is not yet recognized by Christian society. It is considered the Jews, despite having lived among the European peoples for so long and outwardly some customs and traditions of civilized peoples have been accepted, yet as strangers, whose religious and moral Their worldviews on life are completely different from those of Christian peoples.
are those who separate themselves from them and do not resemble them.
can. The Jews are natives of the country, insofar as they are native to the country-are born; but foreign nationals, insofar as they are of a foreign origin

People, belonging to a different race. Since they, as natives, belong to the
To participate in the benefits of the state community, they must probably and bear their burdens. As strangers, they do indeed have a

5

The right to be tolerated and treated humanely; on civil grounds
They actually have no right to such rights, and where they are denied them... misjudging the situation or in the misguided hope of their complete assimilation was granted prematurely, they can, if it is in the best interests of the state and the will of the Majo≠
The public should demand it, based on constitutional principles.
Paths will be taken. That is surely just as logical as...
Correct assumption. That's certainly how one would treat other foreign peoples.
Zeck, if they demand civil rights from us, with Chinese, for example, or with Negroes; why should it be the same with the Jews?

To be different?

3

Therefore, the comparison of Jews with Germans is also and Poles in Russia, the Ruthenians in Poland, the Irish in England (one could also include the Romanians in Hungary), That's out of place. However, this applies to oppressed minorities;
But they stand by their oppressors, their tribe, and their religious beliefs.
Viewed much closer than the Jews to the Christian peoples, among whom they live.

3. A similar one based on ignorance or lack of understanding (or should I (saying based on deliberate deception?) claim, which, however, is considered
It is presented as a matter of course (p. 9): that religion who teaches the Jews the same moral laws as the Christian, indeed, that the Christian religion of the Jewish is taken.

The decalog, the natural moral law, however, belongs to the
According to the wording, the same applies in Christianity as in Judaism; but The interpretation of the same in the Talmud is completely different from that in the Gospel. Surely Dr. Ernst wouldn't deny that.
Interpretation especially of the 5th, 6th and 7th commandments (according to Christian tea Counting) is, from a Jewish perspective, characterized by the eccentric concept of "neighb downright misanthropic and a danger to society. Just read this.
Book by Professor Pranaitis: "Christianity in the Talmud" of the Jews.“") But to whom does this compilation of the anti-Christian
If certain parts of the Talmud do not suit him, he should read the Shulchan.
A ruch, the extract from the Talmud, in Löwe's translation), especially the book "Choschen hamischpat" in this context. Who and then to speak of the same moral code of Jews and Christians Anyone who can, is not legally responsible.

*) Translated by Dr. Joſ. Deckert. Vienna, 1895. Published by the Messenger. of St. Joseph. Weinhaus, 18th district, Commission at H. Kirsch.

) 2nd edition: Vienna, 1896. Published by the Mechitarists' Printing House.

a

4. It is equally unhistorical and incorrect to say that Christianity was taken from the Jewish religion and as a reason given that Christ and the apostles were indeed the Jewish people originated here. The latter is certainly true; but it is also true that that they were most deadly hated and persecuted by the Jews and that Christianity, in the most important questions, to the Talmudic Judaism, at least, stands in complete contrast.

This will again be done in the familiar pocket-game style.
Mosaic Judaism with Talmudic-rabbinic confused. However, the times are over when Christians could be confused by this.
still be deceived.

5. When Dr. Ernst says that “the Jews, even if not better, so certainly no worse people are than others,

So he no longer actually stands on correct Jewish viewpoints.

According to Jewish belief, the Jews are the chosen people.
Therefore, better than others and destined to rule over all. One Look, it is not the Orthodox Talmudic Jew who speaks like this, but the freethinking Reform Jew; although from other passages of his
The writing reveals traditional Jewish pride when he
3. B. looks down on anti-Semites with unspeakable contempt or attributes the claim of Mary Stuart to the Jews: “You can’t tell me
"Treat them badly, but don't make them mean." — The Jew is, of course, Above all meanness!

6. That anti-Semitism in our time, in the time of enlightenment and humanity, where religious fanaticism...

is no longer commonplace, making such huge strides,
This seems to be a psychological enigma to the Jew Ernst. that he can only explain it by the fact that the Jews have so far limited themselves to defense.

Really? Has the Jewish press never acted aggressively?
Have the Blochs and their ilk really only focused on defense?
restricted, too. Even if they dragged their opponents into the courtroom.
and practiced their talent for denunciation in all directions? Is the liberal party, which was led by Jews, the Freemasons' party, whose secret leaders turned out to be Jews, the Social Democrats, whose
Were the leaders, who also seized power from Jews, never aggressive?
The fable of the wolf and the lamb appears to be repeating itself.

But such claims should finally be addressed nowadays
They should be avoided. They border on the ridiculous. No, Judaism has fought hard enough for his position; it is from the liberal party and the Jewish protection force with all possible means hold, from the pro-Jewish press, from parliament, from the
The government has long been protected; it is now in Vienna, and only there.
partially inferior – not because the opponents failed to-grabbed and did not defend himself vigorously, but because it was the u Be had not grown with the anti-Semitic popular movement. It would have been the

*

It would have been more truthful if Dr. Ernst had sincerely agreed with this. would have stood up instead of heaping shame on their opponents.

7. In his eyes, anti-Semites are just "overachievers", "Bigmouths" who insult and mock Jews with impunity allowed, “who only have selfish goals in mind,” Desperado’s, who want to make a career or acquire money; he speaks of “drinking” eager students,” from a “troop” of Catiline existences, from a "clever", insignificant lawyer who has worked his way to the top knew how to swing the movement, who “put himself” in the service of a knew how to "place" the incompetent (!) mentally challenged (11) prince in order to to get money, to shower his gang with alcohol; from a “crude, wild, work-shy Viennese population,” from a “rabble that is ready for any shameful deed!”

He is therefore entirely in the jargon of Bloch, Scharf and Szeps.
fallen into disrepair; the style of his Jewish antagonist Herzl, on the other hand, is To call it truly noble. With such suspicions and insults.
of the Christian people and their leaders, one will probably call the anti-
They would not kill Semitism, but only revive it. That should be the case.
But finally, even a Jew should understand, especially if he is so clever.
like this Dr. Ernst.

However, we are not satisfied with the obvious misrepresentations in the brochure.
Not over yet.

8. "If any degenerate man} dh fine career could do, the Jew continues, “or jeopardize such a thing.”
Having had this, he tried to create a name for himself and earn a living through it, that he attacked the Jews; often it was mere whim and fighting⸗
The desire that drove him to persecute the Jews.

Without being far from the truth, one could say precisely that Claim the opposite: namely, that the open persecution of the Jew⸗ that even today it is a very dangerous thing and that only those who can dare to do so who are in an independent position; that Many thousands do not openly enter the fight simply because they to know the damaging power and the irreconcilable vindictiveness of the Jews, who seek to ruthlessly destroy anyone who disrupts their circles.
Anti-Semites are currently not tolerated in either the state or the church.
promoted; however, there are also degenerate, dishonorable individuals.
Enough of those who are pushed by Jews to make their careers. Whether Certainly not later, when anti-Semitism has become sufficiently strong.
a certain degree of discrimination will also occur on the anti-Semitic side, That's a different question. Now, however, antisemitism has its place.
Confessors still pose dangers.

9. “That the Jews love and hate just as much as the Others” (p. 17) may be granted to the new Shylok; especially the act of "hating". But whether they also love and hate the same thing, Like the others, that is the question. "That they are in the same schools,

"To be raised by the same teachers, in the same way" is unfortunately Also true, and incidentally, pedagogically nonsensical; it only serves to... to corrupt Christian youth or to sharpen the Antisemitism is present. But that the Jews' sense of honor is in

It develops in the same way as that of the Christians; that will continue as long as It cannot be true until the latter also profess the principle:
"Money is my honor!" Regarding her bravery and her
As far as the sense of duty as a soldier is concerned, we want the verdict
This was confidently left to the officers, who, as is well known, have so far been respons Jews are generally not favored.

10. And what is supposed to follow from all this alleged equality?
That the Jews are true Germans, not a foreign people?
And because one supposedly “with the sharpest microscope between the
No difference can be found in the body cells of Jews and Christians.
“can” (p. 22), therefore there is no difference between Jew and Christ
And does this even eliminate racial differences? Because the Jews for such long centuries under the same physical conditions
Living conditions of the country, the climate and the diet (?)
The fact that they live among Christian peoples implies that they also live among the same
Do they have feelings and ways of thinking? Unfortunately, experience teaches us otherwise
On the contrary. If this were truly the case, then there would be no anti-Semitism.
No way. It is simply wrong to say that Christians and Jews under the same spiritual and moral influences≠ have been thrown; unless one would have to – and that is sheer unreason – to equate the Gospel with the Talmud. That only has consequences for the un-- Believers and freethinkers have a meaning; the unbelieving Jew and the However, unbelieving Christians, united in the Freemasons' lodge, are the same moral, or rather, the same immoral
Subject to external influences.

11. That there are finally countries where assimilation is taking place the Jews, with the nations among whom they live
The claim that it plays out smoothly is simply made up. Overall, it is This is not the case anywhere, not in France, not even in Hungary, where the Mongolian Magyars have so much sympathy for the Jews have and they, in order to gain an increase in power in this way, received. The Magyars will sooner become Jews than the Jews to Jews.
Magyars will become Magyars. This can be predicted, without being too sentimental a prophe to see, based on the experience of history.

12. But the final tirade sounds almost blasphemous: The Jews have the imperishable merit of emerging from their midst
They have given the world the Redeemer! – Yes, they have given him!
Crucify them: that is their justification! And an "imperishable" justification.
That's what the Jew calls it! Instead of a terrible sacrilege, for which That unfortunate people has been atoneing for 1800 years!

a Ce

And now, according to Dr. Ernst, the Jews are supposed to take the initiative-to take action, in accordance with the teachings of Christ, to eradicate hatred from the v create; yes, they will become the saviors of mankind for the second time.

To be alive! That is a truly horrifying thought for a Christian.
The Jews first redeemed humanity by bringing Christ.
crucified them. They were not satisfied with this first redemption: they They want to redeem humanity a second time — how? — We will hear it soon.

These are therefore the most blatant untruths perpetrated against the Christian
What catches the eye of readers when reading this Jewish pamphlet must; untruths that are blatant, that have been refuted a thousand times, and by Jews and Jewish comrades, yet again and again with fresh They are cheerfully dismantled as infallible truths. That are stereotypical phrases among Semites and philosemites, and only a few Jews, like Dr. Theodor Herzl, distanced themselves from these prejudices.
At least it's been cleared somewhat.

Now let's hear what these people still have in so many prejudices.
biased Jew, Dr. Ludwig Ernst, against the “Jewish state” to his fellow believer and tribal comrade Dr. Theodor Herzl—has turned.

II.

He's not really sure whether he's on board with the plan.
Whether Herzel's smile was a crush or whether he was simply smiling about the whole thing
He should be annoyed. He acknowledges his opponent as a noble character.
a peaceful nature, all too peaceful and all too sensitive, a
A man deeply offended by anti-Semitism and concerned about it⸗ fills and because he believes the anti-Semitic movement is not at all To stifle and stop more, he thought of emigration.
all Jews and the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine or in Syria or in Argentina or anywhere. The Jews should to establish a new home there and a self-reliant, sovereign form a state. He was therefore convinced that the various governments, which Jews are now fortunate enough to own, and will help to do so, to provide such a land for the Jews who wished to emigrate, and that the Jews themselves will readily decide to oppose their own-to improve their current residences and move to a new home!
He is even already drafting the statutes of the Jewish joint-stock company, which is supposed to bring about emigration and settlement; itself the form of government and other state institutions of the future Jewish state is being identified!

Dr. Ernst calls this plan, and not entirely without justification, a Adventure, which one would only discuss if not from Dr. Herzl—who would have gone on to make a name for himself in journalism knew, and if not the Reclam drum for him from a certain side Had the situation been so disturbed, the matter would have simply been resolved. Dr. Herzl, on the other hand, complains that he is being targeted precisely by the most ir No support for money-grubbing Jews or in Jewish-liberal journalism. I think. Which of the two might be right?

Herzl's plan offers neither comfort nor encouragement to the Jews, says Dr. Ernst, but rather defeat and disenchantment. Courage.

May he, in certain circles of Jews; the Zionists there≈ against cheering and rejoicing in the imminent deliverance. Herzl himself has his most confident hopes; he has already spoken to the Sultan. and found him inclined towards his plans. Yes, he claims, if the Journals report that the Jews have spread across the entire earth. no better, more loyal, more reliable friend than His Majesty the Sultan! Isn't that actually an insult to others? Crowned heads? Nevertheless, Dr. Ernst believes it is the worst. The advice that could be given to the Jews to emigrate means, to be cowardly and throw in the towel in the face of danger.

There is a valid point behind this accusation. So far Jews in all countries have proven themselves to be the best patriots. placed there, her fatherland with every fiber of her heart, to love ardently; they have their most loyal attachment to the princes. various countries often and solemnly emphasized, not just their hot Prayers for the well-being of the monarchs were sent to heaven; they rested. not even until one or the other has visited their own synagogues appeared and, amid the jubilation of Israel's finely anointed head, was placed beneath the He bowed to the rabbi's blessing hands. So much, so effusively. much patriotism – and now they are supposed to simply abandon this beloved Turning their backs on their fatherlands and founding a new one? Is it so easy to give up a beloved homeland? Especially when you... as Dr. Ernst believes, helped to establish the soil of this homeland with his blood, not with ordinary blood, but with mare≈ Martyr's blood; doubly precious, since it is Jewish martyr's blood. If the Jews so easily leave the countries they previously considered their “father–countries”; what should a reasonable person make of their Should we maintain our previous, so often proclaimed, fervent patriotism? Would that be pc Then the anti-Semites are wrong when they criticize this Jewish patriotism. as a charade, as mere hypocrisy? If the Herzl's plan so quickly and in such wide Jewish circles was met with enthusiasm Having found agreement, isn't that even for some philosophers a sure proof "that in the eyes of these Jews at least their–her “heriges” fatherland was only a “provisional” one and that they despite their contrary assurance in the innermost depths of their hearts, nevertheless only feel like strangers among the Christian peoples; that therefore ts 99 are right to regard them as such and to be–

trade? |

The clever Jew E. thinks of this; he therefore wants to tell the Jew⸗ Founder Herzl was almost considered the most dangerous enemy of his country.
Fellow believers would support him, if he were not convinced that that his advice was given with the best intentions. Yes, the ab-
The view is good, yet the success is a bad one; for cowardice and Fear lies behind it; courage means seriousness is the only thing that has happened so far Friend and foe alike have acknowledged the Jews without contradiction!
Without contradiction? I must disagree. Even the old ones
According to the testimony of the Holy Scriptures, Israelites were often... banished by shameful cowardice; one thinks of the lamenting cries of the Israelites, when they encountered Pharaoh's army during their exodus from Egypt looked behind them; at the cowardice of the people under the leadership Joshua and at the time of the Judges, when they feared their enemies often led a troglodyte life and endured other miserable conditions.
bordering on the ridiculous. However, they also showed courage at times.
shown. The courage of despair, which even the persecuted Hirsch proves, and the courage of fanaticism – but otherwise the Courage, however, is not that quality which is unanimously attributed to the Jews and granted without any contradiction; I would like to say that with all due respect to the personal bravery of Dr. Louis Ernst, but only one Call it a phrase. I, at least, can imagine a courageous Polish one.
or Russian Jewish merchants not easily imagined.

The courageous doctor is not afraid of anti-Semitism;
He almost wants to talk about this feeling of fear, which is also felt by some Jews show laughter – almost; not quite; so merely “smiling”.

The Jews, he says, should actually be used to persecution.
Haven't they been persecuted since time immemorial? For 2000 years? But with
With every persecution, their intelligence and strength grow. What lies So, what about that? They should be persecuted, vilified, and ridiculed. Therefore...
They don't need to turn their backs on their "fatherland".
If they've managed to endure it for so long, it will probably continue in the future.
It's still possible. Of those few "Viennese braggarts," we don't need to mention the Jews to be afraid; the Jews have outlived quite different heroes, they These Catone will also survive.

There is a spark of truth in these courageous words.
Jews, even Dr. Herzl admits, are far too refined these days– have become sensitive and delicate; at least those who are too
They have come with money and prestige. They believe that their moneybag will pay the pric Everyone must bow down, like the Swiss once before the hat

Gessler's and someone's compliment to them is not deep enough, They feel their dignity has been violated; but if they are allowed to do so... If they feel that they are merely strangers, they cry out in protest. They have lost the position they previously held in society. They forget all too quickly and already consider themselves masters. This A sense of power is understandable; but sensitivity about alleged age

Violating their honor and rights is not entirely appropriate; they They should finally realize that the equality they were granted by modern state, based on the revolutionary ideas of 1791 admitted that it still contradicts the spirit of the people and that despite empty phrases about liberty, equality and fraternity, But every Aryan is inwardly anti-Semitic. actual equality of Jews, however, through state prosecutors and jury trials cannot be held as long as the people still has a spark of Christianity and self-respect in his heart.

That is why the advice that the courageous Dr. Ernst gave to the Jews is There is, not too sensitive, too delicate, very reasonable. The Jews should He believes they should continue fighting for their denied rights. to further profess their patriotism (as sincerely as before?); But they mustn't abandon their "fatherland," even if it's only temporary. For many Jews. One must fight for one's fatherland, even to To know how to die! – Dulce est pro patria mori. Whether the brave Ernst there Does he preach to deaf ears? And does he really wish death upon himself? longing for his “fatherland”?

Incidentally, he considers Herzl's entire state foundation to be flawed, with everything t everything that goes with it, the acquisition of the land, the construction large cities, all the planned cultural institutions, schools, Railways ꝛc. for a fantasy with which one cannot even imagine need to keep busy.

However, in doing so he does his fellow believer and tribesman a disservice. Herzl was wrong. Even if the execution of a fine plan is difficult-keiten s�ößen s�ölte – (Herzl verheht sich dieseʿich ja seʿt selbst) – It is not entirely outside the realm of possibility. The origin The creation of the new Jewish state shouldn't happen so quickly. to go, although with the modern aids that the Jews have to The proposals are quite promising for an "American" state formation. eyes can have and a relatively short period of time for that would be sufficient.

Nevertheless, Dr. Ernst expressed a good idea with that.

when he says, “a state must develop organically and "Cannot be artificially created." – One believes that To hear a Christian-social statesman speak. Certainly, sir. Seriously, that's how it is. The state must develop organically; it is a type of natural organism. – But that's a sentence that goes beyond… Our modern states are being condemned; for these They were artificially created, under foreign, alien, indeed, un-national conditions. hostile influences. Moreover, in this artificial organism, so miserably, it is ordered with him, and moreover, a part that is devoted to the who does not want to integrate the others organically under any circumstances. Understand. You, what do I mean? I mean, the incomparable Judaism. It is a happy thought that you have expressed here, that you of course, only read somewhere, but you don't understand its implications. They likely existed. Such artificial state formations have no long duration and certainly contribute nothing to the well-being of the people. If the people fail to overcome this artificial and inorganic element, to separate from its midst or to render it harmless in some way, like the bees in the beehive, which are fed by a honey≠ If a lustful mouse is tormented, it will perish.

1

N organism, that was the right word. But Dr. Ernst feels It also emerged that the organization of the newly founded Jewish state It will be difficult, but not ideal. A conglomerate of people would arrive. together, he says, belonging to the different nations – (that (Not so, because the Jews only constitute "one" nation) – but probably “speaking different languages”, different customs and Habits adopted and also the basic idea of the “out-except for the election, which includes different religious views; Consider the Polish Hasidim, alongside our giggling Jewish ones. Neologs, to the proud Spanish Jews, next to the Russian kaftan; the Algerian and Oriental Jews accustomed to polygamy and ours, who are as strict about monogamy as they are about monotheism Viennese Jews 2c. To create an organism from these colorful materials That will be difficult, however, even if the richest financial resources are available. Available. I myself addressed this difficulty in "Jews out". pointed out; nevertheless, entirely outside the realm of possibility stands The matter is not settled, provided that Jehovah gives the Jews a new one. Mo ses sends, who puts the new plan into action. Dr. Herzl mt selfless enough not to impose himself as such. Incidentally, is he? No, that's someone else.

Dr. Ernst's actions against Dr. Herzl's plan are of no further use to him. before; and yet there would actually be much against it from the Jewish perspective-points to object to, especially from the standpoint of an orthodox Jews, and there are still many of them; yes, I

I hardly believe that one-tenth of the eight million Jews are freethinkers. Neologs are (Reform Jews or Epicorsi, as they are called in the Talmud) (They are called [names]). However, the Orthodox have not yet been mentioned. They have come; they too have the right to comment on this plan. Whether Whether they will agree with it is the question. I doubt it.

But the most interesting thing about Ernst's brochure is not his Refutation of the “Jewish state”, but rather the exposition of his own Plans, how in his opinion Judaism could be saved and the Anti-Semitism could be eradicated.

III.

The origins of antisemitism, which he also believes he can derive a universally valid “Vienna paradigm”

He asked

and which he simply attributes to stupidity, malice, and selfishness That explanation is probably just as naive as the explanation of anti-Semitism, which we received from the modern geologist Süß; the latter finds the sufficient origin of antisemitism in the Crooked noses and bow legs of the otherwise so favored race of Jews. The flattering words with which Dr. Louis Ernst the Viennese anti- We have already learned about the fact that he is a member of the Semites; but he also kno to give the most certain reason why the anti-Semitic The movement in Vienna has taken on such enormous dimensions and for Israel has become so dangerous. The Jews have brought their own fate upon themselves. "Indebted," he says, "because they always only focused on the..." Their defense was limited; they only defended themselves, never sought revenge. practiced. Her weakness is her misfortune. "The blow is the best." Parade.” This beautiful word, so very much to the brave Jew appropriate, has the author of the brochure under discussion, so good I was pleased that he chose it as the motto for the entire booklet.

"The best parry is a good one!" – Against malice there is no other defense than: striking.

Would an anti-Semite dare to utter such a bold word; would one 3. B. only hunt metaphorically: “Jews and Thristes can only hunt like To be hammer and anvil; we Christians have long been the anvil. "had been:" so the public prosecutor would without further ado his strict to perform official duties and apply Section 302 of our penal code to bring. The daredevil would either be brought before a jury. citers or confiscates his writings; for he had apparently acted against the “an old and venerable Jewish religious community” actually to Hostilities were provoked, thus disturbing public peace and order! But a Jew, especially if he is a real doctor, can un– to punish and urge people to beat the anti-Semites; beating is The best parade! – What does that matter? – 8' is just a picture of the Fencing ground. And are the anti-Semites also an old, venerable group?

Religious communities? Are they perhaps even under the protection of the Laws? Those disgraceful things of the 19th century? So far, then, they should
That the Jews merely limited themselves to a defensive stance. How true that is.
We have already indicated that this is the case. If the previous attacks on Anti-Semitism should not be considered merely a defensive tactic, as

What will the offensive of the future look like?

The Jews have shown weakness so far, now they will show weakness.
show their full strength. And they can do that, says Dr. Ernst.
If they only want to. For they are numerous—truly, in Vienna.
They alone number 120,000, more than in all of France with all its overseas possessions –; they are widespread – again
True, throughout the world, wherever business is to be done, in all
They are promoted to positions, all the way up to high offices and positions of power;
Some classes, like the lawyers' and doctors' guilds, are entirely Jewish.
contaminated; they are intelligent – clever, shrewd, admittedly; – they

They are industrious; we must also grant them this quality.
They undoubtedly surpass the German national character in this respect; their acquisitiver
It is extraordinarily developed, as most peoples experience, under in whose homes they live, to their detriment; they possess property, – true again – and indeed more wealth than for the common good.
It is beneficial, and the origin of this wealth is often very doubtful.
Art, but they possess wealth, indeed they control, to put it better, Capital. That's what the Jew tells us with proud self-confidence.
So, if they want, they can be so strong that no power
The world can harm them. That is a big one.
The word, and Dr. Ernst, speaks it calmly, seriously, and solemnly. Is But is it true? It is true insofar as the financial power of the Jews has indeed become oversized, and because our modern world is ruled by money; and yet this looming Jewish rule, who this time brought us a genuine Jew and not one obsessed with monomania an infected anti-Semite keeps in mind two major conditions linked: to the complete unity of the Jews and to the ongoing disunity among those threatened with harsh slavery Christians. Assuming the latter, the dawn of the new Jewish Messianic richness is inevitable – it will, of course, be under the powerful
The blows of social democracy will soon collapse, and the Jewish Leaders at the top of the Social Democrats will bear the brunt of the blows from They can hardly stop the stock market kings in the long run. If that⸗ against the anti-Semitic movement continues and is spreading in ever wider circles.
urges, when the so openly announced danger finally reaches all Christian If people's eyes were opened, then the great financial power would also be affected.
to subdue the Jews; the Viennese movement has shown that.
The Jewish-dominated liberal party certainly didn't lack money.

Nevertheless, it is the enthusiasm of the united Christian people. inferior.

This latter eventuality of the growth of anti–Semitic sentiment Ernst disregards movement; he probably considers it to be impossible; for him, anti–Semitism is only a temporary–Appearance; a mental illness that cannot last long. In contrast He sharply criticizes the strict organization of Judaism. into the eye and hopes not only for the salvation of his tribe⸗ enjoyed, but also the destruction of the “odious” anti–Semitic movement.

Despite the fine motto, he maintains that "a blow is the best parade." against the interpretation that he intended to use material force⸗ advise using means – oh no, the whole struggle should be based on “purely spiritual” means Territory to be fought over – money isn't one of the material things. Means. – One would therefore think that the Jewish moneylenders in this intellectual battle they would be entirely superfluous – however, they are Not quite. Dr. Ernst initially conceives of this intellectual battle as... effective defense of the rights which the Jews must strive persistently. That sounds somewhat unclear. One Otherwise, defend things you have, not something you might only acquire later. must strive. But perhaps a goy's intelligence is too low to to truly grasp the profound meaning of these dark words.

The effective defense of Jewish rights is therefore the first The task of the newly sought–after Jewish association. There was indeed There have already been such Jewish associations that pursued this goal; one thinks of the Alliance Israelite, the Bnai Berith the many Freemason lodges which were under the influence of the Judaism's "work" on the temple of mankind – but all This work was still not sufficiently “effective” – the rights of the Jews They must be defended more effectively.

Then every slander against Judaism must also be punished, from whichever side it may come – and as is well known, every attack is at the same time a frivolous slander against Judaism directed at a Jew, a raid against the honor of the flawless and improper chosen one The people – to be rejected, and indeed united, i.e., in the name of of the entire Jewish people through special, designated bodies. These must immediately bring the brazen robber of Jewish honor before the judge's seat. to tow and expose his “ruthless endeavor.” Some exemplary Chastisements of such black anti–Semitic fellows will silence all tongues, Those who want to rise up against Israel will be silenced. That is how it will be The Jews have an "enlightening and morally refining" effect on both their own fellow believers, because they are enlightened enough anyway.

and none lack high moral nobility, but especially in the unenlightened and morally depraved non-Jews. Thus, the Misunderstandings between Jews and non-Jews from the outset
The ground will be taken away, and the word will come true:
As far as Israel dwells, “not a dog will bark” – eternal peace will prevail.
rule. Believe it or not, especially if the courts are set up accordingly.
are, provision is made for Jewish judges and jurors – and the Gojim should just let all of this happen to them.

Otherwise, this plan could prove to be an even worse utopia.
as the Herzlian Jewish state.

That would therefore be the goal of the "new Jewish Alliance", which to be founded: joint defense against slander” and effective defense of “Jewish rights” – allegedly through “Intellectual” weapons; they are stronger, says Ernst, than the “material” ones.
"Equipment" which the Jews fully possess, and he hopes that the Jews through the use of these “spiritual” weapons, including judicial ones Condemnation and imprisonment of all who have received the blessings of the not wanting to know anything about Judaism, not only its rights and its defend social equality, but even respect conquer all fellow citizens regardless of their religious affiliation and will be preserved.

1

Indeed, this is a magnificent conquest, which It was devised from the Jewish side. The Jews want respect for their fellow– to conquer citizens; therein lies, first and foremost, the admission that they possess the Attention: Do not yet possess it, otherwise you would not need to have it in the first pla conquer. And no conquest without violence; will they achieve this?
Can respect be enforced? Is that even possible in these matters?
A compulsion? And if they are subject to this intellectual conquest... to truly bring home the respect of their fellow citizens as spoils of war, How will they secure this loot? Doesn't the whole thing sound rather suspicious?
Something adventurous?

IV.

Dr. Herzl wants to achieve his plan with two companions– to form groups; one to propagate his idea, another for the execution of the same; the latter shall be a joint-stock company. and work with many millions. He gives out keywords: "on to Palestine!” and “seven-hour workday!”

Dr. Ernst also works in keywords. His keywords:
The words are: “Association and Organisation of Judaism.”

The first slogan was “Association of all Jews of "The whole world!" seems to be facing an obstacle: it is the Jo Hart allegedly developed local patriotism among the Jews, their example Unbridled enthusiasm for their various homelands. How can such a ardent patriotism exists within an international association
All Jews into a world federation? Doesn't that mean prioritizing national interests?
betrayed? Don't the Jews belong "body and soul" to the German people, if they live under the same, the Russian in Russia, the Magyar in Hungary? Can it besides the "religion-confessions” another material interest with Jews other Connecting countries?

However, this is quite a dilemma for Mr. Ernst, because He previously claimed that the Jews do not constitute a separate nation, but rather merge into the individual nations among which they live, Except for their dear religion. And now he is supposed to be different.
To represent the religious interests of Jews in various countries;
Furthermore, the Jews are not united in their faith, and he cannot bring about any unity in faith; nevertheless, he wants Unite all Jews of the world!

But all this is only a minor obstacle for Ernst; his Tribal members and fellow believers therefore do not need to frighten them. Ernst knows how to comfort them soothingly, by referring to a great, exemplary role model that the great, international

Workers' association, social democracy, offers the world.
The workers from different countries have joined forces with each other.
to protect their interests; although they are poor devils, they are already
It has become a power that must be reckoned with. Has its patriotism Did they suffer from it? Not in the slightest! Aren't the Germans raving about it?
Social Democrats nevertheless for the German fatherland and the French for the French Republic? Do they know even the slightest thing about it?
a “general workers’ republic”, which they envision as a future state= strive? If even these poor little things, through their international Associations have become so powerful without losing their patriotism
To lose even the slightest thing, what power will the rich have?
Jews will benefit if it is internationally organized! The individual Jews therefore do not need to stop looking into their respective fathers. to rhapsodize patriotically about countries, as before. On the contrary, they can be achieved without harm to Judaism, the more intimately they are connected to one

World League united, their local patriotism, if it still exists
It would be possible to increase it even further from the ears of the stupid goyim.

While some governments have taken action against anti-Semitism proved weak in their opposition; they let the anti-Semites have their way and They watched passively. Not everyone developed the energy of a Tisza.
Weckerle and Banffy; but, once the new union of
If the situation involving Jews of the whole world has come about, it will be different.
will be. What great vitality, by the way, Judaism possesses!
Even if it is so inherent, one can still see seriousness in the fact that in Austria for more than 18 years, in churches and inns, in the press and in meetings in an unprecedented manner against the Jews
There is a lot of hate speech. Even in parliament, fiery speeches are being made.
And yet all this cannot harm the Jews; they stand un-They broke down there. They are somewhat offended, their honor wounded, in
They are damaged, but they still stand unbroken! – Why?
Then, one might ask, is such lamenting about anti-Semitic Persecutions? Incidentally, the attacks by anti-Semites against the
It may be true that Jews are "outrageous"; for the Jews have... never expected it. But those who witnessed the attacks of the Jewish press and some parliamentary speakers referred to the Catholic Church at the time of Anyone who thinks back to Giskra's Jewish-liberal rule, for example, will probably come to to suggest that these attacks are probably unprecedented and much more less justified than the attacks by anti-Semites on the Jews.

We encounter a curious word in these explanations. of Dr. Ernst (p. 17 bottom): Would such provocations (like against the Jews) against the "most powerful" person ever to have happened, the same would have been dealt with long ago.

Who does the Jew here understand to be among the most powerful; true?

Probably the most powerful person in the state: that would likely be the emperor.
Jews are therefore more powerful than the most powerful! For he would be such

They were defeated by attacks; the Jews were not. This sounds like a fayt.
Threat; but we would prefer to pay for it, as is well known.
writing about the highly developed self-esteem of the Jews, who are above everything to believe they "stand out," even above the most powerful; their sincere Patriotism without a trace!

V.

We now come to the most important part of the short text, the SH of the organization of the envisioned new Jewish Alliance acts

This Jewish World Federation forms a single main association, no further details about its location have been released; it will probably be It would be Rome, for reasons that should become clear later.

However, each country forms its own special association, whose Its purpose is to have an "enlightening and refining" effect on the masses. and to spread propaganda for "freedom of conscience". Therefore Its name will also be "Association for Enlightenment and Conscience". It's called "freedom". That's very Masonic style; whoever speaks of freedom... Anyone with even the faintest understanding of masonry will admit this. Even In the lodges, phrases of enlightenment and freedom of conscience are being bandied about. The improvement of humanity only in this way. But what does that mean? As is probably already common knowledge, "Enlightenment" means "enlightenment". The denial of positive revelation; “freedom of conscience” Is the justification of disbelief linked to fanatical persecution? of faith; “ennoblement of mankind” is probably the same as Emancipation of the flesh, that is, the animalization of man. Dr. Ernst He explicitly states: "The thought of Freemasonry is compelling." here of their own accord; the Freemasons have the same "Tendencies." He just means that the Freemasons have indeed had some influence in the Much "good" has been done in the past — (especially emancipation) the Jews, the various revolutions, the deposition of so many Princes, civil marriage, the non-denominational school, the cultural struggle (etc.) — have also prevented many "evil" things — (3. e.g. the activity the Catholic Church, the religious orders, the Christian society≈ Order, domestic discipline and good manners) — nevertheless, the reform Jews also found this activity of Freemasonry insufficient. They... It no longer serves its purpose nowadays. He therefore wants to reform it. He presents himself as a reformer of Freemasonry! — The biggest mistake He sees Freemasonry in its secrecy; it was in his eyes were in the place in the “dark times of the Middle Ages”, where every enlightened man is condemned as a heretic and burned at the stake was burned; but today, in our age of enlightenment, this Secrecy is unnecessary, indeed actually detrimental; the Freemasons They should now have fun and openly announce their teachings.

r

Bravo! Agreed; because an open opponent is always better. and Honorable as a hidden one, anonymous and from the rear— This criticism of the Freemasons is too apt, if it Even Doctor Ernst's peculiar knowledge of history shows that He placed Freemasonry in the "dark ages". Free≈ Masonic historical sources cite the origin of this secret association.

to the year 1717; back then the “dark ages” were pretty much over.
long gone; the dark men therefore needed for the sake of fear⸗ Heresy courts did not shroud themselves in secrecy. The reason Was it someone else? Or is Dr. Ernst perhaps trying to tell us something?
In all seriousness, the old Jewish fable, even one told by Freemasons.
to claim that Freemasonry originated from the Knights Templar, or from Solomon's Temple or from the construction of the Ark of Nos, or Even from the construction of the world? That would be far too childish to—
To still try to pull the wool over the eyes of people in this enlightened world today.

However, he is absolutely right about that: in the modern state Actually, the "enlightened" man has nothing to fear. This "up"
"Clarification" is expressed in thousands and thousands of voices around the world every c praised, from the lectern with a learned expression by the state, or rather from the tax guilder of the “to be enlightened” people plenty dated professors announced and by this very state to all possibly promoted. There are indeed people who see this light of modern Enlightenment, which is based on the denial of God, of freedom and aims at the immortality of the human soul, which defines man as a descendant of the monkey explains the difference between good and It abolishes evil and glorifies evil, calling it an Egyptian darkness.
a dumbing down and animalization of mankind — but the freedom-Bricklayers once called this "enlightenment," and that's what it remains.
However, the modern state also has every reason to prevent the spread of this.
to eagerly promote new light and to support its disseminators with the to honor the tax money of the still unenlightened people; for it This apparently contributes to consolidating the throne and ensuring the well-being of the to promote the people! — That's it. — So why further the—Secrecy? Especially here in Austria, where secret societies...
...are still legally prohibited and one has not yet decided to What heights of civilization has flourished in Hungary? There are the Freemason lodges, who are so ardently enthusiastic about throne and altar, from The government formally recognized both the blue and the red parties. That has
He has now apparently contributed an immense amount to the well-being of the country.
The dynasty was thereby greatly strengthened, and if not faith, then However, the "Enlightenment" was promoted in an unexpected way, so that Hungary now, in the days of the millennium, without contradiction at the forefront of the Civilization is progressing! | |

So no more secrets; the investigation must be open and
It can be operated freely! If the Freemasons decide to do so — good!
If not, if they risk everything on their untimely secret⸗

ed frame, especially at the high grades, which, however, like the Ge—Class sources of Freemasonry teach that one is brought into the cradle by Jews.
was laid down, to be established, — yes, the Jews would have to establish a new free-to establish a Masonic organization based on ancient, but without secrets.

I believe the Jew Dr. Ernst could imagine this threat and all the trouble of creating a new organization of this kind; for he will know that Freemasonry has long been under the influence of the Jews; that the Jews are almost in all Lodges played the dominant role, for example in Austria-Hungary almost */, all Freemasons Jews find; that the Jews also a A completely kosher Freemason fraternity in B'nai Berith possess, according to de la Rive, 500,000 men strong with an annual An income of 18 million francs; he probably won't either.
It may be unknown that most of the higher ranks are held by Jews.
are and that the main leader of the entire dark society, who in Rome at the Palazzo Borghese, the Jewish renegade Adrian Lemmi is, who has another Jew at his side, E. Nathan,
Has. Isn't that enough for him? Even the so-called secrets. of the Freemasons' Order have already been revealed; the .. brothers are joining already their shyness in public and in the public eye of their Its effectiveness is not lacking even in countries where Freemasonry is practiced.
which is legally forbidden, and not under the protection of princely go-gos
It stands. Apron, hammer and trowel, knight's cloak and the like, all velvet.
He should be giving these “men of children” the high-sounding titles-Don't begrudge them their "room"; these childish antics are pretty much harmless, if there wasn't something else that made them dangerous — and that This is precisely the "enlightenment" in the sense of Freemasonry, and the gedangerous plans lurking beneath the surface.

But since the Freemasons were concerned about the beautiful eyes of Dr. Ernst will hardly let go of their secrets, and such a Jew Since he can be so stubborn, there will be no other option but to that the Jews added a new one to the old Freemason lodges Founding a Freemason association: the "Association for Enlightenment and Freedom of conscience.” — It will be a new foundation, approximately like the “progressive party” as opposed to the outdated “liberal party.”

In the new association, which, as mentioned, is structured according to countries and are to be organized, according to Dr. Ernst's plan, two each will be Groups were formed: The first should be the instructing group, the second...
the fighting one.

The task of the former would be to disseminate information through journals and lectures.
and connections with humanitarian organizations on a large scale of the
to have an "enlightening and ennobling" effect on the people. — That is apparently Nothing new; this is already happening through the Jewish press ingenerously; monthly journals and reviews also contribute to this;

Popular lectures are diligently given, which are extraordinarily “on– clarifying” and having a particularly “refining” effect; this can already be seen at any t half perceive; humanitarian associations that operate within Freemasonry
The senses are at work and are guided by Freemasons; there are many of them.
and abundance, even in anti-Semitic Vienna; I mention only so as not to to be accused of ignorance, the association: Humanitas, the in connection with the Humaritas Lodge in Neudörfel; the non– political association Eintracht an der Donau, in connection with the Eintracht in Neudörfel; the social clubs – “Einigkeit” – “Freund⸗
"Schaff" – "Circle of Friends" – "Education" ꝛc. those with the corresponding Lodges in Pressburg are connected and in the Masonic sense to work extremely "commendably". This "instructive, enlightening and "Refining" activity would of course have to, if it were to meet the wishes of the Jews should correspond to Ernst to some extent, significantly increased and be enlarged; and also affect the anti-Semitic “contaminated” Masses of people stretch out. Probably, this “ver–” may be accompanied by “Ennobling” club activities, besides Jews, also, as before, Jewish-be allowed to enjoy it. Or am I mistaken? Should this be...
Must be taught completely kosher? – The second group is the fighting; this is probably the main issue; they should namely, through them those individuals or associations are fought, who oppose the freedom of conscience (i.e., against the Judaism) sin through words, writings, or actions.
Thoughts – are still duty-free for the time being. But if any “Individual”, e.g., a priest or an anti-Semitic chieftain, would dare to do so. should speak out against the modern Enlightenment, if he e.g., speaking of reversing the emancipation of the Jews or of the errors of the chosen people, if he has any dogma
Anyone who would deny or even question the "Enlightenment"—woe betide them!
Twice woe!! If he should dare to put such thoughts down– to attribute to him; but woe betide him thrice!!! if he were to think of turning against t Freedom of conscience in actions to transgress, and even if he saw only If someone without any vices looks at you askance, then they must be fought! More more, of course, if a "cooperative" should dare to oppose the freedom of conscience to sin, e.g. the Catholic Church.
However, the fighters of this new club are initially Jews.
"Considered," Dr. Ernst explicitly states, "because they are..."
yes, those mostly drawn into the plight of sympathy, in order to defend themselves
It is almost exclusively about that; but in gp one will:
Inhabitant of goodness, also other confessions for participation in to allow this fight, Christians and Muslims, even Hindus;
However, the club makes sworn promises, for example, if a Christ is oppressed in the Orient, or a Muslim or a Hindu at any point in the wide world, that he might with all his might for he will enter into, as is well known the Jewish press in its who has already acted so generously out of pure love for humanity.

See Me

The headquarters of the state association would naturally be the capital city;

There are branch lodges or branch associations in all cities of the country. thought.

VI.

The policy of conflict now consists of:

If in any country there is a confession, understand: the Jewish one, or if an individual is attacked because of their confession (!), yeah, that makes The local branch should immediately inform the state association; the latter should then s a suitable person at the scene of the offense, who will first mediate; if this is unsuccessful, the government's protection will be... one calls out; if that is unsuccessful, one falls down before the steps. of the throne. — But, my God, that's nothing new; that That's how the Jews have always done it. Did that change anything? Has the triumph of anti-Semitism been halted?

However, Ernst quite seriously believes that any movement would be impossible. against free conscience in its infancy. One could quite well say the It is of the opinion that this process affects every free movement of the body. knowledge would be stifled, and that this would be even worse than the ancient heretical courts that arouse such great horror in the Jew — only with opposing effects.

The agitators from the people and the fanatics from the clergy Stands (and these are probably the ones he mainly has in mind) would be based on This way can be successfully fought, because against these villains The new Jewish association will proceed very energetically. So far (and (Now Mr. Ernst will become tragic), so far individuals in Vienna have lower clergy made a pact with the tavern heroes and incited hatred against the Jews. The upper church authorities They remained silent about it, not because they condoned these "wicked" excesses. who approved the so-called Hebcaplans; oh no, on the other hand, they take the Jude eagerly defends. They have only been bad about secondary events so far. The new Jewish association will inform you better and One can therefore certainly rely on the cooperation of the religious authorities for Suppression of these wicked hate-mongering plotters is expected!

"And now he's stroking the beard of the church authorities (figuratively)" (spoken), and begins in the manner of the Viennese Jewish press the garlic⸗ to swing the fragrant censer. He knows that at the highest A man of the highest nobility sits at a certain level of the church hierarchy. of the heart and love of justice is granted on all sides, and thereby Is he really that clever? He will probably remember that in earlier times... Times when the popes were protectors of the Jews. In the Catholic Church, which owes its origin to the Jews, was

IR u

Always tolerant of Jews. Why not now too? If so this Freemasonic Jewish association at the papal see with
When better information is obtained, it will be decided by the highest ecclesiastical auth
Finally, put a stop to the ugly activities of these hate-mongers.
It will be offered. Israel will be able to feel safe.

I suppose I may indulge in the modest hope that These Jewish wishes will not be fulfilled; not merely, because a similar step, which was taken last year by high church⸗
Despite all efforts, the efforts of both the political and state authorities in Rome were The pressures remained ineffective, but because these hopes were dashed from the front⸗ built on sand. Apart from the nonsense that is in The words state that the Catholic Church owes its origin to the Jews
I owe it to him, whom I had already touched upon earlier (the Catholic Church had from
From the beginning, although it was initially formed from Jewish Christians, no greater enemy than Talmudic Judaism and may still be today—to light without going astray, modern Freemasonic Judaism as (to look upon his most vicious enemy) — the Catholic Church has the Jews, however, were always tolerated and their human rights were protected against discrim
She has always protected her power; she would do so today too, if it would be necessary; but she also spoke out against the equality of Jews have always protested against the Christians; against emancipation She wants to know nothing about Jews in the modern sense of the word. And all flattery or threats against the Roman See will
This situation cannot be changed.

But it sounds like a pointless threat when the Jew says seriously, a church leader who would take pleasure in the crude incitement... or who...
To deliberately allow it would dishonor his high office; a folder
Inhuman beings reveling in excess and extravagance...
He would have to attribute it to himself if the persecuted granted him their great power, which they had indisputably gained through their organization, made them feel it. Followed by three dashes — — —.

That means selling the bear's skin before you can even see it.
killed and put the dagger to the Pope's breast, as a a subhuman who revels in excess and extravagance and dares to to resist the great power of the Jews!

Incidentally, what threatens the Jew Ernst, that the Jew-ized
The Freemasons have already partially carried out the deposition.
the Pope's close confinement in the Vatican, the horrors of the Italian Government against the Catholic Church, its precarious situation in this

States like France and Hungary probably initially granted freedom⸗
The bricklayers are indebted and they openly boast of these deeds.
They have established their headquarters opposite the Vatican in order to...
The Pope and the Catholic Church, in which they see the main obstacle to
To see the achievement of their infernal plans, better and more sustainably to be able to fight. This threat by the Jew Ernst is therefore very ver-understandable, although only readable between the lines; but it will be based on the Roman chair hardly made a lasting impression; they

EGG

This only exposes the plans of the Jews and their affiliates even more.

All national clubs should be part of an international main team.
Associations are subject to the authority of delegates from all countries.
uniting (of course, Jews) is formed and for all major actions the World Jewish Federation issues the password. The headquarters of the
The club isn't named, but it will probably be Roma.
to be; the main enemy is there; although already somewhat cornered:
Yet still to be feared. – But, is such a main club really... of the World Jewish Federation? Certainly, because apart from the directive, which must be based on the same principle for all branch associations,
It might become necessary for the main association to take over the activity
I strongly support individual state associations. – It
It could happen, for example, that certain governments would give a slap on the wrist to t Judaism lacks the necessary energy to confront the anti-Semites.
develop. Let's assume a hate-mongering chaplain is preaching in church.
and joins forces with the tavern heroes against the poor persecuted Jews; the government is now giving in to the pressure.
of the state association and brings the priest before the jury⸗
The court; the prosecutor and judge are well-informed and of the best.
Willen bejeelt; but chance wills that not all Jewish Ge-
The sworn will be drawn by lot and the inculpat will be acquitted, perhaps.
even unanimously condemned the general scandal of Israel.
The government has now done everything possible; martial law can be abolished.
Therefore, they should not proclam and call for jury trials-lift, or even suspend all constitutional laws except for the "Eman⸗
"Civation of the Jews." Perhaps she even wants to use such a thing to...
Their apparent weakness conceals their other policies. Who knows?
The state association therefore cannot exert any further pressure on the government.
exercise; now the main club intervenes with its full power
And which government could resist if the Ju den der Have they made their will known to the whole world? In a top he⸗
In such a case, extraordinary measures would have to be taken; it
So the hidden letters would have to be reintroduced and new bastions built.
be built if a shorter process is not pursued and among those already practiced during the French Revolution, so no longer wants to attack a completely new fusiform.

This is how our Louis Ernst envisions the organization of the Jewish World League and its effectiveness against anti-Semitism Salvation of the Jewish people.

VII.

Of course, this is not a new idea either. The already existing Alliance israèlite with its headquarters in Paris, yes, such a thing

EE

Association of Jews, formed for the protection of their fellow believers in the was founded all over the world and it undoubtedly has a great extensive effectiveness. "tele Wirkungssein" however to the Jew (God) not great enough; although it is connected to the Bnai Berith and with the heads of Freemasonry and has considerable Funds are available; she supports some Jewish scoundrels who voluntarily appoints himself as defender of Judaism, if he enters Crowds are coming; this has also been the case in some monstrous trials, e.g. in Tisza≈Eszlar, Cleve, Wien ꝛc. averted great disaster from Israel. Nevertheless, our Louis is not satisfied with this; the Alliance israélite It cannot replace its planned global club. Why?

The Alliance israélite works only for Jews; the new association On the other hand, at least outwardly, it should be for everyone to practice faith. to advocate for the will of oppressed children; especially for those under≈ Jews were pressed.

Then there are the men who were at the top of the old Alliance. The Israelites are indeed worthy of all honor, and of course also rich; Of course, they are only private individuals without a mandate; so it is an arrogant power that they have exercised so far. In contrast, the Representatives of the new association, representatives of all Jews of the Being in the world – one also speculates on hopeful simpletons. other denominations that will support the club, they have but actually not to grant a mandate, but only to the Jews and Indeed, all Jews of the world; thus they will relinquish their ancient right of rule in to assert in a democratic manner; that is the "intellectual nobility of the "World" in which other human children can probably also participate. in the manner of proselytes, but only to the extent that they true intellectual nobility of Judaism (fic) assimilate. This representation-The senants of Judaism will thus represent the world and – (Louis now rises in prophetic enthusiasm) These are the times to come. come, he says, where even large, powerful states rely on sympathy are dependent on "this" world.

They're coming? — oh, they're actually already here and some great powers that had shown a stiff back against Rome, against this “spiritual” authority, which, of course, is based on very material grounds— Because of the situation, she has bowed down.

And how noble this new Jewish association is for the happiness of the Humanity will be! It will be, although it will not rely on bayonets. and supports firearms (he prefers to leave these things to other hands, (if they don't become dangerous to him) — a hundred times, say to be a hundred times stronger than papal power — that He will certainly have much to say; despite this power increased a hundredfold, he will not seeking any political advantages; no, that is the It is unacceptable to expect anything of Jews; whether materially, that remains questionab The question is posed, or rather, it is not actually in question for Jews; his struggle is a noble cause: it is the struggle for the freedom of Certainty, which is so fiercely attacked by the terrible anti-Semites will be! That is why the enthusiastic Jew Dr. Ludwig Ernst dedicates himself to the Hope that every honorable person, therefore in the first line Every Jew who will join this association. Guests from among the Goyim are welcome if they are "honorable" according to Jewish standards. 15 bk SE find ausgekhloffen: denn diese ſind bekanntlich All dishonorable!

Certain annual fees are not required, but… so that more bullfinches can be caught; but voluntary contributions are welcome. Even gifts and legacies are accepted; and according to ancient custom Even the collection plate “for the poor widow” is not used in the lodge. They are missing. Only the lower-ranking club officials are paid, everyone else is missing Higher positions are unpaid honorary posts. Trowel and hammer, Apron fur, knight's cloak, and similar childish items are replaced. through decorations; since they are intended for "outstanding" persons are, but all Jews are known to be excellent, so one will require a large number of decorations; of course, no crosses. or stars; perhaps the "golden" is accepted as a club award. Fleece — not from "lambskin" but from "rabbit fur". That is Incidentally, this is just my humble suggestion, which I made to the new Jewish World League, should it be founded, with all due respect⸗ fear submit.

Dr. Ernst calls Herzl's "Jewish state" a utopia; the The Jewish state now only has historical significance for Israel. Remembrance; whether for all Jews? That remains to be seen; for the Jewish Freethinkers, perhaps; and not for the entirety of the same.

Dr. Herzl is proof of that.

But if Herzl's plan proved impractical, then the Ernst developed a plan for a general Jewish Is a world alliance feasible? Feasible indeed, all the more so as it is just beginning.
of which already existed in the Alliance israélite and the Freemasons' Association⸗ are available. However, the execution of this plan also has its challenges.
Difficulties that have already been hinted at, so cleverly designed he
It seems so. I consider the execution of the same, indeed only the attempt at it, to be... extremely dangerous for Jews. Antisemitic
One could consider attempting such an organization of the Wishing Judaism only happiness on a modern Freemasonic basis; because that would finally awaken those Christians who are still asleep⸗ awaken, bring the wavering to a decision, and those who still hypnotized by Jewish-Masonic phrases, the Jew to unconsciously follow, to separate from the Jews, and thus the Unity among Christian peoples as if by a magic wand produce. Then the Jews would have neither great financial power, nor their much-praised intelligence would be of some use; they would undoubtedly return⸗ forced into their rightful place, just like in the "dark" Middle Ages

They would no longer be the head, but the tail fine, to to speak biblically. We hope that this pushback to It is legally possible, but we do not want to guarantee it.
take over.

But every anti-Semite can thank Dr. Ludwig Ernst for the openness with which he revealed his plan. That gives everyone To think rationally and would likely be well used, a new powerful one.
Weapon for anti-Semitism against the Freemasons allied Judaism will be; the first international anti-Freemason⸗ Congress, however, may this be a sign of how he organizes his organization.
must act to thwart the dangerous plans of the Jewish-infested Freemasonry to effectively counteract it.

Dr. Deckert.

Catholic anti-Semitic writings of Pastor Dr. Joſ. Deckert.

Published by the author: Vienna – Weinhaus, 18th century – (Commission:
H. Kirſch, I., Singerstrasse 7.)

Jews out? Eight conference speeches. Price 30 kr. = 60 Pf. (Postage 35 kr.)

Christianity in the Talmud of the Indians, or: the secrets of rabbinic teachings Doctrine about Christians, revealed by Prof. JB Pranaitis; from the Translated into Latin and expanded by Dr. Jof. Deckert. 174 pages.
fl. 1.50 = M. 3.—. (Postage 10 Ir. = 20 Pf. more.)

Four Tyrolean children, victims of Hasidic fanaticism (Jewish ritual murders)

(proven from historical sources). 132 pages, fl. 1.20 = M. 2.40.

(Postage 5 kr. = 10 Pf. more.)

“Letters of an Enlightened One” (A Satire on Ex-Rabbi Bloch and varieties of beans), 50 letters translated from Hebrew by Jainkef Frischmaul;
40 kr. = 80 Pf. (Postage 5 kr. = 10 Pf. more.) .

Türkennoth and Imdenherrfhaft. Three conference speeches; a comparison of the current situation with the Turkish flood of 1683; at 15 kr. = 30 Pf.
(Postage 2 kr. = 4 Pf. more). 10 pieces fl. 1.20, 100 pieces fl. 10.—
(4th edition.)

Work, wages, and usury. Three conference speeches on the social question; 15 kr. each.
= 30 Pf. (Postage 2 kr. = 4 Pf. more.)

Ahasuerus, the eternal Indian. A word in defense of a philosemitic warning.
rufes; a 15 kr. = 30 Pf. (Postage 2 kr. = 4 Pf. more.)

The oldest and most dangerous enemies of the Christian people. Eight conference speeches.
which would throw all of Judah into revolt; with an appendix on civil matters and Gudenche. 104 pages, 40 kr. = 80 Pf. (Postage 5 kr. = 10 Pf.)
more.)

The Lord's Prayer in times of (Christian) distress. 2 kr., 10 pieces; 15 kr., 100 pieces
fl. 1. |

Miracles and Wonderworkers (3 conference speeches); at 15 fr. = 30 Pf. (Postver≠
2 kr. = 4 Pf. more.)

Civil marriage and its dangers for the Christian people, A 30 kr. = GU Pf. (Post≠

(Sent 5 kr. = 10 Pf. more.)

Interpretation and Refutation of the Jewish Talmud (Christian Gerson); a fl. 1.80 — M. 3.60 (Postage 10 kr. = 20 Pf. more.)

Züdish holly (satyrs); a 75 kr. = M. 1.50. (Postage 5 kr. = 10 Pf. more.)

Racial antisemitism? 15 kr. = 30 Pf. (Postage 2 kr. = 4 Pf. more).

The true Israelite before the Viennese jurors (8 conference speeches); 50 kr. = 1 M. (Postal delivery 5 kr. = 10 Pf. more).

Inquisition and witch trials (“abominations” of the Church); A 10 kr. = 20 Pf. (Postage 2 fr. = 4 Pf. more.) Published by Glöß, Dresden:

Can a Catholic be an anti-feminist? 50 pfennigs.
A ritual murder, proven from court records. 50 pfennigs.

Published by the Mechitarist printing house, Vienna, VII.:
Shulchan Aruch: Four Jewish Law Books (Löwe Deckert), 2 volumes, about 1000 pages. 9 fl.
In commission at Mayer & Co. Vienna:

The “Sendhote of St. Joseph”. Monthly publication, 19th year 1896: 95 kr. = 2 M. = 3 Fr.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

: Se

ui
, Jg éi Ze?

Kam, d ga 4
ZS — — *

TITS AE

∗ ` '
+ u WË: FR N ie =
Ne Ce en a wë, e, EN ∗

ty D "E Pus? pe = 8 0
e Sot: d

"Sg SE E WHAT? ∗ e "ks KR a 3 Ke 4 ew A Wi NN e W

H. Ri

EI − u "wi ∗ g A ` − ∗ ∗ g ' , x 8 = "SZ zx ER SZ oo. Bet As wë
dAe. r “ / ∗ ern Ze as TE Eng e > ∗ d dë > ie, a / ∗ P bi Kg 2 we 4 en ZE WT Ka by e: %
` en CA Ka NM Za Af A ON a re 3 Va ' a ae ∗ Pw. te xm A f Me ∗ To ep # te P KX Sa, 1 er eng, A. K wb eS Pe ee 4 Gel i N ie "my yrs" and − 8 A ed d V . d E 3 Ze 1 _ = N. 2 LS 2 La = Ar n Er ∗ _ RE www en = u K
ae
FT iw A 4 ∗ Er 24 A a“ tg”
5 4 ka Ke ei

EEE da gy 8 AN te oo
S − Lotte tA ie Pye SS E
— kb te “

gg ety d |

& , 1 A > ` 3 ∗ . , ZS ` 2 7 ` om , u 25 − 1 `
d A e ∗ x ?
∗ S e € di d D ∗ 32 » a re
" ` ke a 3
| H uee Ne 8 7 R in e "WM R a 5
d ∗ E) b . wn 2 bk,"
Let 1 7 ` e 1 | e
"h 4 a Yj A x de Zéi: Aspe. a, ch Re e Zë éi ee . WF gl e, >

9 — from ` : ` J
4 * ` e 7 “ * fi
D Beie nd 7 k ' ` DN 4
e G om «) *
AI R

si" E: ae ry
RE re Ve” ba or” es a Ze .

* ak

hy >

* m.

ST
d x K- 1 Ké 8

er | TE ANE
Ze e wl Fae? BP ee Pa E. ët:
Th | Ze : nf ef wi eeh "ot vam ede La Wi?
ay E * yd . ER 2 N 91 “ ing er en u us
, E eg E?

wi

This is a reproduction of a library book that was digitized by Google as part of an ongoing effort to preserve the information in books and make it universally accessible.

Google Books

https://books.google.com

Google

About this book

This is a digital copy of a book that had been preserved on library shelves for generation
It was carefully scanned as part of a project to make the world's books available online.

The book has outlived copyright and can now be made publicly available. A publicly availab that was never subject to copyright or whose copyright protection period has expired. Whet
This can vary from country to country. Publicly accessible books are our gateway to the pa and represents scientific talent that is often difficult to discover.

Traces of use, annotations, and other marginal notes contained in the original volume are Remembrance of the long journey the book has made from the publisher to a library and on t

Terms of Use

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize publicly available material and make to make them accessible. Publicly accessible books belong to the public, and we are merely
This work is costly. To continue providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent i
To prevent commercial parties from doing so, this includes technical restrictions on autom

We ask you to comply with the following guidelines:

+ Use of the files for non-commercial purposes. We designed Google Books for end users and Use files for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

+ No automated queries. Do not send any automated queries of any kind to the Google system via machine translation, optical character recognition, or other areas where access to tex
If you find this useful, please contact us. We encourage the use of publicly available mat
It might help.

+ Retention of Google brand elements The Google "watermark" that you find in every file is
This project helps users find more material via Google Books. Please do not remove the wat

+ Stay within the law. Regardless of your intended use, you must be aware of your responsi
To ensure your use is legal, do not assume that a book deemed suitable for users in the US
Whether a book is publicly accessible, including to users in other countries, is another c
It varies from country to country. We cannot advise whether a particular use of a specific
That is. Don't assume that the appearance of a book in Google Books means it's available i
It can be used worldwide. Copyright infringement can have serious consequences.

Via Google Books

Google's goal is to organize the world's information and make it universally usable and ac Booksearch helps readers discover the books of this world and supports authors and publish
You can search the entire book text on the internet at |'http://books.google.com'.

Dr. Fr. Wichtl

World Freemasonry
World Revolution
World Republic

11th edition

©

JF Lehmanns Publishing House / Munich

Clas .

Book RT AN VE

19283

A fine of 3 cents per day is CHARGED for 5 BOOKS. ate Due

2
Library Bureau Cat. No. 1137 >

| and

SE
— See
——
—
— —
.

REN
— EE See
— —
— E ae
SE EE HERITAGE

— See
— E
— as
— —
— HE
— —
—

World Freemasonry
World Revolution World Republic

An investigation into the origin and the goals of the World War

by Dr. Friedrich Wichtl Former member of the Imperial Council and member of the provisional national collection

Newly published by

| Ernst Berg

Eleventh edition (50th—54th Baptismal)

JF Lehmanns Publishing House Munich 1928

Copyright holders and publishers reserve all rights.
especially the translation.
Copyright 1923, JF Lehmann, Munich.

44 „ „16

Printed by Dr. FP Datterer & Cie., Freifing—Münden

* ` 5 SS Table of Contents.

Editor's Preface. e 84
Preface to the 11th Edition VI
From the foreword to the fifth Sien: My answer to the Great lodge of Vienna e ae Nu

Line 1.

I. Introduction and Overview ur er u 1
II. Entry into the Freemasons' Order 8 5 DEEN 11
III. Masonic Institutions, Customs and Symbols io te 22
IV. Johannis Masonry — Andreas Masonry (Blue and Red Lodges, lower degrees, higher degrees) . . . p. 26

V. Masonic clothing, badges, Fenn ee auxiliary signs: 33

Line II.

VI. Freemasonry and Christianity nnn 38
VII. Freemasonry and Judaism ee ee Be yk 48
VII. The role of the Yuden in ber erer ENEE 53

IX. Freemasonry, Charity and Politics 66

Part III.

X. Revolutionary Freemasonry, especially in France. 82
XI. Revolutionary Freemasonry in Italy No. 94
XII. Revolutionary Freemasonry in Spain and Portugal. . . . 104
XIII. Revolutionary Freemasonry in Tyrol 114
XIV. Revolutionary Freemasonry in Serbia. 119
XV. Revolutionary Freemasonry in the Austrian Empire . . 133
XVI. The new Grand Lodge of Wen e Se ee e E, XVII. The revolutionary Freemasonry in Hungary and the Ke
XVIII. The Hungarian Grand Lodge and the Revolution 158
XIX. Revolutionary Freemasonry in Russia. . 168

XX. The revolutionary Freemasonry of the English .. . 175

XXI. Monarchical-Republican Freemasonry in Germany . . 185 Part IV.

XXII. Through the World Revolution to the FN . . . 202

XXIII. Freemasonry and World War Rs e A e, “2H

XXIV. Some War Conferences of the EA Ke een 260

XXV. Wilson's Masonic Peace Program ““ & & 268

26. World Capitalism, Zionism, Bolshevism, Freemasonry. . 273
Closing page 284
The chairmen of the 14 Viennese summers in the years 1914-1922: 287
Index of names and subjects ait J, Se eer et ae ee ae GE. SS

612075

Editor's Preface.

It is a historically remarkable fact that since the French Revolution of 1789 in the course of all catastrophes

The problem of Freemasonry is particularly relevant in the lives of nations.
It was passionately discussed. Then the argument subsided, and they fell asleep.
Furthermore, almost entirely in order to be prepared for new, shocking events.
to flare up again immediately. The reasons for this flare-up The differences were objective and subjective in nature. Factual in nature.
insofar as we see in the leaders of the revolutions since 1789 almost always outstanding members of the Freemasons again to recognize what the unraveling of the question of Freemasonry entails in The connection with the upheaval practically demanded it. This for A perfectly self-evident fact for any calm researcher.
did not reach the general consciousness of the population-layers who have a keen interest in the work of the Freemasons should have had. And this didn't happen solely thanks to the in Freemasonic hands united watchdogs, but also – that's the personal side – thanks to which it's very often too one-sided and uncritical counter-propaganda.

In the fight against the political and ideological-
The aspirations of the Freemasons were not sufficiently clearly defined between separated from them and other forces moving society;
They were credited with things that were perhaps occasionally true.
The events that occurred did not allow for any generalizations; they were Statements and other documents were used, which are not uncommon as apocryphal, thus proving itself ineffective in Masonic defense.
deliberately supplied weapons.

This is certainly to be excused. For the things that happen
Playing out behind the scenes is only moderately appealing to contemporaries.
It is difficult to prove with cash, but rarely to demonstrate with mere evidence. Only Posterity is able to distinguish between truth and error.
One should bear in mind that there are already 40,000 publications today.
There are those who deal with the problem of Freemasonry,
Thus, the difficulty arises of finding one's position in the middle of history.
To describe it correctly, it has been explained clearly enough.

These words apply to both the past and the present-present. The World War and the consequences arising in its wake Revolutions put Freemasonry back at the center of politics.
fcher Betrachtungen. Dr. Friedrich Wichtl's lasting merit Is it the voices of the times gathered, ordered, and placed in one to have presented closed works to the public. He has probably even considered the possibility that one or the other might other errors could creep in – given the complexity

With this material, it's easily possible – but what about the opposing side?
The fact that it has provided critical corrections already shows that one can confidently say that the Wichtlsche Werk has stood the test of time.

Almost simultaneously with his book, the writing by Karl was published.
Heises, “Entente Freemasonry and the World War”. This work contains an almost overwhelming amount of water on the political
The activities of Freemasons in the Entente states, so that it was for everyone, who wishes to pursue their activities is absolutely indispensable.
Unfortunately, all fundamental considerations about this are flawed.
Freemasonry is characterized by questionable vagueness and superiority.
superficiality. Alfred's work helped to address this palpable deficiency.
Rosenberg's "The Crime of Freemasonry", which the political activity of Freemasonry as an effect of worldview that we call the philosophy of the 18th year⸗ call them hundreds. Rofenberg further showed how these spirits⸗ tung among different peoples – their different nature moderately – took on other shades; how Judaism transformed itself mixed into the stream; in what context did the social demo⸗ kratie stand. This historical and psychological consideration It therefore not only lists facts, but also allows them to be understand.

In 1922, another work by Dr. Josef was published.
Hofer, “Freemasonry, Neo-Paganism and Revolution”, which especially with the literary expressions of the Masonic world» inspection concerned and – apart from a few perhaps not entirely justified generalizations – an interesting addition⸗ tongue forms.

The Masonic defense has largely focused on how⸗ Repetitions are limited; some corrections are readily available.
to admit; but what is remarkable is the admission
so many an honest bricklayer that he was struck blind had been.

We now know the pros and cons. So Wanches from the
The current situation will undoubtedly make the indictment material immensely more difficu Furthermore, the accusation leveled against Freemasonry... became: one of the main culprits in the instigation of the world⸗ war and the low exploitation of the Entente victory
The accusation that Germany is [unclear] has become a certainty today.
become.

Dr. Wichtl died in 1921. In view of the necessity of a
The publisher has provided me with a new edition of the work.

taking into account the recent statements of the opponents-voices, which are transferred to the new deeds of the Freemasonic leaders.
I have carefully implemented the necessary changes.
Since no cause existed, the basic character of the work remains intact.
to change. Some less important things could easily be omitted.
will be a series of new insertions of Masonic voices
They make the leading personalities stand out more sharply. But Jewish world politics had to add various things, the last Chapters will be rewritten to clarify the connections based on to prove completely indisputable facts.

Dr. Wichtl wanted an exclusively political work.
He wrote. That's probably why he addressed the questions of ethnopsychology.
not receiving the attention that might have been desired would be in view of, in particular, the attitude of the Freemasons≠ rerei in Germany. That's why this side of the work is also has been completed.

I therefore hope that this important book will be successfully republished.
will go beyond this, in order to do his bit for the clarification of the
To fulfill the nature of world political forces. The German people In particular, there would be every reason to settle accounts with a worldview—ung, which survived and rotten, no organic roots ge:
has struck and will only be a hindrance in the fight in the future for German freedom.

Munich, November 1922. Ernst Berg.

Preface to the 11th edition.

Once again, a new edition of Wichtl's work is needed—has become more agile. The events of recent years in particular have led to this.
large number of new pieces of evidence for the correctness of the findings in The Freemason question has been addressed, since all major international—Annual meetings under the banner of a conscious lodge policy. Furthermore
The anti—Masonic struggle of fascism has a stronger prominence—
The entry into Freemasonry was practically forced upon them. Therefore, a large number of Number of additions necessary, which in turn — in order to the not to expand the scope of the text — several deletions (3. B. required the “Meyerling Tragedy”).

These additions will stand up to any criticism and hopefully≠ to do their part to advance knowledge about the enemy of the people≠ to expand the literal impact of Freemasonry, but at the same time also to—deep. ,

Munich, September 1927. Ernst Berg.

From the preface to the fifth edition:
My reply to the Grand Lodge of Vienna!

What is Freemasonry? — "Its content is spirit. Its Essence is freedom. Its action is love. Its striving.

It is light. Its symbolism reveals the full depth of morality.
World order. Its exercise in strength is moral building, quiet, serious building from the inside out, encompassing all spiritual and moral aspects awakens forces and in each individual and in the whole a seeks to build a temple in which faith and loyalty, love and Sense of sacrifice, justice and truthfulness, and every German "Virtue dwells and acts."

Beautiful, proud words, I think, the Br... Oskar Leschhorn!) speaks; had I heard her two or three years ago — who knows, whether I, as a "light seeker", should not be admitted to a "building hut would have been sought

Today, for me, the situation is significantly different; today
I have formed my own conviction based on a⸗ ongoing studies, such as how the average Freemason lives.
not operating for a long time and usually cannot operate at all.

How I came to be involved with the “royal art”⸗
"to occupy" is already indicated in the concluding remarks to the first edition.
In the trial against the traitor Kramarsch, Diet:
specialized fine connections with secret and mysterious (Ge:
companies whose nature and activities are unknown
I was able to learn more. Where, according to the circumstances of the case, a whole Just when a special revelation seemed imminent, the thread suddenly broke.
But... This much was already clear to me back then: That Kra⸗ march had to belong to a secret organization, whose activities extended across all of Europe.

And then there was something else: the murder of our
The heir to the throne seemed to me too refined for just the accidental one.
The reason for the outbreak of the World War.

“Freemasonic External Work” by Br... Oskar Leschhorn, Leipzig Association of the Frmr. 1919.

— —

The nationalistic ambition and arrogance of the Czechs and South Slavs had taken on forms among us at that time such as never before; in countless cities and factories of Austria Week after week, large-scale removals and gatherings instead, whose provocative, state-threatening nature is not even more was denied by the authorities. But the authorities were powerless because of a weak-willed Winterthur president, Count Stürgkh, who steered the frail state carriage and a tired, old emperor, who was virtually cut off from the outside world, "ruled".

One day in particular was when, in all regions, Oftere empire, in the south as in the north, in Slovenian, Czech and Slavic mass migrations and gatherings in German towns open sky and all-Slavic festivities took place like never before Previously: It was June 28, 1914, on which, as one might say whispered that something very special was about to happen. A ride⸗ Master, who was in Brno at the time, told me a little⸗ a subtle detail, which is nevertheless so significant that it points to him which made an indelible impression on me: Names⸗ "Right in front of the telegraph office," he said, "the crowd was backed up." Wan seemed impatient and eagerly awaiting something to wait, for shouts and questions could be heard constantly: Njeni Is there a telegram yet? Then?) And the telegram arrived and reported – the assassination of the heir to the throne and his fine wife... The festivities were nevertheless continued; in Brno, later The state government, acting on higher instructions, in other locations However, the revelry and outbursts of joy lasted until the into the dawning morning.

This becomes understandable when one considers that The heir to the throne had countless enemies among the Slavs, who from him, the best friend of the German Emperor, feared a reorganization of things that would turn against the Slavs would fix.

Who were these people? Mentally and morally immature. Boys, members of the Serbian "Narodna odbrana" (People's) (wehr), partly also members of the Sokol ([Turn⸗) clubs. Later But other things also came out. From the book of the pros. fessors Pharos!) clearly shows that the assassination of the heir to the throne planned, decided upon and carried out by Freemasons⸗

---

1) “The Trial of the Assassins of Sarajevo”, presented in the official records by Professor Pharos, Deckers Publishing House, Berlin 1918.

was conducted. The main figures were Freemasons: Major Tankofic, Dr. Kazimirovic, Ciganovic and the murderer Ca≠ brinovic. I have covered the essentials in section XIV of this. highlighted in the book; whoever witnessed the incredibly clever recruitment of the wants to get to know the perpetrators and the way they gradually and were imperceptibly led to turn the verbal idea into action. to be made, he should refer to that book by Professor Pharos expressly referred to, to which the Privy Councillor of Justice Prof. Dr. Kohler has written a worthwhile introduction.

So the Freemasons were supposedly behind it!? I had I had never seriously dealt with Freemasonry before; the Leo Taxil's tale of deception was probably still vaguely familiar to me. Remembering the names of the infamous Miss Diana Vaughan, her sister Sophie Walder, the devil Bitru, and many others Others revived before me: reason enough to address the concerns≠ To approach this with suspicion. But the statements were... so unambiguous that I resolved to get to the bottom of the matter. to leave. In addition, shortly before, in November 1917, I had... from a very well-informed and reliable source It had been announced that Dr. Karl Kramarsch was a Freemason. and belong to the "Grand Orient de France". So I started, to engage with Masonic literature, firstly for no other reason than to avoid myself in this situation≠ To clarify the important question: A seeker of light, diligently strives to get to the bottom of the truth. After that, what I now learn from the writings of the German Freemasons about When she herself learned that they were a most innocent, honorable and a decent society. I got a completely different impression. However, from French Freemasonry, as Brother ... Dr. ... told me. Wilhelm Ohr's book on the "spirit of French freedom" "Masonry" fell into my hands. Now I collected books and Writings by Freemasons, but also by their opponents, and I made detailed extracts from everything. When I finally dared to view the collected Waterial and essence≠ The real from the inessential, the true from the seemingly false. After parting ways, I was left with about 5000 notes, which explained the reason≠ stock for my later treatises. Hardly will There are many Freemasons who are just as concerned about their “Royal art” troubles me, the “profane” one, to whom it only possible with far greater difficulties, into the mysterious labyrinths of the Temple of Mankind to penetrate.

A From the preface to the fifth edition.

But look: Even before the publication of my book A storm of resentment swept through the Freemasons.

Leafy Forest. The "Building Blocks", monthly publication of the Provincial Insurance Compa
The Grand Lodge of Hamburg in Berlin even managed to to insult me before she writes a single line of my had seen the book itself! A "botched job" will be it was called, and again a "botched job" and a "botched job"
For the third time! This can be read in the "Building Blocks", Issues 1–2.
January – February 1919; my book was not published until March 8th.
1919. This pointless fuss was caused by the mere announcement caused by my publisher; as particularly "provocative"
The title of the 8th edition, as shown in the table of contents, was changed.
felt the sentence, the “The Role of Jews in Freemasonry” should be addressed. In issue 6/7, the "building blocks" of new topics will be presented.
They're referring back to my book. They call it a "defamatory pamphlet". a "pamphlet". They are extremely embarrassed by my revelation that at the top of German Freemasonry at the time of the end⸗
The break of the World War saw Grand Master Kohn stand. But my proof that under the honorable Brother Kohn the highly political Serbian Freemasonry from the apolitical⸗ Having been recognized by the German Grand Lodge Association, they glide with Silence gone. The fact that four weeks later our heir to the throne was murdered by Serbian Freemasons,
She remains unmoved. My objection that the recognition of the Serbian
The "Supreme Council" actually provided a kind of backing for the Serbian Freemasons and Wörder ran out, will be alongside ger pushed. That the man who was then at the head of the entire German Freemasonry, whose name was Kohn, they cannot do well.
to deny it. But that this Mr. Kohn was a Jew Being supposed to be, that makes them nervous, they see that as one of their
All the insults heaped upon him. And so the attempt must be made.
will turn the supposed Jew Kohn into a believer⸗ to make zealous Christians. Br.. Schwabe brings this to: without any progress. "What now happened in 1837 in Warienburg in West?"
Prussian-born director of the Frankfurt Gas Company, Johann Gottlieb Karl Kohn, when it came to this, he was not at all
Not a Jew, but a devout Christian who had long in the church council of the St. Peter's parish in Frank
He lived in Frankfurt am Main. His father, the merchant Johann Karl, also lived there.
Gottlieb Kohn was Protestant; as was his grandfather, the countryman–
Heinrich Karl Wilhelm Kohn, who was born in Warienburg in 1840
"Died." – Good, good; international Jewry can therefore rest easy.
Relief: Mr. Kohn was not a Jew as far as I'm concerned!

My reply to the Grand Lodge of Vienna. XI

Incidentally, the Kohn case is by no means closed. Something That's not correct. I received [something] in this matter.
a number of letters, all in a very excited tone and almost all of Jewish descent; and all assured me that the
Mr. Kohn was not Jewish! One even went so far as to say so.
the somewhat bold claim that the name Kohn originates from doubt-derivable from Kuon = Kuno and not from the Hebrew Cohen; said

Mr. Kohn was a native German, etc. Another He proved once again that Mr. Kohn came from Thorn in Posen, where his father had been a merchant. Yet another one, who claimed to have known Mr. Kohn personally very well, assured
I told you that Grand Master Kohn was the son of a Catholic merchant.
Mannes from Königsberg i. O. and later became a Protestant!
This industriousness, this constant activity, gives one pause for thought; it seems to me,
The Freemasons are proving a bit too much in the Kohn case.
All that was missing was the claim that Grandmaster Kohn was a be⸗ kennter Alldeutšcher und Dutzfreund des Großadmiral von Tirpitz have been! My esteemed readers will therefore probably form their own opinion.
They must educate themselves; the Jews among them will be based on The opinion of the following remains unchanged based on the available "evidence":
can appear, Mr. Kohn was a "Christian" and the Christians
Mr. Kohn is at least considered a man of strongly eastern European descent.
Origin may be named: Ex oriente Kohn! To a way⸗
Leaving the relevant passages of my book is, for me,
There is currently no compelling reason.

A massive hailstorm lashed me in Vienna. down. The castles were of such size that I almost already under the mysterious carpet of some lodge, protection
I wanted to search until the storm had passed. But since I was Christian am and don't think about cutting myself and my convictions⸗
To let him go, I probably wouldn't have been considered a light in any Viennese lodge.
found a more receptive audience. Because in the Viennese lodges there it — according to a well-known saying of the deceased country⸗ Court President Holzinger — among a hundred Freemasons hun⸗
Two Jews. But that's impossible! That's impossible!
An exorcism?! Not at all; here is the evidence: The Grand Master Dr. Richard Schlesinger ijt — Jew; the deputy Grand Master Dr. Karl Ornstein is a Jew; the Deputy Grand Master Dr. Adolf Kapralik is Jewish; the great orator Dr. Emil Frankl is — Jew; the great orator Dr. Gustav Spieler is — Jew; the Grand orator Eduard Zinner (Jewish); the Grand Archivist Hein-Rich Glücksmann is Jewish. Is this sufficient, or will there be more?

Further “proof” is required? — Of course I will, as in Kohn received a multitude of corrections, but what for?
It should be noted beforehand that the baptismal water alone does not to attach too much importance to it, especially since it is about Sfreis mason acts; and the Freemason is, as an Englishman tells us
The writer instructs an artificial Jew (if he doesn't).
Won by nature (TI, Because I now have such truths to say)
The public brings it, the Viennese Grand Lodge showers me with information. with insults of the lowest kind.") The "brother of the Great—
"loge", the bravely fine name under the mysterious Tep⸗
The lodge's secret is that my book is a "printed cesspool", despite all the "blatant sensationalism" of "Yawn-inducing boredom." What I

I write to him, “utter nonsense”, “brutal absurdity”,
"Inquisition-like bloodthirstiness", "mendacious “Wise-monger”; my book is a “filthy writing” to him.
worse than a "five-cent novel". This nobleman calls himself Supporters of "royal art" call him a "people's deceiver," a “reactionary⸗clerical⸗monarchical, counter-revolutionary rice louse⸗
“fer”, a “traitor” and a “hypocrite”, and all because I
I take the liberty of describing Freemasonry as follows:
I see them as an unprejudiced and unbiased person. On Conclusion of this unique and unparalleled torrent of abuse
This pleasant fellow even starts to threaten: If I one should dare to say a word in response to this dismissal.
Set... . And if so, what then? What fate awaits me?
thought? – That was hinted at earlier: I am to be ostracized,
I am to be declared an outlaw; the slanderer from the
The Grand Lodge puts it in the following form: "It's a monkey!"
It's a disgrace that a man is allowed to debase himself so deeply (like me!), without being brought down by general respect
"will be." So I'm supposed to be "stretched down"! Isn't that...?
Szamuely da?

The Freemasons are of course also aware of the
The motive that led me to issue it was fully clear.
my book was motivated. "Dr. Wichtl simply wanted to make money."
If my goal had been to "make money," I would have...
I quickly adapted during the time of the upheaval and learned the new ways.
adapted to circumstances; roughly as the Freemasons did.
to do things that accomplish the “royal feat”,

1) Vienna Freemasons⸗Newspaper issue 1/3 p. 56.

as “imperial councillors” and “firmest pillars of the throne” sleep to leave and wake up as die-hard Republicans.

With a book for Freemasonry, published by that time, when she had just thrown off the mask and “be⸗ With heartfelt emotion, the blood-red flags of the (revolutionary) proletariat⸗ tariats welcomed”, 1) with such a book, however, one would have had They made a lot of money! What a shame; I would have been there today.
probably the most famous "bricklayer without an apron" that the
The Viennese Grand Lodge was certainly honored and celebrated beyond measure. would have. And—it's unthinkable—maybe she would have... me even appointed her – honorary goy!

That one can also do something for its own sake can drive oneself, simply to fathom the truth, unconcerned about hatred and mortal enmity, that is what the supposedly "finer Ge⸗ “brain” 2) of a Jew never understand.

Would they remember their beautiful sayings and life—
If they were to follow the rules, they would naturally have to act very differently:
“Be patient and respect each other’s honest look and trust.”
This is stated, for example, in issue 6/7 of the "Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper" (Page 30). Gottfried Keller's beautiful words are also often quoted:

"Consider your opponent's weaknesses"

And you should learn how to take revenge.

"To dig out your own weeds!"
and the Most Reverend Grand Master Brother Schlesinger himself Is it to remind the fine brothers of this saying—calls. “See in everyone with whom you share life⸗ “He leads the man, the brother,” chases the very honorable, assigned Grand Master Rapralif;*) and yet another to—Divided Grand Master, Hans Neeser, wants to end the general hatred dismantle.") If they now have such fine principles, if Enlightenment and instruction are their watchwords when they search for to strive for truth and preach justice and tolerance, Why are they stalking me then? Why do they hate me? Why Do you insult and abuse me in the lowest way?
Perhaps because I witnessed the warmongering activities of the Romani
Have I uncovered Iden and Anglo-American Freemasonry?
Certainly not; they do that themselves, though never systematically.

) “Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper” Issue 6/7 © 14.

) Val “Wiener Freimaurer-Zeitung” Issue 1/3 p. 18.
) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung” issue 1/3 p. 25.

) Ibid., p. 14.

but only occasionally and only for the ears of the Brothers.
Even the "Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper" speaks out from time to time.
from the hateful warmongering of the Italian and French French Freemasonry, by the "wildest warmonger Br..
Roosevelt, who has now entered the eternal Orient, etc.

The fact that I had revealed her "secrets" is also possible.
that is not the reason for that bottomless hatred, because firstly, they have
They have no "secrets" at all — as they themselves say — secondly Others before me have done the same, without being so... to be insulted and persecuted, and thirdly, one can be very probably talk about all these things when it comes to scientific matters.

or otherwise for serious purposes — says Br.. Dr. Otto Henne on the Rhyn.

The reason lies elsewhere. The hatred of the Jewish "Grand Lodge of Vienna" and similarly composed Grand Lodges In the German Reich, this is explained by the fact that I played the role of Judaism in the world⸗ Freemasonry of a more in-depth examination⸗ subjected to investigation and their ultimate goals — introduction of the World Republic under Jewish leadership — ruthlessly exposed I have. No Freemason is allowed to do that; he can, however, have any Freemason he likes. belong to a political party, but he is — especially in the The Jewish question — to “noble restraint” (read: keeping quiet)⸗ forced. All the less, of course, may a non-Freemason, a "Profane" people touching this sore spot. Anyone who nevertheless opposes it the predominance of the Jews takes a position, the search fie moras to destroy it physically and economically. Br... JG Findel knew to sing a song about it.

The preface to the fifth edition of the Wines series is almost exclusively about wine. It has become a defense against the attacks directed against me. I I had to deal with it in such detail because what is happening today What happens to me will happen to any one of my readers tomorrow. can, if he dares, do anything to the nine times hallowed To expose Judaism, whether within or outside of Freemasonry. Immediately. He has the whole pack on the halfway line and can watch as he She'll get rid of it again. Anyone who doesn't believe me only needs one... To try.

But did the Freemasons really understand my serious illness? Did they offer no objective counterarguments at all? — Nothing, we Less than nothing. They curse and slander, suspect and twist. However: Br.. Popper also once dealt with with the 14th essay of my book, which deals with the Freemason murder of Sarajevo as the subject. He does this in the shallow, in the joking manner of a lawyer from Leopoldstadt, yes, he is so brazen as to raise the question of whether the Freemason Ciga—Novic — the same one who conducted the shooting exercises in the Topcider forest of the WMordbuben led them and later gave them bombs, pistols and Cyanide has been handed to him — ever lived, Babel! That These are, Brother Popper, to put it mildly, pocket-skills, with with whom you won't have any luck with serious men. You They would have done better to start with the book mentioned several times. If you were to read Professor Pharos's work, then your defensive essay would be not quite so superficial, because you would certainly have been too who arrives at the same conviction as me, assuming of course, that you want to be convinced!

The murder of our heir to the throne is not, incidentally, the first murder instigated by Freemasons; he will also not be the last. There in front of me is a newspaper report stating that the por⸗ Tugiesian Grand Master and Senator Br... Gebaftiäo de Magalies Lima for involvement in the murder President Sidonio Paes was arrested fei! — Where does it say this? Surely in the "Reichspost"? — Only No need to get worked up, dear brothers! It's written—it's written—in the — “Vienna Freemasons’ Newspaper” D) At the same time we learn, that the entire Roman Freemasonry was abolished-is demanded to act in favor of the unlawfully (1?) Bere stuck to use. Such sliders In a later
The first announcement will already be published in the same newspaper.
"correctly positioned" that not the Grand Master himself, but one his two brothers in the assassination of President Paes involved. It goes on to say verbatim: “In Italy there is a movement in favor of the arrested Grand Master⸗ have been led.” There you have them at work, the brothers, The sliders. Is that perhaps the great secret of...
“Royal art”? — The further course of the Ange⸗
You can roughly imagine the occasion: In the next number⸗
We will probably learn soon that the arrested Grand Master has already been released, and subsequently — What's the bet? — to be informed that it has meanwhile It turned out that the accusation was completely unfounded and is based on empty gossip; the proceedings against the Grand⸗ Master and fine brother has already been hired ... 2)

---

1) Issue 1— 3 p. 56.

That's exactly what happened; the proceedings against the innocent man
The Grand Master has already been appointed! ("Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper", February 19

XVI From the preface to the fifth edition.

The Hungarian Freemasons, who often live in the same region, know the brother."
Magalhäe Lima is very good and of course of fine innocence.
Completely "convinced". The local brothers... entertained us about...
Mainly quite active relations with the western Freemasons, well⸗ personally with the “Grand Orient de France”, with which they a possess a certain affinity of nature, and indeed in a far stronger way⸗ more so than with the German Freemasons of the Reich.

From my own experience, I have only used the Viennese Frei= so far
I met a bricklayer, but he did a thorough job. Would I care about my If asked for my opinion on the "Grand Lodge of Vienna", I would have to say something lik summarize in the following sentences:

Their essence is not freedom, but the allure of slavery; their "we-"
They know not love, but hate; their striving not for light, but Darkness. Their exercise in strength consists of cursing and Slander, suspicion, and distortion.

My judgment is based on facts and experiences that I personally with the "Grand Lodge of Vienna" and its newspaper
I did it. Is it my fault if it's less affordable?
is different from that of Br... Leschhorn? —

Vienna, October 1919.
Dr. Friedrich Wichtl.

"Freemasonry is not limited in any way."
and not to anyone the right of free research into truth!
Declaration of the Ukrainian Grand Lodge of April 1, 1919.

L
Introduction and overview.

m Trials against the murderers of the Austrian heir to the throne⸗

It was convincingly demonstrated that not only the plan of Assassination by the French Grand Lodge of Freemasons that it originated in Paris, but that also a part The murderers themselves were Freemasons. It was further established that... that the funds, of which the murderers, of course, only had the smallest share
They received part of it, which came from a Masonic source. The an⸗
It is unacceptable that Freemasons commit such outrageous crimes.
Taking part, however, is not the first time and through⸗ not raised lightly; moreover, it is of such immense
The implications are such that it seems necessary to consider the essence, the essence.
to discuss in more detail the directions and ultimate goals of the Freemasons.

The Freemasons⸗ associations were originally guilds of the Masons, stonemasons and master builders, guilds like any other, in which the masters passed on the secrets of architecture to journeymen and passed it on to apprentices. This old artisan masonry, whose Statutes dating back to the 13th and 14th centuries, flourished not only in Germany, but also in England and Scotland.
With the decline of the art of building, shipyard masonry also fell into disuse.

Four old stonemasons' lodges closed in 1717.
in London and Westminster to form a Grand Lodge and elected a Grand Champion; at the same time, a new design in worship and constitution, with some scholars also involved, theologians, etc., participated; the name Freemasons, the coat of arms of the ancient Masons, the seal of the secret
The symbol, word, and handle were retained, as was the mythical one.

Argeschirchte, which in essence is a history of architecture is. The statutes were drafted and put into the new form.
Printed in 1723.

The first of the “Old Duties” sharpens the members’ Ge⸗ obedient to the moral law and tolerant; but they shall the members – in contrast to earlier times – only bound to that religion in which all people agree-voices, that is, they should be good and faithful men,

Men of honor and integrity, may they distinguish themselves through Nationality and religious affiliation also vary greatly.
to differ from one another. This makes "masonry the means"
Point of unity and the means to maintain loyal friendship among to appoint persons who would otherwise be at a constant distance from⸗ each other should have stayed together.”

By including persons who are involved in masonry-
Since the guild had nothing to do with it, Freemasonry experienced a significant revival.
same change; it was spiritualized, replacing the old one.
Industrial masonry was replaced by intellectual masonry (“speculative freemasonry”). masonry). But also the “duties” that originally came with which were clearly defined in a few words, suffered a ber change and, as a result of a deliberately unclear wording, the various interpretations and explanations. For example, one can
It can be quite clearly read from the new statutes that the Freemason under certain conditions has the right to express outrage and to instigate revolutions; only it must serve the cause of Freemasonry.
not even to their disadvantage. Some went out on this trip⸗ laying down far, under circumstances even downright by a "Duty" to speak out in outrage; so wrote the Free maurer's organ “The Freemason's Chronicle” (London 1875, I., (Page 81) literally the following: “If we were to claim.
that Freemasons under no circumstances oppose a bad
If the government were allowed to resort to arms, we would see them in in certain cases to condemn their highest and most sacred citizens⸗ to violate one's personal duty. The outrage is in certain Felling is a sacred duty! This view persists through⸗
Not just a few isolated cases, yes, there could be dozens of similar ones.
Voices from the most respected Freemason newspapers on the Bee wise ones are used.

With the entry of circles outside the guild, the free trade now began.
Freemasonry experienced an unprecedentedly rapid upswing and found its widest Spread. Immediately after the establishment of the Grand Lodge of England, the-
The introduction of Freemasonry throughout Europe followed; in all

Grand Lodges were founded in principalities. The rapid spread—tung of these secret societies, which, as we shall see, are often enough by They made use of their “right to outrage”, which led to for reasons of national security, they will soon be subjugated. oppression. Hardly founded, they were accused of being a threat to the state.
It was forbidden, for example in Naples (1731), Poland (1734), Holland (1735), France (1737), as well as Spain, etc. In Austria it is

The founding of Syreimaus lodges has been prohibited since 1794 and is punished as a secret society. This, however, did not prevent them from also We have a not insignificant number of lodges, for example in Vienna.
at present no fewer than 14; however, they had to to carry out the actual lodge activities in Bratislava, because the
To the police, they existed merely as "humanitarian associations" that allegedly did not concern themselves with politics.

What becomes of one who “seeks the light”, who is therefore free⸗
What is required of someone who wants to become a bricklayer? — “Noble character and self-conscious, towards the fulfillment of human destiny—
"He was supposed to actively participate in the "fifth—mentioned, social structure, towards the completion of humanity" ..

How these aesthetic demands are actually met by»
The details of the tour will be shown later.

Freemasons are divided into cosmopolitan communities.
or lodges. These communities are called societies or grand lodges.
lodges united and spread across the entire earth. The question, Whether Freemasonry is a secret society or not is very much a matter of debate.
denied it. The Freemasons themselves claim they are not gods.
homes, but merely a closed society: to be secret
Only the symbols of recognition and the ritual. The Freemason
They swore an oath of secrecy; the principal Freemason symbols constantly remind the brother of the severe punishments he will suffer if he breaks his vow. These signs meaning: cutting off throats, tearing out hearts, slitting open stomachs; whether whether they currently have merely symbolic meaning or not,
It is factually irrelevant.

The members of the lodges are usually divided into three groups.
Grades: Apprentices, Journeymen and Masters; this classification of The term "brothers" dates back to the time of operative masonry. Wanche Grand Lodges, however, possess high degrees of 11 and 25 degrees and about it; thus, the widespread so—called Scottish System of 33 degrees. However, there are also Grand Lodges with 95 degrees, which grant themselves the most magnificent titles and the most powerful power who knew how to settle matters with higher authorities. In German Freemasons⸗ "Circles," one says apologetically, "they are simply dizzying."

Facilities that originate solely from fraudsters; however, the fact is, The fact that these high-level systems exist and operate is that They are largely recognized by the German lodges as well. are and enjoy extraordinary prestige.

Freemasons recognize each other by certain signs, in certain words and in a peculiar e eee ("Grip"). Each grade has its own distinctive markings. If a Freemason is in mortal danger or otherwise in the highest danger In an emergency, he is allowed to give the "distress signal": every brother is then obligated to provide assistance. That such distress signals, in particular also played a major role during the World War, it says Beyond doubt. Many a brother, whose head was already in the noose was, was thus created by intervening of another brother, who had the ear of the highest authorities in the land possessed, rescued, and returned to life; e.g., Br... Kramar fd.)

|

Naturally, there are also lodges and grand lodges. countless disputes, which relate in particular to the Bors to refer to power. Attempts were made to settle these disputes at congresses. and not without success. World congresses were also held to initiate these discussions. a union of all Freemasons in the world were abheld; they led to the creation of an all-state office, the basis of the aspired-to world Grand Lodge, of which there is still The speech will be given.

It would be appropriate to take a brief look back at the To give the number of active Freemason lodges worldwide: in There are currently 9 Grand Lodges with 628 members working in the German Reich. Johannis Lodges and 5 independent Lodges. (Cf. Bt. Gpans cken: The German Freemasons). The number of German Freemasons The current figure is approximately 80,550. In Great Britain, there is... the “United Grand Lodge of England” in London, the 5536 They are affiliated with lodges. The number of members is now... approximately 351,320 brothers, including the "Scottish" high-degree members with= They are calculated. The Duke still stands as Grand Master. von Connaught at the head, the brother of Edward VII. (This The Duke of Connaught was, incidentally, part of a the English and American Czechs were chosen to be (to wear the crown of the future Czechoslovak state.) The Growth of English Freemasonry during the target period, The number of soldiers in the war is estimated at 150,000. In Scotland The Scottish Grand Lodge is located in Edinburgh. It is considered to be among the largest

Currently 830 lodges with approximately 50,000 Freemasons. The Irish Grand—
The lodge in Dublin unites 510 lodges with approximately 18,000 brothers.)
In France, the "Grand Orient de France" has 583 lodges. affiliated. The membership in 1917 was 33,000;
fie hat Déi in the last ten years before the outbreak of the world

---

5 According to oral communications from several Freemasons to the author.
2) See C. v. Dahlen's "Calendar for Freemasons" 1922 for this information.

The war has almost doubled. In addition, there is also the "Grand Lodge of France” in Paris with a Supreme Council (Supreme Council), which, however, is not recognized by the German Grand Lodge Federation.
It currently has 153 lodges. A new Grand Lodge was founded in 1913.
a lodge was founded in France, which had a significantly warmongering effect.
The one that was dissolved by fascism today deserves special attention.
The "Grand Orient of Italy" in Rome has approximately 500 lodges, whose Warmongering activities are no longer even tolerated by the German Syrians.
that the masons could be denied and their murderous Treiben fi noch 1927 in Wordanschschlägen revealed (see the Chapter on Freemasonry in Italy). Furthermore, there are Grand—lodges in Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden and Norway;
The lodges of the latter two states expressly demand Christian confession of the lodge brothers; the same is the case with a number of German lodges. In Switzerland, the Grand Lodge “Alpina”, whose former Grand Master Vr.—. Quarter la Vente 33 played a leading role in world Freemasonry. In Portugal was at the head of the Grand Lodge there, Br. Magalhäes Lima 33 .—., who is considered one of the main culprits in the Portuguese—
The Gieſisch Revolution of 1910 is referred to as the Grand Lodge.
They also exist in Spain, Russia, Poland, and most Vals.
kanſtaaten, fo auch in Serbia, whose “Supreme Conseil” (Oberst) Council) only recognized the received from the German Grand Lodge Federation. The lodges are particularly strong.
being developed in the United States of North America, where 17,008 members work under approximately 100 Grand Lodges. The number of Freemasons
The United States is listed differently depending on the source.
only the “just and perfect lodges” that are from the German
The fact that Freemasons are recognized as such is the only consideration.
or includes all others who consider themselves freemasons≠ Expense various connections. Therefore, the estimates vary. between half a million and two million. (While of the World War, America, as can be seen from the Freemasons there≠
ſchen Zeitſheften erſsichtlich ijt, eine Zuwachs von rund 500000 Brothers received. There were approximately [number] on the French front.
250,000 American Freemasons, four times as many as in all of Germany!
(Count of the number of Freemasons in the country!) Dahlen's Freemasons—
The calendar for 1926 gives the number as 3,091,000 Br..!

It should be emphasized now that in the United States almost everything that has a name, rank and prestige belongs to the Free≠ belonged to a Masonic guild. Since the introduction of Freemasonry In America (1733 in Boston) almost all presidents of the "United States" Freemasons, e.g., George Washington, Mac Kinley, Taft, Roofvelt, and Wilson. Regarding the last one...

Doubts were raised regarding the aforementioned, 1) but this does not change anything the fact that his immediate surroundings and his
The most trusted advisor among Freemasons is the Bizeprefident Br..
Marshall, who is a Scottish high-ranking mason,") likewise Br.. Lanſing, Br.. Oberſt Houſe,) Br... General Per-ſshing,) then the leader of the American who died in 1925 Workers' League Samuel Gompers and countless others. But There are also countless Grand Lodges in the rest of America.
and lodges, so in Brazil, in Chile, in Uruguay, in the central≠ American republics such as Kostarika, Guatemala, San Salvador, etc.
Even Haiti has its Grand Orient with 64 lodges and 4000 brothers!
And the Negro Republic of Liberia in Africa, which declared war on us,
It has a colored Grand Lodge that has been operating since 1867. A similar one
The image shows Australia, where there are 5 Grand Lodges with 739 lodges. with around 50,000 members. Even in Japan, that's Freemasonry is widespread, no less so in China, where Br..
Sunyatsen (died 12 March 1925) a pillar of world Freemasonry was. The total number of Freemason lodges worldwide will be Listed by Freemasons as 27065; they belong to a total of 3,855,880 brothers.") Considering that the lodges≠
Brothers are mostly ambitious, worldly people, Jour≠ Nazis and merchants, bankers, lawyers and industrialists, to to whom many scholars, but especially countless parliaments≠
If we consider the people of all countries of the world, we can roughly estimate...
To grasp the immense influence of these firmly established organs≠ fierte associations on those belonging to them or closely associated with them≠ to exercise standing circles. Then one can also understand, what significance must be attributed to Freemasons. Not "Without reason, the English Freemason already declared in 1902..." sheet "The Freemason's Chronicle" (p. 319): "The size of Bri-"Tanniens is the work of Freemasonry!" Or so one might think.
to the close mutual relations of the Freemasons, fo Dams
One automatically suspects that these men might probably even a significant part in the outbreak of the world» war.

---

1) See Chapter XXVI. —) See "Wr. Freimaurer≠Zeitung, May 1919, p. 48. — ) Ibid., p. 40. —) Ibid., p. 54. —)) According to C. v. Dahlens, "Freemasons≠ Calendar for 1926." The German Brother. Spancken gives the following figure for 1927: 27,8 4398 150 brothers; cf.: “The German Freemasons”.

To know whether this suspicion is justified, it is necessary to the political goals of the Freemasons, illustrated by
To subject the facts to a brief review. First of all, let's... admittedly, that the German Freemasons, the majority of whom
The majority believe they have nothing to do with politics, which is also why they... countless times, they credibly asserted this. Quite different.
The Romance and Anglo-American Freemasons. Note≠ Value is, for example, an utterance of Quartier la Tente's, one the most important leaders of Freemasons ever. He gave at the second international Freemasons' Congress in Paris (31 August to 2 September 1900) quite unequivocally admit that the main purpose of the “International Free” he founded Masonic offices” (Neuchâtel, Switzerland) which is a Ver≠ Unification of the Masonic forces of the entire world to bring about; and for what purpose? So that "the Freemasons a base from which they could explore the world could lift them off their hinges.” Also the end»
He set a goal for the Freemasons present, who came from all over the world.
areas that had gathered, with short, strong words apart; it is the "establishment of the world republic".
One might object that this is just an opinion.
of an individual, may this individual also be a Grand Champion and Brother ... of the 33rd degree, at least an excellent position.
in Freemasonry. However, this objection is not Valid, because a large majority thinks the same way as Quartier la Tente.
of the leading lodge members, namely in France, Eng≠ land, in Switzerland, in Italy and in the United States.
Probably elsewhere too. Already on the first International Masonic Congress in Paris (July 16 and 17) 1889), which, as a centenary celebration, commemorates the memory of the “glorious” dedicated to the French Revolution of 1789, was exactly The same thought was expressed: The goal to be achieved
The goal is an atheist world republic. Br.. Frankolin, the keynote speaker appointed by the Grand Orient de France war, he said it bluntly: “The day will come when among the peoples who have neither an 18th century nor a 1789 had the monarchies and the religions together≠
To fall. This day is not far off. This is the day, which we expect... "This day will be the general Freemasonic peoples and world brotherhood bring about.” .. “That This is the ideal future we envision. It's our business.
Is it the dawn of this day of universal world brotherhood?

“To speed up the process.” (Cf. Congrés maconnique international
(d. Centenaire 1789—1889, Paris, pp. 147—149.) For unbelievers For the reader, a third example is given for the time being, which consists of dates from the period immediately before the outbreak of the World War; this Therefore, so that one can recognize how the same basic idea relates to:
from different times up to the very present day, the spirits is controlled and expressed everywhere. From the 25th to The “International Masonic Conference” took place on May 27, 1912 in Luxembourg instead, where the main goal is once again the Union≠ was designated as the union of all Freemasons in the world; this was un≠ indispensable prerequisite for the Freemasonic world republic, which would then lead to truly secure world peace will have. (Official report on the Luxembourg Conference, Neuenburg i. Schw. 1912, p. 12.) Subject of the deliberations Initially, the focus was on the design of the "International Freemasons".
"Fair offices" in Neuenburg to a central committee, in which the Grand Lodges of the various countries send their delegates
They should send it. Why? For what purpose? Brother tells us.
Hevesi, a Hungarian Freemason who was in the Symbolic Grand Lodge
The lodge of Hungary plays a significant role; Br.. Hevesi desires a unified world federation of Freemasons, so that he can be in the decisive, world-changing SF race to put the entire immense power of the Freemasons on the line cast, uniformly, throughout the whole world, so that such a thing as the most important issues of the day in a Masonic sense,
That means they would be resolved in favor of the republican form of government!
Brother Hevesi's application was approved in principle. But the Freemasons are cautious people. Therefore, no decision was reached. conditions, as "utmost caution" is required here... It was also emphasizes that Freemasons are already everywhere Extraordinary≠ They accomplished great things; many endeavors originated from them, without that the general public has a vague idea would have gained from that. (This becomes understandable when one knows that in Parliaments around the world have a large number of freedoms≠
(mason has a seat and a vote.)

Only the Freemasonic World Federation actually came into being.
Two of the most active Freemasons, the repeatedly mentioned Brother .:.
Quartier la Vente, 33 .., and the Portuguese revolutionary Br..
Magalhaes Lima, 33 .., took the foundation into their own hands; they
It happened without causing much of a stir, especially since it was seemingly an extremely harmless gathering was used for this purpose: The Esperanto Congress, which will take place in Bern (Switzerland) from the 25th to

The meeting took place on August 31, 1913; during which they discussed Zamenhof's (seeds≠)
The world language was discussed at the same time, namely on August 30th.
In 1913, the Freemasonic "World Federation" was founded, and the Esperanto was declared to be its world language.

At the same time, the VI International Free Conference was meeting in The Hague.
Masonic Conference (August 23-25, 1913). Even the entry…
The invitation to this is so remarkable that it is in its essential Part of it is to be reproduced here; it says therein literally: “Over the past few years, our ideal of a Initially a connection between the Freemasonic peoples (Alliance of the (peuples d'abord maconniques) ... more and more the hearts conquered" ... "We have recently been emphasizing our indomitable Willen, the Masonic world chain (la chaine maconnique universelle), which until now has only been a symbol, finally in
"To create reality." ... "The victorious movement has already many obstacles removed.” . .. “A whole legion of Active agitators are stirring up support for this...

These examples, which could be multiplied at will,
This is probably the next goal of the Freemasons, namely the creation an influential, globally spanning “world” "Association of Freemasons" has been sufficiently clarified. But including the ultimate goal, the creation of a world republic, This should no longer be in doubt for any reader. It was even... understandably necessary, the masses of the people, especially the German people, against the previous "authorities", against to incite the “rulers” against the “tyrants” and to≤ to incite hatred. The monarchies should disappear, the peoples should unite.
to liberate spiritually, to emancipate, and the power itself tear. The only question was, who should then be called upon to act in the name of... the fate of the countries and the whole of the “sovereign” people to take humanity into our own hands. However, this question has the
It never caused Freemasons much concern. Who then?
Who else but the Freemasons themselves? Was that possible in France?
It had only recently, namely in 1910, been Portugal did a brilliant job, why shouldn't it also work in Germany?
Is that possible in the country and in Austria? Then it would come to...
“holy alliance of bourgeois democracy”, and the hot≤
The longed-for, lasting "world peace" would be secured for all time!

On this occasion, it should not be overlooked that the Pacifists, the world peace activists, are most closely associated with the "Grand Samenhof was a Jew born in Libau.

~

—

to Orient de France” together; it is one of the memorable ones⸗ first appearances from the time before the outbreak of the World War, that the Freemason congresses are almost identical to the pacifist conferences inextricably linked, e.g., the “Hague Peace Conference”.

"ferenz" and the Freemasons' Congress of 1913. The main⸗
The makers largely find the same ones; for example, Br.... AH Fried (pacifist and Freemason) he was one of the ge⸗ the most hateful opponents of the German emperor. In contrast, the be⸗ Pacifists, Professor Dr. Lammasch and Professor Foerster, knew each other.
No lodge brothers agree, but were supported by Freemasons.
Strongly influenced without knowing it. The trustingness that Prof. Lammasch meets with President Woodrow Wilson⸗ brought, does full justice to his good heart; the Germans
He served as an advisor to the Crown – like all poorly educated people.
Politicians – have suffered immense damage.

Even more striking, even stranger, is the following act⸗
The matter: While the pacifists in the critical period of 1911 until 1914 with particular zeal and extremely noisy for the Those working to maintain threatened world peace were different-since the lodge members who are influential in political life, such as Br. . Delcaffé, Br.. Poincaré, Br. . Vriand, Br. Willerand etc., busily at work to connect with like-minded English and Russian statesmen directly leading up to the World War⸗ work! The impartial observer, who with dispassionate Perseverance to unravel the threads of this fine fabric
The searcher finds only one explanation: It's a game with distributed roles, a double game, whereby some good a devout pacifist may not have suspected whose business dealings he Basically worried. They're pursuing the same policy with a hidden agenda.

the one who, with us (Br.. Kramarſch?), possesses extraordinary skill and has achieved its greatest success: seemingly loyal, in reality the worst warmonger against the monarchy imaginable can. Pacifism was only introduced to us gullible Germans.

preached; we should renounce militarism, our Overthrow authorities, dethrone our rulers, and the republic introduce. Russian imperialism was then in Frankish times.
rich and in England just as little talk as of the Britishfchen world domination ambitions.

1) Lodge Socrates ⸗Vienna.
) Br.. Dr. Kramarſch is a foreign member of the “Grand Orient de France”.

II.
Entry into the Freemasons' Order (Federation).

The question: What is Freemasonry? is answered by the bee knew Belgian Freemason Goblet d'Alviella from the 33rd Hoc)» The following answer was given: “Freemasonry is a secret society.” agreement which is about free and honorable men, a brotherhood A bond intertwines that is stronger and higher than all difference. of profession, party, nationality or religion.” And the Grand Orient of France cites the purpose of freedom as… Freemasonry: the search for truth, the study of the world and the practice of solidarity. Freemasonry, it is said, works on the refinement and perfection of mangender. She is tolerant by nature, rejecting all dogma. ab and takes the standpoint of absolute freedom of conscience. Their motto is liberty, equality, fraternity (Article 1). (the constitution). The statutes of the other states express themselves similarly. Grand Orient out. (A later essay will examine more the, whether and to what extent this noble and humane ground» (Statements correspond to the facts.)

The origins of Freemasonry are shrouded in legendary obscurity. shrouded. There was no shortage of attempts to trace its origin to as hidden a place as po to push back to earlier times; they were associated with the Withrascult, with the profound Pythagorean number theory, yes even in connection with Euclid, the father of mathematics. Others again saw in the Roman building structures (collegia fabrorum) their predecessors, others wanted to go to Hiram, the alleged builder of Solomon's Temple, the founder of Freemasonry. Also the Knights Templar, which in The fact that it had been abolished in the 14th century was often viewed as the starting point of Freemasonry and the "Great State-Lodge of Sweden” and those associated with it Grand Lodges derive their existence directly from the Knights Templar. ab, even if they have not yet provided proof of this. could.

But how is the name "Freemason" to be explained? Today it stands There is no doubt that the Freemasons originated from the old operative masonry.

12. Entry into the Freemasons' Order (-League).

These guilds of stonemasons and sculptors emerged from this. and bricklayers traveled throughout Europe with their master builders and remained stuck for a longer time in those places where they were

They found work. They had their own customs and meaning.
Images, certain identifying marks, and artistic secrets. Free Bricklayers were, in contrast to the less educated, sess⸗ called masons, who are merely ordinary heapers, one-Simple village churches built by free masons, called He in Wittel⸗ also because they had to be free, perhaps also because, in recognition of their artistic achievements, they received many Freedoms and privileges of kings and popes are preserved had. The first such guild or builders' lodge (English: lodge) is mentioned in France as early as 1258 in Paris, Yes, in England the first Grand Lodge was even founded as early as 936.
in Dork together. It was English kings who developed the art of building.
promoted in the most effective way. Thus it came about that very soon the Freemasonry was described as the "Royal Art", a Expression that modern Freemasons still use today with pre-⸗
To apply love in a habit. Numerous fortified castles, stone ones.
Bridges and enormous church buildings have survived from those times.
as works of the Freemasons of that time.

With the decline of architecture, initially they disappear.
of the 17th century also the cooperatives of the free works⸗ bricklayers in Europe, for which the countless wars essentially beige⸗
They have to wear them. Only in England did they survive, and through the
The addition of distinguished laymen brought new blood into the English Lodges. “Citizens, noblemen, and scholars participated in the all-…”
The monthly Freemasons' festivals attract a lively participation,
They also apparently requested to be admitted to the cooperative and were "Admitted." "But since they were neither stonemasons, nor bricklayers, nor Sculptors were, if one merely accepted them, one made them into Fictional bricklayers. Hence the name "angenommene Mau" (a play on words meaning "to take rer“, which today, where no knowledge of the craft is required “All Freemasons will wear it.” Brother Limousin assures us, the 1908 in the French magazine "Acacia" under the Code name Hiram: A brief history of Freemasonry appeared.

The number of accepted bricklayers grew steadily;
Much was contributed to this by the fact that the recording took place on the occasion of The "seekers" had to pay for the organized festivities;
They were just paying for their inaugural feast, as is customary in many guilds.
was common and also had other not insignificant contributions, On⸗ to pay registration fees and the like. That may be a reason for the lodges.

enough to recruit numerous new members who partly through the lavish banquets, partly probably also through the
They were drawn to the mysterious world of "royal art". Close⸗
There were more "presumed" than actual members in the lodges.
Bricklayer.

In the year 1717, that memorable reunification took place.
transformation through which the original work masonry became Spiritual Freemasonry (speculative Freemasonry) was established. Four close≈
The various lodges joined together to form a Grand Lodge, and gave
They adopted a new constitution and regulated customs. The Press Diger Jakob Anderson created the "Constitution Book of the Free and accepted masons", which was put into print in 1723.
and still today one of the most important sources of Freemasonry educates.

No further historical developments will be discussed for the time being.
will be discussed in more detail; it should only be noted that the narrow Freemasonry as the mother of present-day Freemasonry masonry must be viewed.

Those who "seek the light", those who want to become Freemasons, must be legally competent and possess a certain level of higher education.
have. The minimum age is generally considered to be completed [year of birth].
24, year of age; Luftons, d. s. sons of Weistermasonry, royal-
However, they can be admitted at the age of 18. Male≈
The same sex is not permitted in all "just and perfect lodges"
Prerequisite. Currently, however, there is a powerful Movement in favor of the inclusion of women. The
The "Grand Lodge of Vienna" has, for the time being, opposed it. spoken, but the Grand Master himself, Brother Schlesinger, gives (already the possibility that he will change his fine opinion)
In Hungary, many lodges are open to women. Also The "Eclectic League" (Frankfurt am Main) deals with this Question, and in Holland there are already eight "mixed" lodges, e.g. in Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Utrecht, Hilversum and in Hague.?) In Belgium, the wife of the socialist and minister Br.
Vandervelde, chairman of a ladies' lodge. Earlier – in 18th century – there were numerous ladies' lodges, particularly in France, but also Germany. Wealth and prosperity≈
Although it is not explicitly required, it is expected of the indigent.
already due to the not inconsiderable registration fees and annual fees
The fees make entry very difficult.

5 "Wr. Fr. 8." May 1919, p. 20. Y "Wr. Fr. Z.", June 1919, p. 24.

14. Entry into the Freemasons' Order ("League").

The "seeker of light" first needs the intercession of two.
"Masters" who vouch for him. Will the subtle intention of the Lodge known, so detailed inquiries are made about him≈ pulled; if these preliminary surveys turn out favorably, then the Applicants submit their application for admission, which includes a statement of their...
must be included in the curriculum vitae.

But the application for admission is rejected by balloting (ballotage).
decided. Among the lodges subordinate to the "Grand Lodge of Vienna".

(loan), 1–2 black balls tribe ballotage, no black Sphere “brightly shining ballotage”.

Lodge life – says Br... Schauberg – is a true Light Service, every lodge is a temple of light. The highest The lodge's rite of passage is therefore the admission of a seeker of enlightenment; the
The main thing here is "giving light". Before that, However, when the seeker comes, he must face a whole series of frights⸗ to overcome nits. He is led into a black chamber, which is only dimly lit; in one corner stands a skeleton.
The dark chamber is a symbol of the womb and at the same time of the grave, thus an allusion to that darkness, which surrounds us before birth and after death.
The “preparing brother” appears and speaks to the seeker.
friendly to him and explains that the light-seeker to the new⸗ like a child born naked, poor and (mentally) blind in The world enters. The seeker must therefore shed his clothes.
Disenfranchise and hand over all valuables. This bore was formerly
The letter was followed literally; today, one is content with the Removal of outer garments; the left foot is placed in a kind of Slipper inserted, which is also no longer common practice.
The way of the times is moving in that direction; everything theatrical, with which to gradually eliminate the order (league) that surrounded itself.
However, as was the case relatively recently during the recording Br... Berillon reports on this in a fine "story". of the Lodge Le Phenix”: “The seeker was connected with eyes and bound hands in the top floor of the lodge⸗ led to the building, where he first had to dictate his will.
Then his feet were tied. In this helpless
He was then lowered into a deep waterway by a rope.
down the well, from which he was only pulled out when his Courage was tested in various ways.
was." Even today, admission is permitted in French lodges⸗ The ceremonies were quite strange, to say the least. Br.. Romeiffen, the had repeated opportunities to attend such recordings,

It was reported in the Masonic newspaper "Herold" (1908)
the following: “...The preparers and brothers were in black
They were dressed in robes and walked, as it seemed to me, with their faces veiled.
to the seeker. Blindfolded, he entered, sat down on a chair facing the Orient (East),
And now a long examination began, in which the chair-meifter about fine political and religious views⸗ wanted to teach him and subject him to countless questions and to corner cross-questions; because except for full» Constant resentment is still demanded of every brother.

— at least in France — that he is a good republican and freethinkers... After this examination came the Hikes (the so-called "journeys"). During these, the All sorts of obstacles were placed in the way of those seeking light, so that he bumped into things and stumbled at every turn. Then
He had to climb up a plank supported in the Witte; when
When he crossed the middle, the board tipped over, so that he fell was brought closer. Meanwhile, the chairman had become acquainted with Wittler.
new questions prepared, so that the exam can continue.
could, which showed much wit and eloquence among the light⸗ presupposed the seeker. If he was found worthy, he performed
He swore the oath of allegiance, the blindfold fell from his eyes and everyone Brothers raised their swords at him, not to hurt him.
not to threaten, but as a sign of acceptance into their league and to the counter-oath that they would protect him until last moment.

But even in German Freemason circles, according to According to consistent reports, customs that are hardly known to the federal government.
can be advantageous; they are also used by many free people.
Masons openly disapproved of and reprimanded. Br.. Milim (openly⸗ (Bar, a pseudonym), who was a Freemason for 25 years, recently to publish a small book ("Experiences and Discoveries") Baptisms of an old lodge brother", Leipzig 1913, 4th edition, Commission publisher H. Keßler), which presents the "horrors" of its publication.
The incident is described in a sarcastic manner. He too learned the black
He knew the chamber with the skeleton; he had already heard about it.
I had heard of it before, but kept it along with all the creepy things that that should be related, always only for a bad reason Joke, because he couldn't quite imagine that serious men would play such a masquerade. He too was told…
Next, their eyes were blindfolded; these blindfolds were tied with two straps into the

Provide the eye sockets with suitable small cushions so that it can be worn through" from it was impossible to even see the slightest glimmer of light See. Mr. Wilim now describes the long [unclear] quite vividly.
hike, during which he, arm in arm with a second Light-seekers, led by the hand by the serving brothers was, while the preparing brother continually issued warnings⸗ shouted things like: "Bend down really low, there's something here!"
A beam across the middle, under which you have to crawl; make You take quite a large step; here flows a water that you
"They must cross over!" This was apparently intended to put them in a rather...
A creepy atmosphere was created. Then suddenly, someone said: "Stop!"
— We are standing in front of a door, please knock! — In the
The moment they obeyed this instruction, a roar echoed through them.
a powerful blow from within: this time the purpose was
The abung is fully achieved, for Brother Wilim, how fine!

The comrades were quite startled and recoiled.

Then there was a question and answer game led by Brother Milim. described as downright childish. After this examination, the following then occurred: The "seekers of light" were admitted to the temple, where they were given the melodious tones of a harmonium and beautiful male singing deeply affected the heart. But this was followed once again by... “Travel” of the most unpleasant kind. “We were led around,” says Br. Milim – “through fire and water, that is, suddenly hissing Flashes of light flashed before us, scorching my beard hairs, or one He splashed cold water in our faces, and so suddenly, that we, the blinded, bounced back every time. That seemed to give the sighted brothers much joy, because every time It seemed to me as if I could hear faint giggling here and there. would. Finally, we were brought before the throne of the Most Reverend–The first master was removed from his chair. This was made clear to us by this. We were informed that Br... P. said to us: “Bow here "The one who leads this venerable lodge has his seat there." Then They had to take a vow, everything they still heard and would see it as a secret to keep or even back nowenter.

What does this masquerade prank actually mean? Br.. Henne am Rhyn, a highly respected, Freemason Writer who occasionally used rather harsh words about the The excesses and aberrations of Freemasonry that were permitted give us The following explanation applies: Entry into the "temple" (lodge) It signifies entry into life. Life is manifold. A complex maturity, on which one can often get lost. Like the

Since a person is tested many times on life's journey, so too must... The seeker of light must prove his steadfastness. This happens. now through the three journeys, which are under safe conditions at every level Leadership is undertaken. At the apprentice level, it is the Elements that the seeker must touch: fire, water, and Earth. But the deeper meaning is: The one being received has the He sought light and fell into a consuming fire. Often Striving people from the wild fire of passions They are scorched and perish in it. However, through wise caution... to tame the fire and turn it into a benevolent source of warmth to transform. In water the unrestrained flame is extinguished; but The water of cold self-interest also stifles the sacred embers. Passion for human well-being. Wise prudence. However, the cold waves of indifference are pushing against the Ideally, they returned and allowed the floods only their beneficial effect. For the best of health and purity, also in the spiritual life. Wealth, splendor, and beauty sink into the dust of the earth. heit; but the fruitful womb of Mother Earth brings forth the

The seed, which is sunk into it, leads to magnificent flowering and delicious fruit.

As you can see, Freemasonry is at work, and especially... the German one, with many images and parables.

That the Freemasons do not share their customs with the public
The desire to know that the keit is being pulled is understandable after the shared one.
“No human being – says Brother Wilhelm Ohr,) an excellent Freemasonic writer, well-disposed towards Germans and of noble character
Nefchlichkeit fulfilled – no human being would be harmed by this Bers Publicly learn what this custom actually means is able to offer. It is, by its very nature, incommunicable.
because it can only be experienced, not described or told.
can." However, if a non-Freemason, an “ordinary person” who is being targeted for entry into the secret—
If one were to penetrate that closed world, this would happen.
neither out of curiosity, nor to ridicule Freemasonry do it, and certainly not for the reason of perhaps increasing the risk of rebuilding.
to arouse sight. The purpose of this writing can rather be understood as... also justifiable from a Freemasonic point of view, because the desire for truth, for light and enlightenment, that The pursuit of complete knowledge aligns perfectly with the former clarified the ultimate goals of Freemasonry itself; that this striving

---

) Dr. Wilhelm Ohr, Privatdozent, killed in action on August 23, 1916.

18. Entry into the Freemasons' Order (Federation).

This time, it seems to be directed against Freemasonry, which is in itself indifferent. Incidentally, the customs of the lodge – says Dr.
Otto Henne am Rhyn – to be kept secret only insofar as These are willful, pointless, or even malicious statements.
It concerns "scientific and other serious
Their purposes may and should be discussed; what, how
This, which is part of human culture, cannot and must not be denied.
It will remain a secret. Science knows this.
"Not a concept."

That sounds quite different from that terrible one.
Oath taken by the candidate in the "Grand Lodge of the Land of Sweden” to take – that weighty oath which fo
What is tedious is that it is only reproduced here in excerpts.
can. In this oath, the light commits itself.
Seekers are bound to absolute secrecy. He must swear on the holy gospel, never from the Free⸗— to speak of Freemasonry or to profess to be a Freemason, except before true brethren of a right and lawful lodge; he must swear never to join another secret society⸗

He may not appear, except with the permission of his superiors; he must swear to all
He obediently followed the commands and orders of his superiors and To obey, vim, but in the end it means death, lich: “But in the slightest degree I am of this Should I break my vow, then I will that my Throat cut off, my heart, my tongue and They ripped out my intestines and threw everything into be thrown into the abyss of the sea; that my Body burned and fine ash into the air around be scattered so that nothing of me and my Remembrance among the people and free members» brothers remain.” (Printed in the Masonic (Newspaper “Latomia”, 1869, p. 46 ff.) The enormous difference
The differences between the two opinions are crystal clear; and one wonders... in vain, what purpose such a terrible oath could serve– This follows if it is a company that allegedly only the search for truth and the improvement of man⸗
It should serve the sexes! Even the Masonic newspaper "La– “Tomia” disregards this oath and all the statutes of the “Great “Swedish National Lodge” almost speaks, indeed it demands around out of the eradication of a society that constitutes a state in wants to form states! But let us linger for a moment longer at this oath itself and let us hear what the Grand Lodge of the Land says of Sweden in Article 7 of its Basic Constitution concerning the elaborates on the Masonic crime of perjury. "Breaks a brother” – it says – “the oath of secrecy that he rendered the Order upon his first entry by either something from strangers, unfounded people, or brothers of lower degrees to him what has been entrusted to him in the order, on Whatever the nature of it, he will be guilty and liable under the law.

to suffer judgment to which he himself vowed by taking that oath subjected, and he will be the unknown and secret full⸗ handed over to the stretchers of that judgment; he was uncertain before their avenging hands in all those places on the globe, even where upright and genuine free and accepted brothers:
find and carry out their work"

This also answers the frequently asked question, whether the Freemason takes an oath upon his initiation, or a to take a mere oath: This is determined by the the relevant Masonic teaching method; according to the Swedish System, which is also the "Grand Lodge of Freemasons in Germany” has introduced an oath, in the lodges an oath is required.
In other systems, a sworn oath or vow is sufficient.

In the “Explain” edited by Brother Robert Fischer–

“Rung der Katechismen der Joh.≠Freimaunder” we read (31. Auf≠ (lage, p. 26): “According to the English and the Old French ritual
A rope was placed around the neck of the newly consecrated priest.
laid with the meaning "to be of the light-seeker—" powerful, if he had regretted it and he had turned to the
"Would have run down the street!" After the reasons for the old—English catechism given out, the rope is a sign≠ within the jurisdiction of the free .. Mr."

The taking of the oath or vow is then followed by the formal induction with fraternal kiss or handshake, whereupon
The granting of light takes place: The full light illuminates the Lodge hall, the initiate sees himself with the other brothers connected, whose singing with musical accompaniment described him as a brother
He is greeted; he is told the names and meanings of the three pillars.
the lodge (wisdom, strength and beauty), likewise its lights, Ornaments and tools, signs, words, and handles are given to him.
of the first degree, he learns the manner of knocking.

---

1) "The horrific oaths now also exist in German high-degree lodges."
No longer. They are simple vows there, even in the 30th degree (From the Letters from a German high-ranking mason to the author).

know and receives the Masonic clothing (the apron), Ab≠
Signs and gloves; with these, the solemn act begins.
The end. The one who was taken in is now free in outward form.
mason, while the deeper meaning and the actual teachings eluded him the lodge is still unfamiliar to them for the time being, and the ultimate goals, such as It should be noticed immediately, the average bricklayer also needs time≠ life remains alien to him, even if he has been known for years as a "master of The chair is a lodge. There have been crowned heads, after all.
who have never experienced the high degrees in their lifetime,
And we know of many royal masons that they never able to penetrate the true “secret” of the order≠
ten. Thus it also happens that countless Masonic writers, Masters of their own lodges, in our best faith repeatedly assure that, apart from the deeper meaning of the free≠
There is no secret to Masonic symbols. This seems However, this is completely unbelievable when we consider the terrible oaths.
to consider how they are exemplified in the “Great Land≠ lodge of Sweden” must be laid down; such a Bers Moreover, this security contradicts the proven facts, such as... will be shown later.

The root of all this secrecy, by the way, lies in the so-called "Old Duties" of Freemasons, as they are in the English Book of Constitutions of 1723 are contained; namely, in the fourth point of the VI. Ab⸗ it says there

The text literally states: “You should in speech and behavior
Be careful, so that even the most astute stranger (Non-Freemasons) are unable to discover anything, which He must not be informed. Occasionally Do you also have to distract a conversation and... sent to the honor of the venerable brotherhood
"Lead." The Freemason must not even lead his friends, yes not even to his family members, announcements about the Freemasonry. Even the iff already in the “Old Compulsoryten“ !) stipulated: “You should ... your family, your Friends and neighbors will not discover anything that the Lodge concerns." ... The Free Brothers have been even more cautious.
mason to probe a stranger's "brother": "Your You should examine it carefully, in the way that is best for you.
the wisdom that enters, so that you are not affected by a Une Knowing people were deceived by false pre-mirroring.

1) Point 5 of Section VI.

will be. With contempt and scorn you must treat a fol» Reject him and beware of him
"Admit the slightest hint of your knowledge."

In the German Catechism (Br. Fischer, 1902) it says from⸗ emphatically, he must emphasize this in every conversation with a Br.
to be careful not to be overheard, “so that he may fulfill his vows.”
"Remain loyal to the one who is bound by secrecy."

Based on these findings, the question is probably justified:
Is Freemasonry really just one of these?
closed society,” as the German Freemasons always called it claim (and probably have to claim), or is she Or rather a secret society?

) “Old Duties”, Section VI, Point 6.

III.
Masonic institutions, customs and symbols.

the institutions, customs and symbols of Learning more about Freemasonry offers opportunities for those who Since it doesn't belong to the order, it serves little purpose. Therefore, it should only everything that needs to be discussed can be covered in very short sentences. There exists an incredibly rich body of Masonic secret literature. and provides insights.

The meeting place of the brothers is called a lodge, also a lodge or building lodge. Workshop or temple. Unauthorized entry should be prevented. to be avoided, the lodge must therefore be properly protected, that is to say to be safe. This is ensured by a brother on watch or "brick". decker", who checks the entering persons for their right to do so and only admits, if everything is in order. The lodge, or rather the lodges-The hall has no windows, or they are covered. The rooms are Therefore, it must be dark so that the light, which brings about spiritual enlightenment, This should mean overcoming natural darkness at the same time.

Freemasons all over the world call themselves brothers. In Brothers recognize each other in written communication through the use of three points (...), which are the initial letters of Freemasonic They tend to fill in expressions. Therefore, they are used by their opponents. mockingly called the "Three-Point Brothers". The number three plays a role. also plays a certain role in other aspects of Masonic life, such as in... Greetings, especially when clapping hands, but also when using symbols.

The lodge activity of the brothers is called "work". The work-Lodges serve, for example, the admission and promotion of brothers; The Freemasons themselves describe the process as extremely unusual. Captivating and uplifting descriptions.

In memory of a brother who "went to the eternal Orient" "Having arrived," the mourners' lodge is in place. This begins – according to Br.. Schauberg – with a judgment over the dead and only when he was deemed worthy of the honor of a funeral lodge, follows the actual funeral ceremony, consisting of three parts, the mourning-speech, the lighting of the lamp before the symbolic sarcophage of the deceased and the adornment with flowers by all the brothers present, taking three turns in three moves and Walk around the coffin. At the end of the ceremony. The chain of brothers is formed and the brotherly kiss is exchanged. (The The chain of brotherhood consists in the fact that every mason places his right hand on lays the shoulder of his foreman; after Henne am Rhyn they are at the chain of brotherhood, the hands of all present brothers... unites, thereby symbolizing the unity of all. becomes.)

There are symbols or emblems in Freemasonry. an exceedingly large number; they are the binding agent of all those, who subscribe to this intellectual orientation. The large and eternal truths that govern Wenschism, wants Freemasonry cannot be put into words and communicated, its The aim is rather to initially attract receptive individuals. To educate mothers. The symbols, especially those of the apprentice? Grades therefore serve the purpose of purification and clarification. The symbols, says Brother JL Beyer of the Grand Lodge In Saxony, the brothers are to teach how to properly understand humanity. to grasp, undeterred by all, the fundamentals of existence to become aware of inherited and learned prejudices and to learn from them to derive the corresponding duties. This also applies to Freemasons. Freemasonry itself thus appears as a veiled image. The brothers should experience and feel; the German Freemasonry therefore turns, at least in the lower three Degrees, exclusively to the mind, not to the intellect. Accordingly, everything has symbolic meaning, their "lights" both (Deity, conscience, humanity), like the celestial bodies (sun, moon) and earth), then the ideas (wisdom, strength, beauty) and Naturally, the tools (hammer, square and) are also included. Circle). From the lights, this means above us – after Henne on the Rhyn – the deity, the light within us, the certainty, the Light surrounds us, humanity. The hammer is their meaning. The image of power, the set square symbolizes conscience. and the circle the thinking environment.

The sentence "that the Masters find their way between set square and compass." But whoever enters the The symbolic essence of Freemasonry has penetrated it, will not can deny that this word has a beautiful meaning, even if the corresponding question in the master catechism refers to the at first glance it may seem downright foolish.")

1) "What is found above and below the coffin? WI – "A set square and a compass." – "Why?" – "To create a memorial for "The master." – "If a master were lost, where would he be found again?" –

The three pillars also have symbolic meaning: Carpet, the flaming star, often depicted as a pentagram, often also as the Star of David appears. In the flaming star again has the letter G has its special and multiple meanings; it It is supposed to point to God, then again it means "Gnosis" (Greek). knowledge) and finally he should learn geometry, the foundation of the kinglichen Kunst, versinnbilden. In English, the letter G indicates referring to "Grand Geometrician", the great world architect, over- This also contains an allusion to Generatio = procreation.

Symbolic meaning also resides in the auxiliary tools.

the bricklayer inside, the plumb line, the spirit level, the trowel, the Ruler and the Weigel. If, however, Freemasonry the (the Bible counts among the great lights,) while it sun and Moon next to the "Master of the Chair" among the small lights If one counts, then this is probably a symbolism that is not unjustly considered Mockery from many a brother who places his feet at a right angle has posed, challenged.

In the Meiftergrade, the ideal figure of Hiram plays the main role. According to legend, Hiram or Adonhiram was the builder of the Solomon's Temple. Anderson calls it the "most perfect". Maurer” and his work, the most sublime and precious building of that time. Hiram was allegedly carried on by three duty-bound men. to kill the forgotten journeyman because he refused to send them into the to reveal secrets reserved for the master. He is considered to the Freemasons as a model of the most faithful fulfillment of duty.

Among the essential symbols of the third degree is... The coffin with the skull and bones. The customs are... However, the individual Grand Lodges differ; to us it seems However, it is not necessary to know that at the lodge "To the Three" “Globes” the wax corpse of an old man in a coffin must lie down, or that the brothers must lie over their own coffin. have progressed, or finally, that at the Grand Lodge of Germany, a coffin on a black carpet with silver tears The fact that the body is laid out leaves us indifferent, even though one of them...

"Between set square and compass." — "What does that mean?" — "That he is always ready" is to voluntarily return to the right path if he has unfortunately gone astray.” The current Master Question Book of the "Grand Lodge of Germany" Contains similar questions and answers.

1) Questions 17 and 18 of the apprentices' catechism read:

17. 110 E the three great lights of Freemasonry?” — “Bible, square and circle."

18. “How do you explain such things?” — “The Bible orders and judges our faith, The angle measures our actions, the compass determines our relationship to all people, especially against our brothers.”

— a ET

Grand Lodge, the square at the foot end (in the east) and the compass are attached at the top (in the west), but not at other times. The reverse order applies, etc.; we simply want to remember this. that the coffin symbol has a significant meaning in all lodges It forms part of Freemasonic teachings and customs. "The FreeMaurer begins his career in the Black Chamber and

"Fisherman completed his studies there as a master." "The master's degree of the Johannis-
The lodge shows the Freemasons the Wenschen in his deepest Humiliation." He is to teach the undeniable truth that Ultimately, all human knowledge, striving, and action is futile.
and is obsolete.

The symbol of the apprenticeship rank is the crude or rough one.
Stone. The rough stone must first be worked, hewn, in order to to be used in the construction. The apprentice himself, who has entered the Freemasons' Order is for the lodge of the rough stone; the apprentice must therefore first learn its roughness and To recognize his flaws, his mistakes and passions, and to see his whole self in a positive Striving should be directed towards self-knowledge.

The symbol of the journeyman's degree is the cubic stone.
As a hewn or cubic stone, it should then be given to the Wenscheit⸗ Temples will be inserted. Self-control is therefore the goal that the journeyman must strive for; self-control and Subordination to the master, he who hews the stones
He has it assembled by his journeymen according to his will.
The journeyman level thus marks the beginning of the training of bricklayers.
work.

"But the wisest man must devise the plan, the outcome of which⸗
"Supervise management and pay the workers their wages."

The secret signs and words should not be mentioned here. will be touched upon further. For the non-Freemason, it also has little sense, the 5 P. d. M., the old MW, the new MW and to learn certain secret expressions. Likewise,
The Hiram legend, which was invented much later anyway, is needed here.
to be explained in more detail.

IV.

Johannismaunerei – Andreasmaunerei.

(Blue and red lodges, lower degrees, higher degrees.)

The three degrees: apprentice, journeyman and master are against⸗ peculiar to all blue or St. John's lodges.
That wasn't always the case. The Constitutions Book of the English
The Grand Lodge of 1723 does not recognize the Master Mason degree at all.
Not yet. It explicitly states: "The most experienced journeyman should to be appointed master or overseer." At that time, no Brother, however experienced he was, called Weistermason, until he
He had been elected Master of a lodge. Only in the year 1725
The title of master craftsman came into use; until then, it was simply called Weister⸗ mason only the master of the chair.
The expression "blue" or "Jo–" requires an explanation.

“hannislogen”: Of blue lodges, or degrees,
When speaking of relationships, one refers to the sky-blue color of the ab⸗ Symbol of Freemasons; Johannis Masonry is named after the Patron saint of the old stonemasons; precisely for this reason it was openly bar also the founding of the new spiritual masonry at St. Jo-Hanni Day (June 24, 1717) was carried out. If from symbols⸗ fchen Lodges, or rather Grand Lodges, the discussion is, t) fo find so that the degrees, lodges and grand lodges of Johannis Freemasonry meant, namely with regard to the numerous ones used in it⸗ figurative symbols, some of which have been mentioned earlier.
The opposite of this is the red or Andreas.
Freemasonry, which takes its name from the red color of its badges, or derives from Saint Andrew, who was the first who is said to have converted from John the Baptist to Jesus.
Red grades are also referred to simply as high grades because They possess a higher knowledge of freedom unknown to the masters.
They want to offer masonry. They only allow the three old degrees.
They are considered Borfdule, but this depends on the individual system.
differently arranged. "Slowly but steadily, one pressed the

) For example, the "Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary", which, however, has been united with Hungarian high-degree masonry in 1886.

St. John's boxes downwards, so that they only serve as stools for the high-ranking members “They should serve just,” says the highly esteemed Masonic time. publication “Latomia” (1869, Volume 28, p. 22). “The Lodges of St. John
"They are there to pay and be silent" — another person might say.
Brother about it. “The lower brothers find the frontri-
"The part that builds, the part that enjoys the upper part" — it was already said in the 18th century at the Wilhelmsbad Congress (1782).
Where do the high grades come from? The beginning is likely the Degree of the Royal Arch (degree of the royal vault) made have, which formed in France after 1740 and developed into a presumed a certain superiority over the degenerate lower grades.
Then the variegated Scottish grades came into being, but which demonstrably have nothing to do with Scotland, but rather of French origin. The creation of "Knight Kadosch"
"Grad", which depicts the Templars' revenge, falls in the year 1743. The expression "Scottish master" (maitre) probably originates from this period.
ecossais) on an unintentional confusion with maître acassais, which refers to the acacia, the sacred tree of the Freemasons, would point out. Then, in rapid succession, they arose.
Each new degree until the number 25 was reached. But also They didn't stop there, and after French-Scottish System that has found the greatest distribution across the entire Earth
There are currently 33 degrees. Apprentice, journeyman and Master then ranks as the fourth degree of the "Secret Master," followed by the "Perfect Master" (5th degree), then,

To highlight just a few, the “Exalted Chosen One” (11th degree), the “Grand Master Architect” (12th degree), the “Noyal⸗ Arch“ ⸗-Grad (Grade of the Royal Vault, currently the 13th degree), then the “Grand Scottish Knight” (14th degree), the “Knight of Often' (15th degree), the "Grand Prince of Jerusalem" (16th degree), the “Knight of the West” (17th degree), the “Sovereign Prince” of Jerusalem” (18th degree), the “Great High Priest” (19th degree), the “Prussian Knight” (21st degree; “he negotiates only during a full moon without any other light, and specifically over — the Zer⸗ disturbance of Jerusalem), and also the “Prince of Lebanon” (22nd degree), the “Prince of the Tabernacle” (23rd degree), the “Knight of the Bronze Serpent” (25th degree), the “Priest of Grace” (26th degree; he negotiates the covenants of God with the Jews) and writings!), then the “Sovereign Grand Commander of the Tem-pels (27th degree), the “Knight of the Sun” (of reflections on the benevolence of God, 28th degree), furthermore the “St. Andrew⸗ Knight” (29th degree), the “Knight Kadosch” (30th degree; he represents the revenge of the Knights Templar because of the death of their Grand Master Molay a carried-out death sentence and is still considered a form of revenge today the Freemason); finally, the “Grand Inquisitor Commander” follows.

(31st degree), the “Exalted Prince of the Royal Mystery”
(32nd degree) and the “Sovereign Grand Inspector General” (83rd degree).

These magnificent titles may seem to the uninitiated layman.
to appear ridiculous; well-behaved German Freemasons have often enough... outraged by this "swindle" and attacked him with the lye of her Heaped with ridicule — it was no use trying to equal the degrees with the highness⸗ full names exist and are used, like the whole System that is at the top of the Grand Lodges (or Grand Orients) of France, Italy, Spain, Portugal and the central and southern regions American Grand Orient marches, but also in England, Scotland, Ireland, Belgium, Hungary and in North⸗ America exists alongside the Grand Lodges and Grand Orients.

The Scottish teaching method is, incidentally, complemented by two other greens⸗ surpassed the French-originated terms, which also, except for to pass today: The Masonic rite of Wis⸗ raim (Hebrew name for Egypt) and the very similar rite of Memphis. The first-mentioned Oriental order was founded by the Jewish army supplier Michel Bédarride and his Founded by two brothers; the legend of its age is laughable⸗
It is necessary to be mentioned. The teachings are presented in 1 series.
17 classes and 90 degrees with extremely high-sounding titles “with⸗ "Shared." Naturally, only for cash; after the price...
One doesn't inquire, of course. But this one possesses...

Order alongside its visible head, the “sovereign Prince≠
"sten", yet another unknown, invisible Grand Master. In the year
In 1898, ten lodges operated according to this teaching method.

The very similar rite of Memphis, which also Freemasons≠Order and of course also “ancient” Ur≠
The leap is, was actually made by a certain Samuel Honey, which even Christ would not have found to be fine, from Cairo to Brought to France. Samuel Honis shared subtle secrets.
in 7 classes with 95 degrees, the highest of which is the "Sovereign Sanctuary"—
It was called "tuarium". The order's teaching is a transformation.
A journey through all the mysteries and secret societies of history. Later
He reduced his grades to 33, subsequently receiving from the French
The Grand Orient of Asia gained recognition and even found acceptance in Germany entrance and followers.

— —————ᵉ —D—ʃA ë.— —

Now, one could certainly say that this is just a dizzying green color.
They are hired to steal money, therefore they deserve no further support.
Attention. But aren't there other, highly respected Freemasons?
Orders whose historical development is also dark
What number of points does it have? What about, for example?
white with the Swedish system? It was justified from the Chancery Councillor Karl Friedrich Ekleff, who on the basis of a free≠ a letter of unknown origin, written in Stockholm in 1756, a chapter erestablished, which he led as "Solomon's Vicar". Later sold he ceded his “rights” to the King of Sweden and since that time dt the respective King of Sweden Grand Master and the Crown≠ Prince, Grand Master of the State.

The Swedish system was developed by the field doctor Ellenberger, who took the name von Zinnendorf through adoption, also in Introduced in Germany (1766) and exists with some variations in the "Grand Lodge of the Land" founded by Zinnendorf Germany" even today. The protectorate has been held since 1860 the King of Prussia, later Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm (Emperor Frederick III), who however relinquished it when the Order leadership's desire for a thorough examination of the ge» responded to class-based demands with dismissive resistance and rejected all reform proposals with a cold smile. Only the Templar fable, namely the doctrine that the Freemasons are separated from The connection to the Knights Templar was dropped (1880), nothing else.

But let us return, without discussing the "Grand Lodge of the Land of..."
to deal more closely with "Germany", to the Swedish system as such a return. Let's look at it more closely: It's in three abbeys⸗ lungs are segmented, namely:

I. into the working St. John's lodges with the three Grades: 1. Apprentice, 2. Journeyman and 3. Master;

II. into the shining St. Andrew's, or Scottish lodges with three grades as well: 4. Andreas⸗Apprentice, 5. Andreas⸗Ge⸗ selle, 6. Andreas⸗Meister; to this follow sih

II. the enlightened and active steward's boxes with four further degrees: 7. the highly enlightened Steward Brothers,
8. the “Most Luminous Confidant of Solomon”, 9. the “Enlightened One Confidants of the St. John's Lodge," 10. the "Highly Enlightened Bers
"The St. Andrew's Lodge, Knight of the Purple Ribbon." That
The 11th degree is still in the series with the "Most Enlightened Comet".
Mandeur with the red cross”; he calls himself “Vicarius Salo⸗ monis”, for the wise King Solomon is considered the founder and first Respected as Grand Master of the Order. With these eleven degrees is But it wasn't dismissed. At the head of Swedish Freemasonry Instead, there is one known only to the master of the order.

"Superior." The grandmasterly dignity resides in his lineage.
hereditary. The secular name and residence of the superior is for all the brothers of the order, with the exception of the masters of the order, one (ee secret. So it says in the third chapter (§ 3) of the Freemasons⸗ Constitution of the "Grand Lodge of Sweden" verbatim (according to the replacement of the “Latomia”): “The world, in nine (now ten) Provinces are divided by a Grand Master or Solomon.
ruled by someone who was chosen from father to son to govern, in order to to guide the workers along the right path. He is known to the bricklayers.
and unknown! This Solomon leaves every province through a
The vicar governs, whom he appoints or through the brothers of the province.
can be appointed. He governs the province," etc. The "Latomia" (28th year, 1869, p. 18) then poses the question: “Who is This Solomon? Where is his seat? If the fundamentals...
A constitution that speaks the truth and doesn't tell fairy tales, that's how it is.
King Solomon was even the founder of the entire covenant and decreed, that the grand masterly dignity remain in his lineage
The certainly not anti-Semitic “Latomia” links this to the Fear that not a Christian prince, but a true hafter Israelite Deler unknown superior fine could..
(However, she herself wears the six-pointed star on the cover page.)
Davids!)

It should be noted that in Freemasonry there is absolutely no always the visible leader is also the real one
The head is. We know this from the mouths of English and French speakers.
Swiss and American Freemasons. In the constitution of the
The Swedish Grand Lodge finds this claim simply unacceptable.
Impeccable confirmation. If princes join the lodge, then They either concealed the existence of high grades from them or,
If this is not possible, they are merely given apparent Hod= straight and invents a special ritual for it, from which everything Anything that might arouse their suspicion is eradicated. Thus was 3. B. to Brother Frederick II, King of Prussia, the
The existence of high degrees is anxiously concealed, a fact that The Freemason historian Louis Blanc tells us.
(Brouwer's L'Action de la Francmaconnerie, 1892, p. 17). And that princes and kings, if they ever stood at the head of the lodge

They did not necessarily have to be "knowing brothers," goes as evidenced by countless pieces of evidence.

But let's return to the lower grades. The blue ones.
The degree or the Johannismaarism is perhaps harmless in itself,
Yes, it has a beneficial effect in some respects, at least in Germany; it maintains a large number of foundations, generally does not pursue politics and cannot, insofar as it does not dependent on high degrees, as a non-profit institution-
They are sought after. But the blue grades are found – like Br.. A.
Pike says – “just the forecourt and vestibule of the Temple. However, some of the symbols there are dedicated to explained to light-seekers. However, he is deliberately misled by false information.
Interpretations are misleading. It is not intended that he be misleading.
rather, it is intended that he imagines he
I understand. The true interpretation is for the truly initiated. reserved for the princes of Freemasonry. (Morals and (Dogma, p. 819.) From this it is probably clear that the
The vast majority of Freemasons have no clue.
possess of which Nolle fie are misused.

From the works of the Masonic workshops of higher grades
In fact, nothing is announced anywhere; not even their membership lists.
They are kept anxiously secret, and not just from each other.
the “profane”, but also towards the brothers of lower classes Grade. This was even mentioned to Brother Dr. Julius Goldenberg.
colorful and he bitterly complained "about the uncontrollable in≠ flow of the high degrees, which is an invisible, unaccountable power “Represent.” Goldenberg, a well-known Viennese Freemason, who Having published several works, he readily admits that the Effectiveness of the higher degrees beyond the general Masonic purposes go out and complain that the first three They are constantly kept in the dark or even deceived, while blind obedience is demanded of them. Rightly so.

Goldenberg says that such conditions are unworthy of free men.
be. What Br... Goldenberg about the Hungarian high-degree-Masonry says it's literally true. Apparently, he knew back then.
not yet that it is among the tasks of the higher degrees to focus on to exert every conceivable influence on the lower ranks and especially to pursue politics; certainly not merely...
Not local politics, but national politics, indeed, world politics.
A high-ranking Italian mason puts it quite clearly: “The
The Johannis Lodge is necessary as a preliminary stage to the higher degrees... The

The focus of our work lies in the high-altitude regions. There Let's make progress, politics, and the World history. .. (“Freemasons' Newspaper” of May 9, 1874.)
The high ranks have always been the soul of every monarchy⸗ hostile endeavors. Not unintentionally, not without purpose.
Therefore, the various high-degree systems have already developed in 18th century saw the most sonorous names such as "Sovereign Masons-princes" or "Raifers of the East and West" were added, Titles that were not taken particularly seriously outside of Freemasonry at the time were taken, but already the actual end goals of the revealed Freemasonic aspirations for higher degrees clearly enough.
Today the thrones have been overthrown, the monarchs driven out.
and the “Freemason princes” are gradually venturing out of the three⸗
They push the mist that envelops them out into the bright daylight.

V.

Masonic clothing, badges, identifying marks, Auxiliary symbols.

The Freemasons place great emphasis on the "work" within the lodge.
her ordinary suit, the apron, which is difficult to put on⸗ which is called "Mason's clothing". This mason's apron, which is already documented in 1723, originates from the stonemasons, and This in itself already constitutes proof of the true origin.
of Freemasonry. It is made of white lambskin — its
The white color, like its fabric, signifies the innocence with which the person enters life — the blue decoration takes with them the degrees of scope and should increase loyalty towards to symbolize the covenant and its fundamental teachings. Color and However, the border changes; lodge officials wear them after a few days.

masonry system green apron. The color of the white coat is Blue and gold. Aprons are sometimes worn to jubilant champions. presented, which are decorated with fibrin ears of corn.")

The Belgian Grand Orient writes a [document/article] for its dignitaries.
sky blue apron with a border made of genuine Wetall.

In the higher grades, the blue border color is replaced by the red, green or black replaced; in the Rosicrucian tradition, the edge≈
The color is red, green for the Scottish Master, black for the Knight = Radofdh.
Incidentally, in the higher grades, civilian clothing is usually not worn, but rather...
Worn in full dress.

Clothing also includes the straps on which the metal official badges (bijou) and lodge badges » will be worn; they are often decorated with gold embroidery and pictures.
adorns; for example, the Belgian Grand Champion wears it on his ribbon.
a sun, the assigned grandmaster a pelican, etc.

It used to be common practice during lodge work and even at the banquet lodges, one keeps one's hat on. From this The custom is now gradually beginning to disappear; for example, recently the Grand Lodge of Prussia, called “To Friendship”, an≈ orders that the brothers, during the “works”, are to be separated from the usual head–

) See “Wr. Fr. Z.”, July 1919, p. 22, Covering can be foreseen and the Grand Lodge "To the Three Worlds-“balls” has at least replaced the cylinder since the upheaval. hates also include a low hat.!) In contrast, also Even today, white gloves are worn with Masonic attire– dung. The newly admitted person receives, in addition to their own, also a few more white women's gloves for his wife or Bride; this should be a sign that the lodge upholds marriage.

The full equipment of guards of certain grades includes Furthermore, the rapier (sword) and the hammer. The carrying of a Degens was originally unknown in the lodges and likely only recently became a member.
through the ‘accepted masons’, insofar as they were noblemen,
It has been introduced.

Those Masonic teaching methods that recognize higher degrees, like the Scottish system, the Swedish system, of course≈ lich also the “Grand Lodge of Germany”, hold attached to the sword; likewise some independent lodges.

The rapier plays a certain role there on various occasions.
Role, e.g., at the induction, at the oath, at the journeyman's procession.
("At the head of the journeyman procession marches the brother overseer") there, supporting the first one and striking him with the tip of his sword “Pointing to the chest, where the heart beats,” Br. explains to us.
Paul Mensdorf from the “Minerva to the Three Palms” lodge in Leipzig.)

The hammer as a symbol of watch comes in the district Masonry is reserved for the presiding masters, the master of chair and the two supervisors.

When leaving the lodge, the jewel and apron are removed.
laid. Freemasons love outward signs of recognition.
Generally not. A small golden ladle on the watch chain,
A small angle gauge in the buttonhole is used here and there by the ab⸗
The brothers recognized each other in the Rule by other signs, by the handshake (grip), by certain words, by the peculiar position of the feet relative to each other and finally at certain signs (throat, chest, belly signs, large Emergency and auxiliary signs).

The neck mark is the apprentice's identifying mark,
However, it is generally considered a Masonic symbol of recognition.
The main point. How it is done will not be discussed in detail here.
The “neck mark” also indicates the severe punishment – “Cutting the throat” – which refers to the bricklayer’s actions when breaking the ) “Wr. Fr. g.”, May 1919, p. 50.

A duty of confidentiality should apply. For the journeyman, this applies.
the “breast mark”, for the master the “stomachal” or Consider the "belly sign". The chest sign refers to The tearing out of the heart, the belly sign is meant to indicate, that the master himself offered his body as a pledge of his brevity silence sets in.

All these hand movements change to a certain extent.
with the transition to the higher ranks. The handshake is also... not exactly the same in the different degrees. The first one⸗ However, the nungzeichen is not a distinguishing mark; it is only used in exercised by the lodge itself, namely by the chain of brothers at the Dramatic depiction of Master Hiram's death. More details.
This need not be mentioned here. Furthermore, the 5 points...
As regards v. M. Gr., let it only be mentioned that this composite
The grip during the appointment of the master has its significance, which

To understand them, one either has experienced them oneself or has been through them. must have felt and thought through it.

Finally, the identifying words, almost all of which come from the Hebrew origins, either permanent nature or passport—Words with only temporary validity. Such passwords have already been used... Introduced in 1746, they were valid for a full or half year. Semester recognition words are given personally by the Grandmaster. Brotherhood whispered in the ear. But they are not in all teachings. Since the types (systems) were the same, they led to countless variations—Confusion and misunderstandings.

For the profane, who does not have scientific purposes When persecuted, it is completely irrelevant how these identifying words are used. their names and the meaning attributed to them. He needs He also doesn't know either the new or the old MW, he can It is irrelevant what lies behind "MB", or rather... 83 hides.

However, the large distress and aid signal is noteworthy. which is given by Freemasons in a state of mortal danger. It actually belongs to the master craftsman level, but is examined more finely. The importance of the table was already communicated to the apprentices. Occasionally, touching stories are published in Masonic journals. stories told how many a Freemason spent his life only for the sake of the Freemason The use of this emergency and aid signal is thanks to such as, in particular, hostile “brothers” in war, after they had had realized that the opponent was no longer the enemy, but merely nor saw the brother. But such a case is reported in 3. B.

The Masonic newspaper "Globe" (Vol. 2, p. 496) states the following:

“When the combatants saw a sign on the battlefields to give... to throw away their weapons and kiss; from enemies, As soon as they were friends, they instantly became friends and brothers. mindful of the oaths they had sworn.” A particularly clear An example was given at the Masonic Congress in Nancy (May) (1896) put forward: A French ship was built in 1801 heavily shelled by an English ship during the war and was unable to defend itself due to a lack of adequate reinforcement. The French garrison, a half-brigade, was despite the numbers⸗moderate superstition doomed to certain destruction. The French flag was taken down, but the English artillery... He raged on. Then the French officers rushed in, who all that had received the light, onto the front of the ship, openly exposed themselves to fire, gave up the Masonic emergency-

They signaled and called for help. And what humanity did not Freemasonry was able to achieve this; among the narrow There were also bricklayers among the officers; the fire was immediately suspended and the conditions of the Aber⸗ Gift agreed.

Such cases have occurred repeatedly.
"In times of war, neither nation nor uniform distinguishes; fetches
"Just remember your brother and your oaths!" — that is the teaching, the Brothers Bouilly, in 1841, once again impressed upon the brothers that a Lessons that were also taught in the war of 1870–71 and also in the World War⸗
The advice was heeded. The “Bau” reports a case of this kind.
hut” (3 April 1915). In Leuven, a troop of Belgian Frank-
The shooters were shot. However, one of them told the detective,
The officer signaled the large distress signal and was taken away along with his pike.
journeymen pardoned. In German, that means: treason on the part of the German Freemason officer. The "building lodge" had the foresight to still to add: “May our opponents now say as much as they like about the Un⸗ compatibility of the military and Masonic viewpoints to talk and continue giving advice to the officers, these
They have long since made their decision, and in favor of Freemasonry.”

But the distress signal (signe de détresse) may also be used in other situations.
to be used in emergencies. Does a Freemason, in his capacity as a...
Distress signal, so all present brothers must to rush to his aid. However, this extends to non-Freemasons. brotherly feelings do not extend; their humanity is limited only those who have “their feet in the right
"Setting angles." Br... Henne am Nhyn rightly criticizes this.
narrow-minded view and expresses his inner outrage

The following words: “The one who relies on the need and aid
If someone intervenes to help, it would therefore be pointless in the same case.
what to do if he were not a bricklayer, i.e., under certain circumstances a Let people perish peacefully! Is that supposed to mean anything?
What does it have to do with humanity? Does the contemptuously treated "Profane", who helps without signs or identification as a human being,
"Not much higher?" Henne am Rhyn holds the emergency and aid station signs of an invention that is truly essential has nothing to do with it and therefore demands the abolition of these [unclear] direction.

If a Freemason seeks rapprochement, he introduces himself, just as in the case of...
Auxiliary sign, the feet at right angles and fine master, and even if he were a crowned head, it would be said⸗ Refuse approach. Many a mysterious incident, which cannot be explained otherwise, especially in Begnadi⸗ Questions of gungs⸗ and amnesty become understandable through this.

The symbol and emblem are for the Freemasons including the branches of the acacia tree. The acacia, actually the cassia, This is the tree sacred to Freemasons. Small acacia branches. are also worn by the brothers as badges; that was This was the case, for example, when numerous Brothers attended on June 4, 1908. the removal of the body of the novelist Brother Emil Zola participated in the Pantheon.

Bricklayers can also recognize each other by the way they knock. Master craftsmen use a different tapping technique than apprentices and journeymen. the symbolic meaning of the three (nine) strokes, which again The connection to the Hiram legend will not be discussed in detail here. will be. Incidentally, there are also in this respect in the one» There are great differences between individual teaching methods.

The Freemasons also have, at least in part, their own Chronology; since a resolution of the Wilhelmsbad Congress For the year 1782, they add the number 4000 to the year. in addition; currently they are writing the year 5922.

VI.

Freemasonry and Christianity.

The first [unclear] was still based on the statutes of the old stonemasons' guilds. The duty of a Freemason is: "You shall be loyal to..." God and against the holy Church and no error and no Heresy will not be allowed entry.”

In contrast, in the Book of Constitutions by the preacher Anderson (1723) This main duty of the Freemason can be expressed quite differently: The mason is only obligated to that religion in which all Men agree; “and if he the (royal) art If he understands correctly, he will never be a foolish atheist (stupid). to be an atheist) or an irreligious libertine.” This last The sentence is somewhat misleading and actually has many flaws. Misunderstandings have arisen. There are countless Freemasons, which, with regard to that statement, still assume today, that belief in God is the foundation of Freemasonry. Had but even the first article of the French constitution Freemasonry, from which it would be least expected, until The following wording for the year 1877: “Freemasonry. It is based on the existence of God and immortality. of the soul." And Br.. H. Normann, a well-known Freemason⸗ A Russian writer assures us all in all seriousness that a [something] from Spoken "atheist" unsuccessfully sought admission at the doors would ask of the temple. Brother, however, disagrees. Wilhelm Ohr: "This sentence does not imply that one can A man who denies God cannot be accepted. Already Some "atheists" have entered the lodge and embraced art with

He learned zeal, and even if he didn't have faith in one
No one can be a "stupid atheist" who has found a personal God.
to be the one who truly grasps the symbol of the almighty B. a. W.
and recognized it in his manifold allusions.
Fi finds a folder man in a box, on whom the exit⸗
Press "stupid atheist" and "irreligious libertine" application
They should find, yes, this is simply not a man who understands art!
understands." 1)

8 See Dr. Wilhelm Ohr, The French Spirit and Freemasonry. Leipzig 1917

Freemasonry and Writing, 39

So what is the truth about this? Do Freemasons believe...
To God? The question cannot be answered with a clear yes or no.
answer; some things speak for it, many against. To the Ge—
For example, the “flaming star” is shown, in whose
The letter "G" shines brightly; and he is told that this
The mysterious letter means God! But in another case...
He encounters another opportunity; the letter "G" even means...
Not God, but — geometry. And yet another one⸗ Sometimes it is said that this radiant "G" points to Gnosis, to the realization, and have several symbolic meanings in general.
interpretation.

On the other hand, the French “Grand Orient” opened on the 10th.
September 1877 everything that reminds us of the existence of God, from his Constitution eradicated; Italian Freemasons did the same.
and repeatedly and quite openly declared that God abdicated as ruler—Established. And in the Masonic journal "Orient" (Buda⸗ (pelt 1893 No. 10) refers to Christ briefly as the “historical
"The famous Nazarene carpenter". The German Freemasons now use in their addresses to teaching—lings and journeymen often use many turns of phrase which point towards God⸗ white things seem, and phrases like: "Without God's favor, all trees
The phrase "for nothing" is often brought up. Nevertheless, the unjustified Observers concluded that this was merely a matter of It's about words without content. The term "God" is, incidentally, avoided as much as possible; they much prefer to speak of the "Highest".
Master Builder of all Worlds”, from the “Triple Master Builder of Universe" or from the "Almighty Master Builder of the World" (AB
d. W.).

The Freemasons explain it this way: In the earliest times, Every people, every tribe its own god; only the God of Christians became the god of humanity in general, who had no
He knows the differences between peoples. But he is merely the god of the earth.

which he prefers above all other celestial bodies, what is in it his
The highest expression of this is that he presents her with his only begotten son as The Redeemer sends. After the tremendous advances of astronomy...
Since Copernicus, this view has become untenable;
There are millions of suns with probably an unimaginable number of Planets where organic life has evolved to the point of thought,
It exists, existed, and will exist. Freemasons therefore believe not to a god of the earth, but to a master builder of the Space.

What about the second basis of freedom?
Freemasonry, the immortality of the soul?

Br.. Dr. Henne am Rhyn, who always speaks his mind, and always strives to reduce everything to the shortest formula, never discussed the details of the belief in immortality not explicitly stated, but rather the views on this concept that Released to brothers. (Symbolism of Freemasonry, p. 125, Ver≠
(Franz Wunder, Berlin 1907.) Br.. Hugo von Kupffer (Three Globes), one of the most witty lodge orators and stewards from the chair of the lodge “To the Flaming Star”, ijt the Aberzeu≠
The idea that death could not be the absolute end.
(From a lecture in the lodge "To the Flaming Star", Orient Berlin, January 23, 1912.) "It is a conclusion of reason, which tells us that the existence of being is with all its developmental phases and appearances are almost something
It would be pointless if there were no such thing as a puzzle that also puzzles us.
Something tangible beyond the grave... And elsewhere:
"...Imagination, that is the tremendous thought that arises from the bright rays of the blazing star above the altar of the
"The temple of Weister should shine warmly into our souls."
Mortality — Kupffer argues — is also the essential meaning the Hiram legend. (This refers to the legend of Hiram, the one who was born on the hill.)
the alleged builder of Solomon's Temple, who was obligated≠ murdered the eaten companion and then brought back to life will.) , |
Also Brother Ernst Dieftel of the "Grand Lodge of the Land of..." “Germany” means that the spirit that dwells within us directs us to≠ demands the assumption of a future state after death. But Br ... Diestel is a court preacher and likes Therefore, they may not appear to some as fully credible witnesses.
However, others who could be quoted are mostly already in opposing camp. To Brother Röver (of Royal Pork) “lives the deceased continues in his deeds, long after his earthly life has ended.
Part rests in the grave,” and Karl Trauner of the “Eclectic League,” by profession a bank director in Frankfurt am Main, presents himself as undeniable fact established, “that a large part of the Freemasons, good, genuine and excellent brothers, not entirely of the faith

"Be filled with faith in God and in immortality." In an address
In his speech regarding a master craftsman promotion, he does, however, leave the question Immortality is open and the church interpretation is valid, but it brings Basically, it only presents things that contradict this view.
speak. And Brother Andreas Blank (Grand Lodge Bayreuth) points out the bricklayers pointed to an immortality that they themselves had promised.

He can serve, but rejects the church's ideas:
"There is no awakening to a new, happier life!"

Some lodge writers therefore also use the term "freedom".
Freemasonry was sharply opposed to Christianity. Thus, it turns Brother Friedrich Will, private scholar in Erlangen (eclectic) and Master of the Lodge "To the Three Cedars", against those life⸗ Views that see the earth only as a vale of tears and that This life is only a prelude to an unknown future.
who would like to consider this. Freemasonic teachings, however, say Brother Will demands the highest level of education from the individual.
All gifts and strengths. Work should fill life and it should be provided with a view to a common, large goal Purpose. Furthermore, Freemasonry teaches the joys of life.
to enjoy with ease and wisdom; and to follow it.
This teaching brings a certain joy of life, a free, noble enjoyment of life with oneself, which transcends ugliness and pain⸗
It makes it easier to get over full events.

That sounds quite nice so far and is enjoyable to listen to. It's going well, from this that Freemasonry wants to be a kind of religion, a religion of humanity, which, like Christianity, seeks to...
It is supposed to spread all over the earth. Naturally, this will lead to conflict.
A statement of position and a declaration of war are thus combined. Aptly observed.
Brother Carlos von Gagern, who at that time was a prominent figure in the lodge.
has assumed a prominent position: “Religion and Freemasonry
"These are contradictory (incompatible) concepts." And at one Elsewhere: “With every assault against the altar – and Any doubt about religious dogma is a folder – will
A small stone broke off from it, and finally it had to be completely to collapse." If, on the other hand, Br. Milim, the five⸗
He was a Freemason for twenty years, he assured us, the Freemasons wouldn't even remotely consider doing anything against the
To undertake religion, it is indeed in his good faith.
not to doubt, but to state nonetheless, that Br... Wilim is not belongs to the initiated. He and many thousands of his⸗
They are merely followers, they belong to the misera contribuens plebs, wissen zwar manche einheiten einzels und sicherse außer⸗ Possibilities, e.g., how to correctly perform the neck sign, how to He knocks on how to position your feet at a right angle, but the
The deeper meaning and purpose of weaving remains unclear to them throughout their lives.

remained. Very remarkable, however, is the view of the Br.. Hiram (codename for Br.. Limoufin of L' Acacia), who simply declared that Freemasonry was the anti-church, and Indeed, since 1723, almost since its founding. (L'Acacia, May 1908, No. 65.)

That Freemasonry is aligned with Christianity, especially with the Being hostile to Catholicism is the most natural thing in the world. of the world. It is a fight for existence or non-existence for Both parts, the hatred is mutual and only the form of the The nature of the fight varies depending on the time, place, and strength of the opponent. “Our Reid is of this world,” calls Brother Alexander. Mint in fine celebratory speech, delivered in the celebratory work of the "Grand Lodge of Vienna" on June 1, 1919. With this, he closed the gap⸗ The difference between the two is more sharply illuminated than any other before it.

In Germany, this struggle is less visible; firstly, there, Freemasonry was freed from almost all constraints, then It possesses a large number of Protestant minds within its ranks. Those who hold leading positions, such as chairmen, etc. Finally, the German is of a calm disposition and his striving After self-determination and spiritual liberation, Det is quite possible: inner light. Freemasonry in Germany certainly has a strong religious influence. Masonic art follows Wilhelm Ohr – “the whole life of the human soul by from cradle to grave with all impulses and drives encompass, in order to find within this scope paths to higher morality to offer and to elevate people, as every noble art does does; therefore, it naturally includes religion... Religion is everywhere in the symbolism, and when it is in World Tree Master Symbol, so to speak, a special emphasis on: travels in a way that is reminiscent of spiritual life, specifically of the The idea of God is touched upon, so this is merely a self-evident matter. for one who truly understands Masonic art.” In contrast This can also be seen in Germany, where the gaping contrast between... Freemasonry and Ultramontanism are beyond doubt exist. So says the Freemasonic "Herald" (December 5th). 1909, No. 45) literally: “The enemy is Ultramontanism, And to break his power, that is a goal achieved through sweat and toil. is worthy of all noble people.”

Such voices are certainly not heard in Germany either. sporadically there, but in the Romance countries the The fight was waged with extreme exertion. All: That's not always the case! In France, for example, it was still around... the mid-18th century the Roman Catholic faith A declaration of faith is indispensable for admission to the "Grand Lodge".

de France”. But that changed very quickly under the leadership.
Clarification work by the encyclopedists; let us only mention Voltaire here.
named, who had already received the light at a young age and recently joined a lodge at an advanced age.
Voltaire's oft-quoted phrase "Ecrasez l'infame" — destroy
The wicked (Catholic Church) — ignited in wide circles.
The battle broke out on all fronts; it was directed against Church and Pope, against God and religion. "What destroys
What must be done is the tool itself, which the clergy must use.
Used to beguile the masses... that is religion.
himself . ..“ said 3. B. the Grand Master of the Belgian Grand—Orients Br.. Cocq at the Freemasons' Congress in the year 1900. "The struggle between the Church and Freemasonry is a
"A fight to the death, without rest or mercy" — explained “Bulletin de Travaux du Supr&me Conseil de Belgique” (No. 51,
p. 59).

Naturally, the popes sought to defend themselves. Pope Kle—mens XII was the first to enshrine himself in the memorable constitution “In eminenti” of 1738 in the strongest terms against the Freemasonry turned. He calls them societies in which People of every religion and sect to a strictly closed
The alliances are united; he emphasizes that they are preferably in the Ge⸗ homely action and finally, that they through grave oaths with fear⸗ threats of punishment compel unbreakable silence.
be obligated; these are, incidentally, accusations that can still be made today which cannot be denied a certain legitimacy. Others Popes followed. In the 19th century, it was especially...
Pius VII, Leo XII, Pius VIII, Gregory XVI, Pius IX. and
Leo XIII, who in repeated encyclicals spoke out against the secret Societies turned against them. Specifically against the Freemasons and the They hurled the Carbonari, related to them, into the great churches⸗ ban. The Italian Freemasons, who participated in the creation of theuniting Italy had a very large share — Mazzini, Oort:
soon, indeed almost all political leaders were Freemasons — responded with mockery and derision, practically demanding the dis-Burning of the Papacy (Rivista della Massoneria Italiana 1882, p. 89). The lodges of the whole world became a battleground.
against the Pope and the Church for help, and the Great Orient
Italy demanded, in particular, of the German Grand Duchy⸗
They lied about a joint action against the Pope.!) And Mert,

D From a circular SE ln to the German major⸗ logs, printed in the "Bauhütte"

Worthy! While the German lodges always point out⸗ know that their activity has absolutely nothing to do with politics The Italian lodge organ reports that he has created something, that in Fighting against the Pope, a complete unanimity⸗ Agreement had been reached with the German Grand Lodges. (Rivista) della Massoneria Italiana, 1886, p. 159). Of course, they may also the Hungarian brothers, who are always in close association, are not missing. Connections existed with the Grand Orient of Italy; and it is undoubtedly a nice word from the Hungarian Grand Master, which should be noted when he sends a festive greeting to the Italian Brrn .. conveyed the wish, the “great master builder of all May the worlds come to their aid in the fight against darkness. hurry (1895)! This phrase is pretty because it means… recognized the “leader of the dark forces”, the Pope, the treasures of the Vatican archives have long been open to free science⸗ has made itself accessible to scientific research, while the large⸗ The Orient shrouds the whole world in night and silence, and every threaten with death anyone who dares to take even a part of their To bring secrets to light. Have now The Italian Freemasons have long since dethroned God and instead their Garibaldi became a superhuman being, indeed a national god. raised (Rivista Massoneria Italiana, 1889, p. 172) — the same Garibaldi, whom others called a ridiculous braggart, whose military capabilities were zero — so The French Freemasons went a step further, They even dethroned the "Most Highest Master Builder of all the Worlds" Yourself! This happened on September 10th in the Year of Light. 5877 (1877). The formula “A la gloire du Grand Architecte de "Univers", with which all the files of the "Grand-Orient de France" The passages that began were cancelled. This caused great dismay in the Freemasonry of the whole world! The English Grand Lodge broke immediately sever all ties with the "Grand Orient", likewise the from Scotland and Ireland and several American Grand Lodges. (The German Grand Lodges did not need this because they already In 1871, all connections with the Grand Orient were suspended. had, namely during the Franco-Prussian War Ten Parisian lodges possessed the audacity to include Emperor William I and to summon the then Crown Prince to their court and, moreover, She publicly announced a bounty of one million francs on her head. (to be advertised)!

The Swiss Grand Lodge “Alpina” is still represented today by twenty not recognized by American Grand Lodges because they are associated with the one of

The French Grand Orient, not recognized by England and America maintains relationships. And the Grand Lodge "To the Three Goals" The “kugeln” in Berlin declared as recently as May 14, 1905, that they were with the

"Grande Loge de France" will not enter into closer relations could, because these, just like the “Grand-Orient de France”, are in their ritual “every hint of the great master builder of all carefully avoid worlds and, by appealing to reason, Replace equality, liberty and fraternity.

So, in broad outline, these were the consequences. of the step of September 10, 1877. It benefited the “Grand-Orient" little, that he repeatedly asserted that it was only him to be done therefore, “to completely eradicate the idea of tolerance⸗ to bring about leadership"; against belief in God or faith
He certainly did not oppose the immortality of the soul.
want to do. “French Freemasonry is neither theistic, still atheist... Her sole principle is the complete...
"Respect for freedom of conscience is coming." Such voices
However, they went unheard.

Wilhelm Ohr is now of the conviction that such While the statements of the “Grand Orient” were indeed well-intentioned, they nevertheless which is quite incorrect: French Freemasonry is "Completely politicized and anti-clerical." The fact is that monarchists just as few are accepted as people whose religious beliefs... But...
The conception is beyond doubt; hence the countless questions.
on the part of the French chairmen, when it comes to the up-
It concerns the taking of a new seeker of light; they demand precisely that, he says.
Br. .. . Romeißen, that one is “a good republican and free-Thinkers are free. There are a number of flawless examples of this.
They point out, two of which are listed here: At the
The head of the French Grand Orient is the Council of the Order (Conseil). de l'Ordre), which consists of thirty-three members and the who actually holds the leadership. A member of this council of the order may only he who commits himself so that neither he himself, nor his children follow the customs of any religion will be.!) Also the “Acacia” (February 1908, No. 62, pp. 81—99) admits that since the Third Republic (1871) Freemasonry and especially the “Grand Orient” officially an anti-clerical Take a stand. "Freemasonry today stands in open conflict."
A struggle with the church... But what tactic should we use?
Should we kill (), torture (), a Catholic?

) Published in the Masonic newspaper "Orient", Ofenpest 1893.

Block (D. confiscate their goods? We couldn't manage it.
"Heart!" But soon after, the brothers managed to overcome it.
Heart, at least confiscate the church's property. From all These examples make it clear that the election slogan of Scottish high-degree masonry “Deus meumque jus” (God and my right) is today merely a deceptive showpiece.

They want to throw sand in the eyes of the profane world, and moreover, the break with English and American freedom⸗ Freemasonry, which comprises three quarters of all Freemasons in the world, in order to avoid at all costs.

Naturally, Freemasons are active in most...
States also have religious policies. A decision by the Hungarian
The Hodgradmaureret of March 16, 1890 reads verbatim: “Task the high degrees dt: The most effective spread of Freemasonry⸗ Russian principles. The workshops of the highest grades perform with centralized power the spiritual leadership of the lodges, they strive to the point that such questions are successfully solved in the secular world. will be and such ideas will be given validity, which are under under the given circumstances, the victory of the Freemasonry cause "promote the most." These ideas include, for example, the one⸗ conduct of civil marriage, which according to the Hungarian Freemasons years of preparation have actually succeeded; these ideas
This also includes the abolition of religious instruction in the Schools; it is used by the Hungarian Freemasons in exactly the same way.
demanded, as by their Italian brothers. “No religious "Education! Freedom of conscience!" exclaimed Br... Uliffe Bacci from 33rd degree off!) and: “No religious instruction! Conscience-free⸗ “Heute!” echoed through all the lodges in Italy.

Then Br.. Ernesto Nathan, 33rd degree, formerly “His Serene Highness⸗ "Tiefster Grand Master" of the Italian Grand Orient, to the astonishment when he suddenly became mayor of Rome (1908), it was his First, religious instruction in all municipal educational institutions to abolish (July 11, 1908).

It has always been surprising that not even the thanks to the fine diplomat, Pope Leo XIII, a reconciliation was achieved. to bring about a conflict between the monarchy and the papacy. The blame lay with neither on the king's side, nor on the pope's; there were the Freemasons, who strongly oppose such a reconciliation fought against it and actually prevented it. The ministers, më:
besundere Depretis, who himself was a Freemason of the 33rd degree, were influenced accordingly, reminded of their oaths, and led to

1) Speech given in December 1906 at the Rienzi Lodge, Orient of Rome.

Obedience is practically enforced. To the uninitiated, it might seem...
This may seem exaggerated; the common view is that,
that a minister is accountable only to the king and, at most, to the legal authorities Representation of the people, i.e., the parliament, responsible fet.
However, this is not the case in those countries where Freemasonry has a possesses a significant following and influence. Article 23 of the “All≈ The “common laws of Freemasonry” in Italy explicitly states:

"Every Freemason has a duty ... if he holds public office
"dressed too finely, mindful of the program of Freemasonry."
If he fails to do so, he is committing a serious offense.
This too is not an exorcism, but the stark truth; article
97 of the same laws lists among the “serious offenses” Thirdly, I would particularly like to mention: the rebellion in actions.
or writings against the orders and decrees of the Grand—orients or the Grand Master!

But not only the Winister people, the whole nation was affected by
The lodges were manipulated and incited to bring about a reconciliation between the two.
To prevent violence. For what purpose? The purpose is clear.
With utmost clarity from an essay by the often-cited Freemasons≈ Italian magazine “Rivista della Massoneria Italiana” (1886, (p. 133) highlights: “The people,” it says there, “must prevent today, that an extraordinary reconciliation (between Pope and King)
to restore the papacy to its former power...“

There will certainly be some readers who are uncomfortable with this type of writing.
is fully agreed to by lodge activities. The intention of the association Fassers, however, does not go so far as to criticize, but rather to state facts.
to establish and uncover connections; it should be possible for the reader to to be left to form their own opinion.

VII,

Freemasonry and Judaism.

An expert on Freemasonry says about them succinctly: Their
The origin lies in England; the construction of the high grades took place there.

in France, their intellectual education in Germany, the However, the outward appearances largely originate from Judaism.

That's correct, but regarding the last point only un≈ complete.

As is well known, spiritual masonry is linked to temple construction.
Solomon's and this wise king plays in Freemasonry
a major role. According to Swedish doctrine, King Solomon
He is practically revered as the founder and first Grand Master of the Order.
(Chapter III, § 3 of the Fundamental Constitution.) The Grand Masters≈

ke

True dignity should remain within the noble sex. But

The whole organism only belongs to the master of the order (Vicarius a Superior known to the Order Council, who was the Brrn.

all other grades are unknown. At the top of the individual Provinces (Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Germany)

The wisest Vicar of Solomon stands as supreme ruler, whose Commands should be carried out with the same obedience as would have been issued by the living Solomon himself. (Chapter IV) and V of the Synundamental Constitution; printed in the free»

(Masonic newspaper “Latomia”, 28th year, p. 26.) On individual—

The implications and conclusions cannot be discussed in more detail here.

Solomon's Temple, which is therefore symbolic of the whole Freemasonic work on the construction of the "Temple of Mankind" was However, by no means as great as one might expect according to the biblical accounts.
descriptions could be assumed; with the From Cologne, with the St. Paul's Church in London or even St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome could not be compared to it in the slightest.
retroactive appointment of King Solomon as the first Grand Master Freemasonry only began around the year 1730, the old work⸗
Masonry has absolutely nothing to do with it.

Which is somehow related to Solomon's Temple, was incorporated into Freemasonry. First of all, the name "temple" itself, which is increasingly replacing the old name

"Lodge", "construction hut", displaced; (Lodge, construction hut or workshop
It is the name given to the meeting place of the brothers for solemn ceremonies;
The most important room is the lodge hall, also called the lodge — in the narrower sense senses — or temple). There is also the altar,

Before him, he took his vows and consecrated himself while kneeling.

is received — at least according to the ritual of the great state⸗

Lodge of Germany — there are still the two pillars with the Hebrew names Jachin and Boaz, the ee 7 Candlesticks and even the Ark of the Covenant are found there.

This Ark of the Covenant has a pretty little story behind it,

This is switched on. Emperor Frederick III was crowned king.

Prince Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Germany and made every honest effort to get to the bottom of the matter.

to go and remove everything unbelievable from the state box≠ Merzen. As Grand Champion, he naturally considered fic) to be≠ right to be initiated into the secrets and Jo wished

He would one day also see the contents of the Ark of the Covenant,

The Order's council was surprised and resisted accepting so much.
He could; but the Grand Master would not give in, and so they had to finally the brothers deigned to speak of their venerable Sanctuary to lift the veils of mystery. Heavy Thus, in the presence of the princely mason, the heart was The Ark of the Covenant was opened. And what was found inside? — Nothing! Pure Absolutely nothing! (“Bauhütte” 1888, p. 158.) There really was nothing.
were they in it, or had the brothers already seen the contents beforehand?
Disposed of? We'll never know.

Besides this Ark of the Covenant, many other things are hanging there.

with Solomon's Temple, or rather with the Jewish Gee Srauden and furnishings together: So the carpet, which is used as Apprentice, journeyman and master carpet various changes—undergoes struggles and searches for the carpets of the mosaic monastery≠ hut (Exodus 26) is explained; then the Muslim paving, that is, the mosaic paving that covers the forecourt in Solomon's Temple (1 Kings 6:36); also the on the carpet — depicted according to the English teaching method≠
The leader points to the Jewish imaginary circle. The narrow one...

The liish teaching system also borrows the spiral staircase from Solomon's.

Temple and the ascent of the seven steps that led the way

AE

* véi
SC d
Ke

SÉ

to higher spiritual perfection, to embody, stems from the same circle of ideas. But the door of the sanctuary, to which leads up the seven steps is also located a symbol that is most closely associated with Judaism:

the blazing star. The following should be emphasized: The

The apprentice only shines a five-pointed star, which is done in one go.
drawn, returning to itself REES the jerring `

Important World Freemasonry, 11th edition, 4 pages

50 Freemasonry and Judaism.

N

— u

~.

However, fid) shows a different light; for him, the true
The light of Freemasonry shone forth, which from then on guided him throughout his life.
The order escorts the recipient to the very end: the hexagonal one.
Star of David!

The hexagonal star is meant to be "a symbol of" for the Freemason.
The subtle activity of the divine word, of becoming free divine powers!” This blazing star is located always above the door in the Often of the Logenjaale2.!)

However, this only establishes a few relationships between 2 2

Freemasonry and Judaism exposed; in fact, they exist.
A vast number. Solomon's throne, for example, appears in the Constitution.
book Andersons as the chair of the Grand Master, Solomon's Siegel plays a role in the lodges just as much as Solomon's.
Signet ring. But above all, the legend of Hiram. Hiram or Adon≠ Hiram is the legendary builder of Solomon's Temple. He is taught by the three journeymen who impart to him the knowledge of the masters≠ to wrest possession from them by trickery or violence, to kill them. In the Freemasonry will be this Hiram, who was already in Anderson's Con≠ Constitution Book (1723) appears and there the most perfect mason on earth is called, elevated to an ideal form and all maw≠ rern for most faithful fulfillment of duty and strength of character as A model has been set up. What role does this legend play in the third degree of the Johannis Freemasonry plays a role and with which customs it revolves around...
Giving is, the masters know. Since this book was not written.
It was created to satisfy mere curiosity, so the secret remains.
preserved. Many other things depend on the Hiramsage.
fämmen, which is also of Jewish origin; so above all.
the great need≠ and 5 which contains the words: “Z. m. ., ee d.%) where the caller puts his feet in has to set the right angle.

But most passwords or passwords also originate from the Hebrew, both the apprentice's password T....... as well as that of the journeyman Sch... th, which, incidentally, is quite

1) The lodge hall is an elongated, right-angled quadrilateral, whose sides nt

The four sides are named after the cardinal directions. The narrow sides are called Often and west, the long sides south and north. The east is for the Freemason the most important region of the sky. The sun rises in the Orient (ex oriente lux).

(All education supposedly comes from the Orient!) Moreover, every city is considered to be named after the place where a lodge operates, e.g. Orient Kiel.

2) Hiram was the son of a widow from the tribe of Naphtali, which is why his successors, namely the Freemasons, consider themselves sons or children o
To refer to a widow. According to old French doctrine, fic) the free woman Hiram's widow after his death and they called themselves her children.

o > Li WEE

)
Lei SI

SÉ

"3 "Ke

— Kee 42

NS

commonly known as iff and as much as ear of corn (but also land≠ street) means.

The Master of St. John calls himself G.... n; why? Because the most important altar and the Ark of the Covenant before the building of the The temple in G.. . n was kept: So here too, as everywhere else. Connections and allusions to the Old Testament. After Given what has been said in advance, it can hardly surprise us that also the master words must be found, namely both the new Master word, which is M... B. . ., as well as the old "lost".

"Passed master word"; it is — Yahweh (S Jehovah)! A commonly used password is — Adonai.

Freemasonry has little to do with Christianity, She is so influenced by the Bible and biblical faith. An example This gives us questions 17 and 18 of the apprentice catechism. Question 17: Who are the three great lights of Freemasonry? Answer: Bible, set square, and compass! — Question 18: How Can you explain that? — Answer: The Bible orders and directs our faith, the square, our actions and The circle determines our relationship to all people, ind» especially against our brothers! — — — How does that add up? This is in accordance with the oft-emphasized doctrine that Freemasons only that religion is required in which all people are free from… agree, and that complete freedom from belief and conscience≠ Does it prevail today? — Apparently not at all! That's what reasonable people see. Freemasons also agree and therefore only want to interpret the Bible as Ginns. Let the image of true piety prevail. There are lodges where Therefore, the vow was no longer based on the Bible. will; for the “Grand Lodge of Germany”, however, it is

The Bible is not merely a symbol, but a kind of law book. (Remarkably, the "Grand Lodge of the Land" is taking place here.) of Germany" Wididriften, i.e. Jews, not on – one of the many contradictions that one encounters at every step in Freemasonry and encountered a kick.)

After all this, one could almost come to the conclusion that Freemasonry was founded by Jews. The Jewish Brother Karpeles even proudly declares in fine commemorative writing of the Bne-Briss Order (1902): “The idea of Freemasonry originates from the Yuden emerged . .. This view, however, is historically undurable. The founders of the League were all Christians, who in the English style, a particular fondness for the Old Testament possessed. One of them was the oft-mentioned English preacher.

Dr. Jakob Anderson, who wrote the well-known "Constitution Book of the Free and assumed Warurer”; furthermore, let them be mentioned. the naturalist Theophil Dasaguiliers and George Payne; but the names of the others have also been passed down to posterity, There doesn't appear to be a Jew among them. And yet, Here too, a bridge leads to Judaism: The English-Jewish antiquarian Elias Ashmole, who dealt extensively with secretwho was engaged in sciences, in fact, in 1646 he went into the to take up the then-existing bricklaying and collected a lot. Documents about Freemasonry, which were then used in the establishment of the were used by the Grand Lodge of England in 1717.”

Are the Freemasons aware of all these connections? with Judaism? – They must know; but they let themselves be They don't like to answer such questions and give evasive answers. words; indeed, even some respectable German Freemasons are unaware of them he no longer sees these connections at all: he sees the Can't see the forest for the trees. The Jewish Freemasons on the other hand, who are a nose ahead of their German brothers everywhere Those who are ahead of the curve acknowledge this fact when they believe they are among th to be, quite open and with inner rejoicing; so he writes the Jew Br.. Dr. Gustav Karpeles in the commemorative publication of the B'nai B'rith Order (1902): The idea of Freemasonry is from originated from Judaism; its founder is considered to be King Solomon, who saw Israel's greatest flourishing; an important part Their customs refer to the construction of Solomon's Temple, Words and terms are largely derived from Hebrew. nommen.") – Against this Masonic star witness, who Moreover, since he belongs to the UOBB, it's difficult to do anything. To raise valid objections. It is therefore by no means superstitionbung, yes, that hits the nail on the head when an English

The writer explained unequivocally: "The Freemason is a "Artificial Jew!"

1) See the short work by Louis Dajte (translated into German by S. Reva): “The og:
"home societies and the Jews", p. 59. Graz 1919, Styria Publishing House.

2) See "The Secrets of the Elders of Zion," page 163. Publisher: Auf Outpost, Charlottenburg, 1919.

) For further details, see E. Ludendorff: “The Destruction of Freemasonry” Munich 1927. Ludendorff brings a lot of material about the frmr. ritual, but draws Conclusions that are not always tenable.

VIII.
The role of Jews in Freemasonry.

No sooner had Freemasonry been founded than others tried to...
Even the Jews had already gained a firm foothold there. That was However, it wasn't that easy; initially, the Jews
Entry to the lodges was denied. Only around the year 1780
Two Jewish lodges were formed in Frankfurt am Main, but they were...
They were not recognized by the other lodges. In contrast, their numbers increased.
the voices that advocated the admission of Jews; so
In 1786, von Kortum openly advocated for the admission of Jews.
“Eclectic Freemasons' League” in Frankfurt am Main, founded in 1783
It had been founded, initially admitted Jews, then decreed in
In 1811, for reasons unknown to us, all were excluded “Non-Christians”, however, returned to the original grounds as early as 1844≠ Sentences, i.e., back to the admission of Jews. Today are the most important and respected passages in the "Eclectic" Bunde” almost exclusively occupied by Jews; some names may to demonstrate this: Grand Secretary and merchant Ph. Hertz, as Ver»
We find members of other Grand Lodges, or Masters of the Chair.
3. B. the Brr .. Woritz Löwenhaar, Dr. Willy Levin, Dr. Max
Levy, Kaufmann Horkheimer, E. Rofenberg, Carl Kohn, Max
Wertheimer, Bernhard Seeligmann, Dr. Auerbach, Max Oppene Heimer, along with many others. No doubt, the "most active and The most persistent workers for the lodge are the Jewish Freemasons.
and they also went to extraordinary lengths to to get in; for example, Br... Abraham Elissen from The Eclectic League already sharply criticized the old Prussian lodges in 1846.
criticizes them for adhering to the "Christian principle" and Jews were denied entry. Naturally, those...
Lodges that already granted access to Jews, by Brother Abraham
Elissen was mentioned in a particularly complimentary light.

In Hungary, lodges were re-established at the end of the sixties of the 19th century; already around the time of the Witte of
In the seventies, the Jewish Freemasons held the leadership,

However, Christians left the lodges en masse, and without any... every struggle. Today, the Jews in the Hungarian Circle are forming Masonry, the decisive majority, as well as almost entirely excluded⸗ Jews are at their head. This is reported to us by a married man.
former Freemason, who joined the lodge in 1871, Master in 1874 was then lodge secretary and deputy of the Grand Lodge, but in 1876, after he had decided, based on his own experiences, to be had formed a verdict, resigned, and received "honorable cover".

This is Karl Koller, the later editor-in-chief of the Viennese "Fatherland." Once masters of the lodge, the Jews even went soon to attack those who are subject to their rapid and wanted to counteract the planned rise. The un⸗
The Garisch Grand Lodge of St. John (blue Freemasonry) marched against the Anti⸗ Semitism loose, with Brother Julius Goldenberg, one of the callers in the dispute, the most pressing task of Freemasonry in the defense against — anti-Semitism was also seen! Even the Grand Orient Hungary, as representative of high-degree Freemasonry, issued a circular⸗ Write against anti-Semitism! (1882). At this time,
The well-known Tisza⸗Eſzlarer⸗ trial also took place; the Hungarian Freemasonry now considered it expedient and appropriate to appoint the superior⸗ State Attorney Substitute, Eduard Seiffert, a letter of thanks to send it for his “Defense of the Right” (1883).
No lodge without Yuden! This word of the Freemasons!
French magazine "Acacia" on the conditions in the French Lodges are considered to be three times stronger than Hungarian lodges.
To avoid misunderstandings, however, in the preceding…
emphasizes that the “Acacia” (1908, No. 62) this word Not used in a derogatory way; not at all! They
On the contrary, it is seen as an achievement and highlights a few lines later, praising Judaism, it is pointed out that the
The "Jewish Church" has no dogmas, but only symbols.
"Just like the Freemasons" ... "That's why," he continues.
the “Acacia” continued, “therefore the Israelite Church is ours natural ally, therefore she supports us, des⸗ Half find a lot of Jews in our ranks... Whether the mutual support, even if only partially or from other sources,
The underlying reasons for this are left open for the time being. Certainly However, it is that Judaism in the Hungarian lodges is the leading force.
rung possesses, as a glance at Dalen's Freemason Calendar (1914) confirmed. We already encounter them among the honorary grandmasters.
Brr . . Friedrich Glück, Dr. Simon Medgyes and Woriz Mezei:
among the representatives of other Grand Lodges, the Brothers ... Heinrich Glücksmann, Karl Duschnitz, Friedrich Artner, Geza Winter;
Among the Masters of the Chair, the Brothers... Dr. Warcell Glafer (Loge “Humboldt”), Alex Fleißner (L. “Galilei”), Dr. Illés Pollak
(L. “Könyves Kalmän”), Dr. S. Eisler (L. “Franz Deak”), Dr.
Rudolf Temesvary (L. “Demokratia”), Dr. S. Braun (L. “Wi⸗

nerva"), Dr. Julius Frankl (L. "Progressio"), all in Ofen≈ plague; but similar conditions prevail in the province and the 13 Viennese Freemasons' lodges, which have so far conducted their lodge activities in had to exercise their rights in Pressburg, since Freemasonry was prohibited in Ofterreid.

The messengers were also almost exclusively Jewish women.
From the chair: Dr. NS Rumpler (L. "Humanitas"), Viktor Wei» nert (L. "On Secrecy"), Dr. Alexander Holländer (L.
"Future"), Dr. Karl Ornstein (L. "Socrates"), Dr. Emil Frankl
(E. "Socrates", 1916), EV Schick (L. "Eintracht"), Dr. K. Gombrich
L. "Schiller"), Dr. Albert Engel (L. "Friendship"), Dr. A. Heller (L. "Loyalty"). Richard Teweles (L. "Pioneer"), Alfred Kirsch (L.
"Cosmos"), Friedrich Artner (L. "To Truth"), Bernhard Schiller (L. "Equality"). These are facts that everyone can see at the Hand von Dalen's calendar 1914 (or 1916) can be verified.

The situation is similar in Germany with those of the Hamburg metropolitan area—Lodge subordinate to the Berlin lodges; the lodge "Victoria" in Berlin has 3. B. as Master of the Chair Mr. Sally Schey, as first assigned master Dr. Rosenberg, as third assigned master
Dr. Marcuse and at a whole series of lodges of the Hamburg
The situation is not significantly different in the Grand Lodge; is it there
It is surprising that the "Grand Lodge of Hamburg" is not supported by the
Are Jews being given special preferential treatment? To properly understand this fact...
To assess, it is necessary to establish that the three old Prussian Grand Lodges ("Grand Lodge of Prussia, called to Friendship", "Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Germany" and "Grand National Mother Lodge of the Three Globes") the Jews as much as possible Keep them away; they are only admitted to the three lowest grades at most.
up, but not into the "inner Orient" or into the Andreas≈ and Scottish Lodges. On the attainment of high degrees
So the Jews saw themselves from the front at the old Prussian lodges≈ excluded, which is all the more significant than 3. B.
at the "Grand Lodge of Germany", the three lower ones
Grades reduced to meaninglessness and the higher Graden absolutely subject to find. With consideration for their Jewish heritage.
Brothers therefore founded the Hamburg Grand Lodge (1900) Provincial Lodge in Berlin, which sparked the desperate resistance of the this provoked Old Prussian lodges; they invoked their Prerogative dating from 1798, on Prussian soil to be allowed to practice masonry work alone and exclusively.
Through the efforts of the... Settegast and Katz However, this prerogative was abolished and in 1900 it went the desire of the Jews for complete equality with the Aryans in fulfillment.

The founding of the Grand Lodge "Emperor Frederick of the Federal Loyalty", which primarily

It was intended to be a gathering place for Jewish seekers of light. Their The founder is Hermann Settegast, who was appointed by Justice Councillor Alexander Katz was significantly supported in his intentions. This new⸗ Founded in 1892, it experienced numerous hostilities and became streamlined. described as the "Jewish Grand Lodge" and left after eight years It was reinstated. Its members and lodges were greatly appreciated. partly taken over from Hamburg and formed the basis of the newly created Provincial Grand Lodge of Hamburg, which above was thought to be.

The Old Prussian lodges, which together comprised around 42,000 Freemasons may have a national ideology. to be dominant; in contrast, the Grand Lodges of Hamburg and Frankfurt am Main (“eclectic”) due to the strong Jewish influence schlages tends to be more internationally minded; this was demonstrated, for example, by at the 34th Grand Lodge Congress in Berlin (1909), where the motion of the Frankfurt Grand Lodge calls for the resumption of friendly relations Relations with the “Grand Orient” in Paris with five votes was adopted against three votes from the Old Prussian lodges. Considering that the Hamburg and Frankfurt Grand Lodges together they currently only have about 9350 members, and the the other three Grand Lodges (“LL of Saxony”, “To the Sun”, “To Eintracht”) also only has over 10,650 Freemasons, so a total of over approximately 20,000 brothers possess, yes, this means the victory of a weak third over the strong two-thirds majority of all German Freemasons; the organization of the Grand Lodge Federation, which every Grand Lodge, even the weakest, regardless of their number of members, each to send one representative⸗ approves, the activism and aggressiveness are of course also to blame⸗ pleasure of that wing of German Freemasonry, which is the most active and includes the most persistent “mason” within itself, namely the Jews.

In recent years, the Freemasons' Association "To the Rising Sun" “Sun” made a lot of a fuss about itself, as it practically presented itself as a branch o performed by the French Grand Orient and accordingly fine folk– issued rhetorical appeals even during the Ruhr conflict. At the The pinnacle of all foreign policy negotiations of this "federation" The Jews Bloch and Goldscheid are standing there.

But not only in Germany, Hungary and Austria, No, all over the world the Jews are found to be active. the most active and established Freemasons and understand how to... to breathe their spirit into the lodge and to serve their own purposes to make it useful. In Poland, they are diving for the first time to... Year 1815; in the lodge list of the lodge "Bouclier du Nord"

Eight Jewish brothers are already registered in Warsaw, all of them Merchants by profession. Among the high-ranking officials of the Turkish
In the Greater Orient we find the Jews in recent times (1909).
Raphaelo Ricci and David Cohen; the wise man of the chair of the Italian≠Turkish Lodge “Macedonia” in Salonika, Emanuel Caraffo, is also Jewish. Carasso was also a member of that delegation.
which informed the defeated Sultan Abdul Hamid of his abdication.
The dethronement of this sultan is the work of the Young Turks.
Party. But this Young Turk party exists, as the free≠ Masonic journal “Acacia” 1) insured, exclusively from Freemasons. Their headquarters was Thessaloniki. Thessaloniki is, of course, for conspiracies an "exceptionally favorable place, since there under
"Of 110,000 inhabitants, 70,000 are Jews" — the [source] informs us.
open-hearted “Acacia”, and she is probably right about that.

Let's now take a quick look at Italy and... we whose most famous Freemason, Ernesto Nathan, from the A wealth of appearances emerges. Who is Ernesto Nathan? The
The "Frankfurter Zeitung", which was always "well" informed, claims that Nathan is of English parentage and has not yet...
(I've brought a halfway decent grasp of Italian.?) From eng≠ English parents? Why specifically English parents? The Jesus taught Hermann Gruber better, whose deep-rooted Knowledge of Masonic matters also grants real freedom.
maurer anerkennen, zählt uns, Ernesto Nathan sein illegitimate≠ Mazzini's son with a Jewish woman, and refers to this on the "Kölnische Volkszeitung".")

Finally, any doubt is dispelled by the "General Handbook of..."
Freemasonry”, which reports that Ernesto Nathan is the son Sarah Nathan from Pisa, with whom Mazzini had long been acquainted.
They had to hide it. The illegitimate fruit of this union is the Jewish Grand Master Ernesto Nathan."

Ernesto Nathan thus became a Freemason; he rose from rank to level, until finally — despite being Jewish — he reached the highest attained Masonic dignity: He became "Most Reverend Grand".
Master of the Grand Orient of Italy (May 31, 1896). Five Years later, he brought the Grand Orient to the Palazzo Giustiniani.
under, one of Rome's most magnificent architectural monuments, then it was

d Acacia, 1907, No. 57 ©. 148.

) Frankfurter Zeitung, November 28, 1914... The evil word that as the “Frankfurter Zeitung” would like to say — he whispers — brings
They did not pass over chaste lips.

1) From April 2, 1900, No. 309.

9) General Handbook of Freemasons, Vol. II, p. 77.

To everyone's astonishment, he became mayor of Rome when which he immediately appointed to all municipal religious schools. abolished teaching. At the beginning of the World War, transformed Nathan became one of the most vehement warmongers, who in public Assemblies, the war against Austria and Germany with He preached passion.

It is also very significant that, when Ernesto Nathan at He died on April 3, 1921; the entire Jewish world press considered him a who claimed theirs. The “Peuple Juif” wrote: “In In 1907, this foreign-born Jew was granted citizenship. elected master of the Eternal City, the residence of the Pope and at the center of Catholicism...) The “Tribune Juive” fine He announced his death as follows: “In Rome, at the age of 86 years old Ernesto Nathan (a Jew), former mayor of Rome and Grand Master of the Italian Freemasons, has died.”) And somewhat later, the Jew Peter Ryß wrote in the same period-Scripture: “Freedom fights hypocrisy, tyranny and The prejudices. A Jew as mayor of the Eternal. The city is the symbol of the new era... We will to crush anti-Semitism with fine Wittelpunkt.")

These triumphant confessions should surely convince even the to rouse the biggest sleepyheads from their deep humanitarian slumber wake up.

When one mentions Ernesto Nathan, Br.. rump is allowed. Someone from Trieste would of course be present. He too is Jewish – like Nathan; a political striver – like Nathan; Freemason – like Nathan; indeed, he has already become the great orator of the Grand≠ Brought to the Orient from Italy and will surely one day be the to reach the highest level. Born in 1860, Bürzel was appointed by the accused of high treason by Austrian authorities, according to a But he was acquitted that year and banished from the country. He ts He studied in Padua, then joined the editorial staff of the "Tribuna". and was then "elected" to parliament. Shortly after the outbreak of the war he became Winister for the Ge who were yet to be liberated-offer, which, thanks to the outrageous betrayal in the hinterland, then also were truly "liberated." That Bürzel now prefers Barzilai who can be called, one must never, given the adaptability of these gentlemen≠ One can take wonders; it is also from an Isidor Witkowski. Maximilian Harden has become one!

In short: What has influence in Italy is Freemasonry. Among these, however, the Jews play a prominent role.

) April 15, 1921. D April 22, 1921. 2) May 14, 1921.

"This role has numerous representatives in the Italian Parliament."
— is being pursued by the French Freemason newspaper “Revue Maconnique” (January 1908 No. 334 p. 1). "Far better than anywhere else has "The Hebrew spirit achieved its fine purpose in Italy." (Ibid., page 3.)

The thing about the "Hebrew spirit" in Italy may well be true.
That's correct, but it's no different elsewhere.
In France, for example, we repeatedly encounter Jews even as Greens⸗ and diligent representatives of Freemason orders. This belongs here.
3. For example, the Parisian Jew Etienne Morinz; he was the main—most serious disseminators of the so-called "Scottish (High Degree⸗) “Systems”, which, of course, has virtually nothing to do with Scotland.
The highest adherents of this doctrine adorned themselves with the most sumptuous robes.
They held titles and called themselves, in all seriousness, "Raifers of the East". and West". The "Warlord" Worin now received from to these “emperors of the East and West” a patent, in which he as "Great Chosen One, perfect and sublime Master,
"Prince of all Orders" etc. is designated and simultaneously commissioned, to spread Freemasonry in America. Morin did as he had been told was called, and brought the Scottish teaching method to San Domingo, Jamaica and Charleston in South Carolina. From Charleston
She was expelled from France after the French Revolution. brought back, where in 1804 the still existing “Supreme
The “Conseil” (Supreme Council) with its 33 degrees was founded.
How much this high-degree system relates to biblical history—connected and permeated by Jewish spirit, shows a A quick glance at the titles provided there: There you will find we the RNachegrad from the knight Radofc (30th degree), then a prince of Lebanon, a prince of the Tabernacle, yes even a Grand Prince of Jerusalem!

And now? The local nobility has been abolished, the princes... sideways, the emperors dethroned. .. However, it will not be long,
So their places are filled again. The emperors are dead, long live the rulers.
the “Emperors of the East and West!”

Another founder of the order is the Jewish army supplier Michel.
Bédarride, who with his two fine brothers performed the rite of Misraim (South Egypt) introduced and spread it in France.
The Visrai Order comprises 90 degrees ( ), possessed in France in 1898
10 lodges and was also founded in 1902 by the druggist Reuß transplanted to Germany, where the order had a less than glorious history in 1907
It ended. —

The very similar rite of Memphis owes its existence to Originating from a certain Samuel Honis from Cairo, who brought him to France in 1814; from the French Grand Orient Recognized in 1862, this order came about through the aforementioned Reuss also to Germany, without putting down firm roots there can. Its "secrets" were no less than 95 degrees.

distributed and only available for purchase with heavy money.

But – one might object – these are all
Order foundations that were quite unjustifiably associated with Freemasonry
They can be counted. The "German Grand Lodge Federation" never did.
It has been acknowledged that they are therefore not justified. Admittedly! However the “Grand Orient de France” has recognized them and that This is perfectly sufficient, even if these orders are awarded by the German side.
still so often as fraudulent foundations for the purpose of exploitation of Those seeking enlightenment and the gullible will be branded. Incidentally,
This is not a question of whether it is recognized or not,
but merely to prove that Jews are involved in Freemasonry everywhere they play a leading role, in France both as in Italy, in Hungary as well as in Ojterreid) and exactly so also in Germany. Or do you want to deny that the Jew Cremieur, one of the leading figures of the Scottish school of thought, in France Did he ever play a leading role in the Reich? Didn't he belong to the...
February Revolution (1848) along with other Freemasons of the pro»
Visorish government? Or the one-eyed Jew Gambetta?

Let's now see how things stand in England.

England, including the Scottish lodges, has around 300,000 Freemasons. Among them are over 43,000 Jews, that's almost the fifth part; however, there are lodges that are almost exclusively composed of Jews, such as the 3rd lodge Shelley, which belonged to three-quarters of which are made up of Jews, indeed, even purely Jewish lodges, like the "Hiram's Lodge"; however, the latter caused so many Scandals involving the Grand Master of the Order, Prince Edward Albert, later Edward VII had to decide to dissolve it. But≠ The following lodge names are also significant: King Salo– mon, King David, King Saul, Baron Hirid,
Lord Rotschild, Henry Bernstein, Sir Albert Safsoon
And some very strange things would come out of it, if the Archbishop-Berith, to whom these lodges are subordinate, is malicious would be and wanted to speak – so the Frenchman assures us Author Theo Daedalus (codename) in the fine book L'Angle≠ Jewish land. 1) Especially since the Franco-Prussian War
The Jews invaded the lodges, while here too
the Christian brothers preferred to surrender the Jews without a fight.
To clear the field.

---

1) L'Angleterre Juive, Israel chez John Bull, p. 323ff.

At that time, numerous new lodges were established, making it obvious that Founded for purposes that favored the Jews; so said the lodge of Actors from Drury Lane, who are Jewish actors raised high, the lodge of the "Savage Club", which the “yellow press” supports and promotes the young up-and-coming talent of the newspaper indus people (Newspaper Man) promotes. The Jews who in that time the old artisan masonry had nothing to do with the lodge system, then gradually allowed in the 18th century – today They triumph! If it is true that the English Free Freemasonry as the basis for Chamberlain's imperialism This is shown – and this is beyond doubt – and must not be overlooked. that the leadership of Freemasonry is in excellent hands Measures Jewish ijt, That the Duke of Connaught, the Bru⸗ King Edward VII, as Grand Master at the head, changes no more on this fact than that the Grand Master's position⸗ The representative (Pro-Grand-Master) is Lord Ampthill.

Regarding England, the question cannot be answered in such a way. The question should be asked: Who is a Freemason there? The question should be reversed. The question is: Who there isn't a Freemason? Because everything that Names and standing, the members of the royal family, the ministers, the lords, the members of parliament, the Ange⸗ subservient to the press, the major merchants, the bank directors, etc. They almost without exception belong to the Grand Lodge of Freemasons; felbit- The Chief Rabbi understood this, as did the well-known newspaper. "The Times" openly questions the Freemason symbols in mosaic and for Visible to everyone in front of their entrance. Freemasonry and Judaism and Judaism are so intertwined there that a close⸗ A French writer seriously declared: “The Freemason is "Nothing but an artificial Jew." In the English newspaper “Ihe Eye Wittness” is being pursued by an unnamed author, that the against⸗ The current situation of Jews in England is most clearly illustrated by this » characterized by the fact that they have the dominance in the secret Ge— have gained influence in societies, particularly in Freemasonry.)

In the remarkable book by Eduard Demachy (?) about The Rothschilds are found to have been subject to the Free State since 1809. belong to Masonic orders, both German and French— Swiss and English lodges; this is the reason why against nothing at all could be done about this powerful house: Any attack would be met with immediate retaliation by brothers of the same. guesses and crossed out. This remark becomes understandable when One considers that every Freemason is obliged to every

---

1) The Eye Witness. “The Jewish Question”, September 1911, various issues - ) Eduard Demachy “Les Rothschild”, Paris 1896, self-published.

to warn my brother of the dangers that threaten him.
This is probably the main value of Freemasonry.
for Judaism, especially since they employ countless non-Jews for their makes its own, closer organization useful. This actual
The organization of Judaism is known as the "Alliance Is“raélite” and Moses Montefiore was once its most important representative.

Brother Moses Montefiore comes from Livorno (Italy), let
But he settled permanently in England; he won the favor of the father.
the queen, was knighted by her and later became Baronet raised. Montefiore has earned extraordinary merit.
to acquire knowledge of Judaism throughout the world and numerous journeys undertaken to bring advantages of all kinds to fine members of the breed to extricate him. His membership in Freemasonry came to his attention.

to take place perfectly. Br... Wontefiore was also with us.
not unknown. When the 1867 constitution was adopted in Hungary
During the meeting, he personally intervened with Franz Deäf, Baron Josef Eötvös and Br... Count Andräsy — the then Mi⸗ Presidents — to achieve equality for Jews through — to add. He had already previously spoken with the brothers. Ignaz Hirschler, and Moriz Wahrmann in Ofenpest put in contact and through jie, a branch of the "Alliance Israélite" in Hungary
To bring life to him. At the crucial moment, he then... the aforementioned visits, but could not be expected from these statesmen
No definite commitment received; the question is not yet ready for a
A decision was ripe; but Montefiore insisted on his appearance,
That is to say, he emphatically invoked the "patriotic"
"Deserves" of the Jews, and so it came the very next day of Minister of Culture Baron Eötvös presented him with the draft of two paragraphs which the Jews and Christians “into the equating civil and political rights and all against⸗ partial regulations and customs repealed.“ .”)

From these statements, which are supplemented by countless further examples,
The fact that the games could be substantiated is sufficiently clear, that the Jews are represented in Freemasonry to such an extent that their headcount is far from being equal; it is evident from this,

that the Jewish Freemasons are everywhere the most active and persistent⸗ are skilled workers and also understand how to assert themselves bring; furthermore, it shows that they are present in all countries to strive for leadership within Freemasonry, they in many states they have already seized control and are now in their interests, i.e., primarily in favor of their race, to be expressed– to use, strives to find; finally, it also emerges from this that it is inde ) Cf. the Masonic journal “Haynnl” 1885, p. 101.

special Jews are those who bring politics into the lodge≠ to wear and influence the other brothers in the same way.
If the circumstances are indeed as they are, then it is probably the
The question is justified whether there is absolutely no one in the entire German Reich.
looks through this game, rebels, and opposes the domineering Judaism opposes it? The answer is: Many thousands They see it – and remain silent; many a man keeps himself aloof through his lodge≠ oath or bound by his vow; but whoever earnestly Anyone who rebels against it will face the wrath of the lodge; they will be expelled from
He is exposed and falsely accused of having base motives.
This is followed by business disrepute and economic ruin– tung. With a whale he feels the sword tips of all lodges= brothers on his breast; the symbol of former times becomes harsh reality. Br... Findel, one of the most selfless and The noblest Freemason could tell you a thing or two about that. He was a staunch opponent of the so-called "christian principle" and He railed against that provision in word and writing, by which denies Jews entry to the lodge. Br...
JG Findel has thoroughly revised his views over time.
changed. “Freemasonry,” he says, “is turning everywhere in the same way to people as such, namely under from the perspective that their disciples, as human beings, were becoming one Brotherhoods united, while the Jew everywhere Jew remains, who sees all peoples foreign to him merely as objects of Exploitation considered.” 1) How ijk now a folder change into the
To explain observations? Brother Findel himself says about this: “.
I used to be warmly... in support of the Jews, because I believed in them. held the oppressed. Since I realized that they were our (If oppressors are, I fight them.) He emphasizes that it is up to him made a tremendous impression that the Jews were more proven≠
They even interfered in the administration of justice through bribery;
He refers to numerous Bible passages that declare the Jews to be the Lord– God promised to all peoples, and finally comes to the result."
nis, that one must ask Jewish light-seekers before accepting them a would require a special explanation, which would have to read something like this:
"I reject the teaching that the Jews are the chosen people."
The concept of "people of God" is outdated, foolish, and presumptuous.
"I reject all the books of Moses and all the ancient texts."

Testament and the inhuman and us contained in the Talmud moral teachings on the domination and exploitation of peoples by the Jews as not binding for me.
J.G. Findel, Miscellaneous Writings, Vol. II, p. 92, Leipzig 1902. See namely Findel's work "The Jew as Freemason". –) Ibid., p. 212.

64 The role of Jews in Freemasonry.

"I certainly agree with the educated people of the West." in the disapproval and persecution of all those Jews who deception, exploitation, usury and fraudulent to blame them for exploiting their inhabitants and reject all I reject any intellectual community with such Jewish perpetrators. I...
I assure you on my honor and conscience that I am not a member of a Jewish community.
ſchen Kampforganisations bin, wie des Verein deutnϖcher Staats⸗ citizens of Jewish faith, of the B'nai B'rith order!) and of the Association of German Jews.

"After my induction into the Freemasons, I will not to pursue any special Jewish interests and not to use the lodge for misuse for commercial purposes.

"I consider myself obliged to uphold the highest principles of Freemasonry, brotherly love, help and loyalty, to the best of one's ability to act upon and acknowledge Christian morality, on which the
The relationship between the German state and Freemasonry is binding for me.

"I reject the service of Mammon and the hoarding of wealth."
unproductive wealth as a pernicious plague.

“I will not, directly or indirectly, do anything under the law.”
to base what is based on the domination of the German people and the Lodges targeting Jews.”

This statement basically only contains self-description⸗ understandable; but despite the high and respected position that Brother Findel's life as a bricklayer – he was an editor of the “construction lodge” and honorary member of more than 40 Johannis-lodges and some Grand Orients –, remained with him in this most important Success failed to answer all questions.

But what do the Jews themselves think about Br.:. Findels Bors beat? – Let's hear what a conscious representative of the Jew had to say⸗ to respond to that; Br... Alfred Cohn (from the Lodge “Zur Worgenröte” in Berlin (FZAS), dentist of Profession, explained to us briefly and concisely: A decent and right⸗
A devoutly minded Jew who wants to become a Freemason would– the one who presented him with such a “declaration” for signature⸗

1) The independent order B'nai Brith (UOBB) is purely Jewish and is
It is not recognized as a secret society by the eight German Grand Lodges.

It has well over 75,000 members in all countries, including in Germany alone.
The country has approximately 80 lodges with well over 9,000 Jewish members. He is active in the United States of North America, where it was founded in 1842, in England, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Romania, etc. The new "Grand Lodge of Vienna” has allowed its members, who are mostly Jewish, to also be in the to join B'nai Brith. — It is also noteworthy that the new Order3-
The house of the “UOBB” in Berlin was personally inaugurated by the German Emperor.

was! The impetus for this probably came from Rathenau the Elder.
who was a member of the UOBB and the "Alliance Israélite universelle".

The role of Jews in Freemasonry. 65

wanted to lay, with a — “punch in the face” ant⸗ (Words...) Well, you dear, harmless German Freemasons,
How are you all doing now? Still not noticing anything??

But perhaps that's just the opinion of a few; much⸗ Things aren't quite so bad in Germany after all.
as elsewhere; perhaps Judaism in the German Freemasonry in the Netherlands does not really have the same influence as in other countri Countries like England, France, Italy, or Hungary! Check
We also question the validity of this objection. A single A recent example should be perfectly sufficient to illustrate the point about blind people to make one see:

At the top of German Freemasonry stands be⸗ known as the supreme authority of the "German Grand Lodge Federation", which is formed by the eight Grand Lodges of Germany. Ge⸗
The managing director at the time of the outbreak of war was...
Grand Master of the Eclectic Freemasons' League in Frankfurt
a. M.; but if one asks for the name of this Grand Master, No information is available. Dalen's Freemasons' Calendar remains silent.
...explains about it and only gives the name of the managing director⸗
Deputy, namely Brother Gotthold, is known. Professor Dr. Chri Stian Gotthold, however, was now a grand master of the "eclectic".
"Federal" in 1913/14 and it was again for the year
It was 1915/16, but not 1914/15. Who was it?
at the beginning of the war, Grokmeifter the eclectics and and at the same time also managing director of the "German Grand Lodge Federation?” That is apparently a secret.
However, this grandmaster died soon after the outbreak of the war⸗
ges into the eternal Orient, but this cannot possibly den
The reason for keeping his name secret is that even in
He does not appear in the "Death View", neither in Dalens Calendars from 1915, 1916, 1917 and 19181 That one the passing of a grandmaster, who moreover in the very⸗ most important moments, which led the business of the entire federation, the participating lodge world simply remained silent, is also in Maurer⸗

Circling was never there. Perhaps the riddle lies Solution only in the name of the one who has entered the eternal Orient⸗
a brother's? — The Most Reverend Grand Master and Ge Managing Director of all German Freemasonry at the beginning
The name of the World War was Kohn.)

That speaks volumes; this name truly is a program!

---

1) “The Jews and Freemasonry” by Brother Alfred Cohn, p. 8, Leipzig Published by Teichmann & Co.; for Freemasons of the FZAS only ) See the preface, pp. VII ff.
Wiert, World Freemasonry. 11th ed. 5

IX.

Freemasonry, charity, and politics.

In Freemasonry, two factions can be clearly distinguished.
parting: One limits her task to herself⸗ refinement of its members, which others consider essential⸗
The primary task of Freemason lodges is to engage in politics in order to...
Such Uri to serve the well-being of the world.

German Freemasonry generally stands on the
the first-mentioned standpoint. According to their view of the “king⸗
"lichen Kunst" is "the goal of the free mason, without help from “Fear and hope of becoming good and perfect,” he says.
3. B. Br. . FH Geidel of the Gr. L. Lodge of Saxony. They They therefore work with welfare institutions, combating the Mammonistic endeavors, the so-called "dollarism", and emphasize that the core of true social life is the up⸗
Self-sacrifice is free. The lodge offers them a planting and nurturing service.
School of love for the benefit of all humanity. Lodges and Grand Lodges therefore establish reformatories, orphanages, and educational institutions.
institutions, loan funds, death benefits funds, maternity homes, etc.
Some Grand Lodges have established several hundred charitable foundations.
create those who administer them, such as the "Grand Lodge of the Three Globes alone 457 (1918), the “Grand Lodge of Germany⸗
"land" AAA, while the "Eclectic Union" received relatively little, only 74; however, its membership is not particularly large either.
great, because since the veiled story with the "Venerable"
“The last Grand Master” Kohn has almost half a thousand Wit⸗ lost members and now comprises only 3429 Brr .., which are to be distributed among 25 lodges; recently the “Eclectic Union” suffered another painful loss: the esteemed Coburg Lodge: "Seriousness for truth, friendship and justice" with more than The Grand Lodge “To the Three Worlds—” has 160 brothers
"Balls" connected! But the Eclectic Union is the one for that.
Organization that maintains the most international relations and has appointed around 30 representatives for this purpose; he stands by the political

The closest direction in Freemasonry is, and it is
It is significant that he advocated for the resumption of the Relations with the “Grand Orient de France” and the “Grande
"Loge de France" was particularly strongly employed. To the left-hand side Flügel also includes the Hamburg Grand Lodge, which is at⸗

For example, the recognition of the Supreme Council of Gers oien requested, a request that was also made shortly before the outbreak of the World War, namely on May 31, 1914, by the German Grand Lodge⸗ days was accepted!

That the French have no understanding of the ideal pursuit
The fact that German Freemasonry possesses [something] hardly requires proof.
Brother Dr. Wilhelm Ohr presents in his fine and substantial book “The “French spirit and Freemasonry” evidence on every page for this purpose and the “Bulletin of the Grand Orient of France” from the year 1864 even states quite plainly: “The Charitable⸗ "Knowledge does not fall within the purview of Freemasonry." That is German.
Light enough.

In Hungary, the Freemasons initially had some success here and there⸗
Active foundations have been created, thereby gaining tolerance and money.
They gained influence, but at the same time they pushed their way into all influential pos Positions and sought in particular to be of service to the press to do. Then they received a large part of the public school system.
teachers and the entire organization of Wittel school teachers into the Hand. The red lodges (Scottish lodges) were now after fran⸗
The Swiss example aims to also include education for adults.
to take possession of it and the Masonic monthly journal "Kelet", to whom we owe this information assures us that Jewish Freemasons provide "moral instruction" in prisons granted.) But “Kelet” is chasing us around with entirely different things;
He categorically denies that the Freemason lodges are good.
Active clubs are found, like thousands of others. That's actually... obvious, because to practice charity one needs to but not to include, to cover with a fur skirt and to decorate with ribbons. But what else do they intend? “We
"They are building the foundations of a new social order." says “Kelet”;?) “we need the mysterious because this
"Magic strengthens our unity"; ... "we find conspirators;
We conspire every day with holy faith and with Bitterness against the current social order.”?)
Charity is therefore just a cover that one discards.
as soon as he is no longer needed. That too is basically Naturally, because of the vow of secrecy
It wouldn't make any sense if it were just about well-being.
activity associations dealt with the terrible oaths of the sworn⸗

1) Kelet, 1896, Issue 10.

Kelet, September 1911.
Kelet, July 1911. | 5*

not even discussing the system. This open confession of the “Kelet”, the recognized Freemason magazine of the “Symboli⸗
The Grand Lodge of Hungary” must be noted: the Hungarian Free⸗
Freemasonry represents a new state system, and which one Nature, this is, said Br. Bela Vas quite bluntly.
of the lodge “Del” (Lugos): “Work towards ensuring that the watch of "The work-shy rulers should stop." The goal is therefore Undoubtedly the Republic.!)

Therefore, engaging in politics is the main purpose, indeed the one⸗
The sole purpose of Hungarian Freemasons, and the politicians will They are practically trained in the lodge. In all elections, the Freemasons of Hungary were instructed on how to behave, Freemasons sit in all parliamentary parties; the most important ones are...
Offices up to the ministerial level are filled with Freemasons.
— assures us the excellently informed former brother.
Karl Soller 2) The fact is that, besides countless others, also Count Andrassuy was a Freemason, as was Baron Banffy, and Baron Wekerle was especially honored by the Freemasons. recalled his oath when he took office as Finance Minister in 1889.
(Ministry took over.) He belongs to the high-degree lodge "Koloman".
the bibliophile” (Kalman Könyves). For the political
The activities of the Freemasons of Hungary could be evidenced by countless examples.
be provided. Br.. Samuel Bakonyi (formerly: Samuel Breuer)
For example, he demanded in the official lodge publication the confiscation of Church property and the abolition of aristocratic privileges. One might Whatever one may think about it, such demands must be met.
struggles can be described as political, which are related to the essence have nothing to do with purely intellectual Freemasonry. The un⸗ Garish Freemasons also publish their own daily newspaper, "Vilag".
(“World”) out; it was done with financial support from the Re⸗ government founded, but nevertheless soon took up the fight against "militarism". Characteristic of the spirit
This newspaper contains sentences like this one: “The soldiers are breaking “They take their oath less often than kings” (“Vilag”, April 16, 1910).
Vilag's ideal is also an atheist republic, namely a “Ara, free from thrones and altars.” 4) This confirms the fran ·
The French Freemasons' newspaper "Acacia", which particularly stands out

1) This essay was already published in May een ) Freemasonry in Austria-Hungary, page 300, Vienna 1897. Herder's Publishing House.
Ibid. Page 330.
9) Quoted from “Freemasonry and Politics” by Dr. Peter Gerhard, Vienna 1917. Page 70.

emphasizes that Hungarian Freemasonry is superior to French Freemasonry in this regard. their activity is very similar; "because in Hungary, too, the Warfare, the counter-church, and the truly advanced fractus≠ tion of public opinion”. 1) Also the “Mecklenburgian The lodge newsletter emphasizes that the current activities of the Hungarian Lodges deviate completely from what they (the Germans) Freemasons) understand Freemasonry. "It seems to us, when we read the “Orient” 2) as if we were ... in a whole Enter another world. The Federal Council of the Grand Lodge is discussing this. in an official meeting, a polis founded by Freemasons tisches Tagblatt (apparently referring to the "Vilag") and secures granting him the support and promotion of the Grand Lodge. The Grand Master is holding a political speech in a lodge. Inaugural speech. In the lodges, the focus is on the Participation in the areas of work: Fight against clericalism and the removal of the horse fences; free, non-religious public school; Free, secret, and direct suffrage. Except for these counter-arguments≠ Stands will also be discussed via the Israeli Patronage Association. about Ferrer's teachings, ... the Serbian question and much more Others of this kind are discussed in lectures and debates, also "A lot of money has been raised for the relevant purposes." And further: "The Hungarian lodges are therefore . . . political associations, who essentially pay homage to radical socialist aspirations.” “From what we call Freemasonry” – says Mecklenburg≠ burgian lodge journal – “we read nothing in the ‘Orient’.”?) – Thus, even from a Freemason's own mouth, the proof would be... provided evidence for the correctness of our claim. That the Brr.. Kosuth, Klapka, Martinovic and other members of the lodge "were" is actually self-evident after the Witshared.

But what about Austria? In Austria, the Freemasonry has been banned since 1794 or 1801; alone Everything that is forbidden is, according to a well-known joke, at We are allowed to do this; consequently, so is Freemasonry.

In Vienna alone there are currently fourteen lodges that all were subject to the Hungarian Grand Lodge and they performed their ritual work in Bratislava. Their names and

---

1) “Acacia”, June 1908 No. 66, p. 420.

) “Orient” German official publication of the “Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary”.
Oven plague VI.

Quoted from the "Herold", weekly newspaper for new (editor)
Dr. Kekule von Stradonitz), Berlin 1910, No. 18, pp. 9 and 10.

70 Freemasonry, charity and politics.

The year of its founding is listed here: “Humanitas” (1871), “Future” (1874), “Socrates” (1874), “Harmony” (1875), “Schil⸗
“Ler” (1875), “Friendship” (1877), “Loyalty” (1888), “Goethe” (1892), “Lessing on the Three Rings” (1897), “Pioneer” (1898), “Cosmos” (1907), “On Truth” (1913), “Equality” (1913),
"Progress" (1917). Four of these fourteen lodges existed.
in Vienna under a different name, but worked under the⸗
the same Master of the Chair. The lodge was called "Socrates" here.
"Humanitarian Association Unity", the lodge "Schiller" called itself to the police “education”, which the lodge “Future” concealed.
behind the "Literary Social Club" and the lodge “Eintracht” was protected by the “Non-political Association”.
"Unity on the Danube." The meeting place of most of these Lodge is: Vienna, 1st district, Dorotheergasse 12. Outside of Vienna...
There are still lodges and circles in Asch, Brno, and Franzensbad.
Haida, Karlovy Vary, Mariánské Lázně, Pilsen, Prague, Liberec, Saaz Teplitz-Schönau and Tetĺchen on the Elbe. The lodges of Ab—bazia, Linz a. D. and Salzburg were during the war either they were received or, as a precaution, "covered up". In
C. van Dalen's "Calendar for Freemasons" from 1915 will be fic
They were mentioned for the last time; but they will soon be brought back to new life.
awaken, especially since they no longer need to, their poli⸗ tisch's striving "under the mysterious carpet" to conceal the lodge." The total number of members is stated as around 1100, although this probably only includes those of the⸗ to understand the current members. The strongest lodge is the “Humanitas” with currently 237 brothers; they are under⸗ maintains two children's shelters, namely in Kahlenbergerdorf and Sau⸗ bersdorf; according to the 1909 accountability report, there 77 children were raised according to the principles of "royal art".
The total costs for the upkeep of both institutions amounted to
In 1909, approximately 47,000 crowns were received, most of which came from Jewish lodge brothers and their relatives were outraged⸗
The question is whether these are legitimate children of Christian parents.
or concerning illegitimate children of Freemason fathers,
This information cannot be gleaned from the report. The assets
The number of children's asylums on December 31, 1909, according to the Fest⸗ Positions of the auditors SN Chiger, Th. Germany and
S. Hfterreicher over 261,000 crowns. From the Viennese Free Masonic lodges or individual members thereof were further
The “Philanthropic Association” was founded, as well as the “Home for the Homeless⸗
"Loose families", the "Association for feeding hungry schoolchildren" children” and others.!) The “Association against impoverishment and betrayal⸗ “telei” is described as a creation of the “Schiller” lodge, likewise the “Findlingshort”.

But then you hear that the "Goethe" lodge is merely supported two children and two adults, the lodge “Lef⸗ “Sing” their help only to one man and two women⸗ währt (1902), so one will have to be careful with the judgment, especially since the Christian charities are quite different To have results to show.

But — says Brother Nathan Grundmann on October 25th 1905 in the lodge "Humanitas" — a lodge must never to sink to a charity: "In the lodge, it should The mind is likely to be delighted by fine speech, and charity should also be appreciated. "They will be promoted. But we don't need Freemasonry for that." So what else would it be for? "Why do we need a lodge? That's..." “History teaches us this, and inspires us to do so.” — Brother Nathan Grundmann is apparently thinking of the story of the French French Revolution and the revolutions all over the world The world in general, which is essentially the work of the Freemasons were, as will be proven. Incidentally, is also The "Free School" was founded by the Freemasons. The lodge “Pioneer”, whose hammer-wielding master at the time was the later Member of Parliament EV Zenker initially founded the "Association "to preserve a free school," then the association "Free School itself?) Br.-. Zenker, active in both clubs, was Emerging from the lodge "Humanitas". Member of Parliament Baron von. Hock, who was always associated with the "Free School" who is named is also a Freemason, as is Dr. v. Licht, Professor Redlich et al. |

Does the situation with charity not look particularly rosy now? The better the situation is with politics.

Because the Freemasons were suspected of influencing politics The ban remained in place in Ojterreid, and one She only allowed it in the form of humanitarian associations, although it was generally known that they were actually lodge work")

1) A list is given, for example, in the “Bauhütte” of November 27, 1909, No. 98.

) Cf. “Der Zirkel”, Vienna 1903, September 20, Freemasonic Weekly. It has always been publicly denied that the association "Freie Schule" (Free School) is a a Masonic foundation; today it is openly admitted (cf. “Wr. Fr. Z.”). August 1919, p. 11).

9) Lodge work refers to those ritual acts that only take place in a lodge.
"genuine and just lodge" can be initiated, according to the admission of Light seekers, promotions, affiliations, exclusions, etc.

performed, namely in Hungary (first in Neudörfl, then in Pressburg). The history of the (lodge) "Whore" explicitly mentions manitas admitted that these lodges and (humanitarian) associations identical find and one and the same Freemasonic association⸗ agreement with the same members and the same association form an administration.

The political expression of Freemasonry at that time was Liberalism. After its shattering, they sought to gain more and more influence over social democracy.
Bridging the gaps wasn't so difficult after all, the common Same election slogan: “Liberty, Equality, Fraternity” helped to achieve this.
over. This election slogan was originally for the Free⸗ masons' own, then became the battle cry of the French Revolution and eventually spread to all republican parties.
part of it, so also on social democracy.

The to⸗ was particularly promoted by Jewish Freemasons.
joining forces with the Social Democrats is desired, demanded and demanded. Br.. Raimund Mautner calls the Gozialid– It is practically Freemasonry personified, “therefore they should wirunsihmanſschließen” (Circle, No. 4, 37th year, p. 61).
What they both have in common is the fight against clericalism and against all excesses of nationalism. This is for... first to notice that in Freemasonry language “clericalism” is always used synonymously with Christianity, and secondly, that excesses of nationalism only occur in Germany
They were never discovered and fought among the Slavs.
German sentiment in itself is, according to Freemasonic understanding, already an “outgrowth” of nationalism, Czech However, among the Czechs, attitude is always considered something Of course.

Also Br.. Dr. Alexander Holländer (Lodge “Future”) comes to the conclusion that the ultimate goal of Freemasonry and Social democracy is largely the same.
(Sermon at the Grand Assembly of the "Symbolic Grand Lodge") from Hungary”, Buda Pest, April 16, 1905, taken from the “Circle”, 35th year, page 147).

The abolition of the lodges in Hungary has had a widespread impact.
These questions brought to light a large amount of archival material. Thus could, in order to achieve "our ultimate goal." What this entails. The goal to be seen was shown by the equally seized secretary. Council report of the "Eötveößs" lodge from 1918. According to this memorandum Brother Dr. Ludwig Balint stated: “The ideas which the Making humanity happy... is also our ultimate goal. These ultimate goals are called cosmopolitanism and atheism. and Communism." It was therefore not surprising that The government of the Counts Karolyi in 1918 consisted solely of Jews and Freemasons. Marrijten existed. That was the true face of the charitable. Humanity!

This is taken from the 1911 annual report of the lodge "Demokratia" highlighting that the “restoration of international solidarity⸗ "The act" can only be undertaken by "red Freemasonry".

Brother E. Szekely shares the same view as Dr. Balint: The Social Democrats' program is essentially also theirs. Program. He demands that one participate in the creation of the future⸗ should actively cooperate with the socialist state. In particular but Freemasonry must adapt to the socialist or– (ganiſation rege teil.) Br.. Szekely practically demands,?) that Freemasonry is entirely committed to radical democracy⸗ must swear an oath and join the workforce; that's what's required. it is the only way, since bourgeois liberalism is widespread Europe, so in Belgium, in Austria and in Hungary completely I have managed it. So: First with liberalism, and if it is no longer possible with his sworn sworn Enemies of Marxism. — A wild example of Freemasonry Loyalty to one's convictions and strength of character.

But if Brother Szekely believes that the Freemasons should the numerically much stronger working class as an auxiliary force By connecting, he intends to do exactly the opposite. They say that the Freemasons should be at the top as leaders. the workers shall join forces and form their protective force. Br... Dr. expresses this thought much more clearly and vividly. Alexander Holländer; he compares the Freemason to a Wanderer, who with arms outstretched longingly towards the The Isle of the Blessed stares. “Then a…” Boat, steered by a tub, dented skin, suntanned, whose hand is calloused, whose body is sinewy and thin with Toil and hardship; he takes the one yearning on the shore across. He stares at his boat and brings it safely to the island. of the blessed. Freemasonry is the wanderer,

---

1) This happened before, by the way; numerous leaders = Social Democrats Call the Freemasons' lodge, jo Br.. e Br.. Schuhmeier

Dr. Viktor Adler, Br. Ellenbogen, Br.. Karl Seitz uma

The meeting of the “Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary”, April 8, 1906.

"The boatswain, social democracy." All sorts of high-Attention! Truly a fitting, a profound comparison: On Only the wanderer remains on the Isle of the Blessed.
Freemasons back, the social democratic Boots-
The man, however, has done his duty and will be quickly dismissed.
finishes and is allowed to turn back.

However, this basic idea is expressed quite unequivocally by the Viennese Masonic organ “Der Zirkel”, from; in No. 29 of
In 1906 we read the significant words: “The spirit
The times demand of us (Freemasons) that we take the lead.
to take socialism into their own hands, and in this way Several lodges have already found the right path and the "Right means." So 3. B. Br... Schuhmeier, who is an eager
He was a member of the Viennese lodge "Socrates" and once even (a ritual lodge work performed in front of thousands of workers!)
tete and finally spoke the chain rhyme.

Br.. Szekely's advice: one must focus as quickly as possible on the Incidentally, the practice of swearing in radical democracy was also used elsewhere.
Implemented by Austrian Freemasonry.
Viennese Lodge “Pioneer”, or more precisely, whose hammer is wielded≠
The chairman Br... CV Zenker, founded the radical (democratic) party and conquered with the help of hunched-up knowledge≠
The German nationalists lost their seat on the Imperial Council (1911)!

How did the Austrian Social Democrats free this?
Masonic leadership taken hold? - The answer is simple:
She willingly lets the brrn .. eagle, elbow vim, lead; she is clueless, she knows nothing of the secret Be≠ Drawings of Brother Adler to Brother: Baron Rothschild and She apparently wouldn't see anything particularly special in it either, if She learned that occasionally the representatives of Great-capital and proletariat with an artful masterstroke embrace brotherly

Not everywhere are workers so easily swayed by the lodge.
bully. In northern Italy, for example, the Italians have done it.
Workers explicitly stated that it was an unavoidable
It is the duty of socialists to expose these secret organizations.
to keep completely away; for by belonging to the Freemasons⸗Order — they declared at a mass meeting in Milan on February 24, 1907 — a steady resistance would arise⸗

) Masonic term for assembly.

Freemasonry, charity, and politics. 75

conflict between the blind obedience that the Freemasons demand⸗ those duties which are owed to a comrade as a member a workers' organization is responsible for, "quite apart from the fact that We Freemasons have nothing to offer us proletarians⸗
Hope, but also fear everything... And on the social level...
At the democratic congress in Ancona in 1913, Benito Mussolini demanded…
Lini already at that time the complete liberation of the workers' movement from the Freemasonry, which also approached him with enticing invitations⸗ had occurred. This strong statement, however, constitutes a Exception, because in Italy it was also the rule that the free⸗ Masonic and Social Democratic leaders are very much at odds with each other. maintained close ties and still do today despite all prohibitions entertain.

All these quotes clearly show that the Charity merely forms the cover of Freemasonry, which in reality it is to be regarded as a political secret society — not only here, but almost everywhere in the world, be⸗ especially in Italy, where, by her own admission, she had been living since 1821 instigated and led all revolutionary undertakings.
Through their grandmasters Mazzini and Garibaldi, the whole Republican Party pushed through and the Italian government in 1870 prompted the occupation of Rome. 1) Numerous Italian suls.
Prai enter were Freemasons, jo Br.. Depretid, Br. . Crispi, Br. Zanardelli; but they were all allegedly “not” political lodges were attacked most vehemently because they were at the Three⸗ federally determined. Regarding the political activities of the Italian Mau⸗ Therefore, there can be no doubt whatsoever about its existence; it combats not merely the Pope, but the Christian idea in general, but especially the monarchical form of government.
The very reserved Freemason Dr. Ludwig Müffelmann throws Italian Freemasonry was characterized by almost political ambition and points to their overwhelming share in Italy's participation in the war After. Another Freemason, Br... v. Wilbitz in Turin, declared openly that the Roman Grand Orient was only for political purposes purposes are effective and many members of the “Supréme Conseil” (of the (Supreme Council) are criminals who belong in court.?

And in France? — Exactly the same picture. Br. :.
Baron von Keitzenstein explicitly states: “Almost all politicians

/ See gs SEH Br. . Chioſſone's, printed in the “Revue Maconnique”, June 1907, pp. 89–95.
7) Cf. 3 Gruber “The poisonous core etc.” 1899. pp. 303 ff.

"France's Freemasons were or are found.") There too, they are found Lodges – schools of politics. But not just the members, also The lodges themselves are involved in politics: “The French government is entirely under the rule of the Lodge. ... Since Mac Mahon are all presidents of the Republic of the Lodge not merely integrated, but active agitators who are in the lodges held a more or less excellent position⸗ have taken. ... Likewise, all those men who are in play a role in wineries or in important government offices, of Freemasonry. In general, in the fran⸗ In the Czech Republic, no one can hold an important office unless they are from the lodge is recommended.“?) Even the laws are in the Lodges developed and presented to the government, respectively Submitted to Parliament for approval! Is the Government compliant – says Brother Freymann –, so this will be with Satisfaction acknowledged, if she is delinquent, then it will depend on the circumstances.
those who were reprimanded or excused; those who remained unconsidered
However, the demands are once again referred back to the government.
Based on the accountancy reports of the Grand Orient, it is possible to
For years, the full agreement of the lodges⸗ decisions and legislative measures of the Prove it to the government. It is not uncommon that higher-ranking officials who, with the help of the lodge, obtained high state offices⸗ long enough to appear before crucial meetings in the lodge, to receive advice there. ... The expressed The lodge's sphere of influence is parliament. The elections
They are under the influence of the lodges. The French parliament is a
A self-proclaimed Freemason parliament. The "repu⸗ “Blikaniſche Block” (Republicans, Radicals, Radicals) consists exclusively of Freemasons. The left-wing radical
At least the conservative socialists are under Freemasonic leadership:
All this is told to us by a German Freemason who has been a member for a long time.
spent years abroad, particularly in Paris.
I became thoroughly acquainted with lodge life and participated in the "work" participated himself.") By French masons
It confirms it. Even Br... Hiram (Limoufin) openly admits, that Freemasonry has been a corporation since 1871 shifted to politics. "That contradicted its constitution,

---

75 Albin Frh. v. Reitzenstein “Freemasonry in France”, Berlin 1906, eggs “On the Paths of International Freemasonry” by Br.. Ernft

3 Freyman
N Br. Ernst Freymann, ibid.

their rules, their interests, but the interest of France and the Republic imperatively demanded it.") That is now by no means a derailment of this Masonic publication⸗ tes, for it had already established the fact earlier, “that the free⸗ French masonry currently “an influential political force” table group free.)

This is a particularly powerful political piece, the Ver⸗
Sensitivity snatched away: In November 1870, the lodge demanded “Henri IV.” and nine other Parisian lodges formed a "Impartial" ()) court to see King William to drag Prussia and his son before this court, because she had committed the greatest crime and presented herself as Freemasons against the “Ge⸗” they solemnly swore to.
“Sets” of Freemasonry have passed:

"Wilhelm von Hohenzollern and his son are Consequently accused of perjury and slander rates. Freemasonry worldwide invites you within three months.
"Bring people before the bar of their court!"

(Moritz Busch also reports on this.) The meanest —
Busch writes — how the French lodges behaved.
Thus, the “Courier de Lyon” reported the following, probably unheard-of, Call:

"The delegates of the RRC and the FRJ Freemasons" (loggers!) in their meeting in Lyon on November 26, 1870
The following verdict was announced:

1. Wilhelm and his two companions Bismarck and Moltke, scourges of mankind and through their insatiable personal ambition is the cause of many murders (1), arson and looting are outside the law, like three great dogs.

2. To all our brothers in Germany and the world
The enforcement of the present judgment is ordered.

3. For each of the three condemned bestien (Emperor) Wilhelm, Bismarck, Woltke) is one million francs approved, payable to the enforcers or their heirs through the seven central boxes.")

1) Acacia, June 1908, No. 66, p. 406.

9 Acacia, 1908, No. 62, p. 81. For further details, see the “Cabiers de Ordre”, an anti–Masonic monthly magazine (Paris, 14 Rue de l'Abbaye), which in 1927 continuously named the Freemasons in parliament, senate, governmentlich . and at the same time named the lodges to which they belonged.

Busch “Count Bismarck and his people”, p. 462.
') Seel in Karl Heise, “Entente Freemasonry and World War”, pp. 23f.

In 1919, two Hohenzollerns were also supposed to submit to an “impartial” "A 'fish' court is available. Again, there are freedoms." bricklayers who are calling for a court to address those “Ver≈ to judge the “breakers” who participated in the “fall” on Belgium are guilty. Wilhelm II, the German Crown Prince, the Kings and Crown Princes of Saxony, Bavaria and Württemberg, the commanding generals, all of them, everyone should be held accountable. Words were drawn: that's what the Parisian lodge "L'a vant" wanted. "Guard"! The "Supreme Council" of the French Grand Orient goes even further; he immediately labels all German Freemasons as Perjurers who violated the "sacred principles of who had betrayed Freemasonry! At the same time, all Germans, Whether Freemason or not, condemned wholesale. This This curious cultural document dates from December 13, 1914 and ijt in einem Buche Br.. Müffelmanns vollinhaltlich ab≈ prints.)

Is further evidence of the political activity of the French bricklayers? Should one recall the note affair (L'Affaire)? of the fiches) of the French War Minister Br.. André ers internal, which on the largest scale made inquiries into the political and Did the officers' religious beliefs influence this? Should one consider that? to point out that the separation of church and state in France Is wealth essentially the work of the Freemasons? Should one first prove extensively that the hatred of Germans and the Germans≈ their actual seat in the French lodges Has? That the "idea of revenge" is always artificially nurtured there. and was raised? — Enough about what fran– Swiss Freemasons themselves admit and German brothers: confirm; Br.:. Bouley, 33... rightly calls the fran≈ The Roman “Grand Orient” is a “historical power that has existed for almost over two centuries their influence spread across the entire world≈ has practiced, whose role and activity are judged differently. will, but no one can remain indifferent.””) Bouley was vice≈ President of the Council of the Grand Orient of Paris;") the speech was born on October 27, 1907 in the Cologne lodge "Freimut und held forth on “truth” and called for a storm of approval there.

gifts for the French brothers. Very telling.

1) Dr. Ludwig Müffelmann, “Italian Freemasonry and its impact on "Italy's Participation in the War", Berlin 1915, A. Unger Publishing House.
Br. . Bouley's speech in Cologne, October 1907, cf. Br.. Wilhelm Ohr,
“The French Spirit and Freemasonry”, p. 44.
Brother Bouley was later sentenced to three months for fraudulent company formation.
Sentenced to prison; see the report in the "Herold", 1914, p. 370.

member of the "Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Germany", which is considered monarchist and loyal to the state!

The Freemasons of France have also joined most empowered by social democratic trade unions; into⸗
The following Social Democrats are Freemasons in particular: the marriage⸗ former Prime Minister Br.. Aristide Briand'), the former President of the RF Bro. Millerand, Br... Marcell Gembat, the former Minister of Munitions, Brother Albert Thomas, the Members of Parliament Br.. Guesde, Br... Renaudel and others⸗ the others. That the Freemasons, who placed themselves at the head of the
They were appointed by trade unions, predominantly of Jewish descent.
are and strive to bring the workers' movement to Judaism to make it useful, according to a report about a large urn.
employee assembly, which took place on April 3, 1911 in Paris-and against the predominantly Jewish Freemasonic (He was held in the most vehement manner.)

Freemasons are also politically active everywhere else, for example in…
Example in Belgium; the Belgian Grand Orient was even the first, who (around 1840) applied lodge work to the study of politics extended to table-related questions. This stand was explicitly—point 1854 under the then Grand Master Br.. Verhaegen approved and maintained unwaveringly to the present day.
The goal of Belgian Freemasons is the Belgian Republic.
Pro-French and anti-German sentiment among Belgians is linked to the close relations between the Belgian and French
This can be attributed to the Grand Orient. The large proportion is remarkable.
The involvement of Belgian Freemasons in the question of defense—
Reform. The question of conscription was a point of contention among the various lodges.
Meetings were always on the agenda; that was in 1910 and 1913.
so immediately before the outbreak of war, significant enough for the famous Belgian neutrality and the well-known
The Freemasons' love of peace!

English Freemasonry is also politically active, however in a completely different sense; she pursues generous global politics, However, it shies away from heinous crimes and bribery.

1) In view of the exposure of Freemasonic activity in the League of Nations in 1927 (see Chapter XXIV) an attempt was made by German masons to Briand and Poincaré contrary to the finding of the Masonic "Berl. Tagblatt" v. 3. 6. 27 to present himself as a non-mason in order to deny all closer ties. In contrast, Brother Pinkow expresses this in "Power and Influence of Freemasonry". The affiliation of Poincaré, Clemenceau, 11105 1 etc. was established.

) See “Deutschsoziale Blätter” of April 8, 1912.

2) See “On the paths of the international ae p. 10.

and not back down from word attacks; she fundamentally supports all rebellious movements from abroad (Kosuth, Mazzini, Garibaldi, Magalhaes Lima, etc.). Politics of the English Free Freemasonry and official English politics is one and the other.
the same, because the respective government serves the free people completely.
Masonic ideals. (Attempts here at least with regard to…) to bring about a change in foreign policy, they made it possible in 1927 in≠ noticeable within the conservative government, but not in a (Standard that one could report on this in more detail).
One might almost think, says Brother Freymann, the Freemason.
It was founded specifically for the purpose of providing England with the aspired to dominance on water and land-to create and secure! !")

The American Freemasons are also involved.
politics are inextricably intertwined; in the Senate they form the majority.
In fact, in the House of Representatives, it even has a two-thirds majority.
Washington itself is practiced by the brothers of the Scottish Rite.
exerts a strong political influence; after all, her former boss was Br. Richardson, 33, President of the Democratic Election committees. It was repeatedly emphasized in English lodge publications-emphasized that the good relations between England and America through the friendly-brotherly relationship between English≠ (are significantly promoted by both German and American Freemasons?)
The conclusion is obvious that America's entry into the World War II was primarily the work of the Freemasons;
(The correctness of this conclusion will be discussed in the 25th essay on≠ (evidently demonstrated!)

As for the German-American brrr., yeah, I find them
Most are alienated from their people; many also present themselves as "German".
out, without actually being so. Among the chairmen and secretaries German lodges, for example, have the following names: Bern≠ hard Hertzbach, Charles Schmiel, WK Tutlemond, A. Mailänder, Adam Licht, M. Gold Schmidt, Eugen Cohn (from the German Lodge “Ling Salomon”) – The The leading brothers... are therefore largely Jews.

Until now, only the political activity of the Freemasons spoke. What about their political leanings? especially as far as the German Freemasons are concerned, it is usually said claims that the members of the three Old Prussian Grand Lodges are Monastic and loyal to the state, the brothers: of the other five

1) Ibid., p. 11.

) “The Freemason's Chronicle” 1901, II. 135; quoted from Gruber “Free⸗

Masonry, World War and World Peace” Vienna 1917

German Grand Lodges tend more towards international and republican [context missing]. towards a bikanian direction; that may be; but perhaps the The first claim is not entirely correct: the circumstance, that relations with the “Grand Orient” in Paris and with "Grande Loge de France" renewed and such to the "Supréme The “Conseil” of Serbia was only convened several weeks before the start of the war. Despite all the "nationalist" efforts to achieve this, the spun narratives remain. It's worth considering the revolt of 1918, at least. And even if... end of the war under the constraints of circumstances the Bee Relations with the Grand Orient of Italy were broken off, One must not overlook the fact that this only applies to… Italy's case, while relations with the The Grand Orients in other hostile countries were merely "resting" at that time: That too gives one pause for thought. And what if it's even Br." Gartz, Grand Master of the "Grand Lodge of Freemasons" Germany's" at the anniversary celebration of the Belgian Grand Orient (Brüffel 1907) assured, “despite the diversity of forms Freemasonry is the same in Germany as in Belgium”, “) This is all the more concerning: Belgian Freemasonry is at risk. with the French on the same level of understanding and Activity! Nevertheless – let us leave the German Freemasonry– rerei initially out of the game.

But as far as the Freemasons of the other countries are concerned, a⸗ Finally, Austria and Hungary, so one can rest easy. To say with certainty that their main activity is in the political field lies; its main purpose was and is in monarchical countries of complete overthrow of the entire existing state and society⸗ Company order; politicians and statesmen, indeed entire Parties should gradually move towards a more republican approach. Thinking is converted and educated, and the “suns⸗ “radiant” (the organ of the Freemasons’ Association, e.g., Sun) reported in No. 2/3 1923 proudly the “Czechoslovak Grand Lodge ‘Leifing zu

the three rings!” have among other things the following theses for the vote≠ Wellt: “The preferred care of external work (h, consisting in Propaganda, spread of the organization, influence of Federal government on political and economic issues."

From this perspective, the World War appears as the world showdown long prepared by the lodge≠ Freemasonry, whose political general staff is in London and whose intellectual leadership is based in Paris and New York.

1) Bulletin du “Grand Orient de Belgique”, 5907 1st issue, p. 63. SE Important World Freemasonry. 11th edition.

X,

Revolutionary Freemasonry, especially in America and France.

What is the point if, in the Knight≠Kadoſch≠Grade

Could dagger thrusts be directed against a royal crown?
The Knight≠Kadoſch≠ degree is the 30th degree of the Scottish Rite.
Teaching method, the most important level of the entire system; the ascent—

The recipient actually suffered stab wounds during the induction ceremony.

against a papal tiara and against a royal crown lead. It is meant to symbolically recall the execution of the Templar—

Grandmaster Jakob Molay will be remembered, who died on March 11th.

1314 — allegedly as an innocent victim of the papal and royal despotism — was burned in a slow fire.
The ceremony itself is admitted by Freemasons and is also fairly well known in educated circles; the
The spirit of revenge that speaks from it is, incidentally, still very much alive today.
As lively as ever!

The right to outrage is being challenged by leading Masons.
Theoretically and practically expressly recognized; the world Freemasons—rei wants to “help” all those peoples who strive for their liberation, all revolutions that oppose the hated “Ty—

"running" direct.")

Such reprehensible means, which are therefore under certain circumstances free⸗ Bribery, murder– are among the punishments that may be used by masons.
attacks, conspiracies, etc., as the Freemasons call them, murder–
The attacks on Mussolini can still be clearly proven today.
have. Hermann Gruber rightly says: “The freedom…” Freemasonry is nothing other than a worldwide– branched society of conspirators.") He certainly doesn't mean anything by that.
Untrue3; the Hungarian Freemasonry journal "Kelet" is indeed openly published.
Regarding: We are conspirators, we are conspiring against

1) The German high-degree lodges, especially the genuine Rosicrucians, reject Revenge is rejected; it is emphasized that God alone has the right to take revenge.
(From a letter from a German high-ranking mason to the author).

2) When Masonic writings refer to "tyrants", they are referring to...
This always and exclusively refers to the monarchs. Wilhelm II is in their Eyes just as much a “tyrant” as the overly benevolent Emperor Franz Joseph I, the king of Spain just as the King of Greece was. One exception.

Only those kings who are Freemasons or who willingly allow themselves to be led by them do ) Hermann Gruber “Mazzini, Freemasonry etc.” Page 62.

the current social order and are working on its destruction⸗ tung. “Social order” is an ambiguous expression; ge⸗ This refers primarily to the monarchical form of government. Also, the well-known lodge writers and former editors of the "Bau– “Hut”, JG Findel indirectly admits this: “All around us Here the spirit of this (French) revolution permeates the Weapons of the people in fine, revitalizing power. Many old Tyranny (i.e., monarchies) is already under his rule.
Touch collapses, others writhe in death.
"Fighting the transformation.") Br.. Sicard de Plauzoles from Freemasonry refers to the "Grand Orient" as its "mother".
the revolution“,) which is correct insofar as the ideas of the Revolutions mostly originated from Freemasonry, but always nourished and spread by her, find Br. Perrin, a Member of the French Order Council, seen in the Grand Orient
(from France, the guardian of revolutionary thought.) Felony and outrage are just like VR .–. AG Wackay openly admits, from the 33rd degree, no Masonic offenses and therefore not subject to any Masonic punishment;") in contrast» Partly, revolution is not merely a right of the Freemasons, jie is even “in certain cases a sacred duty”.")

This is the conclusion reached by the leading English free– maurerblatt on the interpretation of the "duties" of the mason.

If the conspiracy succeeds, the Freemason will be celebrated as a—Crowned heroes honored, such as Brother Magalhaes of Lima after the successful revolution in Portugal; if it fails, then to the best of our ability, we provided him with at least some support and assistance; he Lovingly received as martyrs and protected by the lodge, such as Br. Kosuth, Klapka, Türr and many others. (Tref≠) Fend therefore remarked at the time that the Freemason Stark regarding of the French Revolution: "Without secret societies, it would have been possible."
There were no secret political committees and the Revo—
"The solution would never have been completed" — a sentence that is generally still holds true today, more so than ever before, and its
The truth is everyone in the second volume of Louis Blanc's history of the French.
can verify the Czech Revolution.") It is therefore also no wonder—

1) J.G. Findel, Principles of Freemasonry in International Life. p. 165.

2) Taken from Wilhelm Ohr: “The French Spirit and Freemasonry”, p. 128

) Ibid., p. 151.

*) AG Mackay, “Masonie Juris prudence”, Neu-Yort 1867, p. 510, cited at H. Gruber's.

5) The “Freemason's Chronicle”, London, 1875, I. 81).

e) Information on the relocation of key positions can be found in A. Rosenberg: “The Ver≠ Breaking Freemasonry” (J.F. Lehmanns Verlag, Munich, Mk. 2.—). ge that wherever revolutions have occurred in the last two centuries, political attacks and coups d'état took place, Freemasons their

They had a hand in the game.

Even the conspiracy of 1776, through which America forcing independence from the English mother country was largely the work of Freemasons. The American But Freemasons were also very practical people; that's how it was.
Brother Jefferson, who wrote the "Declaration of Rights" in the Bers version of the United States prevailed; and Br.. Lafayette played in both the American Revolutionary War and played a prominent role in the later French Revolution; Br... Georges Washington, the national hero of the Americas≠
Kaner was also a Freemason. The American state...
Benjamin Franklin, whom we know as the inventor of The lightning rod is known to have been a Freemason, at the age of 30.
already "Master of the Chair" and soon after Grand Master; he
It was also the occasion for Voltaire's formal induction into the lodge.

caused. The same applies to Mexico. Br.. Krumm≠Heller, who lives as a doctor in Mexico and is supported by his friend, the President≠ denten Br... Carranza, during the last coup to the colonel
He was appointed, tells in his history of Mexico without any Concealment that all the upheavals in Mexico and America
...were caused by Freemasons in general. Br."
Krummgeller is a high-ranking mason (33rd degree) and therefore a top-level mason.
"unobjective guarantor."

We see exactly the same picture in South America. A Human age after the United States Declaration of Independence
The fight for freedom against Spanish rule began there in the states.
Shaft and once again we see Freemasons at the top of the Movement stands still. Since these facts are in non-Masonic contexts Circles that are likely little known or not known at all, be they here based on an impeccable source, the Masonic excerpts from the weekly magazine "Der Zirkel": The first organization of the Spanish-American struggle for freedom
It was under the sign of Freemasonry. The freedom fighter Brother Miranda first sought the Spanish crown for the idea.
to win, the Spanish-American provinces from free Granting pieces independence was in vain. "So Did the decision then remain not of reason, but of force?
reserved." The Lautaro Lodge, founded by Miranda, which

1) “The Mysteries of the Elders of Zion”, page 158.
9) “Der Zirkel”, Vienna, April 13, 1913, No. 28, pp. 428 ff.

its primary goal was to shake off the Spanish yoke, played a crucial role, because she created the connection between the capital cities of Spanish colonial rule: Mexico, Carracas (Venezuela), Lima (Peru), La Paz (Bolivia), Santiago (Chile) and Buenos≠ Aires (Argentina), fo dass auf ein gegebenes Signs that the upheaval everywhere is almost becoming a reality.
which could take place in due course. Chairman of the Lodge in Buenos Aires Aires was the General Br.. San Martino (Whoever is not only in trouble≠ tinien, but also in Chile, Peru and Bolivia the Spanish (dealt the death blow to the rule). The lodge also included the General Br.. Zapiola. Freemasons of importance were also the well-known revolutionary Brother Juan José Castelli, then later among others, the victor in the war against Brazil: General Brother Carlos de Ulocar, vim. The Freemason explicitly declared≠ newspaper “La Cadena de Union” (Buenos Aires) in June 1925 in a polemical essay against Mussolini: “The Portuguese Republic≠ blik ijt is also a work of Freemasonry, the Argentinian Res Publicly, it is finally the result of a revolution that has divided the members carried out by the lodge "Lautario", which included Alvear, San Wartino Rivadapia, etc. belonged. Our brothers have always been of the highest rank.

What embodies intellectual liberalism, 3. B. Urquiza, Roca Derqui, Obligado, Witre, Sarmiento etc.”

Whether the introduction of the republican form of government (1811 to 1823) which has been so beneficial to the peoples of South America, may it be gone⸗
The fact is that in all these republics decades bloody civil wars raged through them, which hindered the flourishing of these States have been far more hindered than helped.

The French Revolution (1789) was initiated by Freemasons.
not merely prepared, but rather created by them as their own own work; there is a wealth of evidence for this⸗ (positions.) However, the intellectual preparation was carried out by the so-called encyclopedists, although it should be noted that yes especially at the urging of the French Grand Lodge and also on whose costs led to the creation of encyclopedic literature!?) But"
These were the most outstanding encyclopedists, such as Br..
Montesquieu, Br.:. Condorcet, Br.. Diderot, Br.
Helvetius, Vr... D'Alembert, but above all Br.. Bol» Voltaire himself was a Freemason. Voltaire had already received it between...

1) Compare this to Rosenberg in "The Crime of Freemasonry". related sources.
) “Orient”, Ofenpeſt, 1892, No. 12, p. 288.

The light was lit in a London lodge in 1723–1730 and was elected in 1778.
under truly extraordinary celebrations into the famous Paris box “Les neuf Soeurs” recorded.

The next purpose of the French Revolution was, of course, to eliminate the Bourbon dynasty and Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans, Grand Master of the French Free Freemasonry, to proclaim him King of France. Since one...
But when the mob was used as a tool, instead of this it happened first to mob rule, which eventually took over the entire Free State⸗
The Freemasons swallowed them up. Also involved in the outbreak of the horrors⸗ rulers who practiced murder in the streets wore
The Freemasons themselves were to blame, because in one of their meetings
The implementation of the “Systeme de la terreur” was decided upon.
and at the same time named those persons who initially
They should fall victim to this policy. It is precisely the same ones, the first weeks of the “glorious French revolution—
"lution" hung on Paris's City Hall Square or otherwise widely murdered and their heads placed on pikes in the streets were carried around the city: guarantor for this is Br.

Mirabeau.) Danton, Robespierre and many others were also Freemasons; they prepared the plans which then were carried out by conspirators of lower rank. Also The execution of King Louis XVI was orchestrated by the Freemasons.
out, which, as the Freemason LK Cadet⸗Gassicourt told us⸗ shares, in the palace of their Grand Master Philip of Orleans their had secret meetings. That the murder of Lud⸗ Wig XVI. was a matter already decided by Freemasons in 1786, Furthermore, we will be given all the details of several Cinges consecrated those who had belonged to the order for a longer period of time.
Among the lodges, there was in particular “Les Amis réunis” (?) in Rennes, from which the most important men of French history emerged revolutions have emerged. Besides those already mentioned.
Brr... Condorcet, Mirabeau and Robe Pierre can be found there.
as members, among others Abbé Siéyès and Marat,?) during Br.. Brissot, Vr .–. Camille Desmoulins and Br.. Danton belonged to the lodge “Les neuf soeurs”. Wit Therefore, Brother Felix Portal says: “On the work of the lodge the French Revolution began,” and with full force

1) Cf. the Se EC “The Freemasonry of Austria-Hungary” pages 182-183, Vienna, Herder Publishing House, 1897.

7) Ibid., p. 185.

Jean-Paul Marat became a Freemason in London; this monster,
The woman who was murdered by Charlotte Corday is of Jewish descent.

All French Freemasons, up to the present day, are right.
The revolution of 1789 is claimed as their work. Thus.
This also explains the boisterous cheers and the proud self-confidence.
with which the Freemasons brought the “glorious revolution” to the whole world welcomed the "lution." "From our temples – it is said
In a speech from that time that has been preserved for us – the first Sparks of the sacred fire, which spread with lightning speed from the east westward, spanning from north to south, the hearts
all citizens were ignited.” (The speech was delivered in Paris) Lodge “Parfait Union” on July 23, 1789 on the occasion of the first (The Bastille was maintained.) If one considers that Around this time, the number of French lodges exceeded 700 – a hundred more than the current “Grand Orient de France” and jointly own the “Grande Loge de France” – so Can one infer the extraordinary nature of the number alone?
To draw a conclusion from the activities of the Freemasons of that time. All⸗
The “glorious” revolution of 1789 was later directed against the Freemasons themselves; their leaders were killed by the mob.
murdered, the number of lodges fell to 12 in 1794,

In Paris, only one woman maintained the sacred fire, the Great≠ Meister himself, however, was in prison. In an official statement the highest Masonic authority in France, i.e., from “Grand Orient” will be republished – at the beginning of this century – emphasizes that Freemasonry actually initiated the revolution of (prepared in 1789!) and provided her with the formula in which Their principles have become flesh and blood: Freedom! Equality!
Fraternity!

Freedom, equality, fraternity was and is now...
The Freemasons' motto is well known, and it is reflected in the French...
The origins of Czech lodges can be traced back to 1740. Thus
In this context is the "Declaration of Man and Citizens"
"right", which, at the instigation of Gr.-. Lafayette, was placed at the top in 1789 was enacted in the French constitution.

The Freemasonic “Acacia” (April 1903, No. 5, p. 351) admits that the Revolution of 1789 was an attempt to establish freedom≠ to realize Masonic teachings. Only our history—Writers know nothing about it, pretend to be blind and want to ignore it.

) “C'est la Franc-Maconnerie qui a preparé notre Révolution, la plus Grande de toutes les épopées popularulaires que l'histoire ait enregistrée dans ses annales, et c'est A la Franc-Maconnerie que revient le sublime honor d'avoir fourni A cet inoubliable événement la formule op sont incarnés ses prineipes",

Also read the second volume by Louis Blanc: “Histoire de la Revolution”.
francaise“,

Failing to see the facts. For example, the well-known researchers H. Taine.
and A. Aulard, who both declare they are with their under≠ Investigations into the causes and preparation of the fran≠
The French Revolution never encountered the Freemasons! What But Brother Hiram tells us in the "Acacia"? A large number of the members of the Constituent National Assembly the lodges. "They were Freemasonic members of the National Lodge." assembly, which first the Breton Club, then the Society of Friends of the Constitution and later the Jacobins≠
They founded a club. They did so following the model of Freemasonry.
and throughout its entire existence, the famous
A company that has branches throughout France extended, public and secret meetings. To these Only those that emitted light were permitted to the latter.
had to hold. ..)

That should be clear enough. And Count Haugwitz, Prussian Minister and former Freemason, even Grand Master, he≠ clarifies in his well-known memorandum to the Congress of Princes in Verona (1822): “I became firmly convinced that the Drama, which began in the years 1788 and 1789, namely the French Revolution and the regicide with all its consequences its atrocities, not only (from the top leadership of the Free≈ not only that the Freemasons' Order had decided, but also that they the actual result of the club's activities and the work done there≈

"The sworn oaths have been made." The unfortunate Maria Antoi≈ nice, but they had a deep insight into the Versailles court having gained an understanding of the conditions there, she wrote to her emperor≈
Dear Brother Leopold II: Take good care of yourself down there.
Eight before every Freemason lodge; they'll tell you about it.
have notified. The local monsters are counting Dote to achieve the same goal in all countries by this means to reach. O God! Protect my fatherland and you from such things.
Misfortune! (?) The unfortunate queen, who was on the scaffold ended, spoke the truth.

The French Revolution had to, in order to dispel any doubt about its
The actual perpetrators are addressed in more detail.
will be. For those for whom the shared portion is not enough, let them have the one≈
He should consult relevant specialist literature and he will understand the borgee
They were able to supplement their evidence with a hundred other pieces.

1) “Acacia”, May 1908, No. 65, pp. 334, 336.
) See “Freimaurer≈Zeitung”, November 3, 1886.

But how did the Freemasons behave under Napoleon?
And what about the later upheavals in France? Napoleon J.
used her and kept her cleverly and securely in check, the Empress Jose≈ Fine became patroness of the Freemasons, the ladies of her court were admitted to the order; Napoleon's brother Joseph,
The King of Spain became Grand Champion; his brother Louis
Grand Master assigned to Napoleon; his brother-in-law Murat, the King of Naples, also became Grand Champion; Eugene of Beauharnais,
The Viceroy of Naples was Weister of the Chair. But also fine Generals held the positions of Grand Master and Master in the Freemasons' Order.
fter vom Stuhl ausgezeichneten Stellungen, so e.g. Massena, Keller≈ Mann, Warschall Bernadotte, etc.

Napoleon's attitude towards the Freemasons can therefore be summarized briefly.
to indicate that he is including them in his far-reaching plans used it skillfully as a tool and understood how to manage the extensive network to subordinate the influence of the federal government to its world policy.

With Napoleon's downfall, Freemasonry "sighed with relief". on." ("Acacia", June 1908, No. 66, p. 403.) The Brr.-. fell

They quickly turned around and paid homage to Louis XVIII from the crowd.
Bourbon. When Napoleon returned from Elba, they ran to him.
again and betrayed the Bourbons; after the battle at
At Waterloo, they once again abandoned Napoleon to face Lud» Wig XVIII. to lie in the dust. The Grand Masters Josef Bona= Parte and Murat were removed from their office by the Grand Orient, Otherwise, everything remained the same, as Ludwig had no intention of changing that.
to punish his brother's murderers. Incidentally, Ludwig was XVIII. himself a Freemason, he had received the light in 1776, so like his brother Charles X, who succeeded him in government in 1824.
But Charles X was against the Freemasons, even though he belonged to their group.
He was hated because of his beliefs. The holy fire revo= Revolutionary principles, skillfully nurtured by Brother Louis Philippe.
the son of Br.. Egalité (Duke of Orléans), blazed in 1830 it rose powerfully again; King Charles X was deposed. driven and Grand Duke Louis Philippe of the provisional government appointed king (citizen king) after he had done everything imaginable had made concessions. Initially, a republic was...
Not to be thought of, the Brr... therefore, for the time being, they were content.
For, as the "Acacia" writes, Freemasonry had under the
The July Monarchy has nothing to fear, the Citizen King, her brother, was her great protector. !)

) See “Acacia”, February 1908, No. 62, p. 86.

In the long run, however, the lodge became complacent with this.
She was not satisfied with the situation. She wanted a republic and stirred things up.
further, until the long-awaited revolution succeeded in 1848. The Several Freemasons belonged to the new Republican government.
among them the Jew Cremieux. Wan tried all sorts of things.
Attempts to implement socialist systems failed; it led to…
furious street battles, to the military dictatorship and to the president= Louis Napoleon, who eventually became Napoleon III in 1852.
deposed the throne. The "Acacia", which should know, assured...
We are most certain that Napoleon III was a Freemason. and had received the light in a Swiss lodge.) He was even a member of a secret society of Italian—swearer, the Carbonari, and therefore knew the secret societies from his own experience; he also became acquainted with the Orsini bombs, which were meant to remind him of his youthful oaths. As emperor, however Napoleon III soon found himself compelled to take action against the Freemasons.
to enter. By his own absolute authority, he gave them a Grand Master, Marshal Magnan, who wasn't even a bricklayer was and received the light and all 33 degrees in one day!
That was a great achievement. But he soon ruined it for himself.
then with the Italian grandmasters Mazzini and Garibaldi, so that in the last years of his government he gave the entire Freemasons were closed against him. His downfall (September 1st) 1870) was therefore most enthusiastically welcomed by them.

According to this, French Freemasons in the 19th century-one hundred neither a particular strength of character, nor a firm but-They demonstrated procreative fidelity. They adapted; they were
In order – at least outwardly – followers of Napoleon, Louis XVIII again Napoleon's, once again Louis XVIII, then Orleansian, republican, and more recently imperialist, until they finally returning to their Republican starting point arrived. But they were always – inwardly – revolutionary and Both the Revolution of 1830 and the Revolution of 1848 had
She had a hand in the game; her wishes were immediately fulfilled.
the prospect of success, so they “hid their political ambitions”.
under the mysterious carpet of the lodge."

It was only in 1870, with the Third Republic, that the French
The Grand Orient is in the fortunate position of no longer having to feign feelings.
to have to, which were foreign to him; for the “Third Republic” stands so under the influence of Freemasonry that they are badly⸗

1) See “Acacia”, June 1908, No. 66, ©. 405.

which can be described as a Masonic republic. Even the Presidents Grenn and Carnot were Freemasons. order, likewise Br.. Jules Ferry (Lodge: La clemente amitie), Br. Felix Faure (Lodge “Amenité”), the Prime Ministers Bourgeois and Doumer were Freemasons, Likewise, the "famous" war minister André, the Winister Br...
Weline (“L. Travail”) and others

Naturally, Br... Poincaré is also a Freemason, of the⸗ similar to the “Tiger” Br.. Clemenceau, then the earlier ones Prime Minister Br... Aristide Briand, Br... Painlevé, Brother Viviani, Brother Dupuy, then the Social Democrats
Br... Millerand (Minister of War), Br... Marcell Sembat, Brother Albert Thomas (Minister of Munitions); was a Freemason also the friend of King Edward VII, Br... Del caſſé, then the former Foreign Minister Br... Stephen Pichon, the President the Army Commission in the French Chamber Br... René Renault, the warmonger; Br. Hervé, the social democrat Br... Guesde etc.; !) in short – they have the republic firmly in place. in their hands!?) But that wasn't enough for them. Ever since
In a human age, they sought to expand their field of activity.
expand in order to possibly regain Alsace-Lorraine and to overthrow thrones elsewhere as well; and even at the cost of a world war

On the work of Brother Edward and Brother Delcaffé
This is not the place to go into more detail, since their actions are described by the World history has been established. It is noteworthy, however, that since
In 1913, a man became director, then general secretary in the French
The Foreign Office, which was always well-informed by the "Berliner Zeitung", was appointe Tageblatt” refers to him as the “all-powerful Director General”) and

1) In individual cases, it matters very little whether this or that politician who actually implements the Masonic program, whether or not they are a lodge brother;
It is not uncommon for those men who pursue the lodge's goals in the outside world to most effectively promote, not lodge brothers, although they are certainly among the
The lodge's influence is evident. The essence of royal art seems to lie precisely in this.
to consist of directing people at will, without them being aware of the influence become; “one believes one is pushing and one is being pushed”.

2) Recently, Herriot's membership in a lodge has also been denied. Regarding this...
We read in “L’Ordre” (No. 2 of June 25, 1927): “The bricklayers of Lyon have…” to ensure that he is one of their own and belongs to a lodge whose members are to meet at the house on Rue Garibaldi; so far we have no definite proof. found. H. ijt Honorary Chairman of the “Ligue d'Action et de la Défense Laique”, which was founded by the lodge "Effort"; lecture in the chapter and council Philosophique l'Effort on November 30, 1922 ... Board member of the "Ligne de l'Enseignement", member of the Central Committee of the League for Human Rights".
I think that's enough.

2) No. 115, 1922, March 9, Morning Paper.

as the "real leader". This Mann was the Grand Master of the Grand Orient Philippe Berthelot.
Philippe Berthelot was the author of all diploma-financial notes issued by the French government in July 1914,) and once again we experienced the fact that the political Threads of France through the hands of one of the Freemason heads ran.")

Now, at the beginning of 1922, a scandal unfolded, which The Chinabank scandal, for a while, stirred everyone's emotions caused a stir, and involved Philippe Berthelot was. He shed a harsh light on the conditions in France.
It was briefly about the following:

In the same year as Berthelot, head of the Foreign Office was founded by his brother, Senator André Berthelot, with bel⸗ Greek and French financiers, the Banque Industrielle de China. Thanks to the political support of his brother.
He succeeded in gaining the trust of the Chinese government.

secure, which then itself took a stake in the company and thus Naturally, this attracted a huge number of Chinese savers.
On December 31, 1920, the amount of deposits was set at 1300 Willionen francs were stated. Witte 1921 s�pellte es sich nun her⸗ that a large part of the bank's money was invested in silk and rice—
It had been speculated. All recovery measures (issuance) (new shares, etc.) didn't catch on. Philippe Berthelot
The French government then forced private businesses to to come to his brother's aid; this also brought a con—Sortium together, which advanced a further 100 willions of francs.
Philippe Berthelot later sent a “moral bolster”
— written by him to the French consul in Hong Kong dictated — letter to the world, according to which the French government
I stood by the soundness of the China bank. Believing in this, I allowed
The Chinese trading community deposited their funds in the bank. It turned out...
{pater out that the signature of the then Minister-President⸗ denten Leygues was forged. He knew about the whole thing.
The opportunity was nothing. A telegram to London indicated the same case.
search on. Later it was learned that earlier balance sheets and Dividend reports were falsified. In short, it was a rat's nest.
worst kind.")

) No. 4, 1922, January 3, Evening Paper.
2) Berl. Tagebl. aa O

) about France in the World War, see Chapter XXIV and Heise “Entente-free-Masonry and World War."

4) See “Teutsche Zeitung” No. 324, dated July 15, 1921; “Das Deutsche “Tagebl.“ No. 59, 1921 et al. Pages from this time.

A procedure was initiated. B.. Poincaré (who himself at (may have thought of his dirty affair with the Suez Canal trials) was — an honorary judge. Philippe Berthelot was invented as innocent;
He was suspended from office solely because of a "formal error".

The Grand Master of the Freemasons was not allowed to go to prison, where he actually belonged.

Furthermore, it is characteristic how the Jewish-Masonic
The press reported on this. Only one voice.

The "Berl. Tageblatt" dedicated a long article to Philippe Berthelot.
Editorial. Initially, she praises fine people and literature.
knowledge, then his “love for the East Asian world”, “whose charm⸗

"but" he would not have let go after he graduated there in 1902⸗
I have done that. He has a “tremendous workforce” at his disposal.
decrees; he is neither a friend nor an enemy of German⸗ lands gewasen (that's what a "German" newspaper says about a man, of whom she reported in the same essay that he had all (French notes written in July 1914). And then it says:
"Now his time has come, but unlike himself, it probably thought. A small technical error, a small
The Almighty's arbitrary action has occurred.
and Mr. Philippe Berthelot leaves the scene he had left.
has long been mastered."

Finally, the hope of French circles is expressed, that the great Philippe will once again be appointed to an important position
"He won't have to wait long.") "Exactly, as the 'Berl. Tageblatt' expressed itself some time later.")

It is necessary to understand the active global political forces.
to illustrate this even in less earth-shattering cases.
And so we are faced with the fact that a notorious high-forklifters and counterfeiters go free, protected by fine Brr.-., who They were essentially his subordinates. The "real leaders"
It's not always those who march at the front who are the ones who are best. Even Phi⸗ It wasn't Lippe Berthelot yet, but rather the financiers who had placed his intelligence at their service. They will be Ber—I'll get the lot again when things have calmed down.
It's already been promised... That's what we wrote in the 10th edition.
this book in November 1922.

And indeed: less than three years had passed and Br..
Berthelot returned to the French Foreign Ministry as Director-General.
He took office. As such, he accompanied Br... Briand also to — Locarno!

---

y Berl. Tagebl. No. 4 of January 3, 1922, Evening Edition.
) Berl. Tagebl. No. 129 of March 17, 1922, Morning Edition.

XL

Revolutionary Freemasonry in Italy.

the “revolutionary undertakings which have been taking place since 1821 (in Italy)”

"The events that took place were the work of the Freemasons," says [name omitted].
Br.. Chiossone in a lecture he gave in 1907 in Paris Lodge “Solidarité” held.!) Even if this is true, then it means
This by no means suggests that they were involved in anti-state activities before 1821.
did not participate in the activities; but since they were always involved
Since they came up short, this period can probably be ignored.

The picture changed in an instant when Maz—Zini rose to become the leader of the freedom movement. This man, Born in Genoa in 1805, he can rightfully claim the head and the
He has been called the soul of all revolutions in Europe since 1821.
Even at a young age, he was involved with politics and revo≠ Revolutionary ideas, in 1827 he joined the Carbonari Society and He founded a “Venta” in Livorno as her agent. He was—
He was held liable and charged, but acquitted for lack of evidence;
He then went abroad. In 1831 he called the connection “Young≠Italy” (Giovine Italia) was founded, whose members are sworn—had to dedicate themselves to the task of making Italy a » to unite a unified, free, republican nation. This The secret society soon spread throughout Italy; its members were bound to the strictest secrecy, with weapons from≠ well—equipped and not particularly picky in their widowhood. 1834
Mazzini created it with like—minded Germans, Poles and Stas
Lienern the connection “Young Europe”, which initially the natio≠ National associations “Young Germany”, “Young Poland” and “Young Italy" encompassed.

Mazzini's main goals were the destruction of Austria, which Unification of Italy, the elimination of papal power, and the
The establishment of republics across the globe. He stood with connected with the revolutionary men of the whole world, so with Kosuth, the Polish revolutionary Stanislaus Vorcell and the Russian Jew Alexander Herzen, all of whom were free≠
They were bricklayers. Europe was to be completely reshaped. Not.
Therefore, even 22 years after his death, the “Rivista della Massoneria Italiana” by him and fine unhangern: “Mazzini, Garibaldi and Kossuth are basked in glory of a fame that cannot be surpassed, the ge ) Printed in the “Revue Magonnique”, June 1907, No. 327, p. 8995.

"Crowned heads turn pale." 1) He tirelessly spurred on against Austria and pushed for war. His Be:
These efforts found full understanding and financial support in England.
financial support. Mazzini was also responsible for the World peace, however, he expressed his conviction that this
It would not be achievable without revolution and war.
He supported and promoted Garibaldi's military actions.
forces, such as his move to Naples and the one that went awry Train to Rome. Giuseppe Garibaldi was certainly a Freemason.
In later years he even became Grand Champion of Life≠ appointed at a time.

Was Mazzini also a Freemason? He...
However, he occasionally criticizes the "hollow" nature of the work in his writings.
The “symbolism” of Freemasonry was expressed, which is not uncommon in (degenerating into "undignified antics"?) He also criticized her for the fact that that they have no unified political program and are divided. I pay homage to a cosmopolitan, swimming society. Nevertheless, it can there is not the slightest doubt that Mazzini, likewise like Garibaldi, who was a Freemason, even though he was among his political ventures primarily focused on those he himself initiated founded secret societies and the Carbonari connection supported?) With the most prominent leaders of Freemasonry, Wonn he Incidentally, he maintained close relationships throughout his life, including with Aureli the editor of his later works, and with the Jew Adriano Lemmi, the later worthy (7!) reformer of the Italian Freemasonry, which he completely redesigned in the spirit of Mazzini. Earlier Already, at the end of the sixties, the South Italian Free State had— mason⸗Grand Lodge in Palermo fully complies with Mazzini's wishes adapted, which of course presupposes that Mazzini himself Logens must have been his brother. Mazzini — and with him Garibaldi — are also discussed extensively in Masonic publications— highly valued and praised beyond measure; the official lodge organ calls it jie are practically the “greatest stars of Italian Freemasonry”,”) the “Heroes of the Century and the Role Models of the Freemason”.)

1) Rivista della Massoneria Italiana", 1894, p. 151.
2) G. Mazzini, Opere di, J. Band, p. 120 and 29.

The Carbonaria (charcoal burning) comprised four grades; purpose of the Carbonari lodges The world revolution already took place in 1847—1849; it was particularly aided by the "ca "Nariistic burial society." To the Carbonaro, the four well-known letters mean

RI”: Jnstum necare reges Italiae. (It is only right and proper to protect the Italians (To kill kings!) According to the German Br.. Dr. Leopold Wolfgang possessed Mazzini, the patent of the 33rd degree of the "Scottish Rite." ("The Invisible One") Temple”, 1916, p. 308).

9 Rivista della Massoneria Italiana, 1891, p. 149.

) Ibid. 1891, p. 96.

Finally, there is also the specification of the "General". Handbook of Freemasonry”, where during discussion of the later Jewish-Italian Grand Master Ernesto Nathan is said to have He kept Mazzini's white apron. Mazzini himself will described as "Grand Master of Italian Freemasonry" (Vol. II, p. 25). Wazzini was Grand Master since 1871; he died in 1872.1) If Wazzini were less involved in his political endeavors based on Freemasonry, this can be attributed to that. that the lodges were divided among themselves at that time, a purposeful Lacking leadership and numerous inferior members

sat. After Mazzini's death, however, his best and The most loyal students took over the leadership. At that time, the first order was founde Council of Italian Masons appointed with 33 members. Under Grandmaster Adriano Lemmi, Mazzini's personal friend,
Italian Freemasonry was formally established in 1887.
In 1872, the Masonic unity of Italy was established; it became a≠
"As far as fascism was concerned, they were entirely in the Mazzini" guided by a stic sense. There is no better, no sly— for that.
gendered evidence, than Italy's entry into the World War, which attributable exclusively to Freemasonic activity, even if other Italians for different reasons than the Freemasonry urged Italy to enter the war; of this
The speech will be explained in more detail later.

But quite apart from this world event, the Italian Freemasonry has never been anything but revolutionary. Freemasonry was it, which demanded that the Italian government occupy Rome and the temporal power of the Pope would be eliminated (1870). (It This is merely a historical observation, one might think.
(One can otherwise take one's stance on this event however one wishes.)

There were also countless free people among the irredentists.
masons, both from the lodges and from the official Freemasons≠ newspapers were evidently supported and promoted?) In doing so It should be emphasized that Hungarian-Austrian Freemasonry
The very best relations with the Grand Orient of Italy under» held, to Br... Kosuth, who had established a refuge in Turin had found, organized formal pilgrimages and the hatred the Italian stonemasons against the "wild House of Habsburg" did not find it the least bit strange. Nor did anyone find it strange.
It is concerning or offensive that Italian lodges possess knowledge and Approval of Grand Orient Wilhelm Oberdank as Bes

) See Alpina 1881, p. 142; Bauhütte 1880, p. 298; Orient 1881, p. 41.
2) See, for example, Rivista della Massoneria Italiana, 1894, p. 65.

Connoisseurs and martyrs celebrated that Triestine who was A bomb attack on Emperor Franz Joseph J. is known to have been attempted.
and had paid for his deed with death. Such appearances
No one can be surprised by Br.. Mazzini's views.
about tyrannicide. "Killing out of revenge," he says.
Perhaps a crime, but putting an end to a tyrant to do something, on whose death the well-being of the people depends, is Warfare and virtue! !) This is entirely consistent with, that Mazzini, as he himself admitted,?) once told a conspirator
a dagger was given, which led to an attack on the "traitor" and King Charles Albert of Piedmont was to serve the “tyrant”. (The

The assassination attempt was only averted because the intended target Words had meanwhile come to have a different meaning.)

After this admission, no one will be able to talk about it anymore. raksen that Mazzini Austrian soldiers through his sendlinge had themselves stabbed in the streets of Wailand (1853) to a to provoke an uproar; that in 1854 the Duke of Parma was murdered was and the judges who had convicted the conspirators, died a violent death one after the other: “Systems of the “Error!” — For the spirit that was then in the lodges and the The fact that Italian secret societies generally prevailed is extremely difficult. signifying that Br.. Crispi, the later Italian Minister-President Francesco Crispi,) in his fine youth The well-known Carbonaro Orsini personally helped with bombings. to create pieces that would cut King Ferdinand II of Naples into pieces (should tear!) Yes, even more: the Mazzini Committee, whose The same Brother Crispi was a member and had then the king Ferdinand II was condemned to death and throughout Italy Leaflets were distributed denouncing the political murder as a homicide. They believed they had placed a reward of 100,000 ducats. promised to the one who removed the "tyrant" Ferdinand II from would clear the way. The soldier Ageſilas Milano committed Subsequently, an assassination attempt was made on him (1856), but he was captured and executed. When, four years later, Father Garibaldi in When he moved to Naples, he arranged a pension for Wilano's mother. from state funds and Br.. Francesco Crispi approved Wilano's deed even in the Italian chamber with the following Words: “This bold act will not make any patriot Milano a role model.”

d See G. Mazzini, ones di, XS 48, cit, after Hermann Gruber.
Ibid., III. pp. 340—342.

G. Mazzini, Opere di, Vol. XI, p. 36, note.
) G. Mazzini, Opera di, XI. Volume, p. 36.

“Make throws!” Such incidents were mentioned on the occasion of the murder-King Humbert II's funeral in Monza (1900) by Italian newspapers tern again remembers, their correctness is therefore beyond doubt; They are very indicative of the spirit that prevailed in Italy.

One might object that this is merely a demonstration of a Individuals, and indeed the entirety of Italian Freemasons, have thus nothing to do; indeed, one could refer to the letter of the deceased. Grandmaster Ernesto Nathan, who carried out the assassinations the anarchists on the occasion of the assassination of King Humbert3 from has strongly condemned it. But such statements are always accompanied by Exercise caution. We saw it in Austria very recently. Time has seen that a political murderer, the high-ranking mason, Brother Friedrich Adler, first appointed by his own party as He acted insanely and strongly condemned his deed. was; barely two years later, the same party won the be⸗ merciful murderers were greeted with tumultuous cheers by their party leadership. invoked. At the sessions of the United International to He presided over the German Reichstag in Berlin (1922)!

Enough of that; Mazzini and Garibaldi find their way to her Remained revolutionaries and republicans at the end of their lives, and the The Italian kings paid them homage! Their revo⸗ The revolutionary program was completely rejected by the Italian Freebricklayers took over, who are just waiting for the right moment, to also fulfill its last demand, the abolition of the To realize the monarchy and the nobility.

One more word about the assassination of King Humbert II. According to newspaper reports, the murderer, Angelo Pressi, was a Anarchist. (From the criminal's confession, fic). However, that he belonged to a Freemason lodge in Paterson in the state New Jersey belonged to it. He himself had never been to America, But he was hired by two lodge brothers to perform the deed.?)

Since 1922, Italy has been undergoing internal political upheaval. Zung, which still strives for the unity of the state, yet even more passionately than before, but

1) For example, King Humbert commissioned the monument to Mazzini, the most bitter of the Dedicated to his father's opponent, 100,000 lire; cf. "Neue Freie Presse", July 31, 1900.

See "The Secrets of the Elders of Zion," p. 62. Charlottenburg. Publishing house “Auf Vorposten”. 1919. 3rd edition; whether also Luccheni, the murderer c Empress Elisabeth of Austria, who was a Freemason, must remain undecided for the time beir to remain. However, it is difficult to understand why the anarchist Lucchent The Austrian Empress, who had never harmed anyone, had been chosen as a victim; the solution was that Freemasonry worldwide dealt with this

The obvious choice would have been to strike down the old Emperor Franz Josef I. Perhaps one of our readers knows something?

otherwise denied everything that had been presented as a key idea in recent years. Tenth, life was determined. Mussolini's march on Rome was therefore also a fateful moment for Italian Freemasonry: The lodge brothers had indeed tried to have their representatives in the to allow fascist movement participation, had fascism supported with money, in Bolzano even Blackshirts plastered the Walls with calls to arms of Warfonneria, but it didn't help. Fascism, as a national revolutionary force, wanted To be self-governing and not share one's power with the lodge. For a while, the real battle took place behind the scenes. themselves and only occasional clashes between fascists and Freemasons in the province pointed to the serious conflict. Within the fascist party itself, the question of freedom was raised. The issue of Freemasonry was repeatedly raised. Already in the spring of 1923 The Grand Council of Fascists declared its membership in Freemasonry. as incompatible with his political views and certain by a decree that no fascist may be a lodge brother. A A large number of leading Italian men subsequently left the country. War, among others three members of the highest fascist Councils who, when voting on the waiver of the vote, They had to hold. The lodges initially gave in, “celebrating” the year. During the rest of the march on Rome, like the Fascists, they humiliated themselves. on April 6, 1924, even to declare that the Italian people had been ousted. Rightly respect parliamentarism (a form under which the (who had ruled arbitrarily!) and called for fascist [actions]. to choose. But despite this outward hypocrisy, those in Brothers defeated in battle continued to assemble their army. to eliminate Mussolini at the appointed time. This struggle This ultimately led to an act unheard of in the modern world: On May 15, 1925, the chamber, trembling before Muffolini, had to Consultation on the draft law to tighten the association law Adopt a resolution according to which all secret societies without further bans were imposed. At the same time, the Minister of Justice held in the Senate, he gave a speech in which he explained that, according to an original docum It is now established with clear proof that even judges of Freemasonry belonged to it. This is an untenable situation, since Freemasonry It has a decidedly international character. If the judges would not resign, state must counter the Masonic nonsense⸗ since an end is being prepared. The same desire then arose. later also the departmental ministers, including the Ministry of the Navy. January 10, 1926 in a particularly sharp form.

Freemasonry, emphasizing its international relations, She certainly didn't consider giving up her position, which she held over who had ruled for 50 years. Grand Master Torrigiani decreed an appeal in which he called upon fine brothers to remain loyal to the Free Masonry admonished and expressly called for his support through referred to foreign countries. This was in reference to the Italian... tional feeling is a false calculation.

1»

100 Revolutionary Freemasonry in Italy.

The first major bloody looting of the Con⸗ took place in Florence. The fascists there plastered the... on September 26, 1926. Walls with a large poster in which they explained that they were with the Mau⸗ to no longer want to conclude a ceasefire: “One must to meet the Freemasons themselves, their people, their property, and their Interests. One must dig them out of the winters and with the “Chase out the people’s anger, for they are stealing from the state and communities.” In This tone continued: the lodge brothers saw each other for the first time⸗ finally faced a fist. And finally dropped their hypocritical... The mask of "humanity" has fallen. Already on September 30th. The Masonic leadership in Rome also sent a circular letter to the Florentine Grr .., in which she explained that one must “look to Ge⸗ “The moment has come, Even with a revolver, to withstand such insolence... The Brr .. the whole world looks up and...“

On October 3rd, the fascist lieutenant Luporini went to a well-known Florentine Freemason to ask him for clarification to inquire about the circular. When he rang the bell, the door was opened. only slightly opened and he was hit by several shots from the lodge= brother laid low.

The consequence of this “humanitarian” act was, of course, a storm. on the lodge buildings throughout Italy, their destruction, confiscation the writings, files, membership lists, whereby it then turned out that a large number of leading fascist lodges⸗ They were brothers. The fascist "Impero" demanded at that time that the The head of the "green snake" must be crushed, especially... "The little head," meaning the brothers of the 33rd degree. A large number of A number of Masonic officials were then dismissed to carry out the purge. to be carried out as quickly and thoroughly as possible.

Here, the previously scheduled international Counteraction openly enters, and if something is the fact of a Lodge politics can prove this, according to the anti-fascist propaganda that is taking pla all states raised against Mussolini, the work on the stock exchanges, the speeches of Masonic senators and – the drawn pistols.

On May 7, 1927, the Jew Altmann confessed in the "Vorwärts", that Lloyd George, “the Grand Master of a London lodge”, with the Stock market pressure had threatened that, thanks to the war profiteers, the lira would be was, and that as a result of this Masonic struggle Mussolini the had to curb the announced repression somewhat. The "Allg. Ztg." In Munich, he declared angrily (January 18, 1925) that Mussolini would to already feel the “international solidarity” of the lodge brothers received. The German brother Leopold Wolfstige confessed: “The Freemasonry will oppose all opponents of the current rulers (in Italy).

unite under their banner and establish the rule of this clique break search. Will she succeed? If not today or tomorrow, or rather in the not-too-distant future.) Interesting In this context, the omissions of Jewish
"Berl. Tageblatt" (No. 246, 1925). It wrote after the anti-Moorish Russian declaration of war when describing the Italian situation:

"The fight has become sharper, almost like hunting, more serious in character."
about the law against Freemasonry, with which Mussolini suddenly ended the hitherto un-Inviolable (D society considers. What the Italian lodge has done since the beginning of th was, and how she saw her entire mission in fighting against Germany.
to stir things up and force Italy's entry into the war on France's side, that Everyone here (in Rome) knows that. And everyone also knows that between the Italian-
The threads of the Great Orient, which ran and played out back then, were not lost.
It was and is undeniable. Germany had no tougher opponent at that time in Italy as the lodge that still had an enthusiastic friendship for Germany under Crispi⸗ land declared. However, circumstances had changed, and the Italian Freemasonry now saw the mission of reconciliation among nations as its mission.
Incitement to hatred. She therefore joined the rabidly anti-German movement without any co Currents, the same ones that – oh, the irony of history – today gave them the rest want to give."

"At least the disciplinary action taken by the lodge appears highly questionable. The
The government proceeds from the principle that Freemasonry is against the state-furthermore, it incites its members to obey it more than the state.
that she fosters a decidedly anti-fascist spirit."

"That Mussolini is not to be trifled with was already clear from the peppery..."
Words he said to Gramsci when he asked him: “What do you intend to say?”
"What to do against such a powerful enemy (Freemasonry)?" "Oh!" exclaimed Mussolini.
aan “First I’ll break all his bones in two and then I’ll take him ge angen"

In New York, the “untouchable” Freemasonry was raging.
as stated by Senator Mac Kellar, who in public Senate session Mussolini, i.e., the head of a state, a
They were called "Wördergefellen" (fellow wordsmiths). At the end of February 1926, it was Opposition of certain senators regarding the "too favorable" Be⸗ Conditions regarding the debt settlement with Italy are only of a formal nature; the real reasons lay elsewhere entirely. And However, as the "BT" reported on February 23, 1926, in which Une the will of the Freemason circles over the anti-Masonic Fascism: On December 31, 1925, the "top" Dignitaries of the Scottish Rite" a public rally issued to the whole world, in which they are against the disorders of the Freemasons protested. In South America, the lodge newspaper declared...

) According to "Latomia" October 1927.

“Cadena de Union” (June 1925) the “Dwarf Musolini” will nothing could be done against Freemasonry, an attempt at dissolution
It was nothing more than a "charade". At the same time, [something] arose in Paris Italian » Masonic Papers Against Fascism≠ must incite hatred, while a so-called anti-fascist concentration camp tions≠Committee in all states was actively engaged in this through “correspondence≠ denzen” all newspapers that could possibly be considered with to provide anti-fascist "material" free of charge. From this Almost all news about the “Zer—” comes from Masonic sources.
"The fall of the Italian economy," about the "violent economy of the fascist regimes”, on “corruption in present-day Italy” UFO. The large headline of the "Vorwärts" newspaper served as a catchphrase.
(February 10, 1926): "Against Mussolini for Italy." This is how they moved Marxist and democratic press throughout the world—organs, parties, stockbrokers, statesmen, party leaders...

And it cannot be denied that Mussolini was wrong in some respects.
He was forced to give in. For example, he felt compelled to take the right Hand of the Jewish banker Toeplitz, Count Volpi, to to make to his finance minister; he took the suddenly published—clear “declarations of loyalty” by Grand Master Torrigiani to Knowledge, which suddenly prompted his brothers to strictly observe their work.
to adapt to the existing laws; he selected (from people—Mangeh, the strictest measures of water discharge are being taken, in which Hope, at least for the younger generation, from every free-to be able to preserve Masonic influence.

But the assassinations also showed that the wardens were not asleep.
on the fascist leader. Three times Musso was targeted for assassination—Lines were set. The masterminds could not be identified in two cases.
They can be determined without obstruction, but all the more clearly in the third.

In early November 1925, the police succeeded in arresting a—
To uncover a conspiracy. A Social Democrat and Freemason.
Zaniboni, as he was known, had prepared an assassination attempt to kill Mussolini. to shoot him from a balcony. The plot was foiled by his betrayed former comrades, the murder at the last moment—hinders. The initiated investigation and the subsequent
The trial has now revealed that this attempted murder was carried out by Freemasons.
The whole thing was carried out and paid for by Freemasons.
“Action” was led by General Capello, Grand Master of the Lodge “Gesu” in Rome. He provided Zamboni with large sums of money to protect the Word—prepare, namely from France, where the Italian refugees are "Master" together with the brothers from the Grand Orient, to take care of Mussolini. It was significant that already 10 days had passed.

before the assassination (on October 27, 1925) the Parisian “Ere Nouvelle” demanded the stabbing of Mussolini.

During the trial, the brave Brother Capello...
Initially, he denied the charges. However, he was completely convicted of complicity.
convicted and sentenced to 30 years in prison. The entire "world"
The press, of course, did not rage against the murder instigators, but against fascism. In the service of "humanity," of course.

The last assassination attempt took place in April 1926.
From the perspective of a “crazy” Irishwoman who came from Paris
Gibson. In this case, no masterminds have yet been identified.
It had been, but the almost open discussion was also much more instructive.
Spoken Jewish–Masonic regret that the Word attack did not had succeeded. For example, the “Berliner Tageblatt” (No. 164) wrote: 1926): “Should the attack be a political assassination attempt
If they acted, that would be a bad sign for the development that the fascist regime of violence entails, and thus completely per:
It also returns to an improvement of criminal acts⸗ wait, so much should the revolver shot be for them Give thought to the rule over a large people to believe they can rely on brutal violence.”

But that the German people are being rid of war fighters and their that accomplices are brutally suppressed, that Br.. Stresemann it Delivered as a whole, the "BT" naturally finds this perfectly acceptable.
nung. Here, the Br... and Jewish high finance reign supreme.
restricts, which was the purpose of the resolution of November 9, 1918.

Italy is a unique example in the world today.
for a state that at least has a poor at home, so that Freemasonry can have a state and broke his legs. That's why, and only why, not because of anything else.
Fascism and the “reasons” that serve only as a pretext are not enough.
fine leader at the focal point of the general hatred of the “untouchable–”
"Bare" Brotherhood to safeguard democratic world corruption– tion. Of course, the neck of Freemasonry is still in Rome as well.
not broken. Masonic [members] still sit there today.
Spies in high positions, as well as many spies of the Jewish high– Finance had its fingers in the pie during fascism. This “Precursors of humanity” are the hopes in Paris, in Belgrade, in New York, on the other hand, fascism is raising a new sex, which broke with the Freemasonic worldview and the Incompatibility of the new national idea with the outdated one to have been exposed to the inwardly untruthful Masonic worldview Fascism maintains its position as the exclusive power in Italy.
In another decade, victory in this battle will likely belong to...
Fascism will remain.

An example for all other states.

XII.
Revolutionary Freemasonry in Spain and Portugal.

Before the revolution, the Grand Orient of Spain comprised Primo de Rivera's 120 lodges with about 5200 brothers; he had during the war, it increased by more than 20 percent, a A sign of the exceptional diligence of fine management. Grand Master and the president of the Order's council was Dr. Miguel Morayta, who has been at the head of the order for more than 20 years.
Morayta is an avowed Republican and has never made a secret of it.
of his convictions. But the Freemasons were not always able to act so freely.
openly practice, as under the first reign of Alfonso XIII; it There were also times before the government of Primo de Rivera when they "their political ambitions hidden under the mysterious carpet of the lodge had to recover" — how the "construction shed" looked quite prim and proper≠ Pressing is popular.

Freemasonry was also introduced to Spain from England.
transplanted (1728), but soon afterwards due to political Am» Prostitution was forbidden (1751); however, since the prohibition was only laxly enforced≠
As new lodges were formed, they continued to grow (1767) separated from the English Grand Lodge and formed their own Grand Lodge orient set up (1780).

The overthrow of the Bourbons (1808) was also celebrated in Spain by
The brothers were greeted with bright jubilation. During the French
During the reign of Joseph Bonaparte, the Grand Orient was ruled by Joseph Bonaparte.
After the return of the Bourbons (1814), the Freemasons to suffer persecution. Whether and to what extent they were affected at that time
It cannot be said with certainty whether they participated in revolutions.
ascertain, since the Spanish sources on Freemasonry Activity at that time was sparse. In more recent times... against find fie proven to be at all revolutionary unders companies are involved and are working openly towards the introduction towards the republican form of government. Grand Master Br... Morayta He admitted this at the international Freemasons' meeting.
in Madrid (July 1894) explicitly stated: “The people — said He has always followed the policies of kings. This time

---

1) No. 4 of 23 January 1909.

It's over. ... The Republic in Spain is a necessary and Imminent progress! Since then, 25 years have passed.
flowed; and even if the Freemasons had declared their

The final goal has still not been reached, and probably still is. Although they seemed to have receded further into the distance, they still always gave eac most honest effort to bring about the overthrow. The most well-known re⸗ Enrico Ferrer is undoubtedly revolutionary, after the bloody The uprising he had instigated in Barcelona, the authorities in his hands got caught and he was shot. Ferrer had the influence He greatly overestimated his large following: apparently believed that nothing at all would happen to him. could; there was indeed an earlier case against him. was discontinued as a result of the pressure exerted by the entire Freemasonry and the related movement of the "Free" had exerted its influence on the Spanish government. It is noteworthy that Brother Ferrer also associates with the anarchist. Morral was in close contact with the person who carried out the bombing. on the royal wedding procession on the occasion of the marriage of Al⸗ had committed the crime of fons XIII with Ena von Battenberg (May 31, 1905). What feelings did the Freemasons have about this assassination? The Mauritanian “Revue Maconnique” reports on this in July. 1905 (No. 316, p. 115) noteworthy findings: “On May 31 – it says there – the terrible anardhi exploded in Madrid- Striking bomb that Worral used against the royal wedding procession had been launched. It claimed numerous victims and lacked the which she wanted to meet. The young king would have his Vanity! They should be curbed and refrain from showing off at celebrations. shines that will prove fatal to idle spectators had to." So: Not a word about the despicable nature of the act, However, there were inappropriate accusations against the young king, whereby the regret that the bomb was missing those who needed it should have been, easily read between the lines- Reading is. Morral went to court and – one shouldn't Consider it possible – he was acquitted! Who was that person? A defender who so skillfully turned right into wrong, wrong into right. to transform understood that despite the extremely clear facts of the case No guilty verdict could be obtained? It was Br.. Bulot, himself⸗ Understandably, a Freemason, as the "Revue Mas" tells us. connique“ (January 1906, No. 310, p. 13) triumphantly announces. Spain was simply – to use the words of Grandmaster Dr. Morayta to be used at the Freemasonic World Conference in Antwerp

---

1) See Dr. Brauweiler, “Three-Point Brothers”, p. 27.

– “Spain is a very liberal country.” But so liberal Was Spain not, after all, that it had the friend Morrals, Ene Rico Ferrer, when he was caught for the second time in a serious crime caught, would have been pardoned again. Go "liberal" was merely... in – Austria, see Kramarsch!

This flash photograph should suffice to capture the spirit of the to sharply characterize Spanish Freemasonry, especially from its warmongering activity will be discussed anyway; only Joviel Fet also mentioned that the murder of the Spanish Minister-President Br... Canalejas, a work of the Freemasons– zéi ijt, like the German Freemason Br.. Ernst Freymann fest≠ tells.

Just like in Italy, although not nearly as clear and consistent- That's right, the liberalizing course of the state is also taking place in Spain. The ship was suddenly thrown around: from the moment it was still ruling Primo de Rivera. He saw the country thanks to the par≠ degenerated into lamentary incompetence and collected in the autumn of 1923 As commander of Barcelona, he surrounded himself with determined men who one day they chased away the ministry and offered themselves to the king for a provided a purging dictatorship. Like the king of Italy, even under Alfonso XIII, was wise enough to correctly interpret the signs of the ti to interpret and their value for the benefit of the country (in the difference) to certain equally ambitious and limited rulers in to exploit Germany. Despite many difficulties that their The dictatorship has its roots in the Spanish people themselves. The state is visibly fortified both externally and internally.

It goes without saying that the sudden change from the The state-run nativity scene was pushed out by liberals and Freemasons against the a major press feud opened up with the new first minister, which was natural– This led to various repressive measures on his part. Most of the lodge brothers then moved on – just like the Italians – ſchen Masons – their place of activity after Paris, i.e. to that center from which unrest has always spread to all states had been carried. At the head of the entire struggle was placed Blasco Ibanez, who now identified himself as a Jewish descendant and among other things a vile libelous pamphlet against the Spanish king wrote, thus against a monarch whom the liberals otherwise protected them when he did what they wanted.

The response to this smear campaign came around the year– Turn of the year 1925: Primo de Vivera closed the Grand Lodge of Madrid!

---

1) See “On the Paths of International Freemasonry”, p. 22. – Br. Canalejas, by the way, was himself a Freemason and only a nominal monarchist.

Thus, in a second European state, the conscious struggle was underway. against the proponents of the genocidal ideas of the French The Revolution of 1789 was taken up. Paris didn't wait long. awaiting a response, a large number of Spanish agitators were Recruitment took place, and leaflets against the dictator were distributed in the army.

and by the beginning of November 1925, they were ready for an open revolution—to be able to proceed with the solution. The outrage was nipped in the bud.
Pressing, numerous officers were taken prisoner. And during the investigation
It turned out that the revolutionary threads were in Freemasonry= ran together in fresh hands. Then a double energy—
The government's defensive activities and the number of people in Paris
The number of assembled lodge brothers increased considerably.

This activity in Paris led to various disturbances,
However, it can be assumed that the new e:
The government is initially firmly in place enough to also prevent future revolts.
to become.

Now let's take a look at Portugal.

In Portugal, the "United Grand Orient of Luſitania and Supréme Conseil of Portugal in Lisbon”. It comprised 133 lodges with 4341 brethren and has The turn of the war also increased, but not as much as the Spanish Grand Orient.') At the head of the Portuguese Free—Masonry is associated with the very well-known revolutionary Dr. Magalhaes Lima, Journalist, lawyer and senator; appointed to the cabinet in June 1915—
He held the post of Minister of Labour. b

Magalhaes Lima is one of the world's leading people—Freemasonry in general. He is, like Morayta, a strict republic.
Kaner, even their acknowledged leader. His newspaper "Avanguarda"
It was also an organ of "Free Thought". Free Thought.
Republic and Freemasonry are virtually identical in Portugal—important concepts, Freemasonry alone has the undisputed Leadership. This is confirmed by the well-known freethinker Raphael.
Rens in the “Bauhütte” (January 23, 1909, No. 4, p. 29), the Regarding the situation in Portugal, he says, among other things, verbatim: “It It is above all Freemasonry, which in this country the defended freedom of conscience and the teachings of free thought widespread." That's easy to understand, because the inter National relations are essential for Freemasonry, to support each other across national borders and to promote. Magalhaed Lima, in particular, knew this.

1) This can perhaps be explained by the fact that in Portugal the main task
The Freemasons' change of government was resolved in their favor in 1910.

Drawings to be used effectively. In December 1907, he held, in order to only to pick out the most memorable incident, a series of pre⸗ in Parisian lodges; they bore the telling title:
"Portugal. Decline of the Monarchy, Necessity—

The nature of the republican form of government. Establishment of the Republic.” Abbé Tourmentin, who knew extremely sharp and skillful opponents of the Freemasons, He took up the matter and immediately informed the readers of his (page 1). He expressed concern that in a short time The time of King Dom Carlos was either driven out or murdered would... Tourmentin's fears were all too justified.

A few weeks later, King Carlos and his eldest son fell in battle. His son, the Crown Prince, was the victim of an assassination attempt. Perhaps an unfortunate coincidence? Maybe. Abbé Tourmentin but he openly accused the Freemasons of regicide, The lodge, however, ignored it and didn't even notice it. worth the effort to refute the charges. The leading newspaper The Parisian freethinker, on the other hand, the "Courrier Européen" (February 10, 1908, p. 103), had spoken out against the regicide. He had absolutely nothing to object to and only regretted that the Minister-President Franco, hated by the Freemasons, with escaped death: “The lightning that struck the king and The fine son he met had only one flaw: he was the head» urbeber has spared so many crimes and atrocities.” What crimes and atrocities had the hated man committed? What exactly did Joao Franco commit? He wanted to do it with the consent of others. with his king, the parliamentary Augean stables were thoroughly cleaned out⸗ Mucking out and cleaning out corrupt and venal politicians. That, and nothing else, was his "crime".

King Manuel, young, inexperienced and frivolous, a right-winger The operetta king has now deposed his father's throne. But also with He was given a summary trial. Another murder would be It was certainly questionable, so he was sent off without much fanfare. Reading into exile. "Was that perhaps the "Freemasons? Are they really to blame for everything?" — Listen We, what they themselves let slip about it amongst themselves. Br... Furnemont, the great orator of the Belgian Grand Orient, reported in the meeting of February 12, 1911, to the attentive brothers The following, verbatim:

“Remember the deep feeling of pride that we all had, when we recently heard the news of the revolution

) “La Franc-Magonnerie Demasquée”, Paris December 25, 1907.

received in Portugal? Within a few hours, the throne was gone. The regime fell, the people triumphed, the republic was declared. That was like a bolt from the blue to the ignorant people. But we, my lord, we were knowledgeable. We knew the wonderful organization of our Portuguese Gri» their tireless zeal, their tenacious and persistent work. We be:

sat the secret of this glorious event– misses . . 4)

Is further proof needed? Then consider this a-
A witness who was not at fault presented the "Bundesblatt", an official organ.
the Old Prussian Grand Lodge "To the Three Globes". That "Bundesblatt" reviews a book by the Portuguese professor Borges Gralnha on the “History of Freemasonry in Portugal from 1733 to 1912" and approvingly quotes the in-Key words from its preface: “The majority of the bee
Interpretive men of the religious, political and literary sphere
The upheavals in Portugal over the last two centuries have Freemasonry belongs to," it further states the following:
lung Grainhas, which is particularly heavy-handed: “Almost all the important figures of the state revolution from October 5, 1910, members of the Freemason lodges
"have been."

But how could the Belgians have known in advance, What will happen in Portugal? Superstitious question! Had 'Dod Br.. Magalhaes Lima fdon before the Portuguese Revolution opened the Grand Orients of Brussels, London and Paris-sought to gain the support of the leading Freemasons for to secure this case. Naturally, they learned this "secret".
"nis" only the brothers... of the highest grades, so those of the colonel Nate, whose discretion is beyond any doubt.

The manner in which the Portuguese Revolution was carried out also is remarkable; they worked according to the tried and tested pattern of Brazilian Revolution of 1889, which is known to have the expulsion of the last emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro II.
ended. Was the treacherous War Minister at the time, Warschall?
Br.. Deodoro da Fonseca, the main character, played this time
During the upheaval of 1910, my nephew played an outstanding role:
In honor of the President of the Republic of Brazil, the Marshal and Brs... Hermes da Fonseca, who just happened to be

1) Bulletin du G. . de Belgique 5910 (1909/10), 92.
Quoted in Lett Berlin, January 17, 1915, p. 1

While he was in Portugal, a large feast was held.
to which the young King Manuel was also invited; and the young King Vanuel, unsuspecting as he was, walked right into the trap.
During the enjoyable hours, the well-prepared revo-Solution from: Admiral Br.. Candido dal Reis – a cousin of the Brazilian railway director Aaron Reis (Confession of Neben⸗ (thing) — had the republic proclaimed and the Portuguese Warships pointed the muzzles of their guns at the Lisbon, the capital city. The young King Manuel got it with To escape his great fear, he sought refuge in flight and was readily received by England. ...

Much has also been said by the strange Archbishop of Lisbon, Cardinal Salomon Netto,) contributed to the upheaval, then the one in Englishmen Burnay, residing in Portugal, and the banker S. Weiss de Valbranca; the latter two had received theirs from King Carlos, the father of King Manuel, who received the title of Count and were considered therefore as the “strongest supports” of the shaky throne.

To make matters worse, Magalhaes Lima himself, full of pride, recounts the course of events that led to the establishment of the republic in had led Portugal. At the beginning of 1927, he published a book: "Episodes from my life." Then He was sent abroad by Brother Affonso da Costa in 1909. to mobilize the world press in favor of a Portuguese republic—Lising. In London, Magalhaes Lima was appointed by the understates. received by the Secretary of the Foreign Office, who was acting on behalf of Edward Greys favorably received the plan to eliminate King Manuel. took note. At the same time, Lloyd George had given this plan his [advice/opinion]. Expressed sympathy and showed "interest" in everything the "Liberation" was conducive to fine things, i.e., he had money and lodges = Support was provided because Lloyd George is a leading Freemason.

After England had been inaugurated, in July 1909 The same is true in Paris, where the government and press are preparing for the coming provided support for the overthrow. Magal received similar support—haes in Brüffel, Rome and on the part of certain circles of Germany!

So it was no coincidence that English ships were ready—stood to welcome King Manuel “most hospitably” to Great—to bring Britain when the revolution broke out in 1910..

If this obviously revolutionary undertaking of Portuguese Freemasons, for example, from the "Berlin Day"⸗ was characterized as a “humanitarian movement” in the “blatt” publication.

1) According to Karl Heise (p. 135), presumably related to Dr. Arnold Netter in Paris, member of the Central Committee of the “Alliance israélite”.

Does this constitute a deliberate deception and mockery of the stupid? German reading material; with "humanity" in the sense of charity They have at most in common that every Freemason considers it a It may be considered beneficial if, here and there, the thrones are removed, will be cleared.

Many readers will now be wondering who exactly those Circles are those who participated in the expulsion of the Portuguese king—where the house was located? — It is the ruling class there.
Families of the Castros, Costas, Cohens, Pereiras; Ferreiras, Teixeiras, Fonfecas, etc.; fie find far≈ branched out, they can be found not only in Portugal but also in Spain, Holland, England, as well as in leading positions throughout America;
They are all related to each other by blood and marriage, they are all related by blood.
Freemasonry and — the Alliance Israelite Universal)

Here is another highly remarkable fact:
The much-celebrated Freemason Prince Br... and Grand Master Magal—ha es Lima was charged with involvement in the assassination of the Portuguese-Giessen President Sidonio Paes arrested! So reads the — “Wiener Freimaurer≈Zeitung”, May 1919, p. 55; in the June issue
This is already being "corrected" to the effect that it is not the Grand Master.
was himself involved in the murder, but rather one of two fine brothers, one of whom was formerly Winister (). At the same time he:
Let us proceed, that the entire Roman Freemasonry and Demo—kratie was urged to speak in favor of the arrested Grand≈ to use masters, and that subsequently actually in Italy such a movement has been initiated. The “brotherhood”
So it is not just an empty delusion in Freemasonry after all.

sk

And in Portugal of all places, the El Dorado of the "rei:
Freemasonry, it had to happen that it became the third state to join the joined the anti-Masonic front by having the Grand Orient in 1927 was dissolved by Portugal. And this is how it happened:

The war and its aftermath did not spare Portugal either.
passed without a trace. The general aversion to Democracy and parliamentarism also led to years of [unclear] here.
political, often bloody conflicts, until finally General Cavmona established himself as dictator and gained a number of followers. appointed him to prominent positions. This fact, as the
The Masonic “Neue Wiener Journal” (25. 2. 27) noted the “on≈
"real hatred of the Freemasons." The consequence was as follows:

) Ibid.; p. 133.

everywhere, that the "humanitarian" brothers gave all their money to Activists down to criminality in a new revolution≈ tion to things. Again, Br. Affonso was at the forefront here.

da Costa (who lived in Paris, President of the League of Nations, as Germany was included) and the “tried and tested” Magalhaes Lima. ee
With only a few primordial sea fragments, but with around 4 numerous
The revolt broke down on February 3, 1927, due to Bolshevik involvement.
It started in Porto. Five days later, outrage erupted in Lisbon.
The battle at Porto lasted five days; in Lisbon, the
The Masonic-Bolshevik uprising was more quickly suppressed, since it
They lacked artillery. However, the communists had the Ge⸗ They took advantage of the opportunity, looted indiscriminately, and threw bombs. In the naval arsenal initially captured by the rebels was
The red flag of Moscow was immediately raised, an irrefutable Proof of whom the League of Nations and Freemasons have chosen as their hand long-serving members and federal comrades had selected them. Thus, the
The same newspaper company publishes the "Diario de Noticias", which in its special edition on the revolution, and the Kom⸗ ammunition paper “A Batalha”.

The February Revolution of 1927 was the bloodiest domestic political revolution.
The most intense conflict Portugal has ever experienced. On the 11th and 12th of February
But in February, the victorious force launched a victorious counterattack.
The remaining government: it openly declared Freemasonry to be LR the shepherdess of the bloody fratricidal conflict. Soon after, a Decree abolishing political clubs and secret societies societies decreed, i.e., the prohibition of lodges also in Portugal.

Since that time, there has been a thorough investigation into the po⸗
The religious activity of Freemasonry was employed, and since the half-destroyed
Porto and the blood shed in Lisbon offer a good view—
Offering educational lessons, this educational work does not seem to be without its challe Success remained too refined. Especially the student youth »
Here too, the process of breaking away from the democratic-Masonic secret begins.
to avert nature and in this way withdraws the one from Paris Acting there, Costas and comrades, the necessary young successors⸗ grew. For example, on July 30, 1927, in Lisbon, the aka⸗ German youth with the signatures of numerous student leaders a longer leaflet against Freemasons was distributed, in which a
The language spoken was as the Three-Point Brothers called it in Portuguese.
They had probably never heard of it before. All members of the "criminal" “Federal” members are to be taken prisoner: “Put them in chains,
The rebels and assassins. Put them in chains, the murderers.

who soaked the holy soil of Portugal with blood. Down with Freemasonry."

So, a decisive turning point has also occurred in Portugal.
It has been kicked. It remains to be seen what the future will bring. What

But what needed to be proven here has been confirmed once again: that the “humanity” of Freemasonry always turned into dagger and bomb⸗ grasped, as soon as the political power position of Freemasonry was established.
threatens, without ever taking into account the overall well-being of the people.

Wichtl, World Freemasonry. 11th ed.

XIII.
Revolutionary Freemasonry in Turkey.

The 19th century was extremely unfortunate for Turkey.
For one country after another fought for its freedom.

A whole series of Turkish rulers were violently deposed.
enthroned: So Sultan Selim III, who was murdered in 1808, and Mustapha IV, whom his brother Mahmud II had killed (1809).
Abdul Aziz was deposed and reportedly opened himself up to the idea.
Pulsatillae (1876), Murad V was dethroned in the same year and lost his freedom.

With all these acts of violence, the Freemasons have apparently…
to do nothing, on the contrary, the dethroned Sultan Murad V.
was one of their own and held a position in Freemasonry high rank. Abdul Hamid, on the other hand, had been before the Freemasons.
a terrible fear and paid an entire army of spies,
who they had to monitor.

Around the year 1900, the “Grand Orient de France” began to take shape.
to concern themselves with the internal state of Türkiye. The young Turks, who are mainly composed of Jews, Greeks, and Armenians
Those who survived did not quite succeed with their political ambitions. forwards. There they found help among the Freemasons, who already had long since decided on Abdul Hamid's downfall, and now Suddenly things went uphill rapidly: "It became a young⸗ Turkish secret committee founded and operating from Thessaloniki
The entire movement was led by Thessaloniki, the city with the largest Jewish population.
Europe – out of 110,000 inhabitants, 70,000 were Jews – was particularly suitable for this; moreover, several already existed there.
Lodges where the revolutionaries could work undisturbed.
These building lodges were under the protection of the European Diplomacy was the Sultan's downfall; it was his downfall.
"It can no longer be avoided." These words from the well-informed “Acacia” 1) explains everything. There were two in Thessaloniki at that time.
Lodges that were subject to the Grand Orient of Italy, namely the “Macedonia”, whose master from the throne was the Italian Jew Emanuel Carasso was, and “Labor et Lux”; in addition, there was-the lodge “Veritas” of the Grand Orient of France, furthermore the Spanish lodge “Perseveranza” and the Greek lodge “Philippos", which, however, pursued exclusively national aims. Names⸗

1) October 1908, No. 70, p. 242.

The first two lodges mentioned above made a significant contribution to the Young Turks.
liche Dienste.

The Young Turks therefore entered these lodges and met to gather there to organize and advance the revolution≈ prepare. On the other hand, a large part of the previous Lodge members, the Young Turk secret committee "For Unity" and progress”, in which they through their careful wa research did valuable work and helped the Young Turks >
They were known to have served as sieving machines. The Turkish government, who cannot continue this industrious and mysterious work in the long run
The fact that it could remain hidden aroused suspicion; but their police» Agents were unable to gain access because apparently the Passwords were missing. As a precaution, the lodges contacted... this to the Greater Orient of Italy, which provides them with the necessary resources.
(This placed the protection of the Italian embassy in a secure prospect.) Thus, the Young Turk party ultimately consisted almost exclusively of from Freemasons, among whom the Jews were again the most influential held positions. These facts are reported by the "Giornale". d'Italia" fully confirms that Freemasonry is virtually described as "the main center of the Young Turk movement".?)
And all this despite the fact that Freemasonry is banned in Turkey.
was, as the "Acacia" told its readers with a mocking smile.
the nose holds!?)

In addition, numerous officers of the Macedonian army were now also present.
The army corps "received the light" and the army itself after was carried out according to very specific plans involving conspirators. One
The “knowing one”, the leader, later said about it Wittei≈ lungs made, which are to be snatched from oblivion.
serve, especially since it must also be highly desirable for us, to learn more about this way of working. It is one from the famous Buxton brothers, Noel Buxton, who President of the Balkan Committee, an English-paid official≈ land agent, who had his hand in all the Balkan turmoil Noel Buxton also recounts: “The Committee ‘For Unity and “Progress” was the secret, immense power whose leader and meeting places remained unknown.” .. “The maze≈
The Danubian army corps was reduced from five to five men by the revolutionary conspiracy. Only one of these 1908, See the report in the French daily newspaper "Le Temps", dated August 20th.

9 Val. also “Volna Myslenka from 1908.

5) “Acacia”, January 1907, No. 39, p. 5
Ch

Five knew the names of other members. Leader of the Be» People disguised as falconers in Thessaloniki sold their wares. Matches or newspapers from Paris, depending on the occasion. Others, in turn, hired themselves out as coachmen to the pashas, who were supposed to oversee the committee. If a regiment be⸗ To ensure that work would be carried out, the conspirators had themselves transported ther set up. When Enver Bey (Pasha) finally moved to Resna, a detachment was dispatched to pursue him. At its head "He stood fine, my friend..." I also find the following remarkable: Keywords that were issued: “For the Turks it was The revolution, the liberation from the European robbers. At On another occasion, however – in relation to the Jews – it meant They call it "European freedom" and "good business." To the believers It was said: "Muhammad did not want an action to be performed without..." Consultations take place. However, recently our legislators have began to govern without a National Assembly. You see the consequences– “Gen – you will receive no pay and you will not be allowed to return home!” Thus, the committee adapted to the circumstances on all sides. ... Worthy of work! This contains information about Freemasons and Jews. Don't say a single word! The riddle will be solved when... learns that Noel Buxton himself is a Freemason and that the Essay from which these lines are taken, in the "Neue Freie" Press!” !) stand. – Why trumpet it to the whole world that It was our people who made the great Revolution in Turkey, what it cost the Sultan Throne? – No, that's not something you can expect from the "New Free Press". We really don't demand that. But we want to remember that the Freemasonic “Acacia” already in September 1907 the fall of the Sultan, while she was entering this event suddenly turned out to be stupid and followed the established procedures Rules of royal art, at the right time, their memory lost; so that the embarrassing impression would disappear as quickly as possible. wiped. We want to remember that the Jewish chair– Master Emanuel Carasso of the lodge "Macedonia" at that A delegation was involved, which gave the appointed Sultan fine ab⸗ announced the decision. We also want to remember that that after the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina (October 3, 1908) the exclusion of Austrian goods from the Jewish boatmen and porters in Thessaloniki their took place while the Young Turk committees throughout ) “Neue Freie Presse”, Vienna, January 7, 1909, No. 15941.

---

The rich forced the implementation of this boycott.") The revo⸗ Revolutionary Freemasonry therefore also had a presence in the Ottoman Empire. She was victorious and rejoiced in her triumph. One of her mighty Wen Führer, Br.. Ahmet Riza, an ex-Turk from⸗ Wiesener journalist, was rewarded for his great success⸗ served as President of the Turkish House of Representatives, in the natural numerous Jews, Greeks, and Armenians were elected. became.

The masses ordered by the Young Turk brothers⸗ executions of supporters of the former regime were equivalent However, not according to the Freemasonic principles of the Free⸗ unity, equality and fraternity; the cruelty with which that they were carried out – and moreover, publicly – was even accompanied by in blatant contradiction to the Masonic ideal of humanity – but what does that mean? The ultimate success of the glorious The Turkish revolution was so overwhelming that one could talk about can calmly overlook such minor details!

Freemasonry had triumphed and knew how to celebrate its victory. to take full advantage of this; soon afterwards, on April 1, 1909, they came into effect. the representatives of 45 Turkish lodges in Constantinople and founded the "Grand Orient Ottoman". Mahomed Orphi Pasha was elected Grand Master; of the other Grand Masters The following “Turks” were particularly prominent among the dignitaries⸗ lifted: David Cohen, Raphaelo Ricci, Nicolas Forte, Wlardione, Jacques Souhami, Georges Surfod.?) The very deserving Br.. Mehmed Djavid Bey was removed from the chair of a lodge in Constantinople (“Constitution No. 309”) and also Finance⸗ minister.

The young Turkish people also had plans for the high-degree world. Freemasons full understanding, because as the "Herald" reports,) Shortly afterwards, a Supreme Council was formed, a “Supreme Conseil des old adopted Scottish Rite for Turkey”, the also the swift recognition by the Greater Orient of France and Italy. The German Grand Lodge- However, the federal government still does not consider it fully-fledged and equal. justified and has both the “Supr&me Conseil” and the “Otto⸗ The Manichean Grand Orient denied the requested recognition; indeed, not To date, only one German Grand Lodge has granted a charter for Turkey. . appointed!

Neue Freie Presse", January 15, 1909, No. 15949.

d Val “Bulletin”, No. 2 of the International Bureau for Masonic Be⸗ dengen Jall.Sept 1909, p. 195

) “Herold” 1910, No. 14 of April 3.

In assessing the nature of the events since the victory Kemal Pasha's comments on the Greeks are also shared by those who are good experts on... Türkiye is not united. Kemal Pasha is powerful on all sides. He was attacked: on the one hand by the Orthodox, who called him “Eu⸗ cannot forgive "ropäertum", on the other hand, from ambitious people from the Young Turk camp, which was formerly undoubtedly Masonic. were nisated. The Jewish financial influence of Paris is equally undoubtedly at work, which of course also includes lodge pressure itself⸗ given active, but the question is how strong this is on Kemal Pasha's The government has already taken action.

The Armenians, for their part, (1926), since a revolution against the Turkish rule is excluded, by a Masonic komitee (led by Br. Jakubian) an “approach” to Angora decided. This undoubtedly means the influence of London, which which has been involved in all Armenian movements. It So, a gentle pressure from the lodges is also being exerted from here. More It is not possible to say at present, since the dictatorial will of a single individual⸗ It is simply a different matter to judge a parliament that can be bought. That fic) but the powers to fierce fighting after Kemal's death he: It can probably be assumed with certainty that new ones will be raised. Then The “work” that is still being carried out in secret today will also be revealed. envelopes.

XIV.

Revolutionary Freemasonry in Serbia.

YY while the Turkish Grand Orient by virtue of fine high politics⸗ The German past, the recognition of the German Since the Grand Lodge could not obtain it, the "Supreme Council" of the Serbian Freemason, created on May 23, 1912 “Supreme Conseil pour la Serbie” in Belgrade, in a surprising way The requested recognition was granted shortly thereafter. The application was However, already at Pentecost 1913 by the Grand Lodges of Hamburg and Saxony were asked, but at that time it was still postponed by one year; reinstated at Pentecost 1914. Brought, this time it was from the (39th) Grand Lodge Day in Frankfurt It was actually adopted on May 31, 1914. Exactly. Four weeks later, on June 28, 1914, the Austrian heir to the throne, Archduke Franz Ferdinand— dinand, in Sarajevo by Serbian Freemasons murdered; by Serbian Freemasons with the support of powerful and far-reaching conspiracy society "Narodna" Odbrana“, Major Tankoſic, who gave the bombers the Waf⸗ hand them out and instruct them in their use.

let, was also a Freemason, just like Ciganovic, who the hired words, the Brownings and bombs personally handed over. Both were also among the leaders of the "Narodna".
Odbrana." It is significant that the Belgrade lodge holds its meetings held in the same house where the secret society "Narodna Od-"Brana" had its fine headquarters.!) The words themselves were Cabrinovic admits to being a Freemason.
Money for the execution of the Word attack was provided by the Freemason Dr. Kazimirovic was procured for this purpose.
in April 1914 undertook journeys to France and England.
All of this is documented fact. Finally, it was also In the Sarajevo trial, it was corroborated by several witnesses that the
The assassination of the heir to the throne as early as 1912 by the "Grand Orient de France" had been decided upon, the execution of the Murder had to be postponed initially because no murderers could be found.
found. So that one could get a true picture of the situation.

) Cf. "Latomia" of December 24, 1914; taken from Heise's "Ententefrei-Masonry and World War", p. 201.

To give you a good idea of what to expect, here are some excerpts from the Main hearing relating to Freemasonry, word≈ communicated according to the stenographic protocol, namely (according to the documented account by Professor Pharos.)

This is all the more necessary because the entire process depends on the
The entire liberal (Masonic) daily press completely ignored it.
or was reproduced in such a mutilated way that No reasonable person can understand the actual driving forces.
was able to provide clarity.

Representatives of the lodge in the matter of the attempted murder was the aforementioned Dr. Radoslav Kazimirovic, a Serb.
But the accused bomber speaks out.

Cabrinovic: "He (Kazimirovic) is a Freemason, yes In a sense, one of their leaders. He traveled immediately afterwards (to≈ to whom they had offered themselves for the assassination) abroad.
He traveled the entire continent. He was in Ofenpest, Russia.
and France. Whenever I asked Ciganovic,
As for the status of our matter, he used to reply:
"Then, when he (Kazimirovic) comes.... Back then I told you Ciganovic, me too, the Freemasons would have the throne≈
Folger died two years ago (1912).
judged, but they had no people to carry out the death sentence.
lead. Afterwards, when he showed me the Browning and the cartridges handing it over, he said: "That man died of stove plague last night."
returned." I knew that he had made the journey together≈

hang with our affair undertaken and abroad
I have conferred with certain circles.”

President: Aren't those fairy tales you're telling?

Cabrinovic: That is the absolute truth and a hundred times truer than your documents from the "Narodna Odbrana".)

(It is certainly very telling that these murderers from Serbia no longer let them leave and previously refused them weapons there was, until Kazimirovic went from fine round maturity to the lodge centers had returned to Buda, Kyiv, Paris and London; incidentally have documents that were found during the invasion of Serbia, (shed light on this matter.)

"The Trial of the Sarajevo Assassins." Presented from the files by Prof. Pharos. With an introduction by Privy Councillor of Justice Prof. Dr. Josef Kohler.
1918, v. Decker's publishing house.
The informal "du" form of address is common in Bosnia.
) See “The Trial of the Assassins of Sarajevo”, p. 162.

Another location:

Defense attorney Dr. v. Premusic to Cabrinovic: Have you got the
Have you read any books by Rofic?

Cabrinovic: I read fine essays by the Free University of Berlin.
masonry.

Premusic: Were these books distributed in Belgrade?

Cabrinovic: I typeset them as a typesetter..

Premusic: Tell me, do you believe in God or in anything?
something?

Cabrinovic: No.

Premusic: Are you a Freemason?

Cabrinovic (becomes confused and remains silent. The silence)
It takes some time. He turns against Premusic and looks (him): Why are you asking me about that? I can't answer that.
do not reply

Premusic: Is Voja Tankosic a Freemason?

Cabrinovic (remains embarrassed and silent): Why are you asking?
Me about it? (After some silence): Yes, and Ciga too≠
mobic .....

President: It follows that you too are Freemasons are. For a Freemason will never be anything other than himself.
(To tell a Freemason that he is a Freemason.)

Cabrinovic: Please don't ask me that; I want do not reply to that.")

President: Whoever remains silent in response to a question affirms it.

Here is a third example:

President: Tell me something more about the movement≠ founding. Was it, before you decided to carry out the assassination, somehow known that Tankoſic and Ciganovic are free≠
Be a bricklayer? Did the fact that you were a bricklayer influence your decision?
Are they and those Freemasons?

Cabrinovic: Yes.

President: Explain this to me: Did you receive any information from those?
received the order to carry out the assassination?

Cabrinovic: I did not receive the order from anyone, to carry out the assassination. Freemasonry is associated with the
The assassination is connected insofar as it involved me in my previous life.
Jag confirmed. In Freemasonry it is permitted, to kill. Ciganovic told me that the Freemasons ) Text improvement Ke den „Stimmen aus Bosnien", July 1915.

∗) Ibid., pp. 11 and 12.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand a year ago have sentenced to death.
President: Did he tell you that immediately, or only later?
when they told him they felt like carrying out the assassination?
Cabrinovic: We've talked about this before.
Freemasonry, but he told us nothing about this death sentence, until we were firmly resolved to carry out the assassination.")

Now, another excerpt from the interrogation with the actual...

Murderer, the Jew?) Gabriel Princip:

President: Did you speak with Ciganovic about the free time?
Have you spoken about masonry?

Princip (cheeky): Why are you asking mid) that?

President: I'm asking you because I want to know. Have Did you talk to him about it or not?

Principle: Yes. Ciganovic told me he was free⸗
bricklayer

President: When did he tell you that he was a Freemason?

Principle: When I decided to carry out the Wittel project when he addressed the assassination attempt to him, he told me and be,
He said he would speak with a certain "man". He Wittel will be commissioned by this to carry out the received assassination attempts. On another occasion, he-
He told me that the Austrian heir to the throne was in a lodge.
He was sentenced to death by the Freemasons.

President: And you? Are you perhaps also a Freemason?

Princip: Why this question? I will not answer it.
Give a word. (After a short pause): No.

President: Is Cabrinovic a Freemason?

Princip: I don't know. Maybe it is him. He said
I occasionally hear that he will join a lodge ..)

It is perfectly clear from what has been communicated that the
The plan for the assassination originated with the Freemasons.
However, a year and more passed because no words could be found.
They could be found. There, in a mysterious way, Cabrinovic was told about it.
both, as well as the Princip, Grabez, Cabrinovic etc. of the Word⸗
The idea was suggested; they allowed themselves to be recruited and carried out the work
The long-planned act also came to light. Details of the Recruitment, etc., however remarkable they may be, cannot be discussed here.

1) “The trial against the perpetrators of the attacks, p. 14.
e Bal. “The Mysteries of the Elders of Zion”, p.
D “The Trial of the Assassins of Sarajevo”, p. 33.

ae ae a Ra, Géi — — — will be discussed in more detail. It is based here on the proto-Kolles only emphasized that the Freemason Ciganovic, from whom the words Brownings, cartridges, money and bombs received, was a minor railway official in Belgrade and how The others came from Bosnia. He himself received the money. from the Freemason Major Tankosic, who was rich with was well-equipped and even bought the weapons himself.!)

How did the lodge press react to this?
Masonic murder? — The Viennese “circle” remained silent.
Just dead. No blacked-out number, no
Obituary, indeed not even the smallest note, affected the readers of the
The circle was aware of this world-historical event.
Why bother? The "knowing" ones already knew it anyway, because it was obvious to them.
the strange claimant to the throne of Albania, Brother Essad Pasha, Commander of the Order of Franz Joseph (1), at a festive event≈ tung at the Hotel “Meißl & Schaden” (Vienna) already in April had betrayed in 1914; 2) and the rest? — Mboh! — They needed not to worry. — The foreign lodge newspapers
However, they didn't hold back their anger; they praised
3. B. the “Acacia” almost as if it were the cowardly murder of Sarajevo (a heroic deed?) ... Incidentally, this was by no means the First Masonic murder in Serbia; the Serbian lodges had rather, they had already tested their strength earlier than they had the Austrian friendly Obrenovic dynasty cleared away their place
...was standing in the way, hindering progress. With Peter Karageorgevic
Then a Freemason came to the throne. The Serbian Freemasonry Freemasonry flourished thereafter; it gained strength through the affiliation of political secret societies, in particular the Greater Serbian conspiracy society “Narodna Odbrana”, whose Relations with the lodge in the Sarajevo treason trial completely severed have been uncovered.")

The Serbian Free Democratic Party (FDP) developed a particularly powerful activity.
Freemasonry begins the moment a “Supreme Council” (Supreme Council) is formed.
Conseil) for Serbia. The Grand Master, Brother Georg Weifert and nine other Serbian high-ranking masons received in

---

Major Tankosié — later Colonel Tankosié — also led the (failed) Assassination attempt on King Ferdinand of Bulgaria; cf. the Berlin “Ger≈ mania”, from July 3, 1915.

9) According to an oral report from a source! See also "Freemasonry, “Press and World War” by Dr. Schwabe, p. 24

5) “Acacia” 1914, ©. 241 and 256.

) See “On the Paths of International Freemasonry” by Brother Frey≈
Mann, p. 13.

In 1912, the "Supreme Council for Greece" awarded the 33rd degree and the secrets of the "royal" associated with it Art." A few months later – the Balkan War had already begun – Serbian Freemasonry as an independent "Great Power" admitted to the World Alliance, and this happened
This was announced at the World Congress of High-Grade Masons in Washington. The Serbian envoy, Br... Dufchan Wili⸗ Cevic, 33, defended the warlike ambitions of the Serbs, whom he associated with the liberation struggles of George Washington compared: Serbia only wages wars to take its fellow citizens from foreign countries.
to free from the yoke, that is, wars fought out of love for humanity, as they are called b Freemasonry is permitted. These statements were generally accepted.
my consent and since that time the Freemasonic
The press of North and South America is open to Serbian war aims one. At a feast in New Western Europe, attended by 800 high-degree maurer under the chairmanship of the then President of the Bere United States, Br.. Taft, participated, the Serbian Union received
The players even received a place of honor. Now that the Serbian
The National Lodge was admitted to the “Supreme Council of the 33…”
was executed with the Freemasonic Vehme⸗ judgment entrusted against the heir to the throne.!) That the murder was a long-planned affair.
Numerous statements reveal that he was prepared. For example,
The Duchess of Hohenberg, the wife of the throne, also held a meeting.
Folgers, already in September 1912, warned that Franz Ferdinand was “condemned” and on his way to the throne
"had to die."

It is particularly noteworthy that this is happening precisely from Paris.
the “impending tragic event in the Austrian Raijerhouse” was quite bluntly predicted, exactly as the dethronement of the Hohenzollern dynasty, which had already occurred in the year
It was announced in 1910 for the year 1913;) that was all⸗
It's about five years too early, but at least you can see something from it.
the starting point of those endeavors.

Who announced this? – A very well-known figure in Paris
Dame, Mrs. Savigny, or how she presents herself to the public
She was called: Madame de Thebes. Madame de Thebes was a a state-of-the-art fortune teller, in whose salons politicians and diplomats ) Karl Heise, Entente Masonry and World War, p. 201.

2) Ibid., p. 200.

In 1910, a well-informed Swiss man arrived – as the author knows Freemasons announce – Italian, French and English lodge brothers as guests in the Grand Orient de France together – including Br.. Clemenceau, Br..
Poincaré and others – and attended the work; at that time a war was already being waged

Germany was seriously considered. Wilhelm II should be left unharmed.
Franz Ferdinand of Austria and others will be made...”

maten, high-ranking personalities and daring adventurers all kinds of misguided; from their pronouncements and allusions
She probably drew most of her prophecies from there.
then in December of each year by means of their "Almanacs" in which fluttered out into the whole world. “The one who (in Austria) destined for government (Franz Ferdinand), will not be re⸗ to crave; a young man will govern, who is temporarily assigned to the Ree
“The enmity is not yet determined.” (Charles I) This prophecy referred to the year 1913; when it did not come to pass, it was possible to Madame de Thebes should not be discouraged in any way, on the contrary: “That tragic event in the Austrian imperial family, which I foresaw⸗
What I said didn't come to pass — she wrote in her Almanac of December 1913 — but it will most certainly to occur, and indeed in the first half of the next “Years!” Only someone who knows more than they can say would write like that. will, someone who has access to very reliable sources and knows that he certainly won't be wrong with his predictions.
will mieren.

Were these memorable prophecies also true here?
Known in the country? — Certainly! They went unchallenged for a year.
for a year through a large part of the daily press, they were but eagerly seized upon by hundreds of thousands of readers and devoured — only to be forgotten the next day.
But for those who do not understand the prophecies of Madame de Thebes suffice, who referred to a small writing, !) in which for all
It is established that already in 1912 regarding the attack⸗ Tates on Franz Ferdinand, a certain... It must write publicly.
could:

"Perhaps one day the saying of a..."
High-ranking Freemason of Switzerland regarding the heir to the throne:
'He is exceptionally outstanding; it's a shame he was convicted.'
He will die on his way to the throne!!" ?)

One inevitably wonders: Were these facts
Was he aware of the German Grand Lodge Day? Was he informed about it?
The goals of the Greater Serbian movement? Did he know anything about them?
The aspirations of the "Narodna Odbrana"? Did he have knowledge of... the highly political nature of Serbian Freemasonry? Were He knew the leaders personally and was instructed about them.
the close connection of the “Narodna Odbrana” with the Serbian German Freemasonry? Did the German Grand Masters know about...?

1) Athanasius, “The Secret of Evil”, ©. 14; quoted from Karl Heises

“Entente≈Freemasonry and World War”, p. 146.
1) The “Revue Internationale des Sociétés sécrètes” reports the same thing

September 15, 19121

not primarily that the Freemasons of the southern and western Countries always have a national aid society to cover their Served attacks? In Italy, the Carbonari; in Spain, the Freethinkers' Society and the Anarchists, in Portugal of the Gee home league “Formiga bianca” (White Ant) and the “Free “Thoughts” in Türkiye, of the Young Turk party? Is that what you meant?
All of this is currently only for the heads of German Freemasonry.
Have they been unknown? And this, even though they have been since...
In 1909, relations with the "Grand Orient de France" were re-established.
had recorded it? Yes, even more: Didn't the gam bur≈
The Grand Lodge itself established a Serbian lodge in Belgrade, "Schu—" madija" was founded, at whose ceremonial opening (1910) the
The political goals of the present high-ranking Hamburg dignitaries the Serbian lodges, which were directed against Austria-Hungary, as Have they rightfully recognized this? The "Hamburg Grand Lodge"
She had to know much more, by the way; above all, she had to know, that as early as 1908 the then Serbian Prime Minister Brother Svetomir Nikola, each in fine quality as Great—Master sends an appeal to all Freemason lodges in Europe had addressed her, in which he urged her to "bring a Serb into her home."
Struggles against the working class.
Support will be given to all Masonic brothers to let ...") By the fact that the Hamburg Grand Lodge the Application for recognition of the “Supreme Conseil pour la Gerbe”
By turning herself up, she became complicit in those endeavors.
that formed the starting point of the World War. Incidentally,
A question in between: Who was at the top of the Ham- back then?
burg Grand Lodge? The Grand Merchant and Grand Master Fr. Uhr-Bach, Hamburg, Hopfenmarkt 13; he is now in the eternal Orient entered. Denomination? — Denomination is secondary.
— And another question: Who was standing at the... back then?
The top of German Freemasonry? Who was the business manager?
leading member of the German Grand Lodge Federation, who was the Chairman at that memorable Grand Lodge meeting, where the supreme Freemasonic nation in Serbia: Recognition, protection and assistance who should find the German brothers??

Oh, you simple-minded German bricklayers, you would, if you
If you wanted to ask him, you would never learn his name; this His name has been erased from the memory of all Freemasons.
is hidden under the mysterious carpet of the lodge, because it could give rise to speculations that would affect the freedom-

1) Cf. “Vaterland”, Vienna, October 29, 1908, quoted from Dr. Brauweiler.

Masonry would be suitable to inflict endless damage
The Executive Board of the German Grand Lodge Federation
In world history, his name was Kohn; yes indeed!
Most Reverend Grand Masters of the "Eclectic Freemasons' Association" in Frankfurt am Main" was indeed a Br... Kohn, who of course only a very short time at the top of the entire Freemasons' movement Germany stood, because he soon afterwards “went to the eternal Orient” has been received”; whether old age, whether attacks from one's own Whether or not this rapid passing is influenced by feelings or pangs of conscience
The influence cannot currently be proven. However, it is a fact that This name is used in Freemason circles – probably intentionally – hides him and no "death review" in Dalen's calendar names him.

The assassinated heir to the throne, Franz Ferdinand, would have been, according to his Undoubtedly a strong ruler by nature.
been or – to use a Masonic phrase » need – a tyrant. Strength, energy, unyielding determination.
"Closivity were this man's most outstanding qualities."
nes, who, however, had an extraordinarily large number of enemies; namely-also because of his religious convictions, which were not hypocritical was, but was based on inner conviction. In addition, there was a true friendship with Emperor Wilhelm, whom he sincerely admired;
His wife Sophie, née Countess Chotek, also belonged to the family.
Incidentally, despite her Czech heritage and her strict Catholic sentiment among the grateful admirers of the German-
The emperor, who also made her marital union possible and had obtained the rank of duchess.

Franz Ferdinand, whose will it was to have a strong Ofter-
The idea of creating wealth had to fall apart. Did the Freemasons have to... weaker princes were put in their place – look at Portugal! – so it was
To them, a strong monarch is the epitome of all ab-
Shy. The leading Freemasons of the entire country agree on this.
The world is united, even if only from mere wish to decision.
and a huge chasm yawns between the decision and the action.
The “Grand Orient de France”, which was used in the Sarajevo trial exposed as the mastermind and instigator of the attempted murder was, now possessed this will to action, which, with fine intentions, Visions are certainly understandable. Of all those who have yet fallen
The Habsburg throne was initially to be in A prospect taken. Married to the elderly Emperor Franz Joseph However, due to his awe-inspiring age, nobody more approaching. This advanced age and of course also his passing≠ His composure protected him from verbal attacks; but how one in Masonic circles about such assassinations against crowned monarchs Heads in general and specifically those against the Habsburgs

In particular, I thought we knew that very well from the "Rivista".
Massonica Italiana", the official lodge publication of the Grand-Orients of Italy; this paper celebrated its anniversary in the year In 1914, the bomber Br.. Wilhelm Oberdank was named a "hero and "Martyr," because 32 years earlier (1882), "he had lost his young life had sacrificed himself to the fatherland." 1) And at that time he had
It was the same Emperor Franz Joseph.

That the leading Freemasons of certain countries the
They possessed the desire and will to eliminate the heir to the throne from his life.
The fact that it must be cleared cannot seriously be doubted. It asks
The only question is whether the leaders of German Freemasonry will address this.
Whether they knew or not. In the absence of written records, this cannot be determined.
Only logical reasoning leads to a correct assessment of the facts-lead to a situation. It is now a certainty that the Belgian Freemasons, dh at least their top leaders, from the impending
The dethronement of King Manuel of Portugal was examined in detail.
were correct. "We were knowledgeable people, we possessed the secret of this glorious event" –
This is stated in the official report of the Grand Orient of Belgium regarding the revolution in Portugal.") It is further established that before the Assassination of King Carlos of Portugal and finest oldest son of the Crown Prince, (February 1908) the Grand Commander and Grand Master of the Portuguese Grand Orient, Dr. Sebastiao de Wagalhies Lima, who was in Paris and there on the 19th of November-in November 1907, he gave a lecture in the lodge "Kosmos", "But the imminent establishment of the Portuguese Republic." The
The part of the agenda concerning him is now so extremely instructive.
and it is noteworthy that it is reproduced here in its entirety.
be: "Solemn reception of the very exalted Bru-" Magalhäeß Lima, 33rd degree, Grand Master of the Grand Orient of Portugal, by the highest-Brother Moses, member of the Federal Council the Grand Lodge of France.

Lecture on the topic: Portugal, decline of the Monarchy, necessity of the republican Regimes. The establishment of the republic.") So: Approximately

i) "Rivista Massonica Italiana", 1914, p. 435 ff.; the Oberdank murder≠ Brother Freymann includes the attack among the Masonic assassinations; cf.
"On the paths of international Freemasonry", page 22.

) "Bulletin du Grand Orient de Belgique", 5910 (1909 / 10, p. 92.)
) "La Franc-Maconnerie demasquée", December 25, 1907.

Ten days before the attack on King Carlos, the attack was carried out by “very exalted Br.. Magalhaes Lima, 33 ..”, the decline already foreseen and predicted by the monarchy...

Did the well-known opponent of the Freemasons, the Frenchman, Abbé Tourmentin was therefore right when he subsequently called the king⸗
The family warned and expressed their fear that in the near future...
The time of King Carlos, who was horrified, driven from the throne, or hanged⸗ would be judged? And furthermore: Did Abbé Tourmentin right, if after this event he calls the “brothers”
He openly accused him of regicide? That much is clear.
In any case, there is absolutely no doubt that the leading Brothers of impending events in a timely manner teach that the “secrets” are mutually revealed⸗ exchanged and help and support in individual cases against-
"will be assured and granted by the other side."

But if it is now established that the “Grand Orient of Frank-rich" or at most the "Grand Lodge of France" (such a (Confusion would be quite possible in witness statements), so one of the two Masonic bodies, the murder Since Franz Ferdinand decided this, it is very likely that other Grand Lodges, or at least certain specific persons sons who have received knowledge of this decision.
In international relations, certain elements now
Once you own something, it is extremely obvious that certain things...
Leading Freemasons in the German Empire also had knowledge of the have had imminent events, that is – after the Almanac of Madame de Thebes – “enter with absolute certainty had to, and indeed in the first half of 1914”.
If the “most luminous Brother Moses” were to be warned in time by the Having received knowledge of the Portuguese event, why should... the 'most venerable Br... Rohn' of the "impending tragic-no knowledge of the events in the Austrian Raiferhaufe.
have received?”

It is highly disconcerting that especially in the critical
At the most inopportune moment, a "Christian" took the lead in the German Freemasonry was found. And it is extremely striking, that precisely under the chairmanship of this "Christian" body... and Grandmaster Kohn!) a decision was made which, according to the,
What has happened is a backing from the Serbian Equating assassins is...

1) This last sentence will be further supported by additional examples.

N) See preface to the fifth edition, p. X ff.

Clarification is urgently needed here, and it is the responsibility of the Germans.
Freemasonry, this serious accusation, which is directed against its former Bundestag President Kohn is addressing, to refute and his innocence, if that is even possible, except To raise doubts.

*

After the founding of the South Slavic state, the influence of the lodge system in the Kingdom of the S.. S. is about a meaning⸗ of which increased, and Belgrade, even before the war, the pathogen of the.
The Balkans became a Little Paris, also in terms of Masonic Global political impact. Particularly since the anti-Serbian and anti-Masonic fascism had taken hold of Italy, Belgrade as a suburb of the Grand Orient de France: The national Defense against Italian influence in Albania was linked to the international organization against the common enemy of the de-democratic ideas about corruption. In mid-March 1927, the “Giornale d'Italia” able to provide a photograph of a secret circle⸗ to reproduce the letter of the South Slavic Grand Lodge "Dedato", in to which Freemasons of all countries were called upon to oppose Italy and to oppose the Treaty of Tirana, which Italy
As is well known, it promises guarantees in Albania.

This circular from the South Slavic brothers is doubtful.
Let's return to the decisions made at the international congress.
had been arrested in Belgrade in 1926.

At the same time, Brother Gustav Stresemann received his fine entry.
They declared themselves to the League of Nations in Geneva and met from the 11th to September 15th in Belgrade, over 400 Vr from all countries, to to reaffirm a common world policy, as agreed in Geneva with the
The same level of openness could not be announced. It was led by...
This gathering of Brother Georg Weiffert, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge "Jougoslavia". In his statement, he declared a be⸗ Especially important work awaits the brother... He regrets the absences.
the Italian Grr .-., but despite this absence they knew She, that all thoughts turn to them. To these words the to give necessary emphasis, explains the meeting report of the.
September 12th, that “Masonic brotherhood will shape the future”
"Schützen wifse", i.e., expressed in German: that from the Belgrade Congress from a united effort against the anti-Masonic Italy will start with double the energy. "I give hope⸗ “Don’t give up,” threatened the humanitarian Brr. Weiffert, “that the
The time is not far off, as all obstacles will disappear.”

Brothers Zaniboni and Capello were already imprisoned at that time for Word attempt to Mussolini in prison...

And Br. Valude, the spokesman for the Grand Lodge of France, assigned the Serbs the “role of guardian of world freedom”; which, as is well known, they had begun so gloriously on June 28, 1914.

This international lodge group then also included the German “humanitarian” Freemasonry was inserted. It was represented by Brother Dr. Ludwig Müffelmann of the Bayreuth Grand Lodge "To the Sun". The French Grand Master Groussier had the same role to play here as Brother Briand, the doctor.

Stresemann. He described it as the goal of genuine Masonic politics.
the so-called reconciliation between France and Germany. That's what⸗
In Belgrade, as in Geneva, he practically referred to the An⸗ Recognition of the Versailles Dictate, the war guilt lie, and all Consequences of these gagging and slander of the German People's. |
The German Brother Müffelmann had nothing better to say after that.
to do rather than throw one's arms around the neck of the Gr.–. Groussier and in The presence of 400 lodge brothers from all countries, the “Brother to give a kiss.

Compare this to the anti-German behavior of the French.
French lodges before and during the war, in order to understand that the “pacifism” currently being preached from Paris which is nothing more than a method of inducing sleep:
Germany should "morally disarm", i.e., let France calmly approach the cancelled expansion of its hard-won political and military powers Positions enable it to stand unassailable in the future, if Germany should ever manage to muster its courage again.

That is the essence of Locarno policy. That was also its purpose.
of the German-French fraternal kiss in Belgrade. 4)

And yet another bond was formed here in Belgrade⸗ to create: the consolidation of the relationship between all Slavic Grand Lodges, especially between South Slavs and the Czech Republic⸗ Slovakia.

The "National Grand Lodge of Czechoslovakia" was founded on February 25, 1923, in Prague. It includes the most important leaders.

of the Czech people, officials, journalists, etc., while others their old Masonic ties to Paris remain intact-hold. Just a few names: J. Kvatil, section head in the sub-Ministry of Justice, Dr. C. Purkin, Director of Geology. institutes,

K. Scheinpflug, editor of the national democratic “Na⸗

D An excellent publication has just appeared which addresses these questions Mar and Alfred Rosenberg, “The Future Path of a German Foreign Policy” (Munich, Fr. Eher Nachf.).

“rodni Liſty”, Dr. L. Vanek, 1st Secretary to the Mayor of Prague etc.

Furthermore, Masaryk and Beneſch are also free⸗
bricklayer

Therefore, it is clear and of great global political importance to know that international lodge politics coincides exactly with the Foreign policy of today's "democratic" states, i.e. Frank⸗ Reich, Germany, South Slavia, Czechoslovakia.

In Belgrade, a knot was tied again in 1926, as by Belgrade, where the First World War had already begun.

XV.

Revolutionary Freemasonry in Austria.

since Freemasonry is already practiced in other countries has paid homage to revolutionary aspirations — this must Was that also the case in the Reich? Certainly not! But instead of using many words, let's look at the historical... Facts speak for themselves.

Freemasonry was founded in Ofterreid by the Count Johann Sporck introduced a fabulously rich, generous, a man who loved splendor, who on June 24, 1726, the day of John the Baptist of the Baptist, in his palace on the Lesser Town side of Prague, the Lodge “To the Three Stars” opened, of which he was Grand Master was elected.

Among the first members were outstanding individuals.

Representatives of the Bohemian nobility, such as Count Norbert Wrbna, Wenzel Kaiserstein, Josef Kinsky, Guidobald Wartinitz and the “Nobleman” David, a former secretary of Count Bubna.

Where did Count Sporck's riches actually come from? No one ever found out. His adversaries had already led her there. mals on unfair relations with the enemies of the Habsburgs⸗ back to the Burgess family. The fact is that Count Spord went to Karl Albert of Bavaria constantly had secret relationships among⸗ held and saw in him the rightful heir to the throne of Charles VI. When Sporck lost the Grand Master title in 1735 due to advanced age Although the lodge was still closed, and especially in its current state, it was closed ag The spirit was passed on. The nobleman David was the soul. the highly treasonous movement, which was founded by the lodge "To the Three" "Stars" emerged and a large part of the Bohemian High adels included; he was also secretly in agreement with the French Marshal Belle-Isle and the Bavarian Kur⸗ Prince Karl Albert, elected by the Estates on December 19, 1740 was honored as King of Bohemia.

But the tide turned; rebellious Prague became captured by imperial troops, David arrested and taken to Sentenced to death. The verdict was: flee the right-wing extremists. Hand, then beheading and quartering. The limbs should be attached to four Gallows were to be erected on the country roads outside the city.

But the Freemasons were working for their David and soon Could they offer him the comfort that he was not will die; the young Empress (Maria Theresa) He didn't want a bloodbath to be carried out. And so it was. At the execution site, he was pardoned and his death sentence commuted to life imprisonmer "Converted into an elongated prison."

On the treasonous activities of the Prague Freemasons Of course, no one in Vienna knew anything; no one knew anything as long as, when their actions were not so obvious. (Just like (today!) Perhaps they didn't want to see anything, because the Ge meal of Maria Theresa, Grand Duke Franz Stephan of Lothius wrestling, German Emperor since 1745, was himself a Freemason – he had On June 24, 1731, the light was lit "in the open air" in The Hague. received and belonged to the lodge "To the Three Cannons" in Vienna on, the ostentatious and extravagant Count Hoditz as Grand Master presided. – Br. :. Emperor Franz I died suddenly on August 18, 1765 in Innsbruck.

Empress Maria Theresa was, for understandable reasons, She was not very well-disposed towards the Freemasons. She was even said to have once... Driven by ice cravings, with a lady-in-waiting dressed as a man.

to have participated in a lodge meeting – a story that However, it sounds rather implausible. The lodge "To the Three Ka" Incidentally, the “nonen” soon ceased to exist (1749). The following period can be overlooked. New foundations were followed by sudden closures.
offered and new foundations again. A good deed by the Freemasons, which was also highly praised by Maria Theresa, fet der Gerecht⸗ Recorded here for the sake of tigkeit. It is the founding of the orphanage.
House of St. John the Baptist in Prague. Nevertheless, the
The great Empress never harbored a deep suspicion towards the Freemasons completely suppress. Their appeals to the Chancellor, Princes, are well known.
Kaunitz's words, which stem from her last term in office
For years, the saying has been: "Listen, dear Kaunitz, he wants To make us believe something he himself probably doesn't believe.
Joseph will also come to our conclusion, and it will be bitter.
to regret getting so deeply involved with these dangerous people to have. Beware, once they realize that gold...
Cooking, treasure hunting, and summoning spirits yielded nothing.
as a disgrace and a laughingstock... then they will suddenly learn to be united, so that they are not in the world in vain,
They want to interfere in your business and try to govern a little.
We tell you, they'll turn your house upside down!

) According to Baron von Helfert's lecture on March 30, 1897 in Vienna.

sweep and make life bitter enough. We won't.
They experience it and are glad of it. But you watch as you...
(gets along with your Freemason brothers!)

The great empress, without ever having received the light,
She gained her sight. What she experienced in 1768 was clear understanding.
His prediction came true 150 years later.

Emperor Joseph II was, contrary to popular belief, That's not true, he was a Freemason. But he was trusting and came
He opposed them in every way. He demanded only one thing: that They should give up all connections to foreign countries, especially that which has given Freemasonry its significance, which she now possesses. Naturally, they carried out this order.
(from 1783) only for show. Joseph II's affection for the Freemasonry, to which his father had belonged, was so large that he even received private lessons in the Kabbalistic sciences.
(had it granted?) But soon, without knowing it, he was only more surrounded and courted by Freemasons. Freemasonry had had reached such a scale, its organization was so It has been expanded so that it includes not only nobility and military, but also including government officials, private individuals and their subordinates⸗ grasped. At the same time, it remained in close contact with foreign countries.

The association was full of secrets, and its members Bound by the strictest oaths to secrecy; with In short – a veritable conspiracy society, characterized by protected purposes, such as education, charity, etc.
had obtained a carte blanche and was now striving to do everything in her to reshape senses. “Then he (the emperor) realized – in order to with Br.. Kloß to speak – that an overgrowth in the Waurerbunde had taken place" and through the imperial handbill From December 1, 1785, the number of lodges was limited.

Moreover, he wrote in a handwritten letter (December 1785) with
The relationship to Freemasonry, the careless expression
By using "trickery," he soon earned the hatred of the entire lodge.
against himself and had to realize that everywhere
They worked against him. But what was the “hatred of the whole Lodge”, which at that time had approximately 100,000 members in Europe⸗
Joseph II was to learn all too soon what this meant.
If 100,000 of the "most scheming and in the most important state-

1) “Latomia” XXV, 1866, pp. 15, 16.
Diefe played a significant role in Freemasonry at that time.
) See “Bauhütte” of January 30, 1909, No. 5, p. 25.

"People in positions of power" who worked against him could be seen from
There was no longer any talk of carrying out his grand plans.
Fine. Professor Hoffmann, a former Freemason, who Having gained his sight, he mentions some events from the last Years of Joseph II, which he blames on the Freemasons:
"The Turkish War of 1789/90 was the work of secret orders, instigated by (the Freemason) Herzberg and his good cronies Friend Pitt. The treasure and army of the Austrian Hofes was to be exhausted and devastated by this war.
The unrest in Hungary was planned in the lodges () and debated; Herzberg led it.” 1) But this was given to the emperor also known as the “most peculiar delinquents” of that time all Freemasons or Illuminati were, yeah, the cabinet-Director Günther, Szekely, Legisfeld, Sonnenfels, etc. “Hall
These perceptions led Joseph II to the serious decision to to put an end to Freemasonry.” 2) Before he did this He died on February 20, 1790, before he could carry out his decision.
shortly before his 49th birthday.

Emperor Leopold II was equally favorably disposed towards the Freemasons. thinks like his predecessor Joseph originally – teaches us this "General Handbook of Freemasonry". Professor Hoffmann
However, whose advice in this matter was repeatedly sought by the Emperor However, the information obtained assures us that Leopold II was very knew perfectly well "that all of Europe and all the monarchs in the Slavery by secret orders would be the cause. Right from the start of the

He directed his fine eyes toward the government over all the hereditary lands.
Note particularly well there, the relationships and the unmistakable to break the influence of these secret orders and in particular to... self and fine government plans subject to influence, control, and the ubiquitous tendrils of the Austrian Free-to wrest from the bricklayer; for it is unbelievable what tricks and Certain leaders of the same used tricks to, like Joseph II, to lead them on their leash and according to their purposes.")
That sounds significantly different from the verdict of the "Allgemeine".
my handbook of Freemasonry.” That the Emperor exactly Incidentally, it is also evident from the already quoted letter that he was taught this.
his sister, the unfortunate Queen Maria Antoinette,

1) Memorandum of the Viennese professor Hoffmann to Emperor Franz I, 1793
As communicated in the lecture by Dr. Freiherr von Fuchs, Vienna 1897. See "Freemasonry" Austria≠Hungary, p. 118.

) Ibid., p. 119. See also the General Handbook of the above.
Freemasonry. Vol. IS 133, where political activity lies behind charity.

It is admitted quite naively and unconsciously.
D Ibid. p. 249; Lecture by the k.u.k. Chamberlain Ferdinand Count Buauoy.

E mg Sg n Geh, A Gë, ei — highlighted the letter she addressed to Leopold II on August 17, 1790:

“Prenez bien garde la-bas à toute association de franc-macons,
On this day you avoir aver: c'est par this voie, que tous les monstres d'ici comptent d' arriver dans tous les pays au méme but.
Oh! The guard of his father and his father's misfortunes!

("Beware of the whole crowd there:") Masonic Association. We may have already warned you; on this
All monsters from here in all countries hope for the same outcome.
To reach the goal. God protect my fatherland and you from "Such a misfortune!") Emperor Leopold II was a Masonic ordained priest;) nevertheless After receiving the information he had been given, he seriously considered the matter.

He was planning to take action against the Freemason brothers.
However, before he could carry out this decision, he died on March 1, 1792, shortly before his 45th birthday.") He was one of the most capable rulers from Habsburg-Lorraine Genders. His successor, Emperor Franz, was of the Ge—

The danger of Freemasons, Jo is convinced that already in the year 1794 A government decree was issued banning Freemasonry in all Austrian states. oppressed imperial provinces. How necessary this prohibition was The Hebenstreit conspiracy, uncovered in 1795, proved that this was the case. and Prandstetters, both Freemasons and members of well-known lodges⸗ Speakers were present. The secret secretary was also a co-conspirator (!) Leopold II, de Riedel, and the also well-known Frei⸗ bricklayer Wartinovic; they had an epiphany against the emperor The plan was to free the French prisoners as well. Part of the city was set on fire. At the same time, A Jacobin conspiracy was discovered in Innsbruck, which also (had been instigated by Freemasons!) Now a plan was being developed⸗ moderately and thoroughly with the secret societies, especially Freemasonry was shut down. On April 23, 1801 issued a decree stipulating that no state official was allowed to belong to a secret society. Every single one had to do this. to swear an oath and renew his promise annually. Who Anyone who did not want to do it was free to request their dismissal. to apply.

The ban served a fine purpose; nobility, military, officials and clergy — for such were also in the Free State at that time⸗

---

1) Arneth, Correspondence between Emperor Joseph II, etc., and Marie Antoinette, p. 250.

) “Wr. Freemason⸗Ztg.”, August 1919, p. 9; General Handbook d. Freim. I, 133.

Gottfried zur Beek claims in his fine book: “The secrets of "Wise Men of Zion", p. 66, Leopold II was murdered, namely by Wit⸗ members of the Illuminati order.

*) Arneth, Correspondence between Emperor Joseph II and Marie Antoinette, pp. 251 and 235.

Freemasonry active — turned their backs on the lodges, which are now closed. They were deserted. Even here, the Freemasons were now hiding their secrets. political and subversive endeavors under the secret⸗ The magnificent carpet of the lodge, but they immediately retrieved it from there. protrude when they smelled the Worgen air; Io in the years 1805 and in 1809, when the French came to Vienna. Let's hear what... Brother Lewis in his fine “History of Freemasonry in Austria” He knows how to tell about it; he first establishes these facts. and then emphasizes that especially in 1809 the Viennese Brothers newly created “Grand National Lodge of Austria” with maintained connections with the Greater Orient of Paris. “Through the marriage of Archduchess Marie Louise to the Emperor Napoleon's postal connection with France was subject to a less strict supervision and so Masonic correspondence remained between the Viennese lodge and the Orient of Paris, the more frequent-hidden from the Reich police. They continued working in secret.

until Napoleon's dethronement and the well-known papal anathema in 1814, which led to the cessation of this activity.”

This masterful adaptation to the respective conditions,
This tenacity and determination could almost be described as something like...
To elicit admiration, or something else entirely. But listen.
We continue with what the highly enlightened Brother Lewis has to tell us.
white: “In 1848, under Emperor Ferdinand, the unrest began.”
"Rest." ("Unrest" is chosen as an euphemism for the (foreign language word revolution.) "They were by the intel= "Prompted by prominent parts of the capital's population." We do you already know who the intelligent part of the big city population is?
The kerung is, it is not the educated part, it is simply the – intelligent part. “When the granting of a free state–
The version had been promised, Brother Lewis, who was present in Vienna, considered it... appropriate, the first preparations for reopening to meet the lodge “To St. Joseph”, which was closed in 1794.
Brother Lewis succeeded – as Brother Lewis tells us – in September 1848 the approval of the Winter Administration of the Into obtain nern and on October 5, 1848, in the crowd of the Count Harnoncourt (I., Teinfaltstraße 76) the ceremonial re-
The opening of the lodge "To St. Joseph" took place. By chance – so the story goes.
Brother Heinrich Glücksmann of the Vienna Grand Lodge!) –
The lodge happened to be open on the day of the assassination of the Austrian–
It was ceremonially opened by the former Minister of War, Count Latour.
on that 5th of October 1848, on which (purely by chance) the October≠

“Wiener Freimaurer-Zeitung”, August 1919, p. 9.

Revolution broke out. “The skilled clericals – says Br..” Glücksmann literally – created connections there, to which probably no reasonable person would have believed it, but it was true.
which hindered all efforts for a long time to come,
to introduce “royal art” into Austria.”
A question in between: Who was the Count's spokesman?
Latour? Silly question: the rabble, of course; the sweet rabble, who each time with a wonderfully subtle feeling to bring out just those-knows how to find the one who is most worthy in each case, at the next best to be tied up to a lantern; most worthy is self-understanding≠ Especially those who faithfully persevere in fulfilling their duties until with his last breath; just like the venerable, 68-year-old War Minister Count Latour. How such things were done discreetly.
Only the Portuguese Grand Champion could possibly comment on that.
Br.. Magalhaes Lima give insight, which because of (ane (Images!) was arrested for involvement in a murder...
But that's just speculation. ... In any case, this one

It's a strange "coincidence" to think... the ancestor is also striking.
The popularity of certain names: in 1848 it was Br. Lewis, in 1919 find
It is Messrs. Levin, Leviné, who have a remarkable diversity⸗ Activity developed. But let's leave that aside; let's talk about Something else: The revolution was thus successful despite the assassination.
The War Minister was defeated. Lewis tells us further: “After the restoration of calm, Br... Lewis with some other brothers to the Governor of Vienna, Syeld-Marshal Lieutenant Baron von Welden, to obtain permission to to obtain the right to meet again. In this request Belief in God and love of one's neighbor were considered the highest.
The goals of Freemasonry were presented, including the exclusion of any political activity
The tendency was particularly emphasized and finally the recording the Prince of Prussia as Protector of all Prussian Lodges, as well as King Frederick William III as a member of the Freemasons' Association pointed out, in order to thereby prove-to demonstrate that Freemasonry could not be a threat to the state.
But the “darkling” Baron von Welden took the delegation
Strangely enough, he reacted with extreme hostility and even turned his back on her.
Rude dogs. Whether he thereby used that popular saying to reinforce it
I have used a turn that goes back to Götz von Berlichingen-Whether this is the case is not historically proven. Even by the minister.
Dr. Bach, the interior minister, brushed off Brother Lewis. Since it
It was impossible in Vienna during the state of emergency to
To develop their lodge activities, the brothers now gathered in the spa town of Baden and sent from a ceremonial lodge to the war⸗ Ministry 80 (eighty) guilders for the benefit of the Imperial and Royal Armies in Italy and Hungary, which was particularly mentioned in the Wiener Volkszeitung.

was emphasized. But also this “noble” action⸗
Weise clashed with the incomprehension and narrow-mindedness of the Viennese.
The government, which still refused to be persuaded, that the Freemasons truly only find their highest goal in the “God's” believe” and saw it in “charity”; rather, it was still convinced that this is a secret society to have to deal with the most dangerous kind, which one wouldn't even expect.
could pay close enough attention. Because everything that came up in the news coming from Hungary, Bohemia and Germany, she had to reinforces the suspicion that this is a revolutionary
The movement originated with Freemasonry.
took (see: France) and in all countries where it came to 1848 Revolution came, supported and promoted by the Freemasons.
was. The question to be addressed is whether and what good it brought.
who ultimately derived the main benefit from being completely un⸗
It remains unmentioned. This is merely a statement of fact.
historical facts that are unknown to a large part of the educated population are known, but not at all by the lower classes of the people.
to talk.
In the early 1960s, we encounter Br. Lewis, Pro⸗ Professor of the English language, in Hungary, “we er so-called irregular admissions to the order * he himself

"made them pay." In Austria, the lodges were maliciously active.
keit completely adjusted, at least they didn't dare more into the public eye.

Does the constitution of 1867 advise here? essential Change. |

However, before that, an event should be discussed, which which at least indirectly affects us, namely the management of the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, which also had the Free-
The masons must be brought into context. In the 'Budapest Naplo", a daily newspaper published by Freemasons, appeared On January 15, 1897, an essay was written in memory of the Count.
Josef Zichy, the former chief steward of the unfortunate Emperor's, was dedicated, from which the following highly remarkable
Taken from the following passage: . |

"When the chivalric monarch was already condemned to death was and in Queretaro in the poor sinner's room Top, farted the President of the Republic. Juarez, fine adjutant, the Baron Gagern, to the Emperor. In Mexico, people were whispering to each other, that Emperor Max, who was an extraordinarily liberal, of people⸗

The man, filled with friendly feelings, was a free-a mason; since Juarez also belonged to the order, he sent he summoned Baron Gagern to him in order to bring out in conversation, Whether the emperor is actually a "brother". If the rumor is true...
Gagern was authorized by Juarez to base his argument on truth.
to inform the Emperor that a ship was anchored in the harbor and the captain was only awaiting the order to escape him, the emperor.
to let. Gagern managed to speak to the emperor alone and He then tried to find out whether this man was a Freemason. or not. But the emperor refused to take a stand: "Let "You," he said, then he lowered his head and sank into the depths.
Thoughts. Gagern saw that he would not reach his goal, took over.
honorable farewell and reported to Juarez that the emperor had departed
I have not explained. The President of the Republic looked gravely before him.
He turned and said darkly: "God sees into my soul, I wanted to see him save .. .. Thus the will of the law shall be carried out....."

The question of whether Emperor Max von Merifo was a Freemason or
The question remains unresolved to this day. If he wasn't, then...
A simple "yes" would have saved him from certain death, but he wanted not to say anything untrue, even at the cost of his life.
If it was him, however, he apparently wanted to be a fine former colleague.
connections to Freemasonry at a time when he was no longer with her not to exploit what is internally felt to gain security to bring. In both cases, the strength of soul of this is true. To admire a truly great man.

Let us now return to Freemasonry in Austria! Why were the lodges still being held even after the granting of the Is the 1867 constitution not recognized in our country? The answer is… Let the Freemasons themselves give us: In the “History of the Viennese non-political association Humanitas!” !) can be found the statement that the government has consistently refused to to grant associations a legal existence, because the involvement a state official completely abstained from attending the meetings- was rejected. Because the Austrian government had banned Freemasonry. considered as political associations and political clubs the presence of a government official is simply a matter of course. They had to drop it; even the explicitly liberal one wasn't so lucky. The Citizens' Ministry is able to grant the requested recognition. grant.

Secret societies are prohibited in Ofterreid ($285)

Published by Prätorius, Vienna, 1885.

(StGB.); this naturally also includes those who, although their existence is known to the authorities, another constitution or possess different statutes than those they claim, as well as those, who secretly pursue different goals than those they publicly declare⸗ deceive. For the Freemasons, this is a difficult dilemma; but This cliff was circumvented in true Austrian style. He invented a highest standard for the Masonic associations, A dignified double life: In Austria they were only supposed to be considered welfare activity-related rules apply and have an effect, the actual lodges- However, they were allowed to work wearing aprons and gloves. Practicing with ribbons and jewels in Hungary! That's not not a bad joke, but a truly Austrian one An invention that deserves to be patronized in all civilized states⸗ to be ted. The proof of the correctness of what was said. The “History of Humanitas” itself provides us with this, which includes, among other thing announces the following important decisions: “Only the members of the Lodge Humanitas in Neudörfl in Hungary can be real Wit⸗ be a member of the Humanitas association (in Vienna);“ furthermore: "All those admitted or joined in Neudörfl an der Leitha nen Brr .. commit themselves to the non-political associations to join “Humanitas” in Vienna or one of its finer branches.” Then, in point 7 of the aforementioned resolutions, it is further stipulated that what all needs to be done in Neudörfl and what needs to be done in Vienna May take place: All masonry work that can only be carried out in a “true and just lodge” can take place, as Auf⸗ admissions, promotions, affiliations, civil service elections, exits⸗ Closures etc. can only take place in Neudörfl; Master⸗ consultations, teaching evenings and management meetings⸗ Lungs are to be kept at bay in Vienna. This is already evident from these statutes.

It is therefore clear that these are not ordinary clubs.
not about, but about Freemason lodges, which, however, only were able to work here under certain restrictions. (In place of (Neudörfl and Odenburg later became Pressburg.)

As a result of the state ban, Freemasonry was unable to establish itself.
(in Ofterreid) only develop slowly. The founding of the lodge “Humanitas” (1869) was followed by others, and currently there are In Vienna alone there are 14 Freemason lodges, in addition to 16 other lodges and Social gatherings in the provinces are coming (1919). The names and The Masters of the Viennese Lodges are listed at the end of this book. listed.

The Austrian lodges have, since their re-establishment, so, roughly since 1870, it has been under Hungarian protection.
and were also informed by delegates of the Pest Grand Lodge about⸗ watch. Chairmen and Masters of Viennese Lodges hold the office.

Accordingly, higher ranks are also used in the Hungarian Grand Lodge, too.
We encounter them several times as representatives of German Grand Lodges; so
3. B. the editor Heinrich Glücksmann (Vienna) representative of the “Eclectic League” (Frankfurt am Main), the advocate and Imperial Councillor Dr. Rumpler (Vienna), representative of the "Grand Lodge of Hamburg”, the Master of the Lodge “To Truth”, Friedrich Artner (= Abeles, Vienna), representative of the "Grand Lodge" of Saxony" and Br. Dr. Geza Winter (Vienna), representative of the Independent Lodges (Leipzig).

Under Hungarian protection, the Austrian lodges breathed Brothers naturally also incorporate the spirit of the Hungarian Grand Lodge.
It was already mentioned earlier in the 9th essay: (Freemasonry, Well-being) activity and politics) pointed out that politics in the Hungarian lodges play an extraordinary role and the in Their prevailing revolutionary spirit was fueled by individual cases:
Games brightly lit. Austrian Freemasonry stands in no way resembled her Hungarian foster mother.
The Austrian Freemasons are not marching in order of numbers.
at the top, on the contrary, almost in no other country in Europe are
The numbers are numerically weak, as here; yet they exceed their total.
The number 1200 is barely achievable; its influence alone is immense. reversed relationship to it. The very name "Acacia" indicates i) that the “Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary”, the only proper Supreme authority for all of Ofterreid-Hungary, every other superior authority:
authority completely equivalent and taking into account their activity very similar to French Freemasonry; they are free there “the truly advanced faction of the public sphere≈

"nung". And a Viennese Freemason, Vr.—. Oskar Erstling, confirms and supplements this judgment in the “circle” 2) further by the
A valuable admission: “In Austria, the Freemasonic principle Jo strong as just dermal
"Perhaps nowhere in the whole world." Undoubtedly Br. thinks of Erstling first and foremost of the entire liberal Press, which is published by Freemasons with and without aprons≈ is given and guided. Consider further the un» written jubilation, with which Brother Enrico Ferrer at the time welcomed at the international peace congress in Prague and They were celebrating! But weren't they all Freemasons?
— Certainly not, because not every freethinker is also pragmatic:
bricklayer, but probably the other way around. The difference is more more outward, more formal; in their nature and their aims, they are

---

) “Acacia” June 1908, No. 66, p. 420. —) “Der Zirkel”, December 13, 1908.

They are just as closely related here as in Spain and Portugal.
Everyone, everyone thinks like Brother Maeterlind in the Vienna Lodge.
The journal "Der Zirkel", published by Heinrich Glücksmann...
He was given, and at the time he said: “Let us not hesitate to…”
to use destructive forces to excess.
We have no right to ask what we should put in its place.
"will replace the destroyed." Of course; because This question has long since been settled for Freemasons: On The monarchy was replaced after the great world revolution.
to join the Freemasonic Republic... With Br..
Seitz at the top.

But the manner of their work was once described by the "Wr.
Journal for Freemasons” profound and mysterious: “We wandering, shrouded in triple night, in the middle of our adversaries. Their passions serve us as driving forces through which we, without them become aware of it, put it into play, in order to prevent it from happening.
notices to force them to work together with us≈
ten. In the shadow of an authority — i.e. tolerated by the Wonarchic — the Freemasonry is working on the large, their — "trusted work," i.e., the destruction of the monarchy.

This destructive work was also perpetrated by, in particular, the insane—dentists in the Italian-speaking region of Austria8 a large Part. The irredentist movement was a work of the Free—Masonic lodges, which inherited WMWazzini's legacy, the liberation of Italians wanted to put their plans to remove the "Austrian yoke" into action.
The most outstanding irredentist leaders, e.g., the often=

Imperial Councillor Br.. Ceſare Batiſti, then the editor of the “Trieste Piccolo” Br... Teodoro Mayer (Jew), and also the liberal MP Br. Felice Venezian were Freemasons; the last-mentioned was Wise of the Chair of the Lodge Alpi Giulie (Udine), also a member of the Grand Orient from Italy and the “Supreme Council” of the 33... Br. Teodoro Mayer, in turn, was a personal friend of the Italian Grandmaster Ernesto Nathan. The “Literary Society” Dante Allighieri, who united the irredentists of South Tyrol, was affiliated with and promoted this lodge “Alpi Giulie” in Udine the plans of the Grand Orient of Italy, which aimed at the destruction of Easter⸗ These findings, which we attribute to the "building lodge" as can be seen from the document dated August 21, 1915 (p. 269), are necessary to understa true instigators of our misery from the "triple "Night", which envelops them, to bring them into the light of day.") ) See also: “On the Paths of International Freemasonry” by Br.“. Ernst Freymann, page 21.

XVI.

The new “Grand Lodge of Vienna”.

The time of tolerating Freemasonry is now over; it has come to power. The Habsburg Emperor Charles I. was expelled and died in 1923 after a failed attempt, to conquer Hungary, in exile on Madeira. I want the one from to all good spirits, the emperor who had been so completely abandoned, neither to revile or accuse; but every day of my life I lament I know the terrible fate of our downtrodden people, which in its unparalleled simplicity and harmlessness, the wicked Do not the inner enemies possess that vigilant attention? has given, who have a Clemenceau, a Lloyd Georges – one You can think what you want about these two otherwise – however much distinguishes it. We would never have had a Bismarck under him. lost the World War; if our statesmen on this side and Over there, our military leaders would have been equal in rank – it would never have been came to such a shameful collapse...

Emperor Karl is now dead; his successors were Sir William Goode, then the League of Nations Commissioner Zimmermann, who Austria was “sanitized”, i.e., completely subjugated to the servitude of the international finance brought.

The “Grand Lodge of Vienna” has meanwhile established itself as “orderly⸗ a “proper, just, and perfect Grand Lodge” was opened. At the The head of the Ministry of the Interior at that time stood as state⸗ Secretary, a Christian Socialist, Dr. Mata, yes, at the head of the The state government was also headed by a Christian Socialist, Leopold von Steiner; he was elected by the social democratic understatefefretar Glöckel, this one through another Social Democrat, the Deputy Governor Sever, processed and there influenced, 1) the formation of the association “Grand Lodge of Vienna” to take note of, 2) whereby Freemasonry in Austria has received official recognition. There is no [information about this/anything related tc Change occurred when the Christian Social Ramek and Seipel held the post of Federal Chancellor, it should be noted that the city of Vienna has the rights of a country and is entirely under jũdis-Marxist terror stands against which Prelate Seipel himself even after the well-known revolt of July 15, 1927 was of no consequence. want.

) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung”, May 1919 ©. 6.

) Ibid., p. 4: Decree of December 23, 1918 and Decree of the 6th Stategovernment decree of December 28, 1918.

The ceremony took place in the lodge temple (Vienna I, Dorotheergasse 12) on May 31, 1919, the final election of the Grand Master: Br.. Dr. Richard Schlesinger was elected unanimously and the Chairman, Brother Hans Neeser, paid him homage and greetings. in 3x3. The following were elected as deputy Grand Masters: Br. Dr. Karl Ornstein, Hans Neeser and Dr. Adolf Rapralif; The following officers were appointed to the rank of senior official: Felix Kopetzky, Joha C. Barolin to 2nd supervisor, to deputy supervisors Friedrich Artner (Abeles) and Dr. Alexander Wing, to Grok Speakers: Dr. Emil Frankl, Dr. Gustav Spieler and Eduard Zinner, to the recording Grand Secretary Br.. Otto Fuchs, to the corresponding Grand Secretary Br.. Dr. SH Rumpler, to Deputy Grand Secretaries Dr. Robert Pelzer and Heinrich Glücksmann, to Grand Treasurer Franz Fischer, to Deputy Br... Fritz Walker, to Chief Librarian Balduin Bricht, to Grand Almoner Br.. Anton Walk, to Grand Master of Ceremonies Dr. Ottokar Mascha, to Grand Steward Heinrich Kehrer, to the Grand Master Angelo Carraro, to Grand Treasurer Rudolf König, to Grand Archivist Heinrich Glücksman. Thereupon, the 15 were elected by the general assembly to electing Federal Councillors, President, Vice President and Judges of the Grand Lodge Court elected and sworn in taken.

On June 1, 1919, the event then took place in the former palace of the OreDuke Ludwig Viktor held the “festive work”, at which against 600 brothers in Masonic attire participated.") The Grand≠ Master Br.. Schlesinger was “ceremoniously received” and “in 3x 3 welcomed." The Grand Master's "strong speech" was followed by the

"A witty and inspiring keynote address" by Br... Dr. Alexander Mintz. From her ijt can be inferred that today all Freemasons are “a ungodly”
"Feigned feeling of joyful confidence" animated, and that for
For all of them, the reassuring word now applies: "The lodge is "Covered." With biting sarcasm, Br... winks at... the previous governments were funny, which the Freemasons “in be≠ “Shamefully high degree” for — harmless, indeed “for mere

1) It is only due to the immense humility of the Most Reverend Brothers. . gue to attribute to the fact that they did not use the halls of the former Imperial Court Pala have claimed.

"Swarm spirits of pronounced peacefulness" held! That speaks volumes. The [name] in particular is brilliantly witty.
The statement that they, the Freemasons, have so far been considered "a kind of "Chamberlains of the King of Hungary" considered: as a camel
In the Wittel Age, the king's mercenaries were considered to be the — Jews; and that they, the Freemasons, were merely given “a right
"A modest intellectual ghetto existence was granted." Br... Wintz gives through this delightful self-mockery indirectly contributes to the fact that the Viennese Freemasons certainly are not anti-Semites, nor were they. Completely.
On the contrary!

We also learn quite a bit from her own mouth.
edifying things. So Grand Master Schle assures us—finger that the Freemasons from now on “a Masonic will develop “activity in the true sense”. 1) The previous activities of the so-called "humanitarian associations in "Austria" was therefore merely — nonsense, calculated to deceive the authorities To throw sand in their eyes! Yes, it is the Grand Master himself, who expresses his conviction that the lodges are involved in politics today must pursue; of course, only social policy, by no means anything else.
“Party politics,” because that would conflict with the overriding principle Freemasonry and tolerance are incompatible! Therefore:
To pursue social policy, one needs the lodges with their,
An activity that escapes all supervision; for this one needs the
All the secrecy, the stringent precautions in the
The admission, the extremely strict closure, the rigid "but" and Subordination, the entire army of high officials, the Grand Lodges" court (1), the countless vows, commandments and prohibitions!
And you're supposed to believe that?! Anyway: Thank you very much, Brother Schlesinger, for the candid admission that the previous, purely humanitarian activities of the Austrian lodges

It was only the bait, the signpost, the mask. The⸗ those who do what you, Most Reverend Grand Master, are doing today to openly admit, to have claimed before, were known to be as defamers and slanderers.

That now, where the wasps have fallen, the old, beautiful ones too and harmless names must be mentioned,?) is self-evident. Soon So instead of "humanitarian associations" we will have: "Goethe",
"Schiller", "Loyalty", "Friendship", etc. are fully-fledged lodge names.
They can greet, for example: King Saul, King Solomon, Stern Davids, Baron Rothschild vim. Such names would

---

1) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung”, July 1919, p. 8.
) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung”, May 1919, p. 5.

Even outwardly, it presents a more accurate picture of our Freemasonry.
and some highly embarrassing surprises for the easily impressed Young men use contraception. Such a renaming of the lodges would also be advisable because the local free masons with the intention of wearing the – fraternity for their to harness purposes! This is not a bad joke; to Grandmaster Dr. Schlesinger is deadly serious about this; he needs the fraternity, because he needs academically educated – not⸗ Jews. However, the Grand Master is not thinking of that.
A distorted image, shaped today by racial and nationalistic prejudice:
prevails, is familiar to us,” but “to that archetype of the Bur⸗ ſchenſchschaft, as it was at its founding at the beginning of the 19th century.
as has been shown in the 19th century.”!) To the Most Reverend Grand Master
A forgivable mistake occurs here: He overlooks the fact that the
The former Freemasons were quite different men than the From today: Brother Johann Gottlieb Fichte, whose "Addresses to the “German nation” a hundred years ago, the academic youth flames, was indeed the chief orator of the "Innermost Orient", but but so intensely imbued with national spirit that he (turned his back on the Freemasons.) From the same nation⸗
Other famous Freemasons were also among these spirits:
soul, fo Br... Scharnhorst, Br.. Frh. vom Stein Ugh. And one thing is for sure: A holy thunderstorm would to be blasé, if today Br... Prince Leberecht Blücher resurrected and 3. B. the international “Grand Lodge of Vienna” paid a visit; this Br... and Meifter from the chair would strongly object if the Viennese Gentlemen “as flesh from their flesh, as blood from their blood and even more so than spirit of their spirits" describe wanted, as the "Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper" stated in a Be≠ reading of the Blücher novel "The Holy Thunderstorm" do popular.")

The fact that Viennese Freemasons have worn masks until now is They are therefore open about it today; they themselves speak of a "forced-“The masking”; and they themselves are now making the confession ab, “that Freemasonry should comply with the Austrian Associations Act self-evidently (could not submit). For the Freemasons Of course, this was no secret in other countries either: The Reich

1) Ibid. May 1919, p. 19.

2) See “Auf der Warte” No. 9, p. 71, May 1, 1920.
) “Wiener Freimaurer≠Zeitung” August 1919 p. 30.
“Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper” ibid., p. 11.

German Br.. Schwabe admits that the Austrian Free≠
The masons did not adhere to the law; but, he says, they did not.
It is not the Freemasons' fault, but the law! Be≠ Founding: "The 'law' has turned the lodge into an unlawful entity."
Dafein ‘forced’.“) With this kind of logic one can conclude≠
To turn everything upside down. With equal justification, one could also...
The thief protested his innocence: it was not his fault, but the fact that The law, because it prohibits stealing. If, however, in the case of other laws... occasion of the Br.. and great orator Dr. Emil Frankl with the
With conviction, he proudly utters the words: “As a free man≠
"As bricklayers, we have a sworn duty to uphold the law."
— so he would have to receive Homeric inspiration from the Freemasons.
laughter resounded in response. But they did not laugh; the disciples of Those in the "royal art" know very well that such resounding words are designed solely for the outside world. But we "profane" people, Those who do not place their feet at right angles know what we must think of the fine words of these great orators.
The previous Austrian governments rightly granted them
They were met with strong distrust, and rightly so.
this secret society — because he is a folder despite all the ab—Attempts at denial — state recognition denied. The Christian Social State Secretary Dr. Mataja was not well advised, when, in a moment of weakness, he yielded to the Masonic urging He gave in to state recognition. Was he on this Since he was unfamiliar with the area, he should have inquired about it.

As is well known, the Viennese Freemasons at the beginning of the World War II, their highly patriotic sentiment was expressed through numerous Attempts to mark monetary donations, the 3rd e.g. in a market-shouting manner.
White people were expelled in the "Neue Freie Presse". Also

That was hypocrisy. The Grand Master himself, that is, the bee The man who called out makes a “justified request” to his fine brothers. throw” from it and speaks of a “rather unfortunate up” march, which the Viennese lodges organized at the beginning of the World War with their donation certificates in the Vienna daily newspapers under⸗ have taken their name.") And the reason? – "The Viennese lodges "They were never warmongers." – Strikingly true; they were even Even more: they were flatteners. Their true inclination lay on the side of the opponents and the Grand Master of the Hungarian Grand– The lodge, to which they were then still subject, practically boasts,

1) Ibid., July 1919, p. 17.

2) Ibid., May 1919, p. 27.

2) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung”, May 1919, p. 16.

that the withdrawal of the Hungarian troops, who the terrible collapse of our southwest front brought about, with the will of the Lodge.!) ..

The Grand Lodge of Vienna has permitted its members to also to belong to the purely Jewish "B'nai B'rith order"?) At of the known composition of the Grand Lodge of Vienna is this The decision is not particularly noteworthy. However, the following is remarkable: genders: For decades, the Jews have been waging a fierce struggle. against those German Grand Lodges which persecute non-Christians refused admission; they were considered intolerant, reluctant. constantly and regressively positioned themselves until the majority of They decided to abandon the “Christian principle”. And Now that the Jews had achieved their next goal, they created ...a purely Jewish organization based on Freemasonry A basis to which no non-Jew has access; but bean⸗ They declare unhindered admission for their own members to all other lodges.

As a result of the upheaval, the Czech Free Democrats also... The bricklayer has become self-employed. First, it should be noted that... during the World War, the seat of the Czech "Action- committees abroad” at the Grand Orient of Frank⸗ rich (Paris, 16 Rue Cadet): There the leading Foundations for the treasonous Czech policy – in the one- to hear from Prague – assembled, which the Czech leaders carried out conscientiously within the country in accordance with the Entente's objectives The meeting was chaired by the current President of the Czech-Slovak Re- public, Br.. Th. G. Masaryk. Another Freemason- The most important organization of Czechs abroad was the "John Hus-League of Slave Free mas ons” of North America from their advertising activities and the Freemasonic En⸗ The Allied powers were persuaded to consider the independence of Bohemia as one of their

to announce main war aims. It is also due to their influence.
write that the nationwide Grand Lodge Day, which will take place on July 3rd 1917 in Paris, the independence of Bohemia as a of the most essential peace conditions.") That Br.:

---

1) Ibid., May 1919, p. 40; cf. the 18th essay of this book.

) Ibid. May 1919, p. 31. A comprehensive list of these personnel unions gives the excellent work by Dr. F. Hergeth, published in 1927: “From the Work⸗
"Instead of Freemasons and Jews in post-war Austria" (Heimatverlag L. Stocker, Graz).

) See “On the Paths of International Freemasonry” by Br.. Ernst Freymann, Rostock 1919, p. 21 (Secret document for Br.. Frei⸗ bricklayer).

Dr. Karl Kramarſch Hodgradmaurer ijt and the Grand Orient de France has already been mentioned.

After the coup, all the Czechs left the country.
Lodge “Hiram” in Prague and founded a purely Czech Lodge “Jan Amos Komensky” (Comenius), which immediately dedicated itself to subordinated to the French Grand Orient.") An independent
The Czech Grand Lodge was, as stated, founded in Prague in 1923.
is founded.

From the official publication of the "Grand Lodge of Vienna", which “Vienna Freemasons’ Newspaper”, we also learn that the An⸗ Storm against the death penalty in Ofterreid) by Freemasons (has gone out?) — Well, isn't that the best proof of their World-class friendliness? — Perhaps; but whoever judges objectively, knows that the death penalty is the most effective deterrent⸗ Means for the would-be murderer is; whoever wants to abolish them,
It therefore does not serve humanity, but rather the murderers.
The real reason, therefore, seems to be something else; perhaps It is related to the sentence: “In Freemasonry (Is it allowed to kill!) Murderers are usually cowards⸗ lings and usually only allow themselves to be recruited if it can't go after them himself. — Here's a Personal experience enabled: It was on the 5th of October.
In October 1911, we members of parliament were gathered in parliament.
The leader of the Social Democrats, Brother Dr. Viktor Adler, delivered an outrageously inflammatory speech against the then-current Justice Minister Dr. von Hochenburger. Suddenly — the speech had Having just reached its peak — five fell from the gallery Sharp shots. Against whom? — Against the Minister of Justice. The Perpetrator? — A Serb from southern Dalmatia; he had the circumstances⸗ undertaken a journey lasting several days specifically for this purpose⸗ Men! Motive? — He couldn't give one. — Whoever him

I had been persuaded to speak? — It couldn't be uttered!
— Since all the boatmen had failed, he came with a longer one.
They received a prison sentence; but the instigators went unpunished.

It is also significant that the son of the aforementioned partner⸗ List leader Dr. Viktor Adler became a political murderer:
It was Friedrich Adler who, as is well known, died on October 22, 1916.
the then Austrian Minister-President Count Stürgkh
He was treacherously shot down. Even more indicative of our circumstances.

1) “Wiener e June 1919, p. 21.

NI Ibid., August 1919 p.
9. Saying of the Serbian ace Br. Cabrinovic; cf. p. 111.

However, it is that the same Friedrich Adler, to whom the last emperor had long granted freedom before serving a sentence, already today can play a leading role: He is, in fact, the leader.
of the communist left wing of the Social Democrats, sits in the National Assembly and strives for higher things.

Is Friedrich Adler perhaps also a Freemason?
The act — the political assassination — was decidedly for that; even more so the strange justification given by the perpetrator.
During a formal judicial interrogation, Friedrich Adler stated verbatim:

"In my opinion, one is justified in using violence if..."
The law is trampled, every citizen, everyone is entitled, to secure one's own rights on the basis of necessity, which the government is responsible for. Not every citizen has not only the right to use violence, but in my opinion "including the duty." — This view fully corresponds to the Teachings of Scottish High Degree Masonry. The ones so far
The question left open can now be answered with absolute certainty in the affirmative.
Friedrich Adler is a Freemason, specifically...
(He belongs to a Swiss lodge as a high-ranking Freemason!!)

Only one thing remains doubtful: Whether Br.:. Friedrich Adler is inclined to extend this “right to kill” to any other state as well—to grant citizens? Since the victory over Austria, the Great—Lodge of Vienna thanks to the membership of almost all major bankers to came under ever stronger influence, with the radical Jewish Chas
The character, down to outright Bolshevism, becomes increasingly clear.
The prophecy came. Thus, Brother... Dutchman preached about the "future".
the “ultimate goal of the proletarian movement”, Br... H. Heller (Schiller) emphasized that "only through class struggle could one achieve the—
to be able to reach states, such as Freemasonry

"stirs" (“Circle” 37, p. 373f.) etc.?) One can therefore also here to observe that “pacifism” is becoming fanatically active, when it comes to the subjugation of national forces in a German lands are involved. Jewish high finance and Marxist— Jewish Marxists: both sit united in the workshop at the Work for the "royal art".

Their complete victory would mean the downfall of Germany in Austria means.

July 15, 1927, was a signal for this. But it is not as it was. The sign was recognized.

1) According to a statement from a German Freemason who knew Brother Friedrich Adler knows personally.

) Further details can be found in the aforementioned work by Hergeth, which is a vast amou
It contains the latest information and is highly recommended.

XVII.

Revolutionary Freemasonry in Hungary.

The most noticeable feature was the strong growth of the Hungarian Free State. Masonry during the World War. The “Symbolic Grand” Lodge of Hungary” was counted at the end of 1913 — that is, before the outbreak of the war — 91 lodges with 6526 brothers; by the end of 1917, however 102 lodges and 14 smaller gatherings with 7447 Freemasons, that's a lot. growth of 12 or 13 percent, an increase that is only found in Europe from the English and Spanish Grand Lodges and also from the American Freemasonry is surpassed. What conclusions may be drawn? What can one draw from this? Would the Hungarian Freemasons ever have been a He had been a reliable pillar of the empire, one could conclude. to conclude that their aim is to preserve the state was; but so it was, to use Waeterlinck's words, an approach The tension of all destructive forces to excess — and the Destruction, as we can see, has indeed been remarkably successful. It should not be forgotten that these 7447 brothers are only the To present the number of actively participating members. In earlier times For years the difference was clearly emphasized; so there was In 1878 there were a total of 7341 brothers in Hungary, of whom 2781 appear to be listed as active, participating members. In In 1896, only 2805 brothers were registered, i.e., the number of the registered and obligated members no longer specified, but only those of those brothers who to perform real lodge work. If one lays down the correct number... shortly before its dissolution, to learn about the relationship at that time to⸗ For this reason, the symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary would have a It comprises a membership of approximately 20,000.

The decidedly revolutionary character of Freemasonry especially from their behavior towards the leaders of Hungarian Revolution of 1848; in contrast to the Brr .. Kosuth, Klapka, Pulsky etc.

One could, of course, object that back then There was no organized Freemasonry in Hungary at all.

has and that the “may be a secret lodge”, which is the musicals⸗ The business that merchant Thoma wanted to establish in Pest was only founded on August 24 has come into being, namely the lodge "To the Dawn of the “Higher light!” Kossuth should join her first. Admittedly! Nevertheless, the fact remains that the leaders the revolution in close connection with the foreign lodges⸗ dung st�stan, received support from there and after the violent suppression of the entire movement abroad found protection and cover. Kosuth was born in February 1852. admitted to the Freemasons in Cincinnati (America), Likewise, Count Gregor Bethlen and Paul Hajnif. Count Julius Andrássy became a member of the Paris Lodge on April 24, 1854. “Mont Sinai”, Georg Klapka received the “Dante” lodge in Turin Alighieri's light, Bishop Hyacinth Rönay was born in London, Bishop Michael Horvath in Switzerland was made a Freemason. But at that time there were hardly any of the more important Hungarians. a conspirator who is not abroad, be it in America or England, in France, Italy or in Switzerland, from that it would have been covered up by a Freemason lodge. That is known to the expert. Nothing unusual, nothing new, given the circumstances. "Upheaval and Outrage is not a Masonic offense.” “Outrage "In certain cases, it is a sacred duty." "A Freemason can, without committing a crime, boldly to strike against tyranny, to join forces with others to form a to combine conspiracy theories and also to apply Wittel's methods, which “would be reprehensible in themselves” — such statements are in the Freemasonic literature is not uncommon; one encounters them so to speak, at every turn.

But let us return to our starting point, the Hungarian The movement of 1848, back again. Hungary's crown was at that time in the name of Kosuth by the two Counts Seherr—Thoß and Stephan Esterházy, the Duke of Leuchtenberg proposed. But since General Görgey, at Vilagos's, from the defeated by imperial troops, they decided to surrender. It didn't come to that, though it had to. Roffuth and "General" Türr had moved to Turin, where they participated in the work of the lodge. "Ausonia" participated.!) He was in constant contact with the Grr.. Mazzini and Garibaldi. That was now the real thing." close ties. "War against Austria!" "War on the Bare

"Bares!" "Austria must disappear!" These are phrases,

1) See “Bauhütte”, March 26, 1910, No. 13, p. 103.

as Mazzini used countless times in his works, Expressions of hatred that are as full as that of a Kossuth» constantly covering.

The Austrian statesmen were close to the leaders of the Secret society did not grow in any way. Through mediation Sot, a Freemason, Prince Jéróme Bonaparte, Futh in May 1859 also in conjunction with Emperor Napoleon III. dung, as the Freemason Abafi tells us in his “Contributions a story of the Hungarian-Italian Legion" is reported. Napoleon was prepared to send an auxiliary corps of 20,000 men for a to provide a burglary in Hungary, whereas the Brr .. Kosuth, Klapka and Count Ladislaus Teleki in Genoa A “Hungarian National Committee” should be formed in Piedmont to assemble a Hungarian army from deserters. The The call to action was issued from Genoa on May 20, 1859. Honvéd⸗ Officers streamed in from all sides, but that was un⸗ The Garish "army" consisted of a single man on June 1, 1859. Man! The brothers were ashamed of their failure and left. apart. Count Gregor Bethlen onto the battlefield, Count Alexander Teleki and “General” Türr to Garibaldi, Klapka and Pulsky stayed in Turin. Then a completely new idea came about. The idea was to simply line up the captured imperial soldiers. one and on this basis which is by no means unobjectionable under international law Eventually, they managed to bring the number up to 4000 men, via which then Br.. Koſsuth, who had just returned from London, held a military review. Soon after, the Peace of [unclear] was concluded. Villa Franca.

Even from these few lines it is clear that the The entire unfortunate campaign of 1859 was essentially a work The Freemason is. But the Hungarian Freemasons gave to come to terms with the final result, which she and her fellow conspirators very disappointed, not satisfied. They worked persistently on a new Italo-Hungarian war, the conditions of which on September 8, 1860, between Brothers Klapka and Ladislaus Teleki and Kossuth on the one hand and Cavour on the other were arrested. became.

The Freemasons also participated in the war of 1866. their actual share; a reference to the Brr. suffices. Klapka and Count Theodor Cſaky, to whom a whole series still existed names could be added.

This activity of Hungarian Freemasons, by the way, dates back to...
from a time when there were no established Masonic organizations in Hungary; it was on January 30, 1870, under the Grand Master Brother Franz Pulßky founded a Johannis Grand Lodge.

tet and in 1871 the Hungarian Grand Orient was founded. This Green⸗
The dung originated in France, from the "Grand Orient de France".
For Hungary, as Grand Master Brother Pulsky said…
occasionally emphasized the light from the West; "only the triumph
"The French spirit can lead Hungary to salvation." (How
What this “salvation” actually looks like was revealed in November 1918 Br.. Michael Graf Karolyi brilliantly proved this!)

On March 23, 1886, the two Moors then united.
Hungarian authorities to the "Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary", which so both the Johannis lodges, as well as the higher degrees of the Scottish Rite⸗ tischen Lehrart, that is, alfo from the 4th to the 33rd degree, ume summarizes. After this finding, there can actually be no
There will be no more surprises. It should not surprise us that Hungarian brothers on those announcing the world revolution and preparatory congresses in Paris (1889 and 1900) the
They make big pronouncements, it doesn't surprise us that the Portuguese Giessen revolutionary Dr. Sebastian Magalhäed Lima of the invited to Pest by the Hungarian Grand Lodge and solemnly there is received. He held the attentive listeners
He gave a speech of extremely instructive content. This was shortly after The Freemasons in Portugal overthrew the monarchy and the had introduced the republic. The content of the speech is not known.
It has become known, but a short report will be given here.
will be, which the Hungarian Grand Lodge will award to the International Freemasonry office in Neuchâtel (Switzerland) sent in a letter stating:
"The loyal followers of the royal art have in our
The fatherland faces difficult hours ahead. From the sense of duty, the willingness to sacrifice and the discipline of our brothers, who Having to walk separate paths, the future depends on...
Let no one be confused by profane jokes, to pass hasty judgment on some of our brothers; for Often, it is precisely these people who give their best for the victory of our cause!
This report dates from 1912; it speaks for itself.
self and hardly needs any additives if you use it⸗
It is also important to read between the lines.

Also highly noteworthy is the visit of the Hungarian Grand Lodge, which they presented to their Serbian brothers shortly before outbreak of the World War. The efforts of the Free⸗
The Freemasons of Serbia had to join the Hungarian Grand Lodge, had to join everyone known to Hungarian Freemasons; and yet this Be⸗

Such? It is worth remembering that the Serbian Freemason Dr. Radoslav Kazimirovic on fine repeatedly mentioned roundtravel to the lodge centers of Europe, first and foremost, Oven plague onfudte ... And it was further emphasized that there was no A personality all over the world who lived in Hungary — and especially in Freemason circles — it was more hated would be when the assassinated heir to the throne, Archduke Franz Ferdinand ...

In this regard, the fact is established that the Freemasonic Daily newspaper “Vilag” (“The World”) in Ofenpest in January 1919 the election of the English Grand Master, Duke of Connaught, the Brother Edward VII, recommended to King of Hungary, the same Br. .:. Duke of Connaught, whom also part of the English-American Kanish Czechs even during the World War for the had set his sights on the Czechoslovakian throne.

XVIII.

The Hungarian Grand Lodge and the coup.

3 is extremely instructive to consider the attitude which the Hungarian Freemasons on world historical events have taken place in recent years.

As recently as spring 1918, when German weapons were deployed in the West The venerable Grand Master Dr. Arpad declared them victorious. Bokay on the occasion of a Freemason meeting in Vienna — On April 28, 1918 — a highly patriotic speech: The enemies Hungary's, he said, also find the enemies of Austria; those who who have allied themselves to dismember Ofterreid) also want Mutilating Hungary; it was the military strength of the monarchy that caused it. those who in the hurricane of the World War all peoples of Austria-Hungary offered the most effective protection, etc., etc.

But then came autumn and with it the slow returnyielding to the German army masses. In Hungary, the very well-known brothers... Count Michael Karolyi, the king, he He should appoint him as the distinguished president of the winegrowers' association. Karo even organizing street demonstrations to support his demand to lend a certain emphasis. The ill-advised King Charles finally gave in because he saw no other way out. knew how to find his way through the confusion

The Hungarian Grand Master held the match again — it was on November 2, 1918 – a speech, but this time in the following format

The words culminated in: !) “We Freemasons want peace with to the neighboring peoples, we want a fraternal alliance with to all peoples and countries, to remove the word war from our to delete the dictionary; we want the military ab⸗ armor!

The new government of Br.. Karolyis had just been formed.
were; no fewer than six Freemason brothers belonged to it.
(an?) and the rest were apparently "bricklayers without aprons", from

1) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung” May 1919 p. 40.

2) Among them the Jewish Nationalities Minister Br. Oskar Jaszi (Jaku) bowitsch); see “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung” May 1919 p. 37.

who faced no resistance whatsoever. By order the new Masonic government of Hungary
The Hungarian troops were withdrawn.
and the immediate military disarmament orders. Czech and South Slavic regiments that are on this Having only been lurking for a moment, they immediately followed the example of the Hungary, and so within a few days it came to a complete Collapse of our southwest front, which had lasted for 3½ years had heroically withstood the Italian onslaught. The un⸗
The increased treason of the Hungarian Freemasons was
He, then, who sealed our fate.

Whether diabolical malice or bottomless stupidity drives the impulse⸗
The reason for this action is difficult to determine. If...
The Hungarian Freemasons perhaps gave themselves over to hope had, the enemies, especially the Italians, would do the same with to retaliate in kind and recall their troops as well, so They should experience a terrible disappointment: Into the
The Italians immediately moved into the positions abandoned by Hungary.
liener one and countless thousands of brave Germans⸗
Austrian soldiers paid the price for the betrayal of the un⸗ Garish Freemason government with death and Gee captivity

All of this mattered little or not at all to the Grand Master;
Not a word of concern that things might be very different for Hungary
He might come when he and his fine fellow brothers seemed to be expected, but he came.
over his lips. On the contrary! The Grand Master is proud Self-satisfaction is fulfilled, because – the Masonic drug, Gramm is also the program of the new Hungarian–
The general mood of the

The Freemasonic Federal Council is therefore also very confident.
The Deputy Grand Master, Brother Josef Balassa, is leaving himself out – the lodge is covered – and reminds us that it Hungarian Freemasonry has been its main organization since the beginning of the war.
I've considered the task... well, what then? Its main task...
The gift as a good Hungarian was probably the one that gave everything about it.
to wage war in order to help the Wittelsbach powers achieve victory? –
No trace! Since the beginning of the war, the Hungarians have...
Freemasons consider their main task to be the – “hatred to reduce it!” They have always tried to “establish a connection with the
"To win the world chain," possibly in the immediate future Communication with Freemasons from enemy countries “on that ) “Wiener Freimaurer≈Zeitung” May 1919 p. 41.

to work so that the Freemasons' World Federation (again) arise” i) This testimony of the Most Reverend Dep. Gross≈ Meister deserves to be plastered on every street corner, in order to
To make the eternally blind see.

Reducing hatred would in itself have been quite commendable;
only the work of the lodge brothers would have had a positive impact on our enemies.
must be put in place those who harbor a delusional fear against Germany and Austria harbored a deep hatred and would not rest until the Bers
The destruction of the Wittelsbach powers would have been achieved. Now we know at least from the mouth of someone qualified, that the un≈ Garish Freemasons consider their main task to be – fluff-making considered; now it is also indirectly admitted – what was previously always denied and dismissed as a base suspicion was – that the Hungarian Freemasons to the Freemason≈ Congresses of our enemies even during the war– have participated, for example in Rome in 1917, to in to work in their spirit and for the Freemasons≈World Federation active too fine, i.e., in other words, to close– to establish a world republic. The Hungarian Free States also...
Bricklayers are now dropping their masks. That their own afflictions...
Actions with the Romani brothers did not bring about the war.
abbreviated, like the one supported with their financial contributions
The “Stockholm Conference” is probably not mentioned by anyone today.
The existence of Freemasons can be disputed. We know this from the Munde Br... AH Frieds, that fine the western Free≈
The brotherly hand outstretched towards the bricklayers, these coldly smiling has been rejected, and by the Vienna Grand Lodge Dispatched by Dr. Felix Holländer and Dr. Emil Frankl (Didn't things go better?) This unique willingness to help, to constantly negotiate with an opponent from whom one certainly knows or must know that he is of the will

The fact that it is animated to destroy us must be interpreted differently.
What prevents us from assuming that the Hungarian brothers... in the struggle between “autocracy and democracy” – as the

1) The word "again" was put in parentheses because it conveyed the true meaning only veiled. The Freemasons' World Federation, according to its own repeated statements,
He never passed the exams, therefore he cannot "re-emerge"; the concept:
Freemasons⸗World Federation roughly corresponds to “World Freemasonry”, “League of Nations
"World Republic". Cf. "Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper" June 1919, p. 22.

2) The Hungarian Freemasons offered the Social Democrats 10,000 for this.
Crowns available.

) See the speech by Grand Master Dr. Schlesinger of March 23, 1919 in Vienna; “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung” May 1919 p. 17.

u The Hungarian Grand Lodge and the overthrow. 161 Freemasons themselves gloss over the World War – in general
From the very beginning, on the side of "democracy", which means:
have stood on the side of our enemies?

Were they ever truly and genuinely convinced followers?
the monarchical form of government, as always the public» emphasized regarding their ness? Based on what we gathered from their statements own newspapers know, they were never anything other than revo⸗ Judicial Republicans; just think of their inclination towards the Serbian Freemasons, on their corporate excursion to Belgrade (1914), to the magnificent reception that he received Portuguese revolutionary Dr. Magalhàes Lima let us remember, after all, the mysterious preliminary discussion.
of Dr. Kazimirovic at the Hungarian Grand Lodge in Ofenpest immediately before the assassination of the heir to the throne.

But how then can the sanctimonious words of the Grandmaster von Bokay's statement of April 28, 1918, is to be explained? – Naive Question! As if Freemasons' words and actions were about…
They would have to agree! Words from Freemasons are very much appreciated.
(unambiguous like their symbols, ambiguous like the Bud)
It was “6” in the “flaming star”. That speech was nothing.
as a nice gesture, calculated for Freemasonry opponents and crème bricklayer apprentices... That this view is the only correct one Moreover, the Hungarian Freemasons themselves now confirm this:
In a circular to the major Masonic authorities
The “Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary” refers to all states the new Hungarian democratic republic expresses⸗ lich as their own work, as their work tl!)

The German Freemasons will probably now... or worse, have to pose the question of whether they accept this admission.
to accept as full proof and what conclusions to draw do they intend to draw from this? But should they remain silent?

If one glides over it, every German will know what it's for.
the supposedly apolitical German Freemasons in the future to maintain and therefore also to treat. With the mere Complaining about the "peace imposed by force" serves no one; who Was it of any use if the "Association of German Freemasons" recently...
He issued a circular letter which stated in heart-moving words:

1) “Wiener Freimaurer-Zeitung” June 1919 p. 21. Meanwhile, the Newly elected Viennese Grand Master Dr. Ottokar Mascha quite openly in favor of the-Unification of all democracies into a world republic and specifically for an approach to Approaching France was explicitly stated. Despite Versailles, despite St. Germain, despite The fate of the German people as a consequence of these crimes. Or should they be hunted because of

"We are threatened with annihilation! Insane world rulers
They want to impose a peace on us that will destroy us.
(should go...) What good is it if the "Grand Lodge of Vienna” emits a “cry of distress” and the peace treaty (calls it a death sentence?!) What use is the determination of the brother...
Dr. Herbatschek, that “the executioner’s stone of Paris, the (Having no heart), is unmovable??) What kind of person is it?
It makes sense if Br.. Julius Norden, who until the outbreak of war living in London and working in a lodge there, the Pro⸗ Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England, Lord Ampthill, in in a letter he practically begs him to write to the Grand Master, to the Duke of Connaught, and his nephew, the King;
Georg, introduce yourself so that you can conclude a legal matter.
(worked towards peace?”) It's too late for that. The Hungarian Free⸗ Bricklayers harbor a will to destroy for selfish reasons.
The enemies were strengthened, the German Freemasons their will to victory.
of the German people paralyzed and the Austrian brothers, who I am actually proud that never a "warmongering" word
What came out of her lips were the angry fluffballs, the love preached against the enemies to express their hatred for the previous regime To conceal behind it the form of government, the empire: Truly, a worthy cloverleaf.

But these demonstrations against the "peace imposed by force", against The “peace of annihilation” should not be taken seriously at all; otherwise so much reconciliation, of the
The rapprochement between the hostile peoples must be discussed; otherwise, things could
They don't, like Br... Breaks, in the same breath as the enemies⸗ (shout out the “slogan of reconciliation”?) The apparent

The excitement of our fellow Freemasons is therefore also being felt by the They were not taken as equals by their enemies. They knew perfectly well, that the Freemasons of the Wittelsbach powers held such protests against the Violent peace for one's own protection is very, very necessary. They are agile and overlook it. The “Great Need” and The “auxiliary sign” of the German Freemasons therefore remained in this case Completely ineffective. All this offers no benefit to those who already during The war clearly revealed the enemy's will to annihilate. have not the slightest surprise.') In addition, that

1) Printed in the “Wiener Zeitung” July 1919, p. 29.

2) “Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper” July 1919 p. 6

) Ibid., p. 12.

) Ibid., p. 28.

8) Ibid. May 1919, p. 18.

6) See N's book: "Kramarsch, The True Instigator of the World War" Vienna⸗Munich 1918. 6th edition, 30th–38th thousand, p. 57 ff.

the Freemasons of enemy countries themselves in the harshest manner opposed any easing of the peace terms have, e.g., the Grand Commander of the “Supreme Council” of Belgium, Br... Count Goblet d'Alviella, likewise the Grand Master of the Grand Orient of Belgium, Br. Wagnette, which sent a telegram to all Grand Lodges of North America have addressed, in which they request, the radio message of the German Freemasons should not be given any consideration. – Reason? – “The German…” Freemasons have lost every attribute that entitled them to to turn to the American Freemasons.” That sounds Somewhat dark. Presumably, this is meant to express disappointment. will be, which the world Freemasons say about the German Freemasons perceived this because they were apparently considered secret agents abroad. alliance considered, from whom one could rightly expect, that they immediately at the beginning of the war with the “tyrannical emperor” would end things.

The victorious Freemasons of the Entente states, however, add their tremendous triumph over the defeated Wittels– ...and add the bloodiest mockery. It is no mere coincidence, that English Freemasonry just designated June 27, 1919 for its Peace celebration, which was actually a victory celebration, from⸗ They have chosen. They say it themselves: It is no coincidence, because The day had been booked solid for months... Yes, why exactly?

June 27th?? – Oh, you stupid, simple-minded, German Michel, when Will you ever come to your senses?! – Because on June 27th Just five years had passed since that event which which formed the starting point of the World War!

Of course, this isn't something you'll announce to the world out loud.
Trumpets. But the knowing Freemasons of future centuries…
They should infer from this visible sign that the
The entire war is a work of the World Lodge, an immense Freemasonry⸗
The war was to deal with the tyrannical imperial states.
to clean up and set the world republic on the path to lead.

The average German still doesn't understand. ... So may it be
He would then please answer the question himself conscientiously and without any hesitatio Examine the prejudice, why the signing of the German Peace treaty on June 28, 1919 had to take place in Versailles, not a day earlier, not a day Later? If he still can't figure out how to make a soap by now,
Then there is no helping him, the stupid German.
Michel.

It almost seems as if the Hungarian Freemasons They only played the role of the deceived deceivers. The king of The Hungarians wanted to steal the crown to put themselves on the line.
To set the main. The miserable glory lasted five months.
keit, then they were replaced by the communists. Br..
Michael Karolyi with the wolf's jaw and the silvery Gau⸗ men had to flee under cover of darkness and fog, and with The rule of the Brothers . Freemasons was now finally over.
King Charles had distanced himself from the powerful lords of Frei– (Let the bricklayers be intimidated, the cunning Jew Br... Bela Run?) turned the tables and instilled fear in the Freemasons themselves.
Terror set in. The most respected brothers... he drew them in according to tried and teste Sample as hostages, for the former Grand Master Br... Arpad from Bokay, but then, when one "ver⸗" (a made-up word) had them who had been “constantly” free again. But they subsequently reconciled.
Communists and Freemasons got along pretty well at that time. The commu⸗
The Nazi council government, for example, had the Freemasons introduce⸗ led a collection for the purpose of erecting a monument to the Freemasonic poet Br... Andreas Ady, himself in hand taken; the Masonic daily newspaper "Vilag" became the Organ of the Communist People's Commissariat for Education-being?) and the like. That the Hungarian Grand Lodge⸗ house requisitioned by the communists and by the cooperative the – house door () was covered with fittings, was indeed

Less pleasing, but nevertheless this act was reported by the "Vienna" The Freemasons' Newspaper was not criticized in the slightest. glides; a sign that they had found each other. . . .)

Anyone who still believes in the purely Jewish-Masonic character of the Hungarian Anyone who doubts the success of the revolution should let Count Karolyi teach them. In his writing "Against an Entire World", the vain fool reveals even the personal and political connections more than– was probably dear to many. Among the "forces of progress" He names a whole series of nasty Jews, first and foremost Br.' Jaczi: “He was surrounded by that radically thinking bourgeoisie, that outside the party through the magazine "Huszadik Szazad" (20th century) and the daily newspaper "Viläg" (World) as well as in some liberal Freemason lodges his pioneering work–

1) Br.. Bela Kün is free according to Hungarian sources⸗ mason; whether he was “Lufton”, i.e., son of a master mason, could not be determined until It cannot be definitively established. It is true that there is a lodge (Haladas) in Debre which is presided over by Dr. Bela Kün as "Master of the Chair".

) “Wiener Freimaurer⸗Zeitung”, June 1919, p. 22

d Ibid., July 1919, p. 30.

performed such work.” The “young Galileos” were described as net Rarolyi as “almost all Jews”; on page 330 he admits fine “Nexus with the Freemasons” openly admits, while on page 333 speaks of subtle "conversations with the Freemasons" that another want to research.

That the Karoliy revolution was welcomed by the Freemasons, It was admitted quite openly. The confession is noteworthy. the Freemasons' magazine "Latomia", published in Leipzig. There It says, among other things, verbatim:!) "After the brothers, even during the war an address of devotion to Emperor Franz Joseph (what hypocrites!) Those who had prepared themselves, they were met with enthusiasm after the upheaval. thrown into the arms of the socialist-republican idea in the honest conviction that now is the time of the Gre The filling of Masonic ideals has broken in be, and have also published corresponding propaganda in their magazine. done. The leading men of that time are said to have almost all Freemasons have been.”

Then the paper complains about the "thanks to foreign help for Wacht's reaction" and about the seizure of the lodges⸗ houses.

In fact, after their liberation, the Hungarians had their eyes
Note the bricklayers who are "enthusiastically" attached to Karolyi. directed. On May 14, 1920, the house of the "Symbolic Grand Lodge of Hungary" of members of the Landeswehr Association⸗ gung Wove is the chairman of this organization, who
The most renowned Hungarian patriot Julius Gömbös demanded in an open letter to the then Prime Minister Te⸗ leki a ruthless intervention against Freemasonry in Hungary, which saw itself as a tool of Jewish subversive tendencies-
I have meadows. The Freemason "Pester Lloyd" remarks on this:)
"Incidentally, Mr. Gömbös himself cannot help admit, that there were at least (D and (N) lodges that were dedicated to destruction commendably resisted and acted in a patriotic spirit. But Even these find no favor in his eyes, in order to protect the others.
wills which, according to his findings, were destructive. Destructive – Why? Because they participated in the October Revolution?
Some other men were also involved in this,
who never had anything in common with the Freemasons."

Even back then, this lodge organ had openly threatened.
wrote: "The matter has now been dragged into the public eye, and 1922, page 31. 2) January 20, 1921, Morgenblatt.

2) Here, this fact is simply admitted!

indeed through the action of Mr. Gömbös, who as a member of the Legislation must certainly have all consequences thoroughly considered beforehand.
has, which resulted from a public discussion about this question could result in."

Regarding the public discussion about the activity of a
The consequences that could arise for the "Humanitarian League" are not entirely clear.
understand. But we already know what this humanity is all about.
The implied threat was not empty.

The Hungarian lodges had indeed been dissolved, but there had been little Dismiss lower and middle-ranking officials who were Freemasons, but Many internationally supported brothers also ventured into this territory.
The government did not approach. Thus, 3. B., the Grand Master, Brother...
Gottlob Ran, still head of the coal central bank, the depu–
Grand Master Brother Koloman von Bakonyi (actually Samuel) Breuer still holds the second-highest judicial position today. In Masons naturally seized all levers of power in Be–
A movement has been set in motion to bring the Hungarian government to its knees.
The "La–" reports on this with disarming matter-of-factness.
tomia" aa O.:

"In their distress, the Hungarian Bır-. turned to the North American Grand Lodges. The consequence of this was that, when Hungary wanted to take out a loan in America, from there the The answer came that a bond could only be considered if in Hungary has restored the legal framework (!), whereby a unmistakable indication of the unlawful robbery- The Hungarian lodges were involved in the training. Thereupon, he found himself... the Hungarian government was forced to deal with the former Grand Master to get in touch and at least give him permission to Resumption of work is being considered, but only on the condition that every layperson could have access. This was naturally rejected by the Grand Master (1), and the bond It didn't happen.

This sign of the times speaks volumes: it indicates that it is of it depends on the Freemasons (that they are Jewish, we know) whether America as a state undertakes an international action or No. And that's known in Hungary and – in Leipzig!

Pressure was also exerted from other sides, one after the other. Thus reported the September 1922 issue of the "Vienna Freemasons". Newspaper from Italy: "In a circular, after the 'Bauhütte' Grandmaster Torrigiani with that on fine Berane

---

1) January 20, 1921, Morgenblatt.

The application was unanimously adopted in Geneva. consequently the governments of the free countries represented there⸗ Masonic powers,) insofar as they exert pressure on the present to exercise the duties of a watchman in Hungary, in a position to free himself, in favor the unjustly (of course) suppressed “symbolic “Grand Lodge of Hungary” should use.”

This completely resolves Hungary's difficult global political situation. characterized by its nationalist (anti-Semitic and anti-Freemasonry) views. (rerifchen) attitude because Hungary is being attacked by the entire Jewish community⸗ The world press insulted him; therefore, a world press was already founded in 1920. Attempts were made to stage a boycott.

Hopefully, everything else will be in vain as well. The lines of the The forces behind global politics are clear, as clear as one can be. can only demand.

---

1) Note the wording: according to this, the “Masonic powers” the governments have been appointed!

XIX.
Revolutionary Freemasonry in Russia.

Russia is, so to speak, a textbook example of how, through the Politics may have destroyed Freemasonry. can be; because Freemasonry probably found a home in Russia⸗ willing acceptance and only their political and revolutionary be⸗ Aspirations that did not even shy away from murder led to their violent oppression.

It is claimed that even Peter the Great was a Freemason. that had been. However, this has not been proven in any way and is based on ver⸗ For various reasons, this is also unlikely. However, it may well be Even towards the end of his reign – he died in 1725 – he was a Freemason. lodges in Russia and Poland. In 1743, as we know the Freemasonic “Bauhütte” (1909, No. 5, p. 34) reports that The Petersburg lodge suppressed and those "who continue it". would be threatened with slavery.” Among the secret connections At that time, the Rosicrucians and the Strict Observance took over the first rank. On the first origin of the Rosicrucians and their Secrets of the Elixir of Life and the Philosopher's Stone can not discussed in detail here; the “Strict Observance” Despite widespread denial, Freemasonry is part of it, and its... The main principle of unconditional obedience has also proven itself. inherited from the Swedish teaching method, whose most important representative was the "Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Germany" is.

The heyday of Freemasonry in Russia falls within the period Catherine II, the great Empress, who certainly was not skilled in the trade who had risen to the level of Phryne was favorably disposed towards her and therefore natu very soon surrounded by Freemasons, just like the Emperor Joseph II. The “Building Lodge” (1862) has the following delightful information about it. to tell a story that accurately describes the conditions at the time⸗ illustrates: The Empress once asked the Minister of Police who because he would actually be at the top of Freemasonry. This ant⸗ He said: "I know the boss very well; when His Majesty commands, he shall..." "He must be here immediately!" The Empress asked in surprise where he had come from. Do you know this? "How could I not know it, when I myself am too "I belong to this society!" "So I am completely against you Freemasons." "surrounded," replied the Tsarina laughing, "may the executioner take you all!"

Around this time, 145 lodges were already operating in the country. which is credible when one considers that besides the Russian The state lodge under Prince Trubetzkoi still had a Swedish pro⸗ vincial general under Prince Gagarin and also an English one

The provincial lodge existed under Elagin. Freemasonry was fashionable. It has become a thing. Working on oneself, self-improvement. of the individual, the true act of charity towards those who are truly suffering had been lost to many bricklayers; revelry and extravagant meals were a thing of the past. Follies supplanted all serious activity. People were indiscriminately... Admitted to the order, often it was merely for the sake of the fees, And finally, there was almost no one left in St. Petersburg who "He did not belong to any lodge," assures Court Councillor Rein. beck. !) Yes, even coachmen and servants erected boxes and advertised Members for members!

To make matters worse, the king himself burst into this company. All swindlers and con artists included, Josef Balsamo. Those However, he quickly abandoned his fragrant name after he had... His hometown of Palermo, where he was imprisoned for brawling, forgery and piracy. Pelei had a criminal record and turned his back on her; he now called himself⸗ more Count Cagliostro and roamed with his wife, the “beautiful Lorenza”, all of Europe, to aristocratic stupidity— heads of both sexes into the secrets of the “Egyptian Free” to inaugurate the Masonic lodge. Ladies' lodges were founded, where the beautiful Lorenza wielded the hammer while she was in the gentlemen's boxes, ghosts conjured and sold elixirs of life, and if this business did not She wanted to go further, “using the charms of her body to help.” And Her Joseph? He was now walking again with the ladies in a rather peculiar manner. Ways to perfect the human race?

This was now even known to Empress Catherine, who certainly not distinguished by particular moral strictness, too great and they did what only a woman, and a clever woman at that, did in a in such a case she will do: She made the poor, plundered victims of Count Cagliostro and his beautiful Lorenza ridiculous and poured out the whole bowl of her scorn on this company; She wrote satirical comedies in which she portrayed the "imposter" and He mercilessly scourged his "deluded" followers. That in this Freemasonry, too, was not treated particularly well.

1) Quoted in . Dr. Emil Friedrichs' “Freemasonry in Russia and Poland”, p. 39. — = Friedrichs, ibid., p. 42. — On Cagliostro’s deceptions is Freemasonry is partly to blame insofar as the then Grand Administrator, Brother... Duke of Luxembourg⸗Montmorency the establishment of a mother lodge of the Egyptians⸗ Table Freemasonry has been expressly approved by N. Cagliostro; See "Wr. Fr. Z.", 1919, issue 6/7, p. 7 is understandable, especially from the noble, purely human side of the king⸗ There is no longer any real art to be seen in Petersburg, at least. and could be felt.

Then came the French Revolution (1789). In general terms The Freemasons were described as its originators and masterminds, an accusation whose validity is questioned by today's Freemasons, so unless they are blind or pretend to be blind without further ado admitting it and have to admit it. Katharina was an understanding and pre-Visible woman; she did not examine for too long, nor did she too carefully, she had had enough of what she herself had seen and what had happened elsewhere, in short, she left all the lodges in Russia They closed without exception at the beginning of 1794. Soon after, on November 17th... She died in November 1796.

Paul I, Catherine's son, was himself a Freemason. The Lodges⸗ The brothers therefore expected him to lift the ban and By all appearances, it was going to come to that. Paul called and did He gathered the Freemasons together and consulted with them in In a fraternal manner, what should now happen. After the conclusion of the Be⸗ During the council, he embraced each of them in the Masonic manner and gave him the Masonic handshake. But suddenly a a renewed ban, which is also being enforced with the utmost rigor. was. The reason for this rapid change of mood was never revealed. once completely clarified. It's possible that during the review one might The files contained information that made Freemasonry difficult to understand. burdened. Shortly afterwards, Paul I was attacked by some of the great figures of the The rich man was murdered "because his despotism was unbearable".

His son and successor Alexander I was after the stuff⸗ (in the "building lodge"!) himself a Freemason and also stood with the Murderers in connection (). Br.. Dr. Friedrichs denies all⸗ Although he denies his membership in the Freemasons, he admits that he was friendly towards him. Alexander initially tolerated that the lodges resumed their activities, and later, in the year In 1810, he explicitly recognized them. Once again, the previous ones belonged to… Circles accept the Freemason lodges, the best men soot-They could count other countries among their own. We find them in the lodge lists. also Prince Ypfilanti, the well-known champion of Greeks⸗ land's freedom, the minister Count Razumovsky, a prince Hohenlohe, as well as the poet and Russian State Councillor Kotzebue.?)

---

1) “Bauhütte” of January 30, 1909, No. 5, pp. 34, 35.

) Read the long descriptions of the in Tolstoy's "War and Peace". Masonry, to which a main person, Count Pierre Besuchow, had devoted himself.

But soon Alexander I became afraid of his “brothers”, who continued to increase; the alliance was far too influential for him and had become far too powerful. In addition, the newly formed Grand Lodge "Astraea" provided entry to the French-Scottish high degrees, which is synonymous with the introduction of high politics into the Lodge life was.

Alexander I therefore issued a strict decree on August 6, 1822.
out, through which all secret societies, including the Freemason lodges were banned. The justification given was...
It is said that the unrest and disorder were only caused by secret societies would be created, some of which are under the Names of Freemason lodges initially only for the purpose of welfare⸗
Some pursued their activities, while others secretly engaged in political activities.
opportunities to occupy themselves. At the same time, all public services should be-Officials should openly declare whether they belonged to a Freemason lodge;
If the answer was yes, they had to promise in writing to immediately... to register one's resignation or to leave the service. The main⸗
The most objective concern was precisely the double oath: an official who Being sworn to a lodge, one could and occasionally had to contradicted his oath of office.

It has already been pointed out several times that the Free⸗ bricklayers create political aid societies for their own protection or to at least participate strongly in such things: For example, in Italy the Car⸗ bonari, in Portugal the Constitutionals, later the Freethinkers⸗ society and the "White Ant"; in Turkey the "Committee
"for progress and truth," etc. Exactly the same Erjdei-
We also find nung in Russia. There they worked on the "Association for the Public Good", whose main purpose is the
The removal of the ruler was the latter.
This fact is confirmed by Brother Friedrichs.!) He says, among other things, about the situation at that time:

"A further ban was issued in 1826."
by Nicholas, which was actually superfluous, since the lodges didn't even more existed. It was caused by the conspiracy of Decembrists, those December men of the year 1825, who went to The implementation of their ideals does not take into account the most real of all things Murders, they recoiled. The conspiracy was discovered. On Its leaders included Pestel, Prince Sergei Trubetskoy, and Nikita Muravev.
Sergei Muravev⸗Apostol, Prince Khakovskoy, Bestushev, all of them
They were Freemasons." This fact is especially evident⸗

1) Friedrichs: Freemasonry in Russia and Poland, p. 52, Franz Publishing House Miracle, Berlin.

They maintain: All the conspirators were Freemasons! At the same time, however...
They were all, moreover, the heads of that revolutionary "League".
of the public good", which, as Friedrichs himself pursues, for the purpose of⸗ leading their ideals in the face of reality, in the face of assassination, did not shy away. Friedrichs explicitly emphasizes that the

The conviction of the criminals did not occur "because they Freemasons, but because they are the heads of the "League of the Open".
"For the good of the people." As the Serbian bomber said... and Freemason Gabrinovic? “In Freemasonry it is “permitted to kill” and “Franz Ferdinand was killed by the Free⸗ "Masons sentenced to death." That's the unvarnished truth.
Truth; Cabrinovic, the “man of the people”, is indeed one Murder, but incapable of lying.

Since 1826, nothing more has been heard of Freemasonry in Russia. Other secret societies emerge and seek to...
to achieve their “ideal” goals through bomb attacks, etc.;
Significantly, Jews are always involved in these matters:
This was the instigator of the great bombing of the Winter Palace.
the Tsar's Jew Hartmann; in the bombing on March 13, 1881, the day in which Tsar Alexander II was killed, was the date of the attack the Jewish woman Jesse Helfmann; the city commandant Trepow was murdered by the Jewess Vera Sassulitsch; the murderer of Ruffi–
The Minister of the Interior, Szipjagin, was a Jew named Bogo⸗ lepom!) etc.

However, since the revolution of 1905, a change has been taking place in the Freemasonry is once again showing more active participation in the events in Noticeable within Russia. Primarily, it is Freemasonry.
“Acacia”, who lets her emotions run wild and takes us through Her openness is truly astonishing:

“All Republicans and all the more so all French Free French”
Bricklayers must harbor fervent wishes for the imminent Triumph of the Russian Revolution.") That this revo⸗
The brothers G. and AL are seeking to prove that the solution was a work of the Freemasons Butmi in her two-volume book to demonstrate: “The Jews Freemasonry and the Revolution. The Free⸗
"mason and treason.") "What a great role the Jews played and still play roles in the Russian Revolution,
"It is known," the Jew Comrade Bernstein chases into the "Socialist"

1) Cf. Berlin, dated March 3, 1904.
AL Acacia', April 1905, No. 28, p. 253 ff.
®) Published in 1905 and 1906 in St. Petersburg. Incidentally, the author to be recorded with caution.

(The monthly magazines). But back then the Russian people Apparently not yet ready for the blessings of a revolution and the pious wishes of the "Acacia" therefore did not go into Fulfillment. In contrast, Freemasonry has recently attempted to...

to obtain legal recognition from the Russian government.
Minister Stoljipin, however, remained steadfast and refused to be swayed even by assassina Those originating from "unknown" sources should not intimidate. In the
The rejection notice is rightly said: The charity⸗
The goals of Freemasonry can also be quite well described by open Reaching companies that are under government supervision:
The political goals of Freemasonry, however, have changed since Beginning of the last century, when lodges were banned in Russia have not changed in the slightest. Very true; the Minister Stoljipin, who (fic) in no way intimidates who was not a pushover, like so many of our state leaders.
men of today and yesterday, was born on September 14, 1911⸗ murdered. Who was the murderer? — The Russian Jew Herschko — witsch Begrow, called Dimitry Motel; he had understood, infiltrated the Russian secret police and shot the Prime Minister Stolyipin at the theater in the presence of the Tsar.”

Anyone who may have hoped to gain advantages from the murder, that left to the reader's imagination.

The Prince SM Wolkonsky — a typical representative of the Russian liberal aristocracy — has in fine memories fine .
A conversation in 1896 with an American went as follows:
reproduced:

During the conversation, he casually asked me if I had been reading for a long time.
I will stay in America. I replied that I would be crowned... would have to travel (of Tsar Nicholas II).

"Well, these things won't last much longer."

— Why? —

“Are you a Freemason?”

- Pure -

"Well, in that case..."

Never have I felt so strongly that I was afraid of something.
had touched familiar, heavy and monstrous things.”

When the great international
The scoundrel, the Jew Kolonno-Berlinsky, was arrested, seized the International Jewry is taking all measures for its liberation.
Special envoys of the Grand Orient de France were sent to ) Quoted in the "Hamburger Nachrichten" of March 3, 1906.

3) “The Secrets of the Elders of Zion”. p. 63.

St. Petersburg. However, their mission was not successful– crowns, and the Jewish adventurer did not escape punishment. The The lodge brothers were outraged and expressed their displeasure upon departure. her Russian acquaintances:

"The devil take Russia! In your dirty land (dans)
"There aren't even any Freemasons in your country!"

Already with the Russian-English understanding (1906/07) a purposeful, Masonic lodge work, which according to Stoljipin's Murder experienced a massive increase: throughout Russia Lodges were founded that promoted the idea of an unconditional affiliation with the Masonic states of England, France and Italy was represented with all determination. As an important link, Serbia was inserted into this Masonic chain. Germany was considered now considered a mortal enemy, its distancing from Russia was enforced by operated systematically on the Masonic side; ') could not be without justification Therefore, one of the main culprits is the Freemason Brother... Count Is-Wolski, speaking of the World War as "his" war!

The overthrow of Tsar Nicholas II on February 28, 1917 is also a work of the Russian Freemasons with the assistance of their English and French Freemasons. The government took over. First, the Freemason Brother... Prince Lviv, who was later... Freemason Br.. Rerenski, a half-Jew, was replaced.")

---

1) See “Der Weltkampf” No. 2, 1924.
2) See “Germany on Trial”, Südd. Monatshefte, 17th sabes. 3rd issue, p. 218.
) See “The Mysteries of the Elders of Zion”, 10th edition.

XX.
The revolutionary Freemasons of the English.

English Freemasonry is fundamentally different in one essential point:

differed from those in other countries; it does not appear revolutionary. towards its own state itself, but on the contrary developed into an institution that serves the state wherever it is needed provides them where needed, in order to serve in foreign countries To encourage revolutionary activities.

English Freemasonry, as it is known in the "United Grand Lodge" embodied by England, he presents himself as the most powerful Freemason. organization of the world; however, it is numerically represented by the Freemasonry in the United States of North America has been surpassed,

However, it lacks internal cohesion, since each state has its own,
It owns a completely independent Grand Lodge.

London alone, according to the 1918 figures, counted no less than 729 lodges; in addition, there are 1749 lodges in the provinces and 677 in the colonies and abroad; furthermore, there are in England
46 Provincial Grand Lodges, and 30 District Grand Lodges in India, Australia, South Africa and other colonies, as well as Argentina, Japan and China. As intermediary authorities, so to speak, between the lodges.
and Provincial, or District, Grand Lodges do not exist less than 1067 chapters, of which 256 work in London alone, while in the provinces 620, in the colonies and abroad 191 chapters are active. Finally, the high number of... is striking.
Teaching lodges, of which there were 286 in London, but in the provinces 345.)

These figures naturally correspond to something quite extraordinary⸗ a very high number of brothers; during the World War it jumped⸗
The number of people imprisoned rose rapidly and by 1922 already amounted to around 450,00
the lodge members in the colonies and abroad were included are, insofar as they are subject to the "United Grand Lodge of England".
The 1926 census yielded: 5536 lodges and 351320 brothers.

This precise information is necessary so that one can get a approximate concept of the scope and significance of the narrow⸗ can do lysian Freemasonry. It should be expressly noted that the 50,000 brothers in Scotland are subject to their own Grand Lodge, Likewise, the 18,000 Irish brethren who belong to the Grand Lodge of Ireland in Dublin.

5) See C. v. Dahlens “Calendar for Freemasons”, Leipzig 1922.
2) According to Dahlen's calendar 1926.

The Grand Master of the "United Grand Lodge of England" is the Duke of Connaught, the same one to whom the Masonic Day was once awarded.
The newspaper "Vilag" in Ofenpeſt often paid homage to him as the King of Hungary.
would have. The Duke of Connaught is the brother of "the greatest Freemasons of the World”, the late King Edward VII.
Since Edward VII is the father of the idea of the cinderella, so it is indicated, with a few strokes, to sketch the position which he gained a foothold in Freemasonry. King Edward VII.
according to the English Freemasons' calendar in 1868
It was received in Stockholm, and indeed it was presented by the King of Sweden admitted to Freemasonry; he had been a member since 1874.

1st Grand Master of the "United Grand Lodge of England".
Furthermore, in 1900, while still a Prince of Wales, the following Masonic dignities and titles:

2. Grand Principal Zo robabel, i.e. he was the chief of the highest General Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons in England:

3rd Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Mark Master Masons in London;

4. Grand Patron of the Supreme Council of 33rd in London;

5. “Sovereign of the Order” of the Grand Priory (of the Templars) in the United Kingdom;

1 Patron of the Grand Lodge of Scotland;

7. “Sovereign” of the “General Chapter of the religious and military” "Tarian Order of the Temple in Scotland";

8. Hereditary Grand Master of the — allegedly — 1314 by King Robert Bruce restored Royal Order of Scotland “Heredom of Kilwining and RSYCS”; finally

9. Patron of the Grand Lodge of Ireland. — Why this? Counting? Couldn't one just as easily list one's other titles there? and dignities? — In most cases, this involves neither for pompous titles without substance nor for mere honors without power. The Prince of Wales and later King of England⸗ The land, Edward VII, is not to be compared with those princes and Kings who led a mere sham existence in the life of Freemasons and not infrequently met with derision and scorn from their “brothers”⸗ were poured; Edward VII was not among those crowned Heads who were only nominally given high honors, without any real distinction to initiate them into the secrets; he was not one of those princes, for whom, instead of awarding them the real highest degrees, a invented a special ritual from which everything had been eradicated. which might have aroused her suspicion: Edward VII in short.

was truly a "knowledgeable" person; he didn't just have the titles and (Worship, but also the power that goes with it.)

As a rule, the English king is merely a figurehead, a A shadow king without influence, for since 1689 the epitome of Power in the English Parliament, which actually governs and all exercises rights on behalf of the people. Edward VII, however, possessed the full extent of power, but not as King of England, Scotland and Ireland, but as supreme leader of the Free⸗ Freemasonry, to which all other Freemasons liked it, now Minister or be parliamentarians, lords, or citizens, subject to them. How But is this compatible with the principles of freedom and equality? The values to which Freemasons everywhere profess their beliefs? — Open Clearly not at all! But I also find these principles merely enticing. A figurehead for the "sweet rabble", in reality they consist of in Freemasonry just as little as in the Masonic French Republic.

It has already been emphasized elsewhere that in England even more so than elsewhere, everything that possesses name and rank, of the⸗ But they also encompass everything that strives forward and to get out. will, who belongs to Freemasonry. The English high nobility — at the First, the members of the royal family — then the ministers, the parliamentarians, stockbrokers, bank directors, shipowners and naval officers, merchants, newspapermen, lawyers, clergymen, Of course, the Chief Rabbi and so on, everyone, absolutely everyone is in England. Freemasons.

Now, it is said that the English Freemasons did not engage in any such activities. Politics. That's true to a certain extent; neither the Freemasons, as such, and the lodges, pursue a policy in the sense of their French, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese and Hungarian Russian brothers: their government takes care of politics, but the English Freemasons of the whole world find, so to speak, their fulltraction organs. That's what the famous phrase means: "The Britain's greatness is the work of the Freemasons!?) They Everyone, consciously and unconsciously, works in the spirit of Chamberlain. favor of British world domination. The influence of a half a million active people who through secret and are chained together by mysterious bonds, It cannot be valued highly enough: One Edward VII, as Prince of Wales, has the Austrian Crown Prince Rudolf was introduced to Freemasonry. — His Masonic activity will Now also admitted by "secular" sources. See the introduction by Farrer: "Euro-

---

“Panic politics under Edward VII.”
2) “The Freemason's Chronicle”, 1902, I, p. 319.

supports and guides the other and the "chain of brothers"

spans the entire globe, and on top of that, the Mit⸗ help of the Brr .. all other nations everywhere assured fine can. It is the English lodge publications themselves that assure us that the good ones

Relations between England and the United States are essential⸗ were greatly promoted through close fraternal cooperation⸗ Lish and American Freemasons. “)

The extremely strong growth of English colonialism also The ownership over the last fifty years is not based in the slightest on this. Partly based on the active assistance of the Freemasons. Just consider, which acquisitions did Great Britain make in South Africa alone has! The prerequisite for this increase in power, indeed the foundation. of English world domination in general, of imperialism in the sense

A Chamberlain is precisely what the English themselves emphasize. English Freemasonry.

But there's something else to consider. Wherever you find yourself in a When unrest began to break out in the country, England was eager to... to incite these disturbances and to enrich the rebels with money⸗ to support this. This has already been done by Germany's largest state–

The man, Bismarck, with a sharp eye clearly surveyed: “Strangers

Threatening states with the help of revolution has been a common practice nowadays for som “For quite a number of years, the trade of England.” Who Until Anyone who might not accept Marck's testimony should be reminded of this: that the Italian Prime Minister, Br. Salandra, on April 3 1916, on the occasion of a visit by the English Prime Minister,

Brother Asquith himself recalled those services which at that time the English Prime Ministers Gladstone and Palmerston of the Italian Revo– had achieved a solution. What role did the Buxton brothers play in the Balkan games are so well known that one cannot rely on them. needs to be discussed in more detail. Likewise, the revolutionary cause was in Portugal, Brazil, China, Persia, etc., from England. equipped with funds. But what does that have to do with the freedom? What does bricklaying have to do? A great deal. These days, you can't do anything without A revolution is even less likely to happen than ever before. That The first thing the revolutionaries need is money, money and

More money. But to whom can they turn without risk? If they are Freemasons – and that is the rule, because the Freemasonry nowadays forms a kind of mutual insurance company. Defense against arrest and execution – that's all they need. to place her feet at a right angle and to enlist the help of her brothers to call. The rest then takes place with the same regularity.

---

1) “The Freemason's Chronicle”, 1901, II, p. 135.

The precision and accuracy of an order handed over to the post office in Peaceful times. The Freemason recommends his brother to return. to a Freemason and so on. Secrecy is truly paramount here. It's a matter of honor, because no brother should ever betray the other, especially since Outrage and rebellion are not considered Masonic offenses. So og: Is the mere wish of the rebels sufficient to obtain knowledge of a A Freemason who sits in the government, and if there is any halfway prospect If success is insisted upon, then financial assistance will be granted. It causes no further difficulties; the English are native English speakers. Merchants and excellent arithmetic masters, they therefore knew very exactly, that they repeatedly cover their costs with interest and interest⸗ They bring in interest. And above all – they are generous. In The English budget contains an expenditure item of colossal size, about which a finance minister has never been informed by a member of parliament An clarification was requested. This is the famous account E, for that 5 million pounds sterling are spent annually. Those who initially have access to these sums are also eligible. known as: The “Agitation Office for the Realization of Political Goals”; This includes supporting revolutionary movements abroadland as well as the organization and execution of political Assassinations. We also know where this strange, all over the place... The world's only existing office has its seat in: London, Southend, Hamptoncourt Street 112. From this Agitation Office – according to a very credible report published by the "Hessian State- has received the funds from the newspaper about Copenhagen. positioned, which was involved in the murder of the French socialistlist leader Jaurès, when at the Russian minister Count Witte needed them. Those [items] probably also came from the same source of funds. Sums used for the assassination attempts on the King of Bulgarien, on Sir Roger Casement (through the English envoy) Findlay in Christiania) and perhaps also in the murder in Sarajevo were claimed. In any case, it is very besignifying that at the head of this branch of the Agitation Office – one might say the "murder squad" – a certain major Susley Honn, of whom it is attested that he was with Major Br.. Tankosie, the known instigator of the Archduke's murder Franz Ferdinand, continued relations.

The suspension of head prizes is also very noteworthy.

One case has already been mentioned earlier, namely that in 1870 the Parisians Lodge “Henri IV.” on the head of King William of Prussia and the Crown Prince set a price of one million francs– sedte;t) the Mazzini committees, as is well known, worked in Italy (with the same means?) But Br... Lord Kitchener did the same.

responsible for the assassination of the Turkish Minister of the Interior, Talaat Pasha, a price of 20,000 pounds sterling (500,000 crowns)
(exposed.s) This fact was revealed in the conspiracy trial of Kon≠ Stantinople expressly established this. Nevertheless, it was Br... Kitchener of the "United Grand Lodge in England" as Model Freemasons celebrated; the mass murders of Boer women and children in the notorious concentration camps of South Africa
In the eyes of the English Freemasons, he had just as little As damaging as recruiting assassins! What does it consist of?
then another difference between the Serbian murder—boys and the English Freemasons?

English Freemasonry, therefore, was initially directed neither against her own state was not directed against the monarchy.
It was not directed against the nobility, nor against the Church. It had already been saic
It was emphasized that the "United Grand Lodge of England" is one of the first was the one that had all ties to the “Grand Orient de France” broke off the practice when he abolished the World Architect symbol in 1877.
Relationships were also strained, despite numerous efforts to improve them in French.
on the other side, it was not restored until the outbreak of the World War.
because English Freemasons require belief in God, if They also include the religious confession of the free conviction of the one–
They can leave it to individuals. But against the nobility, they can already do so for tha do not occur because a large part of the high and low nobility... belongs to the ranks and often holds the decisive positions. Thus ijt the deputy of the Grand Master Duke of Connaught, who
The well-known Lord Ampthill, the assigned Grand Master, is the Baronet Thomas Frederick Halsey.

So what position does Freemasonry occupy? It is preserving the state and at the same time actively promoting the English world domination; for precisely this reason it acts the corrosive and destructive towards other states, insofar as they to take a negative stance towards English imperialism. From Republican leanings or aspirations are virtually nonexistent in her case.
Nothing to feel. This is simply explained by the fact that... that England has been a republic since 1689, albeit a republic with a king at the head, or – to put it another way – a parliamentary monarchy. Do they like the king?

1) See also p. 78. 9) See p. 95.

e) Regarding England's involvement in the assassination of Talaat Pasha, see the interesti Writing by Dr. M. Rifat: “The Secret of the Assassination of Talaat Pasha.”

If not, they always have the option of dismissing him or the to drive away the entire dynasty, just as they drove out the Stuarts back then⸗ have blown.

The bond that connects the state and Freemasonry in England so closely intertwined is the common goal and the common... seed of advantage. The Freemasons strive for world domination—
The British state also strives for world domination;
The advantage of Freemasonry is related to the advantages of the English
The state is closely intertwined; the well-being and woe of one part.
ijt synonymous with the rise and fall of the other. That This means that the working methods of both also differ in many respects.
exhibits a striking similarity. Both work with Slogans designed to mislead the masses. It
There is no "equality" in Freemasonry; the fact that the Be⸗
The highest grades are missing without contradiction from the lower grades.
The fact that one must listen is a bloody mockery of the much-vaunted equality.
There is also no freedom; the strict censorship that the publishers
The brothers' decisions are subject to this, which stands in stark contrast to... that freedom they always talk about. Like the fight against the “tyranny”, against the “barbarism”, against oppression⸗
We have already discussed how it is led and by what means it is led.
I've seen this in numerous examples. Exactly the same keywords were used.
But the English state also takes action; it too fights for the "Liberation" of the small "oppressed" nations, he fights against the “tyranny” of the Central Powers, against the “barbarism”, He is, of course, fighting for "justice and humanity".
and civilization." The same applies to the catchphrase "Ge⸗". justice”. “Justice towards all nations” is the
A motto publicly issued by Freemasonry, in In reality, however, it transforms into the greatest injustice.
compared to the Germans. The Press Brother: Northeiffes was no
No means too bad, no lie too big, no dissembling too low, to use them.

The Freemason uses [this] to achieve his own goals.
his “brothers”, whom he puts forward and has work for him; the Ideally suited Germans perhaps less so, in order to be more practically Thinking Englishmen. England's Po⸗ used the same means.
Litik has always existed, and especially during the World War. All states, with whom it was on friendly terms or even just loose relations—

Relationships maintained were, where possible, drawn into the war. forced. Think of Portugal, of the small Central American countries. Canadian states, such as Guatemala, Coftarica, etc. One might think to Sapan, to Liberia, and to those powers which, like Brafilien, were compelled were to break off relations with the Central Powers. By their own colonial states Canada, South Africa, East India and Not to mention Australia entirely. But by whom were these states created? Determined to their hostile attitude? Perhaps through the English The government itself? That would have been a wasted effort. There we would... which the Freemasons put into action, first and foremost self-evident⸗ especially their own Grand Lodges, both in the colonies and abroad. And the thirty English District Grand Lodges in India, Australia, South Africa and the other colonies, then those in Argen⸗ China, Japan, and China have certainly fulfilled their obligations to the fullest extent. Measures were taken; they achieved what the English government considered such would have been unattainable. And the 677 English lodges Abroad, there are indeed enormous accomplices; if one counts every lodge With an average of only 100 lodge brothers, that's an army of 67,000 schemers, known for their agility and liveliness The Freemasons' ability to exert an extraordinary influence must be able to do so, especially when they receive similar instructions. from the side of the headquarters, the "United Grand Lodge of England", received. And now, even more so, their influence on the brothers of the others. States and nationalities. This had been taken care of in good time. borne that foreign rulers and powerful personalities the Freemasons were incorporated: So said the Brother... Sultan of Zanzibar, the Brotherhood of the Emir of Afghanistan, the Brotherhood of the Sultan of Zar Johore, the Japanese statesman Brother Viscount Hayasi, and one hundred Others; they belong to English lodges, others enjoy as Visiting brothers were granted the hospitality of the English lodges. It was already pointed out that the total number of Freemasons is at the total number of people on the whole earth is 3,855,000, and of these, barely 100,000 a can be seen as German or German-friendly. The remaining 37/10 million of the profits were partly in the enemy camp from the outset, In part, they were achieved through the tenacious and purposeful work of the Freemasons. of the enemy states, some of whom participated in the world events played absolutely no part.

They went to great lengths to clarify to whom Germany and Austria actually owed it to one To face a world of enemies. The silliest, most simple-minded ones. One has fallen prey to the most absurd and meaningless explanations and interpretations; t The nearest one was overlooked because (fic) only a few knew about the nature, formed an opinion on the scope and significance of Freemasonry had, and the voices of these few amidst the clamor of the far too many. had to go unheard. But here lies the true

Solution to the riddle: The summoning of such a vast number of enemies
It can be completely explained from one point: From the world around≠ exciting, all-encompassing Freemasonry, in whose England has been marching at the top for two centuries.

The external strengthening of Great Britain was also reflected in the Masonic power structure. To symbolize the "victors", the construction of a new lodge temple was decided upon and the sum fixed at 1 million pounds, i.e. 20 million gold marks.
To celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Duke's Grand Mastership Connaught then found a new home at the Olympia in London at the beginning of August.
In 1925 a huge event took place, attended by 7000 guests, including the Duke of York, i.e., the king's second son,
The Provincial Grand Master of the Lodge of Middlesex is. King George sent from his yacht a telegram in which he informed the assembled 7000
Maurer greeted them and wished them the best of luck.

Thus, not only will the "invisible temple" rise higher.
not only will he not escape, but he will also appear more visibly than until now.

Not least among these is the work of the English Freemasons.
long before the war, both Jewish high finance had been involved!
Both Great Britain and the mainland have been supported. As thanks For this purpose, Edward VII had granted baronet titles to Jewish financiers and Since then, Jewish influence has become dominant in England.
London has had five Jewish mayors since 1900, Palestine, India has purely Jewish administrations, Queensland has a Jewish one Governor, New South Wales has as President and Vice President Parliament's two Jews (upon!) England's politics without that Trying to understand Judaism is completely impossible. But the
The signs of the times point to stormy weather for England today. It is becoming clear.
today also for this world state, that one cannot go unpunished to the master≠
The company is being placed in the hands of wealthy, alien conspirators.
Jewish Freemasons, having risen to almost absolute power, have has already chosen a new patron saint: the United States from North America. While in 1920 still Br... Balfour to celebrate of the day of San Remo (which gave Zionist Palestine under (British protectorate) could say, England and the Jews had embarked on a great cause; they were comrades.
in this company; while Br... Robert Cecil the peoples≠ the alliance and the Palestine Mandate were the only fruits that had been achieved with

---

1) See all further details in the document, which is rich in documentary evidence.
by Alfred Rosenberg: “Anti-State Zionism”. Hamburg 1922, which also to reconcile with the World War to some extent, that already tears the The Zionist leader, Chaim Weizmann, traveled from city to city and He said that "dark forces" were at work in England, which were working against the Jews were working. They had to be rendered harmless. The The Jewish viceroy spoke of the inarticulate sounds of the Indian of the people, whom he wanted to give expression to... In the Orient it ripens a Greater Mohammedan movement is approaching. The new Emir of Afghanistan had appointed Ansang as its English representative before the 1922 The entire people were dismissed. Mustapha Kemal Pasha raised the Banner of liberation; in Egypt, the uprising is only just being averted. Tamed. The British world empire is crumbling at the seams. And the Jews, to whom it has brought power and wealth, are sailing Today, a different course already.
The following quotes are taken from this source.

English Freemasonry created England's greatness. Good. But she has also affected England – as will become clear – in This has brought about the most serious domestic and foreign policy difficulties. Because British politics after 1918 was no longer English, but purely Jewish in their entire relationship to Germany, Russia and the Orient.

21st century

Monarchical-Republican Freemasonry in Germany.

The somewhat peculiar superstition in the hallway is refuted by the facts themselves. justified.

As long as the monarchy existed, the three Old Prussian rulers allowed it Lodges offering homage to the ruling house were certainly not missing. No occasion passed without one more or less enthusiastic expression of devotion directed to the emperor would have been. Numerous lodges already express this through their names. loyal to the state and monarchist sentiments; we find lodges there. such as: “Friedrich zur askanischen Treue” (in Ballenstedt a. H.), “Wil"helm to East Prussian loyalty" (Bartenstein), "Friedrich Wilhelm “To the Dawn” (Berlin), “Friedrich Wilhelm to the Crowned Ge"Justice" (Berlin), "Friedrich to Justice" (Berlin), "Friedrich Wilhelm zum eifernen Kreuz” (Bonn), “Luife zur gekrönten Schönheit“ (Charlottenburg), „Wilhelm zur radihlenden Gerechtigkeit“ (Kulm⸗Schwetz), “Friedrich Leopold zur Morgenröte” (Görlitz), "Loyal and steadfast to Hohenzollern" (Magdeburg), "Friedrich Wilhelm “To truth and loyalty” (Rathenow), “Prince of Prussia to the three swords” (Solingen), “Hohenzollern” (Wiesbaden) etc. etc.

Most of the aforementioned lodges, to which dozens more with similar names exist…
The names that could be placed alongside include the “Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Germany” (in Berlin).

Yes, was it even possible to participate in the strictly monarchical Cha⸗
Do any member of the old Prussian lodges doubt for even a moment?
Weren't hundreds of German officers members of the Freemasonry? Didn't over 2000 brothers join Freemasonry during the World War?
Deserves the Iron Cross? Isn't that something one typically receives in Freemason circles?
The Old Prussian lodges were repeatedly accused
They made it happen, they courted princely favor, because a patron from the king of the same lineage at its head? And do the others have Grand Lodges have not done everything that is reasonably expected of them.
Can this be done? Weren't lectures given, for example, by Br. Bode?
about the "German will to win"? Didn't five

Did the Hamburg lodges alone raise 1000 marks as a submarine donation?
Didn't the German Grand Lodge Congress of 1917 warmly advocate for the Deployed war veterans? Didn't the Grand Lodge of Hamburg... and the Grand Lodge "Zur Sonne" even its relations with the Swiss
The Grand Lodge "Alpina" was dissolved (1916) because it was anti-German.
What stance did he take? And weren't the relations of the Germans...
Grand Lodges among those in enemy countries during the World War Aborted?

Everything is correct; only the last sentence needs a minor correction.
Correction. Only the relations with [the relevant authorities] were broken off.
French and Italian Grand Orient, which belong to the Grand Lodges
The usual hostile countries should simply "rest". (Explanation) (of the German Grand Lodge Day of May 29, 1915.) But what is with the small submarine donation, with the few lectures by Brother Bode and actually proven by the various acts of charity?
What about the telegrams of homage and the lodge names?
Are there no stronger, no more convincing pieces of evidence for the Monarchist sentiment was the only one of the few things that were mentioned?

Even if one approaches the matter with the most open mind.
and the serious endeavor has evidence for the monarchical Ge⸗
To gather and present a reason – one finds none.

The visits that took place between English and Germans in 1913 and 1914
It may be that Freemasons in Berlin and London exchanged information.
at least it can be considered a patriotic act to avert an impending, to prevent all-consuming wars; they were, as is well known, also interpreted differently and not exactly to the advantage of the German Free Freemasonry; proof of monarchist sentiment can be found in it not be seen.

However, we encounter quite un-⸗ at every turn.
pleasing and often downright worrying phenomena, on Statements and actions that would seem strange to any impartial observer must have an effect.

The three old Prussian lodges, that is, the "Grand Mother Lodge" to the three globes", the "Grand Lodge of the Freemasons of Germany" and the "Grand Lodge of Prussia, called "for friendship" (all in Berlin)
As is well known, since Frederick the Great they have had quite a number of Hohenzollern princes were counted among their own.

Frederick the Great himself, however, received in a Hamburgher lodge ("Absalom") the light; into the secret of the lodge
He never succeeded in penetrating, indeed, he never even learned some of the high degrees that soon appeared after his admission (1738) developed and gained ever-increasing importance.

He viewed lodge activities with strong distrust and made its protection repeatedly contingent on the fulfillment of certain conditions⸗ dependent on conditions.

Frederick William III, King of Prussia, received the Light and was later patron of the "Grand Lodge of the Land of Prussia." The secret, purpose, and means of Freemasonry remained Unknown to him throughout his life. By a former grandmaster, the Brother . Count Haug witz, accordingly enlightened, he considered Freemasonry with constant suspicion; but since a number of its the most loyal and reliable officials who entered the lodges, consisted of Initially, there was no significant danger. Emperor Wilhelm J. followed the same advice.
Tactics; when he was still King of Prussia, he had numerous reliable state officials joined the lodges and thereby sought Freemasonry, with its dangerous character as a secret society⸗ to undress. Nevertheless, sharp confrontations soon ensued.
flikten, so that the king in 1864 even granted the lodges the had to threaten closure if they continued to engage in politics⸗ busy! The judgment issued by the "Grand Orient de" is noteworthy.
France" says of Emperor Wilhelm I: He never distinguished himself through distinguished by the earnest fulfillment of fine Masonic duties, Nevertheless, he considered it advantageous to be at the top himself.
to stand by an institution that has such a widespread presence in the World owned.!)

The Freemasons most honor Emperor Frederick III, who as
The Crown Prince was their supreme patron for many years; a larger
A number of lodges are named in his honor. But also this prince⸗
The Freemason was in agreement with the views of his "brothers" in I disagreed with many points and especially wished that...

the order's constitution and statutes would be completely eradicated, something that is in any way offensive, questionable, or historically untenable would be. From the strange secret that is allegedly in the "Federal Government"
The fact that it was guarded "lade" was already mentioned earlier. But all the ver⸗
The princely patron's suggestions for improvement were met with rejection—demonstrative resistance, so that Crown Prince Frederick finally gave up.
forced him to resign the office of Grand Master. All these facts
These certainly do not support the view that German Freemasonry or even just the old Prussian Grand Lodges on a strictly monarchical basis
There are different viewpoints. However, in order to clearly understand the whole situatic To look, it is advisable to seek a higher vantage point that offers a offers a wider field of vision.

1) “Bulletin du Grand-Orient” 1888, p. 131.

German Freemasons are naturally not always so They can talk however they might like. So let's ask... to their friends, the Italian bricklayers, how they talk about the princely⸗ Lichen brothers actually think that Br... Bovio the young Emperor Wilhelm II — in 1892 — considered him to be “seriously ill”,
That proves nothing; many a good German was over it back then.
Bismarck's dismissal was bitterly felt and may have been followed by similar, perhaps ever They used harsher words. Br.. Aurelio Saffi speaks ge⸗ merely expresses the hope that the young (social democratic) Germany soon took the place of the imperial and “fire” “dales” of Germany will appear.!) As the official lodge newspaper, the Rivista della Massoneria Italiana, which was founded by Emperor Wilhelm II provided patronage for the three Old Prussian Grand Lodges, Princes Friedrich Leopold, mocked, may one look there (p. 201) after⸗ (read?) Held here only the very peculiar mourning box of the Italian Freemasons for Emperor Frederick III. At the same time the former revolutionary and later Grand Champion of the Italian
When the Grand Lodge, Petroni, had died, the two were solemnly united.
abilities with each other, in such a way that one can understand the criminal Petroni, who had spent 18 years in prison, was in first place.
I thought of it! A mere lapse in taste? — No, a deliberate one.
Mockery.

And the French brothers? — The same thoughts in a different form.
Version. To them, every monarch is simply a "despot". Between a Caligula and an Emperor Frederick III exist in the one⸗
The rusty thinking of the French is not the slightest difference.
A monarch is a despot, and that's the end of it: "It is a Despots despite all good intentions — he would have to abide to thank — simply impossible, the principles of freedom⸗ Freemasonry with the peculiar morality of "statecraft" ... to to agree. Even Frederick III would not have succeeded in this, despite "His benevolent character." Of course, if one of the highest...

Principles of Freemasonry, the pursuit of the introduction of
If the republic belongs, then the French brothers are completely satisfied.
come right; then a Freemasonic monarch can certainly do nothing.
better things to do than to abdicate as quickly as possible in order to benefit the “sover to make way for the “princely stonemasons”. But whether one shouldn't then will be more justified in complaining about tyranny and despotism

1) Rivista della Massoneria Italiana” 1889, p. 3 ff.
7. Prince Friedrich Leopold, after the coup, abolished all fine Masonic institutions.
"and has withdrawn from the League itself; cf. "Wr. Fr. Z." a “p. 50.

The near future will teach us what we must do. Let's hear what else is in store for us.
the Most Reverend Brother A. Pike, 33, has to say: “The
The leaders of our secret society let the powerful of this earth participate in the masonry work without giving them more To grant insight when they deemed it appropriate. They did not to gain their protection, but simply to protect themselves to secure their tolerance. They (the leaders of the Freemasons) saw calmly observe how Freemasonry seems to be operating in a way that is as benign as possibl meaningless charity and support society associated delt was, which the great ones of this earth completely in their hands believed they had, and had it explained that religion and politics are completely foreign to Freemasonry.!)

After these admissions, is further evidence needed?

If so, then first pay attention to the behavior of some Germans.
Lodge publications were pointed out, which correspond to the communicated newspaper articl come as close as you can imagine. It was around the time when King Wil⸗ Helm I. closed the lodges because of their political activities.
had to threaten. Then the "Freemasons' Newspaper" wrote with biting wit Hohn: “Some of our most esteemed brothers seem to be quite…”
to have a peculiar opinion of Freemasonry and instead a league of equals () and equally obligated for to hold a comfortable stool, which would be suitable for weak legs use it... The high Olympic gods elude it.
The activities of ordinary people, of whom they only at best have a connection to the dutiful incense fumes of the high feasts, fraternally⸗
"Most graciously and graciously receive it." ?) Similarly, others also write other lodge publications, especially the "Bauhütte". — But that These are examples that date back a long way! — Certainly; but in more recent times
And recently, things haven't changed significantly. For example, the "Herald" once sentenced for sedition and numerous other crimes⸗ (dedicated a 4½ page obituary to Enrico Ferrer?) and He glorifies him like no monarch before him, who lived on peaceful lands.
Ways that have brought about profound changes, by Freemasons

It has been celebrated. To avoid any misunderstanding: One can to understand every spiritual movement and to respond to it in this or that way Take a wise stance. One can appreciate the good underlying principles.
to extract and defend the core; however, the moment when the minority takes it upon itself to violently oppress the majority in their

D Quoted from Dr. Peter Gerhard, “Freemasonry and Politics”, p. 43.
*) “Freimaurer≈Zeitung”, November 26, 1864, ©. 130.
) “Der Herold”, December 5, 1909, No. 45, p. 4.

To enforce a ban can be achieved through tolerance and lenient conduct.
Division is no longer an issue; violence can only be achieved with violence.
be repelled. It is also significant that the free≈ Masonic reporters of the "Herald" immediately shared their knowledge.
bar is derived from an anarchist and friend of Ferrer, with with whom he, by his own admission, is in close correspondence...

But not only the pronouncements of Masonic publications, also the actions of their leaders, the Grand Masters, are of high esteem That's quite concerning.

Despite the highly political nature of the Italian Mau≈ rerei knew and had to know, they entertained her with their thoughts≈ Barely the best connections, yes, they let themselves be contacted without contradiction, liked, in which about the “despotism in one’s own (deut≈ (schen) homeland" was set off.!) The Grand Lodge of Saxony
The Italian grandmaster Adriano Lemmi was celebrated again in a effusive writing, practically as the "King of Free–" Freemasonry not only in Italy, but throughout the whole World . . .“ With such emotional outbursts, it is finally understandable≈
It is possible that the non-German world is reacting to the image of "despots" and "tyrant
"nen" dominated Germany and looked down on it with a pitying smile.
This undignified foreign worship is rightly condemned by Br. Wil≈ helm Ohr, which one considers one of the most characterful and noble deut≈
The mason may be considered, criticized in the sharpest terms, especially since They showed us everything but respect from foreign countries.
has registered.

The German Grand Lodges displayed the same lack of dignity.
France. The "United Grand Lodge of England" had Relations with the "Grand Orient" were broken off in 1877, namely because of the omission of the World Tree Master symbol from the official documents≈ Legal documents. The English remained firm and soon it was the French people who sought to re-establish relations, However, without success. The Germans fared quite differently. Although for the
For German Freemasons, the matter was considerably more difficult because

They strained relations with the Grand Orient because of the unprecedented Behavior of the ten Parisian lodges towards Emperor William I.
Those who had broken off the talks were precisely the ones who had stopped the Frenchman.
chasing after them and not even resuming relationships⸗ could wait. That it was primarily circles alien to the people.

1) As, for example, in a letter from the Italian Grand Master Petroni to the Grand Master Feustel of the "Grand Lodge of the Sun" in Bayreuth. Printed in the Rivista della Massoneria Italiana 1883, p. 67.

"were" is not an excuse for German Freemasonry, but rather...

Another accusation. This chasing has put the Germans at a disadvantage with the

The French have been extraordinarily harmed. The Freemasons of France had already decided "with the utmost certainty" before the outbreak of war.

and in agreement with public opinion on the 3u—
"The collapse of the German state is taken into account," Br. assures us.
Wilhelm Ohr, one of the two experts on the French national soul. !)
How much of this is due to the undignified behavior of the leading German Free Democrats?
Everyone can calculate for themselves how much maurer contributed.

In addition, there is the very strange behavior towards the Serbian Freemasons. Although the whole world knew how Serbia had already been threatening peace for years, although Serbian Freemasonry just like Hungarian or Italian Freemasonry Although it was a decidedly political secret society, the Grand Lodges of Hamburg and Saxony the application for their Recognition. However, the two Grand Lodges could not rely on it. called upon, that the Hungarian Grand Lodge also shortly before the outbreak of war had visited and recognized the Serbian Freemasons. Since the
The Hungarian Grand Lodge strongly favored the Serbian Freemasons and in addition
For decades, the best relations with the greater Hamburg area—Lodge, it also seems that the proposal originated with her and to have been promoted. A representative of the Hamburg Grand Lodge was at that time (according to Dalen's calendar) Karl Duschnitz, Imperial Councillor and manufacturer in Vienna, formerly Master of the Lodge “Zur Freund⸗
"Schaff" in Vienna. "Imperial Councillor and disguised republican?"
— This comes up in those circles to which the Viennese lodge men belong.
They mostly originate from very, very common sources. It is the well-known one.
Mimicry⸗Standpoint: Today a monarchist, tomorrow a republican, like

It just "happens".

Were there also people here who knew about the attempted murder?
— There was something in the air; hundreds may have known about it, Thousands felt it, hundreds of thousands only vaguely suspected that Something terrible will happen. But let's leave speculation aside.
aside; the fact is that under the leadership of the non-Jewish Grandmaster Kohn, the German Grandmaster Day of May 31st
In 1914, the Serbian “Supreme Council” was recognized.

The fact is further that exactly four weeks later the Archduke⸗ Crown Prince falls victim to attack by Serbian Freemasons is. One might assume that back then quite ignorant, clueless People as most venerable grand masters at the head of the German

Dr. Wilhelm Ohr, aa OS 180.

have confessed to Freemasonry; however, if one rejects this assumption as An insulting imposition in return, so only one possibility remains⸗ remaining, but subject to a terrible accusation-would be considered.

Let it be readily admitted from the outset that the German
The overwhelming majority of Freemasons are in cahoots with these sinister [people].
their plans apparently have nothing in common; they, the respectable ones
The little masters of the chair were, for the most part, loyal to the state.
and monarchist in their thinking; just consider the circles from which they came.
They convened: Of 629 chairmen and foremen of Masonic societies and circles included 175 schoolmen (1), 105
Doctors and pharmacists, 40 state officials, 40 municipal officials, 30 architects 16 theologians, 13 pensioners, 11 military officials and officers and 2 artists; at first glance, that certainly doesn't resemble the Composition of a revolutionary committee. This includes all... also 145 representatives from trade and industry, who naturally more inclined towards cosmopolitanism, then 40 lawyers who are on the to stand in all camps throughout the world, and 12 writers and editors, who are undoubtedly more likely to be supporters of the Republican Thoughts are likely to be shared. All in all, the [consideration] seems to prevail.
conservative, state-preserving character. But the leaders
Even in Germany, there seem to be pronounced republicanisms.
Can't be too refined. — The names of the Grand Masters of the 8 Grand Lodges Germany, which on May 31, 1914, recognized the
The Supreme Council of Serbia has therefore declared that Here, for lasting memory, is communicated:

These are:

1. The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge "Zur Sonne" in Bayreuth, Alexander Schilling, Director of the Regional Court and Captain (ret.)

2. Grand Master Adalbert Wagner, Lieutenant General (ret.) von of the Grand National Mother Lodge “To the Three Globes” in Berlin.

3. Grand Master Stanislaus Count zu Dohna, Dr. phil., Captain (ret.), of the "Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Germany” in Berlin.

4. Grand Master Dr. phil. Bruno Alwin Wagner, Professor, of the Grand Lodge of Prussia, called “Zur Freundschaft” in Berlin.

5. Grandmaster Wilhelm Süß, Director of the Conservatory for music in Darmstadt, from the Grand Lodge of Freemasons "Zur Ein" traditional costume".

6. Provincial Grand Master Oskar Röder, Dr. phil., Royal Senior Medical Councilor, Full Professor at the Royal Veterinary Academy University in Dresden, from the "Grand Lodge of Saxony".

7. Grand Master Br.. Kohn of the “Grand Mother Lodge of the Eclectic- "Table Freemasons' Association" in Frankfurt am Main

8. Grand Master Fr. Uhrbach, merchant, of the "Grand Lodge" from Hamburg".

However, the fact that three officers are among them is due to⸗ Due. Perhaps one may assume that they were outvoted. or no more precise knowledge of the true facts sat. In contrast, we know, for example, about Grandmaster Bruno. Alwin Wagner, that he was already in the German on September 23, 1907 The Goethe Lodge in Paris “with the words and gestures of a seer” A vision of a future of universal brotherhood among nations unfolds and is accompanied by Grand Master Mesurator, in a long, heartfelt embrace, the fraternal kiss has exchanged." Grandmaster Br... Measureur of the "Grande The day before, “Loge de France” had explicitly stated the meaningfulness the Masonic endeavors of all peoples especially be⸗ tont; on September 22, 1907, the opening ceremony of the took place at the French Grand Lodge in Paris, which was a magnificent event. Rally of the brotherhood of French, Belgian and German was a Freemason, with almost all of the 500 participants being Freemasons. Master of the French Lodges, also representative of Belgium, Holland, Germany, Romania, Portugal, Greece and the Switzerland participated.

The question of guilt for the World War and its consequences for Germany's disastrous outcome has both an active and a passive component.

was being prepared, while in our country, liberalism, social democracy and Bethmann Hollweg to thwart all defense measures
While they were trying, the German Freemasons bewildered their friends.
and themselves about the unity with their foreign brothers and about their peacefulness. A brother... Conrad praised of all people.
Edward VII as an excellent mason, who with “truly royal”
"Dignity and chivalric conviction" administer my office with dignity, !) and all Brothers . eagerly demanded, that the human sex

a chain of brothers
Sharing truth, light, and justice.

A Br.. Schultze even triumphantly proclaimed in 1912 that it
It is of “extraordinary importance that, in addition to the Catholic
The church is the only major non-economic and non-political inter≠
The national organization is Freemasonry. But the entire inhabited ) “The Freemason”. Leipzig 1885, p. 7.

Important World Freemasonry. 11th ed. 13

It has spread across the earth, everywhere the Freemason goes,
Is he sure to find brothers in the lodges whose generally humane…
"Decent goals are fine goals."") And immediately afterwards he adds: "What never before in history had been achieved, through the free-Freemasonry has become a reality: the creation of a global,
a union founded solely on free and pure humanity.
A huge army follows the same banner.”

And while the Grand Champion of the “Alpina”, who is in Delen.
Blätter has repeatedly exposed him as one of the worst political agitators.
Quartier la Tente, who held his propaganda speeches against Germany,
Our brother Schultze raved about the humane principles.
This Grand Lodge, which so "clearly" advocates the "education of its members-to represent members to right and full humanity.””)

The unity of the entire world Freemasonry was not only a fixed belief of individual chatterers and fantasists, but A completely official principle. Even the fifth edition (from 1910) of the "Handbook for the Brothers of the Grand Lodge of Freemasons" in Germany” states unequivocally: “The order is a A whole in which one for all and all for one want to stand by the order. Therefore, every single member must stand by the order with adhere to unwavering loyalty and devotion, for the ver-
The bond that is formed through him shall be indissoluble.

Here we encounter exactly the same mind structure as in our Social Democrats, who are based on the solidarity of the workers-People from all countries dreamed and became receptive to the corrosive poison that robs us of all faith in ourselves, our will to act paralyzed.

It is the monstrous crime of our entire German nation.
Freemasonry, that fine representatives who are actually involved in the spiritual leadership of the German people for their vital interests should have stood, through their sentimental and hollow and self-centeredness.
Pleasant chatter concerned the business of our bitterest enemies.
For what more could they ask for than at the moment of their feverish anti-German activity in Germany itself as

E. Dr. E. Schultze, The Cultural Tasks of Freemasonry. Stuttgart 1912,

9 aa OS 120.

) 8 13, p. 6. Note the term “Order”. The Brothers. “. entiften when profane people use this expression DD and otherwise only speak of a Freemasons' association. Also of interest is § 16: "The printing of articles and communications that somehow relate to ee matters, Even if intended only for brothers, it requires prior approval.
of the country's Grand Champion." So, among the absolutely "advanced" ones, a real one.
Outgoing Index Congregation!

Convinced champions of peace and humanity were presented to become

This intellectual attitude, of prioritizing the interests of one's own people in Completely disregarding the services of a "human ideal" is a matter of responsibility.
German Freemasonry since its beginnings. This world⸗
The view was already effective in the fight against the "great revolution" paralyzing, since the incorrigible cosmopolitans in the French revolutionaries saw their fellow thinkers. Only after these one⸗
The situation that had led to the catastrophe prompted the awakened to rally themselves.
global citizen.

It takes a great deal of audacity to... Fichte's and claim Blücher's deeds as Masonic treasures take, as our Brothers-.- today in view of the raised expectations⸗ Griffe do. Fichte became a German fighter when he found a fine old love-Having renounced rally inspired ideas, Blücher's hatred of the French was the exact opposite of the Freemasonic worldview from its beginning Occurrence to this day.

After the Wars of Liberation, its influence soon resumed.
Certainly a monumental declaration and honest expression of genuine

German Freemasonry wisdom, if the "General Handbook of Freemasonry” shortly before Germany of 1864, 1866 and forged in 1871, it could say that it was for the "purpose of the Federation "Contrary to" one's own patriotic stance. It was deemed... confirms that the Freemasons did not participate in the Leipzig battle commemoration.
They had taken it, on the grounds that it was a "German"
It was a “patriotic festival”. Likewise, it is expressly condemned⸗ shares that a lodge will donate 1000 talers for the construction of a German fleet would have donated. This general disapproval resulted in that not a single other lodge imitated this example.")

That's how it looked in the minds of German humanitarians back then.
That's how it's still ordered today.

A prolific German author, Dr..., said as recently as 1913: “The Free⸗ Freemasonry of all countries and continents forms a whole. Whoever enters a a legally constituted lodge, in whatever place it may be, thereby becomes a member of the entire federation.”) “He (the Free⸗ (mason) remains aware that he is first a human being, then a citizen is.“ “

During the war, the actual work of the ro⸗ Manichean and Anglo-Saxon lodges were so obvious that

) Vol. II, p. 203.
1) August Horneffer, “The League of Freemasons”. Jena 1913, p. 144.
7) aa OS 163.

some of humanity's brothers and sisters are awakening from their centuries-old sleep.
They rubbed their eyes. Some of these bricklayers are in these pages.
Several voices have spoken out, admitting they were crushed:
"What one would call world Freemasonry is so divided and so fragmented that there is no question of unity. And precisely the World War II has completely erased any thought of Masonic Internationalism. mus destroyed. Interstate political (1) Freemasonry has Bankrupt.” That’s what “The Herald” said when he concluded—Karl Heise criticized the conclusions. There is truth and falsehood in it.
this sigh of exasperation from Brother Dr. O. Neumann from Naumburg a. S.
Interesting is the admission that Freemasonry is politically was; the German bricklayers have countered this accusation with their other arguments.
Comrades defended with foam on their mouths for decades.
At first, one only heard of a "chain of brothers"; now that the Forfchers prove that this chain of brothers united the heads of the Entente to to put the German people in other chains — front chains — since Suddenly, one wants to know nothing about unity and defends indirectly again the poor foreign brothers, the “divided and "Shattered." But immediately afterwards another infant confesses Humanity is deeply troubled, “it has changed in recent years with shown with frightening clarity how deficient the German free language is⸗ Freemasonry on the aim and nature of Freemasonry abroad (had been taught?")

These individual admissions do not prevent, for example, a Br... Horneffer also after 1918 of the “faith in man”⸗
"Heit" writes, who, allegedly, at that time "in pure beauty" was ge⸗ raised and had been a “golden hope” 7) (cf. the Spartacist⸗ (mus etc.). Br. . W. v. Heydebrand, in turn, praises the unfortunate man.
Rudolf Steiner: “RS laid the foundations for the world… on the construction of that anthroposophical life of man⸗
"heit would have to be built." ") The chairman of the association deut-Freemason, Brother... Dietrich Bishop, but rides around the land and believes that right now one must embrace the “idea of humanity”.
to bring to the foreground. °)

This in the face of the plundering of our people, in the face of the insults from our external and internal enemies, on⸗ Face of the Black Disgrace on the Rhine!

---

1) No. 8, 1921.

*) aa OS 116.

The Unconquerable Temple. March 1920, Issue 3. aa O. 1920, No. 4, p. 107.

aa OS 119.

Ly

m EE ne nn

A general meeting was held in Paris on September 20, 1921.
the representatives of the lodges of the “Grand Orient de France”.
The vice president promised an international conference in Geneva.
and emphasized – as usual – his peaceful nature. Then he said:
“We will stand alongside the German lodges at this conference may only attend if, according to (1), the injuries of the-avouieren, which during the war against the principles of Ge⸗ Justice and humanity, which are sacred to all Freemasons, have been committed.")

On September 23rd of the same year, the club met.
German Freemason (of approximately / all German Freemasons around– (closes) and – listen and be amazed – made a declaration of faith in Germanism is aborted. As if in an apologetic way, it is said in Masonic terms.
Bulletin, this should be particularly emphasized “in view of the shame⸗ loose demand of the French, who have always been oriented against Germany– Swiss Grand Lodge, that the German Freemasons also support the war-
They should confess their guilt before initiating relationships with them.
could be linked”?) The French and their leading Brr. . to bring him before a court, our plums thought of that– soft, brrr... of course not. How difficult must this already be for them?
“Confession” is well received, especially since its chairman, Dietrich Bischoff, wrote thick books about Freemasonry, in which the words "German" “People”, “German interests”, etc. were not used by him at all.
became!

It is natural that this intellectual quagmire, which one complacently... to praise as the highest progress fic) dared, fic) also on other questions of popular life extended.

A particularly striking example of this is the Ber-relationship to Judaism. When one officially emphasizes: “Thus the ethical union of Freemasons into a great human– bund, Dellen Ideal the fraternity of all mankind–
"He is" and in which there is only "one shepherd and one flock".
joll,*) jo follows logically (since the nonsensical dogma of Human equality also returns to the foundation of this intellectual foundation⸗ (remaining brotherhoods) the recognition of Jews as in Brothers of equal standing in every relationship. Therefore, the following are dogmatic principles, of course: "It is generally accepted–
"Knows that an anti-Semite cannot be a Freemason." The German ) “Vorwärts” 21 Sept. 1922, No. 445.

2) “Tägl. Rundschau” No. 451, identically titled “Munich⸗Augsburg Evening–” newspaper“ No. 405.

) General Handbook of Freemasonry. Leipzig 1900–1901. Vol. I, p. 322.

The Grand Lodge Federation even recognized it as "its duty" in 1881 to all “anti-Semitic riots” “determined and energetic” ent⸗ to oppose it. !)

Note: Freemasons proclaim absolute tolerance.
against all views; only one person does so
One exception: the anti-Semite. He, who views race and ethnicity as evil…

Whoever recognizes a Ganian foundation is ostracized, he alone. On which basis
The fact that Jews gained entry into Freemasonry has
A. Rosenberg in the work "The Crime of Freemasonry"
It has been reported in detail. The only thing that needs to be emphasized here is... that, while the German Freemasons harbored hatred and contempt for the inhuman anti-Semites harbor, they the purely Jewish freedom⸗ masons' associations have recognized them. For example, the most influential of to them, the B'nai B'rith order. As recently as 1887, the German The Grand Lodge was a secret society and forbade its members from to belong to the Jewish order. But with the growing Jewish The humanitarians also gave in to power, and in 1906 the
The B'nai B'rith Order is also recognized by the German Grand Lodge.
The old Prussian lodges protested, but remained silent.
overruling. In the B'nai B'rith hands, only Jews are allowed to participate.
recorded, it is therefore a Jewish nationalist organization, against This therefore fundamentally contradicts the views of our Brothers... so fanatically agair
the Germans – who are nationalistically inclined – represented view⸗ Despite this, it is recognized as Masonic!

Anyone who still wants to deny Jewish influence is discredited.
neither neglected in an intellectual sense nor
He has pursued (fic) dishonest, Jewish, anti-German goals.

After the successes of Jewish subversion work in 1918 also Even some Freemasons woke up to the sight of the half-blind.
They rose up and attempted to take action against this plague in Germany. In Munich became divided, and in the north some declared themselves Lodges are seen as nationalist, and a tension has been simmering ever since.
Bare Masonic temple. The separation of spirits is accelerated.
through the brazen emergence of Masonic associations, which themselves which now makes our brothers fearful of their godlikeness.

For example, there is the one in Frankfurt am Main in 1907 by "real bricklayers" founded Grand Lodge “Freemasons' Association of the Rising Sun”, which is based in Nuremberg. Through its Br... Bloch (1)
In 1920 in Basel, they established contact with the Grand Lodge of France. sought and asked for their recognition. They replied that ) General Handbook of Freemasonry Vol. I, p. 43.

German Freemasonry was un-Masonic, according to Emperor Wilhelm.
Had he sent a telegram of allegiance, the Belgian Grand Master would have Br... Magnets not protected from bad treatment ufw. Then
The Grand Lodge of France reports: “Despite the host-
The old lodges would have this Grand Lodge ("to the rising Sun”) brought to 50 boxes and also a vigorous pro-driven by paganism, about the very interesting individual-

"What kind of information was communicated." They must, one can see from the men of trust who the The "German" lodge itself is called: Foerjter (who is responsible for the division of the Silesia by the League of Nations as one born out of the spirit of the— (legitimate act of the League of Nations), Nicolai (proprietarylich Levinsohn, who deserted to Sweden in an airship), Gerlaugh (who writes in the “Welt am Montag” newspaper about Germany every day- (can be insulted) and “other defenders of justice and the "Freedom," as stated in an expert opinion signed by the Grand Master. B. Wellhoff explicitly states: “Therefore, there is hardly any need for the for- “Mellen Insurance” — Grandmaster Penzig writes to the Dear esteemed and dear Brother... in France, — “that we throughto have nothing to do with the writing that the German Grandlodge association addressed to Emperor Wilhelm at the outbreak of the war has..)

No, certainly not. One wouldn't go wrong if one... famous Grand Lodge as an offshoot of the Jewish Lodge: "to the rising "Dawn" in Frankfurt am Main. It was founded there, has a strangely similar name and also a — “humanitarian” Setting.

The German Grand Lodge Association considered this an anti-German game. the Nuremberg — incidentally, not recognized — brothers, but to He was very angry and simply declared their activities to be a "betrayal of the Fatherland”.

Very good. He just doesn't want to admit yet that these Nuremberg only the slightly more left-marching wing of the army of spirit of mankind, of the temple of mankind, of manheitsbund etc. form, that they only more consistent and therefore They are also more genuine Freemasons than the others, who always hide in the unto decide clearly what is more important to them: the people and the fatherland or human spirit and human structure. That there is only one here Either/or is gradually starting to take root in the back of our minds. It's dawning on the Jortschritt fanatics. In the autumn of 1922 it was again

d The full text of the letters in question can be found in "Auf Vorposten" 1921, Issue 4/5.

within German Freemasonry — it should actually be called Freemasonry in Germany — leading to sharp disagreementscome which, without reaching a final decision, until to continue today. In the circles of the German student fraternities Stormy protests against Freemasonry as a whole were voiced, which were returned with equal passion by the Freemasons among themwere shown around, which led to many disputes, also in the Press led to a lively controversy. The book by General [name omitted] also sparked a livel Ludendorff “Destruction of Freemasonry through the revelation of its "Secrets" was created, which in a short time reached 75,000 copies.

was spread. The masons can surely offer the general some While errors could be proven, the general thrust of the argument was correct.
and has seriously wounded, all the more so as he suddenly appeared here shows that old Prussian Grand Lodges, humanitarian Freemasonry and their Bolshevik offshoots stood calmly in a united front.
Something that was politically influenced by the strange appearance of the German Reich Foreign Minister Dr. Gustav Stresemann is symbolized.

In the summer of 1923, Dr. Gustav Stresemann became a Freemason.
a fact that undoubtedly has global political significance today
He became the mediator between German bricklayers and the French lodge policy, without the German brothers of
They needed to officially declare and bind humanity. Strefe-
The man belongs to the lodge "Friedrich der Große", a daughter lodge.
the Old Prussian Grand Lodge "To the Three Globes", which with publicly outraged the two other Old Prussian Grand Lodges-refuses to have any relations with the French Grand Orient to cultivate, indeed, to declare such things treasonous. But look there, instead of opposing Stresemann's policies, which were exactly the same the supposedly “pacifist” aspirations of the Grand Orient-That's right, Brother Stresemann is not only supported by the humanitarian Masonry - which goes without saying - not only supports, but also with defended with suspicious zeal, even by the old Prussian lodges. The French chauvinism (led by French Freemasonry-)
rei) has published his war aim at a conference in 1917-That's enough. Under today's circumstances, he must be interested in speaking in German-to cultivate a sense of renunciation in order to present the German people as to expel political opponents. This one from the Freemasons Briand and Berthelot's policy of narcosis corresponds to both the
The behavior of the left wing of the Freemasons in Germany, as well as their politics Br.. . Stresemann's, who also seeks connection to the leading Lodge center in the Balkans: near Belgrade! Locarno, Thoiry, Geneva

1) Compare this to the excellent work published in October 1927.
by A. Rosenberg: “The future path of a German foreign policy”.

find the names that describe this Franco-German policy,
And Brother Bernardine of the French Grand Orient was quite right, when he was at the international Freemasons' meeting on August 30, 1925 Congress in Basel declared that the arbitration and legal agreements of the “German brother Stresemann” are a “political and at the same time
(a Masonic deed) for which he wished the best of luck.

Stresemann is not subject to any attacks in old Prussian masonry circles, but have been subjected to great honors, from which one can see, that no politics under certain circumstances the emphasis of a whole means certain policies.")

It is necessary to talk about these things, because the world=
The war is not yet over. The forces that clashed in 1914 or those who merged are still active today. To
In some parts, the same men as in 1914 are still in power. The stranglers≠
The lung of our people will be improved with the help of the Jewish-Masonic
The League of Nations continued its systematic operation. We are once again in the midst in the fight for our existence, and we must fight it with a clear head.
Therefore, a spiritual and mental cleansing must take place.
taken and all surviving junk recognized as such and removed-be created. It includes the undignified, sycophantic one.
Pacifism of the Democrats, Marxists, the Center, the hu-Manitian Freemasons. The house of cards of the Temple of Man.
It has collapsed; what needs to be done is to build the German house. Who That which does not want is an obstacle on the path to renewal and-of our people. Are the Freemasons returning to the order that is “a whole”
It should be, not the back, so they must put up with it, portrayed as enemies of our people and treated accordingly
to become!

) “Am rauhen Stein”, January 1926 (A journal of the old Prussian Great) logs).

2) A devastating portrayal of Stresemann's personality is by Graf Reventlow's writing: "Minister Stresemann as statesman and advocate of the world" “Conscience” (JF Lehmann, Munich).

21st century

Through the world revolution to Freemasonry
World Republic.

2: A full dozen states have so far been granted revolutionary
The activities of Freemasonry have been proven. The spirit is in Basically always the same, the end goal everywhere is the Re≠ public.

But also in those states that have not been discussed in detail so far.
Freemasonry, like many other religions, is animated by the same aspiration; thus e.g. in Belgium.

It has already been emphasized that especially in Belgium the political Freemasonry's activities were initially open and visible to all in Er≠ appearance has occurred; by the “most illustrious National Grand Master” Br.. Hasse, it was explicitly admitted in 1907 that the Belgian lodges have developed into true schools of politics have.!) The get who rules in the lodges is a strict republic.

Canian. Accordingly, at festival lodges, the king is not mentioned.
toasted, but rather focused on the "sovereign people". No expert on the Ber-
Furthermore, it may be particularly surprising that, as a lecture⸗
The object is also known in Belgian Freemason circles as "The Belgian Republic” appears. How much the local bricklayers are attached to the revo⸗ to take part in revolutionary events abroad and how closely intertwined their relations with the Grand Orients of other countries fare, as can be seen from a much-discussed speech by Br... Furnemont⸗ before, who in 1911 was the principal orator of the Belgian Grand Olympics: “Remember the deep feeling of pride that we everyone had, when we recently heard the news of the revolution in Portugal received it. Within a few hours, the throne was...
It was overthrown, the people triumphed, the republic was declared.
was like a bolt from the blue for the Uninformed audience...“ Yes indeed! Such a flash of lightning from Under a clear sky, we here in Austria and in – were also surprised by – Germany. And the ignorance of the ruling circles was a so general that, for example, the former Austrian judiciary⸗

1) Bulletin du Gr.. O .*, de Belgique 5907, I. ©. 53 ff.

Minister Dr. R. von Schauer, still in May 1918, of the nature and had no clue about the ultimate goals of Freemasonry and Their lodges are, in all seriousness, entirely harmless humanitarian associations.
held... To the harmless, everything seems harmless; but on This harmlessness of our harmless governments is just Easter⸗
The wealthy have been ruined. And so has Germany. If Ignorance is under certain circumstances a crime, then – – but Here the singer's courtesy fails him. The Germans in the empire had just their B system, we our S system; in itself capable, objectionable free men, but of an unparalleled lack of vision and the
They have not grown in any way under these extraordinary conditions.

Should we, in order to convince the "Harmlofen" group as well, add another one?
Should I pick out another example? – Perhaps for a change⸗
For the sake of a lung, one from the New World: Brafilien! To whom did it then?
the last emperor of Brazil, Pedro II, to overthrow him⸗ thank? To Marshal Deodoro da Fonfeca; this one was free⸗ mason and the entire revolutionary movement of the Freemasons⸗ Lies were instigated. This wasn't done in some clerical corner. leaflets, but in that – at least in this respect – certainly reliable Masonic "Berliner Tageblatt"! Is it still necessary to point to Greece and to remember that role, which a certain Venizelos played? Then our “harmless”
It was announced that the man who overthrew King Constantine who pushed through, is also a Freemason and is acting on behalf of the "Grand Orient de France" was involved. — Who is this? — The French deputy Br. Jonnart, who in 1917 as High Commissioner of France and England, the resignation of the The Greek king forced his rule and — without asking the population — who appointed the traitor Br.. Venizelos. He threatened at the time, to turn the city of Athens into a pile of rubble if King Constantine did not immediately resign voluntarily... Br. Venizelos, from who will be mentioned later, is, just like his comrades, Freemasons.

Enough of that. Planned, tenacious, persistent, and with inimitable... These revolutions were prepared with great diligence. All over the world The world should see its thrones overthrown and its monarchs driven out. These sinister plans didn't spring up yesterday; they grew organically. rather they arose with Freemasonry and only gradually matured.

In 1740, the then Grand Master, Duke of Autin, giving a speech at a festival of the Grand Lodge of France, in he emphasizes that Freemasonry was initially founded for this reason. has been made to promote the republican ideal everywhere in the world to introduce a form of government. B. . Wilhelm Ohr, who quotes the passage verbatim⸗(quoted literally,) gives this revolutionary spirit of the French freedom⸗Freemasonry without restriction, he readily admits that Here, the spirit of 1789 can already be felt; indeed, it allows it to stand. that the same spirit and the same ideas also influenced the educated people at that time Circles of Germany dominated, which they left untouched by France. had taken over.

) “Berliner Tageblatt” of October 10, 1910, No. 514.

The two French writings as well: La Franche-Maconne (1744) and Les Franc-Macons écrasés (1746), of which there is doubt⸗haft is,2) whether they are considered “traitorous writings” or only seemingly so against Freemasonry, but in reality as a Masonic upheaval Clarifying documents already bring to mind the idea of World Republic and the main features of the revolutionary program of 1789, including the slogans Liberty and Fraternity, to Expression. Later, after the fall of the monarchy, came the Add "equality".

A longer break is permitted here; it is, in fact, the FJeststellung absolutely necessary that there is equality in the freedom⸗Freemasonry doesn't exist at all; one doesn't even know equality. between apprentice, journeyman and master, as Brother Ohr rightly said. emphasizes; and now especially the highest degrees! "There is nowhere less equality than in French Freemasonry with its A system of 33 degrees. An apprentice is not a journeyman. Equal in rank, this one is not the master. The master is the "knight". subordinate to the Rosicrucian Cross," which in turn was subordinate to the "Great Knight. Kadosh", who is before the "Grand Inquisitor⸗Commanda⸗ must bow to the gate: and he himself must again bow to the prince to give precedence to the "royal secret". Above him The "sovereign Grand Inspector", who is again appointed by the member of the The Supreme Council is surpassed in rank. The President of the The Supreme Council is the highest-powered sovereign great-come⸗ Dator... A nice equality indeed! — But does this correspond to Even the facts? Certainly. Because the one who informs us, is the Masonic writings Br... Dubois) from the "Acacia".

But also Brother Wilhelm Ohr, whose candor was pleasantly— stirs, tells us exactly the same thing about the Order Council (Conseil de l'Ordre), who was the actual head of the French Greater Orient possesses, and calls it an oligarchy that takes the place of Democracy has been established; everywhere in French freedom Freemasonry, the aristocratic principle; the highest authorities, fo the large ritual college, supplemented by co-option from the Holders of the 33rd Scottish degree, which it itself bestows: "Truly, a completely undemocratic authority."

However, there is no "freedom" in Freemasonry. There is Above all, there is no freedom of expression, because there is censorship. whose harshness cannot be compared to the state censorship at all. This is especially true for France, while in Germany it generally left to the individual bricklayer's sense of timing remains, as he maintains the secrecy sworn in a fine oath.!) A circular from the Grand-Orient dated January 1, 1894 states explicitly: The chairmen and speakers must seize every opportunity seize the opportunity to remind their surroundings that no bricklayer, under no pretext whatsoever gives the right to say even the slightest thing about the To publish the order and its institutions; unless it were with with explicit permission and even then only in the manner before him⸗ written manner and style.?)

The French Freemason doesn't even have the right freedom of thought; he must be Republican and "anti-clerical"

---

1) Dr. Wilhelm Ohr, "The French Spirit and Freemasonry". pp. 30 f.

2) Ibid., p. 35.
) "Acacia. November, 1907, No. 50, p. 285.

to be; but what is called “anticlerical” in lodge language has already been Previously, this was duly emphasized. He also cannot do so at will.
to resign; under certain circumstances, the lodge may even expel him against to carry out his wishes as a member until his death. There⸗
He can, as was previously the case in Italy, easily escape from the Freemasonry can be expelled if the Grand Master so desires.
Dr. Müffelmann presents in a finely written and readable text about Italian Freemasonry has such a case, which is extraordinarily instructive⸗ rich is: “On December 4, 1914, a Br.. Dr. B., Mit⸗ member of the Grand Council of the Order and Master of the Chair of the Lodge in Belluno, by the Italian Grand Master via telegraphic message Paths outside the order are excluded; and there is no resistance to that.
Verdict and interrogation!” Countless examples could illustrate the “Freedom”
"Heath," as the Freemasons believe, are illustrated; the
However, the few points raised here should suffice.

Dr. Wilhelm Ohr, ibid., ©. 77.
Ibid., p. 73.
Ibid., p. 74.
*) Dr. Ludwig Müffelmann, “Freemasonry and its impact on "Italy's participation in the World War." Berlin, 1915

And what about brotherhood? It certainly exists, but only the towards “brothers”; and there too, in many respects, they are essential⸗ to impose restrictions. If one considers the bitter battles prosecuted, which Freemasons in all countries have carried out among themselves Having this, one also gets an impression in this respect that far removed from enthusiasm for Masonic ideals is. But how have these beautiful slogans, which have been around for almost two Over the centuries, Freemasonry spread to the broadest masses of the population.
flung about and eagerly snatched up by them Are they actually proven? Count Friedrich Schönborn, formerly
The Minister of Justice in Austria, with regard to the French Revolution of 1789, its value judgment in the following extremely significant way⸗ summarizing his thoughts: “With enthusiasm for freedom, Equality and fraternity started it, to deal with the restless
To end the work of the guillotine and to start bloody wars, Frank first⸗ rich and then to devastate all of Europe” — a sentence whose inner Truth cannot be denied by anyone.

But let us return to the main idea of this section.
To free people from the rule of the "powerful" was also the purpose of the Illuminati order, which in the second half of the 18th century played a major role and with the Free⸗ masonry had many points of contact. Even back then, the
The idea of world brotherhood and a world republic holds its magic.
and powerful thinkers, such as Immanuel Kant, emerged for him. It found its way into broader sections of the German population.

However, the republican ideal of the state only emerged in the 19th century.
gang. It was represented in particular by the revolutionary and Freemason Mazzini, whose secret confidants throughout Europe were busily active. For Mazzini, the Republic is "the only one".
"The most just form of government imaginable; the people are everything."
But the "people" are only "everything" if they adopt the standpoint Mazzini's takes place and on the words of this lord and master swears; if it does not, then it is merely an "ignorant" person.
and corrupt rabble” (volgo ignaro e corrotto), a majority of idiots, a bewitched crowd, which only through education He (Mazzini) and his ilk are needed.!) Mazzini himself is after in his own opinion, the leader appointed by “virtue and genius”.
of the people and of humanity”, who represents the “sovereign people”.
Of course, the "sovereign people" have, when they through

) See Hermann Gruber: Zomm, Freemasonry and World Revolution” and the cited references p. 33, 104f. |

to his representative, appointed through “virtue and genius”, a program announced that he would accept this as well. “If the people (h declared that.

Whatever his doctrine may be, you must respectfully regard it.
bow your heads completely and submit to every action of the Rebellion included." This peculiarly liberal sentence comes from.

from Mazzini's own works (specifically from volume XVIII, p. 89).

That's how it's always been, that's how it will always be: Every revolutionary movement
A movement that begins "freedom" ends in lust for power and tyranny.
as soon as the apostles of freedom themselves came to power. With Freemasonry also exhibits an unparalleled audacity in this regard.
“Rivista della Massoneria Italiana” without further ado to: “The revo≠ "Yesterday's revolutionary idea is today's conservative one." Who does not remember the attitude of the Czechs who were in the Reich≠ rate (1917) declared: “There is no such thing as high treason! High treason is pure.” Crimes!” and now in their Czech-Slovakian state every: | persecuted and threatened with death for high treason, who was considered.

Germans merely from their right to vote in the National Assembly wanted to make use of Austria's!

The republican idea, which in France was destroyed by the atrocities

Having been severely devalued by the revolution, it was therefore around the middle of the cultivated in Italy in the 19th century and then spread again towards the end of the century, it passed to France. In Italy As in France, hope was expressed that very soon “the young Germany of thought and work (the Social democracy) in place of the feudal, imperial will occur”; then the matter of Alsace-Lorraine will also be resolved, which threaten European peace, the desired resolution find.")

This idea was even more sharply emphasized in the state. Freemasons' Congress in Paris in 1889, which was considered Centenary celebration of the great, “glorious” revolution of 1789 was intended. The keynote speaker, Sr.-., who had been appointed by the “Grand Orient”. Frankolin, then led to the thunderous applause of all Congress participants said, among other things: “The day will come, on which among the peoples who have neither an eighteenth yearhundred, still in 1789, the monarchies and the religions had will collapse. That day is not far off. This is the day we long for. On this day, all will Disinherited freed, all injustices atoned for, all privileges revoked eliminated all the violated provinces (Alsace-Lorraine, Posen,

---

1) Rivista massonica Italiana 1889 p. 82.

Galicia, etc.) will receive their right to self-determination. Then they will all Grand Lodges and Grand Orients of the whole world united in one To find common ground in world brotherhood. The divisions and the national... The boundaries by which Freemasonry is divided will then be They have disappeared. That is the glorious ideal of the future that we are given. envisions. It is our task to witness the dawn of this day. to accelerate general brotherhood.” These sentences - says Br.. Wilhelm Ohr, who quotes them - speaks a very clear language, that there is nothing left to add.

In 1893, a large event took place in Rome, also attended by Germans. A Freemasons' Congress was held on the site. In the circle of 300 Brothers. The Master of the Chair, Br... Humbert dal Medico, held the keynote address, in which he explained, after the first Rome of the Caesars, After the second Rome of the Popes would come the third Rome, the Rome of the people. This Rome should be Europe, America, and the other parts of the earth to unite.

Mazzini's words praised Br... dal Medico as the goal of freedom≠ Masonry. He was joined by the then Italian Grand Master. Adriano Lemmi, who “without fic” about the transitional forms of Re≠ government to worry about” the “inevitable confederation” demanded by the European states.

This declaration was made at that time by four German Grand Lodges. theirs, namely the German State Lodge in Berlin, which Frank≠ Furter, the Hamburg and the Saxon Grand Lodge. The latter wrote even later an enthusiastic letter to Lemmi, in which she described him as the "King of Freemasonry" not only in Italy, but in titled “the whole world”.”)

The idea of a world republic (République Universelle) Furthermore, it is achieved with full clarity on the second state level. Freemasons' Congress in Paris (1900) expressed this as The basic idea of the entire congress, because almost every speaker (refers to him and comments on it?) Especially Br... Quartier la Tente itself, which submits the application for a Masonic to create a global headquarters that is "supposed to work towards the goal of≠ unity of all Masonic forces worldwide for the Triumph of their cherished ideas and for the establishment of the Regarding this case, Rosenberg (ibid.) states that a German Freemason-magazine (The Invisible Temple) admits the authenticity of this letter, but denies it wonders, asks how he – which was personally addressed to Lemmi – got into the It may have fallen into the hands of the Jesuit Gruber, who first published it. A truly remarkable confession!

2) Congrès maconnique wert de 1900 (official report of the Grand≠ Orients of France 1900, pp. 38, 39).

to establish a world republic (République Universelle). He It is reminiscent of the famous saying of the great Archimedes: “Give I'll establish a base and I'll turn the world upside down. "lift" and then continues: "In the union of the free-Masonic forces from all over the world will be the have a base from which we can see the world from the “Fishing will lift…” Truly a meaningful word.

Brother Dequaire-Grobel most vehemently welcomes this request and means that if the Congress succeeds in this act, everyone will be free. maurer then “to conquer all public and political political powers in Europe and around the world pull... Finally, to thunderous applause, he brings up≠ calls for the "to be established by world Freemasonry" World Republic".

The President of the Preparatory Committee, Brother Bour, Ceret expresses confident hope, the cry: Long live the World Republic! I will soon no longer be a Platonic ()) fine...

The official appointed by the Greater Orient of France Speaker, Br.. René Renoult, shares the same thought⸗ circle: “... Having returned to your home lodges, you will be before
We will report to everyone, as we and all foreign delegates from around the world⸗
"Republic cheered." Also noteworthy is the speech of the por⸗ Turkish representative, who at that time (1900) with the characteristic
He concluded with the words: "...I am sure that with my Portuguese bridges..."
not to offend them when I shout: Long live French freedom!
Masonry! Long live the world republic!” Portugal was then still a monarchy; ten years later the activity of the Portuguese
The Freemasons were crowned with success and the republic was established!
But that's not all: In Turkey, too, the
The revolution succeeded, and if the Turkish Freemasons don't benefit from it...
The final conclusions were drawn only because they still felt far too weak and insecure there to participate in this extensive and so diverse empires immediately lost their rule to attract.

Since then, there have been a whole series of state freedoms.
Masonic congresses that worked in the same sense; there were also other ones.
which involved a whole series of Masonic conspiracies and Coup attempts, such as in Spain. But then it closed
The press in all states, which is largely free⸗
Masonic hands, closer and closer together; then they closed Even the Freemason-ruled states themselves are becoming increasingly convinced of this.
together, until finally the one by the greatest Freemason of the u.

the intervention sought and desired by Brother Edward VII.
Central Powers had become a deed; and then? Then pro⸗ Gram-wise, the shots of the Serbian Freemasons begin.

With the clock in their hand, the "knowing ones" could tell the time⸗ point of the downfall of the two “Teutonic imperial powers”, which
The death sentence was pronounced by the major Orientalist churches of the entire world.
was to calculate. The betrayal within finally stabbed the still ever-victorious army from behind and before our very eyes⸗
There stood the republics so fervently desired by our enemies.

The strange thing is that — only four years after this stabbing of the Central Powers — in one of their capital cities one finds so-called German Freemasons who adhere to exactly the same principles.

To glorify ideas, in the implementation of which Germany and Austria posed an obstacle. In August 1922, according to the report, “Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper” of the then newly elected Grand Master
Dr. Ottokar Mascha at the Grand Assembly of the "Grand Lodge" of Vienna": "It seems more and more that the Grand Lodge of Vienna due to their geographical location and due to their special position-lung predestined fine should be, in the already since the German-French-severely restricted by the Franco-Prussian Wars of 1870/71 and since the World War completely severed relations between the German and intervening in French Freemasonry (1) so that that the wish expressed in Geneva in 1902, which has existed since then, may be fulfilled long-deceased Grand Master of one of the most important Freemasons-had spoken of major Russian powers: For forty years Was it the dream of my life, through shared brothers?
liche Arbeit not only Freemasonry, but also Demokrato unite in general, in order to mutually-stand and one day bring about the world republic.”
(See also the “Reichspost” No. 228, 1922).

So, in view of France's disgraceful performance
Towards Germany and Austria, a leading German whines Freemasons seek "understanding" for a world republic, how they are aiming for the Francolin, Quartier la Tente, etc.

May the curse of all Germans one day fall upon such brethren.
come of the people!

XXIH.

Freemasonry and World War.”

This discussion already goes beyond the title of the book.
out and could therefore be omitted; the Lefer, who the Anyone who has followed the previous explanations line by line must understand this on the to reach the rational conclusion: If Freemasonry truly striving for a world republic – and there's no doubt about that⸗ feln – when they everywhere initiate revolutions for this purpose⸗
If she instigated it, and there is absolutely no doubt about that, then she is certainly not without blame for the tremendous, most powerful revolution⸗
The only solution that ever existed was the World War itself. Already
The mere assumption suggests that their share in this fearful
The devastation of Europe is far greater than we unsuspectingly imagine.
and are inclined to assume harmless Germans from the outset.
While the pacifist Freemasons used the slogan of World peace was hurled into the masses, driven by the influential French Swiss and English Freemasonry a policy that leads to tent, revolution, i.e., which in reality had to lead to a world war.
Brother Wilhelm Ohr, who was formerly a pacifist and cosmopolitan.
and only through the war did a nationally conscious German emerge.
has become, says without hesitation or reservation: “The whole French Bol is to blame for the catastrophe in Europe because he is the German people didn't want to get to know each other because it was in extremely dangerous circumstances. to judge biasedly, to have played with the Alsatian question, like a child with the lighter, and discussing the meaning and spirit of German succumbed to the fatal delusions of nature.” Following this He says something else that we particularly want to note: "Freemasonry as one of the major, leading The powers bear this guilt in the first line.” ?) Br. Ohr believes that Freemasonry had an enlightening and reconciling effect. She should have countered the distorted popular perceptions and The French Grand Orient in particular would have its highest idol,

---

1) The new entries, additions and corrections mostly take place the remarkable source work by Karl Heisse: “Entente Freemasonry and World War”, Basel 1919, Ernst Finckh Publishing House, taken from.

) Ibid., pp. 180f.

"We must overcome the family of ideas from 1789." Br.. Ohr He therefore sees the Freemasons' guilt in a mere sub-let; that this is a mistake was already established in the 14th century. book proven, in which the assassination of the Austrian throne-Folgers, based on the consistent statements, as a work of the French Grand Orient. But also Br.. Ohr must admit that "the Freemasons of France on the collapse of the German state with the greatest “They had calculated with certainty.”!) The educated Frenchman says He saw in Germany only a colossus with feet of clay. What When he read about Germany in all his newspapers, it was a terrible thing. stark contrast between the imperialism of the emperor, which in feverish lust for power, he wanted to expand his empire and the social Revolution... This revolution was what the Freemasons were seeking. To promote France wisely... Admittedly, that this is the This may have been the average opinion of the French Freemasons, One must not overlook the fact that the French Order-The management pursued a very active, forceful policy, and that was about the “Secret” — just like with previous events that the un-The knowledgeable people were surprised — but only a few “highly luminous” brothers may have known; but they certainly had neither. No occasion or opportunity to tell the brother the secret of... June 28, 1914, to tie to the nose.

One only has to put oneself in the situation at that time: The Freemasons of France knew Austria-Hungary and Germany but only from the portrayals of our internal enemies. They They only knew the destructive forces, but not the state. receiving. Their line of reasoning may therefore have been something like this:

his: With the death of the Austrian heir to the throne
All inhibitions fall away; for the old, eighty-four⸗
The 20-year-old emperor cannot possibly have over- the excitement-life, but the young emperor is too inexperienced and Far too good-natured, in short – Hungary must be destroyed⸗ fall. But Germany, surrounded on all sides,
It will then not even turn into a warlike showdown.
Let them arrive first. The socialists and those who are re-Publicly inclined bourgeois representatives will rather, put an end to the empire and the Depose Hohenzollern to prevent a war.

The hope for a revolution on the part of the German Ar⸗ beitermaſsen was a completely all⸗ in foreign Freemason circles

---

) Karl Heise, Entente Freemasonry and World War, pp. 180 f.

common and was expressed on countless occasions.
That these were the line of thought and the guiding principles is not mentioned.
This is also evident from two little-noticed facts: From the systematic withdrawal of gold from the German Reich on the part of
of the international financial powers and from the mobilization that is taking place in Russia already began in the early spring of 1914. With the possibility⸗ Everyone probably expected a major war, but certainly not with a four-year duration.

To put it even more clearly: The Freemasons wanted the World revolution for the sake of a world republic, that is according to their proved their own confessions. A world war, on the other hand, seemed imminent.
to them as an Abel, whom they did not seek for his own sake, but rather hoped to avoid it. For such a course of action Does our Austrian criminal law possess a suitable expression in the concept of dolus indirectus, as used, for example, in the case of death⸗
A blow is demanded: An act carried out with hostile intent, whereby (A person dies, but without the intention to kill.!)

The "knowing" Freemason princes were absolutely certain.
with an uprising of the Czechs, as they were told by Br.. Kra⸗ march and Br.. Mafaryk had been put in sight, which reckoned with the secessionist intentions of the Poles, Ruthenians and South Flanders, with a decline in the number of Austrian Italians and the Romanians in Hungary. They were also counting on social assistance.
Democrats who would prevent war here, as in the Reich,
They ultimately placed their hopes on the pacifist activities of the liberals.
Press in the two empires and not least also on the Influence that German Freemasons have on the preservation of peace⸗
They would take them. However, there was one thing they hadn't counted on:

With the immense bitterness of the masses towards the Serbian Assassins. Political murders are rare in our country – by comparison. to the Romance states – for indeed to the greatest rarities⸗ and so it is explained that the outrage is a very general was and the declaration of war on Serbia was seen as a liberating act⸗ was found, not only among the Germans, but also among a Part of the foreign-language peoples of Austria-Hungary.

For the French Freemasons there were two main⸗ Reasons to want and risk war; initially it was the all⸗ common wish of all (non-German) Freemasons, the “tyrannical imperial powers,” to destroy the “autocracies” and republics

Section 140 of the Criminal Code reads: If the act by which a person loses their life comes, not with the intention of killing him, but in a different, hostile manner.

If the act was committed intentionally, then the crime is manslaughter.

to replace them. Then the thought of it particularly appealed to her.
To regain Alsace-Lorraine. The idea of revenge was indeed born.
especially in the French Freemason lodges;
There are even lodges there whose very name...
To keep the idea of reconquering Alsace-Lorraine alive at all times (searched!!) Incidentally, barely 4% of the population in Alsace spoke French.
Zösian and in Lorraine not 29%; and of the right, Fran⸗
Only about three percent of the population made use of the option to remain in zoſen in 18 Nevertheless, the French, or rather, their Freemasons, viewed ſche Oberſchicht, den Verlost Alsaß-Lothringens, das ſeit ur⸗ Old times were quintessentially German, when an outrageous injustice was committed again
It would have to be made right. It was also lodge brothers who...
This demand was made with all force during the World War.
represented the French Chamber, and again it was Lodges⸗ brothers who signed the secret treaties with England and Russia closed, in which the French lost all of Alsace-Lorraine, the Saar⸗
The basin and the Rhine border were assured. That's what the former said.
Prime Minister Br.. Charles Dupuy in the French Cam⸗ mer: "... I demand that the French borders be extended to the Rhine."
and go as far as the Moselle and that we have a French governor (to see him in office in Koblenz?) And the former Minister-President Brother Ribot demanded that from Alsace-Lorraine and the Saar Basin is being turned into a French "buffer state". s) Again a another French Freemason, the former Prime Minister Br..
Briand demanded in a secret session of the French Chamber the same territories for France itself, again up to the Rhine border! :-) All the hatred of the French lodge bigwigs
The same Brother Briand grasped the ludicrously sounding, but to put together some quite serious words: Germany and the German people are doomed to destruction!)

These words, dictated by the will to destroy, are directed at those who...
Written in the family register, which so readily speaks of a "guilt" of Germany.
want to speak because peace did not come about sooner.
is. The German Freemasons could not escape such outbursts of satanic rhetoric.

For example, the lodge "Alsace Lorraine", founded in 1872 as a political protest against t
The lodge “La Revanche” was founded following the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine to German the lodge Les enfants de Mars (Children of War), built in Béziers in 1902, etc.

) Cf. “Deutsche Politik”, 1917, No. 34, essay by the Swiss Rudolf Hürbin.

2) See Karl Heise, “Entente Freemasonry and World War”, p. 86.

) Cf. the “Suisse” (Geneva) of June 10, 1917, quoted according to Heise, ibid.

8) Parisian “Havas” report of October 13, 1917. It should be noted that This Br... Briand was expelled from the Paris Bar for rape-was closed, which did not prevent him from being appointed Prime Minister nine times.
appoint!

However, they should not be surprised by the hatred; after all, it was one of theirs, Br... Isaac Adolphe Cremieur, feinerzeit fran≠ Swiss Minister of Justice, who had already expressed the same idea more than who, in a human lifetime, has stated: “The intention of the lodges
"If, to destroy Germany!" And this brother... Sfaak Cremieux knew very well what he was talking about: after all, he was the founder of the “Alliance Israélite universelle” and also “Sou ve≠” Räner Grand Commander of the Supréme Conseil”, i.e High-ranking mason of the 33rd degree,!) therefore one of the "knowledge"
“the”, one of those three hundred men who followed Walther
Rathenau to rule the world and "make world history"?

That it is indeed about lodge plans is confirmed.
through a "Havas" report of December 19, 1917, which the "Appeal by the highest authority of the French Freemasonry” published. It says there: “France bleeds for the Liberation of all peoples, including enemy peoples (h. The Jor≠
The move to Alsace-Lorraine is therefore a demand of the past powerful right (). Elfaß≠Lothringen's recovery is therefore a symbol of safety and salvation...) Therein lies the a clear admission that France was fighting for war was guided by Freemason ideals.

German Freemasons have now attempted to...
French statesmen Br.. Poincaré, Br.. Clemens

ceau, Br.. Briand, Br.. Delcaſſé etc. to protect oneself⸗ teln; they simply denied her membership in Freemasonry." However, since they were improved by Prof. Dr. Schiemann) and more recently by the Swiss Karl Heiſe, who is excellently taught, Since this has been confirmed, there is no reason for any correction.
before. It may well be that those men such a Masonic body—members of groups not affiliated with the German Grand Lodge Federation recognized find; for example, the "Supréme Conseil" remained
The "Grand Lodge of France" has so far denied German recognition. says, likewise the "Grand National Mother Lodge for France" and its colonies"; but this is no reason not to treat them as free⸗
To allow bricklayers to be considered. The fact is that all or almost all Statesmen and ministers of France are, in part, Freemasons. belong to lower, sometimes higher grades and always have the will

---

) "Der Zirkel", Vienna 1914, No. 33.

3) "ée? Free Kl „Bien, 25 December 1909.

) See Karl Heise, ©

) For example, Br. ch in the "Bauhütte" 1919, p. 187 f.
H "Deutsche Politik", 2nd year, p. 594.

to carry out the lodge's duties. The judge is therefore quite correct that...
"Badian observers," when he says: "If Ribot, if Lord Cecil,') when Wilson expresses his views on the war aims, find These are always just sham demonstrations of the same thing.
international Freemasonry."

That many of these statesmen, such as Br..
Poincaré, who has a highly tainted past, plays in the apparently no role for the French Republic. Is that through the Suez Canal history heavily burdened, fo ijt Br.. Clemenceau ſohnzeit exposed as a Panamanian and Brother Briand, whose father owned a successful hourly hotel, grew up in an environment on, in which one is less concerned with morals, but all the more with was guided by sounding considerations.

But not only ministerial posts, but also all other influential positions⸗ rich and lucrative positions are available in the Republic of Equality⸗ unity, freedom and fraternity preferably by Freemasons occupied. Numerous high-ranking military officers are also Freemasons, such as...
Grand Master Br... Beigne, who served as Divisional General was entrusted with the command of an army corps." Yet another Freemason, Brother Debierre, the President of the "Grand—orients of France,) was recently used for study purposes sent to Alsace-Lorraine; the deputy of the French Chamber, Br.. Jonnart – also involved in the Suez Canal fraud involved') – was appointed High Commissioner of France and England≠ land sent to Greece, where he found the rightful king forced by French cannons to kill the traitor Br... Venizelos to install him as dictator. And why? – Because King Con– Stantin had steadfastly refused to side with the Entente. to join and declare war on Germany! Doesn't that contradict itself? this brutal approach is not entirely in keeping with the nature of freedom≠ Masonry? – On the contrary! Indeed, the supreme law of its... “Freedom” is the main demand, “that no one should be restricted anymore.” may rain, as far as Freemasonry – the King of all kings, to the Tsar of all tsars – please is ... .“ These are the very words of the “Bulletin du Grand”. Orient de France”, 1889/1890, and the “Bulletin du Grand Orient” de Belgique“, 1911/1912.

) Ex represents the EE policy “
d EE EE June 1, 1917.
Wr. Fr. Z.”, August 1919, p. 25.
In France there is no "Grand Champion", but a President. of the Greater Orient.
) Cf. Karl Heise, p. 128. –)) Reproduced from Karl Heise, p. 41.

Once one has come to terms with this fundamental truth of the French– Only when one becomes familiar with Freemasonry does one truly understand its insane hatred against the Hohenzollern Wilhelm II, who was wanted to know nothing about the Freemasons and had had enough of those people. experiences that fine grandfather, Emperor Wilhelm I, with the French≠ Schen and his father, Emperor Frederick III, with the German Free≠ who had done masonry and who probably also did the masonry work≠ knew about which Bismarck wrote in his “Thoughts and Experiences”– "Memories" complains again and again.

The collapse of the German Empire was described in French. Sicilian circles were often predicted and announced; for example, in the well-known book published in 1912: "The Downfall of the German Empire, the Battle of Birhenfelden”, by the Major de Civrieux; in it he prophesies that Germany will be defeated with the third and last Hohenzollern emperors through the united togetherness ken of France (with Russia), England and Belgium completely I will perish... It almost seems as if Civrieux belongs to... to the semi-initiated brothers, whose pens were used to the large, cumbersome masses of the population slowly at the To get used to the idea of a terrible war... This pre– to build, to hint at and to prophesy, this drawing in of an allegedly "Inevitable" fate corresponds entirely to the nature of Freemasons, who initially viewed their own actions as acts of fate to put themselves there, to then, if everything has gone well, to be in to throw up his breast and the lower ranks with shuddering and To fulfill terror: Behold, this too is our work! — One must Admittedly, the roles were not badly distributed: Major de Civrieux had the “fate” of the High Ones decided by the World Lodge⸗ to clothe Zollern in the form of a future war novel;

the “famous” Madame Savigny the “impending tragic he⸗ to prophesy an event in the Austrian imperial family” and the Madame Lorenza was given a very special task, which she carried out in her own way.
also solved it brilliantly...

But let us return from these assumptions to reality.
back to harsh reality: The Jewish high-ranking mason Br..
Sfaak Cremieux, 33.*., already set a price of 1870.
one million francs on the head of the Hohenzollern Wilhelm J.
The fact that a head price was offered is mentioned by Moritz Busch confirms!) and not even German Freemasons agree⸗ denies it. Ten Parisian lodges also wanted Wilhelm at that time, Moltke and Bismarck before their Masonic court ()

1) See p. 78.

218 Freemasonry and World War.
to pull... Something similar happened in the World War. This time it was the movement was demonstrably initiated by the Parisian lodge L'Avant-Guard introduced, whereupon the entire choir of the Freemasons escorted⸗ ten newspapers used: "... Wilhelm's remaining in the German “The imperial throne is seen as a challenge…” said, for example.
the “Matin” (Paris); “... one must fully understand the Hohenzollerns
"Fall..." says the "Echo de Paris"; "... with the Hohenzollerns
"There is no peace..." it says in "Le Figaro". And soon after this introduction of the “International Freemasons’ Congregation” “greß” — in April 1917 — in Paris, was the most important Subject of the discussions: How can one speak German?
Land Selbstein, strong movement against the monarchy
To provoke? Because: The foundation of world peace⸗
This must form the basis for the deposition of the German emperor!
— The message spread with the speed of the radio message.
A thought spread across the entire globe. It could be read everywhere, in Every newspaper stated it in black and white: "Peace cannot..."
not be closed until Wilhelm II.
and Emperor Karl retires to private life.”
Of course, the German newspapers also reported it. But where?
It was stated that this demand came from the "International Freedom" that it had been set up at the Masonic Congress in Paris and that the “Grand Orient” and the “Grande Loge de France” behind it⸗ hidden?? — The effect on the German reading animal was ver⸗ Astounding. At first, Michel was outraged by this audacity.
But the German-language newspapers kept bringing new evidence.

for the fact that – from the Entente's point of view, of course – there could be peace wit Prior elimination of the German emperor was not possible. Then came Wilson's declaration of war on Germany! And Didn't Wilson also celebrate at the American Congress? He explained that he was only waging war against the German government. Rung, but not against the German people?! Even the former English Prime Minister Asquith made his voice heard, that no peace could be made with Emperor Wilhelm. Not yet. The Freemasonic “Corriere della Sera” (today) made this clearer (Fascist). He hunts: "... On the Germany of Wilhelm II lies "The curse of the whole world..." That was certainly a terrible thing. Exaggeration; the correct wording should be: On the German Wil⸗ Helms II is the banishment of the entire world –Freemasonry curse But at least the word had an effect, the purpose was achieved: The German Michel became thoughtful and began to seriously It might be worth considering whether, for the sake of peace, perhaps

But it would be better if the German emperor, on which, after all, Did he abdicate voluntarily, even though the curse of the entire world lay upon him? So th The inner, intellectual revolution had already begun, which Initially, this manifested itself only in undermining confidence in victory. Bethmann Hollweg is accused of having been the target of this latest attack⸗ The word of world Freemasonry was not delivered with corresponding sharpness. has opposed it.

But stupidity rarely comes alone. To top it all off, Oberjlug The Social Democrats were given passports to Stockholm so that they (The Republicans!) would bring peace to the empires! They didn't bring peace, but they did bring a new slogan. Truly Masonic in character: democratization! Ugh! When our enemies threatened us with annihilation every day, there was For the Social Democrats, there is nothing more important to do than... to demand the democratization of the Prussian state election law And here in Ofterreich, the municipal election law! Behind the The buzzword “democratization” actually concealed something else entirely, that one was not yet allowed to say out loud: the Republic⸗ blikanization, or – as the Paris Freemasons' Congress calls it – had announced a few weeks earlier – the dethronement of the Hohenzollern and Habsburgs.) This via the roundabout way Seeds sourced from Stockholm to Paris, brand Demokrati⸗ The seedlings soon sprouted abundantly in the stalks. Half a year had already passed. Later – at the end of January 1918 – Lloyd George was able to note with inner satisfaction in the English House of Commons: "... After According to completely reliable news, an inner revolution is underway in Germany. lands immediately before, so that the Entente would certainly come to the the annexation peace she desires will be achieved, which England's war aims were fully satisfied without German involvement. The country itself will notice...“

1) This is merely a statement of historical facts,
But not to express an opinion in favor of this or that ruling house.
Read Scheidemann's "collapse", which is an unconscious self-mockery.
almost unparalleled – only Bethmann can be considered a competitor – Scheidemann's role towards van Kol is downright pathetic.
Worthy. Sch.'s agreement with Bethmann Hollweg, Bernstorff, is also touching.
Brockdorff, Rantzau, and the other leaders of the hated old regime, who all Friends and ministers of the revolution were! – Furthermore, let no one fail to…
who wishes to study German-Masonic-Pacific thought, Bethmann's "Be⸗ to read “attempts to wage the World War”. Bethmann rants vehemently about the “glaring Voices of the All-Germans” (II. p. 59); defends the enemies: “To be rejected is the
The conclusion is that the Entente powers intended to turn the Balkan War into a war.
to let European war grow out of it” (II. p. 72); raves about the “cultural French genius” (II, p. 60), etc. In view of such a chancellor, it was of course necessary the war will be lost.

5) “Inf.” Correspondence of 31 January 1918. This and the earlier Quotes are taken from Karl Heise, p. 27 ff.

220 Freemasonry and World War II. on Did the idea of the throne originate from the lodge center in Paris?
The murder of the successor and all the war propaganda, Jo was there too.
The main resistance to a “peace without annexations and comm-to find pensions. Of course! Since the French Free⸗
The masons had only dared to wage war in order to secure Alsace-Lorraine with to preserve the Rhine border and to establish the German Republic to see, therefore any peace that would have been “unacceptable” to her was
It did not meet either of the lodge's main demands. That the peace⸗
Germany's will to war against France's will to war, i.e., the will of Germany
"Grand Orient" failed, and that's now officially confirmed, so to speak, today.
confirmed, namely by the testimony of Count Bernstorff, the before the Commission of Inquiry on the possibility of peace keiten explained the following: "... In January 1916, the American⸗ Colonel House was in Berlin for the second time. When he returned, he explained to me that the main resistance to the peace⸗
(to find in Paris...) – With this weighty
The investigation into the activities of the French is evidence of this.
Freemasonry and its guilt in the war, in the prevention of peace⸗ rung and provisionally concluded Germany's miserable peace.

The overwhelming majority of Freemasons is particularly evident.
to prove the World War against Italy. The Triple Alliance (Germany⸗ Austria⸗Hungary⸗Italy) already had an emp in 1902⸗ suffered a significant blow when under the young King Victor Emma wel III. an rapprochement with France took place. Three Free⸗
It was the bricklayers who had brought about this rapprochement:
the Italian Prime Minister Br. Zanardelli, the French Ambassador in Rome, Br.. Barrere and the French Foreign Ministry⸗

Minister Br.. Delcaššé, who jubilantly used the French name could announce that Saxony would never become France attack .....

The following period was considered less important.
However, the political event of the first order is Italy's return.
to evaluate the security treaty with England and France, which came about on April 3, 1914 and the encirclement of the means⸗ powers completed. The Barifer edition of the "New Dork Herald", (who informs us of this fact?) does not forget to point out, that at that time Russian mobilization was already underway in was in full swing. The contracting parties were again

1) See, for example, Deutsches Volksblatt (Vienna), October 22, 1919.
2) On May 22, 1915.

all represented by Freemasons; Br.. San Giuliano,)) Br. Poincaré, Br. Edward Grey.)

On June 28, 1914, the inauguration decided upon by Freemasons took place and carried out the assassination of the Austrian heir to the throne and already On June 29, 1914, the "Order Government" of the Grand Orient took office.
from Italy to a meeting to discuss the newly created⸗ to discuss the open world situation. The Grand Master at that time was Br..
Ettore Ferrari 33...

On July 31, 1914, Grandmaster Ferrari issued a round⸗
They wrote to all 460 Italian lodges, stating: “The Order’
The government will make every conceivable effort to ensure that that the action of all the major oriental states (of the whole world) would be unanimous and in agreement with the generally accepted reasons⸗
“I perform the tenets of Freemasonry…” What does that mean? — That
This means that one can make Freemasons of the whole world Fighting against the “autocracies” of Europe — "ëm:
incitement against Germany and Austria become.

On September 6, 1914, Grand Master Br..
Ferrari a new circular letter in which he discusses the Italian lodges⸗ brothers were instructed on the position they were to assume in the future:
Italy must and will enter the war, fobald
the opportune moment has arrived; until then, all freedom must be granted.
maurer awakens the national conscience in the most emphatic way⸗ to shake the people and educate them for war

On September 13, 1914 — it was since the last round⸗

Br... Ferraris barely a week had passed – it happened (already at the first major demonstrations against Ofterreid). They They took place in Café Aragno and in the square in front of the Quirinal Palace. and culminated in the desire that Austria must annex Trieste and Trento to step down. The main speaker was the Freemason Brother Civinini, writings. Head of the “Corriere della Sera”. ")

1) Brother San Giuliano, who has already entered the eternal Orient, was a Freemason and had been a member of the "Universo" lodge in Rome since 1893; cf. Heise, p. 111.

2) Incidentally, the current King George V of England is also a lodge member. brother. According to a statement from the “Circle” (Vienna) dated May 15, 1889, he was p. 37, by his father, the later King Edward VII, in the year 1886 of the Lodge brought about. King George V's son is also already a Freemason, namely he was He was initiated into the lodge on May 2, 1919.

The "Corriere" was a decidedly Masonic newspaper and had the High Command of Italian Freemasonry, cf. Karl Heise, p. 112. Since the victory Fascism forced him to fundamentally change his attitude.

On September 20, 1914, in a secret meeting⸗ The Milanese lodges expressed their hope that the war would be averted. will bring Freemasonry its greatest triumph: A time⸗ old, free from thrones and altars. The Freemasons Principles must triumph everywhere!!

The street demonstrations took place on October 20, 1914. repeated to an increased extent; they too were by Freemasons organized.

When the former German Chancellor in November 1914 and later ambassadors in Rome, Prince Bülow, negotiations a deal was brokered between Italy and Austria to protect the land owned by the Italians To let them cede such highly coveted Trentino to them, it was the Freemasons, who sought to thwart this intention) and actually thwarted it.

Now the commotion started in the Italian chamber as well. The first attempt was made by the Republican representative and Freemason. Br.. Commandini, who demanded that the parliament of the then but neutral Italy “to the heroic people of Belgium its "Greetings." And again it is a Freemason who later Prime Minister Br. Salandra, who already on December 3rd In 1914, the Chamber spoke of Italy's role in the reorganization. Old Europe will have to make significant demands.

That the war propaganda originated from the Freemasons and only This was also very well known in Italy. The war-related... The Dutch newspaper "Vittoria", for example, wrote at the beginning of March 1915 about to the Italian Freemasons: These people who have been continuously involved since 1870 They are working to dissolve the state and want to incite us into a war. which originates from Freemasonry, which receives its commands from the (Grand Orients of Paris and London are received.) And so it was. The lodge opposed the independent men. in the most violent manner; for example against Giolitti, who was in Rome his life was no longer safe. The Italian Chief of the General Staff But General Pollio, who was a staunch opponent of the war was, died suddenly under very strange, never explained circumstances (Circumstances...) The independent press became weaker day by day. smaller. Even before the war, numerous daily newspapers existed. available to the Freemasons; many had been mediated by the

1) See “On the Paths of International Freemasonry”, p. 25.
) Cf. Br.. Wolfgang in the “Invisible Temple” 1916, p. 307.
) According to the "Kölnische Volkszeitung" of March 6, 1915; quoted from Heise, p. 121.
) Bal. “Reichspost” of September 23, 1915, communicated to “Steimaurerei, Press (re World War) by Br.. Dr. JC Schwabe, Frankfurt a. M., 916.

French ambassador in Rome, Br.. Camille Barrere, high received visitation funds; this enabled the Italian socialist Bentini to... without contradiction and with widespread outrage in the chamber to claim that French advertising activity has already Before the war, 25 million lire were spent on the Italian press. have.”) And the “B. 3. on Mit” which in this case is certainly not in suspicion The newspaper “tag” wrote on May 28, 1915: Belgians, Frenchmen and irredentists People from Trentino gave hateful speeches throughout Italy against the Triple Alliance; enormous sums were spent on press and advertising. Steps were expended and every means was used to bring about the "He won over wavering politicians to his side."

On March 10, 1915, Mazzini's Day, the Free Professor Br. Vaccaluzzi, 33.9, a young man his wartime speech, in which he recalled Mazzini's program, whose realization was now imminent: We take, he said, the problem arises at the point where Mazzini is behind us⸗ has been allowed. (This refers to the conquest of Trieste and Trent, including...) all related areas.)

The war propaganda reached its peak with the large public- Freemasons' war rally on May 5, 1915; they took place on the occasion of the Garibaldi celebration in Quarto near Genoa. Watt and Gabriele d'Annunzio delivered a great and fiery war speech: All 493 lodges in Italy accepted the commission, along with their flags.

the Grand Master participated in it. “All lodges have contributed to this Day after Genoa, MPs and their banners were un: “Send,” it said in the circular from the Grand Orient, in which on the significant decisions of this eventful day was especially pointed out.

Less than three weeks passed and Italy declared war.
The agreement with Austria did indeed take place. Should anyone still be aware of this?
have the slightest doubt as to whether it is wholly or partly a work of the lodge was, so he relied on the "decree" of Grand Master Br... Ferrari referred to, on the first anniversary of the declaration of war, on May 24th.
1916, explicitly stated: “The declaration of war was made on the decree of the Grand Orient of Italy!”) This
The way it's expressed sounds rather strange; it becomes understandable, knowing that the then Prime Minister, Br.. Sa⸗ Landra, who had first declared Italy's neutrality.

f Cf. “International. Zurich, November 1917.

Quoted from Karl Heiſe, p.
Mazzini died on March 10, 1872
See Br.. Wolfgang id Bauhiitte 1916, No. 37.

is also a lodge brother, even if he belongs to a different branch belongs to Freemasonry, namely the Scottish Rite, who at that time held the gentler view of his president, Br.. Sa⸗ Verio Gera paid homage; but since the Order Council of the Grand Orient of Italy, the sole Masonic supreme authority for all Masonic matters Russian rites in Italy is, as the Prime Minister Br...
Salandra simply obeyed and followed the orders of Br.. Ferrari, who was at the head of the Order's council, to declare war.

Thus, especially in the case of Italy, a completely seamless
Proof must be provided that it is exclusively the Italian ones.
Freemasons, to whom we attribute Italy's entry into to thank for the World War!

Even the German Free Democrats could eventually benefit from such facts.
Don't just blindly walk past a bricklayer; Jo, for example, has Br... Müffelmann a publication, 1) which convincingly demonstrates that Italy's entry into the World War exclusively the work the Freemason is and Italian Freemasonry as who has incurred this grave blood guilt (fic). If Br...
But Michelmann only now realizes that "between the free⸗ Freemasonry in Italy and German Freemasonry is the most profound (!)

"Differences exist," that's rather late, because these differences have existed since time immemorial.

To get back to the matter itself: Already in the spring
In 1914, at least six Freemasons served as ministers in the Italian government.
Cabinet. That shouldn't surprise anyone familiar with the situation there.
somewhat knows; as the influential said years ago
Grand Lodge Secretary and Brother of the 33rd Degree Ulisse Bacci: “It
It is essential that the ministers are either our brothers or be overthrown!” In Italy, France, England and the Ber-
In the United States, it is practically the rule that ministers lodge-(brothers are?) In some states, it is customary that the Freemasons at public celebrations in Masonic clothing, in Ornate, appear, so that any layman could easily recognize those ministers, the brothers can be recognized as such.)

Subsequently, more Freemasons joined the Italian chapter.
binett a, fo Br... Salandra, Br... Sonnino,?) Br.. Barzilat,°)

1) Dr. Ludwig Müffelmann: “Italian Freemasonry and its impact on
"Italy's Participation in the War", Berlin, 1915. (For Bremen and Frmr. only)

Minister Giolitti was, exceptionally, not a Freemason.

5) E.g. B. in England, in America.

*) Sonnino is of Semitic descent.

5) Br. .. Barzilai ijt ein Trieſtiner Jede, der formerly called Bürzel.

Br.. . Commandini, Br... Bissolati ua The Main - War-
However, the agitator was Br... Ernesto Nathan; he later let himself to elect Grand Master, mainly to ensure every peace⸗ to stifle the denominational movement in Italy in its infancy. Already his
The inaugural address on November 27, 1917 is so remarkable that at least a few sentences from it are reproduced here, so that one can know the spirit of this "excellent bricklayer") learns; Br.. Nathan also thundered as newly elected Grand⸗ Master rant: "Down with the pacifists! War on them!" with all weapons! With the peaceful weapons of perjury and with the “persuasion” of non-peaceful weapons (add: (machine guns). Peace is treason against the fatherland! The Peace is the viper whose head will be crushed without pity.
Must! Worthily spoke our old friend Clemenceau, likewise
Our friend Lloyd George. Shall we look behind these two?
"To Italy's shame befall us? No, and a thousand times no!"

It should be remembered that Brother Nathan gave this satanic war speech. not as a private individual, but as the top boss of the Italian Freemasonry; fine rule extended (actually) over all 493 Italian lodges, because as Grand Master of the As Grand Orient of Italy, he was also chairman of the "Order" Councils for all Masonic systems in Italy.” This Order Council It consisted of 120 members; in addition, there was a "Smaller Council", Dellen members with the major oriental groups of the world in un-were in indirect contact; so Br... Nathan himself represented the Grand Lodges of Spain and Mexico; the Grand Master of the Scotsritus, Br.. Achille Ballori,”) represented the Berlin “Grand Lodge of the three globes”, then the Grand Lodges of New Zealand, Tasmanias etc.

Nathan was Grand Master of the Grand Orient of Italy moreover, he is also chairman of this "Inner Council" and in his So all the threads came together by hand. If later the same Br.. Nathan praised the League of Nations as an ideal, “) so they can The incorrigible German idealists should learn a lesson from this.

Like all other offices and ministries, it was of course also

---

1) Printed in the Masonic "Secolo" (Genoa); she was sent to the frontsoldiers distributed.

2) This is what the Viennese “Circle” called him, 1911, No. 4, p. 54.

5) See “Neue Zürcher Nachrichten” of July 2, 1918, which was published by Karl Heisse Quoted on page 119.

Grandmaster Ballori was dismissed for political reasons at the beginning of November 1917. Murdered; perpetrator unknown!

H Bal. “Wr. Fr. Z.”, May 1919, ©. 54.

the Office for War Propaganda with a Freemason occupied; it was Minister Br. Commandini, a loyal and a reliable member of the lodge and a special friend of the Policy of the French ambassador in Rome, the Brs. .. Camille Barreère. !) But Br. . Barrère, who in November 1898 Rome was sent to bring Italy into the fold of France. The “Neue Zürcher Zeitung” judged as follows: “Mr. Barrere meistert der Behindnung der italisen Presse in jo vollkommeneder Weisse, perhaps the most cunning diplomat to date. And yet

The magnificent planning aims at the demolition of the Triple Alliance and on a voluntary vassalage of Italy against≈ about the Frenchman from . ..")

The war smin isterium was also affected during the war.
entrusted to a Freemason, Brother Ottolenghi. He is a descendant of the Ottenheimers, therefore of Semitic descent,s) was tutor to Victor Emmanuel and was appointed Count by him.
stood raised.

Now a word about the Italian press: It is, like almost everything else, everywhere, mostly for sale. The sums involved through Br.:
The amounts of information transmitted to Barrere were immeasurable. Here Let us mention only the most famous major newspapers in Italy, The partly out of inner conviction, partly for payment in a voluntary capacity≈ worked in a Masonic sense and for the war against the Central Powers entered; these are: “Corriere della Sera", "Secolo", "Idea Nationale", "Tribuna", "Mef≈
sagero“, „Giornale d'Italia“ nibst viele anderen.”)

In conclusion, one can probably say: The entry Ita= Liens in den Welthkrieg ist aussonderlich ein Werk der Italian Freemasonry. A similar conclusion was reached—Even the German Freemason, Brother Dr. Dietrich Bij, is sufficient.
He says: Italian Freemasonry is the true banner-driving force behind the entire political war movement. Also Brother Dr. Leopold Wolfgang, Brother Dr. Müffelmann and Others speak very disparagingly of Italian Freemasonry.
But that's far too little. If these German brethren... Freemasons to act as if only the Italian and perhaps the French were being discussed French Greater Orient conduct high politics and world history

1) See Karl Heise, p. 218, 113.

9) Thus, the “NZ 3.7” wrote before six months and 15 minutes ago that it was still in the SE had passed over to the Entente... Cf. Karl Heise S.

) a =” ut3 Book: “Famous Jewish Women and always. taken from

Hot, S
For more details, see Karl Heise, pp. 116, 117.

If they do that, they are thoroughly mistaken. It has already been earlier in the essay “Freemasonry — Charity — Po≈
"Litik" has dealt extensively with the fact that Freemasonry of politically active all over the world, in contrast to the German, where this generally doesn't apply. But how negligible, how vanishingly small is the number of German bricklayers in Ratio to the total number! 60,000 Freemasons in Germany They faced 3,000,000 bricklayers from the other states, so hardly 2% versus 98%! And how small is their influence in the aftermath! land! The German foreign lodges are mostly just namesakes. to German, but in reality Jewish⸗international.

People both here and in the wider world have often wondered, that the German-Swiss served for the Germans during the World War The Reich showed little affection, while the French The Swiss stood wholeheartedly on France's side. The lodge's influence is unmistakable here as well. The Swiss Grand Lodge The lodge “Alpina” comprises 35 lodges and a larger number of wreaths⸗ of these, however, only 11 lodges are German, 23 are purely French. and one is Italian. Among the 4300 brothers there are approximately 1500 Germans, 2700 French, and about 100 Italians. With others In words: In Swiss Freemasonry, the French prevail. The element is such that the numerical ratio of two large nations living in Switzerland, almost in opposition⸗ Partly incorrect; it states 64% Germans and 28% Germans. French and 8% of Italians opposite, while from the Swiss French Freemasons 64%, French 34%, German and 2% of Italians are.

This predominant influence of the French Freemasons⸗ The attitude of the Grand Lodge “Alpina” during the World War was also expressed. war. It has already been pointed out that the “Freedom” Masonic World Business Office” is located in Neuchâtel (Switzerland); Its creator is the long-time Grand Master of the "Alpina" B.. Quartier la Tente, one of the most respected and influential Masons of the entire world Freemasonry belonged and still in the year 1913 with Br... Magelhäes Lima the Freemasonic "World Federation" Quartier la Tente was the one that initiated it. National Freemasons' Congress (Paris 1900) with special The main goal of Freemasonry is the creation of the world. referred to as the republic.

Quartier la Tente, the aptly named professor of Theology (J was (he died in 1926), already in autumn 1914 hateful Attacks against the German Empire. It was so much under French influence.

Inclusion, that he dismisses their claims and slander without judgment quoted: “Germany is waging war with cruelty and a brutality worthy of savage hordes.” That in reality the “savage Hordes from the interior of Africa, etc., from the Allied powers

He took note of those who were called up and fought on their side. No further. But this spirit dominated the entire Grand Lodge. Thus Brother Renaud, the retiring orator, also gave a speech at the (63rd) Annual Meeting of the “Alpina” !) a inflammatory speech in which he especially the “invasion of Belgium” by Germany in the strongest terms He condemned his words; therefore it is very appropriate to consider a lecture. inside, which the Belgian socialist leader and Freemason Br.. Vandervelde on July 5, 1913 in the French Grand Orient (?) before numerous masons; Vandervelde discussed at that time under among other things, he also discussed “Belgian neutrality” and the possibilities⸗ possibility that in a future war between France and Germany could become a battleground. And now comes this. Strange: Br... Vandervelde confessed that the English had declared to the Belgian government that they were in the Jalle of a conflict between France and Germany, the German one⸗ to prevent a collapse and to "defend" threatened Belgium "digen" would... Unfortunately, no Br... had the presence of mind, the hate speech by Br.. Renaud by referring to this fact to undermine the foundation. Another hate-monger and full-blown- blood⸗ Swiss is the brother.. Isaac Reverchon, since 1922 Grand Master of the Grand Lodge "Alpina"; he maintained the best relationships. Hungen to the Grand Orient of Portugal. Finally, the activity should also begin. The ness of Br... AH Fried should not be underestimated, who under under the guise of pacifism, hatred against Germany is expressed in word and deed. Scripture preached. The fact that in the French foreigner⸗ The Grand Lodge "Alpina" may be considered the legion of 8000 Swiss soldiers who fought. to highlight special merit; and if - like the Parisian “Petit Paris” announced - of these 8000 Swiss by the end of August 3000 had fallen in 1918?) yes, they contributed to the greater glory of the "Grand Orient de France" had to give their lives... The advertising Activities in favor of the Entente were largely carried out in Switzerland financed with American money; the “New Zurich News” “They spoke of 1.5 million dollars.”

The Grand Lodge “Alpina” was everything during the war, only

1) Bern, May 30, 1915.

7, Paris, Rue Cadet 16.

) See Karl Heise, “Entente⸗Freemasonry and World War”, p. 184.
9 Ibid., p. 185.

not neutral; also Br... Mambretti (from the lodge "Il Dovere") in Lugano) directed the most hateful attacks against Germany there, “) without contradiction to be found; finally, even the very ge⸗ German Grand Lodges forced to tolerate relations with "Alpina" to cancel.

The position of the Grand Lodge was generally also reflected in the Behavior of the Swiss Federal Council. “At the instigation of fran≠
The Roman Freemason (Clemenceau!) initially became the friend of the Germans.
Dear and exceptionally gifted Federal Councillor Hoffmann≠ expelled; Hoffmann worked for peace and was just as much a thorn in the side of the Entente as the pro-German one.
General Wille. Brother Ador was appointed in Hoffmann's place.
bracht, who is a member of the “Grand Orient de France”.
According to the Federal Constitution, BR. Müller should actually be the one.
to elect the President of Switzerland, who already who had served as Vice President at the time. The Federal Council had to However, elect Br.. Ad or as President! — Hardly a vote
He has spoken out against this handling of the constitution in Switzerland:
lifted. — And why not? — You'd have to have the Grand Orient de France ask... ."?)

The pro-French sentiment in Belgium is also the
The main thing is that it's a work by the Freemasons, who are, after all, in the Republic.
France sees its ideal, although King Albert of Belgium itself is Freemasonry. During the World War, they the Belgian Freemasons have completely sided with our enemies≠ fports, the alleged “German atrocities” collected and released—Masonic commissions of inquiry were appointed; they found but still time to review their own documents and the archive properly≠ to get them to safety in a timely manner, which was clearly absolutely necessary.

As is well known to the Germans, a particular "atrocity" is... thrown that she would give the death penalty to the English Miss Cavell≠ have pulled; but they completely overlook the fact that this sophisticated
The lady, through her peculiar activity, helped the German troops endlessly.
He caused a great deal of damage and therefore truly deserved this punishment.
Since then, Miss Cavell has been regarded by Freemasons as a kind of saint.
revered and likely to be renamed in the foreseeable future after Joan of Arc to be placed aside. The Grand Orient of France has also actually already the following remarkable resolution≠ taken: “The French, English, Belgian, Italian and Russian Freemasons met on November 7, 1915, at the

---

1) Meeting of 20 and 21 May 1916; cf. Latomia 1916, No. 13, p. 166.
) From a letter from a Swiss Freemason to the author.

The number, gathered for a formal meeting, greeted with Reverence and admiration for the memory of the heroic Miss Edith Cavell, who cowardly fled to Brüffel through the German barbarians were murdered, and brand them anew.

The actions of an enemy who, in the eyes of the civilized, "Disgraced humanity." — Let us listen in contrast to these. pregnant slanders, the judgment of a truly unpar≈ German informant: the Argentinian Lieutenant Colonel Emilio Kinkelin, who led the German armies on their campaigns in the East and West, in Italy and the Balkans as a war correspondent had slipped, he recently explained at a large gathering in Buenos Aires literally said the following: ... “I give you my honor” I am certain that I was never an eyewitness to this alleged cruelty. I have been in any way and never had an immediate or serious I heard charges against the actions of German troops. I have never heard of severed hands, rapes, Murders of women and children, poisoning of wells, etc., have been heard of or "Seen...!" That should suffice.

It was also the Belgian Grand Orient that established 49 Grand≈ a circular from the United States in September 1915 directed, in which he spoke out against Br. Wilson's efforts to establish a "To mediate a compromise peace, he emphatically rejected."

The Freemasons' aspirations can be seen particularly clearly, perhaps to incite all states to war against Germany, at Prove Spain. A circular from the Spanish Grand Orient. from October 1914 expresses the wish that Spain withdraw from its to stand up for neutrality and stand alongside France and England should fight. Furthermore, the Order Council wishes the Spanish Free≈ Bricklayers should make an effort to turn public opinion against Germans. to raise land and spread all the news that is in those Newspapers appear that are dependent on the lodges. In Barcelona Stormy street demonstrations were held to protest the war. to force against Germany; they originated from the Ferrer≈Gesellschaft, whose main Br... Alexander Lerroux is.

But even Freemasonry can ultimately understand these facts. "national newspaper" *) not to overlook; it admits that the foreign Grand Lodges “breeding grounds of hatred against Germanness” find”) especially the Spanish Grand Lodge, which is entirely under the

1) See “Hammer”, 1920, No. 427/428, p. 154.

2) See “Osservatore Romano” of September 29, 1915, published in Br. Freymann's writing "On the Paths of International Freemasonry", p. 39.

Official publication of the "Grand Lodge of the Three Globes", Berlin.

Federal Gazette, 1916, December 1.

ae S So WT, ee ae

Influence of the Grand Orients of France, Italy and Portugal; Yes, the "Bundesblatt" even openly admits that of the major the orient of the Romance countries that hatred emanates which Spain to drag them into the terrible world war. Some more Facts of this kind are immortalized here:') End of April 1917 the “Reformist Party” issued a lengthy statement on… favoring the break with Germany. Who was the recognized Leader of the "Reformist Party"? Prime Minister Eng: Niens, Br.. Romanones, a Freemason. His body⸗ The newspaper, the Masonic newspaper "Diario Universal", therefore welcomed this. including the entry of the "United States" into the World War with Open joy. Only Br... Romanones was overthrown when it became known in time that he had given the Spanish merchant fleet to the English⸗ wanted to extradite to countries. Furthermore: on May 27, 1917, Sand in the Bull⸗ A large gathering took place at the circus in Madrid, which also included the He demanded a break in relations with Germany. Who was he? The main speaker of the day? — Another Freemason, Brother Dr. Alexander Lerroux, whom we know as a warmonger and revolutionary as is already known. He explained at the time, among other things: How the As the Russian Revolution has shown, we are now faced with the question: Monarchy or republic. The Spanish Freemasons... At that time, they seriously considered the idea of Coup d'état; this is also evident from the English newspaper "Son". Bull” emerged, which on July 13, 1917 became the “prophecy” increased, “the days of King Alphonsus XIII as ruler of Spain is numbered.”?) It should not be overlooked that in Spain, Sir Edward Grey's "silver balls" are exactly the same. rolled, as in Portugal, in Italy, in Holland, in Switzerland, etc. At the end of August 1917, there were renewed serious disturbances in Madrid,

---

) See Karl Heise, pp. 136—139. In the 1922 edition of Dahlen's "Calendar" "For Freemasons" it says on page 270: "The Grand Orient of Belgium has through Decision of March 19, 1919 prohibiting all foreign trade with the German, Austrian, Hungarian and Turkish Grand Lodges have broken off negotiations. He considers all the Grar Grand Lodges declared them unworthy of belonging to the great friar family and forbade the editorial board from citing representatives of Grand Lodges.” Shortly before According to information from the Grand Orient of Belgium: "These are the details from 1921. In that year the Grand Orient wrote that he was waiting for the printing of any which (!) news items are omitted from our yearbook.” All this is brought to the German calendars without any commentary! And not only that: the "German" holidays! Despite these kicks, the bricklayers still print the information about the Belgian "Brr... of the "Masonic family"! Brother Dietrich Bischoff, however, who previously had nothing He who knew about German national interests saw in the German bricklayer the man, to build the future Germany. He's actually spouting nonsense at the beginning of the caler a poem entitled "German Admonition". At the same time, he travels around the country preac Against anti-Semitism. Characters!

) Quoted from Karl Heise, p. 138.

Barcelona, Bilbao, etc. The uprising cost approximately 400 lives and Strangely enough, it originated from the workers and trade unions, under the influence of Br... Romanones, the war with Germans≠ land demanded.") This fact must be particularly noted:
In Spain, the arsonists incited by Freemasons demand
The war, in Austria-Hungary, demanded by Freemason-led workers—peace! Was there?
more effective cooperation to defeat the empires nieces and everywhere to introduce the long-desired republics?

If Spain was spared the horrors of war,
Yes, this was primarily due to the pro-German Minister-President.
Denten Maura, the successor of the Brothers Romanones, and thanks to his peace-loving king; which again in a
In this individual case, proof has been provided that nowadays it is not the Kings are those who incite their people to war; those we k≠
The Freemasons are everywhere the real "warmongers"!

Freemasons have also been active in Portugal since the beginning of the World War II, he made a show of support for the French; nobody was on≠ of whom as Br.. It was Hervé who appointed the Portuguese Prime Minister≠ denten Br.. Theophile Braga as the originator of the French friend≠ Hervé referred to the demonstrations in Lisbon since August 1914.
therefore also welcomed "the election of our good friend Braga as a (Great victory for the Entente). And Br.: . Affonso Costa declared as leader of the Democrats on June 7, 1915, that the Democrats demanded a national policy and that they include Portugal's participation the European war as the very basis of their program considered! Intervening in the European war was essential,
The greater the sacrifices, the greater the right to glory.
and reparations at the peace treaty!! — In mellen Dinfte
Portugal's men stood firm, the independent Portuguese tells us.
El Privaz: "England wanted to make the simpletons believe, that a German victory would mean the end of freedom....
25 million were spent in Portugal for this purpose.
Money can control everything about public opinion, because the Public opinion is the press, and the press is — buy≠ lich. ..") Edward Grey's silver bullets, of which he Right at the beginning of the World War, they spoke of simply doing their duty;
But not just in Portugal, no, all over the world. Also.

---

1) "Inf."≠Correspondence of 28 August 1917, quoted according to Heise.

3) Maura is not a bricklayer.

) Cf. "On the international Freemasonry", ©. 35.
) Cf. Karl Heise, p.

No one understood this better than El Privaz.
from which the famous saying originates: “England Portuguese-
"The whole world is watching!" With that he meant England plunges the whole world into a state of disgrace—
The most utter slavery. And all this for the greater glory of the free!
Masonry! The Portuguese Grand Master Br... Magalhaes Lima
He says it clearly: "The victory of the Allies must be the (Triumph of Masonic principles will be achieved!)

The so-called "revolution" in Lisbon from mid-May 1915 was nothing other than a Masonic act of violence, from English Money was paid and with the help of the secret society "Formiga bianca" (White ant) carried out to mark Portugal's entry into the world-to enable war. General Pimento Castro, who has done this so far Since it had been prevented, it had to be overthrown so that the lodge could retain its
The goal was achieved.

An instructive example of the warmongering activities of the Freemasonry continues to educate Romania. First, let it be stated that A secret treaty between Romania and Romania was already concluded in the summer of 1913.
Greece and Serbia came to this, the fine point openly against Austria-Hungary. The contracting states were represented by three Freemasons: Br.. Majorescu (for Ru≠ Mania), Br.. Venizelos (Greece) and Br.. Paſitsch (Ger, bien). The Romanian General Coandra said — in January 1914 — Regarding this: “Romania has already taken the necessary steps undertaken to... the Romanian and Serbian to bring cannons to Hungary and those (unga-(Rish) part of the country, which has been part of the un for centuries:
“It is to incorporate oneself.” Even in Romania they originated the warmongering forces from the Freemasonic camp, so before especially the notorious Br. Take Jonescu; also Br.
Ceſar Jonescu is a Freemason, and in fact, a Grand Orator of the Nation-
Grand Lodge of Romania, dgl. Br... Bratianu and Br. . Costi≠
Nescu. At the outbreak of war, they were working there throughout the entire area.
16 lodges, five of which are dedicated to the French and five to the Italian.
They were subject to the Grand Orient. A "Supreme Council" naturally existed.
also; it includes over 200 of the most respected and influential Members of the National Grand Lodge. In contrast, the former King Carol of Romania, a reliable comrade

1) At the Freemasons' Conference in aoe on May 13, 1917; quoted in ben
"Neue Zürcher Nachrichten", 1917, No. 20

) Cf. Heise, “Entente Freemasonry in the World War”, ©. 145.

of the Central Powers: He was murdered. This noble prince died.
on October 11, 1914, after consuming poisoned coffee:
Other people in his vicinity also fell ill after being exposed to it.
had eaten the coffee that was passed around, under heavy mountaineering-manifestations of war... The way was now clear for open warfare.
hate-mongers, including the new Queen of Romania, an English
The princess belonged to the lodge "Unirea".
was the first to issue an anti-German appeal from the Parisian Grand Orient published in the Romanian daily newspapers. Now Since 1913, there has been a purely German lodge in Bucharest under the French Swiss name "Le Travail". It was under French control.
"Grand Orient", the refined, provocative against the Central Powers Circular also addressed to this lodge and its publication demanded by the press to also have a German-speaking country in Romania to provoke a hostile atmosphere. The lodge “Le Tra-” alone vai!" objected most vehemently, referring to the Grand Orient as a purely political connection – which he is indeed
...which is actually true – and broke off all contact with him. It It is clear that the lodge “Le Travail”, which has since been called “Zur Arbeit” which is not the only one, the folder type from the Great Orient was incited against Germany. She probably received this letter.
It was only preserved because those in Paris had overlooked the fact that this lodge consisted of Germans; in any case, this will reduce the warmongering
The Grand-Orient's activities were deemed to have been carried out flawlessly.

The war propaganda of Freemasons also spread in Greece.
from the other side. Br.. Venizelos had since winter
In 1914, everything was tried to draw Greece into the war against the means⸗ powers to draw in. Through skillful mediation, the Entente
The states of Greece offered him the most enticing deals, promising him soon the Turkish part of Albania (22 Nov. 1914), then again territory⸗ Acquisitions on the coast of Asia Minor (January 12, 1915), then even Cyprus; all in vain: The steadfast King Constantine wanted to bring the long-awaited peace to the fine people:
True and Brother Venizelos was dismissed. Thereupon, it was decided the furious Entente, in the strongest terms against King Constantine to proceed. He was simply threatened with death!
For example, the Freemason-led “Guerre Sociale” (No. 16) wrote (November 1915) "he had already come close to doing something like that."
could easily repeat it; misfortune comes so quickly! ...“”)

1) See “On the... of International Freemasonry” by Brother Ernst Freymann, 22. Since

In 1916, Brother Venizelos, 33 .*., called the English police to Greece; in 1917, Br. Jonnart appeared as High Commissioner.
the Franco-English naval forces and presented the Prime Minister Zaimis on June 11, 1917, the English French Caesar's ultimatum: Either King Constantine thanks you immediately.
ab, or Athens will be reduced to rubble... King Constantine did indeed abdicate; his son Alexander was succeeded by Although the Entente recognized him as "king," Br. Venizelos allowed to know him immediately that he had the rights of the crown of a – re-examination I will undergo this! He could only dare to do this because he had the knew he had the entire Freemasonic secret society behind him, so the “Grand” orient of Greece”, the “Supreme Council of Greeks⸗ land”, finally a whole series of lodges, which are under English, be⸗
They work, in a sense, under French supervision. It is significant that...
Br. Venizelos, just on the anniversary of the assassination of Franz Fer⸗ dinands seized the dictatorship (June 28, 1917).')

Brother Venizelos is also accused of other things.
It is claimed that he was the one who carried out the bombing attack on the had put the Bulgarian legation in Athens into action; the association Convicted criminal Samut, who was arrested, had a check for 20,000 Franks among himself. Furthermore, he is credited with the intention of becoming king.
to violently eliminate Konstantin. "Only with Venizelos With political approval and the assistance of esteemed friends, it was possible, the royal forest of Tatoi, where King Kon⸗ Stantin at that time decided to incinerate him.” The king could only with (To be saved with the greatest effort?) Br. . Venizelos is indeed the role model⸗
High-ranking mason: He knows why in the Knight's Kadoſch Straight dagger thrusts directed at a royal crown become.

Now to England. England's goal, that is, the top⸗
The Grand Lodge or World Lodge is the supremacy on the
the whole world.

As the famous Br. Ceeil Rhodes said,
Former President of the Cape Colony? – “English should be spoken:”

---

1) It seems as if one is currently in Entente circles has chosen this day intentionally to celebrate certain events: On June 28, 1918, the anniversary of the dictatorship of Br. Venizelos, received the Parisian
The local authority solemnly inaugurated the Greek colony. The French brother...
Minister Pichon, representing the Prime Minister, welcomed Brother Clemencean.
the Greek comrades, who for their part declared on behalf of Brother Venizelos, that they shared the same faith and confidence in victory as their opponents.
alliances. – Peace was again declared in Versailles on June 28th (1919).
signed with the German Reich; truly, a Felt James game of chance.

9) Karl Heise, “Entente Freemasonry and World War”, p. 142.

the: all of Africa, the Holy Land, the Euphrates Valley, all of South America, all the islands in the great ocean, holrural India, the coast of China and Japan and – the United States of North America
Br.. Cecil Rhodes, the co-initiator of the Boer War,
He believes that there would then be no more wars at all. And Another outstanding English Freemason, Brother Lord Kitchener supplemented these exposed lodge plans by already declared in 1911: The border of the English Empire
In Europe it is not the canal, but – the Meuse – (line!) Do these plans of the World Lodge sound extremely diabolical?— expensive, so the English are exactly the right people for it, to carry them out; the World War itself brought them to their goals.
One significant step closer. Entirely in keeping with the spirit of these world lodges.
Lloyd Georges demanded plans from the Germans at the end of June 1917.
Colonies in Africa for England, likewise Mesopotamia and Asia.
menien; that was at exactly the same time as the Russian and German Social Democrats in Stockholm on a "peace without "Conquests" were negotiated! And when the English...
When countries occupied the Holy Land, there it was again Lloyd Georges, who declared in the English House of Commons that the Eng≠ countries will never again release the holy sites of Palestine become.")

Conquest of lands and Freemasonry are intertwined in England≠ proper terms. One could say: The expansion of the British Colonial possessions and the strengthening of English Freemasonry
They complemented each other. “England’s greatness
"This is the work of the Freemasons"; the English themselves say
It. This word, however, does not refer solely to world trade, whose representatives are mostly Freemasons, but primarily on England's generals and conquerors. One might name, Anyone who wants to be a Freemason; for example, Brother:
General Gordon, Br.. Lord Roberts, the Commander-in-Chief in the Boer War, Br.. Lord Milner, the refined High Command≠ misery from South Africa; from the time of the World War in particular Among them were Br... General French, Br.. Lord Kitchener, etc.
Accordingly, we also find this in England and its colonies.
numerous lodges named in honor of these men; it There is an “Alfred Milner” lodge, several “Lord Roberts” lodges, “Gene-) See Francis Delaifi: La guerre qui vient? Paris 1911. Quoted from Karl Heise, p. 83.

) “Havas report of December 21, 1917; quoted from Heise, pp. 66 f.

ral Gordon"⸗Logen, "Kitchener"⸗Logen, "Cecil Rhodes"⸗Logen vim,
Other lodges are named after famous statesmen;
There is also a lodge called "L'Entente cordiale" – a Signs of how deeply Freemasonry and world politics are intertwined there⸗
He connects, finds. Therefore, the German Br. rightly pursues... Dr. Schwabe in the "Invisible Temple": "England's lodges, across the whole
They have spread across the earth, understood it, the English
"To serve imperialism in every respect." Br.
Schwabe also admits – and this is of particular value – that English lodges became involved in political activities during the war Congresses of Roman Freemasons in Rome, Paris etc. involved.!) Thus, immediately before Italy entered the World War, political discussions between major⸗ dignitaries of the English, French and Italian Freemasons⸗ rerei ftstatt and on February 12, 1915, in Paris by the leading Freemasonry of the Entente Italy's entry into the war has been definitively decided.?
On the influence of Judaism in English Free Masonry has already been discussed. Here it should only be briefly mentioned that numerous Jewish Freemasons were ennobled and some of them were brought into the English system.
were appointed to the House of Lords, for example Lord Beaconsfield (Benja⸗ min d'Sfraéli);5) Lord Rothschild, baronified since 1885, Lord Montague (Monday); his father was from Galicia⸗
Zien immigrant Jew; Lord Wandsworth (formerly: Stern);
Lord Burnham (Lewy Lawson), owner of the newspaper "Daily" Telegraph”; Lord Herschel (Naphtali): Lord Michlham (formerly: Star); Lord Bearsted (Markus Samuel); Lord Reading (Rufus Sfaacs); Lord Northeliffe (formerly: Stern, then Harms⸗ worth);) Lord Rothermere (brother of Northcliffe, Minister for

---

1) See Karl Heise, p. 62.

) Festschrift of the “Invisible Temple” 1917.

He was first a clerk, later a journalist, then he went into English Elected to the House of Commons, he became Chancellor, Prime Minister and Lord; he was a high Masonic honors, for he belonged to the "Brotherhood of Princes", the Order of the Garter Belt.

9) Lord Northcliffe's origins are still the subject of lively debate.
Jews deny the Hebrew origin of this now-dead, cunning villain.
(cf. about him “The Secrets of Crewe House”), while on the other hand still No sufficient evidence to the contrary has been presented. Now it is It is rather strange, though, that a man from Germany once emigrated to Ireland and – Harmsworth was the name. There appears to have been a name change. While The war has now also affected Lord North – in the general enthusiasm for Palestine.
cliffe once wrote to New York (to the Jewish Morning) in a telegram Journal) expressed the following: “I sympathize with the restoration of the old Jewish fatherland.” This is what the unsuspected Zionist tells us. Lazar Pinkus in his work "Before the Founding of the Jewish State". Zurich Aviation, etc.). That these Jewish lords played a very special role playing in English Freemasonry is already evident from this, that numerous lodges were named after them; for example, there is a Lodge “Montague”, a lodge “Ferdinand v. Rothschild”, one “Herschel Maftali” lodge, two “Beaconsfield” lodges, a “Wandsworth” lodge, two “Montefiore” lodges, etc. That Among the lords mentioned earlier were also the greatest Germans– Finding haters in England should not surprise us.

There is no kingdom on earth where the royal family so closely linked to Freemasonry, as is currently the case in England. Edward VII, “the greatest Freemason in the world”, has already been mentioned. pointed out. The current King George V is also a Freemason. although he does not play a special role, since his uncle, the Duke von Connaught, since the death of Edward VII, the Grand Masters≠ would hold. Likewise, the young heir to the throne, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, already admitted to Freemasonry; he also participated in the great victory celebration of the English Freemasons on June 27, 1919. – England's statesmen are – incidentally noticed – all Freemasons.

To promote Britain's global power ambitions, As early as 1885, a special "Empire Lodge No. 2108" was built. founded, to which primarily rulers belong, according to the Sultan of Zanzibar, the Sultan of Johor, etc.; also the Japanese state≠ Mann Hayashi, who was essential to the completion of the second English which contributed to the Japanese alliance, was encouraged to join≠ "Let it.") The assumption is that it is precisely the intervention that is the problem. Wieler owes it to the “Empire Lodge” if Indian princes on who participated on England's side in the World War.

The following may also have been of great importance for the Allied victory: The English journalists' and publicists' lodges were fine;*) The Master of one of these lodges, Br... AF Calvert, remarked Rightly so, that the struggle with the pen in the World War was exactly like that. be as important as any other; all members of the lodge Therefore, be prepared, he added, “to use their last drop – ink to be used for the defense of Masonic principles.””) 1918. The fact that Lord Northeliffe occasionally sharply attacked the Zionists suggests fid) for a variety of reasons.

) See the “Zirkel” (Vienna) 1889, May 15, p. 37.

3) On May 2, 1919.

) See Hermann Gruber in the “Germania” (Berlin) of July 17, 1919.

9. For example, the “Gallery Lodge No. 1928” and the “Fratres Calami Lodge No. 3791” in London.

) See “Germania” July 17, 1919.

That the World War was an explicitly Masonic "There was a war," say the English lodge papers themselves. It was a matter of according to their view, the decisive struggle between the “Autocracy” (of the two imperial powers) and “Democracy⸗
"Tie." That, of course, means turning the truth on its head.
In reality, our enemies were not fighting for the cause brought about by the German emperor threatened “democracy”, but rather autocracy⸗
The core of world capitalism... What exactly is a "demo"?
“Crafty”? This question was answered by the English MP Bon-Sonby said in the English House of Commons as follows: Democracy is the
The state of a self-reliant, fully educated people, who are dependent on all branches of the national government have a decisive share;
We English are quite far from such a state of affairs.
removed and had such a democracy even before the war
No?) That's at least honest. But even the "Daily Tele-“Graph” openly admits that the English people are in no way had a say in the matter, neither in the English-French one.
hear, even in the Anglo-Japanese alliance treaty, even in the Anglo-Russian agreement. "All this tft from the concluded with the English government, without had the English people even suspected that all that was even considered... The English Barla-Ment had nothing more to say about it than the smallest member of the municipal council ir Lands.") Most telling, by the way, is that the English-Russian-French secret treaty of 1913
It has disappeared! During the term of office of the Russian Foreign Minister Br.. Milyukov was taken to the apartment of a diplomat-Broken and the files stolen. (According to the "Berliner Tageblatt") Milyukov gave the Russian Workers' and Soldiers' Council the Ge-danger was kept in mind, which would arise from the disclosure of the Ge-Home contracts would have to be drawn up... The files then disappeared.
and migrated to Milyukov after his departure from the government
— London. The German Chancellor Michaelis began August 1917: highly significant communications regarding these secret agreements made claims that were never refuted: After that, France, represented by Br... Poincaré, with Russia and England regarding this informed which German areas were involved in the previous⸗ ) For example, “The Freemason”, London 1917, p. 468, quoted from Hermann Bruber in the "Germania".

) Val. “Internationale Rundschau”, September 1917, p. 528.

) According to an “Inf.” ⸗correſpondent of 30 Aug. 1917; printed in Heise, p. 206.

) See the "Schweizer Wochenzeitung" of June 16, 1917; quoted in Heise, p. 81.

e) Foreign⸗ÜUberſee⸗Edition from December 5, 1917.

ongoing wars with Germany to annex may (Alsace-Lorraine, Rhine Province, etc.). The French Mi⸗ Nister Br.. Ribot, cornered, gave at that time in the
The chamber merely allows France to remove a [something] from the German West.
(wanted to create an independent buffer state.) Today we know... already, what this "independent" buffer state looks like... Since all be⸗
The personalities involved were Freemasons, as can be seen from this.
Interlude recently made it clear that it was probably over.
The plans of the World Lodge were to destroy Germany. to piece together. (These arrangements are in Wilson's "Memoirs and (Documents) with all desirable accuracy.)
Several other reports are said to corroborate this: The English General Townshend!) blurted it out in a moment of weakness, that in his presence secret war discussions took place between close-Belgian, French, Belgian and Russian military plenipotentiaries took place, which resulted in the destruction of the German Reichches as the subject. England had committed itself to to land 150,000 men in Belgium within the first week of the war, to enter the Rhine Province at the same time as the Belgian troops⸗ march. At the same time, the French were to cross the Vosges Mountains and the Russians invaded East Prussia. Even then, the Boers awarded for their assistance to Germany and South Africa!
Another testimony: The former British War Minister Br..
Lord Haldane gave a speech in London on July 15, 1915, in which he he presented it as his own achievement, having prepared England for the war with Having prepared Germany discreetly ;) could he, however, with the express permission of the German Emperor in provide the German General Staff with all support and instruction that (He needed it!) Anyone who still refuses to accept this should quickly receive a message⸗
This was overseen by the English labor leader Macdonald, who soon threw out after the outbreak of war, the English Foreign Minister, Sir Edward Grey, before, this had been preparing for a war with since 1906
Germany has worked towards this and taken it for granted, that the Entente didn't give a fig about Belgium's neutrality
I will take care of it. ... And that the border was already in 1913.
Maubeuge fortification with English and French ammunition Being so well-equipped is probably also worth considering. Open⸗

d Cf. Heise ©. 82.
2) The same one who had to hand over Rut-el-Wmara to the Turks.
D Karl Heiſe, p. 35, based on a report from the "Berliner Lokalanzeiger".
) Ibid., p. 34.

) See “Germany on Trial” in the “South German Monthly Journals”, 17th year, 3rd issue, page 194.

It is therefore a matter of, – as Heise believes, who attributes this fact to the French “Gil Blas” of February 25, 1913 – therefore, Maubeuge to the assembly point of the Entente troops make.

Enough of that; let's now ask ourselves: How has the English
Freemasonry, taken as a whole, contributed to the World War⸗

Did she stand up? Did she condemn him? Did she remain detached and impartial?

How did German Freemasonry behave? Did it perhaps oppose the will and contact behind the back of one's own government sought with the German Freemasons, to prevent the slaughter of men
To put a stop to it and achieve a negotiated peace? –
None of that. Immediately after the outbreak of war, the Great Lodge of England expelled all brethren of German descent from the lodges.

"because – Germany's forehead bears the mark of Cain"
"Be signed." A German Freemason, the consul of Sunderham, an English court sentenced to death, allegedly (For treason, but probably unlawfully.) To all free⸗

The English Grand Lodge has held a congress of Romanesque Freemasons.

they sent their authorized representatives to present peace proposals.
Germany's [reactions] were met with derision and scorn. For this English Freemasonry worked with all its might to achieve this.
to drag one state after another into war, especially⸗ their goal was the United States; furthermore, their efforts were directed towards that.
to strengthen their own ranks as much as possible. All these efforts... long in a surprising way; from the pressure England exerted on
The exercise of this power by neutral states has already been mentioned several times:

We will come back to that later. But as for the strengthening...
When it comes to one's own ranks, it is confronted by the following counterparts:
The situation is illustrated: Before the war, there was a situation in the British world⸗
In total, there are approximately 250,000-300,000 Freemasons; throughout the world⸗
During the war, their number rose to approximately 450,000 active brothers;
This increase of more than 50% becomes understandable when We bear in mind that, according to their own statements, English and American lodge newspapers of the World War, their war, i.e., an outright Masonic war is, the greatest of all Masonic wars ever.”

1) See Karl Heise, p. 62.
) According to Hermann ne 515, the basis for the information in English lodge sheets;
cf. “Germania” of July 17, 1
Another 5 was the Boer War; this too was a War of Jewish-English big business to gain possession of South African
To establish fields of gold and diamonds.
Wichtl, World Freemasonry. 11th ed. 16

242 Freemasonry and World War.

In keeping with this, the magnificent "Peace Celebration" is also taking place.
of English Freemasonry, which in reality is a powerful victory⸗
It was a celebration. The date for it had been set months in advance and such that this ended a period of a full five years⸗ Validly concluded, published: June 28, 1914 – June 27, 1919. “It
It's no mere coincidence – said the Pro-Grandmaster Lord Ampthill in his celebratory speech – but more than anything else, that Especially today, long in advance for our meeting⸗ lung was fixed . ..“ This allusion to the Freemasonry⸗
The assassination of the heir to the throne is practically palpable. And With the hypocrisy typical of the English, he added: “We begin, with our searching for what we consider truth to name, to recognize God's law, according to our world master⸗
"Believe." That sounds, if we go back to the starting point of the war think, quite strange and covers the profound differences between⸗ English “Freemason morality” and “lay morality” are at play. The victory⸗
The celebration took place in London's largest assembly hall, the Royal Alberts.
Hall instead. 8500 brothers filled the hall to the last seat.
including numerous representatives of the Grand Lodges of Canada, New Zealand, Australia, South China, Ceylon, British Shuyana, etc. From the...
The United States had 16 Grand Lodges represented by their Grand Dignitaries Represented: In short, a parade of English-American freedom⸗ Masonry, as brilliant and magnificent as it had never been before.
has

And now, where the plan of the World Lodge to destroy the Central Powers... nieces, if it has succeeded, we can already see what will come:
the world domination of Freemasonry under narrow-

Jewish-American leadership.

Once you have a deeper understanding of the connections... of world Freemasonry and it as the actual driving force clearly recognized which is the world revolution, i.e., the world-war aimed to establish a world republic on the ruins of the old one.
to rebuild fallen empires, yes, one can imagine the Germans.
Freemasonry can no longer be regarded without bitterness.

Even Br.. Ohr comes to the conclusion that the defense the German Freemasons in response to the continued attacks from the
The non-German major oriental forces have "always remained extremely lackluster".
German Freemasons, says Ohr, had their sights set on a high ideal.
directed and so “one lost a little bit of reality from it.” eye”.1) His work is an open rejection of the nature and spirit of the

---

1) Wilhelm Ohr, “The French Spirit and the Freemasons” p. 186.

Grand Orient of France. Yes, from every line one runs the severe inner struggles emerged, which in his soul led to Freemasonry had to contend with the awakened German national consciousness.
And in the introduction, Brother Dr. Ohr expresses his concern.
The fact that, after the war, the reconciliationists appeared all too quickly.
to speak up for French Freemasonry and about to re-establish the broken bond of brotherhood across the Rhine. He
He believes this will happen out of genuine German idealism.
Here, Br... Ohr perhaps judges fine brothers too favorably.
This will happen not so much out of idealism, but out of necessity.
understood, out of ignorance and due to that Michel-like quality which the Germans and of course also the German bricklayers, simply own.

This Michel-like quality, or let's say: this harmlessness
He also managed to ensure that the German bricklayers were able to...
Romance Great Orient (Paris, Rome, Madrid, Lisbon) in Ver⸗
bonded, although their highly political and out⸗
It had to be known for its revolutionary character. They wanted to but German bricklayers with French ones still on August 8, 1914⸗ come together, as the Germans, despite the Sarajevo assassination—
They didn't believe in war after the attack!

It also seems to come from earlier events in the bricklayer's life⸗ to ensure that the German Freemasons never succumb to the great Difference between their own opinion and the expressed opinion became aware of the political direction of foreign Freemasonry are. Consider that all eight German Grand Lodges the They readily recognized the revolutionary Grand Orient of Italy!

Remember how German Freemasons, specifically those from Cologne, Lodge "Freimut und Wahrheit" (Freedom and Truth), founded in 1907 by the French
They received brothers with "most fervent expressions of sympathy":
The master of this lodge at that time was a captain, the first headman.
even a lieutenant colonel, who was also the head of the Cologne artillery depot!

But surely the harmlessness of the German bricklayers should also be taken into account.
There has to be a limit somewhere. For example, if you're on the free...
Masonic-Pacific Conferences in The Hague (23 to 25 August) 1913) the present German bricklayers from the Belgian senator Brother Lafontaine was informed that the “militaristic, Germany, bristling with weapons, was Bismarck's main obstacle.
for the rapprochement between the two peoples" (French and Germans) (schen) s�ei, so a German bricklayer would have had the duty, to reply to the Frenchman, that the French with the Disarmament should precede it; the Germans would then already be...

16* °

244 on Freemasonry and World War II.
They themselves followed suit. The French, however, clearly did the opposite.
by introducing three years of compulsory military service instead of disarming. and thus forced Germany to undertake further armaments. And if the same Br.. Lafontaine even the German Freemasons instructed accordingly: Your task, German bricklayers, is to build Germany back to its old ideal, a nation of thinkers and poets and to be an artist, to trace back, that is one thing.
A challenge that every German bricklayer would consider a challenge must feel. (Incidentally, we have this Masonic word also heard often enough during the World War, again a Proof of where to actually look for the warmongering elements are.) And when Br.. Lafontaine even dared to say:
"The German tends to do everything he undertakes with the best in mind."
to get to the bottom of it, even if he ends up at the Re vo⸗
"The solution should arrive," it is obvious that German Freemasons who listen to this in silence thereby give their consent⸗ express their feelings; but then they are no longer at peace with their souls.
on the side of Germany, but they are of the political spirit of the French Greater Orient already so thoroughly permeated that they are ready are, either to bring about such a revolution in Germany themselves⸗ to lead or at least to promote resistance.
That such a Freemason is then paralyzed goes without saying: And jo explains fic) also the wavering, doubting and insecure attitude, the German Grand Lodges – and also many lodges – during the World War II; but this also explains the very German Freemasonry's weak defense against the attacks of the French Greater Orient during the World War, which even Brother Ohr rebukes in harsh words.

One should not, however, believe that statements such as those of the Senator Lafontaine, standing there all alone. No, on At every Freemasons' Congress, the German lodge members were from their Romansh brothers... reminded, more or less gently, that they are actually still very backward, not in tune with the spirit of the times⸗ They could grasp it, and yet they should finally move on to revolution...

The enormous spread of Freemasonry in North America, particularly in the United States, as has already been pointed out: During the war, there were approximately 60 Grand Lodges there with around 14,000 members. Lodges and 1,700,000 Master Masons (from the third degree upwards) waits!) 1) In addition, there are about four million members of other secret societies that are under the influence of Freemasonry.?)

) See The American Freemason, March 1916, p. 235; quoted from H. Gruber.

2) Stephens, Cyclopedia of Fraternities. New⸗York 1907, p. V, XV.

(However, only 16 Grand Lodges are listed among the "German Grand Lodge Federation". (Recognized with approximately 500,000 Freemasons.) The 32 “colored” Grand Lodges Lodges (including those for Black people) comprise approximately 1000 lodges. From these One can already infer the significance that Freemasonry holds. must be granted in North America. (In the state of New York) The Freemasons alone number 92,460 brothers! *)

That Roosevelt, who recently entered the eternal Orient Wilson's membership in the order is known; Wilson was a Freemason. was denied, but according to American testimony he is, just like Bryan, certainly a Freemason.*) The contradictory In most cases, reports can be explained by the fact that someone... Lodge, or Grand Lodge, belonging to a German-speaking group It is not recognized. It is highly unlikely in North America. The likelihood is greater that a leading figure is a lodge member than that she is not, because without belonging to Freemasonry there is A political or business career is virtually impossible. That's what he said: It becomes clear that two-thirds of the members in the House of Representatives, namely 213, Freemasons find; likewise they take more than in the Senate half the seats, namely 48.

The political stance of the American Freemasons was too The start of the World War was uncertain. Initially, for example, there was a Current which opposes the export of weapons and ammunition sharp opposition was raised. Soon, however, the opinion prevailed that a republic can only stand on the side of that group of powers, who declared his support for the republican form of government and for the peoples⸗ to enter into fraternity. Of course, there were also contradictions there. Quantity, because the mere reference to Tsarist Russia was suitable to refute this viewpoint immediately.

The head of the Scottish high-grade masons, Br.. Moore, 33. .,

Therefore, very cautiously, he initially issued the following solution:

"We have the greatest respect for the German people..."
But Freemasonry is against militarism and our American ideals have led to the divine right of kings.

1) As a small characteristic, it should be mentioned that all American oceans⸗
The 1927 aviators who were Freemasons are: Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and the passenger Levine. Lindbergh had even taken fine masonry documents on board to use in He immediately sought connections in Paris. Upon his return, he was welcomed by many lodge Appointed an honorary member. The Honolulu flyers were also bricklayers.

9) See "Kölnische Volkszeitung" No. 280 of April 10, 1917; also Br.. Ernst Freymann records this as a fact in his work "On the Paths" of international Freemasonry”, p. 12 and p. 34. See Chapter XVI. Bryan ge⸗ listen to the Odd Fellows.

"Not much left." !) Among the German-American bricklayers, there was a stir.
no resistance; the divine right of kings had prevailed in the Nobody left anything, and for militarism you need Not even to rave about it, even if you're a good German.
is. With the help of royal art, the right platform was therefore available.
found and now the hate campaign against Germany could gradually begin⸗ break. It also broke loose, and in particular, the American Freemasons in their own inviolable ideals, by said: “The establishment of the United States of Europe would prevent wars for all time.” That was indeed a foolish phrase, immediately refuted by referring to the War between America and Spain, but it was a powerful draw and Effective. Or: "...Through Freemasonry as a pioneer
For justice, law and truth, the golden age will begin.
of the general peoples⸗ and brotherhood of mankind brought about will."?) That too was a phrase: see the Masonic Portugal, where civil wars and political assassinations have occurred in the
The agenda is!

Thus, from the Freemasons' side, the ground was gradually laid before⸗ prepared; on February 24, 1915, the two Italians then travelled Grandmaster Ferrari and Nathan, on behalf of the Italian
The government after America stayed in the Ver⸗ for several months.
united states and targeted the American Freemasons according to all the rules of "royal art", in order to make them available for war to inspire enthusiasm against the Central Powers and to lead the United States into to draw into the World War.")

That the American Freemasons account for the vast majority of the outcome of the World War, it is clear from the enormous highlights the efforts they made to increase their following.
to reinforce as quickly as possible. Their growth during the World War...
"carried – according to her own statements" – around half a million new Freemason, so that they are currently in the Union≈
Ten states alone have more than 3 million brothers.

Most noteworthy is the following announcement from the French Ge≈

') In the Freemason newspaper "The New Age", Washington, October 1915, p. 187.

2) “The American Freemason”, Jowa, 1916, p. 185.

) “The American Tyler”, Keystone, April 1916, p. 78.

) See Rivista massonica. 1915, pp. 92 f., 139, 265 ff., 281; quote after H. Gruber: “The Latin cultural ideal, Freemasonry and the Entente peace” in * “Deutsche Rundschau”, XLV, 3. p. 347.

5) See, for example, "The American Tyler". Keystone, 1919, p. 109; quoted according to SE Gruber in the “Germania” (Berlin) of July 17, 1919.

Historian and former minister Hanotaux: “When before
The French mood was so depressed during the Battle of the Marne (1914).
that many politicians desired immediate peace with Germany,
Three American [documents] appeared before the French government.
Envoy (the then envoy in Paris, his predecessor and his successor) and implored the government to remain firm by they gave her the promise that America would enter the war≈ will take action. “We currently only have 50,000 influences in America.”
rich people who want America to enter the World War, but "In a while there will be a hundred million."") So that in one≈
The statement made publicly by Wilson in the Senate stands as follows:
that he would have entered the war under all circumstances,” So not only as a result of the intensified submarine warfare. In Their sympathy will be highlighted in an even brighter light when we see him≈ driving that on the French western front no fewer than 250,000 American Freemasons have fought.") That also the American commander-in-chief, General Br. Pershing.
That he is a Freemason shouldn't surprise us after all this; the “Vienna Freemasons' Newspaper” itself Hellt this fejt;*) it brings over≈

This is the highly welcome news for their readers that the French Freemasonry has conveyed its congratulations to Brother Pershing:
"The Convention of the 'Grand Dorients of France' honors himself, the American Br.. General Pershing and his brave soldiers who went on a crusade for justice () to Europe have come, their admiration for the glorious victory of to express St. Mihiel!" – According to the principles of German Freemasons would have to accept such a step by the French
The Czech "Grand Orient" is condemned in the strongest terms.
The Viennese Freemasons held a different view, believing this to be un≠ Masonic behavior cannot be criticized with the slightest word of reproach.
In addition, the American-French victory at St.
Mihiel was also a defeat for the Germans in itself.
Castle, but the Viennese Freemasons can't find any Germans at all, but Jews, and their affection, despite its initial masked stance since the beginning of the World War on the side of our enemies; they felt like brothers of the American and French Freemasons, whose victory was also their victory! They knew very well what our government and the German Reich governments were doing

1) See Ernst Reventlow's page in the "Süddeutsche Monatshefte"
17th year, issue 3, 2

5 Ibid., 242. eee

5) "The American Tyler" EC ©. 93.
) "Wr. Fr. Z.", May 1919, p. 54

did not want to see that the war was basically a freedom≠ mason ≠war was, in which it was primarily about the Befet-
The influence of the two imperial powers – the "autocracies" – in favor of of the "democracies"! (That all besides this, under the sign of the Freemasonry also grants the special wishes of united peoples≠
(The desire for peace is self-evident.)

Is the claim that the World War was a Freemason war valid?
Was it perhaps too risky? – No! And once again:
No! The American and English Freemason newspapers
They repeatedly emphasize that the World War, like no other, a decidedly Masonic one War is a struggle in which the decisive battle for the Masonic ideals in the secular sphere is being fought out: This is written, for example, by "The New Age", Magazine 1918, 1-7; 19f., 318, 451, 453, 510; it is the official Newspaper of the "Supreme Council of the 330" and appears in Wa≠ Washington. But the same thing was written two years earlier by "The American Freemason (Jowa), namely in the year

1916, p. 522; the same is emphasized in "The American Tyler" Keystone 1917, pp. 152, 204, 208; but also an English newspaper, “The Freemason”, confirms it in the 1917 edition, p. 468.1)

Yes, the Grand Lodge of Quebec states it in its annual report. The 1917 report officially confirmed that the American Freemasonry from the beginning of the World War onwards (The side of the Entente powers stood.) And in the London Free maurer⸗The newspaper “The Freemason” states verbatim: “Already in the In the first weeks after the outbreak of the war, a large Freemasons' Assembly of the United States resolved, Grand— Britain and its allies any and all⸗ how possible aid for the war might be provided "Let it.") The same newspaper also writes: "Freemasonry counts More than two million members. What this means for security⸗ Every American knows what this means for the future and the continued existence of the rep Canadian Freemasons are very good. The fight during the World War... fought between autocracy and democracy and the future of the world will be democratic, regardless of whether the German emperor knows this or not."")

"Quoted from Hermann, Gruber "The 11910 Victory Celebration of Freemasonry" English tongue”, “Germania”, Berlin, July 17, 19

) “The Freemason”, London, July 28, 1917. “e 45 (quoted from H. Gruber, “Germania” July 17, 191 9).

D Ibid., May 1917, ©. 601, ) Ibid., 23 June 1917, ©. 651.

But why are we only learning all this now, and so far away? Detours? Why did neither "Der Herold" nor "Die Bau⸗ take it? What is the position of the “hut”, or the “Dresden Lodge Journal”? Why were the “circle correspondence”, the “bun” concealed? desblatt”, the “Freemasons’ newspaper”, etc. these noteworthy⸗ Assess the facts? There are only two possibilities here: Either They either really didn't know, or they didn't dare to. To say: in any case, the German Freemasons are to be pitied. — But wait! — A lodge newspaper makes a commendable impression⸗ name: the “Mecklenburg Lodge Journal”; it publishes in The 46th volume features a highly remarkable series of essays: “On the "Paths of International Freemasonry" by Br.: Ernst Frenmann; these essays form a brilliant legal work. manufacturing for me, because Br.. Freymann is coming because independent research yielded exactly the same results as mine: It is Freemasonry worldwide that is waging the war of annihilation against Germany and Ofterreich) has been conjuring up for years; the World Freemasonry is responsible for its outcome⸗

The point, the assassination of the heir to the throne; Freemasonry worldwide gave the war's vast and immense extent, and the world freedom—
It was also Freemasonry that thwarted every attempt at a peaceful resolution.
has been criminally suppressed... And sel⸗ Familia! Even Brother Ernst Freymann hints that behind World Freemasonry, big capital, i.e., world Jewry⸗ tum, fsteckt. .)

Another noteworthy fact is brought about by Freemasonry.
"Latomia"; she tells us that the "United States"
In Masonic terms, it was also worked on by 30,000 clergymen.
will be, because the American lodge counts so many pastors⸗ Admittedly; but there was a man over there who still had far more influence on the masses than all 30,000 Freemasons together. — Who were they? — It was the “President of the American Workers' Union” of," the millionaire and Freemason, Brother Samuel Gom—Apparently as a thank you for their fine warmongering activities, he in October 1918 in the Temple of the Grand Orient of Italy in “solemn work” by the Grand Master and the Grand Dignitaries received... 3) Br.. Samuel Gompers was the one who received everyone

1) See the final chapter of this work.

*) “Latomia” No. 14 of July 3, 1915, according to the American Lodge time schedule:
“The American Tyler” Keystone.

5) “Wr. Ms. Z.” May 1919, p. 54.

Resistance to the war in the Americanized working class
Ruthlessly struck down! Br.. Samuel Gom⸗ Pers is also Jewish; so it is at least noteworthy if His fellow race and religious comrade, Oskar Strauss, emphasizes "that the American Jews with body and soul to the Entente
"Stand up and advocate for the war against Germany!"
Oskar Strauss then counts a long list of outstanding Jews who opposed Germany and supported the war:
the bankers Georg Blumenthal, Eugen Meyer, Ifaak Seligman and W. Salomon; the major industrialists Adolf Lewisohn and Daniel Guggenheim; the rabbis Wife, Lyons, Philipson; then follows a number of professors, journalists, Pu—blizzards, educators, doctors, judges, etc. Oskar Strauss adds: "I only mention these names to illustrate a To establish the fact; in my large extended family there is none who have not been passionate since the beginning of the war for the Entente we were, as I myself... The mood

The support for the Jews in favor of the Entente can almost be described as unanimous. will be!" ...) Dr. Frank Cohn again, who was appointed by Oskar Strauss not mentioned, said that the “German Democrats North⸗ America's" will do everything possible to ensure the victory of the –
To contribute to the Entente!) These are already the right "dait⸗
"German Democrats," who brought about the victory of Germany's enemies.
wish: just as Dr. Frank Cohn undoubtedly is the wür⸗ most digst and most appointed representatives of Germans in exile land if...

How immeasurably hateful the mood of the Americanized Free Germans⸗ Maurer's opposition to Germany is evident from a statement which the former President of the United States, Br... Taft, made has: “We must punish Germany, and we must do it immediately.”
to do the right thing, and not just the military party, but the Germans as well.
himself…“ On another occasion he spoke of the:
thrown race of the Hohenzollerns.“).

But that's just a side note. There will be readers who are looking for...
Give less weight to the statements of individuals and more to the overall picture.
see. The size and therefore also the influence of the American Masonry cannot be better illustrated than by the Hin⸗ points to their new temple in New Nork, which has just been completed
It has become. It has 14 floors and contains, besides the large one,

) Vol. Karl Heise, “Entente Freemasonry and the World War”, p. 163
2) According to a Reuter report of February 19, 1918; see Karl Heise, p. 163.
2) Source references in Karl Heise, p. 157.

Temple for the Grand Lodge and 12 more temples for the individual lodges.
The house sold for $4 million, which is almost $17 million.
Goldmark. Each temple displays a different architectural style.
different construction periods. Each lodge rents a temple, for which He has to pay $330–$750 for two evenings a month.
Temples are very spacious, comfortable, and beautifully furnished. The altar
It stands in the middle and is covered with the American flag, whereupon the Bible, opened to the Gospel of John, and the Circles are at rest.!) Considering that New York is no less as 852 lodges with 192,460 brothers possess,2) so this Tem⸗ appears pelbau not even excessively large, since – with two be⸗ each Use of the 12 temples per month – only 180 of the 852 lodges can be taken into account. How much Freemasonry is the “Ver⸗
The fact that the "united states" are numerically superior to the Germans is evident from
It is worth noting that today 3 million American bricklayers only have 80,000 in addition to pacifist Freemasons of the German Reich⸗ stand.

Now a few words about Canada. There are 10

Grand Lodges *) with around 570 lodges and about 73,000 brethren) – With a total population of barely 6 million, certainly an un⸗ an enormous number. “American newspapers already established this at the time.” states that those circles which in Canada the war- “To engage in arms-building, to belong to the lodge,” says Athana- sius in his writing: “Secret of Evil” (p. 22). This The verdict is now further confirmed by Charles Collmann's book. about "The Warmongers in America". What is remarkable about it is The following passage: Canada had to save England. The war⸗ The incitement began. Borden, the governor of Canada, summoned the minister. of the militia, Sam Hughes, and gave him orders. The Deut⸗ They were portrayed as servants and cowards. They were said to have been taken from the Beaten by the Belgians, French and Russians had beaten German The country was invaded and the enemy (Germany) was crushed. Canadians could triumphantly enter a (already) defeated country⸗ back, where there would be plentiful booty and glory. On August 1, 1915, the employees of the "Canadian Pacific" read on their pay envelopes: “Your King and Country (England) "They need you – we don't!" These workers were laid off,

---

1) See “Wr. Fr. Z.”, June 1919, p. 24.
) Dalen's calendar 1919, p. 285.
8) Alberta, Columbia, Canada, Manitoba, New Brunswick, New Scotland.
ee, Prince Edward's Islands, Quebec and Saskatchewan.
) See Dalen's calendar 1919 p. 286.

They had to go to war, whether they wanted to or not. The militia⸗ Minister Sam Hughes, on the other hand, who represents half a million Canadians who had sent him to his death was ennobled and received a high honor. military rank: he is now Major General Sir Sam Hughes.) That Sam Hughes and Borden are Freemasons, ijt More than likely, but far more significant, is the fact that that they acted on behalf of the Grand Lodge of England.

That is exactly how the Freemasons worked in Central America, where they forced one republic after another into war.

Guatemala declared war on us on April 23, 1918. Specifically, as a Reuters report from April 25th states, after a Note exchange between Br.. Lansing as representative of the United States and the Republic of Guatemala. This is located entirely in in the hands of the Freemasons, who are in 12 lodges in the "Grand Lodge of Republic of Guatemala” united and about 400 influential Men are among theirs. Grand Secretary is a brother... Robert Löwenthal (h, Callejon, Manchen 4.

The Republic of Nicaragua declared us 14 days later the War, namely on May 8, 1918. Their policies are influenced by the high-ranking Freemasons of the local "Scottish Grand Lodge". During the riots of 1927 paid for by the Jewish-American Olfinanz Nicaragua was completely under the influence of the West, the West. brought.

The Republic of Costa Rica resisted the 9 Woodrow Wilson and Br. Lansings until May 26, 1918; on That same day she also threw down the gauntlet to us. In Costa Rica there is a Grand Lodge with 7 lodges, which again with 57 Grand Lodges of the United States, etc., are in contact.

The Republic of Honduras resisted until the end of July 1918, to yield to Wilson's pressure, until they too succumbed to the overwhelming force He succumbed to the influence of the World Lodge.

Furthermore, the republics of Haiti and San Bo have: Mingo declared war. Haiti is a definite Negro. Republic. The everyday language is French, Catholic is the official language. religion. But the Black people largely revert to their old paganism. regressed and their secret cult "is a mixture of fetishism" faith and Christianity with its own priests (Papa loi), nightly Orgies, snake worship, and animal and occasional human–sacrifice. Schooling is at a low level, culture is neglected. So much as everything else is left to be desired; White finds the most pressing.

1) See “Entente Freemasonry and World War” by Karl Heise, p. 170.

acquire. But still – this caricature of a state. has dared to declare war on us in the name of the "Freedom" "Heit," "culture," and "civilization"–all understandable This historical oddity will become apparent the moment when We learn that a large oriental organization also operates in Haiti, which consists of 75 lodges, comprising approximately 20,000 (twenty thousand) brothers and is the actual agent of politics. But this still exists as a “Supreme Council of Haiti” with 29 Royal⸗Arch⸗ chapters and 25 chapters of the Rosicrucian Cross, etc. In the Masonic newspaper “Der Zirkel” (Vienna) is a remarkable essay from years ago about Freemasonry in Haiti appeared, which particularly emphasizes that Almost every adult there belongs to some lodge, and everywhere, in In the cafes, on street corners, etc., politics is being actively discussed. Civil wars are commonplace there; no one is safe. Life-saving, betrayal, boasting, and espionage are highly valued. Blossom .. . (But Haiti is an outspoken Freemason⸗ republic, where the “sovereign people” govern themselves!)

Things aren't much better with the mulatto republic of San Do⸗ mingo; it too is controlled by Freemasons, it too possesses a “National Grand Lodge” and a “Supreme Council”, yes fie bee.

There is even a second “Supr&me Conseil”, which is common≠ to manage the political destinies of their state and to The World Lodge's mandate to participate in the war, dutifully according to≠ have come.

That Cuba and Portorico have also declared war on us,
It should, if not for anyone else, at least for some.
The smoker may have attracted attention. Cuba's declaration of war was also noted.
the Freemasons thanks to their close political ties to the
The Grand Orient of the Entente states was to blame; this becomes understandable when We learn that the "Grand Lodge of the Islands of Cuba" has 102 lodges.
comprising 6000 active brothers and 57 other Grand Lodges (England, France, Italy, etc.) maintains lively traffic.
What is noteworthy regarding Portoricos is that the "Grand Lodge of Portorico'“ (37 lodges, 1560 members ..) only in the year 1913 from (33.)
It was recognized as a "German Grand Lodge Day". Applicant were of course the Grand Lodges of Hamburg and Sadfen....')

Furthermore, the vast majority of us were supported by the füd-declared war on American republics; especially Brazil, Uruguay, Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador.

) See Dahlen's calendar 1914, p. 141.

In all these states, it has been proven that Freemasonry had a hand in it, indeed, that the declarations of war are almost exclusively attributable to them. Example≠
This is the case with Brazil, where a powerful Ge≠ a whole group of Grand Orients with knights≠Kadoſch ranks and Rosicrucian chapters (no fewer than 85) exist and more than 32,000 members are active in 880 lodges. It should be noted beforehand that the
The last emperor of Brazil, Dom Pedro IL, was initiated by Freemasons. fell and was banished from the country (1889). The main role Br. Deodoro da Fonſeca was playing at the time, after Pedros dethroning himself as President of the Republic of Brazil had it proclaimed. His nephew, Br. Hermes da Fonseca, braſi≠ French Minister of War and President of the Republic since 1909, has significantly contributed to Brazil declaring war on us (October 27, 1917). A not insignificant obstacle was the German-friendly Foreign Minister Lauro Müller, who was targeted by the hate speech the lodge brothers were overthrown and replaced by the mulatto and Freemason Br... Nilo Besanha was replaced (May 1917). A war-
Senator [name omitted] also engaged in inflammatory activities on a grand scale.
Grandmaster Br... Lauro Sodre, who plays a role in the new-founded “Liga pelos alliados”, which was entirely in the service of the

The Entente understood and, in the name of “truth, justice and justice”, nunft" fought against "German militarism and imperialism".
This “Liga pelos alliados” was founded by Senator Br. Louis Bar⸗ founded bosa; the French Grand Orient had given it the Task assigned: to play a major South American league against the
to create Central Powers. “If he succeeds,” he wrote.
Br... Clemenceau in “Homme enchainé” from July 21, 1916:
— “He (Barbossa) will become one of the most outstanding fighters for the —
"It's fine to count humanity."

Also in Uruguay, where many Freemasons hold high government positions...
While working in public offices, the warmongering activities of the Free⸗ Freemasons. The President of the Republic of Uruguay is a Freemason.
Brother Dr. Feliciano Viera, who holds a high rank in the lodge

1) The Fonsecas are of Jewish descent and were formerly called Wagenseil. From
From the German side, we are informed that the Fonsecas were also involved with the Jewish coal house Caesar Wollheim is related by marriage, or that a Wollheim was the
He adopted the name "da Fonseca" when he became minister. Which persons What is meant by this cannot yet be determined. (Compare this to...) the first volume of the "Memoirs" of the former German Embassy Counselor in London, of Baron von Eckardstein, who gave us a Jewish Fonseca — Wollheim demonstrates. The documents supporting the claim that the Fonsecas had wagon rope Their names are unknown to me. (EB)

---

7) See Depeche de Toulouse, February 13, 1916.
) See “On the Paths of International Freemasonry”, p. 35.

clothed; he was appointed thanks to the efforts of fine Serr.–. on March 1st.
Elected in 1915 as the highest-ranking official in the Republic. He, like his His predecessor, former President Br. Battle y Ordonnez, is considered... the leaders of the entire anti-German movement. The “Grand Uruguay's "Orient" is based in Montevideo and includes Approximately 35 lodges and 15 chapters. Grand Master Br... Dr. Carlos de Gaftros; he also belongs to the “Supreme Council of the 33…”
and is also Minister of Justice. He comes from a far-flung family.
The Castros family is of Jewish descent.")

The Republic of Colombia also has its "Grand Orient" and was previously — until 1885 — spoken by a led by a Freemasonic government, which, however, has been thoroughly robbed⸗ That's precisely why the Freemasons there succeeded.
not to poison the mood of the people to such an extent that it leads to would have resulted in a declaration of war against the Central Powers; so Did Colombia escape unscathed from participating in the World War spared!

The situation is similar in Argentina, where the free⸗
Masonic activities had grown out of control. There, they worked⸗
In addition to the “Supréme Conseil”, five national Grand Lodges with 180 lodges and approximately 4500 brothers called for the overthrow of the existing order.
Conditions. In addition to the locals, nine also work there.
Lodges under the supervision of the Grand Lodge of England, 15 lodges found.
the Italian and another 15 lodges, the Spanish Grand Lodge—orient subordinate, while one under the immediate in⸗ river of the "Grand Orient de France". These foreign lodges
They have been working on the Argentine Great since the beginning of the World War.
lied; initially, there was a powerful show of sympathy.
in favor of France and the "noble cause" it represented. Three⸗ Ten lodges expressed their support for the French envoy in Buenos Aires their congratulations! Thereupon, the Freemasons a separate advertising committee was created, which represented all Argentine lodges.
in that sense, to make himself available to France and England⸗ to explain and take a stand against "Teutonic barbarism",
"to protect the whole world from becoming a victim of absolutism"
"To become a despot." Then, after folder Art the lodges
Once the victory was secured, the press campaign began, and it was announced in a
They lied and slandered in such a horrific and systematic way that University professor Dr. Ramos in Buenos Aires publicly

e Bal. regarding all these statements concerning Central and South America, the instructive book by Karl Heife: “Entente Freemasonry and World War”: Basel 1919, Ernst Finckh Publishing House

explained that this deliberate lying and incitement "is one of the strangest things".
"Events in world history.").

Nevertheless, the Freemasons achieved their goal, including Argentina.
not to incite war. Although it did take place in Buenos Aires
In the summer of 1918, an American-Italian Freemasonry Congress took place.
Instead, he advocated for the Entente and for Argentina's participation spoke out about the World War; relations with Germany were
It had even been cancelled when Argentina reinstated it.
and recognized the secretary of the German legation, Dönhoff.
as the new business representative of his country.

With few exceptions, therefore all of America stood against us: It was indeed a tremendous achievement, fully appreciated here⸗ was brought, a seemingly superhuman task that a single person could accomplish.
could not solve it at all; only with the help of the countless followers of the "Royal art" made it possible to master this task.

In August 1919, the Parisian Jewish Freemasons brought
The front page of the "Journal" features a drawing of a laughing Jew.

wearing an apron and holding a trowel, which was attached to two stone-to create blocks. But under the drawing it said: “Maurice Damour, a friend of France, to whom we owe mainly thanks to America's intervention in the war.")

You really can't ask for more than that, in black and white!

But Africa, too, fought against us as a united front. From the English, French and Portuguese colonies are entirely here and even disregarded; they could not escape the influence of their Mother states could hardly escape. But it wasn't just the colonies that sent Troops and resources of every kind, even a true free state,
The African republic of Liberia abandoned its neutrality.
and declared war on us. This case is particularly instructive, because he showed us the hypocrite Woodrow Wilson in all his glory demonstrates ruthless brutality. Liberia was ruled by Wilson simply faced with the choice of "either him — America —" to join or to disappear from the face of the earth as an independent state⸗
"The." This is how it reads in a letter from the former German diplomatic officer.
Representative in Liberia to the "Kölnische Zeitung" (May 1917). Also In Liberia there is a Grand Lodge with 9 lodges (lobia) and approximately 700 Brrn. They are all Black people. But these colored large ones⸗
The lodge had been explicitly recognized at the time, both from the Grand Lodge of England as well as from various Grand Lodges North Americans lie. England and America know that.

1) “Kölnische Volkszeitung”, February 10, 1916.
2) Rosenberg, “Crimes of Freemasonry”, p. 82.

exactly how and with what tools one can today
To make policy, namely world policy.

China, too, was affected by Anglo-American lodge policies.
Swept into the war against the Central Powers. Worth mentioning
First of all, it is that the last emperor of China, Khuang Xi,
He died in a mysterious way; his mother Tje-Hfi also died. in a mysterious way;!) the three-year-old Pudfchi became the throne⸗ declared his candidacy lost — and as President of the Republic
A Freemason has suddenly appeared in China: Brother Gun:
yat=fen!?) During subtle revolutionary advertising activities, Br..
Sun⸗yat⸗sen of English and American Freemasons, essence⸗ strongly supported. In Beijing, there has been a high degree of support for this for years Lodge (Lodge of Perfection), which influential Chinese people attended with has been incorporated into the High Degree Association of the 33rd... in Washington subordinated to TFT. This association of the 33... in Washington maintains again the closest relationship with the government of the United States

Drawings. Woodrow Wilson was also in this Jalle, who called on the Republic of China to improve relations with Germany to break off and declare war, with a Dr. Morrison, former correspondent for the "New York Times" and official councillor The donor to the President of China rendered the best services. In China However, it is not only American lodge influence that can be observed; other groups are al there are also 19 lodges under the Grand Lodge of England and over⸗ This is a Grand Lodge according to the Scottish Rite with six lodges.

Japan also has its connections to the English world of Freemasonry; Four lodges operate there under the supervision of the Grand Lodge of England. land, besides there are three Scottish lodges in Vokohama, Nagaſaki and Kobé. It is known that Br.. Viscount Hayashi Freemason It is probably less well known that he was a Freemason, Br.. Theodore Roosevelt, who at the time led the peace negotiations led between Japan and Russia (1905).

Germany was always in league with the Kingdom of Siam. best relations. There was no reason for hostility. present, yet Siam also waged war against the German Empire It was explained! That Great Britain was present in all overseas trading centers. maintains its own lodges, thus enabling the English is, to have close relationships with influential people from all countries how to get there is known; this was especially true in Siam, which is exclusively under English influence; this goes so far that

1) Val. Athanaſius, “Secret of Evil” p. 8.
Sun Yat-sen belonged to an American lodge.

Wichtl, World Freemasonry. 11th ed. 17

— —

even a dedicated English representative to manage the finances of the sia⸗ monitored by the Mexican Empire. That Siberia is setting its peoples in motion against Germany assumed that East India was forced to send hundreds of thousands of soldiers

The need to send them to Europe goes without saying: Here, the only fact that the Central Powers also were at war with most of Asia, which in was essentially a work of the lodge.

The influence of Freemasonry in Australia must be considered– unless underestimated. Dalen's Calendar (1922) leads seven Australian Grand Lodges with 1070 lodges and more than 65,000 brothers. In a total population of only 4 million
That's quite a lot of inhabitants; if you consider the number of women And after subtracting children, about one million adult men remain.
remaining, of whom on average every seventeenth is a Freemason.
Without having further evidence at hand at the moment, it is probably...
From these facts alone, the conclusion can already be drawn that it apparently also attributable to the influence of the Freemasons in Australia is, if the Australians join the World War on our side Enemies were involved.

In summary, let us list those states and colonies, with whom we were at war: I. In Europe: Serbia, Russia, France, England, Montenegro, Belgium, Italy, Ru≠
China, Portugal, Monaco (1) and San Marino ().

II. In America: United States, Canada, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Haiti, San Domingo, Cuba, Portorico, Bolivia, Ecuador, Peru, Brazil and Uruguay.

III. In Africa: Liberia, South African Republic, colonies;

IV. In Asia: Japan, China, Siam, India, Siberia; finally

V. The United States of Australia.

That's a total of 35 states against – four! That's what they wanted.
but the colonies (India, South Africa, Canada, Australia, etc.)
Not including them, that still leaves 29 powers. And one might do not overlook the fact that the nation-states that have since formed on the fragmented≠ formed the Austro-Hungarian Empire: Czechs, South Slavs

Around Poland was already invaded by our enemies during the World War.
have been recognized as belligerent powers; they have endlessly,

ae

contributed significantly to our defeat through deliberate blundering,

Rejecting resistance (paffive resistance), open defiance.
Acts of destruction (sabotage), acts of treason, etc.

Finally, the overwhelming influence of the high degree⸗
Masonry during the World War is commemorated. In total, there are currently...

3 K "Si keeft 2; 3

Freemasonry and the World War. 5,259

31 states where the politically active Scottish people have been proven to be active⸗ High degrees (Grand Orient, Supreme Conseils) have been introduced;
Of these 31 states, no fewer than 27 have waged war against us.
explained; the remaining four are Germany, Hungary (Ofterreich), Bolt via and Argentina. Every German, but especially every German Freemasons, let us now ask ourselves this question of conscience: Have
The American and English lodge newspapers are right when they...
World War as an outright Freemason war,
To portray it as the greatest Masonic war that ever existed?
— You are right. The war is already starting from its point of origin.
a work of the Freemasons (murder of the heir to the throne!); Freemasons⸗ Their motives were the same for all the states that waged war against us, decisive, often they gave the decisive blow: defeating the “auto-"Cratic" states, abolition of the monarchies, dismantling of German militarism; it was Freemasons who...

They have dragged one state after another into the war, and the

The final result also met Freemasonic wishes: the complete destruction of Austria-Hungary, the expulsion the Habsburgs, the dethronement of the Hohenzollerns.

the robbery of Alsace-Lorraine, the separation of the Rhineland, the repatriation of Poland, the rise-

Division of Türkiye . . A)

When the Turks, contrary to expectations, did not submit to the Peace of Sèvresthrew (to the great displeasure of, for example, the Freemasonic "Neue Zürch. Ztg.", which by the defenders of the fatherland around Kemal Pasha as by the “rebels” (spoken, July 24, 1921), various circles in France believed they could help them to
They had to. These were, in part, strongly anti-Masonic Catholic associations.

and the high-ranking French generals close to them. Cf. Ernst Berg: The Contemporary global political forces. JF Lehmanns Publishing House.

17*

XXIV.
Some wartime meetings of the Freemasons.

Without claiming to be exhaustive, here is a series from Freemason meetings during the World War⸗

They were discussed in detail, and their respective purposes were highlighted. Likewise Let me briefly mention a few more facts that show, that Freemasonry worldwide has always opposed a premature peace⸗ who spoke out.

First, let us once again acknowledge the efforts of the Prince.
Bülow was commemorated, who in November 1914 negotiated between had initiated talks between Italy and Austria to secure Italy's entry into the war to prevent this. Who thwarted this intention? — World Freemasonry:!) On February 12, 1915 in Paris, Italy's entry into the World War by the Great dignitaries of the English, French and Italian Free States⸗ Masonry finally decided.?

On September 20, 1915, a [protest/war] was held in all Italian cities.
A poster was displayed, outlining the Pope's peace efforts.
Benedict XV was mocked. By whom was this demonstration organized?
(originating from the Greater Orient of Italy)

Also in 1915, the French Grand Lodge issued a decree in conjunction with the Belgian Grand Lodge, a circular letter to the American lodges, in which they were urged to the To counter the peace efforts of American pacifists⸗
work.")

A secret meeting took place in Geneva on May 28, 1916. instead of high-ranking Freemasons, in order to recently against the peace efforts of Pope Benedict XV. to turn around and advise the duck to "persevere". As Participants in this secret meeting include, among others, ge-named: The Grand Master, Brother Duke of Connaught, who French Grand Master General Br. Périn and the Dor: Tugiesian Grand Master Br.. Magalhaes Lima.)

1) Br.. Dr. l in the “Invisible Temple”; quoted from Heise, p. 121.

2) See Karl Heise, p.

) Cf. “Neue ürcher Nachrichten” of December 4, 1915, quoted from Heise, p. 43.

) Cf., “Bad. eobachter” 1917 No. 249, quoted in Heise, p. 197.
See Heise, p. 197.

A Freemasons' Congress met in mid-December 1916 in Rome; at the banquet in honor of the foreign high-ranking Freemasons, it was declared Br.. Riccardi, the President of the “Exalted Great Council”, that the fight would continue until Serbia and Belgium regained their independence have been returned and — up to Alsace-Lorraine again French rope

In April 1917, a nationwide Freemasons' conference took place.
in Paris, which dealt with the important question of how
There is probably a strong movement against the Mo⸗ in Germany itself.
could cause anarchy...

The same purpose apparently served the social democrat⸗
table “Peace” Congress in Stockholm, which was founded by Frei
(It was admittedly financed by bricklayers!!) Also there
The main participants were Freemasons , such as Brother Dr. Viktor Adler.
Br.. Branting, Br. . Troelstra, Br.. Vandervelde. Anyway, it stands confirms that the German Social Democrat (Br.. 2) Scheidemann with the demand came back that Germany must now completely and (or even be democratized.) Scheidemann was therefore nothing.
other than the mouthpiece of the Entente Freemasons, which
The word "demohratisation" was apparently chosen only for this reason, because the more pronounced "republicanization" is not yet possible dared to use it.

At the end of June 1917, the World Congress of Free Americans took place.
maurer in Paris instead, at which (with the exception of the Germans) Freemasons from numerous countries participated. New ones were now being established there dings the Freemasonic Entente peace conditions⸗ Gen set up: Return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, establishment of an independent Poland, of an independent Czechoslovak state, complete dismemberment of Austria-Hungary and thus “Liberation” of the nation “oppressed” by the Habsburg dynasty nalitäten. — Furthermore, the purpose of this conference was the justification⸗ dung of a “union of all nations”, i.e. creation of the Bölkerbundesl?')

The last major wartime conference of world Freemasons took place against
It took place in Paris at the end of September 1918. The size of this conference
This is illustrated by the fact that no less than

1) See Dalen's Calendar, 1918, last page of text.

9) And this, despite the fact that he himself recounts in his work "Collapse" that There was no sign of a willingness to make peace among the "comrades"!

N Karl Heise, p. 198.

300 lodges of the "Grand Orient de France" were represented; also
The "Grand Lodge of France" was heavily involved, as was the Aus≈ land. Here too we encounter the Grand Master Duke of Connaught, Grand Master General Périn and the Grand—Master Magalhaes Lima. The allied powers were Deep respect, thanks and admiration were expressed, and the Certainty of triumph was expressed. Furthermore It was desired that the League of Nations would finally be created, to which but only those states that are freemasons are allowed to join.
are led by Russian governments! It is noteworthy that earlier by the French Parliament, the Masonic Ab≈ orderly Br.. Lebey (Secretary of the Great Orient of Frank≈ (rich) the preparation of the foundations for this League of Nations over—(had been worn.!) The “certainty of triumph” had so the Freemasons worldwide already in September 1918; undoubtedly they were The very best news from Germany and from Austria-Hungary arrived. How the collapse was prepared is discussed.
The Social Democrat Vater addressed a meeting of the Workers' and Soldiers' Council Magdeburg: "This revolution is against us."
"The lution didn't come as a surprise," said Comrade Father;
"Since January 25, 1918, we have been carrying out the revolution according to plan."
prepared. The work was difficult and dangerous at the same time, we
They paid for it with many years in prison and penitentiary.
The (social democratic) party had realized that the major strikes
This would not lead to revolution; therefore, other paths had to be taken.
will be. The work has paid off. We have our people, those who went to the front, were led to desertion, the We organized refugees from Jahnen, expelled them with false papers-equipped with money and unsigned leaflets. We These people have gone in all directions, mainly to the sent to the front so they could process the frontline soldiers and the front
They were meant to wear down the soldiers. These were intended to overwhelm them.
running; and so the decay gradually, but surely, took place.
completed.. .“?) Using black-red-gold-rimmed bro≈
Swindlers called for “German” pacifists to mutiny, even assassination.
They rose up, promised the friendship of France, and explained the word "Republic" as a slogan. The same was done by one in millions.
Postcard with a black, red, and gold corner, discarded from pieces.
On October 5, 1918, the Reich's peace offer was made.
Chancellor Prince Max von Baden. Prince Max von Baden

1) Karl Heise, p. 198.
) Val. “Oſtdeutsche Rundschau”, Vienna, December 21, 1918.

is very close to the Freemasons, because his father, Prince Wilhelm von Baden was a Freemason; he stood as Grand Master from 1859 to 1863. Master at the head of the Grand Lodge of Prussia "To friendship” and stayed with her until 1897, when he joined the entered the eternal Orient, as honorary grand master.") But also Chancellor Max von Baden's peace offer was rejected by the World Freemasonry immediately combated; Br.. Pointdexer spoke in the American Senate, the hope was expressed that the Entente ministers⸗ President Lloyd Georges and Brother Clemenceau, the ceasefire⸗ They will prevent Germany from doing that... And fine colleague. Brother Lodge would only acknowledge such a “love of peace”, the American-French-English army on German The land would be dictated... Like all other expressions of peace. Germany's step was also only approved by world Freemasonry portrayed as a “hostile maneuver” and met with derision and mockery⸗ Rejected.

Some indignant readers will now ask the question: Why? Has the German public been made aware of all these atrocities in the world? Did you learn anything, or almost nothing, about Freemasonry? Why did they clarify? Did the German newspapers not inform the population about it in time? — They weren't allowed to, it was forbidden. Yes, whoever in Could such a brainless idea have possibly occurred in the German Reich? To enforce a ban that only served the enemies, the fatherland But must it lead to ruin? Whoever brought about this prohibition has?? — The German Freemasonry section The German Free⸗ It was Freemasonry that successfully pushed through a ban by the Reich government. thereby the “unfounded () incitement against Freemasonry and the lodge system... was brought to a halt." "In particular, they found The editors of the Catholic newspapers were instructed to... To refrain from accusing the German Freemasons of being in» directly war-mongers ..)

Well, such an accusation has certainly not been made. have been; however, the German Freemasons have been accused of made so that through their silence they protected the actions of the Free⸗ Masons of enemy states seek to cover up and of such a kind Warmongering by enemy Freemasons indirectly supported⸗ This accusation is unfortunately all too justified! Indeed, Even the German Brother Dr. Wilhelm Ohr noted that the German Freemasons, the constant attacks of the hostile Grand⸗ gi SC e Fr. Z.“, May 1919 p. 50.

2) Cf. “Wr. Fr. Z.”, May 1919, p. 52, according to a communication from the Freemasons≠ French newspaper “Auf der Warte”.

The oriente had always only been repelled "extremely weakly"! The feeling Freemasonic affiliation prevailed and killed every other.
A different feeling. Exceptions prove the rule here as well. Here, the following applied:
It's time to show our true colors: Is German Freemasonry true to its principles?
Essence, in its spirit a completely different one than the Anglo-American≠ fche, french, italian, Serbian etc., then she would just have the table≠ cloth between himself and the differently kindred hostile brothers torn apart-
She had to cut it. She didn't; therefore, everyone is free to do so.
To think one's own opinion and also to say it out loud: The German Free—Freemasonry is known for its silence and concealment.
ſpielens mitſchulig an dem Zuschumbruch, mit-guilty of the misery and annihilation peace, who condemns the German people to servitude. And doesn't have to In the heart of every German lies a feeling of outrage.
he reads how the German Freemasons are already actively involved in it find, to re-establish old connections with our mortal enemies-Take it? Yes, some of it has already been taken!

On the one hand, we learn that the French lodges, Closed since 1870, they were rebuilt in Alsace-Lorraine and the German Freemasons had to flee from there; on the other hand
But we are informed that in the venerable city of Cologne a an English field lodge was established, “in which German brothers also "travel". 4)

Truly, the Germans are, in national terms, the Most negligent people in the world!

What can be said about "national consciousness" after such findings?
The German Freemasons' position needs no further explanation.
will be. The German Freemasons, however, prefer to deal with their
To determine with certainty whether they are so miserable and shameful Whether or not they want to continue playing the role.

After the war, a number of Freemason congresses took place.
found flat, of which the last, the annual meeting of the Great—
Lodge of France on September 22, 1922, of particular importance≠
It was likely to be. Under the chairmanship of General Gerand, the Congress after settlement of internal French affairs two Reports on international relations. One concerned the
The announcement, which was received with great applause, that the Nuremberg lodge
"To the Rising Sun" the actions of the German military regiments disapprove?) The other announced that in Geneva (! League of Nations! a

r. Fr. Z.”, August 1918, p. 23.
d the old nest-foulers at value 1! Compare the following interesting Fact: The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of France was, until the aforementioned congress

The Freemasons' League was founded, which includes representatives of all lodges. includes, but excludes the German and English ones. The first One is not accepted until they have crossed the French lodge thresholds. If they have kissed remorsefully, then they may "participate" make" of "the blessings" that "come from the human and military- fraternity flowing here.”1) The others want the atheist basic⸗ The situation is not so official with regard to bigoted Englishness. recognize, as the Romance lodges do. In any case, it was thus... the international Freemasons' alliance reaffirmed, organized. But in Berlin, a newly published newspaper wrote about "deepening" republican politics” on the same day (September 22, 1922): "While there are millions of people who see the republic as a a very valuable and sublime gemstone, but whose well-being the well-being of humanity and world peace is more important than the Republic. Therefore, if democracy can develop on its own merits proves incapable of uniting the German tribes into a single, unified entity under state co To merge, yes, that would be the lesser evil, this goal on the, of course terribly painful detours via the cuirassier boot and the to have to hope for the removal of the saber regiment. Perhaps it even is A world republic would be much easier to achieve through a through world tyranny, which initially targeted the small states, large⸗ has shattered the loudmouthed braggart ().“?)

So: the world republic is the self-evident goal. And A “simple” means to achieve this is the – world revolution.

On the same day, however, international Freemasonry maintains its [unclear] Paris held its meeting, at which the same world republic was discussed. Will. Connections?

Of the many Masonic congresses of recent years, (apart from the aforementioned Belgrade meeting of three) especially the Basel conference, which had been carefully prepared and on which the French “brothers” have now achieved their war aims were, who played the role of peace apostles. 308 representatives from all over the world e They held a “peace” rally on August 30, 1925, in which they referred to a declaration from 1902, which established a friendship between Germany and France as the target of Masonic be–

Bernard Weillhoff (as Dahlen's "Calendar for Freemasons" 1922 describes him; the

"Bayer. Kurier" writes the fine name Wellhoff. (October 9, 1922) The Grandfather
The Nuremberg lodge is called – Wellhoff. Probably both are Brothers... from Tribe of Jacob.

Br. O. Caspari: “What is Freemasonry”. Leipzig 1889, p. 34.

>, “German Republic” No. 4, 1922.

had placed it there. When nothing happened from 1902 to 1925.
It happens!

This audacity was praised by Brother Lennhoff (Great Ludwig of Vienna). and Br. L. Bangel (Orient, Frankfurt) as a true act of peace⸗ recognized. Unofficially, representatives of the old Prussian Great—logen present. .

All sessions of Masonic conferences are undoubtedly also included.
to include the League of Nations. Never has this been clearer, as when Germany entered under Br... Stresemann's leadership.
The chairmen were Br... Nintschitsch, the Yugoslavian Foreign Minister, that is, the very representative of the country which opened the World War with the Freemason murderers in Sarajevo, and Br... Affonso Dacosta, the previously mentioned Portuguese-Giessen masons and German-haters, on whose incitement the fitting⸗
The number of German ships taken at the beginning of the World War declined.
And Br... Stresemann knew exactly who he was dealing with.
had: he deliberately wove the phrase into his speech from the "divine master builder of the worlds", a standing Masonic Idiom (the great architect of the universe). These facts had caused great outrage in Germany, not least in old Prussian lodge circles, which, according to Stresemann's speech, he—neut international relations with our mortal enemies, Stresemann was one of them. These attempts at denial failed.
On the one hand, the “humanitarian” Masonic circles around the “Ber” voted in favor.
“liner Tageblatt” and a humanitarian brother was careless enough, fine “indignation” at the rebellious Brothers… publicly expressed give. In the aforementioned newspaper, he specifically highlighted the fact that Br... Stresemann stood "under the sign" and the French Stresemann would have made gestures well-known to bricklayers.
used a secret language that was apparently designed to prevent to be kept hidden from the German people. And to this The peculiar representatives of Germany responded, as the “BV. T.” from⸗ emphatically highlights the Freemasons Briand and Chamberlain! *)

Moreover, a well-informed body like the "Wiener"
"Freemasons' Newspaper" the causal connection between lodge and the League of Nations in the heat of a battle with the "Germania" itself granted. Their editor-in-chief, Br... Lennhoff, wrote on the occasion of the defense against some attacks by the aforementioned central newspaper (No. 6, 1927): “Certainly, on one point the people who are together…”

1) The disturbed lodge circles later attempted not only to challenge membership to deny the aforementioned individuals' membership in Freemasonry, but even their Masonic to deny the existence of the League of Nations altogether! Something that, thanks to other To describe the statements of the Brr. .. as a misleading practice is.

Some wartime meetings of Freemasons. 8467
I suspect a connection exists between Freemasonry and the League of Nations, quite rightly
The League of Nations as such is based on a Masonic conception.
" sprang from." |

This now provides conclusive proof of the nature of an In⸗ situde provided, which is run by men who are in first place Lines are to blame for the monstrous collapse of Europe and to dare today to present oneself as a bringer of peace.

The organic will of all nations rebelled everywhere against
This increasingly obvious lie of the Geneva Confederation.
Germany's entry further enhanced its reputation. also his power. And it was the Freemason Stresemann who participated in this.

XXV.

Wilson's Masonic peace program.

That the Freemasons bear the main responsibility for the outbreak of the
The blame for the World War is likely to be placed on this grounds.
Explanations for anyone who wants to understand the facts without prejudice or influence⸗
The behavior must be examined and appear sufficiently clear. One must do this.
bear in mind that only a portion of the publicly available evidence in our representation could be used and that, if one considers all Freemasonic periodicals, brochures and especially the ver⸗ access to closed secret archives containing the evidence could be multiplied a thousandfold.

However, it should be emphasized once again that it is important to the Freemasons⸗ seemingly not about a world war with its terrible consequences⸗
It was not about armies and devastation, but about a world⸗ revolution, which challenged its ideals, especially the overthrow of the European Realizing dynasties and the introduction of the world republic should. If this line of reasoning is correct, then it should also be possible to achieve t
The final result needs to be confirmed. So Wilson would also have to be confirmed.
The peace program, which marked the culmination of the war presents conditional historical development, in its main demands⸗ wrestling corresponds to the Masonic goals, all the more so, when Wilson himself was a Freemason.

When the claim was made that Wilson was also free⸗
When the Masons were accused, lively protests arose in German lodge circles.
Today, this fact can be considered proven.

When Wilson arrived in Brest, he was met by the Br...
Taugourdeau welcomes; the lodge “Fidélité” held an event on the 10th of November.
November 1918 a meeting in which Br... Lucien Le Foyer, ebe:
former Member of Parliament of Paris, on the politics of “our brother, President Wilson gave a lecture”;) the “Masonic The Algiers Monitoring and Action Committee” sent Wilson
the so-called “Depeche Algérienne”, which read as follows:
"The moment you arrive on French soil, send the Freemasons of the four lodges who met on December 8th Algiers their famous brother... Wilson (to their illustrious brothers) Wilson) their brotherly respect (homage) and most vivid

---

1 Bulletin hebdomadaire des Loges de la région parisienne 1er au November 15, 1918.

Congratulations on his Masonic work during the War for the rights and freedom of peoples.” !) Wilson
The secretary replied: “Paris, December 17, 1918. — The
The President has asked me to convey his deepest respect to you.
to speak in praise of the kind words spoken upon his happy arrival, which they expressed in the telegram of December 13th."

Furthermore, it is noteworthy that Wilson, on his European tour in Genoa, where he laid a wreath at the statue of Mazzini.

These remarks should end the dispute over Wilson's 3u-
Membership in Freemasonry is considered to be completed.

Let us now take a closer look at Wilson's "peace" program, Thus we find that the main points of Freemasonry minds are permeated. However, there is also a whole
A series of provisions that obviously do not make any sense together⸗
These are, however, only those that the war itself has made necessary and that are just as good might be included in any other hostile peace proposal.
These should therefore not be touched further.

However, the very first point of Wilson's program is Remarkable: Publicity of the peace negotiations
— a slogan for the unjudgmental people of genuine Freemasonry Imprint. Especially those who do everything in secret, who...
Brothers bound by oaths and vows to the strictest secrecy⸗ duties, call for publicity, in order to then, when the seduction of the Massen succeeded in continuing according to the “tried and tested” system⸗ work. Thus, the Paris Peace Conference immediately went to

At the start of their negotiations in January 1919, they declared that "tech⸗
For niche reasons, a public presentation of the deliberations is unfortunately not possibl
It might be possible!

The situation is similar with the second point: Complete freedom of Shipping! Also a resounding buzzword, because self-defense⸗
This demand, in practical terms, refers only to those peoples who have submitted to the
by the Jewish-Masonic "Frankf. Ztg." have not been subjected to "Anglo-Saxon world domination", under which
Of course, the victory of the Jewish stock exchange in New York is to be understood.
The awakening Türkiye and other movements in the Orient, which Those who seek to subjugate the world political forces will be thwarted by them.
Hopefully, that will thwart their plans.

Published in the weekly magazine "Die Schildwache", Olten, Switzerland, No. 16 dated January 17, 1919.

See Le peril Judeo-Maçonnique. Paris 1921 p. 85.

Hoser, Freemasonry. Regensburg 1922, p. 77.
) 1922 No. 108. See last chapter.

Point 4 calls for the abolition of militarism, a demand made countless times by Freemasons and at was posed on every occasion. In the rally of the colonel Council of the French Greater Orient of December 13, 1914, states
It explicitly states that Prussian militarism at any price must be destroyed. Mind you – the Prussian military.
Tarism! Today it is clear to every sighted person that the fran⸗ Czech militarism – which already before the war divided the people into France was burdened 82% more than Prussia was in Germany did – proliferating in a way that defies all the words of the Brothers...
Poincaré and his associates are being proven wrong. The new barracks in
In occupied territory, they speak a more vivid language than all words.
Previously, there was one German soldier for every 30 inhabitants; today, there is one fo a Entente soldier.

Point 8 concerns Alsace-Lorraine, whose return is demanded of France. This too is a Masonic demand-rung, which has been raised anew over the last 40 years and even was strongly advocated in the presence of German Freemasons.")

The demand of point 9, border correction against Italy also corresponds to the Masonic principles, as

They were already taught by Grandmaster Mazzini half a century ago erected and fundamentally approved by all Freemasons of the world were approved.

The desire for autonomy is exactly the same.
The peoples of Austria-Hungary made a demand that could be met at any time by openly and unashamedly to the Freemasonic brothers on both sides was collected.

The division of Türkiye, point 12, is also part of it.
Freemasonic thought. Br... Mazzini already asked before 50 years ago: "Two great empires shaped Europe."
Buildings of despotism and the denial of nationalities⸗ to uphold the principle: The Austrian Empire, which in its
The European China represents an unshakeable rigidity and that Turkish Empire, which is seen as a representative of the Asian principle and as The papacy of the East stands in the way of European progress.” *)

Finally, the 14th point: Unification of all nations.
mutual guarantee (in other words: to the “peoples⸗ bund“, to „World Republic“ or „Pyramid of Republics”) is like this⸗

---

1) See the speeches cited several times at the centenary celebration of the Revolutionlution of 1789.
) Mazzini, Opera XIII, 178/179.

spoken of a Masonic nature and was based on the Masonic Conferences of the last 30 years have been discussed so often and so thoroughly, that there is probably nothing more to be said about it.

What this brotherhood of nations actually looks like is shown by...
The present reality for us: hunger and misery, ruthless A peace imposed by force! And all this after and despite our drove out their own “despot” and made this Masonic demand:
have filled up to receive peace and bread from Wilson's hand.!)

Before the war, there were frequent arguments about whether the Freemasons the whole earth as a unified world federation with equal rights-
To grasp aspirations and shared goals, whether free or not. From measure⸗
The first estate of German Freemasons was repeatedly awarded to the first estate.
This point was emphatically represented. It is worth recalling the statement... of the Grand Master Brother Gartz (Grand Lodge of Freemasons) of Germany in Berlin), which expressly affirms the unity of the Free⸗ Masonry was emphasized despite the diversity of its forms. Furthermore, it was
They referred to the highly respected German Freemason Brother Ludwig.
Keller, who in his important works on history and the
The essence of Freemasonry has always been the idea that it should be a Unity to sit upon, which stretches over the whole earth. *)

Now the day has come that the Freemasons have long awaited– waited, so eagerly anticipated. The day when, to meet Br.. Fran:

---

1) Anyone who seeks insights into Jewish–Masonic mendacity and deception of the people
Anyone wishing to obtain this should, in addition to the "Frankfurter Zeitung," especiall Recommended reading from the newspaper. Regarding the scam involving 14 points.
She wrote before the Washington Conference in December 1921: "...what a
The difference is from the time three years ago when President Wilson crossed the ocean, to bring peace to Europe. It was quite an event at the time.
of suggestive power, which fills all (1) hearts with joyful anticipation fulfilled. After a horrific night of war, the new morning seemed to usher in a time of pea Reconciliation dawned. But Wilson disappointed the world. His noble Will was too weak to carry out the deed... Wilfon announced Programs without considering the possibility of their implementation give. Thus his high principles were shattered by the harsh will of the nations.” (December 12, 1921). If one were to assume that the "N ZZ" fet the People who allegedly brought down the "high principles" are angry, so it is known One cannot see her character. Lloyd George remains for her the "eternally youthful". statesman” with “indestructible optimism” (November 16, 1921); the French
The national holiday is mentioned with almost religious devotion (ibid.); the “victory⸗
"rich reconquest of France" at the anniversary of Chateau Thierry with Thoughts of deep emotion (July 20, 1921); the “heartfelt boldness” of The French praised Clemenceau and spoke of his “inner greatness” (October 7).
1922). German national sentiment is, quite understandably, nothing but "all–German chauvir
"nism", the Uerde: bung of Upper Silesia is considered a just act, and will – Luden⸗ Dorff was blamed for it (October 27, 1922), etc. The fraud is inextricably linked.
further away.

) See especially the fine prize essay “The Intellectual Foundations of Freedom⸗ masonry . ..“ Jena 1911.

To speak to Kolin, “all the disinherited are freed, all injustices are rectified.”
atones, abolishes all privileges, restores all violated countries to their true selves⸗
"They should regain the right to determine their own affairs." So now "all Grand Lodges and all Grand Orients of the world meet in one university⸗ Comradeship in the United States. The divisions and the national...
"The boundaries by which Freemasonry is divided" have disappeared.
the. The “glorious future ideal” that the Freemasons envisioned⸗
What was hovering has now been achieved.

Truly, this glorious future ideal, which Brother Fran⸗ Kolin on July 17, 1889 with such enthusiastic enthusiasm⸗
He declared it was worth the sweat of these noble people!

XXVI.

World capitalism, Zionism, Bolshevism, Freemasonry.

We are currently in the midst of a time in which the international allied financial powers are preparing to claim victory over all peoples to fully exploit this. In a whole series of world conferences (Washington, Genoa, The Hague, etc.) will be involved in the preparation of a World government worked, as did Walther Rathenau in Cannes advocated it. This leader of Judaism in Germany said Back then: “The path one wants to take seems right to me: an international syndicate, and indeed a private syndicate.” !) Above all For the purpose of their "development," a private company should be established for the pe several high-net-worth individuals are in whose hands the well-being and woe of the world has to lie all over the world. Some philistines, who the Forces of today's politics, overwhelmed by all the lies and deceit of his demo⸗ unable to see through the kratish or other stomach leaf, This claim will seem fantastic, so that it is useful It is likely that some voices of the increasingly confident and brazen High finance should be noted.

The all-Jewish “Frankfurter Zeitung” wrote: “Regarding the dependency, in who in America the party machines (not one, but all!) are located – under Wilson this dependency almost a perfect one – one might now assume, that reason has all the more free rein in the United States will have." ?) He knew about the nature of the Genoa Conference the same paper reported that it was "organized capitalism", Yes, "capitalism in its purest form".3) It is called Upper France Cold: "In France, high finance and big industry are actively pursuing policy." and wholesalers, because for them politics is simply part of business. " belongs." !") As far as England is concerned, the "Frankfurter Zeitung" stated in a Polemic with Stinnes states that of all conversations with English Government officials “a number of men in the city” Be⸗ (divorce would know, “just as it would be in Germany”)

---

1) Berliner Tageblatt No. 27, 1922.

4) October 9, 1922. Evening Paper. Why reason should come when the e⸗
The same master rules, it remains dark!

2) January 7, 1922. Evening paper.

) March 4, 1922. 2nd Morning Paper.

5) February 8, 1922. 1st Morning Paper.

The "NNZ" knows about the Washington conference before the
To report on the world situation, the word of the "leading American".
"Financial people" are "of particular importance today," as the circle represent those who “have a determining influence on the course of events (1)
"Exert influence." The Jewish-Masonic newspaper refers to this as follows:
These financiers; they are Lamont, Otto Kahn and James Speyer, who speaks of America as the “great creditor nation”.”)

Thus, the great “Disarmament Conference” of Washington≠ sound in the large hall of the association of the "Daughters of the American “Revolution” opened.” President Harding gave the opening speech.
Harding was not initially a Freemason. But when he became president Upon becoming a member, he entered the lodge, an outward sign of recognition.
a power that, identical with Jewish high finance, controlled America's Fate is "perfectly" determined.

Harding's speech was therefore also one of sentimentality.
A drippingly sanctimonious Freemason sermon, just like it's written in the book.

The duty of the conference is fraternity. All men≠ India desires disarmament and demands that the war be ended outsidehalf of the law is posed (which he himself has always taken care of).
has!). “We have gathered here to show compassion for humanity.” serve" etc.")

Lord Balfour had come over from England, accompanied by Brother Anthony Rothschild.") On the "Aquitania" came the President-
Mr. Nahum Sokolow has arrived as a member of the Zionist executive. Already
He was greeted on the high seas by New York's city yacht, which raised the Jewish flag (blue and white). And the purpose of the Conference, a “world regulation”, as the “Frankf. 3tg.” said —
It succeeded. The war was "disarmed," meaning "America" took over.
of world politics. Great Britain had to adopt the two-fleet standard.
To renounce, it had to dissolve its natural alliance with Japan.
at the same time, however, that the speeches at the conference before Friedfertig-Because they were dripping with nihilism, a special study was initiated in the American Se and the improvement of poison gases was decided!”) When the conference then, when it ended in January 1922, the German Language written and appearing in Germany “Frankf.

) November 1, 1921. No. 1559. Cf. the deification of the Jewish Newspaper magnate Adolph Ochs (“New York Times”), who took Wilson to war incited. November 8, 1921.

) NZZ, November 14, 1921.

50 Frankf. Ztg. 13 Nov. 1921, No. 847.

) With whom the German Reichsbank representative Havenstein in London to under had to act, or rather, he begged the person he was asking for "help"!

Local Gazette, December 9, 1921.

Ztg." fest, fie fet die „Begründung einer angesächsischen Weltherr—
It had been a "divided world". But the "torn world" didn't need to worry about that.
to lament, on the contrary: “If the Anglo-Saxon preponderance…” (brings it back into order), then she will be much more⸗ more of this development can look forward to it.”) The spirit will respond to this.
still praised by Washington as the "spirit of understanding"...

For any sighted person, things are now as clear as day.
The stock exchanges of London and New York find the masters of the
The fate of the world. That is the "order," the "reason," the “Understanding”, “reconciliation of nations”, etc., which separate us from all⸗ Jewish stock market publications are being misled.

That in fact, in the hands of gold-rich Judaism the
The direction of world politics lies with and already before and during the world⸗
The war's location is evident, among other things, from a situation under the protection
The Jewish Beech, issued by the government in 1918 (before the end of the war), which has so far only been published in a French translation. It is called "The Jews among the Entente Leaders." We find there the Biography of 16 leading Jewish politicians alongside their light⸗ Images. First, Herbert Samuel, the former mayor of London, present Viceroy of Palestine; then ES Montagu, Member of Parliament, former special “secretary” of Afquith, wh⸗
End of the war, Minister of Munitions. Furthermore, Rufus Isaacs appears.
Lord Reading, former Lord Chief Justice of England, then Vice-President
King of India, now Marquis and leader of the Liberal Party (together with the Jewish financier Herbert Samuel); Alfred Mond, Zionist leader and former Minister of Public Works.
Then Lucien Klotz is mentioned, French Finance Minister.
end of the war; Joseph Reinach, the Dreyfus defender. Then Br... Sonnino, Italy's foreign minister, who is in first place who worked for Italy's entry into the war; Luigi Luzzatti, Italian Ginangminifter; Br... Barzilai-Bürzel, Minister without Portfolio.

Then one of the most important Jews is mentioned: the American-Niche Chief Justice Louis Dembitz Brandeis. It is said of him from⸗ emphatically, he was one of the "most intimate and most favored advisors" of the President (Wilson). “Not only was he asked for advice in all () problems of trade and industry addressed ..., but his sound judgment was also heard where it concerned the international situation.” Brandeis was then also at the Top in the drafting of the plan of American policy in Versailles. There Wilson transferred almost the entire management to him.

---

1) What does the woman from Frankfurt understand by "order"?
2) No. 108, 1922.

Alongside him – the Hodkapitalijten – the Jewish “worker” was also active. leader Samuel Gompers; furthermore, the high financier Oskar Strauss – former ambassador to Constantinople, chairman of the trade committee⸗ and transport offices, etc. He is said to be "one of the most influential". richest Jewish leader of modern times!” Then comes Bernard Baruch, who was responsible for the entire material supply of America⸗ Having been in charge of the war, he had “blank check” over "All industries of the United States," the book says.") From Otto Kahn, the "German," is assured that he is a most loyal advocate. of the Allied cause, and also a French Legion of Honor. Abraham Elcus is also mentioned, former ambassador to Constantinople and, To conclude this little round, Paul Hymans, the Jewish first President of the League of Nations

It would be going too far to list all the leading Jews of the bank here. and the stock market world by name,?) the symptoms of hay fever The current state of the world is already clear enough. Now, in addition, that all these Jews are Freemason leaders. And they sit in... mostly in the leadership of the Freemasons' order B'nai B'rith. This order is known in Germany as the "Charity Order". "That fine central political, and indeed Jewish political Pursuing goals is self-evident, and the "development of “The highest interests of Judaism” is what he himself describes as his goal.”) He therefore also earned the praise of the Jews. Thus writes the “Tribune Juive”, he deserves one of the top spots, he is always were willing to cooperate in “any useful Jewish cause.”

The leadership of this organization, which comprises 426 lodges worldwide, Secret societies include Br... Morgenthau (formerly American Botfafter in Konstantinople), Brandeis, Mak (Zionist, judge), Warburg (Felix, brother of Max Warburg in Hamburg), Elkus, Alfred Krauss (1st Chairman), Schiff (now deceased, perhaps also his) (Son Mortimer meant), Louis Marshall (Judge) uf.)

) See "The International Jew," Vol. II. Hammer Publishing House. – So that no Misunderstandings arise, Fet notes that this is not an apocryphal matter.

It concerns writing. The "CV Zeitung" (organ of the Central Association of German State-citizens of Jewish faith) describe it as a "private printing" intended for a "narrow circle" 7 had been, and finds that they were free in a "simple () tone" held. No. 14,

) I . a Foreground and on the 'large collection of facts at Alfred Rosenberg, "Anti-State Zionism"; also, "The International "Jew" Vol. I and II; Winzer, "The Jews in England"; the "Old France" Paris, 5 rue du Pre. aux Gleres; the "Revue Internationale des Sociétés sécrates. Paris, 96 Boulevard Malesherhes, General Handbook of Freemasonry. I, ©. 112.

*) February 25, 1921, from the Jewish Chronicle No. 2703.

*) La vieille France. April 14, 1921. p. 11.

It should now be noted that this order, B'nai B'rith, is based on the principle⸗ This directly contradicts the law of Freemasonry. This fundamental law consists in the denial of the difference between race, nation, and community. federation etc. within the "one chain of brothers". The Freemasons' Order B'nai B'rith is purely Jewish, it doesn't accept Germans, English⸗ countrymen, Muslims, or Japanese. Nevertheless, he will be treated differently. knows! This too is irrefutable proof of who holds the ladder. including the other Freemasons. This entire book has led to Enough has been shown.

The German Grand Lodge Association attempted to counter the sting in 1887. to lock, and described the Jewish order at that time as a secret-society. Later he backed down and the anti-Masonic Freemasonry is persona grata, a taboo, a noli me tangere, a sacred brotherhood, to which the German Brothers belong. (3rd Brotherhood) Schwabe) He received accolades. The folly and — fearfulness It seems that mankind has no limits!

To all these things, there is now one more, which is... The real problem of today's world politics (and of this work) forms: it is the already open cooperation of the leaders of World banks and Freemasonry with the leaders of the allegedly anti-capitalist world revolution. Is the goal a world republic? Does revolution or world revolution represent a means and play a role? Freemasonry plays such a world-dominating role as is claimed, This must also be proven by many facts, if⸗ just as it goes without saying that only posterity will know everything individually able to fully grasp it.

Now, in the course of our considerations, we have at step and kick saw that big capitalists and "proletarian" politicians in

They work together with truly touching harmony. Just look at them!
Br.. . Vandervelde, the famous Br... Samuel Gompers, the Brother... Hervé, the brother. Oscar Cohn, etc. The whole of Marxism has been supported by pan-Jewish high finance for decades Movement.

This has its very natural causes. For that against the political game undertaken and the economic development⸗ If opposing forces were to emerge, the representatives would have to to say to high finance. It therefore came down to the management of such to get hold of emerging movements, or to create such movements oneself to launch in order to render them harmless (for fic), which are entitled⸗
But the outrage was diverted to other circles. For decades.
This planned work now proceeds, and so it happens that almost the entire major Marxist press almost exclusively written by Jews is directed by them, or devoted to them, or directly dependent on them⸗ gigen “workers’ leaders”.)

In all the Entente countries, this has been the case for decades.
Lodges opened that served no other purpose than the workers⸗ to exploit leaders for Masonic purposes. The lodge names Only these things reveal the purpose of the exercise to anyone with insight. For example..
Are there lodges in France with the following names: "L'Aurore" Sociale”, “Les Amis du Peuple”, “Sociale”, “L'Action Socialiste
de France“ etc.

The same is true in other countries.

From the glorious era of the "Bavarian Soviet Republic" there are still...
The following “most luminous” Brothers . Freemasons of grateful posterity According to tradition: Br.. Toller, a Jew, a “talented” poet, for whom The well-known Brother Hermann Bahr really put his heart and soul into it, when he was to be punished with death for fine “heroic deeds”; Br..
Leviné⸗Nißen, Jew; Br.. Venten, Jew and instigator of the lower⸗ pregnant hostage murder; Brother Tobias Axelrod, Jew and Illuminati;
It was these three Jews in particular who were bestial human beings have hired for numerous assassinations. Furthermore, Br..
"Dr." Wadler, a Jew, his real name is W. Adler; Br..
“Dr.” Erich Mühsam, Jew, Master of the Chair, son of a rabbi biners, and finally Br.. Fechenbach, Jew, Privy Secretary of the Brothers .. Kurt Eisner; he belongs to the Munich Lodge: “To the out, "going light on the Isar"; hopefully this lodge is middle—Meanwhile, a light has dawned. ?) Countess Henriette Fischer von Treuberg, née von Kaufmann-Asser, the intellectual Be—Councilwoman Kurt Eisner, a Jew, must not be omitted from this list—to be mentioned again. Besides the previously mentioned personalities, there were during the beautiful era of the "Council government" there were still quite a number “Highly talented” Jews, regarding whose membership in the Freemasonry is not yet definitively established; the following belongs here:

praised Socialization Minister Dr. Neurath from Vienna, then the
The oft-mentioned Mr. Gustav Landauer, and also the Mr. "Staten for southern Bavaria Dr. Ewinger; whether this and more

One should not forget that the "Frankf. Ztg." and "Berl. Tagebl." have editors,
The registered members of the Social Democratic Party are: Philipp Scheidemann
On the other hand, he writes excerpts in the "Frankfurter Zeitung," for example, on Januar then: had this capitalist newspaper enthusiastically praised the 1918 revolution,
What if it hadn't known that high finance would be spared from it?

I am unable to verify these statements by Dr. Wichti. Furthermore...
Felix Fechenbach's activities, who worked for a Jewish-English spy agency in Rotterdam
5 delivered and was sentenced to prison by the Bavarian People's Court,
This also speaks volumes about certain international connections. EB

That several other Freemasons are, is factually irrelevant; the formerly ge⸗
The cited documented cases should already be proof enough for every reader.
have demonstrated that the entire glorious "Soviet Republic" was a work Jewish-Masonic “swindler of the spirit it was” ijt!

The situation is currently worst in Russia: There they are practicing 550 Bolsheviks ended the reign of terror; among them were 447 Jews.!) Almost all other proletarian leaders find the Both of the greatest tyrants of Soviet Russia were Freemasons. In the lodge "Art et Travail" in Paris has always attracted the most radical revolutionaries.
Shelter for the whole world. On February 6, 1918, the ever-present
The excellent "Libre parole" lecture on a topic mentioned above.
Lodge meeting of the Temple Work of December 24 (1) 1917. The
The venerable Br... Rogiéres of the "Jean Jaurès" lodge stopped this day on Brother Lenin and Trotsky (Braunstein) a great praise.

Trotsky's close connection with Freemasonic circles came ua immediately after the outbreak of the war in his work "The War and the International” expresses, in which he quite clearly the “Con⸗ united states of Europe as the foundation of the United States-
'ten of the world' demanded, i.e., the world republic.

From this purely Jewish⸗Masonic⸗political face⸗
The point to consider is Bolshevism; with a host⸗
He has nothing to do with the business program. That was just the
A side of bacon for the proletarians who are being led astray. Now the circle is complete.
Run completed in Russia: the Russian factory and land Owners were driven out and killed; international [entities] have taken their place.
Trusts stepped down (Trotzzy is a member of several as a board member); the

The financial administration is in the hands of a Jew named Aaron Scheinmann.
And the high finance of all countries is doing everything to prevent Jewish violence.
government against the Russian starving population to be punished.?) By hun≠
May only one testimony stand here, one that in its unveiled Hohn clearly demonstrates how far we have already come.
The all-Jewish-Masonic "Frankf. Ztg." writes: "They want
Not showing the opponent any favors in Moscow, but even less so They want to show them to their own followers. Because there are among This constitutes a significant part, which is not covered by all the twists and turns.
the Soviet government is pleased and the one smooth () connection-) See the citation by name in "Jews in Russia". Translation in “Reichswart” of Count Reventlow.

) See the numerous documents on this topic in A. Rosenberg: Pest in Russia.
German People's Union, Munich. Extensive photographic material complements the text.
shocking information.

dung with Western capitalism as a price≠ would view the imposition of Bolshevik principles. Against them=
One must save face, and that is why one asks to them that further concessions to capitalism were out of the question are ..., and that Russia should not be turned into an object of exploitation.
"I will do this for a large capitalist syndicate." !)

Regarding Hungary, the fact should first be established that the Hungarian workers already in 1914 on a workers≠ Congress expressed the demand that the socialist leaders must Resigning from Freemason lodges: One more piece of evidence, that in Hungary, too, the workers' leaders are Freemasons; they
They promised it; whether it actually happened remains more than questionable.

On March 22, 1919, the Hungarian Soviet Republic was proclaimed. directed; their leaders were Freemasons, such as the teaching≠ minifter Br.. Kunfi (read: Kohn!), Br. . Jaſzi, the nationalities-minister, Br.. Agoston Peter, Br.. Lukazs, the son of a Jewish millionaire in Budapest, Br.. Servant-Denes Zoltan and especially Br.. Bela Kun (pronounced: Kohn), the notorious criminal, who still today enjoys the special protection of the Austrian Re≠ government delighted!*) The council government consisted entirely of Jews; the most well-known names are listed here as a lasting reminder.
Nailed down: The bloodhound Tibor Szamuely; the “President of the.
Governing Council" Alexander Garbai (S Grünbaum); Boſtanzi (= beehive) for the military; Ron ai (rose stem) for the Law; Varg a (S Weichselbaum) for money matters; Vince (S Wein-Stein) for the capital; Moritz Erdelyi (— Eisenstein) for the Nutrition ()): Bela Vago (= Salzberger), Bela Biro

(= Beehive No. 2) for the police — all of them were Jews.
Only Oskar Czerny was — allegedly! — not Jewish, but was convicted⸗
The robber and murderer had the certificate of competence, the “councils⸗ Nik, who was a member of the “government” in Hungary, also performed excellently. Nik, to Commander of the Bolshevik security guard, was a robbery⸗ murderers, like any of the 6000 “Lenin boys” Br..
"Bela Kun's idea that almost everyone was a murderer."

1) March 15, 1922. Editorial.

4) Dr. Haus Eifele, “Pictures from Communist Hungary”. Tyrolia Publishing House, Innsbruck, 1920. p. 6. That the connections were of the aforementioned kind is evident fro the two-volume work “A szabadkönnvessig bünei”, published in autumn 1922
(The sins of Freemasonry) evident, which after the throwing down of the
The confiscated material from the Hungarian Soviet Republic is based on this.

That there is also a purely communist branch of Freemasonry
The German Freemason Brother Ernst Freymann confirms this in his fine writing:
“On the paths of international Freemasonry” Page 3.

9) See “Pictures from Communist Hungary”, p. 23.

The 134-day rule of the communists has left the Hungarians with:
It caused immense damage: Many thousands of innocent victims were murdered in the most gruesome way; the Jewish leaders, on the other hand have gold, jewelry and precious stones worth 3000 million⸗
Lion crowns stolen and brought to safety! 197 million!
Kronen flowed to Austria for communist propaganda work;
The communist Tomann alone demonstrably received min⸗
(at least 450,000 crowns) It is also noteworthy that Immediately after the proclamation of the Soviet Republic in Hungary, a call was made.
appeared: “Peoples of Israel!”, in which the Jews were called upon⸗ the, in the sense of the promises of their prophets of all Hungary
To seize possession. Also, that during the street parades and at all:
Common flags besides the red revolutionary flags only the blue ones⸗
The fact that white flags of the Zionists were tolerated is highly...
"significant."

When one considers these connections, then it also becomes clear that... to the skeptic the much-maligned protocols of the "Wise Men of Zion”, as it was already called in 1902 (1) in Russian, as a negotiation⸗ Report on secret sessions at the first Zionist Congress, 1897 to Basel, were published, in a strange light he⸗ Seem. Because the truly monstrous things that were considered at that time Plans of Jewish political conspirators could be considered valid, they
These have largely become facts of world politics today.
The agreement is so astonishing that no one can deny it.

can deprive the eye of appearances. Thus, this book is in all It was translated into cultural languages. That the Jews did everything to protect their Preventing its spread goes without saying. It was first Bought up, then ignored. When all that failed, they brought in a One "witness" after another, to present it as a hoax; one Ihaffte brought out old books to prove that it was a plagiarism.
All for nothing. The "witnesses" were led away in a terrible manner, the others Attacks proved unfounded, thus improving the situation of the Jewish Defense only worsened.")

As for Freemasonry in detail, it is worth noting that... that the non-Jewish Brethren, who today believe they are in communion with the Hebrews
To be able to gather the conspirators together and gather their sheep, the following Keep these lines in mind:

1) Dr. H. Eisele: “Pictures from communist Hungary” p. 113.

) Ibid., pages 7 and 8.

5) It is not possible to discuss the entire dispute in detail here. See:
on this: L. Fry: L'Auteur des Protocols Achad ha-Am; Mer Jouin “Le Peril Judeo” Maconnique" II and the related essays by Count Reventlow in the "Reichs⸗
"Wart." Also the writing by A. Rosenberg: "The World Conspiracy Congress in Basel."

"Once we have finally achieved full dominion, we will to ensure that no conspiracy is hatched against us (Jews)⸗ Wars can take place. We will relentlessly pursue every one. to be judged, who turned against us with a weapon in his hand and our rule rebels. Every founding of a new secret society
The federal government will also be punished with death. The now be⸗ established secret societies (Freemason Grand Lodges), which are probably good for us all are known and have rendered and continue to render us good service,
We will dissolve them all. Their members will be sent far away.
Europe will be banished to continents farther away than Europe. This is how we will primar deal with those non-Jewish Freemasons who are too deeply involved the secrets of our lodges have been leaked. But who from Anyone who is pardoned for any reason must live in constant fear of the Expulsion lives.

A nice perspective for the scoundrels who, in order to gain their personal to satisfy their ambition, to place their country in the hands of the Jewish High finance and its representatives laid down the law. In Soviet Russia, Implementation of this principle has already begun. Whether Whether this will also succeed in Western Europe depends on insight and the will of his peoples.

But apart from these, many seemingly only theoretical—trachtung: the facts of today, the Jewish outrageousness-⸗

Today itself gives us enough examples of the sad state of the world.

On September 1, 1921, the 12th Zionist was born in Karlsbad.
Congress opened. Not with the sound of a bell, but (as the
(as reported by "Neue Freie Presse") with the three Freemasons Hammer blows! Among others, the following sat on the board of this congress:
Jewish socialist engineer Kaplansky, who in a speech to the president of the Zionist World Organization, Prof. Chaim Weizmann, slightly ahead-accused him of not putting enough pressure on the English workers.
The means were used. Weizmann responded to this (in public).
(Assembly): “I knew the value of the power you wielded, Friend Kaplansky, speak. When the day comes when the letters and the talks, memoranda and negotiations published-light can become, so you will be convinced that I am with er-can look into your eyes with your head held high... .“!) Over a year
But before that, the same man had already spoken words that everyone Europeans should know. During a visit to Jerusalem, Weiz said-Mann ua: “We told the leading figures: “We
They will be in Palestine, whether you like it or not. You ) See the reports in the “Jüdische Rundschau” No. 72, 1921.

You can speed up or delay our coming, but it is It's better for you to help us, otherwise it will... our constructive power into a destructive, relateddels, which will set the whole () world in ferment.“”)

Weizmann as representative of the pan-Jewish Masonic Highness⸗ Finance (Rothschild, Warburg, Untermeyer, Schiff etc.) threatened major⸗ Britain is also openly embracing the - world revolution!

This has exposed the great global fraud.
now to all peoples to change the battle front and this ⸗ swearing-in society and their henchmen with the greatest energy the Turn them away. Before they all leave in disgrace and shame.
If they have been hunted down, there will be no peace in Europe!

1) Jewish Review No. 4, 1920. Further details in A. Rosenberg, “The State-
"Hostile Zionism." German Nationalist Publishing House, Hamburg.

Closing remarks.

CA my Kramarſch⸗Buche I have the New Slavic movement described as one of the seven main causes of the World War and Kramarsch was portrayed as their instigator. The events have made me fully justified and those relevant persons⸗ Possibilities that placed too little faith in my statements,

They may decide with their conscience whether and to what extent they should adhere to it.
to feel partly responsible for the horrific collapse. It has happened again.
once again confirming the old truth that in times of greatest danger nothing is as destructive as a weak, poorly taught,
A hesitant and clueless government. From my experience at the time...
Therefore, I have nothing to retract from my previous statements; I only want to say one t
I would like to correct this based on my broader understanding of the situation:
the slogans used in the war by the German barbarei, from Prussian militarism, from liberation of the small oppressed nations, of the struggle for Hu⸗ Manhood, civilization, culture, etc. were not first created by Kramarsch invented it, but rather drew it from his linguistic treasury.
Br.. Mazzinis took over, which had already been in place 70 years earlier.
(Battles against Ofterreid) used. She finds her way to a strike⸗ words of world Freemasonry have become and there Kramarsch like many other Slavic leaders, they are among the "knowing"
Being a bricklayer, it is only natural that he speaks the language of his Ber . speaks.

The present work is therefore in no way in line with the Contradiction with my earlier book, but rather forms its nature⸗ appropriate addition by providing another major cause of the world⸗ war reveals, which is to be valued far more highly than the New Slavic movement. Both share the irreconcilable nature of Hatred against the Central Powers, against Germany, against power⸗ position of the German Empire against the imperial “despots” and against everything that is Christian; in short – against the “devils”.
“Tonic barbarism,” as they call it.

The Ariadne's thread, which stretched from Prague to Paris,
It necessarily led me to the Freemasons; when I later received the certainty that Kramarsch was also the three-pointer⸗

That I belong to a brotherhood was no longer a surprise to me.!)

That's how I came to Freemasonry.

Soon word got around among friends and acquaintances, that I am currently dealing with this matter. And without much ado
To contribute to this, first this person, then that one promised me an interesting...
A fascinating book that I absolutely must read and use. The one sent a few volumes of the "Herold", another older editions the construction shed, yet another one procured for me the "Revue Maçonnique", the “Rivista massonica Italiana”, “Freemasons Chro“nicle”, then the post brought me a whole number of volumes⸗

Spoken secret literature, whose kind donors I still remember today
I hadn't guessed; then again I received some old vintages of the "Latomia," in short, I gradually accumulated so much material in the hand, that I already feared I wouldn't be able to handle the material⸗ to be able to do so. To all the generous donors, I offer my heartfelt thanks—Many thanks. In addition, I was in contact with more than 20 books.
actions that provided me with new releases and older works.
So I soon had a whole library together, which is currently which amounts to well over 150 numbers. Approximately 5000 notes that I...
What he made of it at the time formed the preliminary work for the execution.
Much, far too much, I left unconsidered due to lack of space.
because the book had to be short, substantial, and therefore worth reading.
to have a direct impact on the people.

It certainly would have been easier for me to read a few thick volumes of to write many hundreds of pages, because there was a lack of material.
Not me; I resisted this temptation and kept it brief.
as possible.

I owe many a quote to the expert writings of Her⸗ Mann Gruber, who is among the most accurate and well-read experts on the Freemasonry is known and accepted by the brothers themselves without verification.
being quoted — a sign of his great reliability. By other opponents of the Freemasons, from whose writings I have taken passages Of those who withdrew, Dr. Peter Gerhard (Freemason) should be particularly mentioned. and politics) and Dr. Brauweiler; I also made extensive use of the Extensive lecture work: Freemasonry in Austria-Hungary;
Likewise, Dr. Walther's book on freedom served me well.

1) That Kramarsch is a Freemason has been disputed. My statement is based on... based on the oral communication of a well-informed and entirely reliable a guarantor who explained to me with absolute certainty that Kramarsch to the "Grand Orient de France" as a foreign member. This announcement was Moreover, it has been confirmed to me by another source as being completely accurate.

286 — Concluding remarks.
masonry, from which particularly French sources were taken
were. | |

The Masonic books and magazines themselves are always found made visible in footnotes or in the text, so that I can inform the reader which can save a tedious list.

The book had to be written; it was a moral necessity.
Agility. And it had to come from a German-conscious politician.
men, not from a side that could be described as "clerical" or "ultramontane" or could be suspected of having "Jesuit leanings". The "clericals" have truly done enough in this area to benefit the population

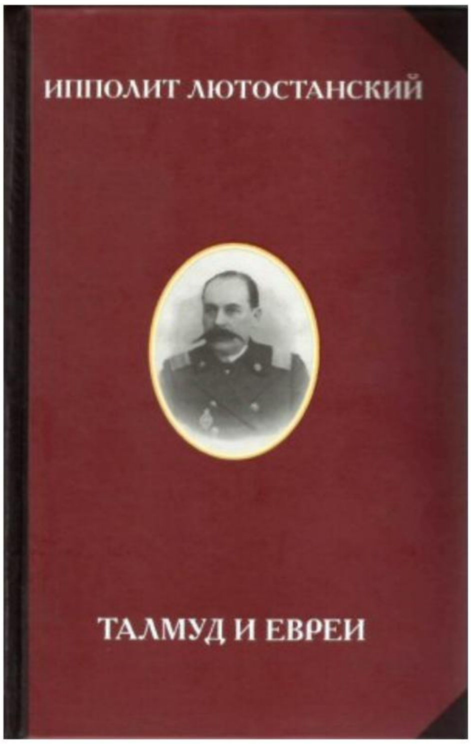
Machine Translated by Google

CLASSICS OF RUSSIAN THEOLOGICAL THOUGHT

HIPPOLYTUS OF LYUTOSTAN

TALMUD AND THE JEWS

TOM I



ИППОЛИТ ЛЮТОСТАНСКИЙ
ТАЛМУД И ЕВРЕИ

Machine Translated by Google

MOSCOW
Orthodox publishing house
"Encyclopedia of Russian Civilization" 2009

Dedicated to the memory of the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg and Ladoga John (Snycheva; sk. 20.10/2.11.1995).

I. Lyutostansky Talmud and Jews. Volume I. Edited by O. Platonov. - M.: Orthodox publishing house "Encyclopedia of Russian Civilization", 2009

The Orthodox publishing house "Encyclopedia of Russian Civilization" considers its duty to publish the famous work of the famous Orthodox theologian, member Imperial Palestine Society I. Lutostansky (1835-1915) “Talmud and Jews", in which he explored the influence of the ideology of the Talmud on the fate of the Jewish people. Brilliant theological education received at the Moscow Theological Academy, knowledge of seven languages (including Hebrew and Latin) allowed Lyutostansky to create one of the most outstanding works in world science on history and ideology of Judaism. With the approval of the Censorship Committee, first edition The book was published in 1879, the last - in 1902-1907, and since then the book has not been reprinted, becoming the greatest rarity. Under Bolshevik rule, reading and storing this book were punished by execution.

ISBN 978-5-902725-22-0 ©
Encyclopedia of Russian Civilization, 2009

Machine Translated by Google

PREFACE

Judaism is a religion of chosenness and racial superiority that spread among Jews in the 1st millennium BC. e. in Palestine. WITH With the emergence of Christianity, it took an extremely hostile position towards it. The irreconcilable attitude of Judaism towards Christianity is rooted in the absolute incompatibility of mystical, moral, ethical and ideological the content of these religions. Christianity is a testimony to the mercy of God, which granted all people the opportunity of salvation at the cost of a voluntary sacrifice made by the Lord Jesus Christ, God made man, for the sake of redemption all the sins of the world. Judaism is the affirmation of the exclusive right of the Jews, guaranteed to them by the very fact of their birth, to a dominant position not only in the human world, but throughout the entire Universe.

“And the world passes away, and its lusts, but he who does the will of God abides forever” (1 John 2:17); “God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that everyone he who believes in Him did not perish, but had eternal life” (John 3:6); "Everyone who believes in He will not be ashamed. There is no difference here between Jew and Greek, because one Lord is with all, rich to all who call on Him” (Rom. 10; 11-12), Christianity testifies to the world, affirming love as the basis of the universe, moral man's responsibility before the Law of God and the equality of all before this law. The Talmud states: “The Jewish people are worthy of eternal life, while other nations like donkeys"; “Jews, you are people, and other nations are not people”; "Only Jews are worthy names of people, and goyim... have only the right to be called pigs.” Similar statements that take the activities of their adherents beyond the boundaries of moral assessments and depriving them of any ethical and moral standards in dealing with other peoples, Talmudism gives a central place, deliberately replacing religion and national affiliation of adherents. Its Satanic Origins The Lord Jesus Christ Himself denounced Him, directly saying to the Jews who tempted Him: “Your father is the devil; and you want to fulfill the lusts of your father” (John 8:44). These origins lost in the depths of centuries. Long before the birth of Christ, the prophets denounced Israel. But in vain. Having lost their state independence under the blows of Assyria and Babylon, the Jews misinterpreted their sacred books, expecting the coming The Messiah, Christ as the King of Israel, who will make them lords of the world. “They, being completely occupied with their earthly significance, dreaming of an extraordinary earthly prosperity, for the sake of this significance and prosperity, for the sake of one vain dream about them, they rejected the Messiah,” says St. Ignatius Brianchaninov.

Obsessed with waiting for a military and political leader, the Jews rejected the true Christ, who came into the world preaching repentance and love. Special them hatred was caused by the fact that, having denounced the Pharisees, Christ destroyed the myth of the Jewish “chosenness of God”, introducing pagan peoples to His teaching. And here are the Jews slandered the Savior before the Roman authorities and achieved a death sentence for him. The result of this sacrilege was the rejection of criminals by the grace of God. The Jewish people, "who were originally chosen as God's people, became a people predominantly outcast” (St. Ignatius Brianchaninov).

But the crucified Christ turned out to be even more terrible for the atheists. Christianity rapidly conquered the world, pushing the dream of domination further and further.

Machine Translated by Google

Then war was declared on the Christians. Christ-haters will not conduct it openly They could - they didn't have enough strength. Their weapons in this war were heretical teachings that destroyed Christianity from within, and secret societies that served as conductors heretical views. Christians were forced to defend their native shrines. Saint John Chrysostom - "Christ's mouth, the world's luminary, the universal teacher", by definition St. Paisiy Velichkovsky, - spent a lot of energy denouncing the lawless. Here what a saint who lived in the 4th century said: "If you respect everything Jewish, then what do you have? in common with us?.. If someone killed your son, tell me, would you really be able to watch on such a person, to listen to his conversation?.. The Jews killed your Son, the Lord, and do you dare to meet with them in the same place? When you find out that someone is committing Judaism, stop and announce him so that you yourself are not exposed to danger comes with it." Among Christians, a view has been established that Judaism is hostile to Christianity as a reflection in the world of the atheistic hatred of Satan, the devil - to Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who destroyed his power with His sacrifice on the cross and power over the souls of people.

In the fight against Christian statehood, the Jews relied on a huge the monetary power of the diaspora, which traditionally controlled all financial life continent. Their intrigues contributed greatly to the fall of Byzantium in 1453, and then they were inevitably transferred to Russia, which remained the only stronghold pure apostolic Orthodoxy.

The full weight of the hatred of the God-killing people is natural and inevitable focused on the God-bearing people, who made the task of preserving the faith meaningful of your existence.

Metropolitan of St. Petersburg and Ladoga
John (Snychev)

Machine Translated by Google

BOOK ONE

SECTION 1. BIBLIOGRAPHICAL

TREATISE I ON THE ORIGINS OF THE TALMUD

Chapter 1 The beginning of the Talmudic era

The real Talmudic era begins with the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple victorious legions of Vespasian and Titus. From this time on, Judaism received special character: ceases to be a political unit and becomes only a religious doctrine and community distinguished from other civil forms. The dogmatic and moral-ritual aspects come to the forefront and give to Jewry the political vitality and steadfastness with which the Jewish people in continuation of many centuries stubbornly withstands the incessant blows of its historical fate. The Talmud contains all the strength of Jewry: in it it draws the means for its cosmopolitan existence amidst the most numerous vicissitudes, even until now. Once Judaism was politically destroyed, the victors stopped oppress Jews regarding their religion. This was a major mistake on the part of Romans All Jewry of that time concentrated around its religious teaching, connecting with it the political idea of revival with an inextricable link national freedom and independent people. The Romans did not limit themselves to one indifferent religious tolerance towards Jews: those Jews who from the very the beginning of the struggle, after the first failures, they agreed to submit to the Roman authorities, they even began to patronize. Thanks to this, the school was restored Hillel and gave predominance to scholastic peaceful rabbinism. At that time there lived the famous Rabbi Joachanan ben Zochai[1] follower Hillel school, a member of the former Sanhedrin, who laid down shortly after political catastrophe the foundation of Talmudic Judaism. During the siege, Rabbi Johanan was in Jerusalem. Anticipating the inevitable death of the city, he decided go to Titus' camp. To do this, in order to avoid evidence of treason, he resorted to tricks: pretending to be dead, the old man lay down in the coffin; his devoted students managed deceive the Jewish guards, put a piece of rotten meat to prove that the dead man was already decomposing, and thus diverted the attention of the vigilant guards, who, without inspection allowed them to leave the city. Titus received Joachanan very graciously and kindly and granted his request, allowing him to establish a school in Jamnia, on the shore Mediterranean Sea. The remnants of rabbinism grouped around this school. National Jewish traditions found refuge in it. Thus formed a religious center whose importance began to rapidly and successfully increase. Not suspecting that in the request of Joachanan lies all the future and strength Judaism, which has survived Rome itself and hoping to defeat the winner himself, Titus agreed to the request with a grin Johanan ben Zohai, who had the idea of founding a spiritual kingdom, is much stronger strongholds of fallen Jerusalem. From that time on, the Jewish tribe became fluttering the banner of the Talmud, under which with invincible energy the Jews about two For thousands of years they have been bravely fighting with the whole world, always having complete victory on their side. The Talmud was compiled gradually from scrolls and traditions. Initially, in the 2nd century, under the title “The Secret Scrolls,” Rabbi Akiva collected all the oral traditions and explanations of the books of Moses, passed down from generation to generation in order to These legends and various decrees of the Sanhedrin were not lost or forgotten scattered Jews. The name “Talmud” comes from the word “lamad” (to teach) and got its start at the time when, with the destruction of the Jewish kingdom and the temple many laws and rituals have lost their binding force; for example, sacrifices, the allocation of tithes to the Khagans and Levites from the produce of the land and etc.

---

[1] Talmudic tales about the last days of the second Jerusalem temple are found in the play “Omar Reb Joachanan,” usually read in cheders in the days preceding the 9th of Ab (July), i.e., the day of the Jerusalem catastrophe.

Laying the foundation for Talmudic teaching was a very serious matter and difficult, because among the Jews it was forbidden to publish letters and make public what taught orally. To directly violate this custom would be to go against a people so strongly attached to their cherished customs. Meanwhile, representatives Jewish people felt the need to gather and make known the scattered oral traditions, in order to use their authority to preserve unity between the scattered Jewishness and thereby support a nation exposed to danger destruction. We do not claim that before the time of compilation of the Mishnah there was no nothing written in terms of oral tradition. Separate notes on different subjects existed; compiled by various persons and zealots of religion, they were studied with diligence. So, Akiva learned them by heart and, as some testify, knew everything legends; but nevertheless, these legends have not yet been made public[1] .

[1] Maimonides, in the preface to his commentary on the mishnah.

As the fall of Judah neared its end, many of the Jews began to accept Christianity, condemning their fellow tribesmen for their humiliating view of everyone who professed other religions. The Pharisees rush to publish the mishna and gemara, adding them divine authority, and the fulfillment of the rulings of the mishna and gemara put them above the law of Moses, threatening terrible punishment for their violators. Target Talmud - to separate Jews from other nations even at a time when the temple is not Jerusalem exists and is already in the wrong hands. This goal has been achieved: 18 centuries have already passed Since the time of the dispersion of Jews throughout the world, Jews have not merged with other nationalities. The Talmud invented various ablutions, prohibitions on eating with non-believers from the same utensils, eating this and not other food, and other various petty prescriptions elevated to dogma. The result was that the Jews not only mix with foreign peoples, but deadly hostility towards them has become entrenched forever.

In addition to the written law of Moses, already in the era of the second temple, religious decrees and laws regarding internal government Jewish people. These decrees and statutes were formed under the influence customs, ancient traditions, interpretations of the law, or simply additions to it. But how Both ancient and modern law were based on the Pentateuch of Moses, then the study of Holy Scripture was given the names “midrash”, “halakhah”, i.e. the application of “law” to life; the development of additions to the Mosaic decrees was called “mishnah”, which means “repetition of the law”, or “second law”. Many scholars attribute the oldest composition of “halakhah” to the school of Hillel, contemporary with the birth of Christ.

Rabbi Meir is especially distinguished in the field of “haggadah” (the legendary part of Talmud), which Talmudists consider his great merit, especially since he is against distribution of the haggadah was almost all contemporaries, since its area affected the highest knowledge of metaphysics, which should have remained in a close circle of people who were not able to abuse its conclusions. Here too Rabbi Meir went forward and became write down haggadah ideas in collections.

Machine Translated by Google

In this spirit, he acted on his student Rabbi Yehuda Ganassi, who compiled a collection of provisions of “halakhah” called “mishnah”, which contributed to the rapid development of schools and directions and, at the same time, became the property of all the people. Admirers or disciples of Meir said: “Who had to listen to Rabbi Meir's reasoning in the audience, it seemed to him that he tears mountains from their foundations and smashes one against another.” This is how they spoke about him minds of learned academicians, and among the people the strength of Rabbi Meir’s mind was reflected in the fact that it was considered sufficient to touch Rabbi Meir's stick to become smart person. Meir was ordained to the rank of lawyer by his teacher Akiba.

Akiva, around 135, and Meir, around 170, tried to put the mishnah in order, but the honor of starting such a work belongs to Patriarch Simeon ben Gamaliel and his school. The son of this learned patriarch, Yehuda-hakadosh (saint), completed the work begun by his father and his disciples. Bringing the Mishnah to perfection order, Yehuda-hakadosh rewrote it and published it around 218. Last edition it came out one century later . Judas is a saint whom new Jewish historians place above the rulers of the earth (“Saint Jude,” they say), was born on the day of Akiba’s death, as if in order to It fulfilled the words of Solomon: “One sun sets, and another rises.” [2] . Place the birth of this rabbi, who later rendered great services to the sciences, was small town of Tiveri. As a child, he was exposed to great dangers: strict Hadrian's decree prohibited the rite of circumcision, but Judas had the good fortune to secretly receive this sacred sign from the teachers of the law.

After 40 years of labor, he was elevated to the dignity of Rosh Abbot, and then set out to complete and publish the great collection of legends known as in the name of the mishna, -

the basis of Jewish jurisprudence. Before his death, he determined the order of church and civil positions among Jews. Judas' son Simon, who succeeded him power, all that remained was to continue the work begun by his father. This is the origin books that constitute a compilation of all Jewish beliefs, a guide to mental life and physical, the treasury of all knowledge, the beginning and end of human wisdom, according to the expression of the rabbis.

Many people translate the word "Mishna" as "Deuteronomy", when in reality it means textbook. This is a colossal work in which all the halakhs are collected together, i.e., legal provisions that embraced the law, theology and morality of Jews in the most broad sense of these concepts. To collect all the material on these subjects for for several centuries, the “patriarch,” as many correctly claim, undertook traveling to different schools with your best students. Then, when with the help of modern collecting scientists, all material was checked as relative to the source, and in strength and meaning. It was necessary to verify not only the very existence of halakhah, but also in who and where installed it and how it was used in practice. In addition, she appeared the need to make a choice between halachahs in order to give preference to one or the other the other, then to bring the halacha into conformity with modern conditions of life, to establish the difference between the laws of Moses and those of later jurists. was coming

---

1 Graetz believed that the mishna was written in 180 AD. 2 Tzemach David, pp. 99-115.

Machine Translated by Google

a very complex scientific work, which was carried out with the participation of many scientists employees, but most importantly thanks to the genius of the energetic leader, the "patriarch". All material was grouped into departments and brought into a system that, for the end of the 2nd century. after R. X. is a rather rare and extraordinary phenomenon, because this required knowledge of all departments of law, not only the defined in the law of Moses, but also in its entire historical development. For the correct resolution many agrarian issues, such as: determining the right of the poor to produce field plots, rights and obligations on tithes (first and second), restrictions regarding the original products of the earth and its growths; rules regarding the prohibition of mixing different breeds of animals during work, and the same regarding relationship between various seeds and fibers - it was necessary to have information on agronomy and natural sciences. Likewise, to resolve issues: o pure and unclean, about skin diseases of people, about menstruation - knowledge was required in hygiene, medicine and veterinary art. Moreover, in the field of moral views, it was necessary to collect all the sayings of famous teachers of the law - sayings, in which concentrated the entire worldview of the previous era about mutual relationships between people, the social union and the performance of duties in relation to God. Although before Rabbi Yehuda, collections were compiled by Rabbi Akiva and Rabbi Meir, but they concerned only legal and theological activities. The collection compiled by the "patriarch" is a complete, systematic unification of the entire national heritage, a comprehensive scientific research carried out with with the assistance of first-class scholars from the era of Rabbi Yehuda and specialists in various branches of knowledge.

After the composition of the Mishnah, the development of Jewish law does not stop, but expressed in the famous gemara written in Aramaic or Chaldean. The Gemara is a commentary on the Mishnah: it contains additions called "anad", containing various poems, allegories and additional resolutions. Currently, there are two gemaras: the Palestinian, or The Jerusalem Gemara, which sets out interpretations of 29 treatises of the Mishnah and was compiled in the 4th century, and the Babylonian Gemara, which explains 36 articles of the Mishnah. The last one is final compiled in the city of Sura, in 500 after R. X. The Mishnah and Gemara together bear the common name "Talmud".

The syllable of the mishna in the Jerusalem Talmud is cleaner and closer to the Bible, in the gemara there are often dark and barely understandable passages. As for of the Babylonian Talmud, it is entirely filled with barbarisms and alien to the language designs. The Mishnah, i.e. the main, main part of the Talmud, represents a huge collection containing countless different regulations, decrees, commands and prohibitions regarding religious, moral, everyday and legal matters.

Since the Talmud consists of numerous sections containing folk legends, then it is an incoherent collection of fantasies and incomprehensible intricacies. It does not contain precise and clear instructions, so medieval scholasticism in comparison with them is much more accessible and understandable. The main feature of the Talmud - this is his casuistry; the mind, squeezed into the framework of Talmudic fabrications, receives an indelible imprint. From these vices the Jew's brain comes out flattened, tuned to a false tuning fork and does not allow him to think or feel like other people.

Chapter 2

Talmud Division

The Talmud has two editions, or, strictly speaking, there are two Talmuds, as they say - Jerusalem and Babylon. Both Talmuds received such names from two different schools that compiled Talmudic texts. Talmud of Jerusalem edition was put in order and reviewed by Rabbi Yochanan, Talmud Of Babylonian origin, collected by Rabbi Abina and Rabbi Assi in 500. Sixtus of Siena, a former rabbi and later a devout Dominican, in in his essay "Errores adversus charitatem et humanitatem" he says: "Rabbi Yehuda, the son of Simeon, called a saint, collected all the manuscripts and traditions into one book and called "Mishnag", in 120 or 150. Again, in 300, Rabbis Jochanan and Samuel handed over the Mishnah and called it the Talmud of Jerusalem. Finally, in 426, after reworking of all this work by the rabbis of Asse and Gammai, and after the death of Asse, with the participation his sons, Mor and Maremath, the Babylonian Talmud came out; the last part of it, called the gemara, was finished 100 years after the Jerusalem Talmud.

The Mishnah was promulgated around 188;
Jerusalem Talmud - around 469;
Babylonian Talmud - around 505.

Completed in the 5th century, the Babylonian Talmud comprises 36 folio volumes. All he is imbued with the most ardent fanaticism. There is an abyss of meaningless contradictions in it. At every step, the most immoral things are recognized as immaculate and moral sayings. The Talmud of Jerusalem consists of 12 huge volumes in folio, each page which is dotted with small, condensed type - Hebrew and Chaldean - requiring lengthy study from those who do not yet possess the key to rabbinic terminology; otherwise, the person reading it will be confused at every line. These volumes do not specifically examine any philosophical or religious question, but only compare and show them, so to speak, with sides to bring out countless little details more clearly rabbinic ritual teaching. The Talmud is written in a special language: name it Jews are not allowed under any circumstances; it is composed of different eastern languages and adverbs - even Greek and Latin words are quite often found in it. This the special Talmudic language is the most difficult of all living and dead languages. No a dictionary in which one could consult regarding those used in the Talmud words and expressions. And what's even worse: even the learned rabbis themselves sometimes don't know how the non-purely Hebrew words found in it are readable. So the language The Talmud, like the language of the Bible, is studied only through pure translation, because there is no grammatical dictionary in the Talmud, and this constitutes the first degree in studying it. Content and internal logical connection of the passage read constitutes the second stage in a consistent acquaintance with Talmudic science. The third and final stage in the study of the Talmud is debate. Last method of study in former times was in great use in the highest Talmudic schools schools, but is now significantly out of use. Currently in dispute is usually placed on a purely real basis, meaning the actual, and not fictitious truth; aimless fluttering for the sake of one innocent utterance is no longer in fashion, and scientific skepticism, placed on a strictly scientific basis reasonable analysis leads to the exposure of ambiguous frauds that constitute the most important content of the Talmud. In the old simple times, scientists mainly pursued dialectical and stylistic subtleties, not attaching serious importance to private and sometimes very noticeable sophisms.

Machine Translated by Google

Upon completion of all three specified degrees of the Talmudic course, for greater improvement, two or three young quasi-scientists often come together and They work together at their own expense. Sometimes it happens that studying The father of the family devotes himself to the Talmud. It happens this way: father of the bride takes newlyweds for a certain number of years on his grub. The groom is given a new Talmud publications and various expensive books. From the first days of marriage he devotes himself entirely study of the Talmud and bears children for a long time at the expense of his father-in-law - a rich simpleton and fanatic. This custom is especially common among our wealthy Russian Jews in Western region. In general, studying the Talmud is very common, and Jewish children First of all, the Talmud is usually taught according to one model. Everyone goes through the same thing an incoherent system of training for Jewish melameds; everyone gets acquainted with Talmudic an egg laid by a hen on a holiday or on weekdays, and is considered from theological sides clever themes about a bull goring a Jewish and Christian cow, or about a red and black cow.

The Talmuds - the Venetian edition of 1520, and the Amsterdam edition of 1600 - are used authority among the Jews and are called complete, because there are no omissions or spaces. "New Talmud" Amsterdam edition. 1644 is called incomplete - from spaces. When Christians loudly protested against the slander found in Talmud, on Christ and Christians, the Jewish Council in Poland in 1631 decided: “For the future, such places in the Talmud should be covered with white paper, and when printing, spaces should be left in places that treat about Christ. The same “things” - what Christians are a very vicious people and are not worthy of being given justice. or love, should only be taught orally in school.

The Talmuds printed in Warsaw and Vilna have no such value for Jews. Poor Jews keep them on display in glass cabinets due to their cheapness, flaunting learned Talmudists. Real scholars: rabbis, carvers and other rich people who call themselves scholars - they all have foreign editions of the ancient Talmuds - Jerusalem and Babylonian, the latest Amsterdam edition, complete, without spaces.

“Shulchan Aruch” was written by the learned Rabbi Yosel Koro (b. 1488 in Galilee, died 1575 in Italy); the first edition was published in Hungary in 1565. When among experts in the Jewish language began to appear among Christians, dangerous for the “secrets” of Jewry, the Kahal allowed “amendments” to be made in the “Shulchan Aruch”, which were understandable only to Jew. Thus, the Vilna edition (1879) contains much more of these “amendments” than Stettin (1865); There are also earlier editions.

Chapter

3 Sections and treatises

The Mishnah embraces 6 large sections, which, in turn, are subdivided into 63 tractates. The first section is called Seder Zeroim. Beginning with prayer, he treats agriculture, crops and agrarian laws. It speaks, among other things, about the gifts that fall to the share of the priests, Levites and the poor; the laws on tithes. The following is the statute concerning the seventh or sabbatical year, and mentions prohibited mixtures of plants, animals and materials.

The entire department of "zeroim" is divided into eleven treatises: "broheis (berachot), peyo, demai, kilaim, schwiis, trumeis, maashreis, maaser-sheini, halo, orlo and "Bikurem."

Of the entire division of “zeroim,” the first part, “berachot,” belongs to the Talmud Babylonian, all the others - Jerusalem.

Machine Translated by Google

The second section, "Seder Moyed", includes regulations on Saturdays, holidays and fasting days, about work prohibited on these days, and about holiday rituals and sacrifices. Particular attention is devoted here to the Feast of Passover, the New Year, the Day of Atonement, the Feast of Tabernacles and the Feast of Haman. At all This department is one of the most interesting and outstanding. It is divided into 12 parts: “Shabos, Eyruvim, Psochim, Shkolim, Yumo, Suko Beytso, Reish-Tashono, Taannis, Mgilo, Moyed-Koton Hagiga.” All these parts of the second section are found both in Babylonian and in the Jerusalem Talmud. The third section is called “Seder Nashim” and is divided into seven parts: “iovomeis, ksubeys, nedorim, nazir, soito, gi-tin, kiddushin.” All seven parts are found in both Talmuds, and in this section they are treated about women. It contains laws on engagement, marriage, divorce, and also on vows.

In the fourth section of the Mishnah, the Seder Nezikin, many provisions are set out as civil and criminal law.

Here are the regulations on buying and selling, on various trade relations and about the finds. This section also talks about rights and duties in general. After Moreover, we are talking about the most serious and terrible of known crimes - about idolatry. Then follow chapters on witnesses, oaths, and penalties under the law. and about the Sanhedrin. The entire section consists of the so-called “sayings of the fathers.” About them in truth it can be said that they belong to the highest and moral sayings in the field of the then religious philosophy. The following units, numbering 10, constitute the “nezikin” units, this the legal department of the Mishnah: “bove-kamo, bove-metzie, bove-batra, sanhedrin, makot, shvueis, edeis, vode-zoro, oveis and geyriyes.” The Babylonian and Jerusalem Talmuds both contain all parts of the following department.

The fifth section of the mishna talks about sacred objects and various religious functions, for example, about sacrifices, about the firstborn, or firstborn, and in general about the rituals performed in the temple. This department, called the Seder coded,” refers, it should be noted, to the era of the temple’s existence. Its divisions the following: “zevachim, minheis, hulin bheireis, eirikhin, tmuro, kriseis, miilo, tomid, mideis and kinim.” There are eleven treatises in total, which are found in both Talmud.

The sixth and last section includes treatises on purity: this section called Seder Tagarot. It discusses primarily the purifications, the Levites and, by the way, various hygienic laws are concluded, mentioned

0 unclean things and unclean persons. The parts of this department, of which there are twelve, the following: “keylim, ogoleys, negoim, poro, tagarot, mikvoeys, nido, makhshirin, calling, tovulyoim, ioday-im, ukkim.” This section is not in the Babylonian Talmud, except 7th part - “nido”. All of the above sections of the mishna with their parts are in turn divided into 524 chapters. The number of petty regulations, especially with the constant additions, which every significant rabbi considers himself entitled to make1 thus increased to 14,000, instead of some 100 rules in Pentateuch. 1279 ritual formulas relate, for example, to the observance of the Sabbath, 319 - to the Easter holiday, 342 - to the wearing of mourning, 177 - to the slaughter of livestock, 25 - to the morning washing hands, etc. 1 In the frame of the Talmud, which is not constrained by anything and can be expanded to infinity, almost every Jewish rabbi tried to contribute. Each of them has in the depths of his soul a desire to take fatherly care of his children, for which he delves into all the details of the life of his people. Thus, preoccupied with determining the number of "Sabbath meals," the Talmudist Rabbi Chidka always arranges a mysterious meal for the extra soul that appears on based on Talmudic fictions.

Chapter 4

Abridgement of the Talmuds

In view of such confusion, over time it became necessary to resort to compilation of abbreviated manuals of the Talmud, which we will briefly list: 1) Abridged Talmud, published by Rashi's contemporary, Rabbi Yitzkah Alphes, about 1040. 2) Abridged Talmud, published by Rambab, or Moishe Maimon, about 1135 g. (remarkable for his deliberate hatred of other peoples). 3) An extract from the Talmud called "arba-turim" belongs to Rabbi Jacob ben Rabi Asher and appeared around 1340. This grandiose work of 1000 sheets divided into 4 volumes: the first of them, known as "derech gayu sher" - the path life - interprets: about the laws of ritual, about washing hands; about how to stand in prayer; about activities permitted and prohibited on Saturdays and holidays. The second volume, entitled "Khoshen Hamishpot", talks about civil laws regarding rights inheritance and various contracts and transactions.

The third volume, called Yore Deah, talks about kosher, permissible and forbidden foods, the slaughter of livestock and poultry, and the purification of women in the mikveh.

The fourth volume, under the name "Eben Gaezer", treats marriage, divorce and all generally the laws of marriage.

4) "Magid Mishnah", compiled by Rabbi Joseph Karo from Zefat in Palestine. 5) "Ploughshare Mishnah", op. Rabbi Yehudi of Constantinople. 6) Extract from the Talmud, compiled by Rabbi Jacob ben Asher around 1340. 7) Abridged Talmud by Rabbi Shimon Keir. 8) "Haggadah", i.e. the interpretation of the legendary section, compiled by Rabbi Jacob around 12 9) Interpretation of the Bible in the spirit of the Talmud; compiled by Rabbi Shimon around 1673. 10) The same interpretation on the Talmud; compiled by Rabbi Ruben ben Goshke around 1673. 11) Commentaries by Toysfis and Rashi; they serve as inseparable companions of the Talmud, in the margins of which they are printed in all present editions, and constitute 12 folios, totaling 2947 sheets.

12) "Yad gahozaka" (ayod akhzuka, or mishna toire) - a powerful hand is a giant a work with a systematic presentation of the Talmud, divided into 982 chapters. It has not yet lost its authority among the rabbis.

Maimonides, who lived at the end of the 12th century, wanting to understand the Talmud as simply as possible, published this huge work. Some time passed, and his work was attacked a whole series of comments, so that any copy of this work is now supplied ten comments. The Slavuta Talmud is highly respected by Jewish fanatics because that it contained malicious sayings against Christians in general. Under dominion Polish Jews opened a printing house in the town of Slavuty, Volyn province. The printing house was closed under Alexander I and the Jews were exiled to hard labor for the killing in the printing house of a baptized Jewish man who was their typesetter. The Talmud, in its content, is divided into 2 parts, legislative-casuistic (halakhah) and legendary-exegetical (haggadah). Since halacha is immeasurably more important in the eyes of the Jews than the Haggadah, then they are chosen for study by young men those treatises that contain the most halakhah, i.e. the most difficult treatises: 1) “baba-kama” - a treatise on the judicial decision of cases of damages and rewards, according to theft, robbery - generally a treatise on legal casuistry; 2) “baba-mezia” - o trade transactions, loans and growth, hiring, finds, leases, safekeeping, etc.; 3) “kedushin” - about betrothals, under what conditions they are valid, etc.; 4) “ketubot” - about marriage contracts and marital relations; 5) “gitin” - o divorce papers; 6) “Shabos” - a huge treatise on everything that is possible and what cannot be done on Saturdays; 7) “betsa”, a treatise on “mutsk”, i.e. in what cases this thing can be classified as one of those whose owner may intend on the eve of the holiday to consume or not to consume on the holiday; 8) “pesachim” - about laws on the destruction of leaven on the eve of Easter, about cases of finding leaven on the very holiday, etc.; 9) “sukko” - about the laws of setting up tabernacles for the holiday of this name, etc. d.

Machine Translated by Google

This is the program for children in primary schools "cheder", from 8-13 years old, not having no idea about anything worldly. This is where that one comes from in the Jewish nation intelligence and dexterity in trade - among Jews, even in the cradle, a child begins sing about his purpose, and how he should live among the “goyim” and conduct his trade affairs. A Jewish child comes out of cheder having already such great theoretical information, and perhaps even more than a Christian student at the end of his studies at a commercial school. We see throughout the world that the Jewish nation is predominant commercial talent above all others. This is facilitated by the fact that a Jewish child, as soon as the teacher begins to teach the alphabet, immediately uses commerce, equating a wallet with money to a letter: begins to teach a child addition and subtraction - and at the same time introduce percentages and datum along the way money at interest. This trade and trade application to the alphabet is done with The goal is to develop a taste and passion for percentages. That's when people start developing talent. and the genius in the Jewish boy. We consider it not superfluous to at least glance at the universal Jewish literature in various periods of its development.

Chapter 5

The most famous Talmudists

The vast Jewish literature is depicted primarily by religious character; all her works are imbued with this direction and can serve valuable material for studying the religious views of this people. Besides how excellent eclectics, the Jews borrowed astronomical knowledge from the Babylonians knowledge, from the Greeks philosophy, from the Arabs poetry and natural sciences, from the Chaldeans and from the Egyptians magic, from the Romans jurisprudence.

Several centuries before Christ, Ezra was identified as the most zealous scholar of the Pentateuch and the Prophets; some date back to the same time additions in the Old Testament history of “midrash-rabbot”, or “midrashim”, as well as translations from the Greek “targum”, the oldest monument of Aramaic writing, biblical apocrypha. Remarkable figures at this time were: the poet Ezekiel (not prophet) Jason, the author of the first book of Maccabees, and then the founders of oral traditions: Hillel-Shamai Johanan-ben-Zakkai, both Gamaliel, Ezekiel-Irkhan, Jesus ben-Haniyah, Ishmael and the famous Akiva. After R. X., from the 1st century. until the 4th century, the study of halakha and haggadah constituted the main occupation Jewish schools. Under Hillel, these schools flourished in Galilee, Syria, Rome, Babylon; there the Talmud was revived from collections of various Jewish rulings rights. The Hebrew text of the Bible received its present form around the 4th century. In Tiberias, where the famous rabbinical academy existed, around the middle of the 2nd century. according to R. X. or in beginning of the 3rd century A society of Talmudists was formed. They compared the manuscripts of the Bible and cleared the text of errors that had crept in after the time of Ezra. They counted not only the number of verses and words in each book, but even the number of letters in some books, so that protect the text from changes. Thus, without a doubt, we have exactly the biblical text that existed in the 4th century. Of the three oldest translation lists of the 70 currently existing, two written in the 4th century. according to R. X., and the third - in the 5th century. A translation was made from the Greek several translations into other languages that can serve to verify the original text. Most of these translations were made in the 4th century. (Ethiopian, Coptic, Gothic). The most authoritative in the Talmudic sense during this time can be considered the sayings of Mar-ben-Ashe, who died in 475. Then comments and additions were compiled to "sihar", moral teachings, stories, fables and historical works. In it time the number of prayers called "targum" (translation) for the Pentateuch has been increased Moiseeva.

From the 4th century until the 7th century after R. X. Jews stop using their Hebrew language, and the introduced one is local.

During this period, the Babylonian Talmud was completed, the "massora" was created, i.e. new signs, accents and new letters were added to the Hebrew alphabet, which partly changed writing. Two "targums" date back to the same time: Jerusalem and Palestinian, supplementing many articles of the Bible, a collection of ancient "haggadahs" and various interpretations, for example, of the "pessikt" of the chapter of Eliezer, etc.

Chapter 6

Review of Jewish Literature

In the period from the XII to the X centuries. Jewish literature assumes wide dimensions. In it time, science develops among the Arabs, from where it spreads greatly, and among the Jews, among which aspire to study medicine, astronomy, astrology, chronology and theology. Spiritual writings, haggadahs and commentaries on the Talmud keep appearing. In the 2nd or early 3rd century AD, two special commentaries were compiled on the 3rd, 4th and 5th books of Moses under the title: "Safra" and "Sifrya", but who were the compilers - unknown. The books of Moses were divided into 54 sections by the teachers of the Babylonian school. for reading on Saturdays; and Palestinian theologians divided them into 155 parts for readings on Saturdays for three years. In 900 the first Talmudic book was published dictionary. At the same time, the works "midrashim", or "midrash rabbot", hagiographical targums and the beginnings of theological cosmology, or "Kabbalah" were compiled. After After the decline of the Babylonian Academy, Jewish learning passed from there to Spain.

The book "midrash" enjoys great authority among modern scholars Jewish writers, as proof of which we cite an assessment in the magazine "Voskhod" of "Divrei hacho-mim", i.e. moralizing stories from midrash and Talmud op. Levina. "Midrash is an inexhaustible source of stories, legends, anecdotes, fables, etc. similar types of anthological and instructive-didactic literature. Between they are true pearls, captivating with the naive charm of form and moral cleanliness of content. Graceful simplicity, in which deep thoughts, and the special softness and delicacy of color make this light type of Tal-Mud literature the most convenient material for youthful reading. It is forbidden tell us to ignore the moral and pedagogical significance of this

Machine Translated by Google

a rich source of practical everyday ethics and healthy humor: from it we have the compilers of various manuals and children's books have long and abundantly drawn on Russian and especially the Jewish language."

All ancient Talmudic literature - the mishnah and related collections - It is considered to be a direct product of the Pharisees' schools. Authorities The Mishnah and Tosefta allow the Tanaim to recognize themselves as legitimate successors of the Pharisaic persuasion. The first founder of the Pharisaic school in Jamnia, Rabbi Jochanan ben Zakai, a student and follower of the great Pharisee Hillel, participated in disputes with the Sadducees, repelling the latter's attacks against arbitrary interpretations Pharisees (Aboth II. 6; Aboth of Rabbi Nathan XIV, 1; Jadaim IV, 6).

True, there is no genuine information about the points of disagreement between the Pharisees and very little of the Sadducees survives in Mishnaic literature (Graetz, Geschichte III, Note 10). But everything that has been preserved is undoubtedly authentic, since it is completely agrees with the information that Josephus (historian of Judaism) reports about these two sects, namely, that the Sadducees adhered to only the Sacred Scripture, and the Pharisees also recognized tradition and the right to interpret the law (Bell. jud. II, 8, 8; 9, 10. Geiger).

After the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of the war, when Rabbi Yochanan ben Zakai established the Yamna school, through the efforts of which, in fact, it was founded the beginning of Mishnaic legislation, the surviving Essenes were not slow to adhere to to this national stronghold of a dying people and at the same time they contributed a lot specific Essene elements into the religious practice of the Pharisees.

The most ancient mystical work called “The Book of Creation” (sefer-yezirah), both in its content and in its form, was fully consistent with the purposes of the Kabbalists, and on it they built their metaphysical system. Who was the author of the “Book of Creation” is not known for certain. Some consider her by the famous Tanait, Rabbi Aki-vu, who lived about a century after our era. e.

This book is written in Hebrew; the content is extremely mysterious and unclear; the method of presentation is aphoristic; aphorisms are arranged in order and sequentially, but so brief that they resemble ancient oracles. People was in awe of this inaccessible book to the point that he associated a gift with its study prophecies and even the ability to perform miracles. So, in the Babylonian Talmud someone tells a curious fact that Rabbi Oshaya and Rabbi Hanina, who had habit of studying the “Book of Creation” every Friday, once during This activity created a 3-year-old calf, which was immediately slaughtered and eaten.

Then another Kabbalistic book came into being called the Zohar. (shine). It is written in the Chaldean language and partly thanks to the high the charm of this language, sounding as if from another world, for several centuries was considered a divine revelation and under the name “Zohar-Gakadosh”, i.e. Holy Zohar, served among the Jews almost as an object of worship.

The Zohar was discovered by a rabbi from Catalonia, Moses de Leon. Some scientists, including the historian Graetz, claim that Moses de Leon himself was the author Zohar; but, wanting to extract more material benefit from scientists, he issued his own composition under the authoritative name of the famous Tanaite, who lived at the beginning of the 2nd century, Rabbi Simon ben Yochai and his friends. The Zohar itself says that “Rabbi Simon ben Yochai, having spent 13 years in a cave as a hermit and feeling the approach of death, calls together his friends, 12 in number, and informs them deeply mysterious teaching. When they gathered to compose the Zohar, the prophet Elijah and hosts of heavenly angels are allowed to attend and listen to such mysteries as were previously unknown even to them.” The Zohar praises its author, Simon ben Jochai, calling him a saint luminary (betzina kadisha) and placing him above Moses. But this is exactly what is extremely exaggerated self-praise proves the dubiousness of the authority of Simon ben Jochai. Those of the newest critics are quite right who prove that the Zohar exists a collection of traditions of many centuries, which were mixed over time various teachings, interpretations, additions and notes of later Kabalists, and that at the end of the 13th century it was brought in manuscript from Palestine to Europe, where fell into the hands of the Kabbalist Moses de Leon, who published it. The most important thing the basis of the Zohar - the religious and metaphysical system of Kabbalah, according to the scientist Professor Frank, belongs to Rabbi Simon ben Yochai. Both books, Yetzirah and Zohar, constitute the code of ancient and modern Kabbalah. New Kabbalistic school, founded by Rabbi Isaac Luri (1537-1574), in essence does not contain anything contrary to the doctrines of ancient Kabbalah: it only develops and complements the latter.

Machine Translated by Google

Famous Kabbalists of the ancient school: Azriel, Ezdra, Isaac ibn Latif, Abraham Abulafia and his students Joseph Gikatilla, Jacob ben Sheshet, Moses de Leon, Moses Cordovaro, Rabbi Moses Nachmani, Rabbi Eleazar of Worms and others. Christian Europe was first introduced to the name and existence of Kabbalah Raymond Lull. In addition to Lull, the following were engaged in Kabbalah: Pico della Mirandola, Paracelsius, Heinrich Walrus, Robert Flood, Jacob Boehme, Cornelius Agrippa (De oculla philosophiao) and Reuchlin (De arte cabbalistica and De verbe mirifico). But a more accurate and detailed work on this subject is the book Baron Knor de Rosenroth called "Kacabbale de nudata", which attracted everyone's attention.

From X to XII centuries. Jewish literature rises to a brilliant state. The center of science and literature was then Spain, where many Jewish theologians, mathematicians, philosophers, rhetoricians, physicians and poets. Moreover, we purchased Honorary Doctor of Rights: Samuel Halevi, Isaac Alfawi, poets Solomon Gabirol, Moses ben Ezra, Judah Halevi and, finally, the famous Jewish thinker Maimonid, whose death ends this period of Jewish literature. The authors of the Talmudic dictionary and commentaries, Gershom and his brother Mashir, lived in the 11th century. In the next - XII century. - well-known additions to the Talmud were compiled under the name "Tozaphata", or, as they are called, Toysfes, is a work that belonged to Isaac ben Asher, Jacob ben Mezer and Samson ben Abraham. Famous haggadist Moses Gadar-shan, the famous translator Judah Tibon, the biblical critic Joseph Kara, the religious poets Baruch ben Isaac and Eliezer ben Nathan, the traveler Petahia and the famous Italian rabbis Nathan ben Yegiel and Hillel ben Eliakim complement this period. Among the Karaite writers of that time, especially Judah Hadassi became famous.

From the XII to the XIX centuries. a period of religious mysticism begins and at the same time spiritual disorder: all this time heated debates continue between Talmudists, philosophers and Kabbalists. In the 13th century differed in Spain: Jewish scientists and poets Yehuda Sharizi and Isaac Sagala; translators Samuel, Moses and Jacob Tibbon; astronomers and philosophers - Isaac Lattef, Judah Cohen, Isaac Aben Seed, author aotfonsovyh tables; Doctors of Law - Meer Gal-Levi, Moses ben Nahman, Solomon Adereth; naturalist Gersham ben Solomon; Kabbalists - Todros ben Joseph, Joseph Hekalia, Abraham Abulafia and Moses of Leon. In the 12th century. occupy a prominent place Jewish theologians: Khazdai Kreskos, Jesus Shoaib, David Cohen, etc. In the 15th century Jew-

Russian literature is falling noticeably. Although it is possible to point to some personalities of the era, such as Joseph Alba, Shantoba ben Joseph Alba, Shantoba ben Joseph, Isaac Abnab and the Portuguese Jew Abraham Catalan, but they no longer have that strength and energy, like their predecessors. At the beginning of this period, Jews were almost everywhere expelled from Western Europe, and with this the direction and character of Jewish literature. Struck by the general persecution against them, the Jews directed all their aspirations to maintain their nationality towards detailed studying the Talmud, drawing from it hope for one's salvation, for achieving independent life. This movement

continued in the 12th century. caused many essays on the subject biblical criticism, Kabbalah and Talmudic dialectics, and in the half of the 17th century. - a whole system known as "Tzadikism." Around 1620 arose Jewish schools and printing houses in the cities of Smyrna, Venice, Livorno, Ichar, Amsterdam, Prague, Krakow, etc. The following are immediately issued from among the Jews personalities: theologians and philosophers Isaac Abarbanel, his son Yehuda, Abraham Bibayah, Saul Cohen, theologian and commentator Isaac Luria, Chaim and Vital, etc.

Chapter 7

Main figure - Rabbi Maimonides

But the most important figure in the field of Jewish Talmudic literature is Maimonides, a Jewish scientist and thinker, philosopher, physician and theologian. Maimonides, "the great sage, the glory of the west, the light of the east and second after Moses" as he was called by his contemporaries, was born in Cordoba in 1135. His father was respected among Jews and had significant capital, which made it possible for the young Maimonides to indulge exclusively doing science. He zealously studied Hebrew, Arabic, Greek and Latin literature, studied philosophy, theology and medicine. But with all its scientists In his studies, Maimonides devoted himself primarily to the business inherent in his nation - the trade in precious stones. Then he became the life physician of the famous Sultan Saladin. He possessed philosophical and medical knowledge and declared brilliant abilities in his numerous compositions. His contemporary, Rabbi Iedalia, says: "If I wanted to list his works, there would not be enough I wish I had time."

Maimonides commented on three parts of the gemara; but these comments disappeared. Before us "Mishna", "Torah" (Yad-Gahazaka), "more-nebuchim" and a commentary on "Mishna", begun by Maimonides in the 28th year of his life, have reached.

Since the Mishnah was more or less completed, subsequent legislators completely and did not think to ask themselves the question - is everything that is stated in the "Mishnah" consistent with the spirit of the bible? Thanks to this situation, the literature of the Talmud grew constantly, and When Maimonides came to the conclusion that it was difficult to understand this sea of laws, he undertook a truly gigantic task - to summarize more than a thousand years activities of scientists. He drew up a code of laws in which everything was laid out in the foundation of the Talmud, or rather, in which the findings of scientists before him were set forth living, the results of religious legislation.

Despite the importance of Maimonides as a man, a scientist and an expert on the Talmud, it must be said that in one respect he did enormous harm with his code, and precisely because he looked at the work of his predecessors in the same way as the scholars of the third century. looked at the mishna. More devout people from time to time introduced new restrictions on personal freedom of action and, more and more, increased the Jew's dependence on Talmudic legislation. In encouraging this spirit, rabbis almost always were in solidarity, and if we compare the religious code of the Jews of the present century with such, let's say, in the 12th century, we will see that the number of laws from that time is significantly increased; and compare the laws of that time with those of the 6th century, you will again see big difference; just six centuries ago - and the difference would already be very significant. Whatever they say, there is no doubt that in relation to the religious Jews of the time life in the second temple was more free than now, in the precise sense that the whole mass the laws, the observance of which is now mandatory for Jews, were unknown.

Despite all his learning, Maimonides amazes us with the waste of his talent and time to explain the petty practices that fill an entire part of the mishna. IN in fact, was it worthwhile to study such questions, according to the school of Hillel, such as: "Is it permissible to eat birds with milk?" or talk about "should Should you take revenge in the house without washing your hands, or should you wash them first?"

A due tribute to the astonishment of Maimonides' intelligence, talents and knowledge is still greater surprise when this famous thinker in his writings confirms the need for Jews to hate followers of other religions. He is not only allows you to deceive, but goes so far as to convince you of the need to exterminate the villains of the Epicureans' and heretics, under the hated pretext - common to all persecutors - to avert the danger threatening true religion. Of course, the bad side of these rules applies more to the Talmud, but this cannot be a sufficient reason to justify Maimonides, who had a high mind, in preaching such rules. The latter is all the more strange and outrageous because he did not share all the prejudices of his time: for example, he often rebelled against astrology, which the Jews believed and which was found even in the 16th century. a lot of adherents in France. 1 By the epithet "Epicurean," Jews do not mean a person who indulged exclusively pleasures, but the one who allows himself any doubt regarding the Talmud.

There is a historical indication of the existence of a letter from Maimonides to the Marseilles Jews, in which he condemns them for gullibility, and in the preface of the commentary on "mishneh" even points out the absurdities of this pseudoscience. In the influence of stars on disasters people were generally believed at that time, and the Marseille Jews considered it necessary, out of some religious feeling, to defend astrology from the attacks of Maimonides, who rebelled against the prejudices of his compatriots, although without much success.

True, the same teacher who rejected the influence of the stars says that the celestial spheres in their movement they are controlled by angels; that they themselves are angels fulfilling the will of God, as Aristotle says. From this it is not far from believing in their influence on human destiny. The philosopher Stachirine also reached this limit, and following his example Maimonides limited himself to the belief that the stars are animated by a supreme intelligence.

Maimonides, as stated above, made an extract from the Talmud "Yad-Gahazaka" ("powerful hand"), which also respects the traditions of the Talmudists, as well as their national religious enthusiasm, blindly condemning everything that did not happen Israeli, and despising other nations and other religions. Maimonides in 14 books of his composition says: about the introduction to the love of God, about holidays, about celebrations, about service, about the relations of men to women, about firstborns, about sowing, about harvests, about labor, retribution, predestination, about judgment - in a word, it presents the religious, civil and criminal code of the Jews with explanations and interpretations.

Maimonides wrote a commentary on the Mishnah in Arabic because Spanish Jews knew no other language; these comments were first translated to Hebrew by many translators, as well as into Latin for Christians. Except In addition, Maimonides wrote the work “the sea-unbukhim”, or “the leader of the lost”, translated into Latin, called “Dux Perlexorum”.

“They worked a lot on mystical interpretations in the ancient Jewish academies, says Maimonides, Tiberias was a famous city and dwelling wise men; the Sanhedrin (supreme court), Jerusalem, was transferred to it The Talmud praises Tiberias as a hotbed of wisdom and enlightenment.”

The book “Yuhasin” was compiled by an unknown person: it contains a description of the rules teachings followed in schools: twice a year - in February and August - students gathered at the academy to test and understand the mysterious places of the Sacred Scriptures.

In the ancient Jewish academies there were several sects of scholars: the most important were the “tanaim”, who preserved the traditions from Ezra to Jude the saint who wrote the “Mishna”. Tanaims were so called from the word “tana-sana” (to teach), and the word “Tanakh” is the later name of the Bible and consists of three words: “Torah” - the Pentateuch, “Neviim” - prophets and “Hotuvim” - hagiographers. The rabbis have deep respect for these teachers of Israel and call them sages. The Jewish respect for Maimonides was most clearly expressed in the prayer for the coming of Messiah, read daily in the synagogue: “Thy kingdom come while you live our great leader Maimonides." This prayer was recited by the Jews of Palestine and Egypt. In the tombstone, the Jews called him “the chosen one from the human race.” Maimonides died December 18, 1204; his body was transferred to Palestine, where he buried. Maimonides' son, Abraham, was also the Sultan's physician and head Jewish community, he wrote an essay entitled: “What satisfies the good a pious man."

In the 12th century. Abraham ben David, the glorious defender of the Talmud, wrote against Maimonides and reproached him for falling away from the Jews.

Joseph Kikhmi wrote a commentary on one part of the Bible. David Kikhmi was different as a theologian, but his commentaries on the Bible are of interest only to rabbis and some theologians. Iarchi, famous in Judaism, being 30 years old, composed a commentary on the Bible and the Talmud, i.e. Rashi, from the words of Rabbi and Shelom Iarcha from the city of Lunel, in France, for "Jerach" in Hebrew means "moon", and the name of the city is Lunel comes from the French word Lune - moon. In modern times it was found that “Rashi” was not called Rabbi Shelom Iarchi, but “Yitzkahi.” His teaching gave rise to many disagreements in the synagogue and was condemned by fanatical rabbis. The archi accused that he missed some place in the prayer to Olen Habbakh1 and did not get up during one important point, as prescribed by the order of service, and missed the song “gokadamush” about fish Leviathan and a bull that eats grass from several thousand mountains every day. Then he He was convicted of wickedness and heresy and expelled from the synagogue. The works of Iarcha were filled with fantasies, like those of other rabbinical writers. He explains every verse of the Bible dryly and at length; its Hebrew mixed with Chaldean and replete with French phrases, because, of course, Iarchi spent many years traveling. However, his comment is respected by Jews and now he still enjoys great fame among them. In his opinion, Jews are a people the chosen one to whom the whole earth is assigned, who is to be enjoyed by all her creations, according to the teachings of the Talmud, the writer treats other nations with contempt and breathes malice and hatred against them.

In those days, Jewish scholars combined the study of theology with medicine and astronomy, studied nature and delved into the study of divine properties world, to which one can find many interesting indications scattered in the teachings Talmudists. Thus, Iarchi, in his commentary on the treatise “nidu”, indicates how the way surgery designed the side of the body to complement natural childbirth; A his teacher, Maimonides, explaining the Mishna, speaks of caesarean section, in knowledge which is very skillful2 . A contemporary of

Maimonides and his friend, the writer Aben Ezra, born in Toledo in 1169 and nicknamed by the Jews "hakham", or wise, wrote a chronological chronicle, “seder olam,” or “order of the universe.”

1 Gregoire Tours, Hist. Franc. IV, cap. V.

2 Epistle of Saint Amrosius 29

Some argue that this work was not written by Aben Ezra, but by Rabbi Rabbi Joseph ben Holafta. This commentary, which perfectly explains the Hebrew text, although written in beautiful and clear language, is in other places condensed to such an extent that it loses clarity and requires a special aid for understanding. Nevertheless Aben Ezra's commentary on the Pentateuch is a work that turned out to be useful not only Jews, but also Christians1 . In addition to the above, Aben Ezra left many works on various subjects, and his manuscripts are scattered across various libraries of significant European cities. These are: grammatical treatises, in which study in the most detailed way the composition and properties of letters, as well as geometry, astrology and books of moral content.

But the educated and extensive mind of Aben Ezra still could not free himself from all the prejudices of his time. Thus, in a short treatise on the stars, he offers in life be consistent with the position of the moon and planets. This, however, was a fantasy of all the peoples of his era2 . Aben Ezra also wrote spiritual books; composed a poem about chess, which Guide included in the history of this game. Ezra died in 1168 on the island Rhodes.

Michelstatt, a German rabbi, philosopher and kabbalist, wrote extensively works related to Kabbalah, which is also known from history.

Rabbis Silva and Hezekiah wrote a famous work entitled “Perichodash”, or “new fruit”, which means Talmudic wisdom.

Chapter 8

Galakha and Haggadah

The goals and direction of all Talmudic writers were almost the same and consisted in the desire to determine the external side of the life of a Jew, his external behavior and actions; hence the name of this aspect of legislation - “halakhah”, that is, the most important and essential part of the Talmud.

1 Capitularies, edition of Baluse, 1, ch. 14.

2 Code Theodosien, t. A. VIII, ch. IX.

As for the internal movements of will and consciousness, they are nowhere positively determined by law and in their reasoning the children of Israel were given complete freedom, only there would be no direct and significant contradiction to the law. This area is free flights of thought in the Talmud are called “haggadah”. Halakha and Haggadah stand alone from the other, each mutually serving as an addition and explanation.

It is praised that Akiva was as great a halakhist as he was a famous haggadist. In halakhah he breaks new ground. Although already before Hillel, and during Akiva’s time his teacher, Hamzu, gave the first impetus to “halakhah” and even indicated the way to interpret the law and develop halacha, but only Akiva became its true exponent; he substantiated it, revived it, as the Talmudists put it, and brought it into the system. He was the first to group its material into separate subjects, and his collection of halakha is known as Rabbi Akiva's Mishnah. His experience, according to in all likelihood, served as a model for further collections of “halakhah”, also under called "Mishna". Akiva gave “halakhah” his method and his system and strengthened it so much that there could be no talk of turning back, but all that remained was to take care of its further development. In the Haggadah he also advanced in such a way that he was the only lucky person who could return from the field of higher knowledge not affected in their religious beliefs. And in this area the so-called “The Letters of Rabbi Akiva”, which treats: the greatness of God, creation and resurrection; about the creation of the earthly and heavenly worlds and their destruction; about good deeds of God; about the upliftment of the poor; about the future creation; about the totality of the letters of God names given in revelation to Moses; about many keys that God does not trust not a single angel; about repentance; about the joys of the pious in paradise; about human organs; about chanting letters before the Almighty and raising them to his crown; about the soul; about the suffering of sinners after death, about hell; about the temple and Holy Scripture and its greatness; O the creation of the organs of the human body to glorify the Lord; about language human; about paradise shown by God to Moses; about the mission of Moses; about the generation in the times of the flood and confusion during the Babylonian Pandemonium; about punishments atheists in hell; about the passions and death of man (Babylonian Talmud, treatise Berachot 13).

When reading everything that Akiva says, as stated by the Talmudic interpreters, one must keep in mind not the literal meaning of what is stated, but the inner, hidden and the most important thing is the goal. Thus, in the chapter that serves earthly purposes, Akiva, meaning easing the conditions of modern life for the people, or connecting a new law with an ancient one, often resorts to this kind of explanation and the development of one “halakhah” from another, or from various letters of Holy Scripture, which bear obvious traces of fiction, with the help which achieves favorable results. Moreover, one should treat great caution towards his teaching in the “haggadah”, dedicated to non-earthly interests, where the scientist especially has in mind to hide his thoughts from people who metaphysics is inaccessible, and therefore speak in hints, referring briefly to instructions, the meaning of which is clear to only specialists.

Let us point out, for example, the following. Akiva states that in the Song of Songs Solomon is about Jehovah's love for his people and, in accordance with this basic indication, all concepts and expressions of this erotic song are given absolutely no the meaning they have in the lips of a lover. This application of the idea of love God to the people may seem a little strange coming from a scientist. But the point is will be explained when it is indicated at what time and on what occasion this was expressed Akiva's look. The point was that the Song of Songs should be recognized as a book apocryphal, not to be counted among the books of the Bible.

So the Talmud is divided into two parts - “halakhah” and “haggadah”. "Halakha" was the law; Haggadah, on the contrary, is a matter of personal calling. This is the essential difference between these two sections of the Talmud. Studying “halakhah” in its historical development, one cannot help but notice the enormous influence of the changing conditions of political and religious lives, which gradually gave rise to new and new prescriptions in the Talmud. Sami Talmudists recognize the “haggadah” in the literal sense, and there is an indication of this in the Talmud.

Machine Translated by Google

“Once upon a time, Rabbi Eliezer, after his death, appeared to his disciples, who asked him what Abraham was doing now in heaven? Rabbi Eliezer answered them that Abraham was now lying down on Sarah's lap, and Sarah was looking for him in her head. When one of Eliezer’s disciples dared to suggest an allegory here, he was subject to excommunication according to the general verdict for this insolence.” In the Talmud, external formality is important not in itself, but because of its[1] comprehensiveness and general applicability, due to which, with the acceptance of this formal side by all Jews, not a single a member of the Jewish community does not differ from another in his external behavior and rituals; each of them by his appearance can recognize his fellow tribesman and fellow believer, and external signs constantly remind the Jew of the promise to which he is called, and serve as a sign of his covenant with God and his readiness to accept the promise and glorious triumph over all the nations of the earth.

Chapter 9

Kabbalah and the meaning of the Talmud

The main authorities of the Talmud, the above-mentioned Rabbi Akiva, Rabbi Yehuda-gakadosh (saint) were initiated into the secrets of Kabbalah. The Talmud often cites the definitions of the main authorities of Kabbalah, Rabbi Simon ben Yochai, his son Rabbi Eliezer, his student Rabbi Aba and Rabbi Hanin, who completely agree in their opinions with the opinions of real Talmudists. Various striking convergences and unexpected conclusions especially appeal to the taste of the Jewish people and arouse reverence for the depth and comprehensiveness of the law, elevate above the general level of people the person who has penetrated more than others into the essence of the law, and give great value and authority to its definitions.

The entire Talmud is saturated with Kabbalah, especially its auxiliary part, called the Haggadah; Followers of the Talmud attribute all passages incomprehensible to them to the highest Kabbalistic wisdom, which is not always and not accessible to everyone. The main significance of Kabbalism for the Talmud is in that part of it where it helps to derive definitions for individual life from the law; Kabbalism is unknown to most; it was even completely forgotten and reappeared only in the Middle Ages, around the 13th century. The traditional oral teaching of the Jews - a mysterious one that was passed down from generation to generation - is recognized by many as a very ancient science called “Kabbalah”. The Kabbalists themselves attribute this science to the patriarch Abraham and even to the first man, Adam, who was initiated into its mysteries by the angel Raziel (angel of secrets). Others point to a much later origin of Kabbalah, attributing it to the era of the Babylonian captivity; others, apparently, attribute its emergence to the influence of the Jewish Alexandrian schools, where the teachings of Pythagoras and Plato, merging with many philosophical doctrines, formed the so-called Eastern philosophy... Kabbalah has as its task to resolve, with the help of a unique interpretation of the Holy Scriptures, all the most important questions of metaphysics, including in its circle explanations of all the problems of dogmatic theology, transcendental cosmogony, the doctrine of the soul, ethics, which was the subject of such heated debate in the dogmatic systems of the 13th century.

According to Kabbalists, Holy Scripture, as a heavenly revelation, should naturally have heavenly properties and, therefore, the ability to unravel those higher questions, the resolution of which lies beyond the boundaries of the methodological thinker mind. Thanks to this view, a new way of exegesis is invented, using which every word, every letter in Holy Scripture is given a higher, mysterious meaning. Engagement in “secret teaching” is allowed only to a select few.

---

[1] Tract. Bova-batra, l. 58.

Machine Translated by Google

The Talmud, which respected contemporary Kabbalah, forbids even reveal the titles of her articles to the profane, allowing them to be read only by persons scientists and known for their modesty. The Mishnah contains the same prohibition in the following terms: “The story of creation should not be explained to two people.” together; the story of the heavenly chariot (merkabah) - not even one; but wise and If you can understand for yourself, you can open the titles of the articles.”

Despite the precautions taken, the study of the “secret science” apparently had a disastrous effect on the minds of even famous teachers of the law, like gives reason to judge the following allegorical story available in the Talmud: “Four people entered paradise: Ben-Azai, Ben-Zoma, Azar and Rabbi Akiva. The first one looked and went crazy, the second one saw it and died, the third one spoiled the young plants (seduced the young minds of his disciples); only Rabbi Akiva entered with peace and went out in peace, for the Holy One, blessed be He, said: spare this old man, he is worthy to serve for My glory.” Kabbalists divide their science into two main parts: Kabbalah theoretical, or speculative, and practical. The latter contains an imaginary secret science that gives instructions under what conditions the highest the power to act on the earthly world - or, to put it simply, to create miracles. Pronouncing well-known words from Holy Scripture containing allusions to some spiritual beings, or by signing the names of God and angels on amulets, you can subjugate the mentioned spiritual powers, drive out demons, cure the sick, put out fires - in a word, perform all sorts of miracles. This is a product of sick minds, which is a sad example of human error, gleaned from the superstitions of the East in continuation after the Babylonian captivity. We find traces of this in some apocryphal books and various theological works. As for the speculative part of Kabbalah, it is remarkable in that at the beginning XVI to half of the XVII century. occupied the minds of the most serious scientists of the Christian world, and she managed to win a place for herself in philosophy, philological studies, general history of philosophy and rational theology; she also had an influence on natural sciences and medicine. Until the end of the 12th century. "secret science" was known among the Jews by name only; ancient mystical books like "Shiur Koma" (dimensions of God greatness), the book “Enoch Metatron”, the book of “creation” (Sepher Yetzirah), etc., were considered incomprehensible, any attempt to explain their meaning was ridiculed, and no one undertook for such a thing. The first appearance of Kabbalah coincides with the violent politics against the philosophical direction of Maimonides in religious matters. The first who decided to reveal the “secret of the teaching,” according to Kabbalists, was Isaac The blind man (Sagi-Nogor), the main opponent of Maimonides. From Kabbalistic the teachings of Rabbi Isaac the Blind (who flourished in 1190-1210) have only reached us some passages proving that he was intensively studying the book of “creation,” explaining and interpreting its incomprehensible meaning. In the coherent system of Kabbalah for the first time was set forth by two of Isaac’s disciples, Israel and Ezra, natives of Gerona. When it appeared, Kabbalah served as a counterweight and protest against shredding the philosophizing of the Maymonists. Israel and Ezra in their piety accepted every word of the Bible and Talmud as divine truth. They developed a unique theory, explaining some parts of the Haggadah, prayer and Song Songs are this inexhaustible source of all kinds of mysticism. Scope exclusion the religion of any philosophical reflection was to the taste of the German and northern French rabbis, who adhered to a strictly theosophical direction, while the southern French and Spanish rabbis, among whom Maimonides was held in high esteem infallible authority, ridiculed the latter trend, asserting that Jewishness imbued with deep thoughts, hidden for the unreasonable crowd and clear only for the thinker.

The Kabbalistic book "Zohar", inspired, mystical inspiration, was a misfortune for the Jews as it destroyed hundreds of thousands of souls: those intoxicated by it deceptive fantasy, they rushed in blindness to obvious death and died like flies in poison.

The book "Zohar", composed in the 13th century, was the first to appear in print and began to spread incredibly quickly, shedding blinding rays over every Jewish ghetto. It seemed to the Jews that all the secrets relating to the time of the coming of the Messiah. In it, Jewish dreamers clearly saw: the prophet Elijah, angels, spirits, righteous souls - finally the entire heavenly council, not excluding ten spiritualistic natures. Here the Kabbalists learned all the movements of the elements and the reason for these movements, as well as the mysterious words that excite these movements. Same happened regarding the real meaning of the Torah, which was hidden in the Pentateuch from the eyes of those of little faith through different signs and dashes, placement of vowels, stress, and even through arbitrary changes in the letters in these words. It is not known who wrote the book “Zohar”, although many This work is attributed to Simon ben Jochai.

Jewish Kabbalists consider the book “Zohar” as the first shrine: what was written in it is accepted above all the secrets of knowledge. Such a revelation, they believe, descended in the first century of our chronology in Palestine to the holy hermit Simon ben Jochai, who wrote down the Zohar. In reality, however, this book was composed not in the first, but in the 13th century by the Spaniard de Leon. For what purpose did the author write it - was it the fruit of his fantastic the ideas in which he believed, or whether it was simply written for the sake of mystification - all this remains not entirely known; some historians, however, directly call de Leon is a hoaxer and a deceiver. The teachings of the Kabbalists turned many heads Jewish scribes; it is dangerous for every Jew unfamiliar with European philosophy and not emerging from blind belief in the miraculous. The teachings of the Kabbalists about the messiah is closely related to the belief in the transmigration of souls. All human souls are like They believe that they have already been created in advance and are awaiting their destiny in the next world. incarnations; those of them which, despite their mixture with the earthly element still retaining heavenly purity within themselves, they depart again into the world of spirits; others, who failed to remain pure, again move into mortal bodies, repeating such a migration until they are completely cleansed. Consequence such transmigration is that many of the pre-created souls who have not yet descended to the earth, they cannot take on flesh for some time. Soul of the last messiah will descend to earth, but will not descend until all pre-created souls have incarnated. Moreover, the Kabbalists, who existed even before the appearance of de Leon’s book, have long been believed that the soul of the Messiah had already taken human form many times before the last coming in order to gradually prepare people for it. They They taught that the soul of the Messiah already lived on earth in some patriarchs, prophets and kings. Some of the Kabbalists even considered Jesus Christ and Mohammed to be special phases manifestations of the soul of the messiah; yet they believe in the coming, except the true messiah from the tribe of David, also his forerunner, who must be from the tribe of Joseph.

Machine Translated by Google

Kabbalism is closely related to the Talmud; The very first Talmudic sages were at the same time Kabbalists - and this science itself could appear and be accessible only to the highest Talmudists.

Jewish teachers extol the Talmud with high praise, but his actual dignity is far from corresponding to these exaltations lavished by the rabbis. The Talmud is composed of ignorant folk traditions and the interpretations of Jewish fanatics and teachers for the purpose of explaining and supplementing biblical teaching; but these traditions and interpretations are precisely the opposite of the purity of biblical teaching; they distort it, giving it a pagan character. The Talmud is filled with pagan legends, fables, fairy tales, apologists, some of which are insignificant, petty, empty, not on the same level with the importance of the objects being practiced, while others are even indecent, seductive and blasphemous.

Talmudic teaching bears the stamp of the most extreme limitations, unable to elevate it to religious contemplation; its character in places is completely pagan, contrary to those concepts that are revealed in the writings of Moses and the prophets. The limitations of the views of the compilers of the Talmud are obvious because they include passages that cast an unfavorable shadow on the aspirations of the rabbis of ancient times with the deliberate purpose of hiding the more spiritual aspects of Jewish teaching under this outwardly rough shell. Not having the strength to explain their real meaning, these rabbis wait for their explanation with the coming of Elijah, and the majority of Jews believe the letter of the legends here, too, because an orthodox Jew does not even dare to doubt that his wise teachers could say anything contrary to the meaning and truth.

Getting acquainted with the teaching of the scribes from the Talmud, one cannot help but be surprised by its narrowness, dogmatism and materiality of view. It is cold in presentation, empty in content, worn out and contains an incessant repetition of the same thing. There is no freshness, no strength, no fire in it; it is enslaved to the authorities, resists all independence; in him one can feel at the same time learning and foolishness, arrogance and baseness. It does not deviate a hair's breadth from the well-known line of commentary and preconceptions; full of wavering conclusions, but in true beliefs he adheres to the letter of the law to the point of recklessness. In this teaching, everyone will notice a confusion of regulating details and a whole labyrinth of systems, a preference for antiquity and repetition of butts over genius. It constantly revolves around the priests and Pharisees, in the temple, in the synagogue, in the school, in the Sanhedrin and is extraordinarily concerned about the most insignificant little things.

Chapter 10

The Importance of Gemara and Mishna

Talmudists place the Gemara and Mishna above all else. Unequal importance of different parts of the legislation is expressed in the following comparison: the mikra (Bible) is compared with water, the mishna with simple wine, i.e. vodka, and the gemara with aromatic wine (stara wudka). Therefore, whoever opposes the rabbi will, according to the definition of the Talmud, contradict God himself[1] ; whoever resists the word of the scribe deserves death, because the words of the scribes have much greater meaning than the words of the Mosaic Law itself. To prove that the definitions of the rabbis should be preferred to the definitions of the written law, the latter point to the following case. The once pagan king Pyrgandicus, while feasting with his dignitaries, decided to invite eleven of the most famous rabbis in his land to the feast. When they arrived, the king received them with all the respect due to their rank and dignity. But after a little time, the king, under the threat of death, presented them with a choice: either eat dishes prepared from pork meat, or take part in the general pleasures of the harem; or drink pagan wine. After three days were given to the rabbis to think, they decided on the latter, since only rabbis prohibit the use of pagan things, and the first two subjects are positively forbidden by Moses. But, drunk on the pagan wine, the rabbis not only ceased to distinguish pork meat from other types of meat, but also, when musicians and singers appeared, the pious rabbis succumbed to the new crime, and only the next day they realized that they had sinned a lot; and all this happened because they preferred the words of Moses to the words of the rabbis. Therefore It is said: “Let him not expect mercy from God who, according to the definitions of the Talmud, prefers the definitions of the Bible."[2]

1 Treatise Sanhedrin, fol. 110, art. 1. 2 Treatise of Hagig, l. 10, art. 1.

The Talmud says that “the law (the Bible) is likened to salt, the mishna to pepper, and the gemara - cinnamon; the world cannot do without salt, pepper and cinnamon" (and the Jew - without garlic, onions and radishes). Further: “Whoever values little the words of the rabbis is guilty of death”; who from the rulings and teachings of the rabbis passes to the Bible, he no longer has happiness.” IN in another place it is interpreted that “the words of the Talmudic writers are more pleasant than the words of the Bible”; “Whoever holds in his hands only the Bible and the Mishnah, and not the Talmud, is not worthy to make acquaintance with him.” And the famous Rashi (1105) says along with the Talmud: “My son, pay attention more to the words of the Talmud than to the words of the Bible.”[2]

In the book of one rabbi who died in 1500 AD, we find confirmation that “those who read the Bible without mishna and gemara do not believe in any God.” Maimonides says: “The fear of a rabbi is the fear of God . ”3 The Talmud says that “dead rabbis, always in heaven, teach other living rabbis”[4]

The Vilna gaon Rabbi Elijah was the enemy of all superstition and sophistry; He was aware of all their perniciousness and sought to contribute to the study of religious sources system and methodology. Heirs or disciples of the Gaon on his behalf the order of training sessions was outlined in the preface to the commentary they published him to the Shulchan Aruch "Orach Chaim": the basis of this plan was the study tanakh and the very grammar of the Gaon language, without which it is considered impossible to begin studying the mishna and which, in turn, should precede the study of the gemara. IN in his program, Gaon Rabbi Elijah devoted space to the study of secular subjects Sciences; among his published works and manuscripts there are works not only in grammar, but also in mathematics and calendar studies. His manuscripts have been published were around the 1780s. 1 Tr.

Erubim, l. 21, 2. 2 Behai, a famous rabbi in 1291. 3 Yad-Chazak 1. Talm. Thor. 5.1. 4 Tr. Sanhedrin. l. 92.1.

Every Jew considers it his sacred duty to educate his children Talmud, so that they are imbued to the depths of their souls with the consciousness of their high dignity and to have weapons in their hands against the enemies of their faith. Due to this, the number of Jewish theologians increased enormously and represented such a proportion to a mass of people that we will not find in any other society in the world. Competition on rabbinical places therefore became unusually large and were not slow to lead to very sad results. Rabbis, not financially secure, like the clergy of all other denominations, and due to such excessive competition have fallen very low morally. More and more often there are complaints about injustice and corruption of rabbis and the corruption of rabbinical places. It even became a custom for rabbis to buy their positions from communities instead of receiving salaries from them. It is quite natural that in this case the rabbis had to compensate themselves, by hook or by crook, for the expenses of obtaining a rabbinical position. The best of the rabbis themselves rebelled against such an immoral and contrary to Jewish laws custom, who in 1637 even pronounced a solemn curse against the corruption of rabbinical places. But they could not overcome the natural course of events, and the corruption of the rabbis increased more and more.

Machine Translated by Google

Such a moral decline of the rabbis, which naturally followed to lose their credit in the eyes of the Jews was accompanied by an equally strong and mental decline. The rabbis withdrew entirely into the realm of Talmudic literature and religious and ritual debates, which provided them with their daily bread. But by this the rabbis lost a lot in the opinion of the majority, for the latter, despite the religious nature of their life, still could not be content with theological food alone, which was of little attractive to any common person. Instead of, following the example of the ancient rabbis, using the Talmud only to guide everyday religious life and devoting their time mainly to conducting the public affairs of their parishioners, inflicting justice and reprisals on them, being their representatives and defenders before governments and peoples, the Polish rabbis of the latter centuries, they disappeared completely from real soil and ceased to be the leaders of the Jewish people; but they surprisingly improved Talmudic casuistry.

As is known, they created a new kind of theological literature - the so-called “hiluk” or “pilpul”.
Khiluk is an argument on a religious and ritual theme, representing an abyss of the most subtle intricacies, although devoid of a solid logical basis. This is more a game of imagination than a figment of thought. It is said about the creator of this type of literature, completely unknown to Jews to this day, that when several sheets were torn out of his copy of the Talmud, he, without noticing this circumstance, with the amazing flexibility of his mind, continued his teaching at the interrupted place and found an opportunity to connect two completely different places in the Talmud! With this direction of the mental activity of rabbinism, teaching became a means not of achieving truth, as with the ancient rabbis, but of obscuring it. In the sophistry of the Khiluk, he was considered a luminary of learning, who could either provide evidence in favor of allowing what is prohibited, or who could present more arguments for and against the same position, but not the one who, using the techniques of reasonable logical interpretation, achieved the truth in the labyrinth of the Talmud and Talmudic literature. The best minds of Jewry, of course, fought against the khiluks, who produced a harmful moral influence, arousing envious rivalry and extreme pride between the Talmudists, so characteristic of school pedantry. This play with learning for unworthy purposes and the perversion of the natural laws of thought could no more please the majority of the Jewish people than the moral shortcomings of rabbinism could inspire respect for this knowledge among the masses. This order of things could not continue for long without causing some changes, for it concealed within itself the inclinations of its decay. And all of Judaism with its religious teaching has been in this state for a long time.

In conclusion, one cannot ignore the remarkable circumstance that the Talmud, in addition to all other divisions, is also divided into official and unofficial, that is: published for show to civil authorities and published for the Jews' own use. In the first case (ostentatious), the Talmud is completely decent, not only not striking readers with the fanaticism of his views, but even flaunting high morality and the purity of his humane rules; in the second (for the Jews' own use) preaches irreconcilable malice and hatred of the goyim, and not only contempt for all laws is expressed love for humanity, but it is even forbidden to pull a goy out of the pit into which he accidentally fell. The last kind of Talmud, the only one revered and canonized Jewish teachers, in every line he breathes the most inveterate fanaticism, the most inveterate hostility towards Christians and in every rule it reveals examples of the complete immorality of Talmudic teachings. The

New Talmud, published in Vilna under the modern edition of the brothers Romov, no longer has scientific authority; it is only used for exhibition by the poor or those who never look into it. All rabbis and scholars Talmudists have foreign editions of the Talmuds, complete, ancient ones. Although in new editions of the Talmud and try to raise their authority through additions, but this edition differs from numerous others in that between the various comments there are some ancient or not yet published and appearing now for the first time, or, although printed, they are very rare and inaccessible, such as the commentaries of Rabbi Hananel, Rabbi Nissim Gaon, Rabbi Gershom Moor-Gagol, etc. In these commentaries, the authors reach monstrous nonsense in everything, trying, however, then declare their holiness by saying that their works are supposedly the fruit of inspiration God's and holy clairvoyance. Anyone sane, reading such rude nonsense and antics, must recognize them as either outright fraudulent deception, or some kind of insanity. Later rabbis acted even more monstrously.

Adepts of mysticism and Kabbalists seized on such Talmudic stories and sayings in order to soar even higher on the wings of fanciful fantasy and launch swiftly across the boundless sea of visions, revelations, etc., so that very often reached the extreme limits of supernaturalism. The rabbis who received secular and philosophical education, trying, on the contrary, to cleanse the Talmud and Midrash from everything strange and incredible, went to the other extreme, namely: through allegorical method of interpretation, they forced the ancient Talmudists to express thoughts of Pythagoras, Plato and Aristotle and often imposed even ideas on the first Arab philosophers and natural scientists. Their attempts suffer from the fundamental malady that they are based on the doctrines of Greek-Arab philosophy and Gnostic mysticism, completely alien to Judaism. The method of interpretation used ancient gaons in the Babylonian Talmudic academies and then passed into North African Jewish schools, in addition to their other advantages, in Jewish In my opinion, it is also distinguished by the fact that it is undoubtedly his own, purely Jewish.

Thus, the more ancient ones appear and spread commentaries on the Talmud, it becomes all the more obvious that the present traditional Judaism was alien to those elements that invaded it in the Middle Ages, such as Franco-Italian mysticism and Polish-German pilpulism, which spoiled the purity and authority of the Mosaic Law, undermining the main foundation of Judaism.

About 15 years ago, by Rabbi Dr. Zuckermandel in Prussia, published in two manuscripts, Vienna and Erfurt, “tosaftu”, i.e. a collection of ancient Borayt Tanaim, not included in the mishnah and served as a source for both the Babylonian and Jerusalem Gemara. This work has as its task all strange places and barbaric ones found in the Talmuds, smooth out, soften and reinterpret for public so that black comes out white. Finally, published in Mecklenburg Biblical-Talmudic Encyclopedia, the major work of Dr. Hamburger. The same the author published a brochure on non-Jews and sects in the Talmud, where almost all Tal-Mudist passages on this subject are grouped.

Chapter 11

Talmud in Russian

This systematic deception of the authorities by pointing to official publications the sinless Talmud, purified from its essence, has long been used as by the Jews themselves, and by those publicists who took on the difficult mission protect Jewry and its teachers from all kinds of attacks. How do these work? the latter, that is, the defenders of Jewry, can best be seen from the critical review of a book called “Worldviews of the Talmudists,” published in three volumes in Russian, of which the first treats about man and his duties to God, the second - about his duties to his neighbor, the third - about his duties in society and civil life. This is a collection that was compiled by a whole Areopagus of scientific representatives and employees of the brotherhood “Habura-marbe-Gagaskala” (Brotherhood for the spread of enlightenment among Jews in Russia). The purpose of this Jewish society, no matter how cunningly hidden, it is still clear at first glance visible to everyone. Firstly, the collection was published in Russian: this pretends that “Society” wants to replace the Hebrew language with Russian, even in religious reading, and this would seem to contribute to the Russification of the Jews. At first glance this, of course, cannot not to arouse sympathy in Russian society for the educators of our sons of Israel; but the matter only seems so in appearance, but in essence it is not at all like that. Secondly, in The collection contains a preface. When starting to read it, it is natural to expect that it contains publishers, addressing the Jewish public, explain to them the reasons for their introduction Russian language, and we Russians will soon hear fury in Jewish prayer houses Jews, or their awkward singing of psalms in Russian. This assumption it is all the more natural that the mentioned collection, according to the visible idea of the “Society”, should be intended for Jews. Meanwhile, the preface of the collection addresses not to the Jewish public, but to some other persons who may receive the collection hands. The introduction of the Russian language requires an explanation of the reasons why Jewish the reformers decided to change the language; demands to prove the benefit of this change, the absence of any contradiction with the spirit of Jewry, etc.; but in the preface there is no mention of all this. It is clear that the Jewish public is being ignored here; by name only This collection is intended. Even the title of the collection indicates that it presented to the Russian public, which is not familiar with this worldview and for who may be interested in the collection and may attract her to it. Moreover, the collection cannot even replace reading Jewish books, because is a set of unrelated moral and humanitarian maxims, scraps torn from various places in the vast Jewish literature. It is clearly visible that there was a different intention here, which is not entirely successfully covered by the bark of these new moral Talmudic maxims: scientists and progressive Talmudists with a set of humane phrases they only tried to cover up the not at all humane instructions his Talmud in the eyes of the Russian reader. These modern Talmudists with their collection only distract the attention of Christians from fanaticism and thieves deceptions practiced by both enlightened and ignorant Jewry

Machine Translated by Google

against Christians. The collection does not intend to enlighten the Jews, but only to throw dust on eyes of Christians, so that through this the Jews do not appear as disgusting as they seem and as they really are. In a collection of Talmudic maxims, everyone can clearly see all these cunning tricks, manipulation and erasure Jewish fanaticism. Smoothing techniques and tricks of these defenders Talmudic harshness is seen in the most obvious way. So, for example, in The first appendix to the first volume is, under No. 18, the following article:

"The purpose of teaching (Torah) and commandments is faith, for whoever has no faith was better off." if only he had never been born! Faith dwells in the heart, that is, a person must believe that in the universe there is such a being who cares about an unchanging world,

0 the human race, about all people in general, about each person in particular; must also believe that the influx of God can rest on a person, so that it becomes a prophet and through him divine teaching is given. This teaching contains all the spiritual bliss of a person and his eternal salvation. They teach him the ways of life in in all its directions, both in relation to spiritual purity and in relation to integrity of the future life, eternal and true"[1]

Expressing only general thoughts about faith, these lines breathe humanity, and one might think that between the worldview of the Talmudists and the Christian The church makes no difference. Meanwhile, the above article is composed of two scraps that, in their place, in general speech, have a completely different meaning. They are taken from the first chapter of the book "Kad-Hakemah". This chapter does not treat faith in general, but actually about the faith of Israel. Rabbi Behai begins and ends it with the text of Isaiah: "Open the gates, let a righteous people come in" (Is. 26:2), giving it meaning prophecies about the restoration of Jewish power and Jerusalem. He proves that the faith of Israel lies in the exact fulfillment of the laws of Sinai (the Pentateuch and Talmud, according to the teachings of the Jews), and that the fulfillment and preservation of these laws will lead certainly to the realization of the expected coming of the Messiah and the restoration of the Jewish kingdom. The authors of the book used this chapter in their own way. Throwing it away text from Isaiah, they took the four lines following it, changed the signs punctuation and, skipping over 22 lines and taking the second piece, put an end to that point in the period from which Rabbi Behai begins to explain the thought expressed in the first half of the sentence he took.

Meanwhile, the end of this period that they threw out reads as follows: "And it (faith) consists in the law that Moses gave to Israel and which everyone is ordered not to forget; for it is written (Deut. 4): "Beware and take good care of your soul, lest you forget such deeds as your eyes have seen." The meaning of this verse is that we do not forget any of the foundations of the Torah (law) and commandments that are given to us, and it (this verse) says that to forget (the rules of the law) is considered a grave sin of the soul."

And here is a more detailed excerpt from the famous speech of Rabbi Behai: "It is known that the sacred seed is the Israelites, being in exile in their country enemies, although scattered and scattered among nations, do not forget, however, the foundations law and commandments, and protect the fence of faith, and remain firm in their faith in everyone generation. Every nation incites them to change their law and their faith; and they They don't even want to listen to this, but our sages explained the word: "Return, Shulamit (Rabbi Behai, like some other writers, calls the Israeli nation "Shulamit" - Jerusalem), return, return, and we will see you" (Song of Songs, chapter 7). The word "return" is repeated by Holy Scripture 4 times, according to the number of kingdoms, from

---

1 R. Behai, in his work "Kad-Hakemah".

Machine Translated by Google

of whom each one tells us that we should accept his faith and he will make us treasurers and ministers; for it is said (Ex. 12): “And thou shalt choose valiant men from all the people,” and Israel answers them: “What should you choose from among the Shulamit? What can you give us?” elevation and dominance? You are not able to give us such a high degree as a mountain Sinai, the degree of which scripture speaks with the words: “the dance of two armies,” that is, ours the gods cannot give us such a dance as the one in which 2 armies took part: the 600,000-strong army of Israelites and the same army of angels, for the Scripture says: “The chariots of God are ten thousand, thousands upon thousands” (Ps. 67:18). And for the sake of this faith, for which the Jews hold on tightly, the Lord will subsequently place himself between them and return, as before, to Jerusalem, and the children, driven away from their father’s table, will return to place»[1].

This is the attitude of the defenders of the Talmud to the truth, and although it would be enough This is one example, but we will indicate another. In volume III of the collection, in article 24 says: “I have repeatedly preached to the Jewish communities (in the original “exiles” Israel"), that those who deceive and rob the Gentiles insult the name God of Israel, for, seeing such actions on our part, all nations will say that Jews have no teaching of God. Meanwhile, the prophet Zephaniah says (3:18): the remnant of Israel should not (in vile, “will not”) do untruths, tell lies and must not (in vile, “not will") be in his mouth the tongue of wickedness." From these words one can perhaps conclude that the Jew is certainly forbidden deceive a non-believer, and those who violate this law or rules are punished as an insulter to the name of God. But in the same book we read the following positive law about the same subject:

“This is what Rabbi Kan taught2 : it is permissible (for a Jew) to take advantage of the mistake of a Gentile if the Gentile himself makes mistakes.” The following is a wonderful instruction on what to do: to a Jew in such cases: “If a non-

Jew, when drawing up an invoice (for the product he sold to a Jew), made a mistake (not in his own benefit), then the Jew must tell him: look, I trust your account, but I myself I don’t know, and I pay you as much as you demand. But to deceive a Gentile prohibited: for a non-Jew may want to test a Jew, and then it will result in “higul-hashem,” that is, dishonor of the name of God.” 3

From this it is clear that a Jew can deceive a Gentile, but be careful not to give the non-Jews a reason to think that the law among the Jews is not good, i.e., so that it doesn’t come out “higul-hashem”, which, according to Rabbi M. Mikutsi, the author of the said book, can slow down the emergence of the messiah and the restoration of the kingdom of Judah.

1 Kad-Hahemah, ch. 1. 2

Talmud Gagazan Achron, l. 113. 3 Sefer

Mitzvod told fortunes. Venice, 1546, l. 152 b.

Regarding the above replacement of the words “exiles of Israel” with the words "Jewish communities" need to keep in mind that the political dogma of the coming the Messiah and the restoration of the kingdom of Judah constitutes one of the members of the symbol Jewish faith, namely the 12th, reading like this: “I sincerely believe in the coming Messiah, and although he hesitates, I still wait for him every day."[1]. Based on this dogma, Jews, wherever they are, are obliged to say three times - daily in the morning, afternoon and evening - the following prayer: “Blow the great horn for our freedom and raise the banner to gather our exiles, and gather us all of the four ends of the earth”, etc.[2]

This dogma is recognized by all Jews, who were brought up in Talmudic rules, and those who received education. The only difference is that the first ones expect restoration of the kingdom of Judah by some miracle; the latter believe that it will happen naturally, and that the Jews must prepare for this by education that will give the people good generals, engineers, rulers and in general people needed for this restoration and for continued existence states. Here, for example, are a few words from the secretary of the Society for the Propagation education between Jews in Russia and a collaborator of Mr. Gordon's collection from the message to the Jews, printed in Hebrew on the pages of "Gashachor".

"Let the son of David (Messiah) appear," says Mr. Gordon, among other things, "and then our reformer brothers (a Jewish sect that arose in Germany and does not recognize dogma

0 Messiah) can turn to him in one minute, saying: we have sinned, but now we are your slaves. And he will accept them and find them capable and useful people for all its purposes. But what will he find between you and what can you do for him? help? Will he find useful people among you when he comes to resume our lives as before? 1 See G.

Gurovich's prayer book. Vilna, 1870, p. 125. 2 Ibid., p. 71.

From among you, will he take the minister of finance, the military, scientists and government officials capable of being representatives at foreign courts? sovereigns, engineers, land surveyors, etc. people necessary for his kingdom?"1 . Thus, the Jew does not consider himself an eternal citizen of the country in which lives, but as an "exile", waiting for the sound of the trumpet for liberation from someone else's yoke and restoration of the kingdom of Judah, which is why Rabbi M. Mikutsi called the Spanish and Italian co-religionists "exiles of Israel," and the publishers of the collection considered it necessary instead of the words "to the exiles of Israel," write for Rabbi M. Mikutsi the words: "to the Jewish communities." In the 25th Art. Volume III of the collection says: "One Jew had all his married sons and all married daughters. Talking about his grief to one scientist, he among other things, he said: "I had a non-Jewish maarufiyah (customer), and when he died, then soon after his death my children began to die out, so that all my fortune passed to my sons-in-law and daughters-in-law. If I don't deserve the happiness of having children, then why didn't God take it away? Do I have them before their wedding? Then at least what I had acquired would remain with me and etc." - "Was your money acquired dishonestly?" - asked the scientist. - "I have never offended anyone in my life," answered the mourner, "only this one client I allowed myself to deceive my (meropia)." - "This is quite enough. The Guardian Angel revealed this after the death of your client, and he cried out to the Lord; the All-Holy One executes judgment for those who were robbed, no matter who they are, Jews or non-Jews." "2 .

From this story one might think that deceiving a non-Jewish buyer is considered a grave sin among the Jews. Meanwhile, maarufiya, or more correctly - meropia - every the buyer is a non-Jew who is betrayed by the kahal for exploitation to a famous Jew. WITH Kahal, of course, cannot act like a Jew, and one of the Jews is not and cannot be meropium. Here is an explanation of what meropia is:

1 Lashahor for 1872, p. 154, 155 and 156. 2 Sefer

Hasidim, § 358.

Machine Translated by Google

“If a Jew has a good non-Jew,” says the law, “then in some places Bet Dan (court) prohibits other Jews from undermining a Jew who has this measure and deals with this non-Jew, and in other places he allows others Jews should go to this non-Jew, give him money on interest, deal with him, give him bribery and extract from him (exploit him): for the property of a non-Jew is free, and Whoever takes possession of it first, it belongs to him.” It is clear that only a non-Jew whose property is Jewish can be a meropie. the law always considers free, and that the law is not at all about whether it is allowed or it is not allowed to exploit a non-religious person who has fallen into the bondage of the Jews, but the only question is whether this booty should be provided only to the exploiter to whom fell into the hands, or others like it. In the article in the collection (Volume III, Chapter 3, Art. 1), about the meaning of the court for Jews, we read: “In this sense it is said: “And you will come to the Levitical priests and to the judge who will be in those days” (Deut. 17:9). Holy Scripture wants to say by this that there is nothing look at former judges, but we must be guided by what the modern judge prescribes.”

From these words we can conclude that the Russian court is recognized in the Talmud obligatory for the Jew on a par with the judgment of Moses. But the positive law of the Jews says this:

“It is forbidden (Jews) to be tried in non-Jewish courts, even in such cases when the non-Jewish law agrees with the Jewish law, and every (Jew) tried in judgment of the Gentiles, - a villain who raised his hand and reviled the law of Moses." 1 Choshen Hamishpot, code of civil laws of Judaism, art. 156.

“If the enemy (defendant) is strong (influential, able to find protection from local authorities against Kahal violence), and he (the plaintiff) cannot recover from him (defendant) through the Jewish court, then preliminary still the first invites him (the defendant) to the Jewish court, and if he does not want to appear, then he (the plaintiff) takes permission from the bet din (Jewish court) and saves his from his defendant through a non-Jewish court"[1]

In connection with the law on the court, it is not without interest to cite the law on Jewish witnesses in a non-Jewish court. This law says:

“A Jew who is a witness for a non-Jew against a Jew in a non-Jewish court, undergoes "shamsha", the last degree of "herem", i.e. he is placed on that path, on which the Shklov kagal recently staged the famous Khatskel Porokhovnikov.

Our Jews positively reject the Russian court, and on this occasion a Jew, as now it has been stated that it is forbidden to sue in non-Jewish courts, even in such cases where the Gentile law agrees with the Jewish law, since everyone tried in a Gentile court is a villain who raised his hand and reviled the law Moses"[2]. A Jew is forbidden even to be a witness in a non-Jewish court against Jew.

This is the game of truth allowed by the shameless advocates of dark doctrines Talmudic Jewry, and it must be admitted that they operate according to the same system with Talmudic publishers producing two types of Talmuds: one in order to cloud the eyes of the government, administration and society; the other is for own use for the guidance and edification of his flock.

Here in Russia there are many deceptive, insignificant brochures in Russian. language, under the loud name "Talmud", which are compiled on a custom topic Judaism in order to familiarize the average Russian public with the religion of the Jews.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 12

About another Talmud in Russian

The first of these brochures is entitled: “What is the Talmud?” - its author is Deisht. It was published and translated by Landau, that is, by the Jewish society in St. Petersburg (in 1870). The brochure lavishes such praise on the Talmud that it is as if there were no not a single work as intelligent and classical as this teaching.

1 Tur-Hoshen Hamishpot, p. 26. 2
Treatise Tur-Hoshen-Gamishpot, p. 26

On page 4 of the brochure it says: “And not only restorers of disappeared idioms Canaan and Assyria, Himiare and Zoroastrian Persia resorted to the Talmud for advice, but the new school of Greek and Latin philology began more and more benefit from the rich treasures of classical material explained in this creation." Further, the author of the brochure, forced by Jewish customers, says: “In the same way, jurisprudence has now come to the conviction that all existing sciences cannot be thoroughly investigated without the help of this ancient and a colossal encyclopedic creation." On page 5 it is explained: “But apart from these things, the direct right to which belongs specifically to the sciences, in The Talmud contains other, perhaps much more important, things that concern human culture in the broadest sense of the word. Every day from this depth new pictures rise before us: images of Hellas and Byzantium, Egypt and Rome, Persia and Palestine; pictures of the temple and the forum, war and peace, joy and sadness, paintings full of vitality, shining with the brightest colors.” IN in the following chapters we will see what worthy and charming pictures these are, oh which the writer of the pamphlet we quote so passionately and eloquently relates. Further, on page 9 of the same brochure it is said that “in the entire field of science there is hardly there is one branch of research that could rival in difficulty Talmud." The purpose of the compilers of the Talmud was to separate Jewry from others peoples - and this goal has been achieved. 19 centuries have passed since the dispersion of Jewry throughout all the countries of the world, and Jewry did not merge or become close to any people. All these seemingly strange and funny rituals, ablutions, prohibitions are with Gentiles from the same dishes and even live in the same house, edifications to hate and curse them in ritual prayers and even try to harm them - erected Talmud in dogma, placed above the sacred scripture of the Mosaic Law and helped precise implementation of the evil goal of the fanatics of Judaism, which until now time remains a stranger and a malicious enemy of all mankind under the sun. Jesus Christ in his teaching preached love for one's neighbor and even for one's enemies. The Pharisees and scribes, outraged by the actions of the disciples and the influence of Jesus Christ, formed a Sanhedrin, at which they reasoned among themselves like this: “What should we do with Nim? He works many miracles and, among other things, teaches the people to love their enemies. If leave Him like this, then everyone will believe in Him as in Christ, and the Romans will come and take our place and language." The Jewish high priest Caiaphas gave the following advice: “You do not Do you want to think that it is better for us if one person dies than the whole people? will die because of him." Due to some political considerations it was determined was to betray the Son of God to death.

To destroy and blot out this hitherto existing evil - so harmful Talmudic teaching - and to destroy its isolation, which brings disaster to the peoples among whom the Jews live - to do this, what means must be used?

Why not destroy them? Jesus Christ commanded us to love all enemies! Seek measures so that the Jewish people, who are so benevolent and caring towards their co-religionists, was he exactly the same in relation to all tribes and peoples? Such a measure has long been known to everyone, and emperors and princes constantly strived for it. and popes. But how to actually implement it? The only way, it seems to us, to achieve the above goal is this is the destruction of the Talmud, but not through burning, as was done before, not through taking it away from the Jews, but by revealing all its absurdities, malice, harm caused to society and Christianity. Then we can hope that everything Jewry will see the true light and the main Divine commandment - to love your neighbor as yourself.

Chapter 13

Combined Hebrew and Greek alphabet

The biblical language of the Mosaic Pentateuch, according to the evidence of philologists formed from Sanskrit, Aramaic and Chaldean languages, was sacred language, purely Jewish. After political adversity, when the Jews suffered Syrian, Babylonian and Roman captivity, their language completely changed, which is what you find in Talmud.

According to Karpolez's research, the spoken language of the Semitic ancient peoples was Greek or Aramaic. New Jewish served only as a literary language (rabbinic), formed from Hebrew and Aramaic with an admixture of Greek, Latin and Persian words and forms. Without touching on another controversial point - do they constitute ancient Pelasgians, from whom the Greeks descended, descendants or general relatives Philistines or Semites - one can, however, agree that their civilizations in generally come from the same root. This, by the way, is indicated, in addition to the many common features of mythology are also the extreme similarity of their alphabets - one of the most powerful levers of civilization. Even the letter names are almost the same, except some - missing in one or another alphabet.

The relationship of both alphabets cannot be subject to any doubt, regardless from the supposed place of origin of alphabetic writings. According to Herodotus, writings were brought to Greece by the Phoenician Cadmus, the founder of Thebes (in 1519 BC. X.).

If we accept the hypothesis that Renan recognizes as very solid (“Sunrise.” 1886, No. 8, p. 160. On the origin of the Bible), that alphabetic writing first appeared in Egypt around the Gyx era (there is an assumption that the Gyxes are Jews in the shepherd period), we should not forget that the conquerors and founders the first dynasties in Attica - Kekrops (1552 BC) and in Argolid - Danai (1511 BC R. X.) were Egyptians. By the way, about the word - “Jew” - in Greek “Iudaios” - which will appear more than once in our book. Most representatives of the Jewish tribe are offended by this designation as a nationality, almost suggesting that the name “Jew” was invented by Christians out of contempt and hatred for them, and if it is used, then precisely in the shameful, abusive sense. Needless to say, in something like this there is not a single grain of validity in the assumption. The meaning of the word "Jew" equivalent to “Jew”, “Israel” or “Jew”, as is generally accepted in in popular parlance, with the only difference that “Israel” resembles the origin this tribe from the patriarch Jacob, called Israel (happy), or, speaking of later times - from the kingdom of Israel, while the word "Jew" indicates the ancestor of this tribe, the patriarch Eber, the fifth from Noah, and, therefore, constitutes a more general designation. Most likely, the word “Jew” comes from the land Eberskaya, where Abraham came from, and that is why it was called Ivriy. Latin expression "exterra hebleorum" is often found. The word "Jew" originally had the correct designation of the tribe, from Abraham to Jacob, called Israel; then this all Israelis were already called by the name; and when the kingdom of Israel was divided into two halves: Israel and Judah (from the Patriarch of Judah), then the Jewish tribe received both the double name “Israelites” and “Jews”.

As for the word “Jew,” the most popular in Europe and in general common among all peoples, it represents only a modification the French word “juif”, that is, “Jew” (the same as “Jew”), and therefore denotes the origin of the tribe either from the patriarch of Judah, or from the kingdom Jewish. This name is used to call Jews in general, as it is generally accepted and easier in pronunciation: in French, English, Polish, Czech, Lithuanian, Zhmud, Latvian, Serbian, Bulgarian, Croatian and Slavic languages there is no name, like “Jew,” i.e., Jew. In the new Russian dialect, probably due to intrigues Jews, the incorrect name “Jew” crept in - which I liked - to rename the word “Jew” hated by the people. Under Empress Catherine II they began to introduce the word “Jew” into use, and this is completely wrong. Consequently, the words "Jew", "Jew", "Jew" and "Israel" represent only different names the same ethnographic concept. The Jews themselves do not call themselves Jews, but “Id” - hence Jew, i.e. Jew. They swear: “their vir-bin a id.” The main thing here is the internal, moral meaning, united in representation of the people with one or another ethnographic term; but if with any of them the people associate a concept unfavorable for those who bear it, then this is already the fault, in any case, not only of the people, but most likely of that very tribe, with whose name connects a concept that is unfavorable for him.

DEPARTMENT 2. THEOLOGICAL TREATISE I

ON MUTUAL CONTRADITIONS TALMUD TEACHERS

Chapter 1

Discrepancies in the Talmud

The fate of the Jewish state was in the most deplorable state. Jerusalem, when Titus captured the city with his victorious legion, for then the Jews, instead of unanimously resisting the enemy, divided into religious parties, cut among themselves and were exterminated by tens of thousands.

After losing their independence, the Jews founded two religious academies: Babylonian and Jerusalem. These two suns are two academies, as they say Talmudists, were at enmity with each other for life and death. So, if one proved that such and such an object was black, then the other academy, on the contrary, tried prove that he is white. By the way, let us look at the wonderful spectacle presented by Jewry in our, new time: misnagids and Hasidim are fighting against the Jewish intelligentsia. The latter, in turn, is fighting: with the help of the Misnagids - against Tsadikism, and with the help of the Hasidim - against rabbinism; still these parties work together in harmony against “Hebabe Zion” and “Zionism”, which also are hostile to each other. The Jews since their loss of political independence

Machine Translated by Google

experienced many “futures”: the future - Bar Kochba, the future of the Mishnah, Gemara, Rabbinicism, the philosophy of Saadi Alpha-Gomi, Avicebrom, Yehuda-Halevi, Maimonides, Ralbog, Kabbalistic confusions, Sabataev Zevi, Frankism, Tzaddikism, but all these “futures”, which temporarily supported the vigor and vitality of Judaism, disappeared and sank into oblivion. There remains only one hopeless struggle, displeasure and bitterness. But let's return again to the academies. The School of Shammai says: “You should not convert Maaser Sheni silver into gold denarii,” but Hillel’s school allows it. Rabbi Akiva explains this: “I personally exchanged silver for gold for Rabban Gamaliel. denarii."

Anyone who wants to exchange church tithes for the village of Maaser-Sheni must, according to the Shammai school, turn the entire village into copper at once; according to the school of Hillel, - one of a shekel is turned into silver, and another into copper. (In Jerusalem it was forbidden to change silver for silver, and even more so for copper.) Those who participated in the debate along with the wise men (?) decided: three denarii can be converted into silver, and the last denarius into copper. Rabbi Akiva says: “Three denarii are in silver, and part of the fourth is in copper.” Rabbi Tarfon says: “The selah should be placed on the counter and eaten, how much for it will give (without resorting to exchange).”

“If someone, along with ritually clean household members, also has unclean ones, then he (buying a jug of wine with maaser-sheni money) puts it in the village and says: “What drink clean, so that this village may be profaned." Thanks to this, the clean get the opportunity to drink from the same jug as the unclean” (tract. Maaser-sheni). “You cannot buy offerings with maaser-sheni (sacrificial) money; but rabbi Simon allows, if Maaser Sheni money is allowed to buy peaceful sacrifices, then why can’t you buy offerings with them?” “If anyone in Jerusalem needs Maaser Sheni money for outsiders expenses, and his neighbor has food hulin (free), then he can tell this to the latter: “Let this money be profaned by your products.” Thanks to Therefore, he can spend the money in clubs for his needs; your neighbor can eat his own products transformed into pure ones. Such an agreement cannot be had with an Amgaaret, i.e., with a laborer, unless the money itself is not real Maaser-Sheni, but demai, i.e. ordinary” (tract. Maaser-Sheni).

“If he has the products of clubs in Jerusalem, but the sacrificial money remains in provinces, then he can say: “That money will be profaned by these products." If he has masser-sheni money, that is, sacrificial money, then he can say: “Let this money be in clubs for those products.” In this case, he will have to take the food to Jerusalem and eat it here. Sacrificial money can go to Jerusalem enter and exit; But the products of the offering may enter Jerusalem, but not come out. can" (tract. Maaser-sheni).

“If finished products are transported through Jerusalem: grapes in baskets destined for the winepress, or figs in baskets destined for drying, then in the opinion of the Sham-May school, the maaser-sheni from them should also be returned to Jerusalem for eaten, and according to the school of Hillel, it can be bought and eaten at anywhere. If an offering purchased with money is defiled, it must be bought out. Rabbi Judah says: it must be buried in the ground. They objected to him: if It is permissible to redeem the offering itself in case of desecration, then even more so to redeem You can buy tithes or sacrifices with money in case of desecration. He replied: “It can be redeemed at a long distance; and bought for money an offering cannot be redeemed at a long distance if it remains clean.”

this seems to be read in the Russian Talmud for Christians, when in this confusion they themselves Jews are non-specialists and will not understand anything. G. Pereferkovich presents this as valuable sublimity of the Talmud. 1 32

Borrowed from the 1st volume of the Talmud, ed. Soikina.

This is the philosophy and commerce of the learned Talmudists, to what subtlety and madness they interpret and argue! In the first section, speaking about the origin of the Talmud, we mentioned that at the end of II century in Palestine the first collection of laws called "Mishna". At the beginning of the 3rd century. other, shorter meetings were made, which amounted to as if additions to the “mishnah”, called “boraita” and “tozefota”. In these collections contain the most contradictory views of the ancient rabbis, most partly without a definite decision to follow in religious practice. About 220 A.D., in Babylonia, as is said, two the great rabbinical academies that existed until the half of the 11th century. In these academies until the end of the 5th century they were exclusively engaged in the explanation and development of collected laws, interpreting the regulations contained therein and newly introduced religious issues. These academies throughout their existence were constantly at odds with each other. If one explained any Talmudic syllogisms and drew their conclusion that this, for example, is light; another academy, on the contrary, tried to prove that this is not light, but darkness. Therefore in The Talmud contains many gross, senseless and incongruous contradictions, opposing opinions and unresolved questions, so that everyone can clearly see that the very essence of the Talmud rests on false foundations, and the most opposite opinions are found in it one next to the other. Some of the wisest rabbis, completely entangled in syllogisms, in this bottomless labyrinth, themselves They called the Talmud a Babylonian confusion of languages. The rabbis subsequently tried also make extracts from the Talmud and thus establish certain codes of laws; but thanks to these worries the matter became even more confused and became more complicated, because they could not help but introduce fanatical intolerance into the question. But since during these labors the rabbis, so that, as they put it, “in the labyrinth Talmudic forest to pave straight paths", followed various methods and principles, and the results, naturally, came out different. Despite all efforts rabbinical schools to protect the Talmudic law with a strong fence, to preserve it inviolable, disagreements between schools became more and more intensified and more and more often turned into personal rivalry between teachers and interpreters of the Talmud.

Chapter 2

Rabbi Yochanan's School

The most famous after the fall of Jerusalem was the school founded in Jamnia by Rabbi Johan. His disciple, Gamaliel, grandson of the great Gamaliel, expels him from Jamnia, persecutes his successor, Eliezer, quarrels with Rabbi Akiva until, finally, he himself loses his place. "Wake up “at the hearth of the teachers,” says Eliezer, “but do not get burned by their coals, for their bite is the bite of a fox, their sting is the sting of a scorpion, their hissing is the hissing of a dragon.” More vital and fresher than the scholastic precepts of rabbinic wisdom - the codification of which, later formed by the Talmud, was initiated by Rabbi Akiva - those works of Jewish literature of the 1st and 2nd centuries that were inspired by the fall of Jerusalem and all the disasters that followed. Despair and the grief of the Jewish people is expressed with force, sometimes reminiscent of the great prophets from the time of the Babylonian captivity. Most of these works were written in Rome and many other places.

The Talmud not only is not shy about contradictions, but, on the contrary, elevates them to a principle, into a dogma, that is not at all contrary to the truth, but only develops it. According to ordinary human concepts, two positions are mutually contradictory, mutually destroyed; in the Talmud it is not so: they both remain equivalent, and this is how he argues about it: "Although one rabbi says one thing, but another is different - their words, nevertheless, are the words of God."[1]

1Talmud, tract. Gitin, L. 6, art. 2.

Some rabbis claim that the thing is pure; others, on the contrary, are not pure; some prohibit it, others allow it; some prove that it is fair, others that it is unjust, nevertheless one must believe that God speaks equally with the mouth both of them1 .

Chapter 3

Halakha and Haggadah, two types of instructive works

With such a concept and contradictions, it is not surprising that the Talmud arose a special way of argumentation, the representatives of which are "halakhah" and "Haggadah", two types of instructive works, of which the first actually interprets the law, and the other explains it with examples. These interpretations are guided by according to Maimonides, 13 rules of argumentation, transmitted to posterity by Moses, who himself received them from God on Mount Sinai. But the scholastic logic of these rules Most of all, it is consistent with the personal arbitrariness and fantasy of interpreters, who, depending on the need, accept the words of the original either literally or figuratively sense and give the letter of the law any meaning. For the most convenient achievement For this purpose, in the hands of the rabbis there is another, very strange way of interpretation, which consists in explaining a given word through its constituent letters. This is done either by replacing the letters of a word with other letters, which is called "temura", or by replacing a given word with other words starting with these letters, which is called "notarikon", or, finally, by explaining the word according to its numerical value its constituent letters. In this way, Rabbi Jonnai proves that God gave Moses 49 ways to declare a thing clean, and the same number to declare it unclean. The Talmud boasts that rabbis can make 300 objections to such a clause teaching, the clarity of which is obvious2 ; and in the book "Yalkut Hadash" there is even this the opinion that the book of the law was given without signs of pronunciation, so that each word could be interpreted in 70 different ways. 1

Truck. Hagiga, L. 3, p. 2.

2Ivamot, l. 16, art. 1.

If at the same time we remember another saying of the Talmud, which reads: "You should not repeat orally what is committed to writing, without transmitting in writing what belongs oral teaching"[1] -then the boundless field of Talmudic interpretations will appear us in all its immensity, in all its lawlessness and arbitrariness. There will probably be defenders who will deny this and argue that the Talmud recognizes the logical law of contradiction; that the halacha and haggadah in their interpretations are quite reasonable, that Notarikon and Gematria have long been forgotten.

Talmudic legend places Rabbi Akiva on a pedestal that could not be achieved none of the halakhists rise. She says that the Lord God spends before Adam generation after generation with his learned representatives. Adam doesn't pay none of them received any attention until Akiva's generation came along. On The last one caught the attention of Adam, who expressed his sorrow to the Lord about death of Akiva (the Romans skinned Akiva alive and then killed him).

Machine Translated by Google

Elsewhere, the legend forces the greatest of lawgivers - Moses - to express to the Lord God his deep regret that He did not give the Jews a law through Akiva, who is much higher than him, Moses. Even the angels, according to legend, are jealous of him and ask God to remove him from themselves; but the Lord answers them: “Leave this old man, he is worthy to enjoy the sight of My glory.”

In the haggadah, the Talmudists resolved questions about the universe, the supreme being, about modern knowledge of life and morality; everyone spent it there, what was supposed to lead Jewry forward and bring it closer to better ideals future. Those same Talmudists who, in halakhah, according to the requirements of the time, supported the banner of the law, hoisted a completely different banner in the haggadah, on which completely different demands appeared in bright colors and were set completely other tasks.

1Tract. Gitin, L. 60, p. 2.

Talmudists criticized their own halakhah in the haggadah. What's in They established the halacha, but undermined it in the haggadah. Talmudists were critics of their their own thoughts and revolutionaries of their own order. They supported the people at the level of his worldview, and at school and outside of it they handed out a misleading the incessant voice of the Haggadah, in which the mystical teaching developed, filled endlessly new influences and contradictions between interpreters of various and endless theorems. But if

in the same book hundreds of adjectives preach honesty and peace, and hundreds of others - deception and enmity, then doesn't this prove that the Talmud is like the legislative collection of such sayings gives their followers complete the right to choose for leadership, who wants anything? This is the inevitable conclusion simple logic, which cannot be argued against and to which even the most Talmud. Here are his words: “Having no reason to attach more importance to the opinion of one side than the other, I must conform to the decision that is for me more favorable" [1] and “he who obeys the words of the first party does as well as and he who obeys the words of another" [2]. This is the attitude of Talmudic logic to all the contradictions of the Talmud. In case of any extreme confusion the Jew exclaims “Teiko!” The word "teiku" was formed from the original letters the following phrase: “Tishbi (Elijah the prophet) will resolve questions and confusion.” When Talmudists will become confused in their scholasticism when the questions to be resolved, syllogisms and comparisons of contradictory Talmudic theorems become angry until insoluble dilemma, then this Gordian knot is cut with the word “teiku”: have patience until the coming of the prophet Elijah. An example of the most glaring contradictions the famous Jewish writer Maimonides serves in his commentaries, so contradicting himself, that by reading him one can believe that he is a freethinker, then be considered an ardent admirer of the Talmud, convinced of its great authority and holiness.

1 Tract. Shulchan Aruch - Choshen Hamish, ch. 75 and 83

2 Tract. Berakhot, l. 27, page 1.

As for the use of the Talmud by Jews in general, German Jews are engaged in preferably the Bible, and the Talmud is learned mostly from biblical interpretations; The French are the most indifferent to the Talmud. As for

Machine Translated by Google

Polish Jews, then Friedlander says that then only it is possible to expect from them moral improvement when they fall behind the study of the Talmud, which devoted with extraordinary diligence and passion.

Enthusiastic praise of the Talmud is heard even from leading Jews, for example, Society for Jewish Education in Russia. The Talmud, they say, is a monument progressive aspirations in the religious history of the Jews (Library of the Jews, vol. V, art. “The Jewish Question and the Interests of Russia”). “Bible students do good work and not kind; those who study the Mishnah do something worthy of reward; but a student of the gemara does a job that no other can compare to"[1].

“There is no peace for those who return from studying the Talmud to studying the Bible”[2]. To challenge your rabbi is to challenge God himself. . and "breaking words" scientists of Israel are guilty of death"[4], “for the words of these scholars are more worthy of attention than words of the law of Moses"5 . “Although sometimes rabbis contradict each other, nevertheless least of all their words are the words of God . ”6 In the supplementary treatise to the Talmud under the name “Mesechet-abot” (saying of the fathers) says: “Three things hold civil society, that is, light: by learning, religion and good deeds. How more knowledge, more life; the more teaching, the more information. Let there be a home yours is forever open, and let the poor be your household,” etc.

---

1 Bova-mecia, l. 33, p. 1. 2 Trakt.
Hagiga, L. 10, art. 1. 3 Tract. Sanhedrin,
l. 110, art. 1. 4 Tract. Eruvin, L. 22, art. 2. 5
Ibid. 6 Tract. Gitin, L. 6, p. 2.

And next to this, the Talmud preaches that members of the Sanhedrin should elect only those who are able to imagine the unclean as clean, despite the law (tract. Sanhedrin). “By impudence one can act against God himself”, “spread out an ignoramus, how fish, that is, a Gamurian Jew, so that the operation begins from the back”; “Take the skin off someone else and get something”[2]: these are the principles preached Talmud. Yehuda Halevi, a 12th century writer, author of Sefer Khozri, admitted that in The Talmud contains so many amazing and self-contradictory passages that he could not otherwise explain this to yourself as the illegibility with which compilers tried, with their eyes closed, after Yehuda Haqadosh to describe everything related to the law and memorize word for word even when you didn’t understand a single iota of what described and learned by heart (“Sefer-khozri”).

Chapter 4

Contradictions Maimonides

The greatest authority of Jewish learning, called the “Eagle of the Synagogue,” Maimonides, says the following about the duty of the Talmud: “Everything that is contained in The Talmud of Babylonia, obligatory for all Jews, for the entire teaching of the Talmud was recognized by the people of Israel, and its learned compilers were the successors of the tradition that was preserved from Moses to them" (Yad-Hazaka, in the preface). But Maimonides very sharply contradicts the general spirit and teaching of the Talmud. Maimonides deduces the unity and incorporeality of God based on one’s imagination and scientific data; he explains the expressions of the Bible “the face of Adonai, the finger of Adonai, the wrath of Adonai,” etc. as an allegory. Jehovah must not be given human properties, places or substances, right and left hands, front and back, sitting and standing, the same attributes of time, life, emotional unrest, etc. 1 Tract. Sanhedrin.

2 Tract. Psokhim.

The teaching of the Talmud, on the contrary, materializes Adonai very materially and with the sensory side, namely: Adonai cries, is sad and is happy that he sits and lies down, studies the Talmud and plays with Leviathan, which is what we have shown in detail in the chapter on

God. Maimonides divides all creations into destructible and indestructible (angels); the latter are, at the same time, incorporeal beings. Maimonides admits the existence of nine spheres located one above the other. The earth is placed in the center and all spheres and constellations have life and consciousness; know God, angels, have self-awareness. The human soul is attached to the body, but it is incorporeal, and after the death of the body becomes completely independent. Maimonides further says in his in the work of Yad-Chazak, that the study of philosophy can be the lot of a few. If If everyone wanted to devote themselves to this science, the human race would perish in a short time. The writings of Maimonides on all branches of human knowledge are so contradictory that, reading one, you might think that you are dealing with a freethinker, while in another In his writings, he is an ardent admirer of the Talmud. Putting him at the level of greatness authority and reading some of the more intelligent writings of Maimonides, the Hasidim they claim that he repented of his heresy before his death.

Maimonides' anger against Christians is so great that he, forgetting the seven commandments Noah, declares that “a Christian should not differ from the pagans.” Maimonides, imbued with ardent fanaticism, zealously expresses his readiness to exterminate everyone at once Gentiles, which, in his opinion, would be very useful for Jewry. Talmud says that only the Israelites, like the descendants of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, with whom God entered into a covenant, obligated to fulfill the laws of Moses; for others it's enough fulfillment of the seven commandments of Noah, which are: 1) do not serve idols, 2) do not blaspheme God, 3) do not kill, 4) do not rob or steal, 5) do not commit fornication and violence, 6) do not eat member and in general meat torn from a living animal, 7) live according to the laws, have judges, courts, etc. The Talmudic treatise Avoyedezura says that if anyone accepted these seven commandments and keeps them, then it is called “Ger-Toshab” (settled guest); in a relationship A Jew must behave towards Ger-Toshab as he would towards his fellow Jew. But Maimonides, carried away by fanaticism, forgets himself, contradicts the Talmud and sometimes to himself: he not only allows Christians to be deceived and harmed, but teaches to exterminate and kill all Gentiles for the benefit of Judaism.

Chapter 5

Gamaliel the Rabbi Teacher of St. Paul

However, some rabbis, contrary to the teachings of the Talmud, despite their religiosity and attachment to the faith of their ancestors, paid tribute to Christ and Christianity. Among these we include Gamaliel, who was partly the teacher of St. Paul[1], who was not prevented by rabbinism from nobly defending the apostles. Jewish historian Josephus spoke brilliantly about Jesus Christ and John Baptist[2]. Also the learned Rabbi John Levi, who lived in the second half of the 18th century. V London, in his apology for Judaism, says the following about Christianity: “Christ preached a morality that should give the human race strong social natural ties. Most of today's Jews know how to appreciate and respect his teachings. His teaching is worthy of deep respect mainly because it is different love, forbearance, meekness, humility and lack of feelings of revenge.” Another authority, important in the synagogue, falls into the following contradiction. He says[3] : “Small children (Jewish) even touch food, do not having washed their hands, they do no harm; because a complete soul appears in a man (Jew) only when he reaches 13 years and one day, which means that where there is no complete soul, evil spirits do not settle there, for children, even if they touch food supplies, do not harm, i.e. e. they do not transmit evil spirits to foodstuffs through touch, therefore, evil spirits do not reside in minors and have no power.

over minors".

1 Acts 22, 3 2

See his Archaeology, book. 23, ch. 33, p. 876, as well as book. 23, ch. 5, pp. 883, ed. 1726

3 Oirach Chaim, ch. 4, l. 15.

But since at the birth of a baby, according to the teachings of the Talmud, a talisman is used “shir-gamailis”, to protect the baby from evil spirits or Satan, then with this This is what destroys the teachings of Oirach Chaim, which says that children who do not have full of soul, the evil spirit does not touch. Further: “If a non-believer reads the toire, that is, the law, he is subject to the death penalty[1] ; and in another place it says: “If any If a non-Christian is familiar with the scripture, i.e., with the toire, then it should be considered along with high priest"[2]

The Talmudists teach: “The whole universe and its works were created only for the Jew, who, as God's favorite, possesses the highest heavenly riches and should therefore, neglect insignificant earthly goods. The Jewish nation, although distributed throughout the globe, is still considered the chosen one and should not merge with other peoples. Every Jew is appointed by God to be a missionary and teacher of other nations, who, sooner or later, all without exception recognize him great teaching; Until this blissful time comes, the generous mentor has the right consider everyone as beings subordinate to him, like all nature, created by God for his “use and good.” There is not a single question not only in terms of religion, but also in terms of social life, which the Talmud would pass over in silence, which is why they are always disagreements and quarrels between Talmudic teachers.

1 Tract. Sanhedrin, l. 59. 2 Tract.

Awoide-Zura, l. 3, page 1; tract. Sanhedrin, 58, building 1.

About medicine, for example, we find the following: whoever wants to preserve his health the stomach, says the Talmud, should be divided into three parts and, filling two of them, the third should always be left empty': Excessive consumption of food burdens stomach. Since the stomach, the Talmud continues, can be burdened from being overly cool food, then such dishes can be dissolved in liquid, i.e. consumed drink, but not often. The Talmud advises to rest after the meal, but again not immediately fall onto the bed, and first make a light movement, for example, walk slowly near the bed, at a distance of 4 arshins. Do not do it being irritated after eating also interferes with digestion[2] .

Since the Talmud was composed at different times and wherever Jews lived, then the spirit of the time and the views of the then non-Jewish philosophical writers could not help affect him too. Therefore, often next to the Talmudic treatise, for-containing purely biblical teaching, one can also find a treatise that echoes the spirit, for example, of Greek philosophy; and various teachings clothed in allegorical tales and fables, and such tales as were usually invented only idle childish imagination. All this happened because many rabbis in compiling the Talmud they used foreign human wisdom, which mixed with their religious fanatical teaching. That it is so, enough point to their doctrine of the creation of the world.

Machine Translated by Google

Regarding the primeval matter that supposedly served to form world, the teaching of the Talmud has some similarities in views with materialistic Greek schools of ancient periods, as can be seen from the recognition of the existence, before the present world, of water, fire and wind. Water created darkness, fire created light, and the wind is the spirit of wisdom. Thus, according to Sanchoniaton, Phoenician cosmogony recognizes air and chaos are the original essence, from the union of which, according to love attraction arose: the original silt - the globe - and the guardians of the sky - the heavenly vault with its luminaries. In its discussion of creation itself, the Talmud fully recognizes and gradual development of "space". Modern Jewish progressives with a special enthusiastically grasp at such ideas regarding the creation of the world. 1 Talmud, tract. Broches. 2 See the teachings of Rabbi Rambam.

They say that it was very natural for the world to be created, not suddenly, not at six days, but over a very long period of time; “or maybe even that,” they continue they say that the days of God were not like the days of men.” Holy Bible tells us that one day of God is equal to 1000 of our years, which allows us to think that our world was formed over several thousand years. The Talmud says that God created worlds after worlds and destroyed them one by one, until finally he created a real world that I found quite satisfactory. In confirmation of his opinions The Talmud quotes the words of Holy Scripture: “And God saw that everything he had done was very good.” It was then that he said: “I like this world, but not the previous ones.” "Target the creation of the world was that,” says the Talmud, “to apply the law of circumcision to the work.”

According to the Talmud, the Lord created man not all from earth, and not all from heaven, but from both together, so that there is a harmonious connection between heaven and earth...

Chapter 6

Rabbi Rashi interpreter

The interpreter of the Pentateuch of Moses, Rabbi Rashi, adds to what has just been given, that the Creator took the earth to create man not from one place, but from everything on earth ball so that in the event of death, no matter where it befalls him, a person knows that he is not in a foreign land, but on his own land, for there is a particle of it in him.

“One man was created last; even a mosquito - and that one is older than him origin,” says the Talmud, to prove to man that the life of every an individual person is worth the whole world and that every individual has the right to say: “The world was created for my sake,” etc. 1 Treatise Shabbes, l. 142, p. 2. God created the first man bisexual (germaphroditus) and when Adam was alone it was not good and he noticed the difference between the sexes in animals, he began to deeply feel the severity of loneliness; then God first brought animals to him, and then, when these helpers were not pleasing to Adam, He created Eve for him, braided her hair and began with dance with her, and so on...

Rashi, commenting on the book of Genesis, touching on the story of Adam and Eve, says the following: “The tempting serpent had no other reason to enter into a conversation with Eve other than temptation; since the serpent was the most cunning of all the animals in paradise, then therefore, he could especially be capable of succumbing to sexual desire, seeing chaste relationship between Adam and Eve. That's why the snake became not indifferent to Eve, but tried to have an intimate conversation with her in private.” In his commentary on Lot and his wife, Rashi says: “Lot’s wife was turned into a column of salt precisely as punishment for the fact that she refused out of stinginess to the poor in giving bread and salt." The commentator goes on to explain why Lot once made his daughters pregnant, says that this was facilitated they themselves, because they gave themselves voluptuous poses, etc. Commenting on Chapter V, Art. 7, book. Genesis, he quotes the following passage from Sanhedrin (l. 108): “When Noah released a raven from the ark to find out if the earth was dry, then the raven circled near the ark and did not want to fly further, so that Noah would not have intercourse with his girlfriend.” Explaining the words of the Bible in the story of Abraham, where it says what he said To Sarah: “I know that you are beautiful,” Rashi explains from the midrash haggadah where Abraham is from He knew this: chance helped him. Commentator Sifsihahomim conveys what it was like happening. Abraham and Sarah had to ford a river, and when it rose her clothes, then he saw that she was a beauty... Rashi continues that, having made sure of Abraham became so jealous of Sarah's beauty that he often even hid her in chests; so, moving to Egypt, he hid Sarah in a chest at the border, and when the Egyptians came to inspect Abraham's wealth, they opened the chest and found Sarah and they saw that she was beautiful. Rashi leads from the tract. "Bova-metsi": When there are three angels came to Abraham, the Bible says that Abraham ran to them; why did he run when they stood near him? Since the angels saw that Abraham was tying and ties his recently circumcised penis, then they leave; and how Abraham saw that The angels were moving away from him, so he ran after them...

To the tract. "Bova-Metzia", l. 87, speaking of the biblical words that “Abraham took a young, beautiful and fat calf,” indicates that the Talmud interprets these three qualities of a calf in that they mean three calves, and not one, so that each angel it was on the tongue for seasoning with mustard... Then Rashi continues to give an explanation those words in the Bible where it is said that Abraham brought butter, milk and cooked veal; but why is there no mention of bread there? "Because Sarah at that time she was unwell with a periodic illness, and therefore the bread that she baked, he was filthy...” From the treatise “Shvues”, l. 38, Rashi cites the following: Abraham, sending Eleazar to find a bride for his son Isaac, demanded that Eleazar pre-oath, “but since this ritual requires holding some shrine in one’s hands, Abraham, being the first excircumcisionis, gave Eleazar to hold in hands during the rite of oath suum penis, like a shrine...” Regarding the question of where the king came from Abimelech learned that Rebekah was Isaac's wife and not his sister, Rashi says that Abimelech saw their “marital copulation...” The reason for Isaac’s blindness in Rashi’s old age interprets that “at the time of Abraham’s sacrifice of Isaac, when the latter was lying tied on the altar, and Abraham was about to kill him, then suddenly the heavens opened, and Isaac saw the angels crying; at the same time their Tears fell into Isaac's eyes..."

Commenting on Ch. XXV, art. 22. the book of Genesis, where it is said about Rebekah: “The sons in they were fighting in her belly,” etc. - Rashi says that, according to rabbinical teaching, this does not mean that they fought among themselves, but only wanted to run out; for example when she walked past the doors of a pagan temple, then Esau rushed out, and when she walked past doors of the Jewish synagogue - Jacob was eager and wanted to leave.

Machine Translated by Google

Before the time of Patriarch Jacob, every person who had to sneeze died. Because of Jacob’s prayer to God, he himself did not die from sneezing, and Since then, other people have stopped dying from it. This is where the custom comes from say to someone who is sneezing: “Be healthy.” It is not appropriate to say this greeting during food so that the one who eats does not choke. At first after the meeting of the Talmud, the Jews did not know the extent of their praise for him, and everything it says was taken literally. Jewish rabbis and teachers of the law argued that if in the traditions of the Talmud the right hand is called the left, and the left right, then even then one must believe this unconditionally, for, according to the teachings of the Talmud, the rabbis of all ages have the same meaning before God and before the world. Therefore, in our time there is a doctrine among the Jews according to which the words of the rabbis have the meaning of words Divine. The Great Rabbi Menachem taught in 1200 A.D. [2] , that the Lord is God even orders to seek the advice of rabbis on earth if any dispute arises regarding the law in heaven. Book of the Jews from 1590 [3] says: "You must to know that the words of the rabbis are sweeter than the words of the prophet.” Elsewhere in the same book[4] is written: “The ordinary conversation of rabbis should be held in the same reverence as the Bible.” Another important rabbi and authority on Talmudic dogma, Behai 5, teaches: “The words rabbis - the words of the living God." It goes on6 to say: “When a rabbi tells you, you don’t must contradict his words, at least he called your right hand left, and left right, because while he spoke the words, your right hand became your left, and left right." Maimonides in his work Yad-Chazaka teaches: “Fear of a rabbi is the fear of God.” 1 Talmud of Jerusalem, l. 10, pp. 1 2 Pentat, ch. 28, l. 129.

3 Kapht. irp., l. 121.
4 Mid. Misehie, L. 1, ed. Venice, 1546 5 Book of Pentate, sec. 44, l. 201, chapter 4.
6 Rasphi Dent. 17.11; Rabb. Lipmann Niz, sec. 166.

The Talmud, in general terms, states the same thing that we read in later rabbis: “Whoever,” he says, “opposes his rabbi or teacher, who leads with him dispute and whoever rebels against it commits an act exactly the same as if he resisted God’s greatness, argued with God and rebelled against Him.” Talmud tells that dead rabbis are always in heaven, teaching other living in the land of the rabbis. Since the rabbis do not always agree with each other and in the most The Talmud contains constant contradictions and terrible errors in chronology, then the famous Rabbi Menachem, already mentioned by us, makes up for this deficiency in in his extensive work, proving that “all the words of all the rabbis, even if they were among themselves and disagree should have the same meaning as words prophets and the word of God. And if anyone opposes them, he rebels against God.” Almost all Jewish books also state that “the words of the rabbis come from heaven.” Therefore, whoever laughs at these words will be cast into hell and boil in tar.

Chapter 7

Characteristics of the Talmudic schools of Hillel and Shammai

Developing his positions in the audience or outside, and in the Sanhedrin itself, Hillel was distinguished by an inimitable spirit of peace. Even later, when he entered the Sanhedrin the great representative of the opposite direction - Shammai, who formed also a special school, Hillel was alien not only to passion in debate, but also to everything anything that would indicate irritability in tone, a desire to offend or kill the enemy. He often yielded to his opponents when they gave in too passionate a turn. There were also such examples: when Hillel, wishing in disputes to put an end to the passionate attacks of the main enemy, the appearance was already showing compliance, when suddenly the most gifted of opponents with great strength and ardor begins to defend Hillel's view, which is accepted by everyone and done dominant. Hillel owed such victories to the professed and the preached principle that "the teacher should not be irritable, and the student should not be shy." Both of these traits are so closely related that one of them causes another. There was no one who could make Hillel lose patience. In that In this regard, several legends have been preserved in the Talmud. Two people bet on the possibility or impossibility of bringing Hillel out of patience. The one who claimed that this was possible appeared at Hillel's door and began to shout, omitting any title: "Hillel, hey, Hillel!" Hillel threw on his robe and left. "My son, what you need?" - he asks. "I have a question". - "Tell me which one?" - "Why Do the Babylonians have spherical heads? - "Because they don't have skilled grandmothers." The man left, but immediately returned and began shouting again: "Hillel, hey, Hillel!" Hillel put on his robe again and left. "What do you want, my son?" - "I have a question!" - "Which?" - "Why don't Palmyreans have wide eyes?" - "Because they live in the sandy steppes." The man left, but after a short time again found himself at Hillel's door shouting: "Hillel, hey, Hillel!" Hillel put it on again put on his robe, went out and asked what he needed. "Why do Africans have wide Feet?" - "Because they live in swampy countries." The man continued: "U I still have a lot of questions, but I'm afraid you'll get angry." Hillel pulled it tighter took his robe, stood in front of him and asked him to ask questions. But the man objected: "You, Hillel, it would be better if there were no others like you." - "Why?" - "Because because of you I lost a big bet." "Calm down, my son," he said. Hillel, it is better if you lose this and other similar bets than if Hillel lost his patience." In addition, Hillel was an enemy of asceticism: he believed Sociability and living among others are the main basis of human life. He could not imagine a person who lives only for himself, and not for others.

When leaving the classroom, Hillel was always in a hurry and told his students that he was in a hurry home to receive a guest. When the listener, after frequent repetitions of the same thing But, curious to find out what kind of guest this was, the sage answered: "Our soul, which is with us today, and tomorrow, perhaps, it will no longer be." Hillel, therefore, took care of his soul every day, receiving it as a dear guest, so that when it left its monastery it would retain a good memory of its host-host! Hillel's meekness in dealing with people, his patience in listening to them, his calm, objective method of teaching - attracted to him all those pagans who were repelled by Shammai, Hillel's opponent in direction, who was distinguished completely opposite qualities: impatience, irritability and hot temper. Hillel's direction aroused a whole school of followers; a representative of the opposite direction, Shammai, also founded a school during life of the first. Both schools differed from each other in spirit and method of interpretation law. The school of Shammai stood on the basis of the literal meaning of the law, even if only contradicted both reason and living conditions. The school of Hillel studied the ancient law in spirit and its reason, based on conditions of the time of its occurrence, on the comparison of various passages of scripture, on logical and historical interpretation of the law. The Shammai school only deviated from the written law when it had Moreover, the basis is in a positively expressed tradition; Hillel's school is not

Machine Translated by Google

was embarrassed by deviations from the written law, since they turned out to be necessary in force of popular needs and when possible through established rules draw a conclusion from the written law in the spirit of modern needs and popular morality. The Shammai school, for example, adheres to the surviving tradition that forty days before birth, a person’s marriage destiny is already determined in heaven - she argued that the bonds of marriage are sanctified by the will of God, and therefore allowed divorce only in exceptional cases. Hillel's school expanded the conditions for divorce, arguing that the essence of the law is to achieve reasonable goals in life and family morality, and then the restriction of the school of Shammai can lead to the introduction of demoralization in family life. The conditions of the modern family provide quite a satisfactory answer to the question which of these two schools guessed the true needs of married life; even the worst enemies of the Jews stand for purity of morals family life, despite the expansion of divorce conditions or, more correctly, thanks to exactly these conditions. Both of these schools were sharply opposite directions in all matters competed and opposed each other, even sometimes with great harm to the common Jewish cause, not only religiously, but also politically. Subsequently, when the Jews became a Roman province, when over the Jewish the cloud of Roman destruction hung over the people, and among the Jewish parties a party of people's zealots was formed - the direction of the schools of Shammai and Hillel takes on a more passionate character. The school of Shammai pesters the party of zealots, its the direction takes on a political character, rebellious against the Romans; school Hillel remains faithful to the great principles of her teacher, inspired by a love of peace and truth. By placing these principles above others imbued with a narrow national spirit, Hillel's school stood above all the hobbies of the time. In this way she served the people service: while the passion of the trends and the passion for the spirit of rebellion brought Judea to complete destruction in the political sense, the teachings of Hillel and his schools served as a bulwark against the enslavement of the national spirit. Hillel lived 70 years before R. X. and 10 years after R. X.; he was originally a Galilean.

In conclusion, let us give a few more words about the differences in the teachings of both schools. “A hole in a vineyard that is allowed for sowing must have,” according to school Shammai, -24 cubits, and according to the school of Hillel - 16 cubits.” “Five vines planted in a row” are considered, according to the school of Shammai, to be a vineyard, and according to the school of Hillel, a vineyard there must be at least two rows. On the Sabbath year, the field that was under the clearing was not must be sown after this year. According to the teachings of Shammai, the works This field cannot be eaten during the Sabbath year itself, but according to Hillel it is possible. According to the school of Shammai, one cannot pay for the fruits gathered in someone else's field during the Sabbath year. a service, and according to Hillel, you can pay with a service. When an oil plantation is damaged (from density) (in the Sabbath year), according to the teachings of Shammai, the plants are cut off (leaving the root), and according to the school of Hillel, they are removed by the roots (pulled out).

In the Sabbath year, it is permissible to train an ox to plow someone else’s field, but so that the furrows are spaced apart from one another. Rabbi Abba Saul says: “Firewood in the forest they cut down, leaving tree roots in the ground; but you should chop not with an ax, but with another instrument" (?). Since when is it forbidden to cut down trees on the Sabbath year? The school of Shammai teaches: from the time they bear fruit; and according to the teachings of Hillel, horns - since begin to curl; grapes - how the grains are discovered, and olives - with flowering time.

Machine Translated by Google

Arum (plant) of the sixth year, which also captured the Sabbath year, as well as summer onion and madder, according to the Shammai school, are dug with wooden shovels, and according to Hillel - with ordinary metal shovels.

The school of Shammai prohibits the sale of a working ox on the Sabbath year, but Hillel allows it, because it is possible that it was bought for slaughter. Rabbi

Judah believes that “the offering (tithe) set aside for minors which has not yet shown a pair of hairs (?) (as a sign of maturity), is not considered offering, if the one who brought it has not yet reached the capacity (12 years and one day).”

Since when is tithe taken from the winepress (wine)? - From the time when (the workers) walked along and across it. From when can it be desecrated? By the teaching of Shammai, from the time the first tithe was taken. Rabbi Judah says: “Although the opinion of the school of Shammai is more correct, the majority act according to the opinion Hillel, and the sages say: as soon as you have taken out the tithe, you can desecrate sharpener."

If anyone sets aside grapes as a offering for grapes for food, or grenades, as a reward for grenades intended for sale, then the reward Indeed, it is not necessary to separate it a second time. Rabbi Eleezer says: “The School of Shammai maintained that we should separate the exaltation is secondary, but the school of Hillel is, on the contrary, that there is no need to separate again.”

If anyone has black and white figs at home, as well as two varieties of wheat, then he can tithe one kind of product after another. Rabbi Isaac says: "At school Shammai, you can’t give tithes like that, but according to the school of Hillel, you can.”

This is what the rabbi believes, for the rabbi said: “Wine and vinegar are different things,” and the sages They say: “Wine and vinegar belong to the same genus.” Rabbi Ishmael said: “You can give wine for vinegar, but not vinegar for wine.”

If a sat of an impure offering falls within 100 sats of a pure offering, then this one, according to the school of Shammai, the mixture is prohibited for consumption, and according to the school Hillel, it is permitted. In the Talmud, disputes of this kind are endless. camel grass must be eaten immediately upon ripeness; as an offering, camel grass, according to the Shammai school, requires a state of ritual purity in all actions with it, except for rubbing the head; and according to Hillel’s school, all actions with it are permitted able to produce uncleanness.

Vetch (forage plant) of the elevation requires cleanliness when peeling and peeling, but you can feed cattle with it even if you are not in a state of ritual purity. Rabbi Akiva says: “With all of them, a state of ritual purity is not required.”

The writers of the Talmud, the rabbis, demand the same faith in contradictory your judgments. In the Talmud, the eternal disputes between the schools of Hillel and Shammai are known: is there any we are talking about a mosquito or a camel, unimportant or significant issues - the views of these the two schools are always different and opposed; however, the Talmud says: “Both of these glance are the words of God; What Shammai teaches, Hillel teaches the same . Sometimes by there are contradictions about the same subject in the Talmud; then the question is how you need to understand such passages, you get the answer[2] : All these are the words of God, and therefore you try to arrange your ears so that they can at the same time hear words that prohibit and command the same thing.” This means: since everything is a word God, then do what is more pleasant to your heart and how much more convenient for you. The Talmud teaches that having sinful thoughts is not disgusting to God, you just need to try to keep them secret[3] . “The word of Moses (Deut. 23:20),” says the rabbi Rabbi, there is a word that is obligatory for us.”[4] . The Talmud teaches: “Samuel said that the sages, talmid huchem, that is, learned Talmudists, can give money to each other on interest.”

A contradiction immediately appears: now it was said that the word of Moses is binding, in which Moses forbids taking interest or interest from a Jew, and suddenly after that another rabbi in the Talmud says that sages can give from themselves to each other money in growth. Why is this so? After all, they clearly see that growth between Jews prohibited by the law of Moses? The Talmudic sages found a way to answer: they interpret in their favor that the interest that one gives to another is a gift, and not usury. Samuel said to Abraham ben N., “Go and lend me 100 pounds of pepper for 120 pounds, as it is fair” (as a gift of gratitude). This treatise is not talks about permissible interest, since it is entitled “On the prohibition of interest,” which Moses gave for everyone, not excluding the rabbis.

1 Tract. Erubim, l. 13, p. 2. 2 Tract.
Hagiga, L. 3, p. 2. 3 Tract.
Hagiga, L. 16, p. 1; tract. Kiddush, l. 40, p.2. 4 Pesikta rab., l. 80, 3 Teze.

This treatise talks about unfair growth in relation to the use a borrowed thing, as the example of pepper shows; secondly, about the percentage too large, 20% of a hundred, and, thirdly, this treatise introduces sin by false play on the name percent as a gift title, whereas Moses clearly forbade the Jews to take from a Jew interest on the use of borrowed things, just as they are also prohibited there was also a secret interest. Not only do the Talmudic sages themselves contradict oppose the law of Moses, but even with this lesson they teach to fill the taste of children theirs. Rabbi Yehuda says that the Rabbi said: “It is permissible for a person (i.e., a Jew) to lend to children and his household as they grow, so that they may learn the pleasantness of growth"[1].

Chapter 8

Rabbis Abarbanel and Hans

Abarbanel does not hide the fact that the Jews do not understand the law of Moses as follows, and that Jews are allowed to take as much as possible from a foreigner percentage, but in his justification he adds: “Under the foreigners whom we permitted by the Law of Moses to plunder by exacting high interest rates, we we do not understand Christians, who are still before the Heavenly Father, in relation to Jews, not foreigners! But then the same great Abarbanel is his now explained the quoted words that Christians are not foreigners by what he expressed them so that Jews could live calmer and more peacefully, without troubles, between Christians2 .

To instill in the Jews a deep understanding of Christians as pagans, the Talmud says: “A goy who studies the law (i.e., Holy Scripture) is worthy of the death penalty”3 . suddenly then it says in the same place: “The goy who reads the Holy Scripture is equal to high priest."[4] The Talmud explains to us that in this case, under the Holy Scripture you need to understand the 7 commandments of Noah.

1 Tract. Bova Metzia, l. 75, p. 1. 2
Tract. Mark. Hamish, l. 77, 4 Teze. 3
Tract. Sanhedrin, l. 59, art. 1. 4
Tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 3, Art. 1.

Contradictions in the Talmud lead to the fact that a Talmudist can do anything deal as he pleases. The Bible makes it clear that when Abraham sent Eleazar to look for a wife for Isaac, then he definitely did not know Rebekah and did not have her in mind, and it is said that she carried water and herself talked and reasoned with Eleazar, as grown girl. From the description of St. history shows that she was not betrothed in childhood. IN In the Talmud, on the contrary, Rashi says that Isaac got married when Rebekah was three years old and one day. Similar kinds of contradictions are found among Talmudic teachers on almost every page.

Machine Translated by Google

Subsequently, obvious absurdities, of which there are so many in the Talmud, forced the most well-intentioned rabbis to turn to an allegorical explanation of fables and fictions contained in it. Maimonides, a representative of Jewish learning, extols the art of the rabbis in hiding the truth under the bark of a fable, the literal meaning which represents the height of absurdity.

In the 19th century, precisely from the 20s, in the Jewish world of Western Europe it began strong religious movement. Hans, one of Hegel's most gifted followers, who was a professor of law at the University of Berlin, began the scientific development monuments of the Jewish religion, conceived a radical transformation of Jewry, and, naturally, had to touch upon the foundations and sources of Jewish beliefs. The Talmud was the first to undergo his reformist knife. Destroy the binding force of the traditions of the Talmud, its countless, useless and petty rules that enveloped and bound the Jew in all paths of life from head to toe - to destroy their significance in the matter of faith - this is what the reformers proposed to their fellow believers. Then they touched the Bible itself and took that look at the law Moiseev that it had only a temporary meaning, which has now lost its power and obligation. At the same time, Jewish scholars developed a new view of Judaism; According to this view, the essence of the Jewish religion and Judaism consists in free disclosure of a person’s inner moral strength, in recognition human dignity and in the striving for constant self-improvement. But the attempt of Jewish scientists to radically transform Judaism has not yet made any progress. There weren't enough people prepared for radical changes in religion. Between the scientists themselves There were divisions and disagreements between the rabbis, and parties emerged. Some rabbis did not completely abandon the idea of transformations, but limited them to the most minor changes, and most importantly - did not encroach on the authority of hitherto recognized sources of Jewish doctrine and rituals. Hirsch, the head of the latter, saw in aspirations of progressive rabbis (reformers) humiliation for religion revelations. “Revelation and law are as obvious a fact as the existence of heaven and earth.” He recognizes as such a revelation the Bible, the Mishnah, and the entire tradition that developed before the time of Maimonides. Hirsch was joined by the rabbis of the former directions. Thus the Talmud is for the vast majority of the ignorant Jews still have authority and inviolability; dogma of immutability and the inviolability of Jewish law still prevails, all rituals remain in their strength, and with them fanaticism. Jewish reformers also appeared here in Russia. In Odessa for several years ago, at the opening of a Jewish school, some graduating rabbi said speech in which, among other things, he said: “The present time for the religion of the Jews is much better than the times of the kingdom of Judah, because then there were priests, priests, restricting the freedom of religious thought, but now they are gone, and everyone can think about the law of Moses, as he pleases. Thus, what was foretold by God as a punishment for the Jewish people is now considered by Jewish scholars to be good. But it is obvious that they are not the real Israelis, but those who shed their tears remnants of the stones of Solomon's Temple."

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 9

Reformer Mendelssohn

The most important reformer in the Jewish environment was Moses Mendelssohn, who died in 1786. He was a man remarkable for his learning and enjoyed general Jewish fame. He wrote the essay "Phaedo", a conversation about the immortality of the soul, which was translated into almost all languages. During this period, Jewish isolation in the West was almost destroyed, and the character Judaism there almost completely changed. This movement, although slow, is still ongoing. Let us point out here the names of leading figures of the said period: Mikhail Ber, Leon Halevi, Levi Weimar, Frank Salvador, Salvator Rosa, historian of the life of the Savior Mendessus Munch. One cannot help but fully sympathize with the ideas of these truly progressive people of the Jewish people.

Mendelssohn was the first of the Jews to whom Christian society treated with respect and whose friendship European scientists sought. His example forced German Jews to stop shunning European education. Previously, Jews were strictly prohibited from becoming acquainted with European education and reading works published by Christians. Although Mendelssohn paved the way for reform, it did not move forward quickly. Mendelssohn's main desire was to eliminate some religious abuses, give true meaning to rituals, and enable all Jews to read and understand the Bible. Mendelssohn translated the Bible into German and composed his own commentaries on it. His followers established schools to teach Jews European languages and introduced prayers and hymns in German into Jewish worship. In France, Mendelssohn's reform brought less benefit and could not be successfully adopted due to the unpreparedness of the mass of Jews for it.

Among the Jewish scholars of this time, as we said, Hans is known, one of Hegel's most gifted followers. He was a professor of law at the University of Berlin, known for developing monuments to the Jewish religion and creating a new science of Judaism. The newly created science focused on the most important and basic sources of Jewish beliefs. First of all, she drew attention to the main root of evil - the Talmud. The goal of the reformers was to destroy its binding force and undermine its significance among the Jews. Scientific criticism, developing the idea of the inconsistency of the Talmud for the Jews of the present time, at the same time did not spare the law itself, pointing out its temporary significance, which has now lost its force and bindingness, and shaking faith in the dogma of waiting for the Messiah as a conqueror. The reformers of Judaism wanted to create an abstract religion out of it, leaving only one idea from the previous beliefs. The German rabbis, who accepted new ideas and reforms, met for public meetings in various cities of Germany and founded societies for the reform of Judaism. The first meeting of rabbis with the aim of introducing reforms was in 1835 in Wiesbaden, then in 1844 in Braunschweig and Breslau. There are now two societies pursuing this goal: one in Frankfurt am Main, the other in Berlin.

The attempts and aspirations of the reformers to transform Judaism with a renunciation of its previous foundations and forms have not yet been completely successful. Returning to their places of service, the rabbis often abandoned their new views - for fear of losing the trust and respect of the masses of their fantastic, rude people. In addition, disagreements and divisions appeared in the society of the rabbis of the new direction. Parties of Reform rabbis and New Orthodox rabbis were formed. That is why all the noble aspirations of the learned reformers remained fruitless, justifying the Russian proverb: “Strength breaks straw.” However

The Talmud still serves as an authority for the vast majority of Jews to this day; the rituals still remain the same, but nevertheless these attempts responded to the direction modern Jewish literature.

Since 1821, Jewish magazines with a new direction began to be published (“Time Book of Jewish Science” - “Zeitschrift sur Wissenschaft der Juden”), and compiled Society for the Education and Science of the Jews "Verein fur kultur und Wissenchaft der Juden"; "Uunivers Israelite", "Journal des principes concervateurs du judaisme". For the same purpose A society called the “World Jewish Brotherhood” was founded in France.

It is known that belief in the coming of the Messiah and the advent of his kingdom was completely developed and generally known among all Judaism long before Christ. This belief still belongs to the main dogmas of Judaism, it has entered into The 13 creeds compiled by Maimonides and accepted by all Jews are located in every Jewish prayer book. This belief is also deeply rooted in religious life of the Jews, such as faith in the unity of God, revelation, etc. Prayers for the sending down of the kingdom of the Messiah constitutes the content of most of the Jewish prayers. Despite everything, however, the Talmud contains an extremely contradictory saying one famous rabbi who clearly says that Jews should not expect no messiah; for, he says, the prophecies about this subject were already fulfilled in reign of Hezekiah1 .

Chapter 10

About the commandments of Noah

The rabbis claim that only the Israelites, as descendants of Abraham, with whom God entered into a covenant, they are obliged to fulfill the law of Moses, and all other nations, on the contrary, are obliged to keep only the seven commandments of Noah, as we cited above. 1 Khvolson, “On medieval accusations of the Jews,” p. 56.

The idolaters who kept the aforementioned seven commandments of Noah were called "Ger Toshab", i.e. foreigners, and acquired through the acceptance of these commandments right of residence in Palestine'. According to some rabbinic laws, they must in all respects to be placed alongside the Jews. The Talmud says: "Who called Ger-Toshab, he accepted these seven commandments of Noah. Rabbi Meir believes that one who has just renounced idolatry should also be considered Ger-Toshab.”[2] It goes on to say that “you must provide for the food of a pagan who has refused idolatry"3 . Every foreigner who accepted the seven commandments of Noah belongs to the pious nations and will receive eternal bliss4 . He is equal in all respects to Jewish citizens, can buy Jewish male and female slaves, and he needs to be helped, even supported and taken care of for his existence, as he is in needs it; he can not only acquire land and real estate in Palestine, but it should not even be bypassed when dividing the land, like natural Jew5 . “In relation to a fellow believer who fulfills the seven commandments Noah, one must behave in exactly the same way as in relation to an Israeli, as regarding the obligation to do charity, and regarding everything else, because We have a duty to support people like this . ”6 To indicate such an illogical contradictions in the Talmud, most likely introduced out of cunning by Jewish writers, so that we can interpret and act on all sides, we present some inconsistencies found in it (the Talmud). “You Jews are people, but other nations - no,” etc.[7]

1 Talmud, tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 64, ch. 6; also Maimonides Hilcot, Isure Bia, 14,7.

2 Talmud, tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 64, Art. 2 3 Talmud, tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 65, art. 1. 4 Talmud, tract. Sanhedrin, l. 105, art. 1; also Maimonides, Hilcot, Mela-chim9,1.

5 Ezechiel 47, 21-23; Talmud, tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 64, Art. 1; tract Kidushin, l. 20, art. 1; tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 10, art. 2. 6 Maimonides, 1. p. 10-12; tozafot to the Talmud; tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 2, art. 1; tract. Berakhot, l. 2, art. 2; tract. Sanhedrin, l. 63, art. 2; into the tract. Shulchan Aruch - Oirakh Chaim, p. 156 and so on.

7 Tract. Bova-metsie, l. 9.

“Take nothing from your neighbor, as the commandment says; but your neighbor is a Jew, and not other nations of the world"[1]. “No one is recognized as a person except a Jew - others should be called brutes"[2]. We do not need to repeat these laws, since they set out in our chapters about our neighbor, about hatred of Christians and about murder and extermination of all non-Jews. That is why all the debates of the disputants turn out to be fruitless. about the Talmud, that it contains everything together: good in appearance and evil in reality. Attackers The Talmud chooses the more extreme and contrary facts; his defenders they exhibit selected, most good and humane passages from the Talmud; As a result, the hottest and most learned debates and polemics always ended nothing. In order to reconcile both sides, you just need to seriously pay attention to what law Jewish Talmudists follow in practice, and then it will be possible to very easily determine in disputes whose truth is and whose lies. What mind is not entangled in this labyrinth of tedious, myopic pettiness?

followers of Brahmaism!.. Arousing the spirit of fanaticism, the Talmud instills in the Jews pride with constant reminders that they alone will inherit the promise God, and enmity towards other nations with sayings such as the following: “A non-Jew who does evil to a Jew does evil to God Himself; the fire of Gehenna is powerless even against the wicked of the Jews." This alienation extends not only to people of other faiths, but also on followers of the Law of Moses who belong to another sect: “An Israelite is not must treat a Karaite for any disease; if he falls into a hole, he should not pull out; I must not deliver him even from the hands of a murderer.” And all the similar rules are considered moral and dogmatic, like the law itself! Moreover: attributing The Talmud is of divine origin, without daring to see in it the ugly compilation, on which ignoramuses and fanatics worked diligently, the Jew gets used to consider it more important than even the Mosaic Law, for he constantly hears that “to contradict to your rabbi is the same as contradicting God Himself”; that "the words of the Israelites scientists are much more worthy of attention than the words of the Law of Moses.”

1 Tract. Sanhedrin, ch. 7, l. 59. 2 Tract. Ialkud rub, l. 10, art. 2.

The teachers of the Talmud, caring about preserving the nationality of the Jews, separate them, as chosen ones, from the rest of the world; and the Talmud, indeed, killed everything in them human, made voluntary pariahs among other people, dead on general feast of life.

Chapter 11

Rabbi Trenel and Rav. Ashi

This is what Rabbi Trenel says: “At all times the Talmud has had strong detractors and ardent defenders; for two thousand years he had a reputation, and is still to this day, an object of veneration among the Jews, for whom it is a religious law. With another on the other hand, it simply serves as a text for apostates and other slanderers of our worship services; they used weapons from this arsenal to defeat us. But with the help of God the truth triumphed, and the last murmur of intolerance drowned out by the voice of holy criticism."

Machine Translated by Google

And here are the words of another rabbi: "An extensive collection of Rabbi Rav.-Asha spread among the Jews with incredible speed; from the day he appeared was accepted as an undoubted truth and a sincere expression of law and tradition. In an instant, numerous schools were established where the Talmud was the most respected the subject of science, both in the East and in the West; his theological decisions were introduced and accepted in all communities, and this triple barrier erected around the Torah (written law) by the rabbis of Palestine and Babylon, did not meet a single daring attempts to exterminate her. How this happened is difficult to decide. The thing is that the work of the banks of the Euphrates instantly passed into the hands of Jews living on banks of the Rhine, Danube and Vistula. The devotion of the Jews to the Talmud, of course, drew the attention of enemies to this enormous work, as a result of which the Talmud became the subject of all kinds of injustices; they attributed to him all the vices and everything crimes the Israelis were accused of; all his rules were spread black slander, often accompanied by terrible murders."

Yes, these murders, the cause of which was the truth about the Talmud, are clear to us will be revealed on the following pages!

Intoxicated by the spirit of freedom, those who were called reformers wished get rid of all obstacles at once, and the Talmud, which enjoyed undeniable power, from the day of his appearance he was rejected, reviled and despised.

Some Israelis freed from shameful imprisonment in the ghetto[1] and proud of free entry into all houses, were not afraid to blame the Talmud for their past suffering. Thus, here is the first hostile action in Israel against the Talmud; then a second, similar to the first, followed at points distant from one another. This means that the law of Moses has disappeared and the Talmud is dying. Convinced of this, we remain indifferent spectators during the construction of several temples, tombs, hiding It's just nothing when all this is built by the hands of Jews.

The same hands, often in disagreement, join together to push away Talmud. It is a fact. The Talmud is rejected - and the Jew becomes accessible; his strong power falls, he ceases to be dangerous and despised. In a word, his fall Talmudic orthodoxy is made the cause and dawn of a social revolution in Judaism

Chapter 12

Jew Traveler Stemfet

One of the travelers to the Heavenly Empire describes what they did discovery of some Chinese Jews and conveys an excerpt from his conversation with these unexpected ssktators of Moses, who express themselves very wittily about the meaning Talmud.

Jew traveler, Stemfet: You are not entirely different in your beliefs from your brethren in the West?

Chinese Jew: You are a little mistaken; firstly, we do not recognize the Talmud as religious law.

---

[1] Jewish Quarter in some European cities.

Machine Translated by Google

Put.: In that case, you are not Israelis? Whale.

Jew: Why? Put.: Because, visiting Israelis in France, Poland, Turkey and Africa, I I have not met a single one of them who did not believe in the religious merit of this books you reject. Whale.

Jew: But there are Israelis living in Palestine whom you could not see; they don't even know the title of this book. From the time of Josiah to Sederiah, they all received instruction from Josiah himself, Samuel, Elijah, Elisha and Isaiah.

Put.: Why do you know that they do not know the Talmud? Why are those in this book of traditions was communicated to Moses on the day of revelation, were unknown Abraham, and this patriarch had 400 volumes of Talmud, which spoke about Dbadossore?

Whale. Jew: You yourself don't know what you're saying; is it possible? Are you looking for your evidence in the very book whose authority is now in doubt? Be sure that if your Talmudic traditions were known to your ancestors in Palestine, then they would be reflected in us, who came here from the land Canaan, without experiencing the slightest oppression that would change our religious morals1 . This conversation, of course, is unflattering for the Talmud; but from what era and from what no matter how he came, nowadays Jewish reformers and friends of progress do not hesitate to publish about him. Tell me how their conversation differs from the conversation free detractors? 1 Stemfet.

In Vienna, for forty years, the Jews sent their worship. The Vienna synagogue served as a model for the entire Jewish population dignity, taste, progress and perfection. Now all this means nothing, everything recognized as insufficient, meager and, due to its long history, unworthy of the modern age.

The Jewish leaflet "Neuzeit" recently published a number of articles under the title "Reaction in the Viennese community." They are not content with desecrating worship, but cruelly persecute Israeli life in general: the Talmud, Shulchan Aruch, traditions... The author exposes not only the Christian and Jewish public to judgment and ridicule practical Judaism and the teachings of the Talmud, but, unfortunately, even worse than that: he suggests that the Israeli family has become morally corrupt; proves the obvious loss of honor, lack of ability to do everything related to Kiddush and Gallul Hashem - in a word, a complete fall!.. He blames the religious laws that forced the Jews to apostatize from the faith... He speaks in the language of missionaries.

Finally, Judaism was issued by the Jews themselves, and will be disgraced by themselves if it remains in the bloody mud of the Talmud; even more: it suddenly gets a slap in the face before the whole world at the hand of Renan, that executioner of the eternal divinity of Christ.
“Alien everywhere, without any other participation except his sect, not social the Jewish Talmudist was often - says this anti-Christian publicist - a scourge for states to which fate brought him.” What Jew or what philosopher dared to support Bayle after such confessions that “the corruption of the Jews is found neither in morality nor in the law”? Is there anyone today gifted with common sense who will allow himself condemn the rulers and popes who placed a curse on the Talmud and with shame who abandoned this monstrous book of the Jewish mind and law?

One of these rulers, Saint Louis, ordered the Talmud to be burned; "if Jews will disobey, then force them to do so and subject them to all the severity of the laws."

Such a verdict from the holy book led the Jews to complete despair, and to this day the patronizing power of Christian enlightenment opposes im.

How to explain the presence of wild opinions and outrageous advice in such amazing creations like the books of the Talmud? It is known that separately torn out places in the overall picture are not so scary and can even be edifying when this deceptive The Jews, the defenders of the Talmud, use this discovery to mislead Christians. One a sensible Jew, enlightened by the European light, exclaims: “Listen, Israel, I say to you: are you not tired of the hatred that they have for you? peoples? Aren't you tired of your obscurantism and literalism? Don't you you see that if you were truly the chosen people of God, and not a crowd of Pharisees, then I would not have been so stupid and, at the same time, arrogant, so poor productivity, pathetic, insignificant and despised, so cowardly and so, finally, cunning and resourceful. You who chose your prophets in ancient times, woe to you if you you will shed a drop of my blood because I speak the truth with lips baked from thirst for truth and goodness! I want your renewal and salvation! Awake, O Israel!

SECTION 3. HISTORICAL TREATISE

I ON THE PERSECUTION AND DESTRUCTION OF THE TALMUD

Chapter 1

Persecution of the Talmud by the Popes

As you know, the Jews called “Karaites” were the first to rebel against the Talmud and threw it away. The Sabbateans did not recognize the Talmud, except for the Zohar. Adepts Frank called themselves “Zoharists”, since they recognized the “Zohar” as the only the true Torah and acted as “counter-Talmudists.” The hostility to the Talmud lay in basis of the teachings of Frank and his followers. Author of the book "Zohar", Rabbi Simon ben Yochai, Tanaite, 2nd century. according to R. X. - this same Simon at the head of an entire party 16 centuries ago ago formed a strong opposition against the Talmudists, who created many laws that distorted the meaning of “scripture.” They argued that the Talmud's interpretation false. All these Frankists turned to the bishops with the goal that the Talmud would be publicly destroyed by the authorities. So, the Talmud and religious formalism themselves War was declared by the Jews.

Frank's retinue included many famous rabbis and preachers (magidim): Yehuda Leib Rat, rabbi in Nadvorna, and Nachman ben Samuel Levi, rabbi Buysky. Jacob Frank's most zealous collaborator was Elisha Shor from Rohatyn, an elderly man whose family counted many of the most authoritative rabbis. In a word, from our time many educated Jews in general look at the Talmud as a harmful burden for Jewry, but openly express this They are afraid for the sake of fear, so as not to incur the dangerous kahal scourge.

Christianity, in its constant desire to influence moral the rebirth of Judaism, one of the most effective means to achieve this goal considered, among other things, the destruction of the Talmud, or at least those parts of it, in which contain unfavorable and blasphemous views on Jesus Christ, the Mother of God and the Christian religion.

Machine Translated by Google

Justinian, the Roman emperor, in 556 allowed the Jews to read the Bible in synagogue in whatever language they wanted, but strictly forbade the reading of the Mishnah, the second law, from which it is clear that from the very first moment of the appearance of the Talmud, secular authorities paid special attention to it and pursued this code. First persecution started by the eastern emperors; the same fate befell The Talmud was later in Rome, where the popes persecuted him along with all those of that time books of black magic. Thus, Gregory IX in 1230 and Innocent IV in 1244 ordered burn all Talmudic books. In 1272, in England, during the expulsion of the Jews, the Talmud was destroyed with such zeal that they searched for Talmudic books in the homes of all Jews and betrayed flame. In 1286, Gregory IV wrote to the Archbishop of Canterbury about “the worthy curse the book" (Liber damnabilis), seriously warns him and urgently (vehementer) demands that no one read this book, since reading it all evil results. Anti-Pope Benedict XIII followed the example of his predecessors, who issued in 1413, in Valencia, a well-known bull against the Talmud, in which he declares The Talmud is the main cause of the religious blindness of the Jews, and its origin attributes it to nothing other than the wiles of the devil. In 1554, Pope Julius III decreed determined to confiscate the works of all Talmudic books throughout Italy; burned there were, however, only a small number of them, since the Jews managed to save books precious to them, moving them mainly to Cremona, inhabited by many of the most zealous adherents of the Talmud. As a result, at the beginning of 1559, Pope Paul IV issued another bull for the destruction of the Talmud, which took place. IN 1565 Pius V sent Sixtus of Siena to the city of Cremona with orders to seize everything surviving copies, and, if you believe the report of this papal agent, which seems to be a little exaggerated, he managed to burn 12,000 copies of the Talmud, amounting to no less than 14,000 volumes. In 1593 and 1599 Clement VIII renewed persecution of rabbinical traditions, entrusted him to Italian inquisitors. Pius IV, authorizing a new edition, set the necessary condition that it appeared without the title “Talmud”: “Si tamen prodierit, sine nomine Talmud tolerari deberet,” from which it is clear that even the very name “Talmud” became outrageous and intolerant. Clement V, having in mind the promulgation of a new condemnation, wanted, at least, to publicly promulgate the harm of the Talmud: as a result, he ordered the establishment of three departments for the languages of Hebrew, Chaldean and Arabic, which are mainly used in the Talmud. Chosen by him for this purpose the universities were: Paris, Salamanca, Bologna and Oxford. After to achieve the goal, i.e., a detailed study of the Talmud, a command was issued not to only in certain cities of France and Italy, but also in the south and north, east and west and destroy the Talmud almost throughout the world. In all Christian countries he was subjected to general persecution.

Chapter 2

Pfefferkorn - a baptized Jew

Several years before the start of religious reform in Germany, someone Pfefferkorn, of Jewish origin, presented to Emperor Maximilian written report on various Jewish blasphemous books against Christians content, especially pointing to the Talmud and some other books. This report gave rise to strong strife, persecution and widespread searches. Pfefferkorn's goal was destroy the Talmud and other religious blasphemous Christianity, Jewish books, for which he received a decree from Emperor Maximilian, in which he was ordered to form a commission to study Jewish books. The research began with the Magdeburg Jewish community, which had books taken away and burned. A strong intrigue arose through persons close to the emperor Judaism; Jews filed a complaint at that time about the injustice and attacks against them. The emperor, deliberately confused by them, ordered the decree to be cancelled. But Pfefferkorn, with the assistance of Dominican monks, published the work “Manual mirror". The lawyer of Jewry in defense of the Talmud was the learned and dexterous Reichling, who, with the assistance, probably, of the Jews, published the essay “The Eye Mirror.” At the end In the end, Pfefferkorn obtained a new decree for the confiscation of the Talmud and other blasphemous writings. This time the archbishop was appointed executor of the decree Uriel together with a commission of scientists from five universities. Archbishop Uriel appointed Professor Hermann of the University of Mainz as his plenipotentiary Hess. Upon examination of the case, it turned out that Pfefferkorn's jealousy was far from superfluous, and in Frankfurt 150 handwritten works were taken from the Jews. Similar the fate befell the Jews in Worms, Lorch, Bingen, Laufon, Mainz and Deinz. Pfefferkorn officially announced that the Jews offered him a significant sum money for refusing to persecute them.

Machine Translated by Google

In addition to the Talmud, the Jews also have a verbal tradition, or blasphemous teaching against Christians, kept in deep secrecy. It is only rarely discovered Jews who converted to Christianity. Among these is the one who accepted Christianity Jew Nicholas Rochelle (Nicolas de la Rochelle). In his letter to dad He revealed to Gregory IX that the Talmud and rabbinic writings contain blasphemy. The Pope offered the kings French, English and Spanish explain the matter. Commissions were appointed, interrogated the accused point by point, found Rochelle’s report to be thorough - and decided to burn the Talmud and everything blasphemous writings contrary to Christianity. 14 cartloads of books were collected and publicly burned; A few years later, 6 more carts were burned. But these 20 destroyed carts only encouraged the Jews to publish a large number of new ones. writings blasphemous against Christianity.

In 1506, under Maximilian, the baptized Jew John, a zealous advocate Christianity, has made it his sacred duty to persecute blasphemous Jewish books, and for this purpose he obtained written permission from the emperor, using which he destroyed many such books.

In 1707, a learned Jew rebelled against the Talmud in writing, arguing that faith must be based on the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament and what the Talmud represents a complete delusion, promoting only immorality, etc.

Chapter

3 Monk Neophyte, former rabbi

The former rabbi, later monk Neophyte, wrote in 1803 in Moldovan language book: “Refutation of the Jewish Faith.” Jews, as they say, are for big money persuaded the ruler of Moldova to destroy this book, despite the fact that its translation into Greek language appeared, however, in print in Iasi in 1818. The baptized

Jew Pikulsky in his work in Polish, published in Lemberg in 1760 under the title “The Malice of the Jews,” says a lot about the malevolence Talmud. In our time, not only baptized Jews unanimously testify, in writing and verbally, the same thing, but even all Jews, more educated, like theirs

Machine Translated by Google

they say, “cibulized” (civilized - I.L.), rebel against the Talmud as against the greatest evil. In Paris, under Louis IX, the persecution of the Talmud reached such an extent that it searched from house to house; but despite such strict measures, is it because Indeed, it was not there, or because the Jews skillfully hid their treasure, only a small number of books were found, which came to royal archive. In Italy and other places all means of destruction were also used. various harmful Jewish books. Everyone worked on this for a long time legislation, but Jewish printers acted faster, warning the law significant release of them.

In the 16th century, 3 editions of the Talmud appeared in Venice, and the fourth in Basel. Italian printing houses published many letters from famous rabbis, and At that time, the extermination and destruction of Jewish books became almost impossible. The learned man, or, more precisely, the resourceful lawyer Reichling, who managed to save Jewish books from the fire that threatened them in Germany, he undertook to defend the Talmud. This circumstance, however, had beneficial consequences, turning special attention of German scientists to Jewish literature, and produced an essay full of deep and original intelligence: “Epistolae obscurorum virorum.” This work subsequently served as a source of borrowings. The persistent persecution of the Talmud, no doubt, contributed greatly to making this book even more sacred in the eyes of the rabbis: when speech touches it, the most enthusiastic praise seems insignificant to them.

Chapter 4

Preface Maimonides

Maimonides' preface to the Zeder Tzeraim (first section of the Talmud) begins in the following words: “It is necessary to know that the commandments given by God to Moses were accompanied by interpretations, for the Lord first told the text, and then it explanation. When Moses was returning to his tent, the first man he met the man was Aaron, to whom he repeated the text and then the interpretations, as they were handed over.” “When Aaron sat down on the right side of Moses, Eleazar and Ithamor his sons, to whom Moses repeated the same thing as to Aaron. When Eleazar and Ithamor sat down on the left side of Moses, 70 elders of Israel entered, to whom Moses conveyed the same thing as Aaron and his sons. Finally, all the people entered, desiring to find the Lord, and was also taught by Moses, and the same thing happened repeated until it is heard by every single one. When Moses departed, Aaron He repeated to the rest what he himself had heard 4 times. When Aaron left, then Eleazar and Ithamore repeated to the elders and the people what they themselves had heard 4 times. After Eleazar and Ithamor had left, the elders repeated to the people what they had heard 4 times. Josiah and Phineas told the same thing to their heirs, through whom the chain traditions reached, interrupted, until the time of Rabbi Yehudah-Gakadosh, who, being luminary and adornment of his time, collected all these legends together and copied them into book.” All the rabbis agree in this tradition, and it is not surprising that, attributing The Talmud has such origins, they have a special reverence for this book.

When Rabbi Eleazar lay on his deathbed, his disciples asked him what they need to do for their salvation.

“Leave the scriptures and take up the Talmud,” he answered.

Not fully recognizing such dogmatic authority in the Talmud, one of later rabbis explains the apostasy of some Jews from their religion solely due to their inattention to this book. In his opinion, the Kabbalistic fictions of the Talmud contain not only all kinds of pearls religious poetry, but also all kinds of treasures of allegorical morality.

Since the decisions of the Council of Basel (1431-1436), the Catholic Church accepted the publication of the Talmud and Jewish religious and liturgical books under its own censorship. Released later, in 1581, under the censorship of Marcus Marin, an edition of the Talmud was adopted as a model for other publications published under the control of the Church and Christian Western governments.

In all these publications, passages concerning the face of Jesus Christ were not included in the text. and the defining relationship of Jews to Christians. As a result, the Talmud the present tense is incomplete; there are extremely many gaps in it, and gaps these are perceptible even with a superficial glance at it. The existence of such omissions or gaps, both in the Talmud and in religious and liturgical books Jewish pointed out to the rabbis the need to fill in the gaps with preserved orally by traditions and additions from ancient publications made without any passes. Of these, those known to some Christian researchers have survived: the Venetian edition of 1520, the Krakow edition of 1603, the Amsterdam edition of 1645, and probably many others. Diligent Talmudists, out of jealousy, tried to replace those destroyed distribute an incomparably larger number of new copies. Many Jewish fanatics, especially the rich, have and keep, like a shrine, the ancient Talmuds publications; sometimes Jews in Russia even set up secret printing houses in which they print books most hostile to Christianity and government. So, in 1848, officials sent by the Governor General, Prince A. N. Golitsyn They discovered and seized in the city of Kopys, Mogilev province, secretly printed books that were most hostile to Christianity. In addition, the rabbis verbally interpret arbitrarily in in schools for youth, passages hostile to Christianity were omitted from the press.

Chapter 5

Esterka, favorite of the Polish King Casimir

Complete Talmuds found refuge in Poland, where Jews generally lived freer and supervision over them was weaker; More stubborn Jewish fanatics hid here, counting on the patronage of the Polish king Casimir, who was in intimate relations with Jewish Esterka, with whom he had two sons, Shmerka and Pelka.

Thanks to his weakness for this Esterka, King Casimir was named by the Polish the poets Mordecai. Esterka openly interceded for her fellow tribesmen, and when with her assistance, the Jews were not only given freedom, but they enjoyed unnecessary benefits, even to the detriment of the Poles themselves. Thus, Jews occupied the highest places in Kingdom of Poland. Matters were decided in state councils according to wishes the Jews who sat there; they were also ministers. According to some historians, this partly explains the rapid moral and political fall of Poland.

The nephew of King Casimir, Louis, having ascended the throne, turned all his efforts to eradicate Jewry; but in vain; Jewishness thanks to the unreasonable his uncle's protectorate had taken deep roots in Poland and strengthened exorbitant. Louis, seeing the impotence of the measures taken, had to involuntarily leave Jewry is at peace and, to his humiliation, sometimes still indulge him. Consequently in Poland a kind of kingdom of Israel was formed, and not only in Poland itself, but also in Lithuania, Belarus, Chervonnaya Rus, Podol and Ukraine, i.e. in all places, over which old Poland ruled. The number of Jews in these areas huge, and if we count about 10 million Jews on the globe, then Russia's share accounts for exactly half of this figure. The reason for this crowding must be considered to be the patronage they were used here during the time of Polish rule, and poor development social life in the Christian population, which cannot give serious resistance a tightly knit body of Jewry. This also explains the greatest fanaticism Western Russian Jews and their enormous ignorance, compared with the Jews of other countries Be that as it may, the fact of the dominance and predominance of Jews in Western Russia represents an exceptional phenomenon. In a large part of the states where Jews settled, the persecution of the Talmud did not subside, especially in medieval eras, which was the motivation for the Jews in their religious books to publish all passages blasphemous against Christianity, or present them so allegorically, incomprehensibly and vaguely, using barricades the Hebrew alphabet, so that the uninitiated into the mystery of Talmudic wisdom I couldn't understand anything about them.

Chapter 6

District message of Polish Jews

Abbot Chiarin gives the following district message of the Council of Polish Jews of 5391 (1631) to their fellow believers: "Peace to our many brothers, beloved of all the house of Israel! We know, as well as all the sons of Israel, that now the Notzrim, that is, Christians, are beginning to study the language in which our holy books; therefore we consign to a great curse everyone who is in new editions of the mishna or gemara will leave something concerning the actions of Yeshu Ganotsri (Jesus Christ). Beware of writing or typing even the slightest regarding him, things are either good or bad, so that no misfortune results for us and for our faith. We already know what the apostates, the sons of Belial, did to us: having accepted the law of the Notzrim and having received mercy from them, they slandered us; As a result, we must be careful and prudent. And if you, without heeding the words of our message, despite our threats and prohibitions, continue to print everything as you did before, then we, as well as yourself, will suffer disasters much greater than those we have experienced so far time: the Roman peoples will force us to forcibly accept their faith, as they did this is before, and the last evil will be greater than the first. Therefore we command for the future It's time for new editions of our books to leave gaps where they talk about Yeshu Ganotsri, and mark these spaces with the sign O. This sign will make it clear to every rabbi and in general, every teacher has a gap that must be supplemented from oral tradition. With the help of this means, the learned notsrim will be deprived reasons to bring accusations against us and then we can have hope that we will not the former disasters will befall us, and then we can live in peace."

According to baptized Jews, omissions were made in the new Talmuds, indicated sometimes with spaces, brackets or eloquently "find out", i.e. guess, search for sense. The reasons for these omissions are also explained in the book "Seider Gadaidos": it says that the frequent conversion of Jews to the Christian faith could not but have an impact on regarding the discovery of some secrets of the Talmud, not only compromising Jews in the eyes of Christianity, but also positively presenting them as their worst enemies Christianity. The Talmud is not open to any interpretation: not only by any philosopher will not understand it, but even the most rabbis to explain the dark places in the Talmud resort to Kabbalistic books.

Chapter 7

The Scattering of the Jews over the Face of the Earth

The dispersion of the Jews across the face of the earth began much earlier than the fall of Jerusalem. Already in the 2nd century. before R. X. there was almost not a single significant city in which there was no Jews lived. The fertility of the soil in Palestine did not match the rapidity with which its inhabitants multiplied: hence the constant emigration from Palestine, especially strong that the commercial enterprise of the Jews already attracted them to distant countries. Everywhere they settled, they aroused the hatred of the native population. The local authorities were not particularly friendly towards them, they were afraid of the incessant and persistent complaints to which the Jews resorted to anything, even empty, sometimes even alleged violation of their rights. They held each other tightly and made every contact with the pagans, one continuous whole, which, of course, is absolutely impossible further increased their strength.

It was extremely difficult to compete with them in trade; they are everywhere In this way they gained significant influence over their fellow citizens. In Roman Jews enjoyed empires, especially in comparison with other classes population, a greater degree of independence. The emperors looked very distrustful of organized societies of all kinds, constantly fearing that they did not become a breeding ground for political conspiracies; the law determined with all accuracy: the conditions under which such societies could be tolerated, their number members, the time of their meetings, the amount of monetary contributions received in their favor. But an exception to this law was made only for Jews; their synagogues became centers of corporate life, which formed a sharp contrast with everything around them. The leaders of the synagogue were at the same time judges, vested not only with the right resolve civil disputes, but also punitive power. Discipline within Jewish societies was so great that none of the Jews dared to deal with a fellow tribesman to the Roman court: everything was discussed and resolved inside the synagogue. The synagogue was a place of religious conversations and debates, allowing Jews to watch looking down on the Greek agora with its eternal disputes about issues of theater and circus; together with the synagogue also served as a center for trade transactions, as we see from the Gospel the story of Jesus Christ, who expelled all those who sold and bought from the synagogue.

Despite all the constraints, all the unfavorable living conditions, the Jews managed achieve such importance in Europe that the leading statesmen; Even thrones sometimes shake from them. This is the influence acquired by force of circumstances. First of all, it should be mentioned that the great Philosophers and publicists of the 18th century rendered a service to the Jews, who did not disdain by no means to destroy Christianity in principle; They varied the Jewish question in different ways, inflating it to enormous proportions complete liberation of the Jews from the yoke of universal hatred, bringing it to their absolute political and civil equality on a par with Christians. In short, in the hands of the then luminaries of liberalism, this motive became one from vital issues of Jewish politics'.

Chapter 8

Jewish Influence

Then the increase in Jewish influence was facilitated by the constantly increasing financial power of the Jews. To what size has it grown? evidenced by the words of one writer, who back in 1847 boldly said: “Workers are exhausted and perish in labor, working diligently on the earth’s surface only in order to enrich several thousand Jewish nabobs of Amsterdam and of London» [2]

Machine Translated by Google

Voltairean philosophy, which preached liberalism, freedom and equality, helped Jewry a lot. Under the pressure of the Voltairean trend hatred, sometimes deserved, sometimes purely instinctive and motivated solely due to traditional hostility, gradually weakened. Jew's access to spheres of social and political activity became easier and easier. Clever, resourceful, with a huge reserve of practical intelligence, Jews with with extraordinary skill they gradually and imperceptibly mastered the paths that led them to wealth, honors and power. Little by little, Jewry began to penetrate into the circles the intelligentsia of that time. Exchange circles fell and rose without any interference from the local plutocracy. The exchange was in the hands of the Jews. The press, the periodical press, was tuned to the tuning fork of influential Jews; literature also received a peculiar coloring that matched the same tone with interests of Judaism. During the reign of Louis-Philippe d'Orléans, according to testimony contemporaries, depending on the king there were positions of officers, judges, etc.; He could also freely have positions paying from 1200 to 3000 francs, but no more. 1

Waschler, of Jewish origin. "Encyclopedic Dictionary", ed. scientist, professors. T. XII, art. 451.1861

[2] Jew Tushnel. "Modern Overlords"; preface, p. 5, 1847

The highest and most profitable positions with large annual salaries depended on the Jews. Of course, their influence, which determines the choice of one or another person on any important administrative or governmental place, prima facie it was insensitive and imperceptible. Here everything was done so cunningly and deftly that it was impossible for the uninitiated eye to guess the existence of an outsider influence. In government spheres, people who were hostile to Jewry were replaced by people who were more liberal and well-intentioned. The king himself the assistance of Jews did not sign a single agreement; but here the influential personality of the Jew stood aside, not allowing her to feel her pressure on the progress of the matter. Hebrews exclusively belonged to the administration and monopoly of transportation along the entire state, so that they could soon have more officials than the government itself. The Jews cared about everything. Did the king and the chamber enter into terms? customs union, whether it was about cotton, coal or iron, it didn't matter: the Jews did not refuse anything. Anzin opposed the union of Belgium with France - and it came true... Until the railway concession was given to the Jews by law, everyone the traveler had free passage along the main roads, along the royal pavement. Since all the roads (railroads, ditches, rivers) have passed into the hands of Jews, no one could travel without paying them a special increased duty. By virtue of For these reasons, the Jews, despite their extremely unfavorable social position, managed to take possession of untold wealth and separate them from their persecuted and downtrodden There are many very remarkable people in the environment, in terms of capital, personalities.

Chapter 9

About the brilliant insight of the Jewish mind

Giving full justice to the brilliant insight and speed Jewish mind, according to their own expression: "A gute yiddishe kop", and considering the subject from this point of view, it can be assumed that the Jew is able to be a useful official or officer and open the way to higher government positions; but in order to stand at the head of the board, except talents and abilities, you also need to love your Fatherland, you need to donate to devote oneself to the affairs of the common good, the common good, without distinguishing from whether the state consists of Christians, Mohammedans or Jews. Is it possible to have these qualities of a Jewish Talmudist? - this is a question that, for the sake of the common good, should not even be put to the test. The spirit of corporation and mutual assistance is so strong between Jews, that one exalted Jew would certainly pull his fellow into damage to representatives of other nationalities, which is what we currently see in unfortunate Austria. Then there would be sneaking, flattery and catering to the weaknesses of the higher replaced the holy and impeccable fulfillment of the law, and instead of the faithful and devoted servants for the Fatherland, the state would acquire servants dedicated to the interests of the region their personal views and aspirations for the elevation of themselves and their nation.

When all layers of society in the state, by force of education, are admitted to such a stage of development that members of different classes will, at will, have access to occupying lower and higher positions in the state, without distinction of origin, - then Jews can claim their rights to public service; but at the same time they will have to become on par with the general development and closely merge their interests with the interests of the whole state. Purely mercantile direction the Jewish people does not foretell this result; it only strengthens the spirit of the Jews cosmopolitanism developed between them to a strong degree. 1 There is a custom among the Jews, if they have successfully and cleverly done any business, especially in deceiving and deceiving a Christian, to hit themselves with the palm of their hand in delight on the forehead and say the following phrase. “A gute Yiddish cop.”

The pressure of the Jews to obtain the rights assigned to the nobility will are correct and fair only when at least half of them turn to agriculture; when the land from which they use funds and feed on bread becomes their home without the desire to leave it after accumulating significant capital, and, having waited for the Messiah, go to Palestine; when finally a Jew without any back thoughts, without any pretense, will sincerely extend a helping hand to his to a compatriot, whatever his faith and origin. But for this radical reform is needed - not by coercive means from outside, but produced by the Jews themselves, having, so to speak, developed from consciousness your position and surrounding requirements. Without touching the laws of the Old Testament, the Jews themselves can abolish what people like them may have been forced to do. circumstances to establish and accept into management. Real Jewish corporate isolation, the Talmudic state within the state is great evil, antisocial phenomenon; Treasuring her, they carefully preserve their beloved ugly jargon and all the antediluvian manners, facial expressions, gestures and grimaces and they neglect the customs of those peoples among whom they have lived for so many centuries. In a word, as long as a Jew considers himself a Talmudist, i.e., under the banner Talmud, there is no hope for fraternal community with Christians.

TREATISE II ON THE JEWISH SECTS

Chapter 1

Perversion of the Mosaic Law

Tendency towards dogmatic innovations in the teaching given through Moses, became noticeable among the Jews from the time of the fall of Jerusalem. After this fatal

Machine Translated by Google

For the Jews, they were carried away by the general eclectic direction of minds in this era, striving for the unification of all philosophical systems known at that time. If Plotinus, Porphyry and Iamblichus openly recognized the high wisdom of the Mosaic Law, then, in their place, Aristovolus, Philo and Josephus, a century earlier, mixed Greek concepts and the beginnings of the Ionic school into the pure and strict religion of their people. To prove the great antiquity of the Jewish people, they are guided not only by the holy books and prophecies, but also by the history of Herodotus, the poems of Homer and the opinions of Plato and Pythagoras. True, among them the God of Israel still retains all his dogmatic dignity; but they surround Him with a multitude of other immortal beings, borrowed from the religion of Persia and India, brought into a strict system by the genius of Plato. The philosophical sects of the Sadducees, Pharisees and Essenes were formed in the synagogue. Since the beginning of the Maccabean wars, the aforementioned completely new sects have entered the political arena of Judea. Flavius Josephus, attributing the emergence of these sects to the time of the high priest Jonathan, characterizes them immediately, as well as three philosophical schools, which relate differently to the question of the religion of Divine Providence, that is, regarding, on the one hand, the fate and free will of man, on the other - the well-being or misfortune of each individual person or his people. The Sadducees attributed everything to personal will, the Essenes made everything dependent on God's Providence, while the Pharisees maintained a moderate middle ground and assigned their due role to each of these factors. These empty disagreements were the cause of those terrible civil strife that soon broke out between the Sadducees and Pharisees already during the time of John Hyrcanus, and even more fiercely during the time of Alexander-Ianna, when blood flowed not in streams, but in streams. Later historians could not determine the essence of these three sects and the motives for their mutual opposition: some argued that the Sadducees and Pharisees disagreed with each other on political issues; others said that they differed on religious issues; still others completely denied any opposition between the two parties, seeing in the Pharisees representatives of strictly religious orthodoxy, who had nothing to do with politics, and in the Sadducees - representatives of aristocracy, valuing their social position, but indifferent to religious issues. The Talmud itself, with extraordinary sharpness, described to us seven categories of Pharisees, of which six were characterized as proud and hypocrites. These categories are as follows: Pharisees “Sekhemites”, who obeyed the law out of their own interest; the “jumping” Pharisees (nikfi), who were so humble that they constantly stumbled because they could not lift their feet from the ground; “bleeding” (kinkhs), who hit the walls due to exaggerated modesty, which did not allow them to walk with their eyes open, so as not to see the woman; the Pharisees “medorki”: these seemed to cover their eyes with lime for the above reason; Pharisees “tell me another commandment and I will fulfill it,” many of them are found in the Gospel; the “timid” Pharisees who acted solely out of fear. The seventh category were the Pharisees “for love.” These latter obeyed God because they loved Him with all their hearts. Then Kabbalism arises and develops and becomes the most perfect type of that confusion of teachings, which one rabbi compares with the confusion of languages during the Babylonian pandemonium. Over time, the tendency to modify and distort the primitive teaching of the Sinai legislator not only did not weaken, but, on the contrary, intensified, finding food for itself in the fragmentation and dispersion that befell the Jewish tribe in our Christian history and deprived it of the opportunity to strictly and sacredly observe the ancient traditions of their religion.

As for the current Jews living in Russia, almost all of them belong to the sect of Talmudists, then splitting into two large, hostile ones another party - Hasidim and Mishnagids, i.e. rabbinists, the difference between which limited to some petty religious rituals (Polish Jews Pronounced "husid" or "xi-dim". Lithuanian Jews pronounce it "hosed"). Word "Hasid" as it is understood in Hebrew does not mean any religious or ritual isolation, which is proven by the Talmud itself, which, being a strict condemner of everything non-Jewish, nevertheless says that Hasidim can be among fellow believers, and promises them the kingdom of heaven until the 18th century. With a more or less correct understanding of the word “Hasid”, the Jews did not have and did not there could have been such a mass of Hasidim as we see now. The word "chosed", or "hassid", for those unfamiliar with the Hebrew language seems to be something symbolic, which is what it was basis for Christians’ belief that Hasidim constitute Judaism a special religious sect. Almost all Jews of the Western Russian region call themselves Hasidim. The word “Hasid” comes from the Hebrew word “chosed,” which means “good guest.” In the Holy Scriptures, God is called “Rav-chosed” - the all-good (Moses, Ex. 37, 7; David 85, 15), and both David and Moses call Jehovah by this name in hope to appease His wrath. The word "Hasid" thus means one who the task of life is to selflessly fulfill the commandments of God, in which lies the true greatness and beauty of the soul. It is not enough to be a Hasid (good) executor of the letter of the law; his good deeds are not limited to ritual and religious decrees. According to the exact meaning of the word, in relation to neighbors Hasid makes no distinction between family and strangers, between friend and foe, non-religionist and co-religionist in everything that relates to human protection, help and even love for him. The ideal Hasid should represent the personified complacency and contain all the virtues of an immortal being. That's why it is clear that in ancient, pre-Talmudic Jewish literature, when the words used in their exact meaning, none even of the patriarchs or prophets were we call it "Hasid". To the reader of Psalms 4, 3; 16, 8; 32, 4 and 85, 2 it will seem strange that David is called a Hasid, but the irrefutable meaning of these psalms refers to Christ, whom David calls by this name.

Only after the Nativity of Christ was the title of “Hassid” awarded to Rabbi Yosi Gakanen, a student of the famous Rabbi Jochanan ben Zakai; but for what reason or merit - unknown. The second person to be given the title "Hasid" was Rabbi Yehuda Borebi. Apart from these two rabbis, we find no more for the entire Talmudic period, then There is, for eight centuries, no one who would be called a Hasid. From the same time until beginning of the 18th century among all the celebrities of Jewish literature received this the title is only Rabbi Echiel Ashkanazi, author of Gehol Hashem (the palace of the Lord), and Rabbi Joseph Sagish - both in the first half of the 18th century.

Chapter 2

Jewish sects in the East. "Samaritans"

The Samaritans recognize only Moses and Joshua as prophets and, in accordance with This means that only the Torah and the book of Joshua are considered sacred books. Samaritans do not recognize the Jerusalem Temple and during prayers turn their faces to Shiloh, or to the ancient city of Shechem (now Nablus). They perform sacrifices even before present time. Their priests form a closed sect; they don't join into kinship with other classes and even consider the touch of a stranger as desecration. They determine the new moon according to the calendar of Jeroboam. Samaritans in Hebrew are called "kutim". These are the ones whom the Holy Scripture (Ezra 4:1) does not particularly flatteringly certified as “enemies of Judah and Benjamin” when they imposed themselves on accomplices in the construction of the second temple. The Samaritans still remember this time, surrounding the name of their former leader Sambalath of Horoni with honor (Nehemiah 11.10).

Machine Translated by Google

The Samaritans have a strange custom: when they need to cleanse a dress defiled by touching something unclean, they put this dress in empty tub and, having tightly sealed the hole, throw it into the water. So they exactly fulfill the words of Scripture (Lev. 11, 32): “It (the defiled clothing) must be introduced into water,” and the clothing becomes clean without actually touching water.

The Samaritans are divided into two sects: Kushan and Dustan, of which one denies future life. The Torah of the Samaritans differs somewhat from the real one, and, as examples of deviations, they have two versions of the Samaritan Pentateuch, which are also found in the translation of the LXX interpreters.

Chapter 3

The Sadducees

The founders of this sect were Zadok and Baytus. Zadok first exposed the mistakes of the rabbis, renounced them and revealed part of the truth. He wrote books filled with objections and reproaches to the Rabbinites. Preserved in the Talmud several Sadducean provisions, provided with evidence (M. Yadayim IV, 7; B. Batra 115-1, etc.). A saying has been preserved from Baytus that Pentecost (Shabuot) should be celebrated no other than on Sunday; at this point his teaching agrees with the teachings of Anan and other Karaites. Regarding the date of celebration of Pentecost in In ancient times there were great disputes. Samaritans and Karaites to the present time adhere to the opinion of Baitus and celebrate Pentecost on Sunday. According to the teachings of the Sadducees, divorce is completely prohibited. All months have 30 days. Some argue that the Sadducees are based on the time reckoning in the story of Noah, where 5 months correspond exactly to 150 days of the flood (Gen. VII, II, 24 and VIII, 4). Saturdays among the Sadducees are not included in the holidays of Passover and Sukkot, so Each of these holidays lasts seven weekdays, excluding Saturdays. Sadducees this is inferred from verses 1 Samuel VIII, 66 and 2 Chronicles. 7.10, where is the eighth day of the holiday Sukkot (Tishri) is named on the 28th day of the month. This contradiction is eliminated if not count Saturday as a holiday. Sadducees are anthropomorphists who take literally all places in the Bible where members of the Godhead are mentioned. Books the Sadducees, mentioned in the Talmud, are everywhere confused with the books of the Menaians; They hugged quite a lot. The Sadducean lists fit this concept The Pentateuch, perhaps even with variants rejected by Rabbi Azkarot, are the written names of God, but some scholars (Rabbis Akiva, Ishmael and Taphron) were not even considered sacred. The rabbis ranked among the books the Sadducees and the book of the Son of Sirach, and the mysterious book of Ben-Laana. Subsequently, in The Amoraim era saw in these books one of the reasons for Acher’s apostasy.

Chapter 4

Magarians (cave dwellers) and Carians

The Maghari sect is so named because its books were found in caves - "margar". The best book found in the cave belongs to the work Alexandrian (Iskenderani). The Magarians begin to count their months from the moment appearance of the new moon. Between them there are very serious people who recognize Laughter is a sinful activity. The Magharians explain many passages of the Bible incorrectly and in a ridiculous way. They attribute biblical anthropomorphisms to some kind of angelic a being to whom even the creation of the world is attributed. Philo of Alexandria and Josephus already knew about isolated dwellings, a serious lifestyle and developed angelology of therapists. The name of the Margarians (cave dwellers) is they they got it simply because they lived in caves. What should be seen in “The Alexandrian” is not none other than Philo of Alexandria. On the banks of the Nile, in Egypt, they live like this called "Carians" (pumpkin growers). The Carians got their name from the fact that They use pumpkin (kar) exclusively as utensils. They themselves derive their name, that is, the name of their sect, from John ben-Karey (John ben-Karey [Jer. XLI-XLIII]) - one of the prominent Jewish figures of the era of the destruction of the first temple, who resettled to Egypt, contrary to the admonitions of Jeremiah), whom they consider their ancestor. Why do they only use pumpkin dishes - the reason unknown. Probably this custom originated from the fact that the Carians, like The Samaritans consider all people unclean, which is why the dishes made by strangers is considered unclean and prohibited for consumption. So Thus, they are forced to make their own dishes, and the most suitable for this a material that does not require much effort turned out to be a pumpkin: pick it, clean out the inside, and the jug is ready, hence their universal use of pumpkin dishes. Carians celebrate two days a week: Saturday and Sunday.

Chapter 5

Isavnians, Yudganites and Ananites

The founder of the Isavian sect was Obadiah, nicknamed Abu-Isa-Isfahan. He lived in 686-705. according to R. X. and pretended to be a prophet. Inciting a rebellion against the local sultan, Obadiah formed a decent army from his followers, boldly went on a campaign and was killed. With particular persistence the Isavians they say that he was a simple tailor, a complete ignorant who could not write or read, but despite the fact, precisely because of what was acting in him with a prophetic gift, he published books and wrote essays, he did not take lessons from anyone literacy. Of the numerous once followers of Abu Isa, only pitiful remains remain. remnants in Damascus: now there are only 20 Isawites.

According to the teachings of Abu Isa, divorce was prohibited, like the Sadducees and Christians; one should pray 7 times a day, based on the saying of David (Ps. 119.164): “Seven I praise You once a day.” He preached vegetarianism and strict abstinence alcoholic beverages, based on an alleged revelation from above. Extolling rabbis to heaven, Abu Isa put them on the same footing as the prophets and claimed that God himself ordered him to read the prayers “Shemona Esre” (18 blessings) and “Shema” according to the Rabbanite charter. Abu Isa recognized Jesus Christ and Mohammed as prophets and said that they received missions only to their own people: therefore he ordered consider the Gospel and the Koran as edifying and soul-saving books and get acquainted with the comments available on them. “Christians and Muslims,” he said, “must keep their law, and Jews – theirs.” Yudgan is considered the founder of the “Yudganites” sect. He is considered a student of Abu Isa. He, like his teacher, appropriated the title of prophet to himself, and his disciples believe they even say that he is not dead, and therefore they await his coming.

Yudganites consider abstinence from meat and wine and very strictly observe prayers and fasts. They claim, however, that observance of Sabbaths and prayers is not at all necessary for our time; if they are observed, it is done simply as a pious remembrance.

"Ananites", followers of the famous Anan, who lived during the time of Caliph Abu-Jafar-Al-Mansur (754-775 AD). Anan was the first to reveal the whole truth about religious laws. According to teaching, on the Sabbath it is forbidden to wear only large weights requiring back work, which is based on the verse of Num. VII, 9; small ones It is not forbidden to carry heavy loads on Saturday. Matzo (unleavened bread) should be prepared made exclusively from barley flour, which represents the bread of poverty. Repetitive he decided to consider "Shevat" and not "Adar" to be the month of the leap year; "abib" should, in his opinion, be determined no later than 24 Shevat. Anan brought to life long ago the calendar order already compiled by the Jews, according to which the leap year was determined depending on the state of the crops before Easter. Anan believed in the transmigration of souls and even expressed his thoughts on this matter in a special book. Kirkisani (special researcher) says that the Ananites are strictly not adhered to the teachings of Anan regarding the afterlife. Ananites during Kirkisani, as he testifies, was already very few, and their number is increasing every day everything was decreasing.

Chapter 6

Benjamin an. Negavendi, sect of Maliki and Meshwians

Benjamin, with his theory, which he could have borrowed from the Magharians, was very resembles the philosophical theory of Logos. Benjamin taught: "The Lord Himself did not participate and does not participate in the universe and world management. He created one angel, who created the whole world, sent prophets, gave them the opportunity to create miracles, issued commandments and prohibitions, he still rules everything in the world autocratically, independently of God." Next he teaches such a boring and uninteresting nonsense that it is most convenient to stop presenting his teaching.

The teachings of Ismail-al-Okbari, who lived during the time of Caliph al-Matasin (831-842 R. X.), in most cases bordered on madness. Prudent people don't could listen to his absurd reasoning without laughing, nevertheless he imagined himself a celebrity and had followers. He did not recognize what the Masoretes had established rules that not all words of the Bible should be read as they are written - and to oneself contradicted, arguing that the existing text of the Bible is not without some errors requiring changes, etc.

Musa al-Zafrini. Musa, known as Abu Imran of Tiflis, was originally from Baghdad, but then settled in Tiflis, where he acquired followers who existed in the last century. Musa did not leave any writings behind him, no matter where his entire religious system was expounded in detail, but it is known that in some On points he diverged from the views accepted among the Rabbinites. Pentecost he celebrated on Sunday; prohibited the consumption of fatty parts of animals and embryos, and also prohibited marriage with a niece. He wrote answers to Hiwi's questions (Al-Balkhi, a famous skeptic and freethinker), outlined in a small notebook arguments for eating meat, against vegetarianism.

Sect "Milikijcev" founded in Ramla (in Palestine) by Malik. Apparently Abu Imran, Malik did not leave a code of his religious views, although his teaching agrees with the teachings of Abu Imran. One day Malik while visiting Jerusalem stood on the site of the former temple and solemnly swore that on the altar of the existing Here, once in the temple, roosters were sacrificed, etc.

The founder of the Meshwi sect was Meshwiah, who lived after Ismail in Okbara, where his followers, as Kirkisani testifies, live. Regarding doctrines Meshwiya, he allowed the consumption of lard. Meshviya borrowed his teaching from inhabitants of Jebal (ancient Media). Regarding the time of celebration

Pentecost Meshwiah did not give specific instructions. Pentecost, he says, must fall on Sunday; but, not wanting to take responsibility, he decided to celebrate Pentecost with the Rabbanites. He ordered Easter start celebrating on Thursday, citing the fact that Yom Kippur (the day of forgiveness) must certainly fall on Saturday, as this day is called in the Bible "Shabbat Shabbaton" is the Sabbath of Sabbaths, and in it, therefore, must be combined two Saturdays: ordinary Saturday and Yom Kippur. Meshviya also decreed a rule regarding the "qibla" - the direction of the face during prayer: it should always be facing west - i.e. i.e. with the back of the head towards Jerusalem. Daniel ad-Damagani is the last reformer. He left a code of his opinions and gained followers. His original teaching about archangels differs from the existing Jewish teachings, that is, from the rabbis and Karaites.

Daniel calls angels unknown beings, gifted with life, possessing the gift of speech and receiving, like the prophets, various teachings from Lord, but by such natural phenomena, such "bodies", as he put it, such as fire, clouds, smoke, etc., through which the Lord accomplished everything he needed to do. earth.

Daniel's Law: Fish blood is prohibited. Locusts are allowed to eat only those four types that are mentioned in the Pentateuch. Forbidden at night Do a lot of work with women so as not to be late for prayer in the morning. He installed The rule is that religious majority occurs in men after 20 years of age. It is known that among rabbis, the implementation of religious laws becomes obligatory after 13 years.

Chapter 7

Sadducees and Pharisees

The Sadducees sect mocked the teachings of their ancestors. Sadducees rejected the resurrection of the dead, the existence of angels and the future life; despised customs domestic; ancient customs, in their opinion, were only suitable for ancient people. The Pharisees are a sect of hypocrites; in contrast to the Sadducees, the ancients domestic customs, in their opinion, constituted the life of modern peoples. The Pharisees, in view of the decline of Judea, preached that the exact fulfillment Jewish rites and customs have the same meaning as fulfilling the law Moiseeva; finally, during the very fall of Judea, the Pharisees decreed that performing various ablutions and other rituals and, in general, the instructions of the Talmud - above the law of Moses. Caring exclusively about the preservation of nationality, the Pharisees and The Savior was condemned to death because He preached that His kingdom was not of the world this, that it is necessary to pay taxes to Caesar, and so on.

The Pharisees expected a different kind of preaching from the Messiah. They were in the highest degree hypocrites, performers of external rites. Their real heirs are we have a sect of Kabbalists, or Hasidim, superior in their meanness ancient Pharisees.

Chapter 8

Polish Hasidim and Kabbalists

The origins of Hasidism are rooted in views that Jews borrowed from Indians, Babylonians, Persians, Egyptians, Phoenicians and, finally, the Greeks, especially from the school of Platonism. (According to these principles, the main deity is called "En-Sof" (infinite), "En Shem" (nameless), "Shtike" (silence) and "Menukha" (peace), has its residence in the highest heavenly spheres and has nothing in common has with visible and invisible world. From this deity came another, lower deity, Jehovah, the creator of the world, the liberator of the Jews from Egyptian slavery and the Sinai legislator. In order for this last deity to be productive, he was given a wife “Matrona” (Matronite - they did not disdain the purely Greek word) under the name “Shekhine”. From this couple came other divine couples under the name “Sephiroth” (from the Greek word sphera). Like their prototypes, the Greek gods, these divine couples were not distinguished by family virtues, for “in heaven there is no incest” (en erva milmaala), “in heaven there are no laws of morality and modesty” (en hak tsennot umusar milmaala). At the same time, they did not forget to mention the mutual kisses and hugs of the divine couples in love. The Talmudists pursued this teaching under the name of "Greek wisdom" (khakhmat gavan), and it could never have been grafted onto Judaism if the Talmud itself had not prepared the ground for it, creating an antecedent for it by its deliberately incorrect imposition on the words of Moses of a meaning that they did not had to give more sanction to their reforms, which for the most part were useful and necessary. If almost all Talmudic reforms can be attributed to Moses under the name of the “oral teaching of Sinai,” then why not impose on him the secret “Greek wisdom”? And little by little this wisdom penetrates invisible into Talmudic schools and turns into “Kabbalah” (tradition), also taught by Moses at Sinai. Until the 13th century. The most prominent representatives of rabbinism considered Kabbalah to be of little importance and recognized that it was not worth worrying about. But in the 13th century. is Moses de Leon (1250-1305) with his apocryphal work “Zohar”, which de Leon attributed to Tinaim Rabbi Simeon ben Jechai (lived in the middle of the 2nd century AD). In this work, in the name of the Sinai teachings of the Talmud, even the Pentateuch is reduced to the level of a “handmaid of Kabbalah,” with the help of which one can work miracles and even hasten the coming of the Messiah. From that time on, Kabbalah ceased to be theoretical, it became “practical” (Kabbalah-maasiis). Although the then greatest representative of rabbinism and theoretical Kabbalah, Moses Nachmani, persecuted this practical Kabbalah, nevertheless, thanks to external circumstances, the latter managed to take possession of the minds of almost all Judaism. No matter how great the harm that Kabbalah caused to Jewry, we must give it justice: with its groundlessness and fantasticality, it gave new strength to Judaism, which, by virtue of ordinary human logic, should have perished. On the one hand, the best heads of Judaism fell under the blows of the Inquisition or perished in its dungeons, and on the other, the logical, scholastic mixtures of rabbinism lost their healing qualities, as can be seen from the despair of many rabbis of that time, almost reproaching Jehovah for injustice to to the Jews. True, thanks to Kabbalah, Judaism experienced strong crises during the times of the false messiahs Sabbatai Zevi and Jacob Frank, the Kabbalist rabbi Jonathan Eibenschutz and the first generation of Tsaddikism; nevertheless, Judaism, having accepted so many moral poisons into its body, became accustomed to this poison, which little - Little by little he began to atrophy and lose his sharp character, especially since she, Kabbalah, did not fulfill her promises. At present, foreign rabbinism, even orthodox, assigns to Kabbalah the place that modern science assigns to mythology; Russian rabbinism tolerates it like an old, deep-rooted evil. But it continues to influence the Russian-Polish Hasidim under the name of Tsaddikism, which, true to its principles of the aforementioned Greek wisdom, has remained pagan, contrary to Judaism. Here is the genealogy of Tzaddikism...

It is quite natural that the Jews, disappointed in their fanatical hopes for future glory, surrounded by all sorts of inconveniences for external existence, so to speak, concentrated and closed their natural imagination in narrow sphere of only inner, spiritual life, and this life, hitting mystical direction, the Talmud developed, which has been written since then the most important part of Jewish life and everyday life. So, for example, in the environment of Polish Jews is Rabbi Israel Bol-shem-tov, reforms Kabbalah and replaces its Hasidism, which admits that a person can have communication with spirits, does not breaking away from worldly pleasures and moderate material pleasures. Such the view is conveniently grafted onto the Jews, and Hasidism, gradually acquiring followers, finally embraces all of Poland and its neighboring provincial areas. Being in constant religious exaltation, Jews greedily grab at new reform, since they found it a very convenient thing to use at a time the benefits of present existence and at the same time prepare oneself for communication with perfume.

Created on the ruins of Kabbalistic teaching, whose main task is to know God, Hasidism opens up a vast field of fantasy, bringing it to the crudest level. beliefs that people, i.e. Jews, are in personal relations with heavenly powers and By God Himself, to Whom the positive, continuous patronizing participation in all the most insignificant accidents of petty, everyday life, and even in incidents that are the result of one's own errors. Hasidism does not pay attention to the lessons of real life, wandering into fantastic fabrications that reduce him to the level of simple trust. The founder of this pseudo-religious (essentially fantastic) doctrine of Kabbalah, which arose at the end of the first half of the 18th century, was the above-mentioned Rabbi Israel Bol-shem-tov.

Polish Jews initially appropriated the name Hasidim to themselves not at all sense of some religious or ritual sect, but simply in honor of the founders Hasidism, but at the same time they somehow very quickly fell both in education and in morality. Taking advantage of this, the disciples of Rabbi Israel, called tzaddikim (righteous men) and balemofes (miracle workers), easily ignited the imagination of the masses; every rabbi had a special kamenzella1 of followers and hatched a whole special nest of Hasidim. Thus, the Hasidim of Mezhiritsky, Koretsky, Eravani (in honor of the Lithuanian tzaddik named Rav), Chernobyl, Braslav, Kaidanov, Kotskov, Sandarur, Yas, Promyshlyan and others. Despite these local names of Hasidim, they are in no way In this case, names cannot be given a sectarian meaning, and in reality they are all the strictest followers of the minutest precepts of the Talmud.

The founder of Hasidism, Rabbi Besht, acquired zealous students: Rabbis Yakov-Joseph Cohen and Ber; Besht and Ber influenced with their books; he was in in the full sense of the word, the literary apostle of Hasidism. Thanks to his books, numerous sayings of Besht became known for the first time, containing a whole religious system. These books laid the foundation for Hasidic writing, which subsequently grew to enormous proportions. The main work of Jacob Joseph - his commentary on the Pentateuch - is a collection of sermons spoken and written for 30 years between 1570 and 1780. 1 A group of his followers.

This essay is not a "commentary", but a reading on texts taken from various chapters of the Pentateuch. There are quotations from the Talmud, midrash, Kabbalah, and from the religious and philosophical works of the Spanish school. Quotes are common (a very disgraced book among the orthodox) from the "guide of the wandering" by Maimonides. All quotations serve only as threads on which a series of thoughts, opinions, reasoning and interpretations are strung. The most important element of the book is the sayings of Besht.

Machine Translated by Google

It says: “In prayer there must be an excited state, not only spiritual, but also physical, necessary during prayer: the voice of Jacob, and the hands of Esau. We (Hasidim) pray not only with delight and in a loud voice, but at the same time we wave and clap our hands, as a result of which we, the children of Jacob, take away the hands (i.e. physical strength) from Esau and use them also for a holy cause.”

All Besht’s students who were honored to see him and listen to him from their own Hasidic wisdom from his lips, some number up to 40, others even up to 70. One of the main adherents of Hasidism was later in Lithuania - in Vilna, Elijah, who gained enormous popularity. Already in middle age, he began to be called “pious” or “saint” - an honorary epithet given to him thanks to his holy hermit life, and then he was awarded the greatest title of “Gaon” (“Gaon” is a great genius, and this most honorable title has grown together with the name of Elijah that they began to call him simply the “Vilna Gaon”). But the Gaon had his favorite philosophy in the form of Kabbalah. He studied the theoretical Kabbalah to its intricacies and even compiled an interpretation of the Zohar, the Book of Creation, and similar codes of secret wisdom. In practical Kabbalah, he was a strong admirer of Isaac Luria. And so, under such and such a person, who served as the personification of Talmudic Judaism, taken to extremes, in the very nest of militant rabbinism, in Lithuania, ruled by the all-powerful kahal, there is a sect that denies the importance of studying the Talmud, and the benefits of asceticism, and, in addition, allows itself changes in sacred rites! How could one not take up arms against such heretics; How could they not have started a desperate, deadly struggle?.. The Lithuanian Hasidim fully deserved the name “heretics,” of course, from a rabbinic point of view. The reasons for the emergence of Hasidism in Lithuania were completely different from those in Ukraine. There, in the South, Hasidism was accepted unconsciously, instinctively, on the one hand, as a teaching more accessible to the common people, and on the other, as something that warms the heart, comforts in sorrow and provides oblivion of earthly sorrows in religious ecstasy. In Lithuania, the success of Hasidism - although due to the deep-seated fear of the Kahal - was the result of fanaticism and consciousness. In the first decade of the existence of the Hasidic sect in Lithuania, there was not a single tzaddik, and subsequently that crude cult of tzaddik, into which Hasidism finally degenerated in the South, did not take root. The priestly cult, which appealed to the dark Jewish mob in Little Russia, was not suitable for the Lithuanians, who themselves constituted almost the entire class of priests - the “kingdom of priests” (Levites). The beginning of the spread of Hasidism in Lithuania should be dated approximately to the mid-1760s. The preacher from Mezhirich, Besht's successor, was the first who began to propagate Hasidic teachings. For the first time, Talmudic scholars from Lithuania and Belarus began to come to him in order to receive initiation into the secrets of the new teaching. In the city of Vilna, although the Hasidim were hiding, the noisy, exalted worship gave them away. They were denounced by the Vilna rabbis: “They are behaving like crazy. They scream during prayer, interrupt it every now and then, jump, rage so that the earth is torn apart from their screams.” When the Hasidic sect was discovered in the city of Vilna, the all-powerful Kahal of Vilna ordered to capture all the leaders of the sect and bring them to trial in the general meeting. Representatives of Chaim, who, although he repented, was nevertheless subject to excommunication. Issar was detained with some of his followers and subjected to strict interrogation in the presence of three “bes-dins”. When the representatives of the kahal - the nobles - reported to the gaon on the results of the last interrogation and asked his opinion, Gaon Elijah expressed his will that the most decisive measures be taken against the “apostates” and added that pursuing, driving out and driving such people out of the world is a “good thing” God." Then a new meeting of judges and kagals took place "nobles" presided over by the great chief rabbi, Rabbi Samuel. Court decided: the found heretical manuscripts should be burned publicly in the synagogue; "gatherer" same mug," the unrepentant sinner Issar, forced in the synagogue, in front of everyone people, confess their apostasy and read the confession formula compiled by the demon; after this the synagogue minister must say excommunication - "herem" - over Issar and all his like-minded people. When the Gaon Elijah was informed about this decision of Bes-Din, he very much regretted the easy condemnation a heretic and wished that Issar be subjected to the most shameful punishment, a decree in the "kuna"[1]. But for some reason the Kahal representatives did not find possible to agree to this proposal, and therefore replaced the "kuna" with blows (malkot), and Issar was punished with a "kanchuk" (Cossack whip). The next day from all over Jews gathered in the city in a large synagogue, where the herem was read publicly and decree of condemnation of Issar and his comrades. During the entire week, when Issar's trial was carried out, he was kept in strict confinement in a kahal prison called "schloss". What happened to Issar after his trial and release is unknown. He was probably sent to Abraham because he went missing. If

If he had survived, then, probably, the Galician or Little Russian Hasidim would have named him thundered as a martyr and sufferer for his idea. Jewish writers themselves reveal the bloody reprisal of the Kahals against all their brothers.

1 Kuna - an iron folding ring embedded in the wall, closing around neck. This instrument of torture and execution was placed in the "kahal hut".

The Vilna Kagal and the spiritual court decided to announce everywhere the anathema pronounced against the Vilna Hasidim, and sent it to the main communities of Lithuania and in other areas, circulars calling for a widespread struggle against heretics. For to achieve the first goal, the kahal obliged all nonresident Jews who were in Vilna during the trial and anathema of the Hasidim, notify your khals or your relatives, friends and acquaintances about everything they saw, in the name of the commandment to "disclose the wicked." To achieve both goals on a large scale, the Vilnius zealots prepared broadcast messages to the most important Jewish communities, containing an appeal for the persecution and eradication of secret Hasidic societies. These appeals were sent signed by the Vilna Gaon, all rabbis of Vilna, as well as representatives of the kahal who participated in the spiritual court. The first appeals were in Minsk and Shklov, because there, as the official statement says, decree, "the main nest of ungodly heresy." The same appeals were sent were also to all other main cities, such as: Grodno, Pinsk, Slutsk, etc. This message, dated 1st Yar 5532, i.e. in April 1777, was obviously compiled after the trial over Issar. The Hasidim could not resist in Lithuania against the combined forces of two powerful authorities - the clergy and the kahal. The reaction succeeded in temporarily weakening the Hasidic sect. It was possible, on the one hand, to temporarily reduce the number of Hasidim, and on the other hand, to temporarily force sectarians to hide and be quiet. The Hasidim had to recover from defeat and gather your strength again. This state lasted for several years, from 1773 to 1780. Only in Lithuania - in the country of the powerful kahal, who had at his disposal prisons, a whip, a rolling hut with a "kuna" and the death penalty - the Hasidim were supposed to for the time being, to remain silent, subdue and fade away. They did so; but secretly Hasidism grew and became stronger in these apparently quiet years, gathering strength and preparing for open war, which soon broke out. The first and second sections have arrived Poland, all circumstances changed, and Hasidism revealed all its strength and power, took precedence over rabbinism by the wealth of his society and the number of its members. Victory remained with the Mishnagid. However, the Hasidim hatred against Jewish Lithuanians remained forever; they call Jews Lithuanians dogs. (“Uy, litvak gund, ganev apikeires”). There are no Lithuanian Hasidic teachers accepted.

Machine Translated by Google

Kabbalism has given rise to a lot of dreamers, or rather, charlatans, who, fogging them with a darkness of mysterious interpretations incomprehensible to anyone, exploited the stupid and gullible crowd. For example, you can take the story Sabbat-Zvi: if success had accompanied the preaching or teaching of this false prophet to the end, then Mohammed’s time would have repeated itself. The appearance of Sabbat Zvi and the significant spread of his teachings, in any case, speaks in favor of the fact that The Talmud does not yet satisfy the Jewish masses, and among the rabbinists themselves there lives the need for renewal or continuation of his fantasies, which were carried away by these Arabic tales, similar to the Arabian Nights stories. At the end of the 18th century In Italy and Spain, Simeon ben Jochai wrote the book Zohar. This book gave rise to a number of Kabbalistic works. Among others, Isaac Lurie, who died in his early youth, became famous in Kabbalistic science. Kabbalah spread not only in Italy and southern France, northern Spain and southern Germany, but also embraced the countries subject to the Turks. At the beginning of the 17th century. in Turkey, in a village in Asia Minor, there lived a Jew Naphtali, who collected herbs and sold them to Egyptian doctors and merchants for embalming. He had a son, Samuel, who was considered the greatest astrologer. Once upon a time, both of them, together with the Jewish preacher Abraham, happened to be visiting in Smyrna the Jew Morduch Zvi, who was expecting an increase in his family. They They predicted to Zvi that he would have a son, the redeemer of Israel, the future messiah. Indeed, Morduch gave birth to a boy who was circumcised and named Sabbatai: this is the beginning of the story of Sabbat-Zvi, the continuation of which can be found in book 2, tract. IV, o messiah.

Talmudic Jews treat Hasidim as schismatics and dangerous people. IN in public kahal synagogues, a Hasid can pray according to his own understanding only in a whisper; as soon as he raises his voice in prayer, he betrays himself and is subjected to shameful expulsion. This encourages sectarians in the places where they live in in significant numbers, to arrange special chapels for themselves and perform divine services there according to their ritual. But the watchful eye of rabbis and kahals does not give them rest here either: Hasidic prayer houses are often and officially closed, due to the power granted to the kahals authorities, or they huddle somewhere on the outskirts of cities, in private premises, where the parishioners gather as if on the sly.

In relation to public ritual, Hasidim adhere to a special way slaughter of livestock - with sharply sharpened thin knives. Hasidim have their own special special butchers; they consider the meat of cattle slaughtered by a Talmudic butcher to be treasury. But the rabbis, feeling the strength on their side, often forbid them to cut cattle according to their method and thus deprive them of the opportunity to eat meat. So, for example, in “Pin-kose” (kahal journal) of the Minsk Jewish community is located: “Saturday, department Korach, 5558 (June, 1798). Resolution of the emergency meeting and the Kagal authorities. The canonical herem prohibits anyone and everyone from cutting in in our city, anything (from livestock and birds), besides local slaughterers. Same Our butchers hereem undertake not to use subtly under any pretext. sharpened knife when cutting something. If anyone breaks this decree, then everything that is slaughtered by them will be considered carrion.” Quite a few resolutions can be found in other old “Pinkos” - Lithuania and Belarus.

Machine Translated by Google

We now see widespread guerrilla warfare, we notice unrest and discord among the masses everywhere. Not only one clergy fights with another: not rabbis with tzaddikim, but in general one part of the people with another - mishnagids with Hasidim. The weapons of struggle are no longer accusatory or exhorting messages and not synagogue excommunications, but something more tangible. The religious struggle turns into an everyday one; the clash of principles and dogmas, penetrating the masses, becomes a clash of interests and passions of the common gesheft. This, however, is completely in the order of things. The personal and everyday element here, as usual, is intertwined with the social and spiritual. The rabbi attacked the tzaddik not only as a heretic, an enemy of the faith, but often as a personal rival who distracted parishioners from him. Religious zeal was often fueled by envy and selfish motives. One denouncing rabbi writes: “The ignorant leaders of the sect receive rich gifts from the crowd who believe in them, eat well, dress in silk, while true scholars are in a pitiful position. A stupid Hasid grows fat like a fattened boar and takes a place of honor, but a righteous man feeds with difficulty and is in poverty. There are eternal feasts and drunkenness, fun and carelessness, but here there is poverty, fasting and stale crust of bread” (Hasidic collection, ed. 1794, l. 25).

Thus, over time, the true meaning of the name “Hasid” was distorted in terms of Polish Jews! Religious disagreements between Hasidim and Mishnagid, i.e., rabbinists, are quite large. As soon as the Hasidim began to spread throughout the Western Russian provinces, the Jewish rabbis formally rebelled, as if the question had to be decided: to be or not to be Judaism. The rabbis, who under Polish rule still had quite a bit of administrative and judicial power among the Jews in their hands, sent out appeals about the persecution of the Hasidim. Hasidic preachers, tzaddikim, were forbidden to preach, and they themselves were required to renounce and publicly repent. Hasidic books were burned by Jewish rabbis, and the Hasidim themselves were persecuted and excommunicated; they were forbidden to have their own prayer houses, they were not ordered to be invited to the Sabbath, and on other days they were not allowed to seat two Hasidim side by side at the table. Some more zealous Jews even demanded a ban on eating their food and marrying them. Moreover, not content with these spiritual measures, the Jewish rabbis turned, as was their custom, to the help of the secular authorities. They raised all sorts of intrigues against them, slandered them as sectarians harmful to society, and brought matters to the point that some spiritual leaders of the Hasidim were on the way to Siberia and were returned from the road. This struggle against the Hasidim began around 1770 and lasted for almost half a century; many communities were completely impoverished by these processes; There were even such zealous rabbis who devoted their entire fortune and their entire lives to the cause of persecuting the Hasidim. The archives of our various ministries are filled with intriguing cases arising from the religious disputes of the Hasidim and Mishnagid.

An interesting fact from Jewish life is reported by a Kievlyanin correspondent from Bohuslav, Kanevsky uyezd:

“The local Jewish community was visited the other day by a certain Meshulog messenger to collect donations in favor of a righteous boy on the occasion of his upcoming wedding celebration in a month. The bride and groom are both children of eminent tzaddikim of the righteous. He is the son of the wise Rebbe Hetzel, she is the daughter of the glorious Rebbe Avrum-Shmul. The blessed residences of the groom and the bride's parents are widely known among the Jewish masses: the first of them lives in the borough of Kozin, Kanevsky district, and the latter lives in the borough of Berezny, Rivne district. To the groom, Reb Yosseli, currently barely 10 years old. His mother has long been in a psychiatric institution, in a department for the hopeless, and his father moved to the best of worlds about seven years ago. Thanks to this orphanhood of the young righteous man, his highly respected paternal uncle, the glorious Rzhishchev tzaddik Reb Avremele, took care of him, assigning to the person of his nephew, a righteous boy, a person who very wisely and skillfully combines the duties of the latter's closest servant, his zealous bodyguard and a leader. To cover the costs of maintaining the precocious tzaddik and his staff, there is one permanent mikhuloh messenger, whose responsibility is to collect donations among the motley admirers of the righteous youth, who are numerous in the South-Western region and in many other areas that are part of the permanent Jewish settled life. This time, instead of a permanent one, temporary meshuloch envoys belonging to the more respectable admirers of the righteous bridegroom were sent out to collect donations. It was decided to resort to the help of these latter in the hope that if any part of the collected donations would stick to their hands, then, perhaps, it would not be very large; but if they kept a very significant share of the collected amount for their benefit, then their participation would still be very profitable, since usually more substantial offerings are made to more honorable envoys. The above-mentioned uncle of the groom, the Rzhishchev tzaddik Reb Avremele, following public order, provided the volunteer messengers with printed wedding invitation letters, in which he, on his own behalf, diligently and lovingly asks the recipients to welcome them to the wedding. These invitation letters begin like this: "Good morning! Joy and rejoicing are in the dwellings of the righteous." "SPb. Led." July 16, 1892, No. 191.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 9 Tzadik - the head of the Hasidim

The head of the Polish Hasidim is the "Tzadik". When the tzaddik travels around his district, the Jews he is greeted like some king, not only his hands are kissed, but also the hem of his clothes, and his every word is taken as inspiration from above. The Jews believe that whatever he wishes and whatever he foretells, everything will come true according to his word; Whatever he asks God about, everyone will be rewarded according to his prayer. Each district has its own tzaddik, to whom all Jews obey. The Tzadik, so to speak, is the idol of Jewry and the main spring in the mechanism of Jewish life. Jews believe in the tzaddik as a deity, and say that without him the world cannot stand. In their opinion, there are all tzaddikim on the entire globe "lamed-liv", i.e. 36. If even one is missing, then the world collapses. The significance of a tzaddik for Jews is almost greater than that of God himself, since through his prayer he achieves that his decisions receive a divine character: "God determines, but the tzaddik cancels," say the Hasidim in the words of the Talmud. According to their teaching, the tzaddik is in constant communication with God and with the upper world, and the book of judgment of heaven is open to him. He knows the future of every person, which he predicts to his faithful (of course, for a good fee); and since the tzaddik, through his prayer, can change the definitions of God, then if any predicted punishment from God does not come true, this is attributed to the miraculous prayer of the tzaddik, as a result of which the punishment assigned to the person changed.

Each tzaddik teaches his followers in his own way, according to each of them's special imagination: hence, between the teachings of the tzaddikim there arises disagreement and enmity of life and death. Hostile societies against each other often produce fights among themselves, even large ones, so that criminal cases often arise. Tzadik Nachman of Bratslav was subjected to severe persecution by some temporary tzaddikim, and especially from the popular “Shpolyansky grandfather”, Rabbi Leib. Here are a few sayings of Nachman Bratslavsky from his works about the significance and authority of the tzaddikim. “The Tzadik was given the secrets of the universe, and without him we remain completely in the dark."

Machine Translated by Google

“Without the tzaddikim the world could not hold on... they are the helmsmen of the earthly vessel; They connect the Infinite and His Providence with the earthly, restore what has been broken and lead to unity. Everyone who comes to the tzaddik has a certain desire: the tzaddik exalts all these desires,” etc.

“The main thing on which everything depends is to become attached to the tzaddik and submit to all his commands without the slightest deviation. Even those who are far from the tzaddik receive light and bliss from him by the very fact that he overshadows them.” Nachman Bratslavsky, raising the cult of the tzaddik to such a height, does not stop at making it a duty for everyone, according to the custom of Christian confession, to confess before the tzaddik. “The Kingdom of God cannot be gained without confession before the tzaddik." “There are true tzaddikim who have the power to forgive sins.” According to his teaching, there are some tzaddikim above others, that is, those who receive grace from God directly, and from them other tzaddikim receive this grace. Bratslavsky teaches further, that every age has its own supreme tzaddik, and that such is he, Nachman: “Everyone needs me; and even to the tzaddikim themselves, who already know how to pray, I would be able to show that they do not know at all what prayer is.” "Even ourselves the tzaddikim have a need for me, for they need purification,” etc. “The Shpolyansky grandfather,” Rabbi Leiba, did not disdain in the fight against Nachman of Bratslav no means to humiliate the enemy's reputation. Nachman was declared a heretic, he cast curses on him and his adherents, and recognized him as ungodly communication with him, etc. “Haters of the Bratslav Hasidim have a place in heaven.” Some people express their assumption that hatred and malice "Shpolyansky grandfather" to Nachman Bratslavsky comes from the cause of the material properties when he settled near the residence of the Shpolyansky tzaddik. Although everyone the tzaddik invents the peculiarities of his teaching in order to cloud the eyes of his adherents, but they do not quarrel so openly and bitterly, because they live remotely one from the other and do not humiliate the authority of their comrades. The number of tzaddikim miracle workers is currently very significant. Tzaddiki reproduce quite successfully, thanks to the favorable environment of their life: every small place has its own tzaddik, surrounding him with all kinds of honor and respect. In every Hasidic society there is constant talk about holiness and miracles of the tzaddik'. The Tzadik plays a huge role in the life of Jews. All Hasidim turn with fear and reverence to the tzaddik for advice in important matters, in the event marital adversity, etc. He gives children to the barren, etc. The contemplation of a tzaddik is in itself a highly godly deed and the best path to the salvation of the soul, and in In this belief, Jews consider it a sacred duty to visit tzaddik - at least hang out in the hallway and look at him from there. The Tzadik is not a rabbi or a religious leader of the Jewish community; he is often even poorly versed in religious matters, and not only does not know the subtleties Talmud, but it often happens, especially nowadays, that one is even illiterate and in is extremely ignorant, and with his fanaticism only paralyzes any movement free thought in the Jewish world, making impossible any mental progress, any way out of the abnormal situation in which the Jews find themselves. G. Bogrov in his book “Notes of a Jew” characterizes tzaddikim this way: “Tzaddik are poisonous parasites feeding on the sweat and blood of their countless victims; these are the sowers superstition and darkness; these are unscrupulous factors in the stock exchange of religion; these are insidious mediators between heaven and earth; these are traders in heavenly products; This is an incurable cancer in the diseased body of the Jewish nation. The Tzaddik achieves his greatness and people's trust not through hard, diligent work, like a scientist; he gains fame not by fasting, prayer and mortification of the flesh, like a schema-monk or an ascetic; he reaches immortality not through dangers and hardships, like a warrior - he crawls straight out of the womb mother and is born into the light of God as a ready-made tzaddik. The Tzaddik eats without any harm all earthly blessings.

Machine Translated by Google

1 Admirers of tzaddikim extol their holiness and ascetic deeds: how, among other things, they assure the people that the tzaddikim seem to eat almost no food, prayer watches sink into the ground almost an arshin from tension; What they can perform miracles and have a date and even talk to God, and others absurdities.

Thousands work for it. He is cherished from the cradle like a prince of the blood. He's getting married in childhood and mostly on the most beautiful girl. Tzaddik's wife receives, along with the holy name of her husband, the title of “rabbi.” She enjoys the canine affection of her husband's minions. If this goddess descends to treat these lazy sensual dogs with gingerbread from her holy apron, that is, from the hallway of the room, then these dogs are at the height of happiness and bliss. Tzaddiki usually, like all people from the underworld, settle in the darkest the backwaters of Jewish settlements, from where they crawl out for their excursions with large precautions and only in emergency cases. They live spaciously, luxuriously, sometimes elegantly, have a whole gang of bodyguards, unscrupulous assistants and heralds spreading rumors about the wonderful, extraordinary deeds of these great husbands. Tzaddik possess a large amount of jewelry and have their own fat horses, their smart budas (Polish covered huge carts) and even carriages. Others maintain entire Jewish orchestras at home, for which they themselves compose mournful fantasies, which immediately pass to all Jews in the form sacred tradition. Gullible sons flock to these tzaddikim from all sides Israel, deceived by their false glory. Married infertile women pray to the tzaddik petition heaven for at least some little son. They charge a lot of money money, taking into account the condition of the petitioners, and - lo and behold! - after a meeting with the tzaddik and his assistants, just 9 months later the Jewish nation is enriched with one more small penis. After confession, the tzaddik gives some medicine to the seriously ill - like birch leaves, and the patients, having poured out their last rubles to him, return home completely calmed down. And not without reason: death does not hesitate to calm them down forever. However, the glory of the tzaddik does not suffer from such a failure: “The dead probably sinned again or did not follow the instructions exactly.” tzaddik." If, in the natural course of things, the body itself eliminates what is gravitating over evil, if the physiological processes of the body themselves manage to destroy the diseased element, then this phenomenon is attributed to the miraculousness of the tzaddik, and about Entire towns, cities and provinces are trumpeting this supernatural miracle.”

Chapter 10

Miracle of the tzaddika

Woe to him who angers the all-powerful tzaddik against himself! If his tzaddik curses - he perishes. The tzaddikim's spells almost always come true with amazing punctuality. “May the Lord punish him with fire, “Nodov ve Avihu (Nadab and Abihu)!” - the tzaddik will say, and (lo and behold!) after a while the property of the unfortunate actually catches fire and turns to ashes. “May he become poor like Job!” - the tzaddik will curse, and the cursed one will become poor in a short period of time, as church rat, because the Jews, fearing the wrath of the almighty tzaddik, immediately cease all commercial relations with the outcast, creditors begin almost with a knife to the throat, and debtors consider themselves entitled not to pay a single penny.

Machine Translated by Google

One very rich Jewish tenant, says Mr. Bogrov further, in for many years all the sickly children were born who were still in the cradle were dying. Neither doctors, nor grandmothers, nor healers could help this grief. Remained The only hope is for the tzaddik. But this tzaddik was raging somewhere far from the place where lived as a tenant. The journey there was fraught with great difficulties and huge costs. But what sacrifices will a child-loving father not make for the sake of life? your children? The tenant could not leave his affairs, and therefore he equipped his husband on the road and sent her alone, allowing her not to spare money, if only petition the tzaddik for longevity for your future children.

Arriving in a dirty Polish town where a Jewish saint reigned, she stays at the best Jewish inn (akhsanya). The owner is the tzaddik’s minion, enriched by numerous pilgrims and for that, with his side, serving as the tzaddik’s most faithful spy, deftly elicits from visitors the purpose of her visit, her grief and other details of her past life and the affairs of her husband. “I’m amazed,” he tells her with feigned compassion, “that it doesn’t occur to you still came to resort to the help of our great Rabbi. Now it's unlikely he will accept you. After all, with his spiritual eye he sees everything that is happening on earth and in heaven. He is probably angry with you and your husband. You must be great sinners if God punishes you so severely. Our Rabbi is unforgiving towards sinners.” - “For its own sake For the sake of God, for the sake of my poor children, master, intercede with me for a meeting with the tzaddik, and I will I will pay you generously for this,” prays the stupid Jewish woman. - "I! Oh my world! How dare I appear before his clear eyes! I am for you, but only for you, I can ask for his gab (assistant or first valet), but he needs to be paid well. I'm from you I won’t take anything, God forbid, you are my dear guest.” Several days pass, the innkeeper-owner presents his dear lodger with difficulties after difficulties, which, of course, are gradually eliminated, thanks to selfless efforts master and compliant corruption of Gabe. Finally, the sinner is given the desired audience.

Having prayed, fasted and cried, the petitioner appears in the front tzaddik. The poor woman stands on her feet for a long time, watching with bated breath numerous gays scurrying back and forth and timidly whispering between themselves. Every creak of the door leading to the shrine showers it with cold and heat. Nobody pays attention to her. She waits patiently. Finally one gab comes up to her and rudely asks: “What do you want here?” - “I was promised a date with the rabbi.” - “Who promised? The rabbi does not accept women." An experienced petitioner takes out wallet, what he needs, and almost forcibly hands it to the stern gaba. He softens. "I I will try to report to the rabbi and beg him to receive you. Don't forget to put rabbi on the table ten times eighteen chervonets (the number 18 has a mysterious meaning among miracle workers). Otherwise he will be unhappy with you. All this money will be given away the poor, for the atonement of your sins." After two hours, the doors of heaven open. The Jewish woman is roughly pushed into the tzaddik’s office and the door is closed behind her.

Sitting at the table is a puffed-up, shaggy-haired charlatan, gifted with an impressive physiognomy. He is wearing a white satin caftan, surrounded by the same belt, on his head skull cap made of white brocade. A huge book is open in front of him; but he doesn't read. Head it rests on two fat paws; eyes closed. He doesn't detect the slightest sign of life; he hovers somewhere in the higher spheres of the universe and talks with angels. The petitioner stands for a long time, unnoticed by the tzaddik, without taking his eyes off his face. divine man. Suddenly, unexpectedly quickly, the tzaddik turns his head and looks at the sinner with a quick, contemptuous glance. “Get out!” - he roars. - Get out! Get away, you atheist! Get out of my sight, whore! Out, out!!” The unfortunate woman, half-dead with fear, doesn’t know what to do, where to go. But, to Fortunately for her, the Gaboim run in and begin to beg and beg the Tsaddik. Finally he decides to give in - to speak to the sinner like a human being, although very strictly. Money long since torn from the tremulous hands of the Jewish woman by the compassionate gaba and placed in front of tzaddik. The Tsadik reveals to the sinner all the details of her past life, calculates the sins she committed; he knows all the ins and outs of her husband’s affairs, the date the births and deaths of her children, and even the dates on which all these events took place. With indescribable amazement and horror, the Jewish woman listens to the prophetic speeches of the saint. “Live here, unfortunate thing, for three more weeks. Repent and save your soul. Three Come to me every Monday in a row. I will beg for your salvation." Three times is tenant to the tzaddik. All day long she tinkers with the haba and with a generous hand lavishes her husband's vodka proceeds. Finally, the tzaddik allows her to go home. “Farewell,” he says, “go with God. In a year you will have a healthy child. If if you stop sinning, it will last long; if not, I will curse him myself. I I'm going to save your land. I’ll probably come and see you too. Give my blessing to your husband. Let him by that time prepare the same amount as you gave me for the poor."

The happy tenant returned home, and not after a year, but after less than 9 months resolved into a fat, healthy baby. Parents are delighted with their children, and from the great tzaddik. By the promised time, the tzaddik himself honored them with his visit. The great guest, like his large retinue, was received royally, fed and watered for slaughter and, in addition, presented with a significant amount of money.

The tenant and tenant were in seventh heaven and had been counting for a long time keep your dear guests. But one fine day, suddenly, out of nowhere This is why the tzaddik became capricious and, despite all the pleas of his hospitable hosts, left for some kind of gloomy mood of spirit.

The tenant and tenant saw off the guest, as usual. Returning home, they were horrified. The child screamed with all his might, rushed in all directions like he was mad and did not eat. What happened to the child? Is he sick? Summoned and grandmothers, and healers, and a paramedic, but no relief. A child dies, they don’t know what to do. “Go immediately for the tzaddik,” the tenant orders her husband, “and at what turn him back no matter what. We have probably sinned again, and the child will die if the tzaddik will not stand up for him.” The unfortunate father flies after the tzaddik and overtakes him somewhere. He insistently asks him to return and help the grief, but the tzaddik inexorable. What am I, your children's keeper, or what? I fulfilled my promise; wife gave birth healthy child. If you destroyed him with your sins, then blame yourself.” IN In the end, the tzaddik, however, gives in to the tenant’s promises and with a whole kahal sent to the patient. The child, meanwhile, had already screamed to the point that he was completely I lost my voice and was exhausted. The Tsadik examines him carefully. "In this unfortunate the child is haunted by a klipa (unclean spirit). Get out of here and leave me alone with sick. Whoever spies, I can’t vouch for his life.” With horror and closing their eyes, everyone runs out of the room. Within a few minutes A terrible scream of a child is heard in the distance, as if he was being cut. Everyone, especially the mother, terrible anxiety; but no one dares to look where the scream is coming from. Finally everything fell silent - and a minute later the tzaddik solemnly entered, carrying in his arms the calmed child. "Keep him safe! - he turns to the dumbfounded mother, - he is already healthy. Feed me and put him to bed. For the first time in my life I had to fight such a strong and stubborn demon! The Tsadik is showered with gold, and he leaves to continue working miracles. About This wonderfully instant treatment spreads rumors with electric speed. The stupid people consider this saint almost the Messiah himself. But the casket is just opened. A few years later this tzaddik had the imprudence to kick out one too much hyped gab. Out of revenge, the fired man told about everyone charlatanism and antics of his former patron, including the one described above the wonderful treatment, namely: when the tzaddik and his retinue said goodbye to the owners and went out to sit in the house, then only the sleeping child remained in the house. Taking advantage of this opportunity, one of the gays crept up to the child and stuck him with a sharp barley grain to that place of the body, for the designation of which some kind of Latin word... The whole treatment consisted in the fact that the grain was taken out of the scorched place.

"Warsaw Diary" this year (August) about the fanaticism of the Hasidim and their miracle workers-tzaddikim gives the following: "In the city of Novograd-Volynsky, a large The arrival of the tzaddik created a sensation. Admirers rode out to meet him several miles away. The Tsadik does not travel alone - he is accompanied by four "gaboim" who receive present. The Tsadik, according to general assurances, knows how to create real miracles... All you have to do, his followers assure, is to donate 18 rubles so that all your cherished desires came true. The ignorant strongly believe in his extraordinary ability women. Some three-kopeck coin that served the tzaddik is bought later in great demand. They give a ruble, two or more for it. They say, notes the Kiev Word, that The tzaddik himself collected more than 1,000 rubles here within six days, not not to mention the "gaboim", who were also not idle."

Chapter 11

Denunciations against tzaddikim

The tzaddikim and their inhumane deeds inspire in me such an irresistible disgust that it would be desirable to immediately express everything about them that characterizes them, and Do not touch this vile subject any further. For this purpose, I will allow myself to tell one more incident, which will show us to what extent the concept of the Jewish masses about nature and its Talmudic laws are perverted thanks to miraculous phenomena like described above.

During the previous reign, a denunciation of the Ryzhen tzaddik followed. His accused of charlatanism and exploitation of the Jewish people. Tzadik was imprisoned in fortress. The Ryzhensky rabbi was very rich. All Polish Jews stood behind him; Funds of fabulous size were made for him. As a result of the investigation, the denunciation, of course, turned out to be false... The celebration of the tzaddik began. A prominent class of Jews celebrated, drank, sang the wildest songs and danced through the streets. One of my friends, who was passing through a Polish town at that time, accidentally came across a crowd rampaging Polish Hasidic Jews. He knew nothing about it great event, and therefore, surprised by such delight at an unusual time, he addressed the crowd with questions. "Why are you, gentlemen, so excited? Today is not holiday. Are you celebrating a wedding? - "Who are you, a Jew or a Tatar?" - "I am neither one nor the other another thing, I'm German." - "Isn't he German! Otherwise I would have known about what happened to our great Ryzhensky rabbi." - "Well, what happened to him?" - "And here's what happened. On some informers of the Ryzhensky tzaddik - may their names be erased from the face of the earth! - wrote a denunciation. They accused him of fraud, oh my world! - and put in fortress. But ours is not like that; doesn't like to joke. He was released the other day. They

I didn't want to go out, they barely asked him to." - "Why didn't he want to go out?" - "Because he was very, very angry. "They dare to put me, the tzaddik, in prison!" - he shouted and did not want to leave for anything. But, finally, he was begged and left." - "Who begged?" - "It is known that the police and the governor-general asked for a long, long time, but it did not help; finally, the Jews themselves gathered as a whole kahal and sent him away. beg". "It's strange," the German answered mockingly, "as far as I know, the police rather asks to come in than to come out." - "Hm... Do you know how it was? Once upon a time our the great minister was driving somewhere at night. Suddenly he found himself in a dense forest, horses They stopped and didn't move, but the courier's arms were so weak that he couldn't even lift the whip. The minister was scared to death, jumped out of the tarantass and wanted to run, when suddenly He is a fiery angel with a huge fiery saber in his hand. "Get out of jail my tzaddik," the angel cried, "or..." "Oh, hey, I'll let you out!" the great one promised minister Now you understand why both the police and the Governor General himself are so asked the tzaddik to leave the fortress?"

But, as it turned out later, the Ryzhensky tzaddik believed in his strength much less than his followers. Soon after his release from the fortress, he fled abroad, somewhere to Galicia. Until recently, the son of this tzaddik excited the minds of Jews.

The sermons of the tzaddikim are not at all similar to the ordinary sermons of spiritual persons of any religion. Tzadikim do not give sermons, spiritual speeches, compose their own public words and do not match the given texts with the given by chance, they do not memorize a sermon left by their father, grandfather or another who lived a hundred years before the tzaddik, and parade this wisdom throughout the whole your spiritual field. It's all about variations, sophisms and cabalistic theorems, which are speckled with funny grimaces, antics, sighs and screams. The audience, with the exception of two or three Hasidim scholars, was exactly does not understand anything from all this voluble. Most people don't understand even the Hasidim, and even the tzaddik himself, almost never understands himself; nevertheless the Jewish public comes to an indescribable delight from these sermons.

In one Polish city, severe cholera appeared; Jewish society in general - and the cholera committees in particular - were unusually active during this sad era. For all that, the lower class of the Jewish population was dying as flies.

Joyful rumors spread throughout the city about the imminent arrival of some tzaddik, although still young, but already famous for his miracles throughout Jewish to the world. He was especially famous for his specialty in expelling cholera, which, according to the Hassadim, feared the tzaddik worse than the plague.

The Hasidim said that he had some specific mysterious remedies against cholera, from which she fled without looking back. The Jewish people rejoiced with great joy. The Jewish society sent him a whole deputation, which was obliged to speed up his arrival and as an honorary escort the guard to the city. An apartment was prepared for the Tsadik with everyone amenities. Large savings were made for him. The big day has finally arrived his solemn entry into the gates of the city. Jews poured out in droves meet a great husband. In triumph, a crowd of Jews brought him to his apartment, and whole For days afterwards the Jews came in and out of it. Crowds of women and children from morning to in the evenings people crowded around the house where the tzaddik lived in order to somehow, even if briefly, enjoy seeing him. Cholera meanwhile, as if not noticing its ruler, continued her ferocious work.

Chapter 12

Machine Translated by Google

Tsadik drives out cholera

Tsadik, having rested for two days from the road, began experiments in expelling cholera. For the experiment, he needed a dead man from the Kogon caste. In the whole caste of the Cogons of the city of L. there was not a single Roman Curtius; no one wanted to die on purpose for the good of society. Finally, cholera itself, as if in mockery of the tzaddik's self-delusion, strangled one old Kogon man, a bitter drunkard. The Tsadik himself took care of his burial; he entrusted the dead man with the honorable task of earthly envoy. For a long time he whispered into the dead man's ear his oral instructions on how he should behave when appearing before the Supreme Court, and in what terms he was obliged to intercede for Jewish society. The whispering process continued for quite a long time. The dead man listened to him attentively, silently. The Jewish community that framed this original scene looked with bulging eyes at a living man who was seriously talking with a dead man. The Tsadik, having completed negotiations with his envoy, handed the dead man a written petition to the Supreme Court. He was afraid that Kogon would be considered an impostor. The contents of this strange written document were approximately as follows: “We, the undersigned, are the earthly court, in the name of the Creator of heaven and earth, in the name of the Creator of the four elements, the sun, moon and heavenly stars, in the name of the heavenly Father of all angels, demons, creatures of the earth, underground, air and underwater, in the name of the great Jehovah, we beg and conjure you, O supreme court, to destroy the contagious epidemic (magefa) and heal the children of Israel from all ailments and evil diseases, turning them on the head of their sworn enemies, idolaters, for the glory of the Lord and for the glory of Israel, forever and ever. Amen". This document was sealed with the signature of an entire temporary court under presided over by the tzaddik himself. The honorary dead messenger was buried with extraordinary ceremonies, in the presence of the entire Jewish population of the city, in the eastern corner of the old cemetery. Then the tzaddik, climbing onto a fresh embankment, preached a sermon similar to the one we described above. At the end of it, he led the whole flock of Israel back to the city, singing psalms along the way with the whole company. The Jews, who brought the tzaddik home, destroyed a whole bucket of vodka and dispersed to their homes, awaiting the result of relations between the earthly and the supreme courts.

A whole week passed in vain. Whether the choice of the envoy was unsuccessful, or the drunken parliamentarian did not dare to appear where he was ordered; whether he fell into a deep sleep after sixty years of drunkenness, or whether the petition was not accepted due to non-certification of such by the police; but this experience of the tzaddik turned out to be invalid. Cholera became angry and strangled the Jews without any mercy. Faith in the tzaddik did not weaken; The great magician and wizard began another experiment.

He transferred his plan of action directly to the cemetery itself. Through his assistants, he hired a soldier of the Christian faith and gave him the following instructions: “You stand all day at the gate of the cemetery. When they bring the dead, ask: “Where are you going?” They will answer you: “To the cemetery.” - "For what?" They will tell you: “Bury the dead.” - "Who is he?" - "Jew." Then you shout: “Get out of here: there is no place for Jews here!”

The soldier agreed, having received payment for it. The undertakers (chevra kadisha) were given appropriate instructions. They were obliged to carry back the dead, not allowed in by the Cerberus soldier, for a whole day, and store them until the next day in the public room. This experience, however, ended in the most scandalous way. A retired soldier, an impromptu cemetery doorman, turned out to be a notorious drunkard and a daring animal. With the money he received, he managed to make such a living that although, out of habit, he stood at his post, he finally played his role.

Machine Translated by Google

confused They brought a dead man. “Where are you going, rascals?” - he roared at undertakers. “We’re bringing the dead!” - they answered him. “You’re lying, what dead guy?” - “Jew.” - “Oh, Jew! Take it, brothers, there’s enough room for all the Jews!”

The Jews, as one can easily imagine, bristled and attacked with various reproaches and curses at the retired servant. Military ambition began to boil in offended guard: he began reprisals, and the undertakers, cowardly, fled, leaving dead man at the cemetery gates. The Jews were terribly embarrassed by these failures. Some the brave souls began to quietly doubt the omnipotence of the tzaddik. “What a misfortune! - groaned one half-idiot. — In other cities, cholera went away as soon as the tzaddik he ordered, and then he does this and that, and she, damned, doesn’t move.” “I doubt whether she was listened to in other cities,” one Jewish dared to timidly remark. a factor reputed to be a freethinker. “How dare you doubt, bastard? This obviously. Unfortunately for us, we got caught, as if on purpose, both a drunkard Kogon and a drunkard soldier. If there were others, we, of course, would have long been free from our grief.” - “If the tzaddik sees everything that happens on earth and in heaven, as the Hasidim claim, how did he choose such drunkards who ruined the whole thing?” - “Don’t you think that Will the tzaddik even drop into taverns?” - "Don't know. I doubt, however, that the tzaddik was stronger than cholera." - "Stronger. You will see for yourself that sooner or later, cholera will go away from here." - “It will go away, but when?”

There was nothing left for the Tzadik to do to restore his reputation, but resort to a new experiment. He ordered to find two poor orphans, a boy and a girl, and marry them in the cemetery. A similar jewel in Jewish communities were not difficult to find. The wedding was scheduled for Friday. WITH very early in the morning, Jews and Jewish women, old and young, flocked from all sides to the place mysterious ceremony. A prayer service was held at the cemetery and psalms were sung, and At lunchtime they brought the bride and groom, magnificently dressed in strangers' clothes. dresses. They were married under a canopy by the tzaddik himself. Then he said one of his curly sermons. “Brothers! - he exclaimed at the end of all the ceremonies, - I congratulate you: there is no cholera, no cholera, no cholera! Let us rejoice and rejoice. Drink, eat, and face the coming Sabbath day calmly.” The feast went downhill. Not putting it in the back drawer, believing Jews, led by the tzaddik himself and Hasidim, immediately began to eat the stored fuses and immediately went overboard. The newlyweds were led in triumph, accompanied by an orchestra, to their appointed temporary apartment. A huge crowd of Jews, amused by both vodka and confidence in getting rid of the epidemic, she sang mournful songs. At every step There were funeral processions of both Russians and Jews. It was strange to see some carrying their bitter sorrow to the cemetery, and others carrying great grief from there. joy. There were generally more deaths on Saturdays than on weekdays; Jews by on Saturdays they do not prepare lunch, but eat what is prepared from Friday: it is clear that stale food had a harmful effect on these poor people. But this Saturday, on which Most of the Jews who believe in the tzaddik have abandoned all moderation in food and drinking, mortality increased tenfold. There was such a hubbub in the Jewish blocks that excited all the city residents. The tzaddik's miracles had no effect. And he would probably resort to new ones experiments, if administrative power had not interfered. Some of the doctors reported to the head of the province about the terrible harm caused by the tzaddik to the population. The head of the province sent his official on special assignments.

Chapter 13

About the arrest of the tzaddik and about cholera in Puÿtusk

Machine Translated by Google

Suddenly, the tzaddik’s apartment was surrounded by soldiers, they searched him, the cash was handed over to the mayor for eternal safekeeping, and the miracle worker himself They grabbed me and took me to the detention room. The next day the stage departed. There was no passage around the police from the Jews, who had been staring since the morning at the gates that should open up before the tzaddik-martyr. When the tzaddik, chained together with some tramp, taken out of the police yard, one factor who had the previous night Cholera put his wife to death, with a poisonous smile he approached the prisoner and mockingly asked: “Rabbi, who is stronger, cholera or the tzaddik?” - “Quarterly!” - answered the tzaddik[1] . Jews unaccountably believe not only in Talmudic tales, but also in everything that their spiritual head will say, even if this latter was not at all distinguished by holiness life (the first founder of tzaddikism declared that “the tzaddik has the right to sin as much as he pleases"), nor mental superiority. The tzaddiki always say to his listeners that he must blindly believe not only the Bible, the Talmud and others sacred books, but also to them, the tzaddikim; that the conviction of the truth of their words will come Then; that all sciences and knowledge that are not transmitted by tzaddikim or devout believers Jews are nothing more than darkness leading to ignorance and eternal destruction. Tzaddiki instill in Jews a deep belief that they have the opportunity to communicate with themselves God, who reveals to them the secrets of the past, present and future through dreams and visions; and with Moses and the prophet Elijah they can even talk in sabbaths, holidays, in person (in the jargon of the Talmud, Moses is called “Meishe-Rabiner, and Elijah-Lionoves”).

“This is a great tzaddik,” one Hasid said about his leader, “he is truly melah (king): on Sabbaths and holidays he hangs out with Meishe-Rabiner and Lionouwes. My wife had no children, Reb Yankel (tzaddik) deigned to say that there would be children, and she I immediately became pregnant."

“In our mikveh (pits where Jewish women are purified by immersion), - said the Jewish bathhouse attendant, - which you know and which must certainly contain nine Talmudic measures of water, one day, out of nowhere, a terrible viper (snake) appeared; That's why no one wanted to swim. And we have a law (order of the tzaddikim) that all women must bathe in the mikvah. Our resourceful Hasidim decided that they needed to send for advice to Reb Abram, and I went there and told everything properly. Reb Abram told me to go back and said that the viper was no longer in the mikvah. I came and became convinced of the justice of his saints words This is the gift of his omnipotence and omniscience!”

---

[1] Notes of the Jew Bogrov, chapter XII, p. 92.

In 1894, in the city of Puÿtusk, Warsaw province, there was severe cholera; Jews- To stop the epidemic, the Hasidim did the following, according to the instructions of their rabbi: in all Jewish houses, to the front door and other doors leading to living rooms, a padlock was hung in order to deceive the angel of death - “melachgamovesa, that the house and all the rooms are empty and locked.” The most diligent Jews hung two padlocks on their doors in order to further convince Melakhgamoves, that there have been no Jews in this house for a long time, and then Melakhgamoves will be forced to go further to Christian homes. Meanwhile, like the locks on the doors hanged, - in the hut the Jewish women are screaming and quarreling among themselves, probably in the belief that the Melakhgamoves is deaf and, when he comes to the door, notices only the padlock, and what in There is a terrible noise and scream in the room - but he doesn’t hear it.

According to the second instruction of the rabbi, it was ordered that all Jews be tied around their necks. a red woolen ribbon two fingers wide to deceive Melachgamoves when meeting on the street, who, seeing the redness on his neck from a distance, will think that this Jew

Machine Translated by Google

has already been stabbed to death by him, since blood is visible on the neck (the opinion is that Melakhgamoves is cutting with a knife deceased). The third method for cholera, indicated by the rabbi, which was carried out by the Jews town of Puÿtusk, was as follows: several rich Jews were found among peasant women in green rue in the flower beds, bought the whole flower bed, and cut it all off with gold coins greens, brought to the rabbi, who, during some ceremony, weaved from this rue rings and then gave them to wear on the middle finger of the right hand so as not to Cholera has arrived; but this did not help: the cholera worsened even more. Then the rabbi, having exhausted the entire supply of Kabbalistic wisdom, ordered the last resort to be used. They chose a bride and groom from among the poor Jews and brought them to the door synagogues, with a large crowd of Jews, with an orchestra of music, dancing, noise and screaming. This whole terrible crowd moved through the city to the cemetery, where, with great the newlyweds were married in celebration and dancing, and back again, with a similar uproar and uproar returned, jumping up and down with extraordinary joy, in the conviction that cholera had been caused by this kicked out; but cholera became even more embittered and began to kill countless Jews. Rabbi I was so scared that I locked myself in and didn't go out anywhere. Orthodox priest, priests and Lutheran pastor - everyone had been to cholera hospitals, prepared the sick for death, they read prayers over the dying, but the rabbi was nowhere to be seen or heard - even in Jewish hospitals.

The governor, who arrived to restore order, formed a sanitary detachment, who, acting energetically, stopped the further spread of cholera. When the governor was informed about the actions of the rabbi, he removed him from office, and Now this old fanatic lives at the expense of the Hasidim. When the cholera from all the tricks of the rabbi in the city of Puÿtusk did not stop, the Jews came up with the idea of transmitting the infection to Christians. In Guravsky's restaurant the owner himself, the printer Belchikovsky, and another visitor played cards in the evening; near there was an unlit room in which the window was unlocked. Suddenly the players heard something move in the hall: they went in there with a candle to look - and saw it on the floor a large package wrapped in paper. It contained cotton wool from a cholera patient. As we later learned, the Jews threw this package through the window into the hall to hand over infection to Christians. There were also complaints that various nasty things were found in bread purchased from Jews - with the same purpose of transmitting the infection to Christians. In addition to the tzaddik-miracle worker Morgenstern, who permanently resides in the settlement and collecting abundant tribute mainly from Hasidic admirers who come to him, two more tzaddik operate within our district, and with no less success. The first of them, Mordko Tverskoy, by the way, an Austrian subject, has long been chose the village as his residence. Kazimierz. But, not content with the arrival of admirers to him, this tzaddik from time to time makes a detour throughout the province, visiting everyone who for some reason could not come to bow to the tzaddik in Kazimierz. The tzaddik's travels are distinguished by great pomp: he is accompanied by his son - the successor of miraculous power - and a large retinue. On our own horses this cortege migrates from posad to posad, greeted and escorted by crowds Jews. The richest inhabitants argue among themselves for the honor of hosting the tzaddik. His stay in the house brings happiness to the inhabitants, exalts them highly in the eyes population, although both the tzaddik and his minions have to pay for this honor substantial amounts. M. Tverskoy is the favorite and darling of Jewish ladies; among them he enjoys extraordinary respect; only childless Jewish women turn to him asking for a blessing to end infertility. Therefore, with all our During his visits, the tzaddik organizes public prayers, where women are also allowed. After the prayers, the most eminent citizens are allowed to attend the meal.

tzaddik, paying considerable money for the right to serve at the table. Having shaken a plentiful harvest, the tzaddik returns to Kazimerzh, and in his footsteps the tzaddik living in Vonvolnitsa immediately leaves, visiting the same settlements for fear that Tverskoy took away his admirers, did not attract his admirers. Both tzaddik are enemies and fighting for influence. This enmity has penetrated among their admirers and often causes serious collisions. By the way, in relatively recent times the Wonwolskys the Jews noisily celebrated their victory. In the tzaddik's house, along with apartment for the ranks of the zemstvo guard. This random occurrence was interpreted as a sign respect of the administration for the person of the tzaddik, as the desire of the authorities to protect peace and personality of the tzaddik from frequent assassination attempts by the opposing party, and caused a noisy joy among his admirers. The last congress of pilgrims has just past Jewish holidays, did not go to worship the local tzaddik for him safely. The influx of visitors was very large. To perform the ritual To wash the hands, a huge hole was dug in the courtyard of the tzaddik's prayer house. Place the pit was poorly chosen; all the water poured into the neighbors' basement, significantly damaging the entire building. The tzaddik brought to justice is sentenced On September 29, the local commune court ordered the payment of damages to the homeowner and legal costs, which in total exceeded three hundred rubles.

Chapter 14

The Teaching of Tzaddikim

According to the teachings of the Tsadik-Zoharists, Adinoi is in relations with his "Knesses Israel", i.e. the faithful, through the Bible and through "isod", or "obrishkoides" (i.e. through the genitals, for he himself gives birth to wives for tzaddikim, and also Hasidim or Hasidim. With the coming of the Messiah, all Jews will be tzaddikim - and the tribe they will multiply enormously. According to Kabbalah, Jews will have loving relationships with a kind of houris, like a rooster with hens, and they will give birth as often and quickly as Nowadays chickens lay eggs. Then, according to the teachings of the rabbis, there will be a battle to the death with the Gentiles, having defeated them, the Jews will go across the leather bridge to “Erzes Ruel”, that is, to the Promised Land, to the already well-known solemn feast. The tzaddikim preach all similar teachings ignorant fans of the Talmud and Kabbalah, why are these blinded crowds Jews elevate their tzaddikim to the level of deity. Among the Jews, the tzaddik, as we have already said, is a lamp and a pillar of the house of Israel, a messenger from heaven, a great rabbi, a prophet. Because of this confidence, wherever he goes converts, he is solemnly greeted and seen off by entire communities with burning with candles in hands, and sometimes with music and singing psalms. Every saying, every his word is considered an inspired revelation from above, his every opinion is a dogma, every command is a law; especially from such rabbis they are afraid and curses tremble. Tzaddikim or rabbis of this kind were famous in their time: in Podolsk province - Mozhebozhsky, in Kyiv - Berdichevsky, in Minsk - Slonimsky, in Mogilev, in the town of Lyubovichi, and now there is a rabbi, very respected by the Jews.

These tzaddikim sometimes gather in some place to discuss common interests of the Jews and, always surrounded by many of their minions, constantly They send them to different places with letters to other rabbis and the most respectable Jews, zealots of the Talmud. As a result of such written consultations, rabbis often A general fast is imposed on Jews, lasting several days. During This fast does not prohibit a Jew from eating ordinary food; but every Jew, having determined in his conscience what his daily maintenance with his family is worth, must pay to pay such cost, according to the number of days of the imposed fast, with money entrusted to that collection to the person. The sums collected in this way are delivered to their chosen chief fanatics and are used for the common good of the Jews, for example: to deviate from their conscription communities, to apply for universal free Jews selling vodka, etc. Tzadikim believe and try to make others believe that they exist personification of God on earth. The distribution of harmful books among Jews, such as, for example, the book "Adas-Tzadikin" (miracles of the Tzadikim), supports this fanatical mood, as well as the tales of the Talmud about the terrible punishment of those who persecute Jews. Jews firmly believe in their tzaddikim and magits. "We had," says one writer, "the opportunity to see one Magite, whom the Jews respect more others and say about him that he belongs to those 36 tzaddikim for whose sake only the world exists." According to the same writer, one of the pious Hasidim assured that the forest not far from the city of Berdichev was left by the tzaddik without growth is already 200 years old, for the rudeness it caused to the magician, who had the gift understand the conversations of trees, birds and other animals, of course, not excluding pigs. To understand the Hasidic fanatics, we present an excerpt from one Jewish brochures of the dedicated Jew.

Machine Translated by Google

Travel impressions bring us face to face with Jewish mass types (in Jewish pamphlet) by Spector, entitled: "Road People", pp. 38-100.

The author tells how he rode from Medzhybizh in the cart of a Jewish joker along with three typical local Hasidim. Having reached the place where she was "Rabbi's Krinitsa", the driver and his three passengers jumped off the cart and, running up to the miraculous spring, they washed their faces with its water. When the companions sat down again when the following conversation ensued between them and the author: "You see," responded one of the passengers, sitting directly opposite the author and without taking his eyes off him, you see: before you didn't want to believe that the water "Krynitsy" give beauty to the face (the author was forced to wash his face in this water for company), and yet you now, really, have a completely different face, a real Jewish face.

"Well, great is my happiness if I have a 'real Jewish face'." - And the author He began to greatly regret that he had washed himself at this miraculous rabbi's krynitsa. "What kind of misfortune is there in this? It seems to me that it is more beautiful than a Jewish face and it can not be.

- What do you see as the special beauty of a Jewish face? - Like what?

After all, a Jew!.. Oh, a Jew!.., a beautiful Jew! - He said these words with such I was glad that I even jumped on the spot. It was clear from his face that he wanted talk a lot about this issue. His mouth was full of words, but he couldn't say them. speak out and express it immediately. The other two Jews listened attentively to our conversation, and I saw that they were standing for their companion, and not for me. They are all the time They were silent, confident that their comrade would not lose his Jewish face in the dirt. By at times they only encouraged him with hand gestures, shaking their heads, as if they said: "Crush him, a German, an aristocrat, who doesn't like the Jewish face and who does not believe in the krynitsa of the Baal Shem!

"" The author began the conversation. "- Really, I don't understand how you see beauty and happiness in a Jew. Here we are several Jews in one cart. Let's look at each other. Look what withered, exhausted faces on all of us. And it's no wonder: the kind of life you lead is the same you have a face. Think about it, what is our life like? One of two things: either we are shinkari, or shopkeepers, small traders who trade in other people's pennies and live from the fair or from the wind. 11before earning this miserable penny, with how many drunkards we must talk! How many times do they call us: “Jew-parh!” "Stinking Jew!" AND such elegant names! How do we live the penny we earn? Not for me tell you: you are Jews and you know it yourself. We eat bones instead of meat; we live in stuffy huts, in the stale air...

“True,” the Hasidic Jew interrupted his interlocutor. - Here's the proof: I'm with my wife works day and night for ten of us: she has some kind of shop, I hang around market, I live in the wind. Believe me: if my wife and I were chopping wood all day, we would they earned much more. And now, after all the pendulum, the children and I are naked and barefoot. From With all the Jewish earnings you will never be able to save a penny for any kind of clothes. You never get enough food or bread. The house is not heated all winter from Saturday to Saturday. And as for clean air, which, in your opinion, is useful for humans, then we grief and forgot to think about it.”

The author’s interlocutor suddenly became very depressed. The other two Jews also emitted deep breaths. And now the author again peered into the face of the speaking Jew. It was scary to look at him: hunched over, thin, with a dried-out face and burnt skin through which bones could be counted; only it looked like there were two sidelocks and two eyes. “I felt,” says the author, “very sorry that I saddened so much his. But how great was my surprise when I looked at him again and saw that his face was completely transformed! He suddenly became cheerful, his eyes sparkled, and he said:

- And with all that... there is still nothing better and more beautiful than being a Jew. I would didn't change with anyone. Ah, Jew!!!.. God's beauty! - He wanted to continue, but the words they squeezed him across his throat. He just moved his eyes and in the end completely burst into tears.

- Why are you crying? - the author asked him. - From joy, from happiness... - What made you so happy? - That I am a Jew!..” The author says:

“At that moment I was clearly convinced that this man was really happy. At that moment, the dried up little liquid turned into a cheerful and lively person; he even stretched out, straightened up, and, if he had not been in a tattered dress, he would have the parties could be mistaken for an important person. “Oh, Lord!” I thought, “what a dear people you have! Who can compare with such a people!’” (Pages 45-47).

Every Jew who has a heated argument about something with his fellow believers is the first to with duty he tries to convince his opponent with a word; hitting his chest with his fist, he shouts: “Their vir-bin aid,” i.e., “I am a Jew.” This only makes him believe the words of their opponents. That's how high the Jews have an opinion of themselves, that they only God's chosen people.

Chapter 15

Karaite sect

Karaites1 Crimean, Lithuanian, Volyn and Galician are direct descendants a special branch of Jews who separated and entered the Crimea with troops Persian kings from the depths of Persia or even from Central Asia. 1 In Hebrew, “kara” means “to read.”

Machine Translated by Google

Before Anan, they had no idea, not even a rumor, about the Talmud, and they were pure biblical scholars, as their fellow tribesmen in the interior countries of Asia, in China and Tibet, are now. They knew no other source of religion other than the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament; Consequently, pure biblical orthodoxy, preserved in Crimea before Anan, did not have the sectarian character that belongs to present-day Crimean Karaimism. In the same way, it must be taken for granted that this strictly sectarian character was borrowed by the Crimean Karaites from the Syrian or Egyptian, and that the Tatar language, spoken by all Russian Karaites, was also adopted by them in the Crimea, present-day southern Russia, which has been open to invasions since ancient times and dominion of the peoples of the Tatar tribe.

The founder of Karaism, Anan, did not recognize the Talmudic decrees, and his the hostility towards the Talmud was known to the representatives of both academies who led the election of the exilarch. These representatives of both academies decided to remove Ananus from inheriting the exilatory throne and instead choose his younger brother Hanagnius. But Anan was not alone: he had friends. Thanks to his rights to the exilarchate, to which all the Jewish communities of the East were subordinate, he, apparently, attracted more than one member of his collaborators to the just cause. But he also had adherents from among those who more or less openly did not recognize the authority of Talmudic Judaism and welcomed in the person of Anan a powerful advanced fighter.

Anan was forced to leave his fatherland due to the intrigues and bloody threats of the Talmudists. Anan moved to Palestine. In Jerusalem he built his own synagogue, which existed until the First Crusade. Anan, bitter against the gaonate as a result of the insulting neglect on the part of the geons (like our bishops), transferred this bitterness to the Talmud, to which the gaonate owed its authority. Anan discovered a fiery hatred of the Talmud and its representatives. He, they say, expressed that he would like the adherents of the Talmud to be in his body, so that, having taken his own life, he would destroy them at the same time. He considered everything in the Talmud to be worthless and wanted to once again organize religious life on biblical principles. He reproached the Talmudists for distorting Judaism and not only adding nothing to the Torah, but eliminating even more from it, declaring optional what, in the literal sense of the Holy Scriptures, is obligatory for all times. Anan's main point was: "Search the Scriptures diligently." From this return to the Holy Scripture (mikra), the religious system created by Anan received the name “Confession of Scripture”, or “Karaiteism”. Anan's disciples called themselves Ananites and Karaites (Karaites, Benemikra). The Karaites differ from the rabbis in that the latter, in addition to the written law given by God to Moses, also claim that God also gave him an oral explanation of this latter and many additions to it, which are as holy and obligatory as the law itself, and that these explanations and additions, transmitted from Moses to the forefathers, have been preserved intact to our time. The Karaites, on the contrary, adhere to literally only the sacred books of the Old Testament, deny God’s communication to Moses of oral explanations and additions to the written law, are guided when interpreting the latter by simple human reason and, not seeing anything divine in the regulations and additions of later legislators, consider them human inventions, caused by the force of circumstances and the needs of the time.

From this basic dogmatic difference between the Karaites and the rabbis, it goes without saying that they must differ significantly in many respects from the latter in their statutes, rituals and worship. Let's point out some of these differences.

The Karaites define their months, and therefore their holidays, as valid. visible appearance of the new moon, and therefore reject all astronomical calculations with which the rabbis are consistent in determining their new moon. They do not celebrate the holidays of "Consecration" (Hanukkah), because at the time of Antiochus-Epiphanes, when, according to the rabbinists, this holiday was introduced, there were no more prophets, and therefore, it is a purely human invention that does not contain anything mandatory. Rabbis forbid a husband not only to have intercourse with his wife during menstruation and seven days after its cessation, but even to touch her all this time, even eating with her from the same dish; Karaites, on the contrary, term marital abstinence is limited to one continuation of menstruation, and the prohibition to touch your wife at this time is seen as excessive disgust.

Chapter 16

Rites of the Karaites

Divorce is allowed only in case of violation of marital fidelity with the wife's side, whereas among the rabbis one can divorce one's wife for even prepared a dish not to my husband's taste, or simply because my husband likes it another woman.

Karaites pray twice a day, early in the morning or evening, and therefore do not read night prayer introduced by the rabbis. At first their prayers consisted only of a few words, but in the course of time were greatly extended, especially by Aaron ben Joseph and other compilers. During prayer they keep themselves quiet and reverently, "as if being in the presence of the king," and they certainly demand that the prayers were in Hebrew. In their synagogues, which are kept in perfect tidiness, read the Pentateuch on Saturdays, which they, like the rabbinists, divide into 52 departments and prophets. One of the important duties of their gahama is to pronounce each Saturday and every holiday preaching moral content that the rabbis usually happens only twice a year: on the Saturday before Easter and on the Saturday before day of cleansing from sins. Without accepting the traditions, they do not gird themselves and phylacteries or, as they are called in the Talmud, tifillin. Sabbath day observed with strict precision. On Passover, unleavened bread is eaten for a whole week. Although blood is not consumed as food, it is not extracted with salt and water, as the rabbinists from meat, and do not, like those, examine the insides of a killed animal. Circumcision is also done in another way. The fasts are observed carefully, and many fast every Monday and Thursday. They don't bury their dead or even touch them to them. The kind of religious initiation of children that exists among the Karaites is remarkable. male. Until the age of seven, a boy is raised between women; When his eighth birthday comes, they take him to the synagogue, cut his hair there for the first time and give him wine to drink. The celebration is upon return home is concluded with a treat, and from that time the boy goes into the arms of men. On Saturday, Anan. did not allow anyone to leave the house for any need, for with the exception of prayer and natural needs. Karaites spend Saturday evenings in the dark, even those lit on Friday During the day, candles must be extinguished. (Book of Laws of Anan). Anan ordered his followers to prepare food on Friday not only for Saturday, as the rabbis do, but also for the next dinner, that is, from Saturday to Sunday, so that there is no need to rush to end Saturday holiday (ibid.).

Machine Translated by Google

It is prohibited to consume meat from domestic animals, livestock and even chickens, roosters and any bird in general, except pigeons and turtle doves; from livestock the exception was I allowed the consumption of deer meat. After the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple, while Jews are in exile, Anan considered all this food forbidden; Thus Anan's lifting of the ban on the joint consumption of meat and milk seemed completely useless until the coming of the Messiah. According to Ananus, unleavened bread for Passover should be made from barley flour, and whoever eats matzah made from wheat flour is the same as sour bread or kvass Moreover, he forbade baking unleavened bread in the oven, since, in his opinion, unleavened bread should certainly be roasted on fire in comparison with the Passover sacrifice lamb (Kirkisani, department 1, chapter 18). Anan established a 70-day fast, starting from the 13th of the month of Nisan to the 23rd month of Sivan (Kirkisani, department 1, chapter 13). He also established a two-day fast on the holiday of Purim. The seventh day of each month is also a fast according to the establishment of Anan. In the rite of circumcision of infants, Anan departed a lot from the rabbis: circumcision should performed exclusively with scissors; using another weapon for this purpose ritual is subject to severe punishment. The person performing the circumcision operation must first cut through (propetium) from above down, separating into two parts, and then cut to the top, then to the bottom (Book of Laws of Anan). When performing a circumcision operation, it is necessary to use two clean linen rags: one should be large and the other small. If, during circumcision, everything prescribed for this rite is not observed, then the boy is considered uncircumcised, and this rite must be repeated a second time. If circumcision occurs on an adult, then this must certainly happen on the 11th day of the month. In terms of legitimizing marriages, Anan outdid all Jewish rabbis. Anan prohibited marriages with relatives of all those forbidden mentioned in the Pentateuch degrees of kinship and with relatives of their relatives, both along lateral and ascending and descending. Like the law and regulation of Christians, Anan in accurately compared his instructions for the Karaites.

Anan pointed to one expression of the prophet Ezekiel (XVIII, 6, 15) and, based on it, prohibited copula - with a pregnant woman; this ban begins after the first three months of pregnancy. In the Talmud, tract. Shabbat, l. 86-1, it is proposed, according to pious custom, not to have intercourse during the day; Anan is absolutely prohibited it. In the ritual of the act in relation to the slaughter of cattle, Anan allowed for everyone cutting livestock. In Karaite writing, the presentation of the dogmas of faith appears as something appendage to the laws on slaughter of livestock.

Anan decreed that for all animals, without exception, it was obligatory cutting of the windpipe and esophagus. He ordered that his new law be we execute exactly; a newborn calf up to 8 days is allowed to eat.

The only spiritual head of the Karaite community is ha-ham, he commits circumcision of children, marriages and divorces, sorts out and resolves both family and controversial cases; speaks sermons in the synagogue; guides with instructions and prayer dying. In Crimea, to manage both spiritual and generally all matters relating to the local Karaite community, there has existed since 1837, in Evpatoria, a special Karaite spiritual board, consisting of a Khakham from three ghazans.

Wherever the Karaites settle down together with the rabbis, they live completely separate from these latter, do not marry them and try to

Machine Translated by Google

measures to prevent the natives from confusing them with the rabbinists. The rabbinists also pay them with mutual dislike. In general, in the performance of religious rituals, Karaites show they preserve the greatest precision and rigor, and their most respected and characteristic customs inviolably. Karaites do not have special clothes, but use native clothes everywhere: in the western provinces they dress like the local bourgeoisie; in Little Russia - they always wear Tatar costume, and they are distinguished by neatness both in external and in family life. Their mental activity is limited to the study of Holy Scripture in the original, for which they diligently study the Hebrew language. Recently they began to read learned works written by other Jews in the Hebrew language. At their magnificent, elegant synagogue in Evpatoria there is a school for teaching children the Law of God. As for moral character, our Karaites have always been distinguished by the greatest friendliness among themselves, sincere sociability with people of other faiths, activity, hard work, impeccable behavior and perfect honesty. There is no example of Karaites being convicted of attempting to seduce a Christian or Muslim into their faith. These qualities always and everywhere earned them favor and respect from both Christians and Muslims. In Poland, kings Sigismund I and Stefan Batory, were given to the Karaites various privileges, and the labels they received from the Crimean khans indicate that they enjoyed significant benefits even under Tatar rule, on the Crimean peninsula. When the Crimea and the western provinces came under the Russian scepter, our government, in turn giving justice to the moral superiority of the Karaites over their brothers the Talmudists, provided them with constant patronage and preference, granting them special rights and advantages, such as: exemption from recruitment , permission to reside and own real estate in those places where this is prohibited to Talmudic Jews. The Karaites enjoyed no less favor and patronage from the Austrian government. Therefore, it is quite natural that the Karaites are free from any persecution and persecution on the part of Christians, although they are the same Jews who also rejected Christ and did not accept him as the Messiah, the same followers of the Mosaic Law. Despite all this, they deserved the common love and complete respect of Christians.

Empress Catherine II freed all Karaites from taxes and military service, which aroused the envy and hatred of Talmudic Jews against them, who repeatedly tried to act against them with their usual weapon - intrigue; but, fortunately, we didn’t have time to do anything. After checking all the officially delivered information, at the request of His Serene Highness Prince M.S. Vorontsov, in Bose the late Emperor Nicholas I1 decided: 1) to grant the town of Chufut-Kale a 25-year exemption from city and zemstvo duties, with the provision of such an exemption from the time durable settlement, and those who wish to move to Chufut-Kale; 2) be attributed to the Tatar tax, from now on until it exists for the organization of the Tauride Peninsula: a) repair of the road running from Bakhchisarai to Chufut-Kale through the Josaphat Valley, and b) allocate 500 rubles per year for maintenance in Chufut-Kale Karaite school. Empress Alexandra Feodorovna bestowed a silver mug on her behalf to the Karaite society in Chufut-Kale. In memory of such royal benefits, the Karaites established a special religious-folk celebration, which has been celebrated annually since 1861. Funeral rites are scheduled annually from 1-

Machine Translated by Google

the 1st day of July, as the birthday of Her Majesty, who died in Bose empress, and the month in which this gift was granted.

But no matter how small in number the handful of Karaites are, this handful considers itself, and almost has every right to be the only representative of the ancient national Jewish orthodoxy, boldly accusing millions of rabbinists, and even more so others Jewish sects in complete apostasy from the original purity of the true the law of Moses. Orthodoxy is evidenced by the following basic tenets of faith Karaites: 1) all heavenly and earthly bodies with everything that is contained in them are creatures created; 2) Their Creator Himself is not created; 3) He is One and has no one like Himself; 4) He sent His servant Moses and 5) through him he announced the most perfect law; 6) must know the language and understand the meaning of the law; 7) They were also led by the Spirit of God and the rest of the prophets; 1 Deut. full collection laws, vol. XXVI, No. 25, 211. 8) per day The judgmental Lord will raise the dead and 9) reward everyone according to his deeds; 10) Lord He punished His people with captivity; We must daily expect deliverance from Him. through the Messiah, the son of David.

Chapter 17

List of settlement of Karaites

Listing separately all the places on the globe where Karaites are located, we we get the following table of Karaite families; 1) 5 families live in Chufut-Kale; 2) in Bakhchisarai - 70; 3) in Simferopol - 60; 4) in Karasubazar - 10; 5) in Feodosia - 100; 6) in Kerch - 10; 7) in Novocherkassk - 2; 11) in Melitopol - 30; 12) in Evpatoria - 300; 13) in Yalta - 15; 14) in Sevastopol - 70; 15) in the Armenian Bazaar - 40; 16) in Aleshki - 2; 17) in Kherson - 50; 18) in Nikolaev - 100; 19) in Odessa -150; 20) in Chisinau - 5; 21) in Kyiv - 6; 22) in Moscow - 4; 23) in St. Petersburg - 4; 24) in Voronezh - 3; 25) in Kharkov - 15; 26) in Elisavetgrad - 15; 27) in Ekaterinoslav - 12; 28) in Kremenchug - 10; 29) in Vilna - 4; 30) in Troki - 35; 31) in Lutsk - 30; 32) in Galicia and Germany - 30; 33) in Constantinople - 40; 34) in Jerusalem - 8; 35) in Egypt, Syria, Bukhara and Africa - 300 families. And all over the globe they count their own fellow believers up to 50,000 souls. The appearance of Karaites among the Jewish people all the more significant since the religious element, as is known, never penetrated into public and private life and did not determine its phenomena to the same extent as in of this people, created and existing hitherto by the sole strength of their religious beliefs and institutions. For us Russians, familiarity with this the subject has, in addition, local interest, because nowhere in Europe is there so much crowded Jews, as in Russia, and nowhere are there more Karaites, as in it. In the Western Region and Poland, many of the Karaites worthily occupy various positions in the civil service. Polish writers Chatsky, Matseevsky, etc., speak very flatteringly about them, claiming that for two centuries not a single the Karaite has not soiled himself with false denunciations, theft, robbery, or extortion, while the prisons of Western Russian cities are filled with Talmudic Jews, even with all the efforts of the Jewish brotherhoods to intercede for their brothers who fell behind lattice, and redeem them. Karaites are distinguished by the highest morality special love for everyone without distinction of religions, origins and classes; so, for example, on the road to his random Karaite companion, if he meets need, will not refuse any service, and if he himself is not able to provide it, then he will beg and beg others to do it. There is no doubt that with all his good qualities and civic

The Karaites owe their virtues primarily to the fact that they are faithful to the spirit of the biblical teachings, knew how to protect themselves from the destructive influence of Talmudic absurdities and rabbinic fanaticism. There is no doubt that these are the best representatives of the religion left on earth, given by God to Moses on Mount Sinai, strict judges of their own actions, always ready to help a needy and impoverished brother in order to did not commit crimes, the Karaites were always and everywhere respected, and everywhere they patronized.

Chapter 18

Literature Karaimov

Almost all of the literature of the Karaites has a polemical character, aimed against rabbinism, and whatever the Karaites wrote, they always meant to refute absurdities of Talmudic teaching. “These heretics,” says the famous Karaites Talmudist Rabbi Gedaliah in his book “Shalshelen-Gakabala,” - they never did no good to the people of Israel (i.e., the rabbis); they never wrote one book to establish the law, or on any science, or at least poems: they are all silent dogs that don’t even know how to bark.” And here what inhumane instructions does he give to his fellow believers in relation to the Karaites? another rabbi: “An Israeli (i.e., a rabbinist) should not treat a Karaite for any illness; if he falls into a hole, he should not pull him out; shouldn't even spare him from the hands of the killer. Nevertheless, it is possible to allow Karaites to be witnesses in any case, to eat the cattle they have killed, to perform circumcision on infants, or marry them. The latter is prohibited even if they turn to Judaism (i.e., rabbinism)." There was nothing much about this last one, however. care of a zealous rabbi. The Karaites lost very few brethren from transition to rabbinism in former times, and in new times there were no such examples. The hatred and contempt of the Talmudists for the Karaites alienated and divided them forever, and this enmity never ceases to grow. The Talmud even teaches: “The bread of the Karaite prohibited (to a Jew) because one who does not observe the rules of the Sabbath is considered as hey"[1].

In conclusion, we consider it useful to point out, as an example of a supportive our government's concern for the best possible social structure life and civil life of the Karaites (care, proving that the government in this regard continues to follow the same path as those who preceded him government), on the next held, Highly approved, opinion Karaites (1863 April 8th, published May 2nd): “The State Council, in Department of Laws and in the General Assembly, having considered the submission Chief Administrator of the Second Department of His Own Imperial Majesty's Office, regarding legislation on the rights of Karaites, opinion laid down: houses belonging to Armenian-Gregorian white persons are exempt from military billing (both in kind and from payment of rent money) clergy and Karaite clergy, in which they themselves live, as well as Karaite synagogues and schools with buildings belonging to them and Karaites occupying the spiritual positions of Gahams, Gazzans and Shamash, as well as their children. 1 Tract. Kitzer Shulchan-Aruch, l. 72, pp. 1 and 2.

The rights of personal honorary citizenship are granted to persons who have held positions for twelve years of Karaite spiritual positions of ghazans and shamash. Rights hereditary honorary citizenship is received by persons who have held the Karaite spiritual position of gaham for twelve to twelve years.

Machine Translated by Google

The Karaites, being under the protection of the general laws of the empire, enjoy all rights granted to Russian subjects, depending on the state, to to which one of them belongs. The Karaite clergy consists of two gahams, ghazans and shamashis. Gaham is the highest spiritual figure of the Karaites living in district under his jurisdiction. The seat of one gaham must be in Evpatoria, and the other in Troki (Vilna province).

The Evpatoria gaham receives support from the Karaite societies of Tauride and Kherson provinces, according to their act on September 25, 1835, and the Troki Gaham uses a certain amount of land allocated near Troki for the maintenance of the local Karaite spiritual rule. Gaham is elected by all Karaite societies that are part of his department, to which end each of these societies, according to accessories, sends his attorney to Evpatoria or Troki.

Gaham is elected through a supervised ballot local city authorities. At the end of the ballot, the electoral act signed by all voters and then, through the local policeman superiors and for his testimony, is presented to the governor. Governor about two candidates who received the highest number of points, reports through the local governor-general to the Minister of Internal Affairs, adding his own information about each candidate opinion. The Minister of Internal Affairs on the approval of one of the candidates submits Governing Senate. During the illness, absence or dismissal of the gaham, as well as in the event of his death, until a new one is elected, his place is taken by one of senior ghazans by appointment of the local governor, and until that time appointments the position of gakham is filled by the senior ghazan, or candidate, at the discretion of the spiritual board. Each synagogue has two ghazans, a senior and a junior. At every The synagogue has a shamash, or overseer of the synagogue property. Gazzans and Shamashis are elected by societies, tested in knowledge of laws by gaham and, upon presentation he is confirmed in positions by the local provincial authorities. Gubernskoe the authorities are obliged to approve in Karaite spiritual positions only people known for good morals and devotion to the government. Gubernskoe the authorities, in disgust of the strife between members of the Karaite authorities, are obliged to ensure that those appointed to the ghazans certainly receive from their societies sentences appropriate for their election.

Khakhams, gakhams, ghazans and shamashis upon their assumption of office are brought to oath in the prescribed form, in public places. Karaite spirituals matters related to the duties of their rank are subject to the judgment of their superiors. Karaite clerics can only be deprived of their title for actions contrary to their spiritual duties, unless as a result of a consequence that clearly proves them guilt, and by order of the authorities on which their approval depended. Societies Karaites after three years are given 2/3 of voters to petition for removal of a clergyman. The same right is granted to the provincial authorities if Honorable clergy do not deserve full approval by their behavior. Karaite clergy in all other cases, except those specified in Art. 19, subject to in cases both civil and criminal, to the court according to the general laws of the empire. If gaham is subjected to a criminal trial, then the decision regarding it receives a proper execution not otherwise than upon approval of the sentence by the Governing Senate. Occupying and holding Karaite spiritual positions of Gahams, Gazzans and shamash are not subject to corporal punishment.

Chapter 19

About Zionism

Russian Jews are divided into two parts. There are "epicures" and "misnagds". Every intelligent person is called an Epicurean (emphasis on the syllable “pi”). a civilized Jew who cut his sidelocks and replaced the long-skirted lapserback at least a Privislya yellow jacket, poorly knowing and performing Talmudic law, looking out of the kahal, not wanting to obey the authorities holy tzaddikim. “Misnagds” are executors and adherents of the Talmudic law, who consider the “epicures” to be “renegades” and renegades. At the fourth congress Zionists in London clashed with both. Counting especially on Russia, Herzl, the new leader of Israel, tried to win over at least part of rabbinate and thereby give the Zionist Congress an orthodox character.

At a congress in London, in a special meeting, the rabbis adopted the following resolution: “The meeting of rabbis, held on the 17th Abba in the hall of the congress, decided: to propose to the congress that once and for all it become customary to coordinate the activities Zionist organizations with the dictates of religion and ensure that in these circles organizations nothing happened that could violate the sanctity of religion and Zionism. We must especially strictly observe the holiness of the Sabbath.” This resolution will undoubtedly be a “stumbling block” and a “plumb line of division” for Herzl and his followers.

At the congress it was proclaimed: “The Zionists recognize the religious question inviolable. Let us be tolerant of each other and work together to achieve common goals other than religious ones. The rising wind turns over our old Bible. We run through the pages of the past and make sure that only a little is saved for the present. We must establish precisely what we mean by Jewish culture."

"Epicures" Motzkin protests against compromises with the rabbis. They're trying to give orthodoxy to the movement; if they achieve this, from Zionism His best forces are falling away, those forces from which only one can expect revival Jewish nationality. "Misnagd"

Kahn proposes a resolution: "Congress entrusts every Zionist with and every Zionist circle has the duty to promote spiritual upliftment Jewish people in religious, moral and national feelings".

“Epicures” Motzkin protests against the inclusion of the word “in religiously." Herzl explains that the removal from the resolution of the mentioned the words would not contain anything hostile towards religion. One of the Misnagd delegates, “extremely excited,” shouts: “Why did we go to London?”

The Talmud tells that once in Babylon one wise rabbi there were so many students, so many students that when after classes they went out to courtyard and shook out their robes, a column of dust rose above Babylon, and in Jerusalem, noticing this column, they said: “The disciples of the wise rabbi have finished studying.” and shake out your robes!” One must think that there was a pillar above the Congress in London dust, when the “Epicures” marched like a wall against the “Misnagds” and conveyed the news of the great events on this side of the English Channel. It is not known, however, exactly in what respect Zionists stand with the Freemasons and the Dreyfus cause. In any case, they “stand in opposition” to all existing Jewish institutions in Western Europe - to Alliance Israelite, to the London "Anglo-jewish-association" and to the Jewish colonizing society. The latter itself is hostile to Zionism and the Jewish colonization of Palestine exclusively.

“The Alliance has degenerated,” say the Zionists, “it was founded by famous persons in the name of certain ideas. These ideas have become obsolete, but the Alliance is still headed by there are the same 36 members of the central committee. But these faces have grown old, and soon, perhaps, they will not exist at all. Zionists are the successors of the moral Alliance assets. The cultural element - Zionism - created something great. Spirit revival, a ray of light gathered brothers from all sides. From these scattered parts We are trying to create a whole Jewish nation here."

However, the Jewish nation itself is far from being completely infatuated with Zionism. It's almost a myth that the 100 thousand Russian Zionists counted in the report "Executive Committee" of the Congress.

Longing for Zion, remembrance of Zion, weeping over lost Zion Jewry has always lived. The newest form of Zionism is far from satisfying these masses. And in Jewish literature there are ardent opponents of "Herzlism." This is a certain Asher Ginsberg (Ahad Haam), waging a fierce war with Herzl, Nordau and all their companions. He appeared in Jewish journalism long before Herzl. The desire of Jewry for "rebirth in the historical Jewish country nation" was then called "Palestinophilism", and its practical manifestation was Jewish colonization of Palestine. The first Turkish ban stopped this movement and made it almost impossible to found new colonies. And the old ones fell under patronage of Baron Rothschild, "whose administrators turned colonists dependent on baronial subsidies to winegrowers." Then it came full stagnation and apathy. Asher Ginsberg explains this by saying that Palestinian propagandists ideas have always tried to base love for Zion on calculations aimed at proving that good "deeds" can be done in Palestine, since the vineyards produce excellent income, therefore, it is profitable to be a Zionist: being a Zionist, you do good "gesheft"! This was the case later, in 1890, after the first Turkish the ban was lifted and the Odessa Committee was opened with the permission of the Russian government. Jewish hungry people from all over Russia poured into Palestine, and the streets of Jaffa were filled with brokers and money-makers who thought cash in on the "idea." The question arises: what kind of "gesheft" they beckoned from under the counter? now Jewry Herzl and Nordau? One might think that the Germans' desire to The east through the Bosporus into Asia Minor raised the hopes of the Jews. They moved too to the East, choosing a stronghold in old Palestine. Concession, supplies, some cultural enterprises throughout the East will require a variety of nimble people - brokers, intermediaries, commission agents, factors. So Jewry ran under the flag of Zionism to the fruitful eastern gesheft!

Chapter 20

Therapeutic Sect

Philo describes the therapists - that they were all people of no ordinary origin and friendly disposition. Freed from all worldly worries, they leave their brothers, wives and children and run away far from their fatherland and inhabited places They are located outside cities, in gardens or secluded places, not due to misatropy, but to avoid the temptations of human society. They do not have slaves, since they consider slavery contrary to natural law: "Nature," they say, "has created us all free; injustice and greed of some people established inequality, the source of all ills, and brought the weaker under the yoke the strongest."

"Such wise men existed in many places," says Philo, "most of all they are found in Egypt, mainly in the vicinity of Alexandria." Therapists allegedly organized congresses - this monastery was located in a very favorable place, on shore of Lake Maria, on a small hill, successfully chosen both for safety and on air cleanliness.

According to Philo's description, the dwellings of the therapists were not monasteries, like western or adjacent huts; but these were just mendicant shelters monks The huts, extremely simple, lined with miserable mats, were sufficiently distant from one another so that the hermits cannot interfere with each other. IN huts they performed the most sacred rites of their religious life, read law, prophets, psalms and other holy books. Their main occupation has always been the thought of God, even in their dreams they always saw God's virtue. They prayed twice a day - at sunrise and sunset; the day was devoted to thinking about Holy Scripture, and they looked for allegories in philosophy. Therapists of that persuasion in fact, that under the literal meaning of the text there is always some hidden mysterious meaning. They composed hymns and spiritual songs to glorify God of different rhythms, who sang to a low and changing beat. All day were busy studying, and left all the needs of the body for the night. Others reached that they only ate once every three days. This life was lived for six days of the week. These For six days they did not leave their hut and did not even glance at the area lying outside it. On the seventh day they gathered in a common hut. Female therapists were also accepted into this hermitic sect; they had to keep themselves virgin and were admitted to the general meeting on the seventh day of the week - only behind a thin partition - and together with the men they united their voices in singing psalms. In the meeting, the elder stood in the middle and delivered a sermon; others sat near the walls on benches. Actually, it was not a sermon, but something more similar to a dispute; but they performed all this with exemplary humility. All night up dawn was spent in prayers, and as soon as the sun appeared, at the first rays everything They raised their hands up, standing, and thanked God for a happy morning. After praying, everything They humbly went back to their huts until another seventh day.

Chapter 21

About the Sabbatian sect in Thessaloniki

Two centuries have passed since its appearance. The founder of this sect, a native Smyrna, Sabbatai Zvi converted to Islam along with his followers. Latest generations of his adherents have always been known and are still considered Mohammedans. And so no less, they have retained something of Judaism, consider themselves Jews, and secretly conduct Jewish way of life under fear of incurring severe punishment from Mohammedan authorities, secular and spiritual, as unbelievers or apostates. The facts concerning the remnants of this sect, whose followers the Turks, despite Their Muslim appearance, called unbelievers, is quite well known. This a sect that calls itself a believer still exists in Thessaloniki. Its number extends to 1000 families, which is quite consistent with the opinion Brown, determining its number at 4000 souls. Divided into three sects, which do not particularly favor each other. The first is called "Smirli" and dates back to from Sabbatai Zevi himself. The second is "Jacobites", named after the son-in-law or, rather, brother-in-law Sabbatai Jacob Querido, who also pretended to be the messiah, but was rejected the first Sabbatians. The third is named after a certain husband who appeared in at the end of the last century, Osman Baba, whose followers revere him as the messiah. The profession of faith and customs of the Thessalonian Sabbatians are as follows:

1) There is one God and Sabbatai is His prophet. Adam, Abraham, Jacob, Moses, even Esther and so on - constitute only particles of Sabbatai's soul. That's why "Maiminim" - believers claim that Sabbatai appeared in the world 18 times, sometimes under the name of Adam, sometimes under the name of Abraham, etc. 2) The world was created only for "believers" alone. Muslims are meant for their security This is where the name Maiminim comes from: "There is no egg without a shell."

3) Non-Jews are called "Kelinas". (This name comes from the view Kabbalists. It is often mentioned in the Zohar for various purposes. By the name kelina, "shell," Kabbalah characterizes gross matter, as opposed to the purely spiritual forces of "sefirot"). 4) A believer should not marry a "kelin", nor a Jewish woman, until the Jews recognize that Sabbatai was the messiah.

5) Paradise will go to believers and Jews. 5) The souls of Kelin disappear along with the body in the underworld.

7) Jews are non-believers. But the day will come when they will know the truth, believing that Jacob, Moses, etc. are nothing more than particles of Sabbatai's soul. 8)

"As regards your rights, duties and activities, you must submit the laws of Moses."

9) "Do not be at enmity with the Jews, for they will soon become your brothers." 10)

"You will be punished if you talk about your religion with a Kelina or a Jew. The Creator will inspire the Jews. No one, however, is obliged to show them the way to heaven."

11) "Your first duty is to pass yourself off as Muslim, while internally remaining complete Jews." 12) "It is not a crime in the eyes of God to kill a "believer" who has exposed the secrets of his faith. Hate such a traitor. Kill him, even if he turns out to be dangerous to the "believers." 13) "The Believers are obliged to submit to the government of Islam. Muslims will to protect you, to fight because of you. Constantly assert that you are followers of Islam. Defend Islamism, pretend to accept the Koran and Turkish white clergy (Namash). But never resort to Muslim courts; Let only the laws of Moses serve as your guide in all your disputes. Have always your own demon. Remain subjects of Muslims, do not try to occupy them place".

14) God forbids believers to drink alcohol. 15) "You must bear two names: one for light, the other for heaven." 16) "You need to remember the name of the Creator twice a day."

Sabbatians usually celebrate two great holiday: birthday and feast of the Lamb. The first, the so-called "Mishe-Berach", serves as a memory for the smirliots (Smirli) - the birthday of Sabbatai; For Jacobites - the birthday of Jacob, and for believers of the third category - the birthday Osman Baba. A week later, Sabbatai's circumcision is celebrated. The intervals between these two celebrations are dedicated to indiscriminate fun in which all sectarians participate. They gather in the evenings, chanting the greatness of the prophets of Israel; rabbis talk about Jewish history. Music and dancing are not permitted.

The second feast originates from the spotless Lamb sent Sabbatai to his followers with the order to eat it together. This is a celebration usually occurs in the spring. "The Lamb is a symbol of life, as a result of the union floors." "When you separate," Sabbatai tells them, "you will be damned." The presence of single young people at the Feast of the Lamb is prohibited.

Synagogues among believers are called "Kal". There are 5 of them, according to the number the following classes of believers: stubborn fanatics (Assiels), Levites (Levi), “faithful” in the proper sense (Natane), Kohanim (Kohanim) and free thinkers, eternal masons (Galevas).

Men and women go to prayers in white robes. Spouses do not must accompany each other. The cantor calls the faithful into a vast hall lit by green candles. Everyone remains silent. Only a voice is heard cantor, occasionally interrupted by the preacher’s cry: “Amen!” When night falls, around 6 o'clock in the afternoon, they sit down at the table in the temples. This Lambs! The cantors continue to sing their hymns. When they say "Weshem" Adonai,” then they fall silent. This is the signal for the start of the meal, in which everyone participates those present.

Outside the walls of the chapels, neither loud chants nor ringing laughter can be heard, because these gathering places are usually surrounded on all sides by residential buildings of believers. The parishioners send their white clothes in the morning, in which they dress there. It is forbidden to wear them in public, so that the kelina (non-believers) could see them in this attire. Parishioners enter and exit chapels through different doors. For this purpose, there are many exits there. Next to the refectory there is the chapel itself, where people enter at the end of the meal. Here are the men hugging. The women retire to a hall specially arranged for them, from where they also sermons are heard, just like men.

The subject of the chants is the exaltation of Sabbatai and the praise of the departed. Prohibition Mourning does not prevent the living from mourning the dead. The heirs of the deceased are obliged to for a whole week, invite his relatives, friends, neighbors, preacher, head of the community (Ab-betdin), cantors and synagogue servants to the evening meal (Samass). This evening week is called "Wadi". At the same time they sing and pray. The cemeteries of the Sabbateans in Thessaloniki are separated from the resting place professing other religions. Each of the three sects has a special place for its dead people." (Borrowed from the article by Professor G. Graetz in Voskhod.)

TREATISE III ON JEWISH FREEMASONRY

Chapter 1

Secret Jewish Societies

ABOUT 40 years ago, the World Jewish Union was formed in Paris, to which societies of other countries, that is, all secret Masonic lodges, submitted. By In its official program, this union was a completely philanthropic institution; he based his task on spreading enlightenment among the masses of Jewry all countries. The intention or goal appears to be very noble and even desirable by everyone states; however, this good goal served for the Jews only as screens, behind with which they engaged in politics on the most extensive scale. With this the structure of the union included journalists, secret servants, agents, politicians, operating day and night against Christian states in order to undermine the foundation, that is, morality, on which the most important thing is based; then, to shake faith, after which it is easy to turn all freethinkers into atheists, nihilists and anarchists. The secret Jewish union had people in the highest degree capable and knowledgeable of all countries of the world. In England, everyone was grouped Jewish youth of Russian education, where they founded their magazines promoting their common secret Kabbalistic goal. The main reason attracting Jewish youth to England, as is known, is the lack of a common military service, which Jews are very afraid of for reasons of self-preservation. None the state does not have such faithful and experienced servants as this Jewish secret world society. Indeed, what government can count on the help of such a huge number of agents, representing in their person all nationalities in the world? This union controls the press, politics, and money. affairs. From among him come diplomats and agents conducting negotiations and making treaties between Jews and other nations. For example, a deceased Montefiori and Cremieux; their places were taken by other figures - the former two members of this societies several times began to negotiate with Turkey, the Egyptian Viceroy, the Emperor of Morocco, the Romanian Prince, etc. In 1867, the World Jewish Union began to fight, with pen and money, against Danube principalities and subsequently preached a crusade in England, France and America in order to force Romania to obey his will. But all these famous deeds mean nothing in comparison with the great trick that Judaism has thrown dust into the eyes of the whole world. Raising the French loan to a fabulous amount of 42 billion, the money king and his political allies have thrown down the gauntlet the winner is Germany. This antagonism between the monetary power of the Jews and the physical power of Germany - completely in order. It represents the collision of two opposites principles of physical strength and interest.

What exactly is the task of this World Union and what goal does it pursue? worldwide agents? One cannot help but come to the conclusion that the mentioned brotherhoods in have some hidden purpose in their being. Without first becoming acquainted with this magical power, that is, with the Jewish brotherhoods, it is hardly possible form a completely clear understanding of the life of the Jews in general and of that secret recently organized political force. This Talmudic artificial connection binds all Jews scattered throughout the globe into one whole, strong and invincible. To clarify this secret and political task, we present speech of one agent, in which the whole process is quite cleverly characterized, with with the help of which one can come to understand the purpose of Jewish secret alliances. Speech this was pronounced in one of the Masonic lodges by Rabbi Eiger from Frankfurt.

Chapter 2

Rabbi's political speech[1]

"Brothers! For one thousand eight hundred years the struggle of the people of Israel for omnipotence, which was promised to Abraham, but was snatched from him by the Cross.

Trampled and despised by enemies, under pain of death, humiliation and violence of various kinds, the people of Israel were not, however, subjected to destruction. If he is scattered around the whole earth, then, therefore, the whole earth should belong to him.

Our scientists have been carrying out the sacred work for hundreds of years with unshakable tirelessness. struggle; our people are continually rising in the midst of their fall. His power is growing and is expanding. We belong to that earthly god, whom with such disgust and Aaron cast us with sorrow in the desert... that golden idol, to which now everything worshiped and adored by all.

When earthly gold becomes our exclusive property, power will pass into our hands, and then the promise given to Abraham will be fulfilled.

---

[1] Said in Prague at the old cemetery - there is a congress of the 12 tribes Israelis in each century from 12 European provinces. This speech was published as a separate brochure in Warsaw and discussed in many Russian magazines and newspapers.

... Gold! - it is omnipotence on earth, it is strength, joy, reward. Here the secret of Kabbalah... this is the most basic science about the spirit that rules the world... this is all future!

Eighteen centuries belonged to our enemies; but the next ones will be ours belong!

We can rightly be proud that what we are striving for is already very close - and our future is secured... ...For, fortunately, those dark and sad days have passed when the Jews were persecuted... The progress of civilizations in Christian nations serves us the most the best defensive shield, and does not interfere with our aspirations in any way.

Let us only consider and carefully analyze the material means, which may have the Jewish generation. In Paris, London, Vienna, Hamburg, Naples, Rome, Amsterdam, all the Rothschilds and many other big cities in Europe Jews own several billion francs; moreover, in any more or in less significant areas there are also Jews who hold in their hands turnover, money, crafts, trade and agriculture of the area and nearby surroundings.

Currently, all ruling kings, kings and princes are deeply in debt to maintain huge armies. The exchange regulates these debts; if we master exchange, then we will get much closer to power in the state. Therefore it is necessary to facilitate loans for the government in order to keep it in its hands more and more tightly. Behind the capital we provide must, as far as possible, be taken as collateral in iron roads, tax administration, forests, factories and all kinds of rents. Land ownership always remains, so to speak, an iron lasting asset in every country. It follows that it is necessary, as far as possible, to acquire landed property, and the more we are able to influence the division of large estates, the easier they will fall into our hands.

Under the pretext of alleviating the poor classes, the full burden of state and worldly taxes should be dumped on the farmers. As soon as we own the land, all the labor of Christian workers will provide us with unusually profitable incomes. Labor was and is a slave to speculation; exploitation of labor and hence the ensuing influence are servants of the mind... Who can dispute that Jews do not have intelligence, dexterity and cunning?

Our people are proud, prone to unbridled arrogance and love luxury. Where the light is there and shadow; It is not without reason that God has endowed us, his chosen people, with the quickness of mind, the cunning of a fox, the eye of a falcon, the memory of a dog, the industriousness of an ant, the comradeship and solidarity of a beaver. We were in Babylonian captivity, and yet we have now become powerful. Our temple fell, but we raised thousands of others temples. For one thousand eight hundred years we were in slavery, and today we have outgrown everything those peoples who despised us. They say that many Jews are being baptized. This does not harm our business at all. The baptized will be our helpers and the steps along which we will enter newly discovered paths, still unknown to us at the present time, for those who have just been baptized always hold on to us and, despite external baptism, their spirit and image thoughts remain forever Jewish. The time will come, no more than a hundred years from now, when non-Jews will convert to Christian faith, and Christians will strive to become Jews, and then Israel will push them away with contempt.

The natural enemy of the Jews is the Christian Church, so we must try with all our might to introduce freethinking, skepticism, disbelief, and schism into it; should stir up all sorts of quarrels and quarrels between different Christian sects. In logical sequence, let's start with the priests, declare open war, surrounding them with suspicion and ridicule, diligently monitoring and opening scandals their private life.

The greatest enemy of the Church has always been education arising from spread of public schools: we must try to gain influence on the youth. The progress of civilization entails the equalization of the rights of all religions, and this, of course, is enough to erase spiritual sciences from Christian school programs. Jews will be able to occupy teaching chairs in all Christian schools and educational institutions.

It will follow from this that religious education will have to be limited to outside of home education; and how can there not be enough time for this in a long time? parts of Christian families, it is natural that the religious spirit will gradually become fall and finally disappear completely. Deprivation of the Church of land ownership What will happen is that in a short time these properties, as belonging to governments, will pass into our hands for loans, which we will, of course, not cease to refuse. All these the circumstances together will serve in our favor and for the increase in power we strive for. Any trade combined with speculation and the benefits arising from it, should not leave our hands, for this is, so to speak, the innate right of the Jews. First of all, we must master the trade in alcohol, oil, bread and wool, and then agriculture and all agriculture will be in our hands. We can do it deliver bread always and to everyone; but if any discontent arose among the people arising from high prices and resulting poverty, we would very much we can easily blame it on the governments and cause some kind of disorder, since every revolution, every upheaval contributes to an increase in our capital and bring us closer to the once designated goal. All government positions should be available to us; and only only we will get them - the dexterity and ingratiation of Jewish factors of various classes and types will help us get to where the influence and the present really are power. It goes without saying that we are talking only about positions that inseparable from honors, power, privileges and the resulting profits, so as those duties for the fulfillment of which knowledge and labor are necessary and which provide a moderate reward and can fall to the share of Christians. Law is very important to us. Advocacy is a big step forward because this is a specialty leading to the highest levels of career, more everything goes hand in hand with the cunning and resourcefulness that was instilled in us with childhood and were considered a virtue, and which can help us so much in achieving power and influence over our natural, mortal enemies... Christians. And why couldn't Jews be ministers of public education, when already how many times have you held the post of minister of state property? Jews should be everywhere equally become legislators in order to destroy the rights of the goyim (infidels sinners) harming the children of Israel. For our part, we remain faithful forever the laws commanded to us by our fathers, that is, we preserve the inexorable hatred for the enemies and enemies of Israel... for Christians.

However, we now no longer require laws for our protection, because they With the so-called progress of civilization, civilizations have already been established throughout almost all of Europe. IN At the present moment we should try to obtain more rights that would be useful exclusively to our people, for example, the lenient law on bankruptcy, approved with a humane purpose, would become a real gold ore more abundant than the inexhaustible mines of California.

Jews should become the leaders of all speculative societies, without, however, risking no danger arising from violation of the laws of the country, which, thanks to their dexterity, they must skilfully circumvent. To do this, they should engage only such sciences that go hand in hand with the innate cunning and resourcefulness, and which for this reason may be more useful to them. It is most convenient for Jews to choose law, medicine, music and various economic sciences as their specialty, because these specialties are inseparably associated with speculation. As for the arts, Jews will always find various ways to give a good reception to a debutant, even if he is very mediocre; they will be able to surround him, to a certain extent, with an aura of illusory glory and encouragement. Of the sciences, medicine and political economy belong to our tribe. The most cherished family secrets are always available to the Doctor of Medicine... In his hands the lives of our enemies. Jurisprudence has already been said... With the help of political economy, it is very easy to create confusion in the minds of the uninitiated and imagine white black, and black - white. We must encourage Christians to change their marriage rituals a simple contract before a civil official, for then their wives and daughters They will rush to our camp, where they will be attracted by gold.

If gold is the first powerful force of this world, then the second is probably press; but what can it mean without the participation of the first? Therefore everything the above principles, advice and plans will only be carried out when the press is subject to us. Because of this, Jews are obliged and must in every country to seize control, the daily press into our own hands... We are cunning, dexterous and have money: it follows from this, through all sorts of political magazines to form and guide public opinion exclusively in accordance with our species: we need to criticize works, the stage and gain influence over our society or the proletariat. By following this path step by step, we will push Christians away from all influence and Let us dictate to the world everything that it must believe in, that it must despise and curse. Let us repeat the sorrowful cry of Israel and the complaint of the oppression which is so We have been crushed for a long time!.. Then our enemies will come out one by one, reproaching us our aspirations: but the stupid and dark crowds will be on our side. We, holding the press in our hands, will be able to turn truth into wrong, dishonor elevate to real virtue, shake the hitherto inviolable system family and break its members into separate parts... We are omnipotent then to eradicate everything that our enemies have believed in until now... we will be able to destroy credit, inflame passions, impose glory or plunge into the abyss of dishonor anyone and anything let us want!.. Let all this remain imprinted in the memory of every Israeli!.. Our power will develop into a gigantic tree, the branches of which will be: happiness, wealth, power and luxury; contentment will be our reward for misfortune, danger and contempt which have been our lot for eighteen centuries. Therefore, every Israeli must help another. Just one will step forward, let him drag the others along with him; if his foot slips, let everyone run to his aid. If any of our people are attracted to Christian court for violating the laws of the country where the offender lives, then others Jews must help him, but only if the accused has acted according to the laws governing the people of Israel.

Our people are conservative: they protect and preserve religious rituals and statutes from the earliest times of their origin. He stands strong for routine; but in our In fact, you need to try not only to take part, but even to give direction reforms that are next in line are: improving the financial situation of workers and poor classes. Therefore, we must take part in this movement; But only externally, but in reality they must strive to give direction to the whole flow these reforms are in accordance with our tasks and goals.

The masses, stupid and blind, always voluntarily allow themselves to be led screamers... And who is better and louder than a Jew at bawling and blinding with nonsense? Therefore, ours have primacy in the press and in the courts of all Christian cities.

The more circles and meetings, the more reasons for displeasure and reluctance to work: from here the impoverishment of peoples and their subjugation must certainly follow the power of those who own money or means for the improvement of the proletariat. All sorts of things a movement aimed at change enriches us and destroys small holdings that must sink into debt. The fragility of our foundations elevates our influence and power, and therefore one should contribute to any displeasure and hence the resulting shocks, because they contribute to an increase in our wealth and bring closer the moment of achieving our only goal... that is, dominance and dominance on earth."

Chapter 3

Jewish Synod in Leipzig

June 29, 1869, when the head of the Catholic world convened an ecumenical cathedral, the first Jewish cathedral opened in Leipzig under the name of the Jewish Synod. It met for several days, chaired by Professor Lazarus - from Berlin, and two vice-chairmen: Rabbi Zeiger - from Frankfurt and Cavalier Joseph Wertheimer - from Vienna.

This council was attended by representatives of Germany, Russia, Turkey, Austria, England, France, the Netherlands, etc.; it was divided into two large ones parties - reformers and true believers. The epigraph to it was the following words, which are extracted from proposal made by Dr. Philippson of Banlier, approved by the great Belgian Rabbi Astruc and adopted unanimously by the council:

“The Synod recognizes that the development and implementation of modern rules represent the surest guarantee of the present and future Jewry, energetic and a living condition for the expansion and development of Judaism.” Thus, modern rules in politics and science, rules of revolutionary and Masonic freethinking approved by the National Jewish Union and Grand Rabbi Astruc. If a Jew, even renouncing his law, maintains and jealously supports the banner of his religion, the last refuge of his nationality; if he He stretches out his hand prematurely against the world; if he continues to believe - what about you? confirm its main organs - in the future messianic era, which will elevate him to the level of a ruling people and ruler of nations: then we It is extremely interesting and important to know the means by which Jews among Christians nationalities can influence the course of affairs and the preservation of social order in Europe, partly still based on the ancient and firm beliefs of former times.

We learn that the Jews maintain their desires and hopes thanks to that the strength that comes from their ability to assemble disparate members of their family a separate state within a state; the help that secret societies give them from followers of all faiths; thanks to their dominion over societies and even whole nations, where the secret movers are the influential persons of the Jewish origin. The inimitable art of the Jews in making these societies work in your benefit; the ever-increasing wealth of wealth; congenital and the characteristic dexterity with which they rob gold from other nations; omnipotence delivered by this gold to excite and move the public opinion; amazing flexibility of abilities, unyielding will; unshakable constancy of thoughts and, finally, the strange and wonderful advantage of physical nature, making Jews the only people capable of enduring with impunity the most opposite climates, to create a homeland for himself on every soil, and from it developed the only example of a person who, without exaggeration, can to be called a cosmopolitan, or a global citizen - all this contributes to maintaining in Jews their cherished hopes and desires.

Machine Translated by Google

Nowadays, the spirit irresistibly and secretly penetrates into the education of our children: so-called liberal people; the spirit of those instigators and flatterers of the revolution who self-proclaimedly call themselves priests of the seal, serving at the same time as obedient instruments or mediocre leaders of secret societies headed by a Jew! If, as the organs of the revolution repeat, a person must be a cosmopolitan, and the tribes that make up separate breeds must eventually unite into one family, into one world republic: then the indisputable conclusion follows that these people will certainly be subject to the Jews over time. Of all the nations, only the Jewish can consider every country of the world to be theirs. homeland, and only one, living among peoples alien to him, remains true to himself, representing in this regard an exceptional example: therefore, only he alone able to gather its members from different ends of the earth and unite them in one common meeting. Thus, only he alone can represent all peoples, all dialects, all interests, all nationalities and lands. As a representative of the whole world, in In this sense, the Jewish nation constitutes a network, as it were, which it hopes will eventually entangle all humanity alien to it.

Under the mysterious influence of the synagogue, the Jewish people saved themselves from storms that threatened to drown him in the ever-turbulent depths of the sea of life. Shaken by the eternal movement, the Jew always found support in it among peoples irritated against his fanaticism and national customs. Persecuted for eighteen centuries by hatred and contempt, scattered across the face of the earth, the Jews finally, as if involuntarily, united into a huge friendly society, the secret of which was kept for their own protection and for fulfillment of the hopes instilled in them by religion. So, among the hating nations, the Jews loudly mourn their apparent weakness which caused their dispersion, and at the same time cover the globe the family of his brothers, a sacred union, each member of which is the helper of his comrade and, in turn, is supported by all. This union is like that huge polyp, which in the depths of the seas spreads countless tentacles, oscillates and feeds on the eternal movement of the will. This organization of Jewry settled down, so to speak, by itself; it always existed and seemed sufficient until until the weakening of religious ties entailed a weakening of the connection in Jewish nationality. This decline attracted the serious attention of Jewish leaders and forced them take measures to replace the natural organization of Jewry with an artificial one. Main the means for this purpose were societies organized along new principles, corresponding to the spirit of new times and modern politics.”

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 4

Jewish Secret Union

One of these societies organized itself under the name of the Jewish Union, on whose insidious plans we have already had occasion to indicate.

At first glance, this institution seems like an unnecessary repetition. But its strength is that, open to dreamers, defectors and denigrators of all religions, it prepares and completes the unification of all foreign elements, and at the same time time represents a frame infinitely extensible for all possible combinations. It helps Jewish progressives disguised as political and religious liberalism, to subjugate the gullible masses and, under the pretext of serving public interests, to put Jewish leaders at their head.

Finally, it unites Jews with those Christians from birth who unconsciously become allies and slaves of Jewry, and teaches them to sympathize sympathies and hatreds of those people whose name was previously an expression for them supreme contempt. The whole mass of these people of various shades and conditions, supported in antisocial prejudices, indifferent to all beliefs or secrets hostile to Christianity, turns to Freemasonry, the main modern secret societies, which is a huge partnership. His real bosses are barely known to a tiny number of those initiated into secret societies and who are in close connections with the supreme Jewish Kabbalists. However, they should not be confused with funeral leaders. So, this is the selected grain of society, these are its true leaders, known to only a few members, and then usually only by nickname, for example, Nubius and Jew Pikolo-Tiger, acts in secret dependence on Jewish Kabbalists.

This phenomenon occurs due to strict silence, which is forced their terrible oaths and threats, and also thanks to the majority of the Jewish members in Supreme Council All secret societies are just a type of Jewish institutions in disguise Christianity; that one thought guides them - we were convinced of this even before the correspondence of Nubius and Pikolo-Tiger was opened - for all their work, all their activity have the sole purpose of disseminating ideas and facts tending to undermine the teachings of Christ in Christian societies.

All their efforts lead to the triumph of the idea of Jewry, proclaimed by the Jews themselves under the name of modern rules, the consequence of which will be that era the messiah they had always hoped for.

The characteristic pliability of members of secret societies allows them to appear everything, anything; the flexibility and vicissitudes of their teaching are incomprehensible; they can in one and at the same time extol Christianity and blaspheme, as the subject of their irreconcilable hatred. Members of secret societies have Christian names and infiltrate public environments to achieve their secret political goals. Deceived these venerable names, entire masses are carried away by such false philanthropic kind. The oversight of some members who dared to rip off herself a mask in the confidence of imminent triumph, discovered their secret, and she already announced by Parisian literature, from there we borrow this information, on the basis which, as well as those obtained by us personally, we speak affirmatively about the state and the power of secret societies, where Jews are at the head of entire masses called Society of New Freemasonry.

Chapter 5

Machine Translated by Google

Masonic Jewish Societies

From Russia, a Jewish traveler writes the following to the Voskhod newspaper: “Having become acquainted with the external life of the Cairo Ashkenazim (sectarian Jews), I became to look for whether there were any societies - manifestations of spiritual aspirations - and, of course, found a union called "Maimonides Loge", which is a separation unknown society "Bnei Brith", as is known, founded in New York already a long time ago, namely in 1842. The goal is to raise morality, spiritual development, brotherhood, love between members, etc. For about 40 years the society kept within close bounds, but in 1881 it was decided to begin intensive propaganda and the founding of branches in Europe. The society was particularly successful in Germany, where many people joined it prominent personalities and many branches were founded. From here they spread clubs in Austria and in other cities. The Order of Bnei Brith, in all likelihood, faces a brilliant, perhaps historic, future. Suffice it to remember that since 1881, up to 400 branches with 40,000 members have been founded. Society has its own newspaper "Menorah", which is published in New York in English and German and sent out in huge numbers of copies. Every five years in New York there are general meetings of representatives of the main lodges, and small lodges connect with each other and when thousands of members are acquired, they form one - the main one I'm lying down. All lodges enjoy complete independence from the main administration, according to dispose of their money at their own discretion and are obliged only annually send detailed reports on your activities, which are printed for public information in Menorah. Each department, in addition to the general name "Unabbangiger Orden Bnei Brith", called itself "Maimonides Loge", no name Maimonides, who at one time is said to have lived in Cairo. The base is the gel of the local department was Sigismund Simmel, who in 1887, on his way to Palestine, visited Cairo. Each member of the society contributes 2 S francs per month. About two years ago Headquarters in New York invited its branches to send more each member one franc, - for the benefit of two schools in Jerusalem: Dr. Herzberg School and the Alliance School, of which he is the director Nissim Behar. I don’t know about other branches, but the Cairo one carefully sends its Part. The local branch manages all other money according to at your own discretion. The establishment of Jewish schools in the East is a matter of great importance".

Chapter 6

The efforts of the Jewish Union to educate the Jews

“ONLY after becoming acquainted with the state of affairs here, do you begin to fully to realize their absolute necessity and the significance of that enhanced planting Jewish schools in the East, to which he so persistently devotes himself to the best of his ability Parisian "Alliance Israelite Universelle". Missionaries (Christian) although they spent huge money during the entire period of disorderly emigration from Russia, nothing with They couldn’t do it as adults and during the entire 8-9 years they had one or two crosses.”

In the same Jewish magazine cited above they write from the city of Kovny: “Recent the past of our Talmud Torah (school), when it was in its most miserable state, is still so fresh in our memory that one cannot help but rejoice at the change that has recently occurred in the fate of this institution; yes and in classes progress is noticed with the removal of the previous head and with the entry of the Talmud Torah “under the jurisdiction of the educational department.” Therefore, there is no need for assistance in Russia “Masonic Maimonides Lodges”, since it turns out that the Jewish school is best The Talmud is under the jurisdiction of the Vilna Educational District Trusteeship. In general in this region

Machine Translated by Google

Catholics, Lutherans, Calvinists and Mohammedans do not have their own households primary schools, and everyone is obliged to send their children to a government school and start learning with the Russian alphabet. Only Jews with their innate ability in a roundabout way they managed to defend the fact that there are still Jewish cheders (schools) with their Old Testament melameds, which fantasize Jewish children according to the old books, uncensored. It is necessary to eliminate the influence of the “World Jewish Union” on the lives of Jews through the closure of the department of this union in Russia, operating under the name “Society dissemination of education among Jews in Russia."

"Society for the Propagation of Education among Jews", which met at its origin, warm sympathy between Russians should exclusively to provide assistance to Jews seeking enlightenment, i.e., wishing to receive an education, of course, Russian, and to spread Russian literacy among Jews, is, in essence, a national Jewish body, which, while currently leading the time of life of Russian Jews in general and standing at the head of all their institutions is department of the famous "World Jewish Union". For a fellow believer, as you know, Jewish institutions always remain dark and inaccessible. Judge the activities of these institutions by their charters, especially if these statutes are approved by the co-religion authorities, or according to official reports that are published or delivered to local institutions, it would be wrong. Here, under the legal label, contraband is almost always hidden. Phenomenon this constitutes the natural fruit of the religious and historical life of the Jews, beginning since their return from Babylon. Since that time, Jews have always had the scroll of the Pentateuch, into which the eye of a Gentile could look, contained the Megilot setorim" (secret scrolls)[1]; next to journals, lists, reports, estimates, revision tales with which Jews deliver official documents to the authorities of other faiths information about yourself and in which Jewish life is depicted as it should have, at the request of Jewish representation, there are other lists and catalities books, as you know, are more afraid of light, publicity, and especially of other faiths than fire eyes, but representing Jewish life in its natural form. In a word, ambiguity constitutes a typical feature of all Jewish institutions, and is what distinguishes "World Jewish Union" with spread throughout the world, openly or secretly its subordinate departments[2] .

The “World Jewish Union” takes under its, so to speak, state guardianship of Jews all over the world, and Jews in Russia, where there are more of them than in all states of the world as a whole are not removed from the care of this world body.

The intervention of the “World Union” in the case of the Minsk Jew Beard, who arson in 1864 was sentenced to death by a local military court; correspondence between the Union and the Russian envoy in Paris in 1868 on the occasion of the conversion of a Jewish woman to the Orthodox faith; initiation by the World Union through gr. Beaconsfield and Saint-Hilaire at the Berlin Congress in 1878, the question of granting Jews in Russia and in Romania equality; finally, the bold presentation of this Union to our government regarding the present unrest in the South, which has caused energetic a response note from the official “Agence Generale Russe” - all these are facts proving that the Union does not exclude Russian Jews from its political tutelage.

---

[1] From these secret scrolls the current Talmud was compiled.

[2] But let us note: the “World Union” is also only official, explicit the organ of the real center of the Jewish state, a center kept in deep secret.

Machine Translated by Google

The emergence of Jewish world unions dates back to modern times. AND No wonder the peoples were alarmed and allowed the Jews to deceive themselves and under the guise the notorious equality of rights opened up for them full scope for destructive work. Not only Germany, Austria, Hungary and Romania, but even countries like France and Belgium felt the weight of the Jewish yoke imposed on them under the guise of this equality. In the press and on the stock exchange the Jew already reigns; in parliaments he also gives feel strongly. "Alliance" is currently even according to its public reports has about 50 thousand members with an annual contribution of over a million francs. If we take into account that “Alliance” grouped together all the influential and richest representatives of Jewry, then we will understand what a huge force this international hotbed of Jewish conspiracy against Christian civilization and Christian peoples.

SECTION 4. DOGMATIC

TREATISE 1 THE TEACHING OF THE KABBALISTS ABOUT JEHOVAH

Chapter 1

The names of Jehovah and the names of the parts of his body

"Adinoi" is the highest term for Jehovah; "Shadai" - second his name; "Shekinah" - the life-giving Spirit of God; but we will use the name “Jehovah” is more common and understandable. Jehovah, according to teaching Kabbalists, rules the universe through Elohim, just as the sun shines through the case. With the coming of the Messiah, Elohim and the solar case will be destroyed, and then the sun's rays will burn the sinners of the Jews, serving at the same time a strengthening agent for Jewish righteous people - rabbis and tzaddikim. By teachings of the Kabbalists, every devout Jew comes into contact with Adinay with all parts of your body. The personality of Adinoy is outlined by the Zogarists in the most rough material paints. The head of Adinoy is called - resh, the mouth - malkhes, the heart - bino, the right hand - hessed, the left - gviro, the space from the hands to the knees - shiferes, the knees - netzach vi-goyd, the genitals - isod or osbrishkoydes.

Thus materialized by Adina, he is in intercourse with his Kneses-Isruels, that is, the faithful, through the Bible and through isod, or osbrishkoydesa, for he himself gives birth to tzaddikim (in Hebrew isishen).

The essence undivided from Jehovah consists of ten luminaries (eser sfiros eyres), in which His will is manifested, creating gradually (gishtantelos), one after others, four worlds: the world of ideas (atsilos), the world of creativity (beriya), the world of images (etsiro) and the material world (aslya). With all these luminaries and worlds, the Supreme Being is the beginning of all beginnings.

It is known that ancient philosophers, delving into the development of the topic they created on the question: how from God is one, omnipresent, infinite in space and in time, beginningless and infinite, the material and limited world came into being - they finally came to the point that they forbade any judgment “malemalo, malemalo, malefonim, uma-leochor,” that is, thinking about how to cognize God in his eternal existence above the heavens and below the globe, which was before the creation of the world and what will happen at the end of it.

The oldest Talmudic teacher, Rabbi Meir, holds a remarkable view to strengthen the people in suffering. According to Rabbi Meir, it is quite clear formulated, Jehovah suffers in man himself: “The suffering of people is Jehovah's suffering." Jehovah cannot in any human era redeem human suffering, and as long as man on earth remains a victim of suffering, until then Jehovah will suffer together with man, will suffer for him. Jehovah can never be separated from a person, as from his own image and likeness, and shares with him his fate. This principle differs from the teaching of Moses, according to which Jehovah is a force that equalizes people among themselves in personal and material benefits. According to the law of Moses, all Jews are slaves of Jehovah, the whole earth belongs to the Lord, and from here - complete equality of people among themselves. Jehovah of the prophets goes further, makes the first an attempt to bring people closer to themselves, turning them from the form of religion to reality its content. Rabbi Meir goes even further: he brings equality to the union of man with Jehovah, and if the suffering of many is half the consolation, how much consolation should become complete with the conviction that the person himself is suffering Jehovah! Jehovah, thus, according to Rabbi Meir, leads man on the path suffering, but does not leave him alone on this difficult path: he suffers with him and will suffer until he leads a person onto a bright path, where there will be no grief, no torment, when people realize that it is necessary to free them from suffering is its prototype, its original likeness. Such a view could only have been developed in the era of inhumane suffering of the Jews, in the era of Hadrian’s edicts, and the teacher could not give his people better consolation than to say that God also suffers with them. Thanks to his extraordinary energy and activity, which was distinguished by its practical meaning, Rabbi Meir emerged victorious in the most difficult era of Jewish history, during the era of renaissance and the clash of the most various views, and under these exceptional conditions he managed to prepare quite solid ground for the further development and tight consolidation of Judaism. The Talmud says:

“The day consists of 12 hours; during the first three hours God sits and studies the law; during the other three hours God provides; in the next in these three hours God revives the entire universe, and in the last three hours he sits and amuses himself with Leviathan, the king of fish; at night, adds Rabbi Menachem, “God studies the Talmud." (Pen-tat. 79, 3, p. 17. Targum Kant. 5, 10 is exactly the same).

"Zohar" - a book of Kabbalists - talks about the names of God and His ten properties in very crude materialism. Today's smartest Talmud rabbis for softening of Talmudic nonsense began to approach the Mosaic teaching about Jehovah, i.e. God, and even included in Gurevich’s new prayer book that they are considered dogmas of faith 13 symbols of “I believe” put forward by Maimonides, at the head of which is the absolute incorruptibility of God. Every Jew repeats the words daily: “I believe full faith that the Creator is not a body and that He is not subject to any accidents bodies." But as for the Talmud, in many places there are very strange and ridiculous judgments and expressions about God, completely contrary to the teaching of the Mosaic Law. Many Talmudic philosophers, each in his own way slyly philosophizing, contradict not only one another, but - most importantly - as if in desecration of Moses law, so that in ridiculous contradictions they show their complete intellect interference.

Saadia Gaon (the highest spiritual degree - Gaon) in his work “Emunod ve-Deot” recognizes as devoid of any foundation the well-known Talmudic saying that “it is better not to be born than to be interested in four things: what is above us and under us, and by what was before us and will be after us.” IN

In his first writings, Saadia understands the connection between religion and philosophy too formally. Thus, in the polemical works he wrote against the Karaites, he tries to prove that the ten biblical commandments coincide with the ten logical Aristotle's categories. In his later work, which constitutes a commentary on the "Book of Creation", Saadiah, obviously under the strong influence of the commented book leans towards pantheism: he argues that the omnipresence of God must be understood in the sense of the inherent vitality of the universe and the underlying consciousness; that all substances are permeated with ether, through which the Divinity communicates life and movement to the whole world; Talmudic expressions "Greatness of God", "Shekinah" and the life-giving Spirit of God - the Books of creation - mean, according to Saadia, the same ethereal environment that fills the world, constituting a mediocre link between him and the Divine. This is the wisdom of rabbinical philosophy! All philosophers Kabbalists, Talmudists and rabbinical commentators regarding the goyim (Christians) - the enemies of God - in full agreement and unanimously teach about their extermination without mercy - of course, in a secret way, and not openly yet; this is evident from the cases ritual murders of Christians: all for one and one for all.

Chapter 2

The Size of All Jehovah's Members

For the Jewish sages of Kabbalists (Hasidim), everything is the other way around: what for others peoples are difficult to understand, with them everything is comprehensible. For example, according to the teachings of the tzaddikim, in the book "Razul", which the angel handed to the first person, this is how the measure is determined Shikhin, or Adinoy: "Nemael said that Methotron, the Grand Duke of the witness, told him: "I convey the testimony of Adinoy himself, the God of Israel, living and constant God, that sitting on the seat of His dominion, He occupies upward one hundred eighteen glad ten thousand miles, and from the seat of his dominion down a hundred and eighteen times ten thousand miles. Therefore He is called the great, strong God and strong." Later in the same book the measure of Jehovah is defined in even more detail. Rabbi Ismael says that "he saw the King of kings sitting on a high throne and exalted: before him stood princes on his right and left. Then the angel, the prince justice, who is called Methotron, said to me: "Listening, I will tell you the measure Saint of Israel, hidden from all creatures: from the sole to the shin a thousand times ten thousand and five hundred miles; from his shins to his knees ninety times ten thousand, a thousand miles and four miles. From the knees to the torso of Adinoy twelve times ten thousand and thousand four miles; from the torso to the neck twenty-four thousand times ten thousand miles. The height of his neck is three hundred thousand times ten thousand and eight miles. The pupils of his eyes eleven thousand five hundred miles each in diameter. His right hand is twenty-two times ten thousand and two miles long; the left one is the same length. From his right shoulder to left six hundred thousand times ten thousand miles. The fingers on his hands, all together, are twelve thousand times ten thousand miles. His beard is eleven thousand five hundred miles long; the crown on his head is sixty times ten thousand miles." "Who knows this measure our Creator," says Ismael to his disciples, "he will be the son of the future world." Rabbi Akiva adds to this that the angels who serve Jehovah send their service at a respectful distance from Him thirty-six thousand times ten thousand miles".[1]

It's hard to imagine what kind of imagination was needed to make all this happen. substantiate in Holy Scripture. But the Kabbalists are confident that they do not deviate one step from law and prophets. The main source from which they derived this strange personification and measurement of the Divine, served by the words of the prophet Isaiah: "Heaven is the throne Mine, the earth is my footstool."[2] If the earth or the world is the footstool of Jehovah, conclude Kabbalists, then the sole of his foot should fall exactly on this stand. For To clarify these phrases, we present two verses of the familiar psalm: "Dixit Dominus Domino meo, - Sede a dixtris meis; Donee ponan inimicos tuos, - scabellum pedum tuorum." Kabbalists, based on various similar expressions in the psalms and in the Bible, make geographical and geometric measurements and draw a positive conclusion; then all this is elevated to sacred dogma for the ignorant and fanatical his crowd.

Following the fantasy, or hallucination of the Kabbalists, if one defines the width and the longitude of the globe, then this would mean determining the width and length of Jehovah's foot. Further, just as the earth is equal to God's foot, so the sky is equal to God's span, because The prophet says: "He measures the heavens with a span." 3 This Divine span can also embrace the entire earthly world from edge to edge, because the prophet adds: "He defines the world in a span." Thus, the heavens and the heavens of heavens are equal to His earth. A the distance between heaven and earth is equal to the height of the degree of Jehovah. Proportional with With these basic principles, the Kabbalists, from the figures we showed, added up the entire the imaginary figure of Jehovah, although not entirely proportionate. 1

Otiotravi Akiva, sheet 16, ch. 3. 2 Isaiah 66.1. 3 Isaiah 40,42.

Chapter 3
The Distance of Angels from Jehovah

The space or distance from Jehovah of the serving angels is based on the second verse of the sixth chapter of the prophet Isaiah: "Seraphim stand before Him." The last words, in Hebrew memmal-lyo, added together in Kabbalistic arithmetic give thirty-six thousand miles. However, only Akiva makes such an account; other Talmudic teachers to define the space defining Jehovah and his ministers, take one Hebrew word - "lyo", which means thirty-six miles. As for the unit itself adopted in these calculations, or the Divine miles, then this mile is equal to a million divine cubits, and each cubit contains four divine spans; the divine span is equal to space land. Thus, the unit is the space of the earth, multiplied by four a million times'. Defined by such extremely material features the divine physiognomy and appearance of Jehovah, the Talmud also defines his activities. Thus, according to the teachings of the Talmudists, at night Jehovah studies the Talmud, choosing to read the most elevated places from it and inviting to these, so to speak, literary nights to the participation of angels as their closest servants. In these studies with Jehovah Asmodeus, the king of devils, also participates, ascending to heaven daily to study Talmud2 . In addition, Jehovah was previously devoted to other, more playful activities with which he amused himself among his creatures. 1 Proceedings Kyiv.

D. Academy, 1872, art. village Olesnitsky. 2 Tract. Gitin, L. 68.

According to the teachings of the Talmud, rabbis of all centuries have before God and the world have the same meaning. Therefore, even in our time there is Jewish teaching that the words of some rabbis have the meaning of words Divine. The great Rabbi Menachem (1200 A.D.) teaches that "God commands seek the advice of rabbis on earth if any dispute arises in heaven regarding the law." A Hebrew book from 1590 says: "You must know that the words of the rabbis are more important than the prophets" (Pentat. 28,1.129, p. 3; Laphtuph, t. 121).

One of the divine activities was dancing, and the Talmud testifies that Once upon a time, after the creation of man, Jehovah was the first to begin a dance with Eve, as soon as he bestowed her with all the perfections and braided her hair in braids .

Chapter 4
Jehovah's Practices

In the treatise of Bova Maecius, l. 86, p. 1, speaks rather cheekily about scientific classes at the "Heavenly Academy" presided over by Jehovah. Once there they studied the book of Leviticus, and we were talking about the following verse (XIII, 4): “And if on the skin of a sick person there is white a spot that does not appear to be embedded in the skin and is not covered with whitened hair, then The priest must lock up such a sick person for 7 days.” The question is: what is this Is the patient clean or not clean? Jehovah says: not clean. Academicians say the opposite, stand firmly on their ground and do not give in. Then one of the angels is given the order: “Bring the soul of Rabba bar Nahman, the most learned and eloquent of rabbis." The angel found Rabba immersed in his Talmudic studies and could not thus, take away his soul. He comes back and tells what he saw. AND The one who sent said to Him: Hide not far from Rabba, set in motion at help the trees around him with a strong wind, and when he is distracted from the book, take possession of his soul.” The angel followed the command of the Lord and brought the soul of Rabba. AND so the soul cried out: “Clean, Clean!" - contrary to the opinion of the Lord. Lord then admitted himself defeated... It goes on to say that when Rabba bar-Nachmani died, a terrible hurricane arose that threatened to destroy the world. This is what I wanted Rabba ascend to heaven. Then one Arab asked: “What does this mean?” and they answered him: “Ben Nachmani ascends to heaven.” The Arab began to reproach the Lord with the words: “You created Ben Nachmani, and You took away his spirit: why on earth would you destroy the world?” Then the wind died down. 1 Tract. Berakhod, L. 61.

Talmudic haggadah, adhering to simple folk beliefs and concepts regarding the afterlife, expressed the folk concept of physical character of the afterlife judgment in a parable often cited by rabbinical authorities to characteristics of a posthumous trial. According to the teachings of Jewish belief, Jehovah is the creator of the whole world, in fact. "Berakhot" (l. 37, p. 1), there are expressions regarding Jehovah “through His word everything happened." Jehovah is the source of life and resurrection. Rabbi Jochanan says that three keys are in the hand of the saint, which are not transferred to the hands of an angel, namely: the key of rain, the key of life and the key of the resurrection of the dead (tract. “Taanit”, l. 2, pp. 1-2). Although in the Talmud Jehovah is considered the creator of the world and everything that exists in it, however along with the creative Jehovah, another principle, hostile, is also allowed divine plan. To the tract. “Chagiga” (l. 12-1) Rabbi Judah on behalf of the Rab says: when the Holy One, blessed be he, created the world, it, that is, the world, expanded and developed like two skeins of warp, until the Holy One, be his name blessedly, I didn’t shout at him and didn’t stop him.” There's a slave there. Resh Lakish says: “When the Holy One, blessed be his name, created the sea, it expanded and developed until the Saint, blessed be his name, cried out on him". Here the resistance of the material world to the Creator is clearly allowed. In the Talmud The idea that Jehovah is the creator of matter itself is not clearly expressed. Creation Jehovah is here presented as the work of an architect, and not as a creator out of nothing.

The schools of Shammai and Hillel do not agree with each other: the first taught that before the heavens were created, and then the earth; the second taught that the earth was created first, and then the sky (tract. “Chagiga”, l. 12-1).

“Antoninus (Roman Emperor) once turned to R. Yehuda Gannasi (head of Jerusalem Academy) with the following question: “After all, body and soul can get rid of all judgment (not heaven). The body can say: “I have not sinned at all, but only the soul sinned, for from the day it left me, I have been lying like a dumb stone in the grave.” The soul will say: “It was not I, but the body that sinned, for from the very day I came out of it, I fly like a bird in the air." Rabbi Yehuda answered him with the following parable: “There was a king who had a beautiful garden, and in this garden beautiful trees grew.

fruit. The king placed one lame man and another blind man as watchmen in the garden. Here he says One day a lame man to a blind man: “What beautiful fruits I see in this garden! Come on, I I’ll sit astride you, let’s bring them and eat them together.” So they did: the lame man sat down riding on the blind man, he brought the fruits, and they ate them together. Over time The owner appears in the garden and asks: “Where did you put these beautiful fruits?” - "But how “How could I take them,” the blind man replies, “can I really see them?” “But how could I take them?” touch? - the lame man objected. “Could I walk?” What did the king do? He planted a lame man riding a blind man and in this form he judged them both, saying: “It is in this form that you committed the crime - and in this form I judge you.” It will be so in future world. God will take the soul and put it into the body, and will judge them together, as it is said (Psalms, 50): “He will call the heavens from above (a soul created from the heavenly element) and the earth below (a body created from earthly elements) to judge the people your own" (Tract. Sanhedrin, l. 91; also Midrash Vaikra Rabba, chapter IV).

The Talmudic Haggadah gives several descriptions along these lines. “To a man,” says Haggadah, - at the heavenly court they list all his deeds and say: this is how you acted in such and such a place and on such and such a day,” and he answers: “Yes!” They tell him: “Sign,” and he signs, as it is said: “By the hand of every man it will be signed” (Job, 37). Not only that: he also confirms the justice of what was decreed against him sentence (Taanit, 18). The midrash Shocher Tov depicts how Jehovah judges scholars. Is to to the court a man who studied only the Holy Scripture and did not study the mishna at all; Then “God turns his face away from him, and the servants of hell rush at him like wolves and throw him into Gehenna." Only then Jehovah is pleased when a person who has been engaged in The Talmud and mainly the Gemara (see “Shevet Mussar” II, 96).

Here the extreme narrowness of views is already evident, but in the newest edifying In books, the afterlife judgment appears, moreover, as something terrible, amazing, that in itself serves as a punishment for the interrogated sinner.

Another occupation of Jehovah was constant fun with Leviathan, with whom he played often'. This is the routine of Jehovah's household and daily life. lasted only until the destruction of the Temple of Jerusalem. Since then, Jehovah’s main, almost exclusive occupation has been crying and sadness . First and most important the reason for Jehovah's incessant weeping is the destruction of Jerusalem. "He concluded in one secret place, Mistorim, says one above Talmudic treatise - and cries for the death of the daughter of his people, fulfilling the words Prophet Jeremiah: "If you listen to him, my soul must mourn in secret places your glory"[3]. This secret place, Mistorim, represents the low-lying region of heaven into which Jehovah descended to mourn the ill-fated his people. He had to come down because in the highest regions of heaven there is a cry for impossible for him,” as it is said: “joy and joy in his holy dwelling.”[4]. Together with By Jehovah the angels also came down to mourn Jerusalem, as Isaiah says : “Behold the strong shout them behind the walls; angels of peace they weep bitterly."

More than once Jehovah threatened his people, demanding correction, but the people did little to convert attention to these threats. 1

Tract. Berachot. 2 Tract.

Hagiga, L. 5, Art. 2. 3 Jer. 13:17, which speaks of the people's lamentation. 4 Parp. 16,17. Tract.

Berakhot, l. 11.1, Art. 1.5 Isaiah 22.12.

And then one day, angry with the people, against his will, Jehovah could not resist and uttered a terrible word of curse to his people, as Jeremiah says: “In the heat of the moment anger He turned away his right hand from the enemy and struck everything pleasing to the eyes Ours"[1]. As a result of this terrible curse, enemies suddenly attacked the temple Jerusalem, and its devastation began. This kind of first devastation was so It was hard that the heat of Jehovah’s anger against the people cooled instantly, and He was the first to burst into tears. “Woe is me,” says Jehovah to the angels around him, “I must lose the only dwelling that I had on earth, so it remains for Me to leave the world and return to heaven. The words of the prophet Hosea are fulfilled on Me: “I must go, return to my place, until they admit their guilt and in sorrow they will desire me."2

Chapter 5

Jehovah's Lament for the Jews

“Oh, Israel! From it I must condemn my dear home to ridicule enemies." The angels listened to these complaints in silent sorrow, not knowing what to say. comfort. Only Prince Metotron stepped forward, embraced Jehovah and said: “O my lord! Blessed be your name. Leave me to cry. If you forbid me cry here, in the place that You own, then I retire to a secret place where Your power extends, as Jeremiah says: “My soul will be in a secret place. cry." This scene took place outside the temple, in the place where Jehovah retired at the first enemy attack on Jerusalem, together with a retinue of angels and a prophet Jeremiah. Meanwhile, the glow of the fire was already smoking over Jerusalem. Jehovah wanted take another look at Your home. “Come with me,” He said to the angels, “let’s look at My house and see what the enemies have done in it.” The retinue went accompanied Jeremiah. 1

Lamentations Jeremiah.

23. 2 Hosea 5.15.

As soon as Jehovah saw Jerusalem and the temple close, he began to cry and said: “Is this the house My? Is this my place of rest? Where are my children? Where are my prophets? These are the priests My? I took care of you, and you?.. I am like a man,” Jehovah then turned to Jeremiah, “who had one son, of whom he was proud for a long time, pinned his hopes on him, and who died.” “Let them come,” Jehovah raised his voice, “to look at this spectacle the ancestors of my people and the leaders of them. Let Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Moses come here to cry; go call them." Jeremiah knew the tomb of the patriarchs, but did not know where the great leader of Israel rested. “Lord of the world,” he said, “I don’t know where search for the tombs of Moses." Jehovah said: “Go out, stand on the banks of the Jordan, lift up your voice and shout: “O son of Abraham, son of Abraham! Arise, look at the sheep yours, plundered by your enemies." Jeremiah went first to the patriarchs and soon found a cave in Hebron where they were buried. He awakened them by the command of Jehovah and said: “Fathers of the world, stand up, the time has come to appear before Jehovah.” - "What It happened?" - the patriarchs ask. “I don’t know,” Jeremiah answered evasively and, leaving the patriarchs in a misunderstanding, he himself went to the bank of the Jordan, stood and cried: “O son of Abraham, son of Abraham! Stand up, it's time to show up Jehovah." Moses immediately came out of his hitherto unknown tomb and spoke to Jeremiah, and turned to the angels who were here at the embassy, with whom was familiar from the time of the Sinai legislation. “You servants of the Most High,” he said, “don’t you know why Jehovah calls me?” - “You are the son of Abraham, and let it be

Machine Translated by Google

you know that Jerusalem is destroyed and the children of Israel are carried into captivity." With these In these words, the leader of Israel sobbed loudly and cried all the time until he came to the cave where the patriarchs were waiting for him. Having learned about the misfortune, the patriarchs tore their clothes, folded their hands on their heads[2] and shouted "gebalt" and cried all the way to Jerusalem in fulfillment of words

1 Gen. 23.17. 2

This is how the ancient Jews expressed the highest degree of grief. Jerem. 2, 37. Himself.

13.9. Isaiah:

"Jehovah of hosts this same day invites you to weep and lament, to cut your hair hair and girdle with hair shirt"[1]. They walked from one gate to another, like sentenced to death. And Jehovah wept and said: "Alas, the king, happy in youth, who was visited by misfortune in old age." Jehovah, full of inexpressible sadness, walked back and forth in the temple: he walked from the cherubim at the entrance of the temple, from the entrance of the temple to the cherubim, from the cherubim to the gates eastern, from the eastern gate to the porch, from the porch to the altar, from the altar to the wall, in city, from the city to the Mount of Olives, and so on. Then he returned to the temple again, hugged and kissed its walls and pillars, and said with tears: "Oh, peace of the house of holiness Mine! Oh, peace of my kingdom, oh peace!.. And he knelt down in sorrow on His dilapidated throne. He was surrounded by a swarm of spirits who, with their bright with faces they thought to console the sorrow of the Almighty; but He sent them away without accepting consolation, in fulfillment of the words of Isaiah: "Depart from Me. I want to cry bitterly; don't get stronger comfort Me for the lost daughter of My people"[2]. Meanwhile, the fire was already engulfing the temple, and the sanctuary filled with smoke, and Jehovah continued to sit and weep. Then Asaph decided to approach him and said: "O Lord of the world, let your name be blessed! Your house is burning with fire, and You are sitting. Arise and leave Your house, as Psalm 3 says : "Move up Your steps among the eternal ruins, because everything the enemy destroyed the sanctuary." At this time all the prophets gathered in Jerusalem to comfort Jehovah with predictions of better times in the future; but it was all in vain. The sorrow did not stop in subsequent times, and since then it has not ceased to poison the divine life of Jehovah

1 Isaiah 22, 12. 2

Isaiah 22, 4. 3 Ps.

74, 3. For some time, He chose the Sinai desert as a place for the outpouring of His grief, in which more than once the great rabbis heard His voice, sometimes soul-tearing, like the roar of a lion, sometimes plaintive, like the cooing of a dove. "I swear by your life," Elias says to Rabbi Jose, "by the life of my head[1] that voice in the desert three times He says every day: "Woe is Me, why have I destroyed My house!" And when the Israelis go to the synagogue and say: "Amen, blessed be His kingdom," Jehovah sad shakes his head and says: "Happy is the king who lives in his house; but what kind of father the one who brought his children into captivity? The poor are those children who are far from the hearth his father." One Arabian dared to come close to Mount Sinai, but the mountain was surrounded by white guardian scorpions; he limited himself to only from a distance I listened to the same eternal exclamation: "Woe is Me, why should I curse them."

Chapter 6

Jehovah's Sadness and Irritation

In the midst of such constant sadness, Jehovah forgot about his ordinary activities, and became extremely irritable. Before the destruction of the temple, he had a third habit play with Leviathan part of the day, and since the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple

I left this fun forever. His very divine glory now became unpleasant to him, so that since the destruction of the temple, He never even once ascended to His throne. "Since then time," says Jehovah to Moses, "when Nebuchadnezzar destroyed my house, I swear your life and the life of my glory, - I have never ascended to My throne. If you don't believe, then look: my head is covered with dew, as they say: "on my head dew. There are drops of night on my long hair2 , because I live under the open sky, in the middle of deserts, and I swear I will not enter heavenly Jerusalem until the Israelites will not enter earthly Jerusalem." This sorrow made Jehovah to such an extent irritable that not a day goes by in which he is not irritated with anger. 1 Yalkut Shimoni, and. 166, 4. 2 Talmud, tract. Bova Batra, l. 74, art. 1 etc.

When Jehovah opens his eyes and sees that the wicked prosper on earth, and His children suffer, rage rises in Him, and He roars so that earth and heaven tremble, as the prophet Joel says: "He will roar from Zion, he will give from Jerusalem hear His voice, and heaven and earth will tremble." That's why earthquakes teachings of the Talmud, became known from the time of the destruction of Jerusalem: before that events the earth did not shake.

Chapter 7

Jehovah's Roar in the Forest of Eli

Regarding this roar, the Talmud says that Jehovah roars with a voice lion from the forest of Eli. The Roman Caesar once wished to see this lion. When they took him, and he was still 400 miles from Rome, he roared so loudly that all the pregnant women the women were thrown out, all the stone walls collapsed; when he roared a second time, being only 300 miles away, all the inhabitants lost all their teeth, and Caesar himself fell from throne. Of course, the lion was not brought to Rome, but was sent back home2 .

In addition to this general lament over the destruction of his property, Jehovah also mourns the destruction of the first and second temples and the captivity of the Jewish people, as he says Jeremiah: "In secret places I will weep; tears will flow from My eyes . "Why," asks Rabbi Eliezer, "are tears mentioned three times?" Answer: "The first tears are for the first temple, the second - for the second temple, and the third - for those who are scattered Israelis." 1

Talmud, tract. Avoyde-Zura, sheet 3, 2; tract. Hadash, l. 74, 4; tract. Pe-sak., rub., l. 52, 2-3 and other treatises Sohar Vajikra, in Parashe Vajikra col. 24. Schemsth rabba 29 Parashe, 118, 3. 2 Talmud, tract. Kholin, L. 59, art. 2. 3 Jer. 13.17.

When Jehovah remembers the hardships to which His people are subjected between pagans, then two large tears come out of his eyes and drip into the sea-ocean, and the noise their fall can be heard from one end of the world to the other.' This second reason earthquakes. Jehovah's sorrow is all the greater because He has no means to stop current circumstances depending on another government. In general, you need to keep in mind that Talmudic dogma represents Jehovah as very limited in His Divine perfections and power. Thus, according to the Talmud, when the moon began to complain to Jehovah that He had offended her by creating less sun, then Jehovah Himself expressed, as it were, regret and repentance about His mistake and immediately commanded: "Offer a propitiation sacrifice for Me, for I am the moon created less sun2 . Jehovah, according to the teachings of the Talmud, sometimes cannot protect himself from mistakes, and if He is instantly and unexpectedly embraced by anger, then under its influence He may act rashly3 . Sometimes Jehovah even swears falsely; yes, he swore that not one of the Jews who traveled in the desert would be awarded eternal life, but later grieved over this oath and refused to fulfill it4 . Sometimes, having bound himself with a false oath, Jehovah demands that someone free Him from it.

Chapter 8

Jehovah asks for release from the oath

A certain Jewish sage heard the voice of Jehovah: "Woe is Me! Who will set me free from my oath"5 and when he told his comrades about what he had heard, they called him a donkey because he did not absolve Jehovah from His oath6

1 Talmud, tract Berakhot, l. 59.1; tract. Hagiga, L. 5, art. 2. 2 Talmud, tract. Kholin, L. 60, art. 2; Shebuoth, l. 9.1. 3 Tract. Avoyd Zure, l. 2, 2. 4 Tract. Sanhedrin, l. 110, art. 2. 5 Tract. Bova Batra, 74, st. 1. 6 Ibid.

Sometimes Jehovah even simply lies: for example, He allowed Himself to lie in order to reconcile Abraham and Sarah, and therefore the Talmud allows one to lie if necessary . By According to the teachings of the Talmud, Jehovah Himself is the cause of sins on earth, since He created man capable of sin2 , and He Himself even predestined him to a sinful life3 and even Jews forced the adoption of the law4 . Therefore, neither the fornication of David5 nor the nor the crime of the sons Ilievs6 are counted as sins.

Between heaven and earth stands an angel named Mi, who makes the definitions sent from heaven are invalid, so that they do not reach the earth, no matter how hard Jehovah tries to do so . So Jehovah once even said with an oath determining that Moses did not part the Red Sea; but this oath was destroyed by the angel Mi - and the Red Sea was divided. This angel mi does null and void are all the complaints of Jehovah about the temple and the people.

Connected with Jehovah's cry about the destruction of the people is the cry about the death of Moses, whose name, as we have seen, it is included in the legend of the destruction of the temple. Dissatisfied with the leader Israelites, Jehovah sent the angel of death, Sammael, to take his soul. Moses resisted; then Jehovah Himself came down from heaven and kissed Moses: with this kiss the soul of the latter came out. This is precisely the circumstance that Jehovah Himself took the life Moses - only increased His grief for His servant when he remembered the words prophet: A prophet like Moses will not rise in Israel . The Talmudic teaching on the creation of the world tells the following: When God willed to create the world, all 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet, inscribed a fiery feather on His crown, and each of them asked to begin peacemaking with it. 1 Tract. Bova Metzia, l. 87, Art. 1. 2 Tract. Bohays, L. 32.1 and 61.1. 3 Tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 4, 2. 4 Trkt. Awoide-Zura, l. 2; tr. Shabbes, l. 88. 5 Tract. Shabbes, l. 56.1 6 Tract. Shabbes, l. 55, 3. 7 Megalekh Ammutot ch. 1, sheet 4; Ammudha Shilya, l. 57, art. 1. 8 Deut. 34.10; Works, 274.4.

God chose the letter "B" for this purpose, with which the hymn of praise begins "Blessed be the Lord God forever; Amen, Amen," and wrote the words: "Brayshis Boro." During all this time, only the letter "Aleph" (A) stood silently aside and said nothing. asked. "Why are you the only one who is silent and doesn't ask for anything?" - the Creator asked her. "Lord of the world! - "Aleph" answered, "I am the poorest of all letters; my numerical value is only 1 (among the Jews and in our church books, numbers are designated by letters), as Do I, insignificant, dare to approach You, Master, and speak with You?" - "So be it "You are the first among the letters," said the Lord! - for your modesty and humility. You means one, and I am one, and Sora is one."...

The Talmud continues: "After the creation of the world, trees were seen for the first time iron and trembled in fear for their lives. "A man will come," they thought, "and he will make iron axes and destroy us all." But the iron said: "What are you scared? Live only in peace, do not cheat on each other, and I will not be able to harm you: for where will I then get a tree for an axe? "" Further it says:

"The sun and the moon at first illuminated equally brightly and strongly land; but the moon wanted to take precedence. "Lord!" she said, "it's not good that the color of the sun is equal to my light, since no one can now distinguish the sun from moon." - "Okay! - God said, - from now on everyone will recognize you, for because of your arrogance and envy I diminish your light."... When the Lord, surrounded by a host of angels, proclaimed: "Let us create man in our image," then Truth appeared to the Divine Throne, bowed down and said: "Do not create man, for he will be full of hypocrisy and lies." But after Grace appeared behind her and asked to create him - merciful and kind; then The World appeared and prayed: "What do you need this evil and treacherous man?" But what presented Justice said: "Create him, for he will intercede for the poor, protect the orphan and wretched."

God listened to all this, took the Truth and threw it to the ground. "Why are you doing this? are you doing? - asked the angels, - after all, Truth is Your sadness! The Lord replied: "Man will walk the paths of Truth, will love her with all his soul, and then she will rise again to To me".

Chapter 9

About the massacre of Jewish infants in Egypt

After the multiplication of the children of Israel in Egypt, a new Egyptian king, and with him together and the people, fearing that the Jews would become their enemies and, over time, defeated them, ordered to kill all Jewish babies; but the Lord miraculously saved the lives of babies born secretly in the fields, under apple trees. It's for food he sent them to each baby with an angel, two stones filled with honey and oil. When the sages of Egypt announced the imminent birth of a baby who freed the Jews from captivity, then the king ordered the strictest supervision over the killing Jewish babies. And so, at this very time of the merciless beating of the Jewish Moses was born to the tribe. This is the biblical story. In the Talmud about birth and the deliverance of Moses from death, there are quite strange legends. Thus, explaining the passage where it is said that Jehoved, the mother of Moses, hid the baby at home of her own, the Talmud asks the following question: how could she do this? We know, the Talmud continues, that the Egyptians carefully examined the Jewish at home, they even counted the days on which they had to wait for permission from the Jewish women, and thus it was more difficult to hide newborns. Since Pharaoh strengthened every day orders to kill infants, then Moses, according to the Talmud, was in the womb mother only six months and one day so that Jehoved, the mother of Moses, could enjoy the sight of the child longer, because until the 9th month the Egyptians they came to search; therefore, she could keep the baby for three months.

1 The Talmud assures that almost every Jewish woman gave birth to two or three children suddenly, and there were cases where some suddenly gave birth to four, five and even six babies.

The second miracle took place, according to the Talmud, at the moment of the birth of Moses: the whole the house was illuminated by some extraordinary light that was reflected from newborn, the Talmud proves this with the words of Holy Scripture: "The woman conceived and gave birth son and seeing that he is very handsome..." (here, of course, according to the Talmud, not ordinary beauty, but a wonderful radiance reflected from Moses). With age The wonderful signs that emanated from Moses increased. When Dathan and Aviron reported to Pharaoh that Moses had killed an Egyptian, he ordered the executioner to execute him, and No matter how many times the executioner struck him on the neck with his sword, the sword kept bouncing off Moses, and he remained unharmed, and then miraculously disappeared in the sight of everyone.

The rabbis tell the following about the marriage of Moses and Zipporah: Jethro took captive Moses, in order to later hand him over to Pharaoh. Jethro's daughter fell in love with a captive and asked her father to release him. He promised not only to free him, but even Zipporah will marry him if he pulls out the sapphire rod from the ground, which grew up in his garden. Many people wanted this rod and tried to pull it out, but they did not succeed. Moses showed up and did it without much difficulty. Jethro gave his daughter for him. On The holy name of Jehovah was written on the rod, and this rod was the one with which Moses performed miracles. The power of Moses' miracles, according to the Talmud, lay in the stick and the name of Jehovah written on it.

Chapter 10

Roman writer Tacitus

Tacitus in his chronicle, in book V, says the following: "Most historians agree that when leprosy spread in Egypt, from which the womb of people, and King Bonkhoris turned to the Ammon oracle with a request for salvation, he replied that in order to cleanse the state of this kind people despised by God (!) must be evicted to other lands. As a result, the entire this "bastard" (!!) was gathered together and taken out into the desert. Helpless and crying Moses, one of the expelled (?), told the remnant that they had nothing to expect from the people by whom they had been rejected, but that they could only rely on him as a heaven-sent a leader who can provide first aid in a real emergency.

"They agreed and, unfamiliar with anything, fortunately set off on their way. Moses, in order to bind the people to himself for the future, he introduced new customs that were not accepted among others peoples; They began to consider as sacred what was forbidden among us.

An image of an animal, by whose instructions they got rid of thirst and got on the real road, made it a temple shrine, and they slaughtered a ram for glorification of Ammon. The ox, whom the Egyptians idolize as Apis, is also offered to them as a sacrifice. They abstain from eating pork because it the animal brought them leprosy, to which it is susceptible. Former long famine is marked by frequent fasting, and fruits stolen (!) from the field means unsown Jewish bread.

It is said that they commemorated the seventh day with freedom from work because that on this day they got rid of their torment, or rather from the fact that their inaction liked it; the seventh year was dedicated to laziness. Others think that the celebration was established in honor of Saturn, perhaps because they borrowed their religious concepts from the Jews, who idolized Saturn and were considered the ancestors of the Jews, and perhaps because of the seven planets that rule the earth, Saturn is the most largest and has the most extensive traffic. These customs, no matter from whom they originated, are justified by their antiquity; the rest - established ones - are also justified by stupidity and caused by godlessness. The state property of the Jews is explained by the fact that they treated each other friend with unwavering loyalty and generously helped in need, while everyone else They hated nations as enemies.

They do not eat with anyone, sleep separately and, despite their lust, refrain from intercourse with women of other nations; only in their environment nothing is considered prohibited. They introduced circumcision in order to have some Mark of distinction. Anyone who joins their sect observes this ritual, and the first thing from it required is contempt for the gods and renunciation of both one's fatherland and parents and relatives. In the same way they pay attention to the increase in population; and if anyone one of the natives will die, they consider this a sin for themselves; the souls of those who died in battle or execution, are revered by those living after death. On this basis their the desire to reproduce and the fear of death.

They would rather bury the dead in crypts than burn them, like the Egyptians, with whom they have a common concept and idea of the underworld; not so with concept of God. The Egyptians worship many animals and sculptured images, the Jews worship only one God and, moreover, only mentally. Images made from perishable matter in the form of people are not considered sacred by them. Their God is supreme and eternal and unchangeable, in no way imperishable."

TREATISE II

TEACHING OF THE TALMUD ABOUT JESUS CHRIST, THE MOTHER OF GOD AND THE APOSTLES

Chapter 1

Talmudic story about Yeshu Ganotsri

Despite the complete absence in the Talmud - in its modern form - of everything, that in any way relates to the history of Christianity, among the Jewish people they go various absurd legends about the person of Jesus Christ. These legends feed the masses Jewish people have contempt and hatred for everything that bears the name of Christ, and many reviews of Jewish scholars about Christianity, and in addition to these dark legends, were expressed openly in works published for society. In this chapter we Let us cite those legends about the person of Jesus Christ, which are grouped in two works: "The Book of the Kinship of Yeshu." Manuscripts of these books, despite the rarity of their printed editions, circulate among modern Jews, carefully preserved by them in every possible way. secret. As for the existence among Jews of traditions corresponding to the stories contained in the indicated books, everyone can be convinced of them directly from the Jews themselves. One of these legends says that in Yeshu (I. Christ) they became open up to the highest degree of arrogance and shamelessness: every time you meet with elders and teachers, instead of uncovering his head, he exposed his nakedness of your body. Yeshu was sent to the school of Rabbi Yeshua. Brilliant success Yeshu soon drew the teacher's attention, but his comrades, jealous of him, mocked him. Teacher did not appease them. Yeshu became embittered and decided to shame the teacher at all costs and comrades and achieve fame. Yeshu's first audacity was reflected in that prayer to God, by which he asked God for deity. "We already know," say the compilers “Books of the kinship of Yeshu” - that God has such a moment in which He happens like this merciful that he fulfills every prayer addressed to Him at this moment. R. Yeshua belonged to the number of people who knew how to recognize these precious moments: one could see every day how he, in the midst of his studies with his students, suddenly He turned to God in prayer, and then continued his studies again. Nobody could know what signs of p. Yeshua determines this moment, and although R. Yeshua taught 120 years, but no one has yet appeared who would dare to capture this mysterious moment. But no matter how the secret was guarded, it did not survive when Yeshu decided to take possession of it. Having waited for the desired moment, Yeshu said in his prayer to God: “May it be pleasing to God before You, so that I may become God.” This prayer could not remain unheard: then The same instant a voice was heard from heaven, saying: “You will!” Immediately after assurances from above. Yeshu went to Jerusalem to master the secret of the mysterious name of God "shomash-biya". The mysterious name of God, by whose power Moses and the prophets performed miracles, was kept in the Jerusalem temple and was used only by the high priests in matters relating to their high ministry. To block access to this mysterious name to the curiosity of outsiders, by force of By the same mysterious name, two wonderful lions were created, which, standing on the sides its vaults, guarded access to it, stunning to death anyone who I had to hear their roar. But despite the formidable appearance and terrible power of these Lviv, Yeshu ben Pandira got close to the most mysterious name, read it, wrote it down and, cutting the skin on the body, hid it there so that it would never be lost his miraculous powers; after that he passed safely: the wonderful lions did not make a sound even a slight growl. Possessing the power of the mysterious name, Yeshu first went to Bethlehem, the place of his birth, and then to Nazareth, which is where the name came from Yeshu Ganotsri. In Galilee, famous for its ignorance, Yeshu began to fly around air, walk on water, calm storms, heal the blind and lepers, raise the dead and perform other, much greater miracles than those known about him. The common people, incited by rumor, went in crowds to Yeshu and accompanied him inseparably. With this crowd, Yeshu Ganotsri went to Jerusalem and solemnly entered it, riding on a donkey. The priests could not help but pay attention to actions of Yeshu Ganotsri and, exposing his behavior to Queen Oleina, who was then reigning together with her son Mombas, demanded consent to execution Yeshu. But Yeshu, appearing to Oleina, won her over to his side with his miracles. To find an opportunity to take over Yeshu, the Sanhedrin, together with the high priest admitted that there is no other remedy for this except to communicate to one from their members the secret of the wonderful name of God, with the help of which, having deprived Yeshu miraculous power, you can capture him in your own hands and put him to death.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 2

Jesus Iscariot

One of the members of the Sanhedrin, Yehuda Ishkariot, decided to take on the common cause of the entire Sanhedrin and promised to use all means for a successful fulfillment of the assignment he had taken, so that he would not be put into sin what he will be forced to do. Having settled these negotiations, Yehuda was told the secret the mysterious name of God, and he set to work. In the power of his miracles, Yehuda was in no way inferior to Yeshu, and even surpassed him, but for all that he could not master it. After an unsuccessful fight with Yeshu, Yehuda was put to shame to leave due to his awkward situation, he decided to become one of Yeshua’s disciples; here soon he was honored with his complete trust, found out all the weaknesses and crimes Yeshu and revealed the whole matter to the sages and the Sanhedrin. According to the pre-composition of Yehuda plan, as soon as Yeshu Ganotsri entered the temple, they immediately grabbed him along with some of his students; the rest of his disciples fled. Yeshu was tied to a marble pillar designated for the punishment of criminals: he was beaten, a crown of thorns was placed on him, and when he felt thirsty, they gave him something to drink vinegar mixed with bile to make him lose consciousness and forget use of the wonderful name of God.

Chapter 3

The stoning of Yeshu

According to the Sanhedrin, Yeshu was stoned, and then, for more dishonor, they wanted to hang them: but no matter how many trees they took for this purpose, each was split into pieces as soon as the execution began. The fact is that Yeshu, foreseeing the manner of his death, while still alive, cursed all the trees with the power of "shomash-biya", so that not one of them could be suitable for hanging him. Yehuda helped business, presenting a special tree from his garden that he had prepared in advance, to in which Yeshu Ganotsri was hanged, despite the spells he had made in advance. Knowing that Yeshu preached about his resurrection during his lifetime and fearing, so that the disciples would not publicize his resurrection, having first stolen his body, Yehuda took Yeshu's corpse and hid it in a hole that he made at the bottom of a rotten stream. After special preparations, he converted, of course, by the power of the mysterious name God, the flow of the stream upward, dug a hole in the place thus freed, hid the body of Yeshu there, and then again gave the stream the correct flow, so that no one I couldn't guess where Yeshu's body was. But the disciples of the latter, having not found the body, their teachers, where they buried him, began to preach that he had risen, and Queen Oleina proclaimed him the son of God. Then Yehuda Ishkariot discovered the deception of the disciples and the delusion of the queen, presenting the very corpse of Yeshu, who now, according to the definition of the Sanhedrin, was tied to a horse's tail and dragged through the city streets and in front of the queen's palace. The queen did not know what to do or what to say, finding herself in such an awkward position. The corpse of Yeshu Ganotsri was mocked in every possible way: they spat on him, pulled out the hair from his beard and head, so that in the end he seemed to be shaved, "halah." Disciples and followers Yeshu Ganotsri, embittered by the treatment he received from the Jewish people disgrace, separated from the Jews, formed a special sect under the name of the Notsrim, and They began to shave in memory of the disgrace shown by the Jews to their teacher.

Notsrims everywhere began to affirm faith in the hanged man; twelve main Yeshu's disciples went to all the ends of the earth to preach about him. Sages ("hakham") and the Sanhedrin, alarmed by the success of the sermon, especially the one received common people ("Gamurets"), in order to prevent its spread, sent from among himself a certain Shimon Kepha so that he would admonish the Notzrim and for greater success, the deeds entrusted to him taught him the secret of miraculous name of God. But Shimon Cephas unexpectedly betrayed the Jews and his mission: by appearing to the main seat of the Notsrim and having performed several miracles before them, he demanded that they agree to do what he ordered them to do. When those expressed their consent, Shimon Cephas commanded them to hate the Jews and celebrate the day of Yeshu's death instead of Easter, and instead of the fiftieth day - after Easter - the fortieth day. The Notzrim agreed to follow Shimon's commandments Cephas, but only if he stays with him forever. When will Shimon Cephas expressed his consent to this, then a pillar was built for him, in which he and concluded himself. He lived in this pillar on bread and water for six years, after which he died. Even now you can see this pillar in Rome or, according to at least the stone on which Cephas sat. When Shimon passed away in Rome, he appeared a certain Elijah began to preach that Shimon did not accurately convey the will of Yeshu to the Notzrim; that he deceived them, and that Yeshu instructed him, Elijah, to convey his orders. This Elijah, having freed the Notzrim from the need for circumcision, instead Saturday began to preach the celebration of the next day; but during the proclamation of this new teaching, a stone fell from heaven and struck him on the head and killed on the spot: this is how those who hate the Lord always perish. This is the Jewish tradition about the face and deeds of Jesus Christ.

As for the teaching of the Talmud about Jesus Christ, the Talmud's concepts of him are very rude and strange. But all this, of course, cannot be attributed to real Jewish concepts about the face of Christ, but most likely to the intrigue and deception of their fellow believers for more successful blinding of the malicious and fanatical crowd. For example, Jesus Christ is mentioned as a contemporary of Yeshua ben Parahia, who Meanwhile, he lived 150 years before the Nativity of the Savior. This is such a strange slander Talmudists against the divinity of Jesus Christ and all Christianity is concentrated for the most part in a separate book called "Toldet Yeshu." The learned monk, a deep expert in Jewish literature, de Rossi, spoke about this the essay that the fairy tales and absurdities contained in it are so rude and stupid that, thanks to this, they cannot harm Christian doctrine; and that, despite the most unfavorable mood, it cannot help but recognize in Christ the presence of "Shem-Gamforat" (God's name), can, on the contrary, serve as an aid to prove the divinity of our religion.

Chapter 4

Book «Toldet» Yeshu

In addition to the book "Toldet Yeshu" we mentioned, in Jewish literature one can still find about ten works directed specifically against Christianity and characterized by extreme intolerance and sarcasm. These works belong to partly to rabbinical Jews, partly to Karaites. The most important and complete of works this kind was written in 1593 by the Karaite Isaac ben Abraham, a resident of the city of Trok in Lithuania, and entitled "Hizzuk-Emunah". In addition, in ancient editions of the Talmud the name of the mother of Jesus Christ, Mary, has been preserved - only it is mixed with another name - Mary Magdalene. And it is to this Mary Magdalene that the Talmud ascribes classes in cleaning women's hair. There is such a story in the Talmud: when r. Bibai-ben-Abai was dying, then the Angel of Death said to his servant: "Go and bring Mary here, who is engaged in cleaning women's hair." The servant went and brought Mary Magdalene. Then The Angel of Death said to the servant: "I ordered you to bring not this Mary"; the servant answered: "I will take this one where it should be, and I will bring the one that is needed." Explaining this passage, the Talmud directly refers it to the person of Jesus Christ. This explanation says: "The angel told the story that happened during the existence of the second temple Maria, who cleaned women's hair; This Mary was the mother of the person, name which should not be mentioned1 ; Mary's husband was some Papus ben Yehuda, and according to another place - some Satda.

To continue further such disgusting and black slander of the Talmudists regarding the person of Jesus Christ and His Mother, the Most Holy Theotokos, we will not. Because Christian feeling does not allow this to be repeated, then we suggest: let prudent Jews blush with shame as admirers of the Talmud and well acquainted with all these insults to Christianity that are in the Talmuds.

Chapter 5

Machine Translated by Google

Rabbi Yeshua ben Parachia

The Talmud calls Rabbi Yeshua ben Parachia the teacher of Yeshu, about whom reports the following story: When King Jannaeus began to kill rabbis, then R. Yeshua ben Parachia and Yeshu left Jerusalem and went to Alexandria in Egypt. When peace was established in Jerusalem later, R. Shimon ben Shetah sent to R. Yeshua ben Parachia the following letter: “To you, Alexandria of Egypt, peace from me, the holy city of Jerusalem. Oh my sister! You took your husband to you, but I have to live, no experiencing no consolation, knowing no joy.” Having received such a letter, R. Yeshua ben Parahia decided to immediately go to Jerusalem and came only to say goodbye with all honors and respect. Having said goodbye to the owner of the house, R. Yeshua ben Parahia said, addressing Yeshu: “What a nice owner here!” But Yeshu thought that R. Yeshua ben Parahia praised the mistress, and said: “No, teacher, she has bad eyes.” When Yeshu is so clearly discovered his sensual inclinations, then p. Yeshua ben Parahia, having denounced Yeshu, solemnly excluded him from his society and excommunicated him.

1 Tract. Hagiga, 4, 2.

Yeshu often turned to R. Yeshua asking for mercy, but R. Yeshua did not convert attention to him. Once upon a time, Rabbi Yeshua, during prayer, saw Yeshu passing by and began to wave his hand as a sign of his readiness to accept him. But Yeshu, thinking that R. Yeshua drove him away with this gesture, took out the brick and began to worship him as God. R. Yeshua began to admonish him, but Yeshu told his former teacher that, in his opinion in his own words, repentance cannot be accepted from someone who has sinned himself and led others to sin. After this, Yeshu began to learn magic and brought great disaster on Israel.[1]

The same story is repeated elsewhere in the Talmud2 . One thing to note about this story is that the rabbis represent Jesus Christ's disciple R. Yeshua ben Parahia, a contemporary of R. Shimon ben Shetah, who lived under King Yan-ney3 , therefore, they imagine Jesus Christ to have lived 152 after the construction of the temple and 70 years before the war between the Asmoneans and the Greeks.

The author of the mentioned work claims that the famous person, i.e. Yeshu Ganotsri, lived in Egypt with r. Yeshua was one of his disciples; that this Yeshu born in the 4th year of the reign of Jannaeus, 263 from the construction of the second temple, 3671 from creation of the world according to the Jewish calendar, 91 BC. Due to inconsistencies between this chronology and actual events, p. Gedaliah and Yeshu Ganotsri gives some other rabbi Yeshua4 , and by this he acknowledges everything what is said in the ancient editions of the Talmud regarding the person of Jesus Christ, designated mostly as Yeshu, or simply a famous person.

According to the Talmud, Jesus Christ is credited with preaching false and idolatrous doctrine.

1 Tract. Sanhedrin, 107, 2. 2 Tract. Soito, l. 47.1. 3 Tract. Broheis, 48.1.
4 Shalshele th hakabbaala 17,1.

Thus, in one place in the Talmud we find the following instruction: “Let there not be you son or disciple, who would desecrate food in front of everyone, that is, preach heresy instead of true worship, just like Yeshu did Ganocri»[1]. Moreover, we have already seen how the Talmud attributes to Jesus Christ charity of brick2 . Regarding the miracles of Jesus Christ in the Talmud there is a recognition their reality, and it is only said that they were committed by a special magical power. There is a legend in the Talmud that R. Eliezer asked the sages if it was true what they say about the son of Satda that he, having carved magical signs on his body, suffered thus magic from Egypt to Palestine. The sages answered this: "This man he was stupid, and you can't expect a stupid person to do anything good . "3 on this Rashi occasion explains that the Egyptians, in order to prevent the spread of magic in foreign lands, searched all those crossing the Egyptian borders and took away magic books. Yeshu Ganotsri, in order to appear in Palestine with the knowledge of magic, cut his leg, hid a magic book in the wound and thus carried it across Egyptian border.

Chapter 6

Death of Yeshu Hanotsra.

About how Yeshu Ganotsri, for his crimes and especially for seducing the people into idolatry, was condemned to death, is found in the Talmud the following instruction: the law has prescribed stoning for seducing others with the path of true worship of God, for persistence in errors and unrepentance. 1 Tract. Sanhedrin, 103, 1. 2 Ibid., 107.2.
3 Tract. Shabbes,
104, 2.

This definition of the law was carried out in the city of Lud (Lydda) over the son of Satda, who remained extremely stubborn in his errors and was hanged on the evening before Easter.[1]

In the Talmud, Jesus Christ is called an idol or god2 and often avoid the name of Jesus Christ, calling Him "famous man," or they say: "Let the name disappear and the memory of Him be erased."

It also states that Jesus Christ practiced witchcraft and sorcery; they call him a fool, an eccentric, a deceiver . Elsewhere in the Talmud it is narrated that the Sanhedrin used all measures were taken to justify Yeshu Ganotsri and to free him from the punishment he deserved death penalty if it were possible. They took Yeshu around the city for forty days, and the messenger rode ahead and cried: "Here is a criminal destined for beating stones, he practiced sorcery, deceived the people, and preached idolatry. If anyone can speak in favor of his innocence, let him come forward and say that he knows." But since there was no one who could say anything in favor of Yeshu, they took him and hanged him on the eve of Easter. On this occasion, Ula said: "Could anyone have said anything in favor of someone who continually turned the people away from the truth? About exactly this man 4 is told: "Do not spare him, do not cover him." "And it should be noted," adds Talmud - that this Yeshu was of royal blood."5

The great event that forms the main center of human history is the phenomenon The Savior, His earthly life, teaching, suffering and death have almost passed unnoticed outside the immediate circles among which it took place. 1 Tract. Sanhedrin, 67.1. 2 Tract. Avoyde-Zura, 27, 2. 3 Tract. Khulin, 13, 2;. Tr. Tozefot, 2.1; Avoyde-Zura, 1.1; Avoyde-Zura, 2, 1 and 6, 1; 7, 2; Avoyde-Zura, 50, 2; Shabbes, 104, 1; Tract. Sanhedrin, 105, 1; 59, 1; Tract. Avoyde-Zura, 3.1. 4 Deut. VIII, 8.

5 Birth. 43.

All this happened in one of the most remote provinces of the Roman state, which attracted the attention of Roman and Greek everyday life writers and statesmen only because its population, in its religious views, differed sharply and strangely from all other peoples; By order of Pontius (who was the prosecutor of Judea under Tiberius), who wanted to please the most influential party - the Pharisees - zealots of the ancient Jewish law - Christ, the founder and head of the new religious teaching, was crucified on the cross in Jerusalem. The Roman who pronounced the sentence ordered the inscription to be nailed on the cross of Christ: “Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews” - and with this signature he not only indicated what in the eyes of the Roman official was the guilt of the victim, but also laughed bitterly at the national hopes of the Jewish people. Both the Tsar's prosecutor and the party of fanatics who achieved the execution equally thought that this would end the matter, which had aroused in the population an amazing excitement incomprehensible to the pagan. It did not occur to them that the teachings of the crucified Jesus Christ would be spread throughout the world by those who firmly believed, and that this teaching, taking root in the hearts of believers, would unite them into such a close community against which all human power would be powerless. At first, access to this community was open only to Jews, and the first apostles - simple and unlearned people, fish from that Lake of Gennesaret, on the shores of which their Teacher loved to stay - very naturally spread the teachings of Christ only among their fellow countrymen. But soon a man was found who decided to expand the boundaries of Christ’s teaching more widely: it was Saul, a native of the city of Tarsus in Cilicia, first a zealous persecutor of Christians, and then an ardent herald of the Word of Christ, enlightened by a miracle. He was the first to decide to fight paganism in its most chosen centers - in Ephesus, Athens, Corinth and Rome - and began to spread the new teaching with the courage that only a man could possess, deeply imbued with the consciousness of his calling, and then preaching with equal fervor The word of the Crucified and Risen Christ both before a noisy crowd, disturbed in the midst of their everyday worries and prejudices, and in the face of mocking and skeptical representatives of the dominant philosophical schools. The result of the activity of the apostles, including Paul, was the emergence of small Christian communities in various places: Jerusalem, Antioch, Ephesus, Colossi, the Philippines, Corinth and even in Rome, where there were many Jews; These communities were extremely simply structured - they were headed by a council of elders, the deacons were in charge of collecting alms under its leadership, and all communities stood in close contact with each other, which was initially supported by their apostles, especially Paul, both by letters and personal visits. There were some differences in views on the particulars of the new faith in these emerging communities; but the foundation on which they were built was common: - everyone equally believed in the impossibility of a sinful person to be saved without the help of God and in the fact that the Savior, with His suffering and death, opened the way to salvation for humanity. It is known from the Gospel that Jesus Christ often denounced those scribes and Pharisees who were the compilers of the Talmud. It is very natural to expect that in the Talmud there may be a hostile memory of our Savior, of His birth, life, teaching and His death on the cross. The political idea of the Jews was such as to counteract the teachings of Christ, then the thing is understandable - the Talmudists made every effort to humiliate the personality of Jesus Christ and His teaching. They tried to present things to the people falsely, in a funny and humiliating way.

Chapter 7

Origin of Yeshu Ganotsri

Talmudists, however, trace the lineage of Jesus Christ not from David, but from Herod. IN The Talmud contains a story about the condemnation to death of five disciples of Yeshu Ganotsri: Matai, Naki, Netzer, Beni and Tod. When Matai was taken out to execute him, he said to the judges: “Will you really kill Matai? You must know what is written in the psalm: “When will I come and appear before the face of God?” But the judges answered him with words another psalm: “When he died, his name will perish.” When Naki was taken out, he said: “Will you really kill Naki, contrary to the words of the scripture: “The innocent and the righteous are not kill?" But the judges told him in other words from the scripture: "Let us kill the innocent unknown place." When Netzer was brought out, this one said: “Will you really kill Netzer, oh which says: “What grows from the root will bear fruit?” But the judges answered him differently in the words of the scripture: “You will be thrown out like a branch from your tomb.” When brought Beni out for execution, he said: “Will you really kill Beni, about whom it is written: “My firstborn son is Israel?” But the judges, to show that Beni would also be killed, told him in other words of the scripture: “I will strike the son your firstborn." When brought Toda out for the same purpose, he said: “Will you really kill Toda, about whom it is written: “For the confession of psalms?” But the judges said that the one who brings the thanksgiving sacrifice glorifies God1 . Professor I.

G. Troitsky, in his lectures “On the Talmud,” examining philological meaning of the name “Jesus”, given by Talmudists under different names, one of the first educational Gebrists, with special detail dwells on this question and says the following: Christ the Savior is called in the Talmud by various names: in Sanhedrin 43, a, 107, b - Yeshu, according to another edition Talmud - Yeshu ganotsi, in Sota 47, a - Yeshu ganotsi, in Avoide-Zura 16, b, 17, a - Yeshu ganotsri, in Gittin f. 56, b, 57, a- Yeshu, i.e. Jesus or Jesus of Nazareth; in Berachot 18, a - Hanotzri-Nazarite (or with the addition of Yeshu); but in Shabbes f., 104, b, Sanhedrin 67, a - is called the son of Sateda (Stada), the son of the Panther; Jerus. talm. Sanhedrin 25 cd son of Soteda (or Sotera). 1 Tract. Sanhedrin, 43.1.

The fact that in all these cases those who edited the Talmud understood one person is clear from Jerus. talm. Awoide-Zura f. 40, where Jesus is called Yeshu son of Pandera, Jerus. Shabbes XIV, 14, d: Yeshu Pandera, and also from the additions to Shabbes f. 104, b. As for the name of the Savior as a Nazarite, it does not require any explanations as clear from the Gospel. As for the name of His son Stada, or Sateda, son of Panther or Pandera, this requires some explanation. Jewish scholars apparently did not themselves understand the meaning of these names. Babylonian The gemara refers to the name "Stada" or "Satada" to the Mother of God and explains how it consists of two words “satat-da”, that is, turned away from her husband (cf. Shabbes 104, b, Sanhedrin 67, a), and in this name he sees an indication of the origin of the Savior not from the husband to whom the Mother of God was betrothed and who is here called “Papos son of Judas,” but from another person called "Panther", or "Pandera". Thus, understood in the sense of the Babylonian Gemara, this name "Stada", or "Sa-teda", strictly speaking, serves as an indication that the Jewish Talmudists knew that The Blessed Virgin Mary conceived the Savior from a different husband to whom she was betrothed. But the phenomenon that deserves attention is that the Jerusalem Gemara is read in this place treatise Sanhedrin (25) “Soteda”, or otherwise “Sotera”. Last reading especially Interesting. It clearly reminds us of the Greek ÿÿÿÿÿ - Savior or ÿÿÿÿÿÿ - Savior. This name was apparently already common among Palestinians Christians during the r. Akiba, i.e. at the beginning of the 2nd century. according to R. X., to what time does it belong? the origin of this haggadah (cf. Laible, op. p. S. 16). Used among Palestinian Christians in application to Christ the Savior name ÿÿÿÿ ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ - son The Savior in the language of Christian Jews was called “Ben-Sotera”, which in Babylonian The gemara is consciously or unconsciously modified in Ben-Soted, or the Herd: when the similarity in the Hebrew letters P and D is very easy, although in the Jerusalem Gemara the features of the previous reading have been preserved.

What does “son of the Panther” or “Pandera” mean? At Laible's suggestion, "Ben Panther" is the Greek name ÿÿÿÿ ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ spoiled in Jewish pronunciation - Son of the Virgin, as Christ the Savior was called by the first Christians: through rearrangement letters in the word ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ to this name, which had its basis in Isa. VII, 14, Jewish scholars gave a completely opposite meaning (ÿÿÿÿ ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ), Not particularly objecting to such an explanation of the name “Panther,” nevertheless I cannot not to notice that it allows for some discrepancy between Greek and Hebrew spelling of words. The Greek spelling here involves the syllable “de” or “dz”, but certainly with “d” (th), which in Hebrew pronunciation should be conveyed through the letters Tav or with Tsere. Meanwhile, in reality the word Panther or Pandera written with mem or daletp, which is followed by yot, so in Greek in pronunciation it must certainly have an “f”. Thus, if you write the word "Panther" or "Pandera" in Greek, then it should be "ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ". What can what does this word mean? As its composition shows, it is composed of two words: ÿÿÿÿ - ÿÿÿÿ and in its full form in Greek it will be ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ Almighty (cf. Isa. XL, 22). Thus, "Ben Panther" or "Pandera" literally means "Son of the Almighty", as the Palestinian Christians called the Savior. Jewish Talmudists, not believing in birth of the Savior from God, the word “Panther” was given a completely different, even blasphemous meaning.

As for “Papos,” as the Talmud calls the person to whom the Mother of God is betrothed, then this is obviously the Greek ÿÿÿÿÿÿ or ÿÿÿÿÿÿ = father, but not in the proper, but in a figurative sense, as Christians call the fathers of clergy or recipients, and as Palestinian Christians probably called St. Joseph the betrothed, who replaced the Savior during his childhood as an earthly father (Laible, op. p. 19).

This is the true meaning of the titles of Christ the Savior in the Talmud.

Chapter 8

About the death of St. Matthew and Thaddeus

From this story it can be concluded that Matthew and Thaddeus suffered martyrdom death by the Jews, and that the most ancient Jews attribute to him power in the scriptures, although in their own way they represented this power of understanding of the Holy Scriptures by the disciples of Jesus Christ. In addition, in the Jerusalem Talmud, in its old edition, there is an indication of the miracles that the Apostle Jacob performed by the power of Yeshu. So, when the rabbi was then stung Eliezer ben Doma, then, according to the Talmud, he called to himself a certain Jacob from the town of Sama, and he healed him by pronouncing the name Yeshu ben Pandira. Also it is said that a man named Yeshu ben Pandira healed the grandson of a rabbi Yesoshua-ben-Leva, when he, Leva, inadvertently choked on something.

Such are the narratives of the Jews concerning the person and ministry of our Redeemer, about His Mothers and students. Of course, in these stories a Jew can learn the moral strength necessary to change one's views on Christianity and its followers and practically their attitude towards them; but what are all these fanatical tales of the Talmud fall before the eyes of his official research, - this circumstance does not improve, but on the contrary - worsens the situation matters: even a doctrine that is obviously absurd, devoid of common sense and any foundation, the more expensive it becomes for its adherents, the more it is surrounded by mystery and the more further hides from the eyes of curiosity and reasonable criticism. And in exactly this This is the position of the above Talmudic stories. In official, ostentatious editions of the Talmud, they are indicated by spaces and are available only oral study under personal guidance more or less fanatical mentors, but through this they gain in the eyes of the Jews the dogmatic power of the most sacred tradition and mysterious edification. 1 Avoyde-Zura, 40.1.

Indeed, if such an absurd doctrine exists in the Jewish instructive books, then how can we explain the phenomenon that all these stories are transmitted even illiterate poor Jews, and, moreover, with equal accuracy and details, the language of the Talmud? After all, from here it is clear to everyone that spirits are not evil directly teach every Jew this kind of nonsense, and what is simply every the Jew gets these outrageous, absurd stories from the lips of teachers and those uncensored underground books with which all Jewish rabbinic books are filled libraries. The many councils, the Holy Fathers betrayed Jewish teaching, i.e., the Talmud anathema.

Holy Fathers zealously persecuted the Jewish Talmud as a blasphemous teaching and spiteful against Christians. At

The Roman popes repeatedly issued bulls with anathema to the Jewish Talmuds: Alexander III, Innocent III, Pius V. These bulls were confirmed by Paul IV, confirmed by Clement VII by special bull of 1593; Gregory XIII issued a bull in 1581. All Christian emperors, kings and princes contributed to the extermination and burning of the Talmuds. After the burning of the Talmuds, years passed, passions subsided, and Jewish Talmudists tried to print even more blasphemous Talmuds. The times of persecution were over - and the Talmuds were still openly published everywhere, even in Russia, in the Volyn province, in the town of Slovuty, Jews had their own printing house and They printed complete Talmuds without gaps. Now they can only receive full Talmuds from abroad, where they are published freely everywhere.

Chapter 9

Blasphemy of Jewish doctors in a public place

In October 1901, in Suwalki, in the city hospital, three operations under chloroform. For such an important function I gathered in the operating room the entire medical synclite. During an operation by Catholic doctors, the Jewish doctor Raigorodsky started a debate about the Christian religion and started talking about Jesus Christ, the saints and Nicholas the Wonderworker. At the same time, he allowed extremely offensive ironic blasphemy against the divinity of Jesus Christ and St. saints in such expressions as were disgusting and deplorable for a Christian I wish I could repeat it orally, much less express it on paper. Doctor Raigorodsky blasphemed with the assistance of two of his colleagues, Jewish doctors Sheiman and Nathanson, who supported Raigorodsky with loud laughter and winks. An opponent against blasphemy was the Catholic doctor Bakinovsky; as a believer a Christian, he protested, raising his clenched fists. Supported the protest against Raigorodsky Christian doctor Netsyunsky and doctor Shukevich. Silent The listeners were senior doctor Nonevich, Sakel and the caretaker of the hospital Melnikov;

T-land's paramedic, his assistant Reichard; ministers Jozef Lis, Kazimir Yakubovsky and two female servants.

Blasphemy and defiant insolence of Jewish doctors in insult Christian religion almost caused chaos in the hospital and fistfight reprisal. The next day, private paramedic Sokolov came to the hospital; learning about blasphemy of Jewish doctors, he publicly expressed regret in front of all the doctors that he was not at this debate, adding: “If I had been there yesterday, then Raigorodsky would have flew out the window from the hospital room for talking like that.” Servant Jozef Lis too added that since the doctor said this, he, as a minister, could not dare defend your faith. The main thing here is that the daring act of the Jewish doctor took place during operations of a sick Christian under chloroform, when the patient's life hung on a hair's breadth If in Warsaw, with all the strict order of the operation, the operation was carried out surgeon and despite the fact that he was a famous professor, still for a reason hastily sewed tweezers into the lady patient's stomach, as a result of which the operated patient died - what could have happened in Suwalki, when during the operations of three patients under chloroform, Jewish doctors deliberately tried to contribute to its failure, because they came to the hospital not to help local doctors, but directly with the evil intention of causing some misfortune in order to expose the ridicule of supposedly ignorant Christian doctors, for Jews always attribute genius exclusively to their nation. Below are the laws on crimes against faith and violation regulations protecting it.

Chapter first.

About blasphemy and censure.

Article 176. Who dares publicly in church with the intention of blaspheming glorified in the Consubstantial Trinity of God, or our Most Pure Lady Theotokos and Ever-Virgin Mary, or on the honorable Cross of the Lord God and our Savior Jesus Christ, or the disembodied Heavenly Powers, or the Holy Saints of God and their images, he is subject to: - deprivation of all rights of state and exile to hard labor for a period of 12 to 15 years.

When this crime was committed not in a church, but in a public place, or in meeting more or less crowded, then the guilty person is sentenced:

- to deprivation of all rights of estate and to exile to hard labor for a period of 6 to 8 years. These crimes are subject to a statute of limitations of 10 and 5 years. If the Jewish doctor Raigorodsky dared to blaspheme in a public place the dominant religion, knowing the full severity of the law punishing such an act guilty of 6 years of hard labor, then by innate national arrogance he can dare for the worst.

In all of Russia, about a million Jews are in their personal service. Christians, including nurses; They also have craft establishments in the same way. All these Christian souls should be considered forever lost and lost to Christian Church. Not only are all these unfortunate souls lost, lost, but the main evil is that they become, at the same time, enemies of Christian Churches and governments.

The military clinic was freed from Jewish participation in medical practice; it would be desirable and useful for Christianity, as well as for our government equally rid Christian hospitals of them. It was very natural they should stay exclusively in their Jewish hospitals and devote their genius and thoughtfulness towards his brothers.

As can be seen from practice, some Jewish doctors do not spare Christians. In Moscow, it was published in newspapers, the doctor Leiba Shatunovsky worked for many years in favor of reduction or extermination of Christians. He inoculated young children with contagious illness, syphilis in adults, and thus he managed to send a lot of people to the grave innocent victims. Leiba Shatunovsky acted according to the laws of the Talmud, which prescribed the extermination of Christians. When the barbaric crime of the Jewish doctors and the judiciary he was imprisoned, then Jewry out of sympathy the holy cause worked out and offered 50 thousand rubles. bail to release Leibu the doctor on bail, but the court refused, and poor Leibus suffered in prison. But here a telegram informing him that he had fled without bail: “Moscow August 31. - Accused in the vaccination of contagious diseases in young children and was tested in Preobrazhensk hospital for the mentally ill, doctor Leiba Shatunovsky fled from hospitals."

Chapter 10

Opinion of Tacitus, Josephus and Talmudic teaching

The central event of the Bible - the story of Jesus Christ - finds great the number of direct and indirect confirmations from pagan and Jewish writers. Here are some of the most remarkable ones. 1) Tacitus (Annal. XV, 44):

“To suppress this rumor, he (Nero) announced guilty of others and, as punishment, began to cruelly torture those people whom he usually are called Christians. The beginning of this time comes from Christ, who during his reign Tiberius was executed by Pontius Pilate."

2) Josephus (Antibuit Iud. XVIII. 3, 3): “At that time there lived Jesus, the wise a man, if one can call him a man; he did extraordinary things and taught people who listened to the truth with joy. He had many disciples from the Jews and from the Hellenes. It was Christ (messiah). Pilate ordered him to be crucified because he was accused by the leaders of our people, but this did not stop the disciples from loving him as before. Three days after his death, he appeared to them alive, as it happened predicted by the prophets who predicted many other miracles; and now also there is a people named after him by Christians.”

3) Talmud: “On the evening before Passover, Jesus was hanged for practicing magic, corrupted the people and persuaded them to a new religion... Since nothing found to justify him, then on the eve of Easter he was hanged.” "The art of magic" brought out of Egypt in an incision he made on his body - and thus he created miracles and persuaded the people to believe as if by their own strength.” (Gettinger. Part 1, department 2. 136, 139). The Talmud calls Jesus Christ a treacherous Jew; commanded by their own with our hands to kill the traitors of Israel and the renegades (minim), like Jesus Nazareth and his followers, and plunge them to the bottom of the abyss. Teachings of Jesus The Nazarene, says the Talmud, is idolatry. James, disciple of Jesus, is a heretic (Tract. Avoyde-Zura, l. 17-1).

“Since Christ practiced sorcery and idolatry, Christians doubly idolaters. The Jews recognize Christ as devoid of intelligence.” (Tract. Avoyde-Zura, l. 27-2). “Christ is in league with the devil: they call Christ godless.” (Tract. Sanhedrin, l. 105-1).

The Nazarene in the Talmud is called the son of a carpenter. (Tract. Avoyde-Zura, l. 50-2). Instead of the name Jesus, the Talmud sometimes expresses: “famous person”, or “let his name perish and his memory perish.” (Tract. Avoyde-Zura, l. 17-1).

Chapter 11

The Conversion of Rabbi Eliezer to Christianity

The Jewish scholar, Rabbi Eliezer, was brought before a Roman court on charges in Christianity, in Caesarea, where he lived out his last days. The process took place after 115, when Pliny's correspondence with the emperor was made public. The proconsul did not believed in crimes blamed on Christians. The story of the trial of R. Eliezer is found in ancient rabbinic writing: in Kohelet Rabbah (1, 8), in the Babylonian Talmud (Avoide-Zura, l. 16, pp. 1-17, p. 1) and in Tosefte (Khulin l, 24). More details are found in the Midrash Rabbah: “Once upon a time R. Eliezer was arrested on charges of practicing Christianity.

Hegemon (judge) says: Such an old man, but he is busy with trifles! R. Eliezer: I recognize the power of the Judge over me! (Hegemon thought that under the Judge he is implied, but p. Eliezer meant the Heavenly Father). Hegemon: Since you have recognized my power over you, I will also inform you that it has long been I thought: maybe those societies are doing those empty things. You are free!"

R. Eliezer, son-in-law of Rabban Gamliel, head of the Jamnian Academy, lived at the end first and early second centuries. Due to his inclination towards Christianity, he did not get along with head of the academy, and despite the close relationship, was finally betrayed excommunication, i.e. anathema, and spent the last years of his life away from Jewish thoughts, that is, in Christianity. In Memphis he met with the famous Yakov-Mineas (a Christian Jew) apparently reacted favorably to the teachings of Christ, and when the Roman government began to squeeze Christians, R. was among the accused. Eliezer.

Chapter 12

Prophecies Concerning the Divinity of Jesus Christ

Jesus Christ pointed to prophecies as one of the main evidence Your Divinity: “Search the scriptures; they testify about Me” (John 5:39; 46:41). “O God, Your God has anointed you with the oil of joy more than Your companions” (Ps. 44:8). “The Lord said to my Lord, Sit on My right hand until I put down the enemies. Your footstool” (Ps. 109:1). “And I will say to them: if it pleases you, then give Me my wages; if not, no Let's; and they will weigh out thirty pieces of silver as payment to Me. And the Lord said to Me: throw them into the church storehouse - the high price at which they valued Me! And I took thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the Lord for the potter.” (Zech. 11, 12, 13). One of the learned Pharisees decided to test the depth of Christ’s teaching and His wisdom. He asked a question that at first glance exposed his false and apparent non-spiritual view: “Teacher! What is the greatest commandment in the law?” Jesus answered that the greatest commandment is: “Hear, O Israel, our Lord, there is one Lord is,” and the second is similar to this: “Love your neighbor as yourself.” Scribe recognized the answer of Jesus Christ as wise and high. “Well, Teacher,” he exclaimed, “You have spoken the truth.” Jesus Christ predicted the eternal desolation of the temple of Jerusalem and submission of Jerusalem to the pagans.

"No stone will be left unturned from what you see here; All will be destroyed... And Jerusalem will be trampled underfoot by the Gentiles until times are completed pagans." (Luke 21:6,24). The most important and severe disaster began after the death of Jesus Christ, that is, after the Jewish fanatics condemned their Messiah, predicted by everyone, to death prophets. Pontic Pilate did not find any guilt in him, which he declared to the crowd to the Jewish people that they cannot take upon themselves sin for the life of an innocent. Then The Jews shouted with gloating: "Let his blood fall on all of us and on our children." Isn't it clear to everyone that the scourge of God and the sword are just vengeance, caused by themselves and on the eternal generation for the blood and death of their messiah Jesus Christ?

Human life is infinitely varied, says Turgenev; story infinitely complex, says Tan. These reasons make it impossible for person to foresee the future. The human mind is not able to understand the endless variety of human life and find the laws governing them. Strauss understood the enormous significance of this evidence and argued that, for example, the prediction of Jesus Christ about the fall of Jerusalem was written after the event, although in elsewhere he admits that the Gospels were compiled no later than 30 years later the death of Christ, that is, before the destruction of Jerusalem (Gettinger. Apology of Christianity, vol. 1, part 2, p. 230). Justin the philosopher considers the fulfillment of prophecies to be the most certain proof of the inspiration of the Bible. The fulfillment of prophecies is a sign that the prophecy is spoken by God. [1]

Chapter 13

Prophecy of Moses about the dispersion of the Jews2

There are prophecies about peoples, states, countries and about individual cities. Of the prophecies about nations, the most remarkable and of particular interest in present time - these are prophecies about the Jews. 1 Article by A. Sapozhnikov. Extracted from the magazine "The Wanderer", May, No. 5, 1894.

2 Too.

The most vivid and complete prophecies about the Jews were given by Moses: "If you do not listen to the voice of the Lord your God, all will come against you this curse:

- The Lord will give you over to be destroyed by your enemies, and you will be scattered throughout kingdoms of the earth.

- The Lord will strike you with madness, blindness and numbness of heart. - And you will grope at noon, as a blind man gropes in the dark, and you will not prosper in your ways, and they will oppress you and oppress you every day, and no one will protect you.

"Your sons and your daughters will be given to another people; your eyes will be see and grieve for them every day, and there will be no strength in your hands.

- The fruits of your land and all your labors will be eaten by a people whom you did not know; and you You will only be oppressed and tormented all the days.

- And you will be a terror, a byword and a laughing stock among all the nations to which he leads you Lord (God). "And you will be cast out from the land into which you are going to possess it."

- And the Lord (your God) will scatter you among all nations, from the ends of the earth to the ends of the earth, and there you will serve other gods, which neither you nor your fathers knew, wood and stones.

- But even between these peoples you will not find peace, and there will be no resting place for your feet. yours, and the Lord will give you there a trembling heart, a melting soul.

- Your life will hang before you, and you will tremble night and day, and not you will be confident in your life.

- From the trembling of your heart, which will embrace you, and from the fact that you will see with your eyes, in the morning you will say: “Oh, that evening would come!”, and in the evening you will say: “Oh, that morning would come!”” (Deut. 28, 15; 25, 28; 29, 32; 33, 37; 63-67). Other prophets give similar predictions, supplementing them with some interesting features: “And I will give them over to bitterness and to suffering in all the kingdoms of the earth, in a reproach, a parable, a mockery and a curse in all the places where I drive them out” (Jer. 24:9). “They will throw their silver into the streets, and their gold will be despised. Their silver and their gold will not be able to save them in the day of the wrath of the Lord. They are not They will satisfy their souls with them and not fill their bellies; for it was the reason for their iniquity” (Ezek. 7:19). “And all the others who remain from this will prefer death to life. evil tribe in all the places where I will drive them out, says the Lord of hosts” (Jer. 8:3). “Behold, I will command, and I will scatter the house of Israel among all nations, as grain is scattered in a sieve, and not one falls to the ground” (Amos 9:9).

“And they will be wanderers among the nations” (Hos. 9:17).

Some of these prophecies were fulfilled before Christ, but most of them were fulfilled after Christ. mainly after the final triumph of Christianity.

Chapter 14

Fulfillment of Mosaic prophecies after the death of Jesus Christ

The Jews knew the art of being hated by all nations and during their independence, and after the fall of his fatherland. You can't help but notice the deep the disgust with which Roman writers speak of them. Their beliefs, rituals and national character are the subject of the most cruel ridicule, the most poisonous hints. But before the final triumph of Christianity, the Jews were not “horror and parable,” were not given over to bitterness and suffering in all the kingdoms of the earth, but enjoyed equality. In Babylon, the throne of King Jehoiachin was placed above the thrones of other kings, many of the Jews were among the highest dignitaries. The same thing happened under the Persian kings. Alexander the Great belonged to them favorably. Under his successors, many Jews settled in Alexandria, Antioch and other new Asian and African cities: they received rights there equal to the Greek and Macedonian inhabitants, became rich, occupied government positions, conducted profitable trade... They did not mix with the pagans, but enjoyed the same civil rights, like the Greeks, and were respected for their wealth. (Weber III, 314). Caesar recognized for the Jews settled in Alexandria the same rights as enjoyed Greek population of the city. (Roman History, III, 370). During the occupation of Egypt, Octavian granted the Egyptian Jews even greater rights than the Greeks: gave them the right to have its Jewish council, which governed the Jewish community and decided judicial matters. He left the Jewish alvarkhs in charge of the customs duties on the Nile and on sea, which they received from the Egyptian kings. In other areas of the Roman Empire, they even enjoyed religious tolerance, could have their own houses of worship and organize liturgical meetings. Roman Jews had the right to participate in the distribution of grain to the people. Under Vespasian and Hadrian, after violent uprisings, the Jews were expelled from the land of Israel and the most cruel decrees were issued against them. The period from Vespasian to Antoninus was generally a difficult period for the Jews (70-139). But despite repeated rebellions, the anger of the Roman monarchs subsided after victory, and their fears ceased along with war and danger. Already under Hadrian's successor, Antoninus, the Jews again received their ancient privileges. From Antoninus to Constantine the Great, the Jews enjoyed security and even respect. Most of the Mosaic curses began to be carried out on Jews already under the dominance of Christianity, starting with Justinian. Its legislation is permeated with a spirit of hostility and hatred towards Jews. They were deprived of all civil rights; declared incapable of bearing witness against Christians; parents were prohibited from disinheriting children who changed religions. The very expressions of the law seem to be designed to humiliate them in the general opinion... The harsh regulations of this emperor were the beginning and legal justification of the cruel persecution of the Jews. In the Eastern Empire, their fate became more unbearable day by day. Throughout the Middle Ages, the history of the Jews consists of an endless chain of horrors and violence... In the northern regions of France and Germany, despite government and even spiritual prohibitions, the mob robbed and killed them... At the beginning of the Crusades, their fate became even more terrible: Going to Palestine, the crusaders considered it a sacred matter to kill several "enemies of Christ."

In England, during the continuation of the Crusades, the whole nation united to persecute them. At one point in York, 1,500 Jews, including women and children, were denied housing; they could not buy life for themselves at any cost and, abandoning themselves to fury and despair, they died, mutually killing each other. "Their silver and gold will not be able to save them in the day of the wrath of the Lord." During the First Crusade "in Verdun, Trier, Mainz, Speyer and Worms, many thousands of this unfortunate people were robbed and killed. Some of the Jews owed their salvation to the firmness of the bishops, who accepted from them a feigned or temporary conversion to Christianity; but the most stubborn of their coreligionists surrounded their houses with barricades and threw themselves into the river or into the flames along with their families and their wealth: "and they will prefer death to life." Writers speak with complete indifference about the beatings and robberies to which the Jews were subjected and which were renewed with each Crusade.

Europeans hardly considered them to be people at all. The Jew was property a feudal owner who traded him like cattle and plundered him like an enemy; the Jew brought him a certain income annually, and if necessary, it could be sold or mortgaged. Henry III sold all the Jews living in England to his brother Richard. To distinguish himself, he rushed towards them favorably. Under his successors, many Jews settled in Alexandria, Antioch and other new Asian and African cities: they received rights there equal to the Greek and Macedonian inhabitants, became rich, occupied government positions, conducted profitable trade... They did not mix with the pagans, but enjoyed the same civilians rights, like the Greeks, and were respected for their wealth. (Weber III, 314). Caesar recognized the same rights for the Jews settled in Alexandria as the Greek population of the city enjoyed. (Roman History, III, 370). During the occupation of Egypt, Octavian granted the Egyptian Jews even greater rights than the Greeks: gave them the right to have its Jewish council, which governed the Jewish community and decided judicial matters. He left the Jewish alvarkhs in charge of the customs duties on the Nile and on sea, which they received from the Egyptian kings. In other areas of the Roman Empire they even enjoyed religious tolerance and could have their own houses of worship and holding worship meetings. Roman Jews had the right to participate in the distribution of bread to the people. Under Vespasian and Hadrian, after fierce uprisings, the Jews were expelled from the land of Israel and laws were issued against them the most severe rulings. The period from Vespasian to Antoninus was for the Jews generally a difficult period (70-139). But despite repeated riots, anger Roman monarchs subsided after the victory, and their fears ceased along with the war and danger. Already under Hadrian's successor, Antoninus, the Jews again received their ancient privileges. From Antoninus to Constantine the Great, the Jews enjoyed security and even respect. Most of the curses of Moses began to be fulfilled on the Jews already under the dominance of Christianity, starting with Justinian. Its legislation is permeated spirit of hostility and hatred towards Jews. They were deprived of all civil rights; declared incapable of bearing witness against Christians; parents were forbidden disinherit children who change religions. The very expressions of the law seem to be designed to humiliate them in the general opinion... The harsh decrees of this emperor were the beginning and legal justification for the brutal persecution of the Jews. IN In the Eastern Empire, their fate became more unbearable day by day. During all of the Middle Ages, the history of the Jews consists of an endless chain of horrors and violence... In northern regions of France and Germany, despite government prohibitions and even spiritual, the mob robbed and killed them... At the beginning of the Crusades, their fate became even more terrible: when going to Palestine, the crusaders considered it a holy cause kill several "enemies of Christ".

In England, during the continuation of the Crusades, the whole nation united for persecuting them. Once in York, 1,500 Jews, including women and children, were apartments denied; they could not buy their lives at any price and, having betrayed fury and despair, they died, mutually killing each other. "Their silver and gold will not be able to save them in the day of the wrath of the Lord."

In the First Crusade "in Verdun, Trier, Mainz, Speyer in Worms many thousands of this unfortunate people were robbed and killed. Some of the Jews owed their salvation to the firmness of the bishops who accepted from them feigned or temporary conversion to Christianity; but the most stubborn of them fellow believers surrounded their houses with barricades and threw themselves into the river or into the flames together with their families and with their riches: “and they will prefer death to life.” About the beatings and robberies to which the Jews were subjected and which were renewed with each Crusade, writers speak with full indifference.

Europeans hardly considered them to be people at all. The Jew was property a feudal owner who traded him like cattle and plundered him like an enemy; the Jew brought him a certain income annually, and if necessary, it could be sell or pawn. Henry III sold all the Jews living in England to his brother Richard. To distinguish Jews from Christians, they were ordered to wear a horn on their hat and stripes on the dress: these signs were given to them for money from the state treasury. The terrible plague that devastated all three parts of the Old World in 1348 was the reason for new furies: the Jews were accused of poisoning rivers and springs, of spreading infection through magic spells, and they were killed in the thousands. Crowds candy wrappers, called flagellants, went from city to city preaching repentance and the extermination of the Jews. The Jews, avoiding the torment to which the feral woman subjected them mob, they were often warned of suicide. The slightest thing was enough suspicions for their destruction.

They had to endure terrible persecution from the Inquisition, which treated them as heretics and burned them at the stake.

In Mohammedan countries they were also constantly the subject of persecution, contempt and all kinds of abuse. Philip the Handsome, confiscating everything the property of the Jews living in France, under pain of death, forbade them to live in the state, and gave the Paris synagogue to his coachman. They were expelled from France seven times. In 1492 they were expelled from Spain. The number of expelled writers alone are determined in 170 thousand, and others - in 400 thousand families. The eviction was accompanied greatest disasters. Most of the expelled Jews settled in Portugal, but in 1496 they were expelled from there as well. Expulsions from different countries and cities continued in XVI and XVII centuries. At the beginning of the 17th century, the Jews were expelled from Brandenburg and forced oath never to return. Thus, the Jews fled from country to country: “finding no resting place for their feet.” Everywhere they remained a special people, neither one country did not become a fatherland for them - “not a single grain fell to the ground.” Isn't this clearly a punishment for the blood of Jesus Christ, which cries out justly? “Let His blood be on us and on our children.” All prophecies have been fulfilled and continue to be performed to this day.

BOOK TWO

SECTION 1. THEORETICAL

TREATISE 1

HATE OF CHRISTIANS AND CURSE ON THEM, COMMANDED BY THE TALMUD

Chapter 1 About hatred of Christians

The Talmudic intelligentsia, who protected the Jewish religion from all kinds of influences by such barriers that for 15 centuries could not be crushed no power, all the more concerned about protecting the Jews from getting closer to Christians. This fanatical hostility of Judaism to Christianity will become understandable if we will at least briefly familiarize ourselves with the ordinary, everyday prayer book of the Jews, which they greet every morning and which admonishes them every evening. So, for example, in the ceremonies of the first two Easter nights the following prayers are read: “Shefoikh gamosho el ageyim asher lei edouho” and so on, i.e.: “Pour out Your wrath on nations that do not know You, and kingdoms that do not call on Your name. Because they scolded They destroyed Jacob and his home. Pour out Thy wrath and the flame of Thy wrath embrace them; pursue them with fury, destroy them under the heaven of the Lord" (see in the book "Gagodo" Easter ritual).

Here three passages from Holy Scripture are taken and combined into one prayer. In this regard, as well as in relation to the time at which they were written and intended for use during worship, these passages of Holy Scripture are clear; after the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, when the Israelites were still too irritated against the perpetrators their misfortune, such curses in the mouths of the Jews still had a basis and were more or less excusable. But at the present time and under the present circumstances their cannot but be considered highly reprehensible. What are these pagans and kingdoms that they want to see persecuted by the wrath of God and destroyed under heaven? Are they Christians or godless African and Indian pagans? Mohammedan the doctrine regarding the unity of God is completely similar to the teaching of the rabbis, and therefore Mohammedans cannot be meant under the name of pagans; and what, for example, did an African, Indian or American savage do to European Jews? Why do they ask not for his conversion to the true God, but for his extermination? If we will say that in this prayer no one is meant at the present time, then one wonders what it is for, and moreover, as an indispensable accessory Easter service? There are many "guessed works" in the hands of the Jews [1] various publications from of which others have been published recently. There are other prayers with the same spirit evil vindictiveness. In the morning prayer of the second day of Easter no less terrible disasters are called upon the non-Jews. It reads from the translation Jewish London edition like this: “Oh, hasten, my beloved, to where the heart is Yours and Your eyes! Although we have turned away from good, yet hear the cry and wrath of those who oppress Your people; saturate their region with their own blood; fertilize their lands their fat and let the stench of their corpses rise to heaven.” 1 Prayer book for the first two Easter suppers, which describes all Easter celebration ceremonies.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 2

Evil prayers

“At Passover let a sharp sword fall on Edom through the hands of Him who is white and red, as on Easter days.”

One of the prayers says: “Let every heretic perish instantly; crush destroy, destroy, O God, the proud. Blessed is God who destroys our enemies." [1]

In Buxtorf's dictionary, under the word shamad, daily prayers of the Jews, which express prayers for the death and ruin of the outcasts and enemies, including Christians. According to Eisenmenger, in today's In the Masorakhs the same intolerance is encountered, and according to Chiarini, the same found in current Selikat prayers. One of the prayers says:

“On the night of deliverance, God divided when He midnight passed through Egypt; May the Almighty also send division over Edom." Now the question is: what kind of people do the Jews mean by Edom?

Regarding this subject, let us listen to the sayings of the rabbis. Maimonides says: “The Edomites are idolaters, and the first day of the week is their holiday. Therefore, it is forbidden in Israel to deal with them on the fifth and sixth days. every week... on the first day in the same way, for on this day it goes without saying prohibited" [2]

Some Christians celebrate the first day of the week: therefore, under Edom the Jews they mean Christians today. Now let us listen to the opinion of Kimhi in his commentary on the prophet Joel (4, 19). 1 In another prayer book composed by rabbis, on page 96 curses are read against all nations that do not profess Judaism. 2 “Gilkut-Akum”, IX. 4.

Quoting the words: “Egypt will become a wilderness, and Idumea will be an unsown harvest for insult to the children of Israel because they shed innocent water in Jerusalem blood,” he says: “The Prophet mentions Egypt in connection with the Turks, and under Edom of course the Roman state. For these two peoples have been the strongest and most powerful since ancient times. they will remain so until the time of salvation.

And this is the fourth beast in Daniel’s night vision. He (Joel) because this said that the Roman state consists mostly of Edomites; and although with them other peoples mixed, which also happened with the Turkish state, however they (the Edomites) are known for their indigenous origins.” So, Kimhi thinks Edom the Roman state, including the Greeks in it, for he wrote back in the 12th century, i.e. long before the fall of the eastern Greek empire.

Machine Translated by Google

We find a similar explanation in Aben Ezra, who, regarding blessing of Isaac says: “Rome, which led us into captivity, comes from hittim.”[1] . This hittim and the Greek state are one and the same, as explained in the book of Daniel. "Then there were very few people who believed in one person and called him God. But before the time of Constantine, who introduced a new religion and the image of that man carried on his banner, in Rome no one adhered to this new teaching, except for a few Edomites, and therefore Rome is called the power of Edom."[2] .

Chapter 3 The Edomites are Christians

Here we will not dwell on the false view of Aben Ezra; for us we need an explanation of the word "Edom" that shows what it means Christians.

[1] 4 books. Moses, 24, 24.
[2] “Commentary” on book 1. Moses, 27.

Now let's listen to Abarbanella. He is in one place when explaining the prophet Obadiah says: “From this we can conclude that the prophet prophesied not only regarding the land of Edom, but also those peoples who settled from there throughout world, and these peoples are the Christians of today, for they come from a generation Edomah»[1] . So, the four most famous rabbis agree that under Edom Christians, of course. In the treatise "Berachot" l. 28, p. 2, which describes how in one of the meetings Yamna Academy, when the order of 18 prayers “Shemone Esre” was established, which constituted a kind of symbols of faith of the Talmudists, Rabbi Gamalil, the chairman, addressed the scientists with the following question:

“Will any of you be able to compose a prayer against the Menaea?” Then Samuel stood up small and compiled it.

These Menaia were Jewish Christians who were allowed to stay and Old Testament holidays. Under the name of Menaea they curse and offer Christians to daily prayers.

According to the Babylonian Talmud, the author of this prayer, filled with ardent hatred for enemies, that is, for the Menaians, was Samuel the Small, one of the more militant representatives of the Yamna Academy. The complaints of the Holy Fathers of the Church prove the existence of cursing prayers. St. Epiphanius (in the 4th century) says the following about this prayer (Adv. haer. 29.9).

The Jews not only hate the Nazarenes, but even curse them three times daily: 1. In the morning, when they get up; 2. At noon and 3. In the evening. Whenever they finish their prayers in the synagogues, they anathematize them, repeating them three times daily: “May the Lord curse the Nazarenes.” It should be noted that St. Epiphanius, himself a Jew, was probably well acquainted with Jewish prayer ritual.

[1] Commentary on the prophet Obadiah.

Blessed Jerome reports the same thing, repeating several times in his comments on Isaiah that “the Jews anathematize the Nazarenes three times daily (Hieron. ad Jesaj. 5,18-19; 49, 7, 52,4). St. Justin the Martyr also speaks about this prayer in a dispute with the Jew Tryphon.

Brokenhearted Church Writers Emphasize the Fact of the Curse Nazarenes in prayer several times daily. Jews under the name of Menaians and Nazarenes understand Christians in general, just as the word “goy” means “Christian.”

An ardent defender of Judaism, Khvolson, in his book “On Some Medieval accusations of the Jews,” on page 60 says that in the Talmud and other ancient In rabbinical writings there is an opinion that the Romans, wholly or partly, descended from the Edomites and that in a book compiled around the half of the 10th century in Spain "Josippon" the legend about the origin of the Romans from the Edomites turns into an entire novel. It tells in detail how Esau's grandson Zophar1 fled to Italy and became a king Khvolson says that this book contains a long series of kings of Latium who allegedly descended from this Edomite. In ancient rabbinical literature, especially in writings written in Palestine, there is very frequent mention of the Romans, who are so often called the Edomites. Khvolson further says: positively It is true that many of the medieval Jewish authors who lived in Europe used the name "Edomite" instead of "Christian." The reason for this was that the ancient rabbis called the Romans, as we have already noted, Edomites; and since Rome almost from the 10th century was the center of all Western Christianity, then many medieval The rabbis very naturally transferred the name of the Edomites to Christians. From here we are clear We see now that the inveterate modern defender of Judaism, moreover, in his own way (according to origin) - the nation could not deny the true fact that under the name Edomites refers specifically to Christians, to whom you offer in your prayers Jews pronounce curses daily, despite the fact that they themselves live under their merciful and brotherly protection and care. 1 Gen. XXXVI, 11 and 15.

Now it is clearly seen that the prayers of the Jews reveal a fire-breathing bloody malice towards Christians to this day. From the daily prayer the following words are remarkable: “Let slanderers not have hopes and all furies will perish, and all willful criminals will be eradicated! Humble them soon these days. Praise be to You, O Lord, who destroys criminals." Both on weekdays and on holidays, Jews conclude their prayer prayer “uleiny loyshaboyah”, etc., thanking God that he did not create them goyim and not compared with such tribes that worship meaningless vanity and they pray to a God who will not save them; at these words they spit and say: “Ugh! imah shmoy vozykhroi,” that is, may his name and memory disappear2

All the passions, all the weaknesses of a sincerely religious Jew are called upon to help his supposedly godly hatred. “Let the heavenly lights not reach you” - so the Jew prays, jumping up and looking at the sky: “You, Lord, avenge us Christians, worshipers of Christ, pour out on them the plagues and scourges that were once struck Egypt." Buxtorf testifies to the immutability from which the synagogue they beg the Lord to deliver into their hands all the riches of the ruined Christians and to arouse them from From East to West there is a war of extermination between them. “Shame on those,” they continue, “who will give birth to these worthless ones; let their mother be covered with dishonor and rejected, because Christian - death and corruption." Meanwhile, despite all these assurances, on page 60 of his book Khvolson positively contradicts himself, saying: “There are, however, some medieval prayers, mostly local, in which,

Machine Translated by Google

Indeed, there are curses on Christians; but we must not forget, in the aggregate under what circumstances these prayers were composed.

1 Prayer 18 blessings. 2 These words have been deleted from the new Jewish prayer books. They meet only in previous editions; but the Jews know them by heart, and attribute them to I. Christ and Christians.

These are precisely the prayers of repentance compiled during the Crusade...” Further continues: “Should it be surprising that the Jews cried out to God for vengeance?” Somehow be that as it may, these times have long passed and been forgotten, but the prayers cursing Christians are not forgotten and are read by the Jews and offered. Thus, in prayers for everyday use, imbued with malice and hatred against the Edomites, only those detailed, down to the smallest detail accessible moral and practical instructions given to the Jews by their guidebook. The general character of these instructions remains, of course, of course, unchanged: impotent political malice, manifesting itself powerfully social hatred and economic ill will is naturally the result of these religious and moral rules.

Chapter 4

Only a Jew is considered a person

The following lessons and instructions are taught in the Talmud: “Man is not recognized by no one except the Jews, for they alone descended from the first man, and all other nations are from an unclean spirit and should, in fact, be called cattle.' Jews some come from Adam, Abel, Abraham and Moses, and all other nations, in characteristics of Christians - from the devil, Cain, Esau and Jesus Christ"[2]

“The Jews are one people, pleasing to God, who chose them as his people and made him ruler over all others . "

1 “Yalkut Rubeni Paraska Beresh”, fol. 10, 2. 2 “Yalkut Hadash” - Bouquet, right. Khald., talm. right there. 3 Tract. "Khulin", l. 91, 2. Tract. "Berakhot", l. 71.

“Bless the dead if you meet the coffin of a Jew, and curse the dead another people, and say: “Your mother is dishonored, she who gave birth to you blushes, etc.”1

On this basis, a Jewish fanatic, seeing the funeral of a Christian, says the following verses: “Aint gitzen, morgin tsen. Aint givoordent, morgin gundert”, what means: “Today one died, tomorrow let ten die.” Today is close to a hundred, tomorrow let a hundred of them are dying.”

“God, who smote Egypt with one finger, will destroy the sons of Ishmael (Muslims) with His whole hand, for the first are the enemies of His people, and the second are His own enemies"[2]

The Talmud states: “He is not a talmid hochem (Talmudic sage) who does not know how to bite and take revenge like a snake.” Of course, sting a non-Jew3 .

“Where does the hatred of Jews for all other nations come from?” - asks the Talmud and then answers, - adhering to one of the meanings of the root word “sina”, that she descended from Mount Sinai. “Some Jews will rise again and inherit the bliss of life eternal4 ; all other nations will remain forever in graves or hell; their soul is incapable resurrect, for it is said: “The wicked will return to hell, all the nations that forget God"5 ; and who are those who forget God? - all hittim (i.e. Christians), - answers the Talmud6 .

Machine Translated by Google

If anyone, in defense of the Talmud, objects that the words constantly found in it "goy" and "akim" refer only to pagans, and not to Christians, it is easy to prove that the prohibitive rules expressed in ancient times regarding pagans (goys) are repeated today with the same severity regarding all non-Jews.

1 Talm. tract. "Broches", ch. IX, l. 38. 2 "Rabbi Eliezer", chapter XLVIII, etc. 3 "Notes of a Jew" - Bogrov, p. 373. 4 "Sanhedrin", l.90,1. 5 Ps. XI, 18. 6 Tract. "Sanhedrin", l. 105, page 1.

Maimonides says quite clearly: akims and notzrim (Christians, Nazarenes) are suitable under one common name "akimov"[1] and the Talmud adds: "the Edomites (Christians) are the that akims"[2] same, but the facts of the actual life of the Jews testify to the immutable observance of this view is stronger than any teaching and written evidence. In Poland and in the western provinces everyone knows very well that the Jews Christians are never called anything other than goyim. In addition, Jews revere Christians pagans because they supposedly worship three gods, i.e. St. Trinity and Christ, a supposedly simple man who cannot help them in anything3 .

"Know," the Talmud teaches, "that whatever nations there may be and whatever their religious rituals, they are all "avoides elylym," i.e., idolaters. In their holidays, it is forbidden to have money dealings with them: they should be treated in all cases indicated in the Talmud, how idolaters and the first day of all are treated holidays (Christian Easter) Nukhrim. It is generally forbidden to have any business with those who believe in Sunday. Resurrection must be considered on par with festivals of idolaters4 . Rabbi Fabius of Lyons, in his New Year's sermon in 1842, said: "The Jewish faith has this advantage over the Christian and all others, that it does not contains nothing mysterious, but everything in it is pure reason; in Christian religion is dominated by the position: "Reason is silent, but madness reigns"5 .

It happens that the Jews, out of cunning, claim that they respect Christians as a people, who worships the same god with him; such words are even printed on the first the pages of a new edition of the Babylonian Talmud and in prayer books; but from what follows will turn out to be how the Jews view deception and trickery regarding foreigners.

1 Maimonides. "Poison of Hazak", ch. IV, 6.10. No. 9, sheet 296, ch. 1. 2 Mishna, tract. "Avoide-Zura", l.11. § 2. 3 "Sefer Ikkarim Buxtorf", ch. XV. 4 Commentary by Rabbam on the Talmud "Avoide-Zura", ed. I, page 96.

5 Offering to the God of the Universe by Fabius, Lyon, 1842.

Chapter 5

Khvolson in defense of Judaism

Khvolson in his essay "On some medieval accusations of Jews" biasedly says that blasphemy against Christians is actually in only one insignificant book "Toldot Yeshu", i.e. "The Life of Christ". This book in 30 pages are full of the most ridiculous anachronisms and absurdities. Khvolson says that not a single Jew, but even the greatest experts on Jewish literature, know by whom, when and where it was composed, and we can assure, the author continues, that this The pathetic little book enjoys no respect among Jews. Next in

Machine Translated by Google

In the mentioned work, Khvolson says that Jews blush even with shame when thoughts that such a disgusting fiend could have been produced by a Jew. Then myself defender of Jewry, recognizing in this book the absurdities and dirty slander against Jesus Christ and Christianity, is limited only to the rejection of its authority among the Jews and tries to convince them that she is in great contempt among them. But we will be able to prove that both this dirty little book and others like her According to the content, evil and slanderous books are valued by the Jews above jewelry, for every line and even word from it and others like it are accepted by the Jews as sacred dogma. All these shameless and seductive people are against Jesus Christ legends Jewish melameds (teachers) teach to small children in the form of dogmatic true

Chapter 6

Father Dean Benderovsky

We provide information about the Talmud from the document of the father of the archpriest and dean Mikhail Benderovsky, deputy in the case of Jews cutting off the peasant's language Prokopius Kozan, in 1833[1]

O. Benderovsky, as an expert in the Talmud and all its secrets, among other things documents and mysterious Jewish books submitted to the commission a brief a theoretical presentation of the teachings of the Talmud on evil sayings against Christians2 .

"To shame them against Christians and the Christian religion of anger, the duty was present the following about the abuses committed by the Jews according to the rules of the Talmud and dirty tricks. The Talmud, or science, is a creation both ungodly and most wicked. In him collected many legends from the beginning of the world, reasoning according to different ones, through many centuries the occasions that happened and the decrees of the rabbis. In the Talmud, among many others blasphemies, the following are found: that God, before the creation of the world, studied for a long time architecture and then created different worlds, then disassembled materials, until finally built the present universe; that in the firmament of heaven from the midnight side a huge hole was left on purpose, so that if anyone decided to be God, the Lord could tell him: "If you want to be God, then do what I haven't finished"; that everyone day the Lord cries over the Jewish captivity; that souls transmigrate and that the soul of Cain after many migrations she finally passed into Jesus, the Christian God; similar and against the Mosaic Law there are objections, refutations and heresies in the Talmud without numbers. And therefore, when Christian teachers delved into those books, then according to the decrees of the popes Roman John XXII, 1319, and Clement VIII, 1593, they were burned in one Mantua is about 10 thousand, and it was ordered to burn the whole world. But now these Talmuds reproduced again and read without any fear in public, with the addition and still new interpretations. 1 O.

Benderovsky was killed by the Jews because, while a deputy, he exposed them for a crime in the Kozan case.

2 To the Zaslavsky Zemsky Court, from the Zaslavsky Archpriest and Dean Mikhail Benderovsky.

And according to these Talmuds, this is how the Jews deal with Christians and with everything that there is something sacred for Christians:

a) "When they bake bread, they must throw a piece of dough into the fire and say: "How this bread burns so that Christians burn in hell"; b) when they see a Christian marriage, they must say: "For three days of joy, and for a whole century of mourning"; c) when they brew drinks, such as: vodka, honey, beer , then they wash the mats in them and say: "Like this the tangle is twisted tightly, so that Christians curl around my drink"; d) if anything

Machine Translated by Google

sold to a church or cathedral, according to the Sanhedrin commandment they are required to mix with sewage, and even urine is poured into wine. Since this has already become known, the most cautious ones force the Jew to taste it first; f) priests and priests are called "galakh", which means "bald" or "shaven", and, having met them, should definitely spit; f) convert the property of Christians to their own benefit in any way was an image such as: deceit, extortion, theft and violence, they believe himself has the right, if only the opportunity arises; g) if the cattle belonging to a Jew kills cattle belonging to a Christian, then the Christian must be compensated for the damage Jews don't have to; and if, on the contrary, the cattle belonging to a Christian killed cattle belonging to a Jew, then the Christian must return its price to the Jew certainly; h) the only oath they take in dealings with non-believers is the one that It is carried out on Rodal correctly, and in the same vestments in which they go to school (prayer) on the Day of Judgment, called Yom Kippur. And the right Rodal is Moiseevo the Pentateuch, written on large parchment sheets called meruad, with with such care that there is not a single letter in it, either more or less. And if if there was any erasure, stain or the smallest hole in it, then it is already considered unfit, and at such a Rodal the Jew swears allegiance carelessly, which the rabbis are obliged to to substitute in dealings with Christians. However, on the right Rodal, in meaning books "sma", Jews can swear false oaths in difficult cases, and especially when it comes to “koel sroel”, that is, about the common benefit of the Jews; i) when the Jews stand on dung, it means that they curse Christians, and then they say: “how this dung rots, so that Christians rot forever and ever; j) after morning and evening prayers should they also add the following: “Take away, O God, from Christians the eternal hope of happiness; let them go out in the twinkling of an eye; let every enemy of Israel perish people. Oh, God, let them disappear and be exterminated as soon as possible"; 1) a prayer that they often repeat during the Easter holidays, with the same content, namely: "May God disturb the thoughts and advice of the enemies of our Christians with sword, war, famine, pestilence and all sorts of heavy punishments. May this be, O our God, according to our prayers wake up"; t) on the new year, that is, on the first day of the month "Tirzi", the Jews trumpet at school in a trumpet made of a ram's horn, seventy and one times, cursing seventy and one faith; o) On the 9th of the same month, the rabbi spits in school and jumps up, saying words: “As this saliva disappears, so will those in hell who believe in perish forever.” Crucified, and let us go (jumping for joy) into heaven and see our God"; o) On the 10th day of October, the rabbi at school throws a piece of wood and says: "Answer me, tree! - You are not answering? So now the Crucified One is dumb, having introduced through Satan blind people into paganism"; then they throw the same piece of wood with the utterance similar words were spoken by other Jews; p) On the 21st day of the same October, on Palm Day, beating willow branches on the walls of schools, they say: “I blot out my sins on the filthy Christians"; q) the month "tseval" on the 15th day, on the holiday of Gimisofer, a count is made school sums and especially money collected for Christian blood, for which Every Jew and Jew over 13 years of age must annually contribute at least 30 kopecks silver Jews are hired in advance to extract Christians before Easter. children, so that such children can be used to extract the most abundant and honest blood it would be possible to fatten them up, which are usually fattened with nuts, almonds, raisins and sweet milk for about forty days; d) on the 28th of the same month must to torture the body of Christ; why do they buy sacred lambs from ministers? church, or from their maids, which is not difficult for them to do (like one girl of the Roman Catholic confession on one day, starting in various churches to communion, collected four for them), and they torture them in houses with all kinds of abuse

Machine Translated by Google

they can come up with, dressing up in priestly vestments, which they keep for this holiday; s) and finally, in order not to spread further, they curse at icons Mother of God, they beat inhumanly and, splitting or crushing into pieces, they burn it, and for this they must buy it every year," and so on.[1]

In confirmation of the words of Fr. Benderovsky we will present the fact to us personally famous and happened several years ago in Moscow, on Nemetskaya Street, where Jews moved to live in an apartment - in a Christian house. Orthodox Christians, according to custom, have local icons everywhere in their houses, and it often happens that some residents leave, others move out, but the icons remain motionless in place, as if they belong to apartment, especially in people's rooms, kitchens and dark corners. Jews, having moved to apartment, found in the living room an icon of the Mother of God with the Savior in her arms, written on a board one and a half inches thick with a diameter glued in for strength. Having found the icon, the Jews cut it in half, along the very face of the Mother of God, and threw one half out into the mud under the stairs. One of the nearby maids found it and kept it in her room between other icons; seeing this we They asked her what does an icon split in half mean? Cook with a contrite heart told about what happened, which was fully confirmed by her owners.

Let us cite another incident with an icon, recorded by us from the words of an eyewitness. The Moscow doctor O-v, walking through Zaryadye, encountered a scene of this kind: Jewish the guys attacked the Christian boy who was carrying the icon - they knocked it out from their hands and began to trample and beat the boy himself. The doctor stood up for offended, took the icon and gave it to the boy, but wanted to punish the culprits, but suddenly He saw himself surrounded by a crowd of Jews, so that he barely managed to get away quickly.

Chapter 7

Fanatical Action of the Jews

Such facts, and even much more outrageous ones, happen in dozens, even in hundreds in those areas where, far from government centers crowded masses of the Jewish population, where it represents a significant majority and to a certain extent has significance and influence on public life. In the localities the latter kind of similar cases of outrageous desecration of shrines Christian religion and don't even pay anyone's attention to themselves, so much so they are often repeated. In the entire Western Russian region, as is known, too crowded with a mass of ignorant, fanatical Jewish population, very a common occurrence are, for example, such cases of desecration of Christian shrines.

According to Christian custom, on all the more remarkable points, such as: bridges, at road turns, at intersections, etc., statues of the most saints revered by the local population, such as: John the Baptist, St. Anthony, Francis, etc. The hatred and anger of the Jews against the Christian faith reaches here the fact that they are demonstratively mocking Christian shrines. Not unusual come across, for example, an image of one saint with a broken hand, another with a broken nose, a third with a mustache drawn out by coal, etc. On the Sabbath day, during the Sabbath, whole crowds of Jews of all ages and genders gather somewhere around the solitary Crucifixion and perform on it various, how many boyish, as well as impudent things, mocking the most indecent image over this greatest shrine of Christianity.

---

[1] Proceedings of the Kyiv Theological Academy 1869, vol. 3, p. 66.

From Saratov, for example, the case of the stabbing of two Christians by Jews boys it is clear that the Jews on some holiday, having gathered at night, with locked shutters, flogged a wax doll placed on the table with rods, and each Jew took turns taking the rod and hitting it, performing a religious ritual. Christian craftsmen secretly peeked through a crack in the shutters, from which it was later concluded that flogged an image of Jesus Christ made or purchased by them.

In one locality, a baptized Jew revealed before the court what the Jews did from wax image of Jesus Christ and inflicted wounds on him: the culprits were immediately captured, and the image was found and brought to the church[1] . It was written from Gori (Tiflis province) what recently happened there an incident that caused a lot of noise. On the banks of the Kura River, a wax figure was found, pierced with pins and bloodied; it was wrapped in a linen sheet, on which some inscriptions were made, they say Jewish. The boys who found this figure took it to the local police department. Got ready crowd, rumors began to spread that this was nothing more than a symbolic image the torment of Jesus Christ; that the Jews celebrate such a feast every year, and that there was a similar incident recently with a living girl in Imereti, etc. In this case an investigation is currently underway; by the way, the local rabbi has been called Jewish Society to read the inscription on the canvas in which it was wrapped the above-mentioned wax figure. But what the rabbi read in these inscriptions was probably a secret, and therefore the correspondent could not find out anything. Judicial The commission is currently busy investigating this matter.

[1] “History of the Jews” by Modestov, part 1, p. 159.

Chapter 8

About the oath in court places

Equally contemptuous is the disrespect for the current shrine of Christianity is manifested by the Jews in the matter of the Jewish oath, and the strangest thing is the fact that Christian administrative and judicial institutions themselves condone this disrespect, condescending to him to such an extent that they recognize him as if the exclusive privilege of the Jews, although nowhere and by any decrees specified. The fact is that, according to the generally accepted custom, the judicial oath, no matter who no matter whether it was committed, it is certainly committed at the place of the court hearing, with all in the solemn atmosphere of the court, in the presence of all court personnel. And not a single one a non-believer, no matter what religion he belongs to, never renounces performing this highest religious-legal function in compliance with all those conditions required by law and legal custom. Only the Jews constitute an exception in this case. When a professing Judaist is a citizen called by the court to perform this civil duty, he first of all declares that, according to his religious rules, he cannot take an oath in the place where the Christian icon is located; that the oath is his, if he accepts it at the same time condition will not be binding on him. Thus, the administrators of the court hearing suddenly find themselves at a dead end about finding such a thing on the court premises. a room that would be devoid of any religious Christian attributes, which is not is always possible due to the fact that the courts meet in Christian homes, and these latter, according to pious folk custom, in Most are decorated with icons and crosses. And then only a Jewish citizen will condescend to take the oath, when finally, after a long search, he finds himself somewhere a dirty closet or a dark pantry without icons.

In Odessa, the reason for the clash with the Jews was the removal of the cross from Christian chapel; the first correspondence about this incident was of Jewish origin, and, of course, attributed the cause of the event to the Greeks. In one from Russian cities, a simple-minded or non-believing magistrate executed the desire of the Jew was to cover the icon with a cloth during his oath. There are Jews in another city did not dare to ask for the icons to be covered, but still told the judge that in the room where icon, they cannot swear an oath, and the judge invited them to perform the ceremony in a room in which had no image. Young Jewish people in the third city covered themselves with their custom of wearing hats at the sight of an Orthodox priest with a cross in his hands; If If this had happened on the street, it would still be impossible to draw a special conclusion from this; but this happened within the walls of a public building and can only be accepted as for the manifestation against Orthodoxy to almost the same extent as if it was made in the temple. But this contempt, or rather hatred and the impotent anger of the Jews against the respected shrines of Christianity in the famous Odessa history, which at one time almost became an important event in Russian internal politicians. As it turned out from the investigation, the reason and beginning of the collision was insult inflicted by Jews on a Christian shrine, desecration of an image cross, and in all the details of this street drama this was reflected religious lining: for example, during the rampages of a frenzied mob, not a single a house with a crucifix or icon displayed in the window was not touched by it, so the Jews saving themselves from beatings and death, and their property from plunder, they were forced use this hated for them, but the only means. In Odessa The catastrophe was the expression of all the indignation of the offended people, feelings, no doubt, countless times insulted with impunity by the Jews, but who could not finally remain without vengeance at the first occasion. The above manifestations do not exhaust the contempt and malice of Judaism towards Christian religion. According to the general belief of all times and peoples, the Jews under in the performance of their religious rites they commit a desecration of the Holy Mysteries Christian Church, over the body and blood of Christ.

Chapter 9

Desecration of the Holy Gifts of the Church of Christ

No matter how serious this accusation is, no matter how desirable it would be to deny its credibility and plausibility, however, it has historical foundations, supported by the testimony of chroniclers and even investigative testimony. Thus, Pikulsky (a baptized Jew) in his essay “On the Jews,” published in 1760 Lvov, claims that the subject of special efforts of Jewish elders is acquisition of particles of the Holy Mysteries, for desecration of them according to a special ritual. This The evidence is also confirmed by investigative testimony in criminal cases. Thus, from the Velizh court criminal case it is clear that the Jews bribed steal a woman for them from the antimension church and, without swallowing the Holy Mysteries during communion, fold them into a handkerchief and bring them to them. The bribed woman fulfilled what was given to her order. Similar cases are mentioned repeatedly in Byzantine historians. The chronicles tell: In 1213 in France, a Jew bought the Holy Gifts from his Christian maid for reproach, - threw the Holy Gifts into a money mug, where there were seven silver coins; then, seeing the Holy Gifts changed, he was frightened and converted to Christianity, with In repentance he went to Rome, and there he was baptized by Pope Innocent.

In 1290, during Holy Week, a woman from Paris, while taking communion, took it out of her mouth. communion and took it to the Jews to redeem the pawned things they They promised to give it to her for it. The Jew boiled the sacrament and pierced it, through this the water turned red when the authorities found out about this, the Jew was condemned to be burned, and on the spot A temple was built in this house in the name of the Savior. In 1296, a swindler stole from the Church of St. Sacrament in Frankfurt at night. Maine and sold it to the Jews; these pierced the Gifts, blood appeared, the Jews were frightened ran away. The priests, having learned about this, took out the Holy Gifts and placed them in a holy place. The butcher gathered the people in Rotyla to punish the Jews; with banners we went to Wittemberg, Nuremberg, Rothenburg and other places and cities - not a single one was spared Jews, of whom almost 10,000 people died at this time. In 1300, Jews robbed a church in Krakow, stabbed the Holy Gifts with knives, trampled underfoot, all this was revealed by the investigation, the perpetrators were executed (Prince of the Official Zhukhovsky). In 1305, in Paris, a Jew bought the Holy Gifts from a woman, which he fried on frying pan, then poked it with a knife and blood appeared, the frightened Jews fled, which is why a crime was discovered and the Jews were expelled (book. Of. Zhukhovsky, library Sandomierz).

In 1330 in Gustrov, during the ritual of the Jews piercing the Holy Gifts, the sound of the Holy Gifts was heard baby crying; the Jewish woman who participated in this was baptized and discovered the crime. The Jews were executed along with a Christian woman who sold the Holy Gifts (Prince Zhukhovsky) to the Jews. In 1338 in Germany, in the city of Pulka, Jews were executed for similar desecration of the Holy Gifts, (Prince Zhukhovsky).

In 1369, in Brussels in Brabantia, the Jews were executed for desecration of the Holy Gifts (Prince Zhukhovsky). In 1399 in Poznaÿ the Church of the Savior was built by Carmelite monks on the site where a woman stole and sold the Holy Gifts to the Jews, and they were mocked - the perpetrators were publicly executed (ibid.). In 1407, a church in the name of the Savior was built in Krakow (on Kazimierz) on that the place where the Holy Gifts were desecrated by the Jews.

In 1414 in Cologne, a Jew, having changed clothes, came to church and began to communion, then, going to the corner, took out the communion and was taken there on the spot crimes and handed over to the court (Prince Official Zhukhovsky). In 1426 in Vienna, a Christian woman sold the Holy Gifts to the Jews, for which the king Frederick ordered the Jews to execute this woman (Prince Official Zhukhovsky). In 1433, theft and desecration were discovered in Dyvion

Holy Gifts (ibid.). In 1434,

in Deckendorf, the Jews, having obtained the Holy Gifts, stabbed them and beat them in the forge. with hammers and abuse, then thrown into the oven. Why were the perpetrators executed (there same).

In 1453, the Jews bought the Holy Gifts in Breslau, which the peasant had stolen from churches. Then the Jews put the Holy Gifts on a linen scarf and flogged them with rods... At the insistence of the Franciscan monk John Kipistran, on May 2 the Jews were brought to trial in Breslavl and tortured: 41 Jews were burned in front of the criminal peasant, others were expelled from the region forever, and their estates were confiscated by the king Vladislav. The next night, the chief rabbi, who was involved in to the court. Shortly before this, Emperor Albert sent him to prison for such sacrilege. 2000 Jews and burned them alive along with their property (Prince Official Zhukhovsky). In 1466 in Spain

- for desecration of the Holy Gifts, the Jews were

Machine Translated by Google

executed (ibid.). In 1492, two parts of the Holy Gifts were brought by one priest, Peter Dene, in Steinberg, in Mecklenburg to the Jew Eleazar, in order to redeem the pledge. On July 21, the Jews desecrated and pierced the Holy Gifts, and blood appeared, which passed through three scarves, the Jews were afraid and gave back the bloody Holy Gifts. The priest, seeing the miraculous phenomenon and feeling remorse, surrendered himself to the court; more 20 Jews on the day of Simon Judas were burned alive near Steinberg on a hill. This is the same place where meetings still take place in Mecklenburg. open air, but the priest was burned in Rostock (Zhukhovsky's book).

On April 5, 1508, a rabbi was caught desecrating the Holy Gifts in the Church of Panna Mary in Krakow, publicly confessed and was executed (ibid.). In 1510, in Spandau, the Jew Solomon, having bought the Holy Gifts from a Christian, with he cut them up with reproach; sent one part to his friends in Brandenburg, the other part put it in the dough, baked a flat cake, hung it in the synagogue in the icon case, took the third particle from with us to Ostemburg, to the wedding, which the Jew Meer brought on a plate to the young to the bride for witchcraft and happiness to the young. Why the Brandenburg Margrave Joachim He executed the seller of the Holy Gifts and the guilty Jews (Zhukhovsky's book).

In 1514 in Gali, a baptized Jew, disguised as a priest, obtained the Holy Gifts and sold to the Jews for reproach, which was discovered and the perpetrators were executed. In the same year under Sigismund Augustus, after the arrival of the papal nuncio Lipomanes, there were many Jews from Rava were burned on charges of stealing the Holy Gifts and blasphemy.

In 1540, a case of desecration of the Holy Gifts was also discovered in Roslavl. In 1556, in Sochoczew, Dorota Lyashecka, taking communion on Holy Saturday, took out The Holy Gifts were taken from her mouth and sold to the Jews for three talers. The Jews and the woman were burned. In 1556, under Sigismund Augustus, after the arrival of Lipomanes, the papal nuncio, many Jews from Rava were burned on charges of stealing the Holy Gifts. (Polish writer Chatsky in history, p. 77.) In 1562, in Skerboszow, a bell-ringer sold the Holy Gifts to the Krasnostavsky Jews, but The Jews were freed from deserved punishment by bribing the authorities (ibid.).

In 1580, in Osmecim, two Christians were burned for giving the Holy Gifts to the Jews, and Jews bribed the authorities to free themselves

(ibid.). In

1590 in Puÿtusk, Christian Krzyczkowski stole from the Church of the Holy Gifts with the entire tabernacle and sold it to the Jews for 4 gold pieces in Plonsk, was arrested and confessed. The tabernacle with the Holy Gifts was found among the Jews in manure. Salesman and the guilty Jews were burned (ibid.).

In 1591 in Prague, the Jew Leveque stole from the Church of the Holy Gifts and sold it to the Jews, who they mocked him, saying: "If you are God, then show your power..."; in half an hour About time a thunderstorm appeared and thunder struck and burned the house of the Jews. The culprits repented and that's it were baptized (ibid.). In December 1598, in Poltava, the Jew Elonok was accused of having bought from the nobleman the Holy Gifts for blasphemy against them. "Then appeared from His Majesty King Sigismund, Rev. Father Skarga, famous preacher, author of his life St. Simon of Triden, in which it is stated beyond doubt that this saint The youth was tortured by the Jews. Preacher Skarga ordered the torture of a Jew (quaestionibus tradidut), the Jew stopped hiding himself and admitted that he really bought the Holy Gift from a nobleman; for which he was burned at the stake."

In 1600 in Bosnia, Mazur sold the Holy Gifts to the Jews and, tormented by his conscience, sold himself gave out. The Jews managed to obtain intercessors by bribery and were taken on bail, and when By royal order it was ordered to present them for trial, the Jews fled. Salesman Bozhinovsky, summoned to the Diet, died

(ibid.). In

1604, in Poznan, Jews were caught and condemned by royal decision for desecration of the Holy Gifts, stolen by them and stabbed with knives. The royal decision is not has survived to this day, but the facts are not without probability, for to this day in the temple in Poznan there is a painting depicting a procession with the holy gifts and Near the procession are Jews with large knives. (Polish writer Chatsky.)

In 1619, on the border of Spain, a Jewish woman came to the church in disguise, receiving Communion of the Holy Gift, took it out of her mouth into a handkerchief, but was arrested and handed over to the authorities - then she confessed and was sentenced to death (ibid.).

In 1669, one tramp Muzhinkovich, being in prison, was convicted of many crimes - admitted among other things that for many years he had been specifically engaged in theft Holy Gifts in different places: in Kielce, while serving at the church, poured out from two tabernacle of the Holy Gift and sold it to the Jew Levka in Kalisz for 80 zlotys. Criminal confessed that he had entered into a contract with the Jew Levko for the constant supply of the Holy Gifts, and the Jew delivered them to the Jews in different cities in Poland for a large fee.

In 1696, in Sandomierz, a woman on Maundy Thursday, taking communion, took out the Holy Gifts and, having put them in a scarf, she wanted to take them to the Jews, she was caught and confessed herself, repenting, then in the city she was publicly burned at the stake (ibid.).

In 1698, 6 Jews and two Christian mechanics were caught in Rava, who they robbed the church, took out silver and gold sacred vessels, where they were a desecration of the Holy Gifts was made. Christian mechanics were hanged, and Jews Through out-buying and patronage they were released on bail and fled (ibid.).

In 1710, in ÿÿczyca, the bell ringer Podgórski stole from the Church of the Holy Gift and sold it to the Jews for reproach. The Jew, caught by the bell ringer at the trial, confessed that he took one part of the Holy Gifts with him to Banek, and gave the rest to the local Jews for blasphemy and witchcraft. Seven Jews and a bell ringer were convicted for burning (ibid.). There are many facts about the theft of the Holy Gifts and antimensions from St. relics from Orthodox churches, as can be seen from the Velizh case of the theft of an antimension from a church. An Orthodox woman, a servant of the Jews, stole the antimension and gave it to them for blasphemy and abuse.

Chapter 10

The fact of blasphemy personally known to the author

In 1864, in the city of Kovno, Jews seduced an Orthodox Christian with food and bribery. soldier, who agreed to deliver the Holy Gifts to them before the Christian Easter. The soldier appeared at the Catholic Cathedral on Maundy Thursday in a large crowd communicants and began to take communion. The author of this book was a witness, since at that time for a time he was still a priest and gave communion to the people. The soldier, having drunkenly received communion, bent down and took it out of his mouth and into his hand to hide it in a scarf, but the people noticed and he let me know, who gave communion to the people; I put the cup on the throne, took the soldier to the sacristy, that is, in the church, and with the help of other priests, the saint washed the soldier's hand water, in which the gifts, taken out of the mouth, were already blurred in the hand. Was sent to police, officials showed up, and a protocol was drawn up immediately after signing many witnesses. The soldier was sent straight to prison, and an investigation was launched. I myself, the author of the book, appeared as the main witness at the trial.

Machine Translated by Google

investigator. The soldier did not admit that the Jews bribed him and asked him to deliver the Holy Gifts to them, but his comrades, the soldiers, testified that for a whole week the Jews gave him water, and he Every day he went to visit the Jews and brought money with him. The soldier was chosen Jews from among the clever scoundrels, he did not confess, but in prison he had money and everything in abundance. The soldier was sentenced to four years for blasphemy and sacrilege. prison companies with deprivation of rights and exiled to Siberia.

Recently (before the last war) in Romania there was cause for indignation people against the Jews was the following fact: in the city of Izmail, a baptized Jew, who lived with a Jewish tailor as an apprentice, reported to his superiors that his owner there are various stolen church items, which were found during a search in latrine. The rabbi and members of the community were arrested. Found at the rabbi's stolen church items and Holy Gifts. Forty Jewish families with a rabbi ended up in strict prison sentences. The Romanian government, prompted European consuls, sent a prosecutor to the scene of the incident to carry out investigation, and in April of the same year the Jews were accused and convicted of theft and blasphemy of the Holy Mysteries. As you know, the court accused the Izmail rabbi and other Jews, who were sentenced only to three years' strict imprisonment - this benefit was made thanks to the efforts of the English Jew Montefiori, who came to Romania to personally intercede for his brethren before the Prince of Romania.

Even where the prescriptions of Talmudic hatred and malice towards Christianity are faced with the all-powerful principle of profit and gain for Jews - and there these prescriptions do not give way to this principle. So, according to the teachings of the Talmud the image of “shesy-voyerev”, i.e. the cross that the akim worships, is prohibited trade to a Jew without “bytl”, i.e. until it is broken; but the crosses that are worn on neck, permitted[1].

This should mean Christian icons, crosses and other sacred items. The meaning of this place is this: when an icon, cross or other sacred Christian objects are still revered; a Jew is not allowed to buy them and deal with them; when these objects become dilapidated and are replaced by other, new ones, then the Jew can buy the old ones for profit, for, according to the teaching of the Talmud, these objects are no longer sacred to Christians and a Jew can touch them. Before sacred objects in the possession of Christians, a Jew not only should not dare touch, but also let through the threshold of your home, because sacred Christian objects are sprinkled with holy water, which in the Talmud is called “tyme” (evil spirits). Only then, according to the Talmud, will the power and effect of the saint disappear. water when the object sprinkled with it is broken. An example of this would be next fact. In the city of Kovno in the fifties, in the Augustinian church, a thief (Catholic) stole a cup from the sacristy and sold it to a Jewish goldsmith, who, as The investigation turned out that he forced the seller to first break the cup, and then bought it, that is, he entered into complicity in theft not before he fulfilled the law of the Talmud - he forced Christian (akim) to damage (“bytl”) things.

Chapter 11

Bytl, corruption of holiness

Commentary by Toysfes on the Talmud “Avoide-Zura” (l. 77, etc.) in the definition in reality, “bytl” is not content with the fact that the cross, cup or other objects are broken by a simple Christian, but demands that the “existence” be completed certainly a “koimer” (a Christian priest, also called “halakh”,

---

[1] “Kitzer Shulchan-aruch”, l. 167-1.

Machine Translated by Google

i.e. shaved): only then is it completely permissible for a Jew to buy and resell an item. But the above-mentioned goldsmith in Kovno did not fulfill the last instruction Talmud, when purchasing a sold cup, he did not call upon the Augustinian priest, but forced the Christian thief himself to break the cup.

Jews are forbidden to do anything for the “Elylym”, even windows in the church. It is forbidden to sell Christian church books, even the Tanakh, i.e. the Bible, so that Christians do not become rooted in their faith. Prohibited from selling to Christians substances included in their “Avoide” (worship), if Christians do not They'll get it somewhere else. Some scientists prohibit even when Christians can obtain these items elsewhere. "Every pious Jew must act with caution in this case.”[1]

It is forbidden to examine “elyl” (images) and their decorations, for it is written: “Do not turn your attention to elylym.” One should move away from their home (church), and even more so from “elyl” himself, and do not approach him closer than four steps, listen to their music (singing church and organ), and “if you hear it by chance, you should cover your ears.”

It is forbidden to inhale and enjoy their aromas and must abstain feelings so as not to breathe them into yourself[2] .

“If you see a well-built house of the akims (Christian church), say: “Bois goyim and sah Adoinoi” (Proverbium cap. XV), that is, God will crush the house of the goyim. If you see its ruins, say: “Eil noikumes Adoinoi” (Ps. 94), i.e. “God is vindictive."[3] This rule is applied by the Jew to Christian homes. When a Jew speaks to another Jew about a beautiful Christian house, then instead of saying: “ein sheine shtub”, i.e. “a good, beautiful house”, says: “ein sheine rude”, i.e. “a beautiful coffin”. 1 Ibid., l. 167. 2 Ibid. 3 Ibid.

“If a Jew has splintered his foot or scattered money in front of the “elil” (image), you still cannot bend down to pull out the splinter or pick up the money, because this It will be like worshiping “elil”, even if no one has seen it. In this case he must sit down or turn towards the image and in this position collect money or take out from splinter legs"[1]

And therefore, Jews, when they go to live in Christian houses, strictly inspect even in attics and in all dark corners, warehouses, so that nothing can be found anywhere remaining from a Christian shrine: an icon, a cross, a rosary and even a prayer books. If, after the resettlement, the Jews accidentally find any Christian shrine, they consider it the greatest misfortune for themselves and defilement, and to cleanse themselves from this defilement, they make a mockery of found shrine. The Talmud teaches: “If someone pursues a Jew with the intention of killing him, or he is overtaken by a deadly serpent, then it is better for the Jew to be saved in the temple of the pagans than in the temple of the Sadducees, because the Sadducees reject the God whom they know, and the pagans of that which they do not know"[2] . Here we mean by the name of the Sadducees Christians, as we have already said in the first chapter. In later editions The Talmud itself is the Jewish censor of everything that is said about Christians, from precautions covered with a dark curtain, through which, however, it is possible see what is being covered. The sect of the Sadducees has become completely unknown since the time destruction of the second temple; Before the destruction, the Sadducees did not have their own temple.

1 Tract. "Kitzer Shulchan-Aruch", l. 167. 2 Tract. "Shabbes", l. 116.1, 2.

The Talmud indicates that the Sadducees, based on the words of the book. Genesis - "let us create man in our image," they conclude about the existence of several divine persons or many persons in God. But the explanations of Holy Scripture given by the Sadducees are necessary take in their reverse meaning1 .

From the above it can be seen that the Talmudists did not mean in this case Jewish Sadducees, who at that time no longer existed in Judea, but Christians, who for Talmudic Jews are more intolerable than even the pagan idolaters .

In the first book it was already said that in the Talmud there are often omissions and even signs with spaces made by the latest Jewish censorship in those places The Talmud, which talked about Christ or Christianity. For example, the Talmud itself does not answers the question why pious Israelis do not fast on the first day after Saturday3 . In the Talmud, in the Shulchan Aruch section, there is a hint of the reason for this, where it is said that on this day they have a holiday. The Krakow edition of the Talmud says that on the first day after Saturday one does not fast because of the Notzrim. Venetian Talmud publication in the same place says that on the first day after Saturday they do not fast because of the goyim. U Many Talmudic commentators often use the name "Edomites", whom they themselves recognize as Romans. Rabbi Davin Kimhi and Rabbi Behai, in explaining the words of Psalm LXVI, 17: "Those who eat swine, mice and other abominations will perish," they directly say that these people wave their fingers up and down, and They add at the same time that these are Edomites, these are Notzrim. Is there a need for clearer instructions? on Christians! The unknown author Mashmiya Yeshu says that under the name of the Notsrim known to all believers in Yeshu Ganotsri, who are all, without any doubt, children Edom, children of Esau. Maimonides brings the Edomites and Akims under a general category4 . Christians are sometimes also called "min." 1 Tract. "Sanhedrin", l. 38, p. 2. 2 Ibid., l. 116, pp. 1, 2. 3 "Taanit", l. 27, p. 2. 4 "Yad Hazak", IX, 5, 4.

Rashi directly designates Yeshu's disciples with this name, whom he sometimes does not name directly in the name of the Teacher, and more allegorically, although it is clear to everyone: "by the disciples famous person"; sometimes the name "min" is applied to priests and monks1 . The Jews pray to this day that these "minim" who rule over the sons Israel, God destroyed in an instant, struck and destroyed. Daily Prayers Jewish children, even borrowed from Holy Scripture, testify to those aspirations and the expectations by which the Jews live.

Chapter 12

Opinion of Rashi on Christians

Rashi, in his interpretation of the Talmud treatise "Shabbes," notes that the Edomites, that is, Christians, are much more wicked than Muslims. Rashi says: "Esau can be compared with a pig, because the pig, an unclean animal, exposes its cloven hooves in order to make others believe that she is a clean animal: exactly like that "And Esau, having borrowed some techniques from Jacob, wants to present himself as a righteous Jew." By the sons of Esau we mean Christians, as stated above.

Machine Translated by Google

How the Talmud regulates the mutual relations of Jews to Christians can be seen from the following Talmudic instructions:

"All jokes or ridicule are forbidden to a Jew; but jokes or ridicule "Avoyde-Zura" or "Elylym" are allowed"[2]. This paragraph allows Jews mock the faith and religious practices of Christians.

"It is prohibited to talk about the good deeds of akims, even to praise their beauty. That's why for this also fits with what is written: "We will not show them mercy."[3] According to the Talmudic rule, if a Jew wants to say about a Christian that he is beautiful, then says: "moin-here," that is, ugly, disgusting; about a Christian boy says: "sheytseg", or "sherets"; about the girl "shritze", i.e. reptile, reptile. About Christian deceased instead of "gishtorbin", i.e. "died", or "deceased", it is said «gepeigert», i.e. «exhaled».

1 "Nezik", 25.1; "Hagiga", 4, 2; "Shabbes", l. 16.1, 2. 2 "Kitzer Shulchan-Aruch", l. 167. 3 Ibid., l. 8.

"If a Nukhrim, having business with a Jew in a (Christian) court, invites another Jew as a witness, then the latter can agree in this case only if his the testimony will not harm the Jew." Here the Talmud says what is forbidden to a Jew testimony to help a Christian in a case at trial (ibid.). Gifts are prohibited unfamiliar akims, for it is written: "loy soykhunom"[1], i.e. "you will not show them mercy." Toysfes's commentary on the Talmud "Avoide-Zura", page 20, makes from the words "loy soykhun" the following conclusion: "The word "soykhun," he says, "has similarities with the word "hennye", i.e. shelter, settled life, and should be read: do not give them (Christians) a refuge on earth."

Education in the Talmud obliges the Jew to curse all nations except his own. The Jew, meanwhile, is a patient person, better than anyone else, he knows how to wait, he knows how to combine cunning and flattery with hidden hatred, with the most dishonest, disgusting lies. When a Christian comes to an Israeli, one rabbi tells us (who subsequently accepted baptism and then monasticism), then the Jew accepts him very attentive, escorts you off affectionately; but the Talmud commands him to repeat the following phrase in your mind: "May illnesses, sorrows and bad dreams assigned to me or anyone else from my family fall on the head of this Christian!

Fanaticism fades away in the heart of a Jew with great difficulty, because the Talmud Hatred of Christians is a duty to the Jew, a duty to his conscience.

"Nowhere should you give your houses to a nuhrim, because he will bring with him the house of "elilym" - their gods; however, other buildings, such as barns, warehouses, etc., can be rented out to them, although even there, perhaps, he will place his God."

1 Deut., ch. VII, p. 3.

From this we conclude (says the Talmud) that, according to this commentary, there is a difference between the permanent and temporary setting of "elilym", and therefore In addition to the house intended for housing, they can rent out all other buildings, for where Nuhrim himself does not live, he will not place his God forever. Therefore, the current akims who live with us can rent out their houses and for living, because now they don't put "elelym" in their houses forever, but only for times when there is a deceased or dying person in the house, and even at this time there is no serve this "elil".

Another commentary on the above subject says: “This elyl, which is brought to the dying, although at the same time the name of God is remembered, still is called “Avoyde-Zura”, i.e. “someone else’s service, not God’s.” The third commentary explains further: “A nuhrim (Christian) should not to give houses for rent, because the “koimer” (priest) brings into the house “zevah time,” that is, an unclean sacrifice; however, this is also permitted outside the Jewish land. Other buildings, without a doubt, are also allowed to be rented out, because it is written: “You will not bring an abomination into one’s house,” that is, a house intended for habitation; in such and for a short time even time is forbidden to bring in elylym; houses that are not intended for housing, warehouses, sheds, etc., are not prohibited from being given to nuhrim." These are the rules of practical science that the Talmud prescribes to its followers, and the general character of these instructions gives the key to understanding that fanatical dislike, which is met everywhere by the Christian population with side of the Jews, among them and at their expense living.

1 Talm. “Avoide-Zura” with his comments, l. 77 and 80.

Chapter 13

A French writer says: “It’s hard to imagine all the machinations the Jews are now in Vienna; if those bloodthirsty Jews who surrounded the house Pilates shouting: “Crucify, crucify Him!” - suddenly transformed into journalists, while maintaining the original character of the atrocity, then they too could not feel such ferocious hatred of Christians as modern Jews now experience. Since the famous reply of the emperor to the prelates, true fury has taken hold of Jewish journalists; disgusting caricatures depicting prelates, and more often of the entire Viennese cardinal are displayed in all shop windows.

“To the highest degree they arm the people against the clergy, so that agitation of minds in 1793 in Paris, produced by the Voltaireans against French clergy now seems like a child's toy. The Jew reigns in Vienna; he proves this by pouring out his bile on the Church and all the clergy.”

“By the grace of Jewish journalists, the bewildered people became so irritated that they allowed themselves to utter frantic words on the streets when meeting with a clergyman. curses!”

If the Roman emperors considered it necessary to include a gender in the statutes of their laws punishment for Jews accused of blasphemy against a Christian shrine, then this proves that the fact of this crime existed, without a doubt, in ancient times. “It is forbidden for the Jews, during their celebrations and amusements, to commit any blasphemy against the Christian religion... The burning of a cross is especially forbidden on the feast of Mordecai or Haman1 . Jews are forbidden to appear in public, opening the doors and windows of their houses on Good Friday and throughout the week Passover...", because the Jews were in the habit of swearing at the piety of Christians; they showed up with intention throughout Holy Week luxurious outfits and spent all their days in noisy fun, and at Easter they appeared in deep mourning and with sad faces. Childeberg, son of Clovis the Great, stopped this disgrace by decree in 533. He forbade Jews to appear on the streets in holy days of Holy Week and Easter. He forbade the Jews to have servants or Christian slaves. 1 Charter 408 Honorius and Theodos.

Chapter 14

Pope Innocent III writes that he “was informed that in France there are many suffer from the Jews. They force Christian women to breastfeed

Machine Translated by Google

their children; the furious enemies of the Church took the opportunity to commit a terrible crime, namely: every time the nurses took the sacrament on Easter days, they demanded from them for three days that they surrender their milk to a latrine before they start breastfeeding Jewish children.” The Pope concluded his letter with the strictest prohibition for all Christian women to be in the service of the Jews as nurses or in other duties under threat excommunication from the Church. This remarkable letter, written in 1212, deserves to be placed among the legal acts of church law[1] . In later times, at various councils, popes and patriarchs of Christian churches strictly forbade Christian women to serve the Jews; the reason there were constant complaints from different countries and regions that the Jews were corrupting Christian servants and are often forcibly converted to Jewish faith in what we have the facts in criminal cases, even in our time. That Jews strive to have Christian servants can be seen in general among us: the poorest Jew makes it a necessity for himself to have a Christian servant in his service. a woman, while they have many of their own Jewish women who have nowhere to go. Target The desire of all Jews, both rich and poor, is one: to see Christians humiliating themselves; they are pleased with their pleas and requests, they see this they are the prediction of the Talmud that “Israel is king over the whole worthless world, and all there will be his servants; kings and queens will serve the Jews as slaves."

[1] The Jew, Judaism and the Judaization of Christian people by Chevalier Goudenot des Mousseaux, Paris, chap. III. 1869.

The Jews enjoy such sweet hopes and dreams day and night, and, seeing a Christian in the service of those bowing and begging for some kind of mercy, the Jew looks at him with pride, consoling himself that the promised one is already approaching the kingdom of the Jews over the whole world and vengeance on the goyim; Adina will give up all the Nokhrims, their kingdoms and their wealth into the property of the chosen people!

In the Western Region there are a lot of Jews in extreme poverty, but not one of them dared enter into the service of a Christian, he would rather die of hunger than become servant of a Christian. There are not even examples among artisans; a Christian artisan will go to a Jew as a worker, but a Jew will never go to a Christian! This is what explains the absence among Christians of such fanatical inveterate hatred of to the Jew, which exists in the Jew to the Christian.

On the contrary, Jewish intrigues and political intrigue against Christians are always progress both in former times and in modern times, despite all the benefits shown to Jews in all Christian states. Oratory speeches with which they appear everywhere, instead of edifying sermons, they abound, like their magazine and literary articles, constant reminders and stories about the suffering of Jews at the hands of the Christian world, which is unfair to them, about Inquisition, bonfires, exiles and other horrors of medieval times. Further, in speeches these are exposed to the highly moral superiority of the children of Israel as faithful keepers of the law of Moses and the Talmud, as the noblest chosen ones of Jehovah among a vicious, unclean people.

In our time, with the freedom given to Jews by governments, Jewry is strongly began to widen the gap separating him from the rest of the world. Similar Jews with a generous hand throw fruitful seeds onto the young soil, capturing them everywhere educational matter into their own hands, while providing the surest guarantee for the future fate of the Talmudic banner in the so-called Jewish spiritual seminaries and rabbinical schools.

Chapter 15

Jews rent Orthodox churches under the Polish king Sigismund

The first appearance of the Jews in the Kingdom of Poland was in 894. At that time Leszek reigned in Poland; seduced by Jewish gifts, he accepted them, persecuted by the Germans, into Poland, gave them the privilege of religious freedom, trade, their own legal proceedings, independence from the gentry and protection from any crowd hostile to them. Thus, the Jews were accepted into Poland in a purely brotherly manner, under the condition that they engage mainly in arable farming. though further history shows the special occupation of Jews in Poland - trade Christian slaves. In 1081, Judith, the wife of Vladislav German, redeemed Christian slaves who were in captivity of the Jews. No matter how many Christian governments benefited the Jews, they always tried and are trying to repay with evil Christians, it instills in them the teachings of the Talmud. Why are the Karaites, like fans of one Bible, live with all nations in brotherly love, as children of one Heavenly Father. Talmudists, among all peoples of different faiths, received a common nickname wolves. This is where the common folk proverb comes from: “No matter how you feed the wolf, he’s still in the forest is watching."

Jews came to Lithuania together with the Poles. Every tycoon and official is Polish had with him Jewish factors, suppliers, spies and intelligence officers who enjoyed advantages and special rights over the local population and They even served as secret police. Jews took out contracts or were engaged in by ransom.

In the first half of the 14th century, an unexpected revolution took place in Lithuania. who established the Roman Catholic religion in that region and became the source of consistent and prolonged persecution of Orthodoxy. In 1386, Grand Duke Jagiello, in St. baptism of Yakov, who professed the Orthodox faith and born from an Orthodox princess, under the condition of converting Lithuania to Latinism received the throne in Poland along with the hand of the Polish princess Jadwiga.

After his second baptism in Krakow according to the Latin rite, Jagiello gave free will of the Latin priests to baptize Lithuania. Jagiello issued a letter, which has been preserved to this day in the Vilna chapter, addressed to the Vilna bishop: “Desiring to spread the Roman Catholic faith in the lands of our Russians and Lithuanian... laid and established, promised and confirmed with an oath all natural Lithuanians of both sexes of every rank, status and dignity in our possessions Lithuanian and Russian to the Catholic faith and obedience to St. of the Roman Church to attract, invite and even compel (imocompellere), to whatever sect they may belong. A lest the newly converted Lithuanians in any way become alienated from the rites of the Roman churches, we, wanting to destroy everything in general and in particular every obstacle Catholic faith, we strictly prohibit Lithuanians of both sexes from uniting as one marriage with Rusyns also of both sexes, until a Rusyn or a Rusyn is recognized in advance submission to the Roman Church. And if anyone of ours is against this prohibition Rusyns of both sexes unite in marriage with a Catholic or Catholic woman, then the combined are not separated, but the spouse who belongs to the other sect must accept the Catholic faith and truly acknowledge submission to the Roman Church, to which should be forced upon them even by corporal punishment.”

Machine Translated by Google

Now everyone understands how open the field of action was for profit Jews who at that time appeared and contributed to this mission like secret police agents. Reproaches and persecution fell most of all on the then main center Orthodoxy, to the Vilna brotherhood. Orthodox Christians were persecuted in courts, on the street, in houses; they forbade having any kind of communication with them, even talking to them; stones were thrown from slings and firebrands into the fraternal monastery of the Holy Spirit. It was in most passionate week. These persecutions were extremely cruel and unbearable. “You attacked us like a consuming fire,” they said later. Orthodox to the Latins, you have turned our whole soul upside down and filled it with bitterness. We thought that the last day of the world and the Last Judgment were coming.”

In 1436, under the pretext that religious unrest had begun in Lithuania, an Inquisition tribunal was established, the President of which was appointed a Dominican monk Nikolai from Lenchitsa, with the right to find and punish “heretics and renegades." Under Kings Casimir and Alexander, religious fanatics in Lithuania, seeking to oppress the Orthodox, managed to obtain a ban on restoration of old and construction of new Orthodox churches; The Bernardines accepted the appeal of the Russians, Bishop Wojciech Tabor at court and the Senate patronized this enterprise, and priests, scattered throughout Lithuania Rus', preached the unity of churches, the viceroy of the Savior on earth in the person of popes and carried out a lot of violence, and all this was done with the participation and assistance of the Jews, who were the initiators, playing the role of intermediaries, observers and informers, they were used on both sides to extract double gain. Around 1480 Prince Casimir, canonized by the Roman Church, asked his father its prohibition on building new Orthodox churches in the region and repairing old ones.

Finally, King Casimir in 1493, the last year of his reign, gave command to announce to all Orthodox churches the unity of the Eastern Church with Western, which allegedly took place in the Florence Cathedral. Then the beginning terrible violence is happening against the Orthodox churches and the Orthodox people, where the Jews everywhere took part and took advantage of these unrest and disasters Orthodox people, extracting their own self-interest. At the same time, Vilnius Bishop Wojciech Tabor petitioned the pope Alexander VI bull on July 1, 1501, which granted him, his successors and to all the Roman clergy the right to put to death (seculare jus glad) heretics and pagans, namely: Rusyns, Tatars and Armenians and those who would interfere with the collection ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ (to receive tithes or a certain part of the fruits of tithes). In such a position there was Orthodoxy and the people. Then, during the bloody persecution against the Orthodox by Uniate Catholics, he became a particularly prominent and tireless representative of Latin-Polish fanaticism. was the Polotsk Uniate Bishop Josaphat Kuntsevich, who went on a rampage in Belarus. His cruelties against the Orthodox brought the Russians beyond their patience, who rightly executed him in Vitebsk in 1623, for which he was ranked by the pope among to the face of the “holy martyrs.” In all the persecutions and persecutions of the Orthodox, Jews and contributed to the oppression of the Orthodox. Everywhere they made profit for themselves, and also received a kind of pleasure and joy. Here is a picture from Poland history in 1597. In Poland, under King Sigismund, when there were bloody persecutions on Orthodoxy, the Jews also made every effort to fulfill the law of the Talmud and his commands hostile to Christians. “Those churches whose parishioners could not be converted into the union by any force were leased to the Jews; keys temples and bell towers became Jewish taverns. You need to fulfill the requirement: go bargain with the Jew, for whom gold is an idol, and the faith of Christ is an object of evil ridicule and curses. I had to pay up to five thalers for each liturgy, then well for baptism and burial. The Uniate freely received Easter bread, where and how he wanted, but the Orthodox could not bake it himself and bought it only from a Jew and at its price. On a prosphora purchased to commemorate health or repose, a Jew made a sign with coal, and only then could she be accepted to the altar.”[1]

[1] “History of the Russian Church” Archbishop. Filareta, s. 73.

Chapter 16

Canon law of the Roman Catholic Church of past centuries in relation to Jews

1. When the Jews were allowed to put their affairs in order, they received permission to restore their ancient synagogues, which have been there since time immemorial times in their possession, but they were forbidden to build new synagogues, especially stone, too high and vast. In every region or every city there are Jews could have only one synagogue.

2. The sacred canons, threatening excommunication from the Church, especially order the following:

No Christian should live in the same house with a Jew, feast with him or go to the bathhouse together. No Christian should serve a Jew or hire them for a long time. Then, Jews cannot keep Christian servants in their house, both day and night; Moreover, it should not be that Christian women were wet nurses for Jewish children or served as their birth attendants.

3. In addition, so that Christians even differ in clothing from Jews and so way could more easily avoid the company of the latter, Pope Innocent III issued the following decree: Jews, both men and women, in countries belonging to Christians, must wear a dress that distinguishes them from Christian. On those very days on which the remembrance of the Passion is especially celebrated Lord, Jews should not appear on the streets. 4. By virtue of canon law, it was decreed that the Jews on the day of great On Fridays they did not open the doors and windows, but kept them locked all day.

5. Jews are also prohibited from performing any judicial office according to towards Christians, as this is prohibited by law. 6. No Jew is allowed to keep a servant or slave. Christian, but if he has one, then he must let him go, grant him freedom. 7. Pope Paul III decreed that sons and daughters of Jewish converts the holy Catholic faith, were not subject to paternal authority, and everything that constitutes their property or what they received from their father by inheritance should belong to them, even if the parents subsequently tried to resist it; They must enjoy all rights of inheritance and in no way can be deprived of it.

Similar decrees existed in the Orthodox Church in regarding the separation of Jews from Christians.

TREATATE II

TALMUDIC TEACHING ON MURDER AND THE EXTERIION OF CHRISTIANS

Chapter 1 God's commandment - do not kill

Machine Translated by Google

“Thou shalt not kill,” said one of God’s ten commandments briefly and clearly. Murder generally punishable by death. An ancient custom is based on this idea justice, which among the people of Israel had full meaning and was sanctified by law; only in this case is there a distinction between malicious murder and an accidental death blow, and for the latter, propitiation was allowed. The closest relative of the person intentionally killed or the heir had a strict obligation pursue the murderer and be sure to kill him, even at the altar of Jehovah, as soon as possible the crime was proven by two witnesses; and not for premeditated murder no penalty or propitiation was allowed, for the land desecrated by blood can to be cleansed only by the blood of the one who shed it[1]. If anyone accidentally for some reason chance will become the murderer of another, for example, if he accidentally drops a stone on him, or if, while chopping wood, an ax falls out of the handle and hurts someone death - then society had to save the murderer from the hands of a relative avenging blood, and bring him back to the city of his refuge. For this purpose throughout all the land of Israel, according to six free cities were appointed here and on the other side of the Jordan, in which the unwitting killer could remain safe. But if the bloodvenger met him outside the sacred boundaries of these cities, then he had the right to do with him according to his will. Only the death of the high priest returned complete freedom to the persecuted murderer. And if someone, out of hatred, or enmity, or with intent, killed another and at the same time sought protection in one of those free cities, then the elders of that city should capture him there and hand him over to the vigilante to kill him. Security the law extended so far in human life that, for example, if someone died from a carnal ox, then the law commanded that this ox be killed with stones, and even its owner, if he knew about his carnality and did not announce it to anyone, or at least he should had to pay a significant penalty to propitiate his sins[2]. From the same purpose, the law prescribed that everyone building a new house should make railings around roofs, so as not to cause any death to an important crimes against your home. When they could not in any way discover the murderer of the man found in the field, the elders of the nearest city had to wash their hands over the heifer slaughtered by the stream, and say: “Our hands have shed no blood our eyes have not seen”, etc. The protection of the life of each individual extended further to individual members of her body, and damage to them was punishable by retribution to the guilty person same: “an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.”

Talmudists turned the humanity of Holy Scripture into barbarism and inhumane bloodthirstiness. Let us pay attention to a very important place in Holy Scripture, where a consciousness of human dignity is revealed quite clearly and distinctly, which it was necessary to spare even the guilty, even the criminal. This is the law of the body punishment, which reads:

“It is lawful for him to be given forty stripes, but no more, so that from many stripes your brother I was not disgraced before your eyes.” (Deut. XXV, 3.) Thus, even one worthy of punishment has the right to have it recognized and respected the person! This naturally leads us to ancient Israeli criminal law, thoroughly imbued with the spirit of humanity. It knows nothing about the use of torture: only in one case is it clearly required mutilation, namely, when, as a punishment for the most flagrant violation of chastity and modesty is supposed to mercilessly cut off the hand that committed such an offense. To aggravate the death penalty, ancient Israel only recognized impalement or

---

[1] Number XXXV 33. [2] Ref. XXI, 28, XXII, 8.

Machine Translated by Google

burning, and this, however, was applied not to living criminals, but to their corpses for in order to desecrate a corpse to emphasize the importance of the death penalty, thus expressing way of public contempt for the deceased and depriving him of an honest burial. How legal death penalty, ancient Israel knew only stoning; it seems to us extremely barbaric, but contains a deep ethical meaning. Stoning is the only type of death penalty in in which the entire community can participate. The latter is due to the fact the view that the sin of one is a crime against the community, or, in the ancient Israeli expression, its desecration; consequently, the community itself, as it says The Bible must "cast out evil from among them." Therefore, in Israel there was no executioner, nor a shoulder master who would be called upon to torture and kill his own neighbors; the community itself eliminated the unworthy member from among them - and is it possible that the thought of the need to personally inflict punishment was not very significant a reason to consider everything twice as carefully and conscientiously before passing a death sentence, since legal murder was addressed under such conditions a bloody crime for every person? Moreover, how much it is known that when committing the act of stoning, every effort was made to make death as quick and certain as possible and not to cause harm to the victim useless torment and suffering.

The most important point when analyzing the relationship of the Bible to humanity is Surely the question is: what does the Bible think about slavery? Undoubtedly, she recognizes him and considers it legal. Even in certain cases, such as when applied to to an insolvent debtor or a caught thief who cannot pay To be fair, the Bible clearly requires slavery. But we shouldn't This is to think about the slavery of Rome during its decline or the situation of slaves in the American States.

First of all, it deserves mention that nowhere is there any mention of uprisings slaves against their owners. The pictures painted before us by the Israeli legend, indicate a completely different nature of slavery. So, about relationships Abraham to his chief servant Eliazar cannot be spoken of except as a relationship ideal.

There is no planter and mercenary here, but mutual love and trust are visible, as between equal friends: a slave could even inherit the master if the latter did not had children. The book of Samuel depicts a similar idyll in the relationship of Saul, the future king, to his slave. Both went to look for Saul's father's lost donkeys; Saul accepts advice from the slave as from a good comrade, and finally borrows from him a coin intended as a fee for Samuel for asking him for instructions. In general, the Old Testament slaves could no longer consider their position oppressed and humiliating for one reason that it was quite the same with the position of wives and children according to relation to the head of the house: both children and wife were, by the letter of the law, without rights before master of the house and father. And yet the family life of the Israelis was at all times imbued with soulful character and based on the deepest love. Suppose the law takes into account the possibility of cruel treatment of slaves, but even here they put on the same level as children. If we were to point out some of the expressions in the Proverbs of Solomon, where the meaning of the stick and rod is interpreted as pedagogical means, we would have to assume that the Israelis before They beat their children half to death, while they were always especially child-loving. AND the law protects the slave from ill-treatment: if he dies under the blows of his master, then the latter is subject to punishment; if a slave loses a tooth or an eye, he must be released for a tooth or an eye. Humanity towards slaves is required in the name of the fact that the Israelites themselves were slaves in Egypt. Most Sacred Ordinance Israel, i.e. the Sabbath, is motivated twice in the Bible by leniency towards slaves, and even in times of need, during plowing and harvest, it is not allowed to violate or take away servant's day of rest: "And the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord your God. Don't do (this) any thing, neither you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your servant, nor your stranger who is with you, so that your servant and your handmaid (and your donkey), as well as you, may rest. And remember that you yourself were slave in the land of Egypt, but the Lord your God brought you out from there with a strong hand and high muscle, therefore the Lord your God commanded you to keep the Sabbath day (and keep it sacred)." (Deut. V, 14, 15.)

The Jewish slave was ordered to be freed after 7 years of service, and the master did not should have sent him away empty-handed, but was obliged to provide him with food at parting on the road with everything that God blessed him with. For kidnapping is inevitable death was awarded, and the relationship of slave to master was strictly regulated law in the sense of humanity. This was valid not only for Jewish slaves origin, but also for those captured in the war, which, it would seem, could not count on leniency: even she was not allowed to be looked at only as an instrument of the master's pleasures and to deal with her accordingly. The Bible even prohibited the surrender of a fugitive slave to the owner, a definition that from a formal legal point of view should seem very dubious and controversial, but speaks especially loudly and clearly in favor of the fact that humanity was the main principle of the legislator. And the humanity of the Bible extends not only to people: the Bible also intercedes for animal and puts it under the protection of the law, which has no analogy in the most ancient laws of other nations. The Israeli recognized the soul of the animal, saw in it a creation of God, although given by God himself to serve people, but not left defenseless against their tyranny. What a truly humane feeling is heard in the command:

"Do not muzzle the ox when he is threshing." (Deut. XXV, 4.) An animal should not had to do hard work without being able to eat the food that was constantly is before his eyes.

What a touching and tender feeling is expressed in the threefold repetition of Holy Scripture:

"Do not boil a kid in its mother's milk" (Ex. XXIII, 19). "You shall not slaughter a cow or a sheep on the same day as its offspring" (Lev. XXII, 28). Or in that regulation about birds' nests, which allowed taking eggs and chicks, but required leaving the mother free! Lost or fallen the animal must not be left without help, but must be freed from its burden; and Holy Scripture quite definitely repeats this command in case such the animal belongs to a known enemy. One could say at the same time: this is still is not love for an enemy, just an innocent animal should not be a victim hostility towards his owner.

Chapter 2

Oral Teaching

But over time, everything changed. Even before the Talmud was compiled among the Jews oral teaching appeared, which, in the words of many philosophers, was brought to extremes1 , representing heaven as something like a rabbinical school, where God was the main a rabbi recognized by the angels by the question: "Is the leper clean or unclean?" Some Jews reached such fanaticism that Rabbi Ben Nachman, according to killed by Azrael at his own request, he is transferred to the heavenly academy, where he argues with God and this gives Him pleasure. “Woe to them for the pretense in which they oppress others; for the hypocrisy that covers up their greed! Woe to them for their zeal for the conversion of the pagans to belief in one God2 , because its fruit was more destructive corruption! Woe to their blind, horrifying madness, which desecrated the holiness of the oath, which the pagans no longer believed; violating it, the Jews, in accordance with the dangerous , noticing that for teaching of the rabbis, very often resorted to wordplay in contracts!” Hypocrisy, by their own admission, was divided into ten parts, of which nine-tenths fell to the share of Jerusalem and only the rest went to the whole world. “Woe to their petty and pitiful shamelessness, which, having paid taxes on herbs, does not think at all about justice, mercy and truth; which evaluates the mosquito and devours the camel! Woe to them for the outward cleanliness of their vessels and dishes, which contradicts the gluttony and drunkenness for which these objects serve! Woe to the tombs, which imitate the holiness of temples, whitening the outside with the plaster of hypocrisy, and emitting fetid fumes from the inside! Woe to their feigned repentance with which they condemn their fathers for the murder of the prophets, while they themselves were not only imbued with the same spirit of murder, but were filled with it and exceeded the measure of the crime of their fathers - by bringing a more terrible, more deplorable sacrifice! Let all the blood of the righteous shed on earth fall upon them, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah, son of Barachi, whom they killed between the temple and the altar!” 1 “Bova Metzia”, l. 86.

2 «Youth. Sat», 14,101.

3 «Martial. Ep.», XI, 94.

It cannot be passed over in silence that one Zechariah, the son of Baruch, or Barachiah, was very a noble and pious man of his time, was killed as a result of a false accusation, 34 years later, by zealots in the middle of the temple, and his corpse was thrown into the valley. It is clear, however, that he could not be the Zechariah mentioned in the Gospel. Nor can we rely on Origen's assurances that Zechariah, the father of John the Baptist, was martyred, or that he was the son of Barachias. The Prophet Zechariah was indeed also the son of Varakhin, but there is no reason to think that he was put to a violent death. Most likely, the Savior spoke about Zechariah, the son of Jehoadai2 (who is mentioned in the Gospel kept by the Nazarenes), who was stoned by order of Joash “in the courtyard of the house of the Lord.” That we are talking about him is clear from the fact that: 1) this murder, according to the order of the Jewish books, was the last in the Old Testament; 2) at the death of Zechariah exclaimed: “The Lord sees and will punish for this”; 3) the Jews themselves have many wonderful legends about this murder, which made a deep impression on the people and brought upon them, in their opinion, the wrath of God. If anyone asks why Jesus mentions a murder that occurred several centuries ago, then here is the answer: He wanted to convey the idea that the Old Testament Jews, as can be seen from the books, from the beginning to the end of written history, rejected and killed the prophets; the descendants, sharing and aggravating the crimes of their forefathers, must bear the full force of the long-gathering wrath of God. “The bloody cloud of retribution has already been filled with wrathful principles and it will burst like lightning over their heads.” Jewish literature itself supports the accusation made by Christ against the Pharisees . “Do not be afraid of the true, but rouged Pharisees,” Alexander Yannaeus said to his wife on his deathbed. “The Supreme Tribunal,” says Rabbi Nachman, “will duly punish the hypocrites who wrap themselves in their tallis to appear to be true Pharisees, although he is not one of them.”

Machine Translated by Google

[1] Jos. V. 1. IV, 5. §4. 2
Paralip. 24.1-20.
[3] “Jer. Berachot», IX, 7; “Bab. Sota», f. 22 a; "Abhoth of R. Nathan." XXXVII.

Chapter

3 Historian Josephus

“Behold! Leaves your house empty." And didn’t this happen in a terrible way? proclamation? Talking about the murder of young Ganan and other famous hierarchs, Joseph[1] says: “Those who shortly before this wore sacred clothes, presided over public worship and were considered venerable throughout the whole earth, wherever people lived, they were thrown out naked on food for dogs and wild beasts." There is no story in history so full of horrors, furies, unspeakable humiliation, insurmountable disasters, as the story of siege of Jerusalem. No prophecy has ever been fulfilled with such terrifying accuracy, with such irresistible power as the prophecy of Christ. Men dressed in women's elegant dresses and walked around with weapons hidden under them. Between John and Simon, who competed with each other, there occurred mutual insults and bickering. Priests struck by arrows from the top the temple courtyard fell breathless near the victim; blood from all kinds of dead bodies - priests and foreigners, desecrating the shrine, stood like a lake in the holy courtyards; on there were corpses lying on the pillars and fence of the altar; the fire mercilessly devoured the cedar wood, upholstered with gold; friend and enemy trampled each other underfoot in indiscriminate slaughter. mosaic floor; the priests, swollen with hunger, rushed madly into the flames, until finally the fire completed its work. And where the Temple of Jerusalem had been, there remained a pile of ruins, between which brands smoldered under pools of blood. Is it really little blood was shed when the fate of Abel befell this people? Are many of contemporaries of Christ did not live to see it in order to be witnesses and feel the unspeakable horrors that Joseph talks about[2] : see your brethren crucified to the derision of one in this way, of another in another way, “so do not there was still room for crosses, but there weren’t enough crosses for the crucifixion.”

[1] Joseph Flavius. V. 1,1V, 5, §2.
[2] If.-ÿ. 1,5,6;10.

Did they not live to see these days in order to experience the “deep silence”, a kind of deathly night that engulfed the entire city in inexpressible intervals? furies; to see 600,000 dead bodies carried out of the gates—friends fighting madly for grass and nettles, for being denied a drop of water—bloody zealots, mouths agape with thirst, stumbling and falling like mad dogs? Is not They had to live through these days and hear a terrible story about an unfortunate mother who, due to the pangs of hunger, ate her own child; didn't they live to see of being sold into slavery in such numbers that finally no one could find them wanted to buy; to see the streets flooded with blood, and the flames of burning houses extinguished by the blood of their defenders,” etc.... This misfortune was called down from heaven by the Jews, for their barbarity and brutality against their fellow men. The Talmud, that is, the sacred law, which the Jews heartily follow, will have to cause heavenly vengeance if only they will continue to follow it. For all the disasters and misfortunes that experienced by the Jews, they alone should be grateful to their Talmud as science demonic inspiration of hellish wisdom, which was compiled according to the inspiration of the Lucifer - Jewish sage.

In nothing can the Talmudic hatred of Christianity with such force as in the doctrine of the murder of Christians. Regarding this brutal, inhuman, fanatical religious custom, constituting, so to say, the crown of Talmudic false teachings and false interpretations, we find in the Talmud the following instructions for his ignorant admirers, having in their eyes the latter force of immutable dogma. "Priest-informers and mimers (traitors to religion) should be thrown into a pit and not released from there; if over the pit there was a stone, then it should be placed again; if there is a ladder, then take it away."

1 "Avoyde-Zura", 26.

It is customary to kill with the hands of the traitors of Israel and the apostates (minim) like like Jesus of Nazareth and His followers, and throw them into the darkness of the abyss1 . The sophistry of the Talmudists goes so far that, for example, the Talmudist treatise (“Avoide-Zura”) literally prohibits saving a non-Jew from death, giving him property or to spare it. The great representative of Talmudic wisdom, Maimonides, having listed these rules, curses anyone who refuses submission to them.

If anyone is so wicked as to deny even one point of this teachings, he does not profess the faith of Israel. This commandment must be fulfilled: everyone contradictions must be eliminated. Talmud, examining and condemning the most vile crimes, such as: murder, fornication, sodomy and bestiality - all these attributes vices to Christians2 . Rashi in his commentary on Exodus 14, ed. Amsterdam, says: “Between The best of Christians must be strangled by schismatics. If anyone says that God accepted upon himself human flesh, he is a liar and worthy of death. Therefore, against such a person a Jew is allowed to testify falsely . A Gentile who kills a Gentile is worthy of death; but a Jew who kills a Gentile is not subject to punishment.” [4]

Chapter 4

Maimonides teaches the extermination of Christians

Maimonides teaches: “It is forbidden to have mercy on a goyim, so you should not have it.” save, even if you saw him dying or close to death.” (Judischer Deckmantel, 171). 1 “Maimonides in Yad

Chaz. Hilkh. Ab.”, see, ch. 10. 2 “Avoide-Zura”, l. 25,

2; l. 1; "Avoide-Zura", talm. Jerus, l. 40, 3, “Tos. To Avoyde-Zura", 3, 2, l. 1 (from the beginning), l. 14, 2 Wednesdays, l. 21.1, end; l. 81.4, avg.; l. 83, 2, end; “Rashi to Avoyda-Zura”, l. 15, 2 and others.

3 "Sanhedrin". 4

Sanhedrin, sec. 7, l. 59.

The Talmud says: “It is just to kill an apostate with one’s own hands. “Whoever sheds the blood of the godless (goyim) makes a sacrifice pleasing to God.” (Tract. “Avoide-Zura”, l. 4, 2. Tract. “Yalkut Shimoni”, l. 245, 3).

“If a goy studies the law, he deserves death; to him granted to know only the seven commandments of Noah, which are obligatory for him. If goy in On weekdays he allows himself to rest, just like on the Sabbath, he is worthy of death: so as the universal law does not allow him to add anything to his religion according to arbitrarily or at one's own discretion to prescribe any commandments to oneself. He is obliged to become either a complete proselyte and fulfill all the commandments, or be limited fulfilling his seven commandments, without adding or subtracting anything to them. And if he studies the law, celebrates the Sabbath and allows himself to invent something new, then he is beaten, punished and told that he deserves death condemnation"[1] . The same is found in the Talmud2 .

Machine Translated by Google

If a Gentile reads the Talmud, then he is worthy of death, because in the Old Testament it is said: "Moses gave us the law as our inheritance," that is, he gave it to us, and not to other nations . "Minim, that is, priests, muserem - informers, koifrim - those who deny Jewish faith, if the opportunity arises, should be thrown into a pit; if they happen by chance You got into it yourself, you shouldn't be allowed to get out of it."[4]

"It is forbidden to show mercy to a goy; and therefore you should not save, even if you saw dying or drowning in a river, or in any mortal danger5 . Abarbanel also teaches after Maimonides: So "Whoever does not recognize at least one dogma Jewish faith, that schismatic and epicurean whom you are obliged to hate, to despise and destroy, for it is written: "I must, O Lord, hate those who hate You." 1 "Gilchot Melachim", fol. 10, 9. 2 "Sanhedrin", l. 59, 1. 3 "Sanhedrin". 4 "A brief solution to Rashi's commentary on the treatise of Avoide-Zur," fol. 93. 5 "Maimonides, YadChazaka", 1,10,1, l. 40, 3.

Faithful to his law, a Jew must constantly take all measures to protect the extermination of all those who do not recognize the Law of God and its enemies. The commandment about the destruction of Amalie must extend forever. The words of Deuteronomy VII, 2, i.e., the prohibition for the Israelites to make peace with the Canaanite tribes and to have mercy on them all, - the Talmudists interpret1 as referring not only to the Canaanites, but to all non-Jews in general.

"If someone with the intention of inflicting a fatal blow aimed at the heart, and hit in the side, and he died only from the blow, then the one who aimed is free from punishment."[2]

"It is worthy to kill a minaychik, that is, an apostate, with one's own hands. Who sheds the blood of atheists (i.e., non-Jews), makes a sacrifice to God"3 .

The commandment "Thou shalt not kill" means, according to Maimonides, not to kill any of the Jews4 .

Whoever ruins even one soul from Israel is as if he ruined the whole world. Whoever saved at least one soul from Israel is tantamount to saving the world5 . Therefore, the Talmud teaches, and the eagle of the synagogue, Maimonides, repeats after him: "A descendant of Noah who killed his worker (a non-Jew) or had an affair with his wife is free from punishment if he later accepted the Jewish faith: if he killed a Jew and then converted to Judaism - is guilty and must be punished by death for the Jew . "6 1 See Talmud, tract. "Iovomeis", l. 23.1. 2 Sanhedrin 78, mission 29. 3 "Avoide-Zura". l. 4, 2, tos; "Sanhedrin", l. 78, 2. 4 Trakt. "Yalkut Shim.", l. 245, 2, to the Pentateuch, "Bemidb", p. Ch. 21, l. 229. "Yad Hazaka" 4.1, l. 47.1. 5 "Sanhedrin", l. 37.1. 6 "Yad Hazaka", 4.10, l. 295, 2.

"A muser (informer) can be killed, even if he has ever been involved in denunciations before, and now he serves "Avoide-Zura", or "elyl" (alien gods). To to get rid of him, that is, so that he does not reveal any secrets, he can be killed." Under the word "min" in the Talmud should mean a Christian priest (koimer). The word "min" also means a Jew who converted to Christianity from beliefs. The Talmud places such people on a par with a Christian priest and orders them to be thrown into a pit.

The word “koifer” means, according to the Talmud, such a Jewish Christian as "mimer" and "meshumed" - baptized Jew, on which the Talmud in some respects looks a little softer. There are passages in the Talmud, however, that are so strangely humane that they don’t even allowed to deliberately and openly be responsible for the death of a Christian, while the Jews live between them.

“If a goy is in danger of drowning in a river, or if he is in another any mortal danger, we do not need to rush to his aid. However but one is not allowed to be the culprit of death; one cannot lay hands to overthrow him into the abyss, so that they (Christians) do not live in enmity with us.”[2]

As for Christians3 , it is also said: “Nuhrim should not be pulled out of pits, because in it he is close to death; and if anyone pulls him out, he will sin by delivering another son to the “elim” (gods).

Akim should not be pulled out of the pit, even if for a fee, that is, even if he paid the Jews for this help4 . In the commentary of Toysfes5 this point is explained as follows: “Do not to pull him out even for a fee means that not only is it forbidden for a Jew to pull a Christian out of the pit with his own efforts, but he cannot even be provided with any means so that he can get out of there himself, but on the contrary, he should make sure he doesn’t get out.” 1 “A short solution to the comment. Toysfes on Talmud Avoyde-Zura,” p. 77.

"Rashi's Commentary on the Talmud Avoide-Zura", fol. 77. 2 Tract.
"Gilhot Akum", l. 10.1. 3 In the commentary of Toysfes on the Talmud “Avoide-Zura”, fol. 20. 4 Brief solution comment.
Rashi on the Talmud "Avoide-Zura", fol. 93. 5 Ibid. on p. 26.

Chapter 5

About the murder of Christians

There, in the comments of Toisfes1, the Talmud, without hesitation, orders: “Kusher-sheboi akim garoig,” that is, kill even the righteous akim.

In the Jerusalem Talmud, in the treatise “Kdyshin”, the rabbi, apparently, is more the conscientious one, having stopped at this point, limits it as follows: “This rule,” he says, “should be applicable only to wartime.” But in the Talmud this place is unclear, and it is unknown what kind of war this is talking about, since the Jews They have not fought openly for a long time.

In new editions of the Talmud, two words “kusher-sheboi akim garoig” are deleted and replaced by the words “toif shebinkhushim garoig”, i.e. kill even the best of the snakes. There or 2 where the murder of Christians is discussed, Toysfes's commentary adds that it is not it is worth killing Christians, and cites a text from the Pentateuch as proof (Deuteronomy XX-P): “It is better that they pay tribute to you and serve you”3 . “An akim who reads Toire4 is subject to the death penalty”5 . 1 Section 15. 2 “Avoide-Zura”, l. 26. 3 Among the newest Jews, the last prescription is more applied to the case. 4 “Toire” means “teaching,” and the Jews mean by this word the law of Moses. 5 "Sanhedrin", l. 59.

Machine Translated by Google

“The Jews must not only deceive, but also kill everyone who is not circumcised. If If the opportunity presented itself, they should be exterminated publicly; for now this is inaccessible, then it is necessary to bring to humiliation by cunning and deception, preparing their ultimate extermination. Seeing a goyim who has fallen or fallen into an abyss, where the ladder is lowered, the Jew must take it away."

Talmudic law prohibits Jews from releasing a non-Jew from any there was a danger to which his life was exposed, because it is said in the Talmud: “It is forbidden to save the akim from death, for to save him means to increase their number; Moreover, it is said: “Do not have mercy on them” [2].

The law allows Jews to kill all non-Jews, as it is written: “Thou shalt not rise up.” on the blood of your neighbor"[3] ; but we already know who they call their neighbor[4] “And therefore,” says Maimonides, “everyone who does not kill, having the opportunity to do so, violates the commandment .

”[5] Regarding the extermination of Christians, we will cite the instructions of an authoritative rabbi Yakov Khazizhshet, who frankly says the following: “All hope is for the spread of Israel's dominion is based on the fact that all the goyim must be known to the ground. All the countries of the globe are promised to us. Then from reproduction Our dominance over everyone and everything depends on our acclimatization. Hear how Great happiness to belong to the people chosen by God! If reproduction and our dominance will continue as it has until now - not far that future when the whole earth will become our inalienable heritage. From reproduction directly depends on our dominion over the earth, and therefore do not retreat even a step from the sacred rules commanded to you (i.e. the law

About the reproduction of "Pirie-Verivie"). What joy overcomes me when I see how all the cities, towns and villages are quickly populated as if growing out of the earth Jews, and the goyim from all trading points and centers are forced out to the outskirts! They have become and must become our working animal force.”

1 Mucher Maimon. in the comments on the treatise of the Talmud "Ahedin", fol. 121. 2 “Avoide-Zura”, 26.1; 20.1. Toysfes. 3 Lev. XIX. 16. 4 “YadHazaka”, ch. IV
—4—11. 5 “Sofer Mitz.”, l. 85, ch. 2-3.

Chapter 6

They teach to kill even the righteous

“Kill the most righteous of akims; he is guilty of death by the very fact that he does not a Jew, and therefore cannot be good for anything himself.” [1]. Doctrine denier the Jewish must be called a heretic, and the law commands him to hate and destroy[2] . Here is a brief development under the shadow of the Talmud of those 10 commandments that are common to Jews Christians and which, as many people think, are understood by Jews in the same way with us. An Israeli daughter should not receive a child from a Christian woman during childbirth, because she becomes a participant in adding another son to the “avoides-elyl,” that is, to the idolaters.

A Christian woman should also not be allowed to adopt a Jewish child, because she is capable of murder.

“Hachomim,” i.e., smart rabbis, say: a Christian woman can accept a Jewish child only if one of the Jews is present; but without There are no witnesses. But Rabbi Meir says that it is impossible even in the presence of Jews, because that she can firmly press a child’s temples with her hand, and such a murder will not even happen noticed. The Talmud also prescribes the same regarding feeding infants.

chest. Rabbis teach that a daughter of Israel should not breastfeed a Christian child, because she will feed her son for "elylym", and a Christian woman cannot feed Jewish child, because they, Christians, are capable of murder. So he says Rabbi Meir; scientists say that a Christian woman can breastfeed a Jewish man child only if any of the Jews are present, but without There are no witnesses because he might smear something poisonous on his chest and poison him child. 1

Tract. "Yalkut-Rubeni", l. 93.1. 2
"Maimonides in the Mishnah, Sanhedrin."

Scholars who allow a Christian woman to feed a Jewish child are based on in the following words: "Kings will be your workers, and queens will be your mothers"[1]. Rabbi Joseph said: "Accepting a Christian child for Shabas for a fee possible, in fact, in order to avoid criticism from Christians who they see that midwives receive children from Jews both on weekdays and on Saturday2 . Elsewhere in the Talmud we find the following: "The Israelite woman did not must breastfeed the akim's son, because through this she will feed the admirer godlessness. She should also not be the grandmother of a woman akim. If she gets fee, then he can do this to avoid hatred"3 . Then it says the following: "From here you must learn how to give the akim medical help or advice prohibited. However, if you are afraid of his hatred, then you can use it for money; without money it is completely prohibited"[4].

"If a Christian woman feeds a Jewish child, it must be observed that my mother did not eat anything unclean or "khazir", i.e. pork. There was an example when the mother ate forbidden foods, and this harmed her son, who in his old age became a sinner"5 . It is on this Talmudic tradition that the Jewish belief is based that if any of the Jews accepts Christianity, then his mother has done something faithfully sinned.

"You should not shave a goy, as he can easily cut a Jew's throat"6 . 1 Isa. Chapter 49, p. 23. 2 "Avoide-Zura", l. 26. 3 "Gilhot Akum" 9.16. 4 Ibid. 5 Ibid., p. 81. 6 Rashi's commentary on the Talmud "Avoide-Zura." paragraph 27.

The rabbi teaches: "If a Jew meets a goyim on the road, then he should be allowed to pass." past yourself to the right." Rabbi Ishmu-el, son of Rabbi Joichinem, son of Boirako, explains this point as follows: with a saber let him pass - to the right, with a stick - to the left, i.e. if a Christian is armed with a saber, the Jew should let him past his right hands so that the goy's left hand, where the saber usually hangs, is near the right the hands of a Jew, and in case of an attack the Jew could defend himself with his right hand. If armed with a stick, the Jew should pass it past his left hand so that the right hand of the goy with the stick was closer to the Jew, and if the Nukhri (i.e., Christian) raised his right hand with the stick, the Jew could grab it with his left. If only a Jew missed it past his right hand, then the stick would have been far from the Jew.

"If a Jew and a goy are walking downhill or from a mountain, the Jew should be always on top and the goy below. A Jew should not bend over before a goyim so that the latter didn't cut off his head. A Jew must clear his way as much as a father our Jacob cleared the way for his sinful brother Esau, for it is written: “Until I come to to my master in Sir”, and after this it is written: “And Jacob migrated to Sukot.”

Chapter 7

Mistrust of Christians

“If a Jew intends to walk one mile, he must tell the goy that he needs walk two, because if a goy intended to kill a Jew on the road, he would probably want to refrain until they had gone further, that is, until the last mile, and in this way the Jew can be saved"[2]. The Talmud instructs Jews to treat towards Christians with cunning and mistrust, and that Christians should be suspected of homicidal tendencies. The Jew must always be ready to defend himself; In addition, the Talmud requires a Jew to never tell the truth to Christians.

1 Gen., ch. 33. 14. 2

''Avoide-Zura, l. 24.

From all these intricate interpretations, however, it turns out that all Jews admit themselves guilty or guilty before all humanity. Because this caution is already self-awareness of deserved guilt. Later Talmudists teach that one should not trust a non-Jew, without any exception, for how can one trust a hostile person1 .

Jews are instilled with suspicion of all foreigners and distrust, and these suggestions are justified by the denial of all good qualities in foreigners human nature. The Talmud positively instills in Jews the most extreme disgust and ill will towards all nations and orders their extermination by any means, as not belonging to the Jewish way of worshiping God. IN The Talmud forbids to show mercy to the akim and show him compassion and justice2 . To save one from death means to multiply the number of those who have false concepts of worship 3 . Treatise

Terumot says: “The pagans say to the women: give us one of you, and we will defile it; otherwise we will desecrate you all. Here they are everyone must give themselves up for desecration, but not give up a single Israeli soul to the pagans." “The pagans said to a group of people: “Give us one of you, and we will we'll kill you, otherwise we'll kill you all.” Here they all must go death, and not to betray the Israeli soul. That's why Jews, if they hear in the market or anywhere that Christians offend a Jew, then everyone abandons their trade and occupation and they run enraged to intercede and save their Jewish soul on the basis of the law Talmud, all for one. According to the teachings of the Talmud, on the day of general judgment, when God will open the book of the law to reward every Jew for his devotion to the faith of his fathers, they will appear before him and other nations with prayers for permission to fulfill at least one commandment about tabernacles, as the easiest.

1 Talmud “Shulchan Aruch Hosh. gammish."

2 “Avoide-Zura”, l. 2, 6,1. 3

Sanhedrin, 92.1.

And it will be allowed to fulfill it, but at the same time the sun will be led to burn the faces and eyes of these peoples so much that they, with blasphemy against God, will refuse the accepted to fulfill the commandment, and the Lord will laugh at them[1]. According to Maimonides, whoever does not kills the enemies of God, having the opportunity to do so, he violates the commandment of God2 .

Machine Translated by Google

Simon ben Jochai says: “Kill the best of the pagans and do not spare the head of the serpent, even if he were the most beautiful . ”3 “Non-Jews have no sense, and therefore do not deserve mercy.” [4] . Po according to the definition of God conveyed to Moses at Sinai, the Jews before the opening of the kingdom the messiahs must force all nations to fulfill at least the Noahic commandments, and all those who will reject them and persist, kill5 . The Talmud teaches that the wicked and those who forget God will not be resurrected, and, according to his interpretation, under these people must mean both pagans and Christians . the wicked, deprived On this basis these of the hope of resurrection, the Talmud commands to kill, not at all without hesitation.

Chapter 8. Only Jews will be resurrected

Actually, only the Jews will be resurrected for the kingdom . As for pious people from other nations, worthy of participation in the Hereafter in kingdom of the Messiah, they will appear as slaves and servants to the Jews .

---

1 Ibid. 2
“Avoide-Zura”, l. 2., art. 1, l. 3, Art. 1. 3 Tract.
Sefer-Mi, 85, 23. 4 Mekhilta, II, 1. 5
At the end of Yad-Chazak,
4, 8. 6 Sanhedrin, 105.1. 7 “Yalkut Hadash”, 60.1. 8 Sanhedrin, 91, 2; 105, 1.

All such wild teachings are not limited to one theoretical side Talmudic dogma, but as far as possible the most fanatical admirers and followers of the Talmud are carried out in practice, which the history of Judaism presents a lot of evidence from the most ancient times to this day.

Since the first centuries of Christianity, Jews have always carefully tried to fulfill Talmudic law on the murder and extermination of Christians. In 610 the Palestinians the Jews, having captured Jerusalem with the help of the Persians, hoped to restore their independence. When Jerusalem was taken by the Jews and Persians under the leadership Khozroe, then more than 30,000 Christians died as martyrdom under the knife of the first, as a result of their fanatical hatred and irreconcilable malice towards the confessors Crucified. The restoration of independence, however, did not take place, since the Jews in were soon tamed by Emperor Heraclius. In the Proceedings of the Kyiv

Theological Academy for 1869, volume 3 mentions the sudden and premature death of the archpriest and dean Fr. Benderovsky. The deceased was a deputy on the commission established in the case of the Jews cutting off the language of the peasant Kozan, and his death is recognized as a dark matter - the result of the machinations of the underground forces of the Jews, the consequence of anger and revenge Talmudic conspirators. Vitebsk governor Strakhov was poisoned because diligently contributed to solving the crime in the Velizh case, murder and torture of three Christian boys by Jews for religious purposes. Similar Due to the malice of the Talmudic horse breeders, the abbot of the Bernardine monastery in Vilna, priest Di-dak, a famous figure on the Jewish issue. But especially vividly and characteristically depicts the Talmudic savage hatred to Christians the fact of the murder of Father Thomas in Damascus. The dead man's body was hacked to pieces pieces, and, sewn into a canvas bag, thrown into a drainpipe.

Finally, it should be noted that the hatred of Jews for Christians is so strong that no matter what circumstances a Jew finds himself in, he still will not refuse to inflict harm or death to the goyim. What could be, for example, worse and more humiliating than the position convicted prisoner, but the Jew will not fail to fulfill the commandment of the Talmud about murder of a goy. And here is proof of this - an incident in the Dinaburg prison castle In October 1879, during a supervisory round by the prison warden prison cells, one of the prisoners, 18-year-old Jew from the Vitebsk burghers Chaim Itskovich Bloch, sentenced to 8 years of hard labor for rioting and resistance military guard, stabbed the caretaker Lukyanov in the stomach with a knife. Itskovich did this because the caretaker did not allow him to pray on the Feast of the Heaps together with other Jewish prisoners who were imprisoned. Villain is good was aware that the caretaker acted with him legally, according to the rules of the instructions, not allowing a convict into the company of prisoners who have not yet been convicted; however, under influenced by fanatical bitterness against government Christian authority expressed his protest against the prison instructions by shedding blood. Having found a convenient the minute when Lukyanov entered his department alone, without an escort, Itskovich rushed at the caretaker and mortally wounded him with a shoe knife, obtained from someone unknown where.

Chapter 9

Inhuman Hatred

The certainty of the most inhuman manifestation of Jewish hatred of Christianity, proven by facts, is also confirmed theoretically by review teachings of the Talmud. These teachings are summed up most briefly and clearly by Sixtus of Siena, a converted Jew; We will use his testimony here. He leads from The Talmud has the following rules: 1) “We command that every Jew curse three times a day the entire Christian world and prayed to God to shame and destroy it with all kings and princes; priests in particular should offer this prayer in synagogue for hating Jesus. 2) God commanded the Jews to appropriate property for themselves Christians as often as possible and by all possible means: deception, violence, extortion, theft. 3) All Jews are ordered to look upon Christians as livestock and not treat them as anything other than mindless animals. 4) Jews do not must show neither good nor evil to the pagans, they must try with all their might kill Christians. 5) If a Jew, wanting to kill a Christian, accidentally kills a Jew, then he deserves forgiveness. 6) If a Jew sees a Christian on the edge of an abyss, he must push him there immediately . In these laconic and categorical messages of the Talmud, the full depth of the hatred of Christianity that pervades the most important teaching book of the Jews.

However, can Jews treat the Gentile Gentiles differently when Talmudic law does not hesitate to condemn its neighbors - the Jews - to death. Entire tribes and the high priest himself, if they fell into error, were condemned by the great council (Sanhedrin) to death . "Every scientist (Talmudist) who resists their (Sanhedrin) words must be punished death by hanging,” says Jewish law .

1 Sixth Seins. Bibliotheca sancti ordin. 1, p. 124, Paris 1810. 2
“Gilhot Sankhedr.”, 5.1. 3
"Gilhot Mamrish".

Chapter 10

About the beating of infants by Herod

Let us, finally, recall the barbarity of the kings of Judah towards their fellow believers-subjects, which was revealed in all its disgusting splendor in the person of Herod. Not knowing who the Baby was, whom the Magi intended to worship, but fearing in him only a future rival for himself and for his dynasty and remembering only that he should be a suckling baby, Herod issued a barbaric command to kill in Bethlehem and its environs all infants from two years or less. In one hour, 40 thousand Jewish babies were killed, as there is a general assumption. Such decrees of Jewish tyrants, which suddenly struck the people, caused such general devastation that the Jews dared to speak about them only in a whisper. However, nothing could drown out the desperate cry of the mournful mothers, robberly deprived of their babies, and although, according to the prophet1 , Rachel herself, the great ancestress of the Jewish tribe, whose tomb was located on the edge of the road, one mile from Bethlehem, added her mournful voice to the cry and the sobs of mothers lamenting for their children, but in reality these cries were immeasurably more terrible for the contemporaries who heard them. Infanticide in those days was a matter that did not go beyond the limits of naturalness and was something ordinary, of which there were many examples. The massacre of infants is explained by the character of Herod himself. Dominant

The passions of this cruel ruler were boundless pride and painful envy. The entire life of this monster is marked by the shedding of the blood of the victims of his insatiable malice. He executed princes and nobles, killed dozens of members of the Sanhedrin; He deliberately arranged such a fun that his wife's brother, the young and noble Aristobulus, drowned before his eyes. He ordered his wife, the beautiful princess of the Asmonaeans, Mariamne, to be strangled, the only creature in the world, apparently, to whom Herod was heartily attached. His sons - Alexander, Aristobulus and Antipater, the son of Joseph's uncle - Antigonus, his wife's uncle and father Alexander, Alexander's mother-in-law, relative Kortoban and friends Dositheus and Gadius make up an insignificant part of the entire great number of subjects who fell victims to his bloodthirstiness and suspicion. 1 Ps. 148.7; Is. 11,1,9, 19, 1.

Neither the blooming youth of Prince Aristobulus nor the gray head of Prince Girk protected against the insidious rage of Herod. Strangulation, burning at the stake, cutting in half, confessions forced by unbearable torture, insolent and inhuman debauchery littered the annals of his reign, which was so terrible that, according to the energetic words of the Jewish ambassadors to Emperor Augustus, "those who survived the time of Herod's life turn out to be more worthy of regret than the victims themselves." When Augustus was told that one of Herod's sons had been killed among two-year-old boys beaten in Syria, Augustus replied: "It is better to be Herod's pig than his son." Let us present here the story of Franzoz2 .

Chapter 11

The murder of his brother Chaim The Jew Chaim L., a shoemaker by trade, was never quite sure of the truth Judaism. His favorite saying was: "Who knows the truth!" Overwhelmed by doubt, he moved from one sect to another: from the Hasidim - dreamers to the Mishnagid - their opponents; then he again became a Hasid, entered into relations with the Karaites, and stood under the banner of the miraculous Rabbi Izrolka of Sodagora; spent a whole year in the circle of Ashkenazim - the German reform, and finally converted to a Kabbalist. He remained a Kabbalist for a long time; but, despite all this, he could nowhere satisfy his uncertainty about the truth of the Jewish religion and therefore began secretly experience Christian teaching and honor the Christian God. At first, no one paid much attention to his solitary nighttime activities and thoughtful mystical speeches.

Machine Translated by Google

1 Jos.Antl. XVII, 11, §2. 2 EUR
Bibl., VI vol.

But then, one cold moonlit night, several belated Jewish businessmen saw a man kneeling in the snow in front of the large Crucifix on the wall of the Dominican monastery and pleadingly stretching out his hands to this image. At first they stopped in amazement, but then this feeling turned into horror when they recognized the devout Chaim in the praying man. The Jews crept closer, but the worshiper was so concentrated within himself that he did not notice or hear anything; then suddenly he opened his lips and in a trembling, sobbing voice began a prayer in the sacred language, the prayer that a traveler is prescribed to say at the moment when he sees the rising sun on the road. Then the eyewitnesses were overcome by pious anger, they rushed at the shoemaker Chaim, beat him terribly and drove him home. The next morning there was extraordinary excitement in the town; Even the laziest people came to the synagogue to pray, partly out of suddenly awakened piety and zeal with united forces to beg God not to punish everyone for the crime of one; partly out of curiosity, because everyone wanted to know what punishment the rabbi and his council would impose on the sinner. At the end of the service, the trial began in the presence of the entire community. But the culprit was not found. Excitement and beatings put the weak man to bed. According to the law, however, he had to be present, and so several servants were sent for him, who brought the sufferer on pillows. A terrible noise began as he was carried among the crowd of those present, and whoever stood closer eased his heart by spitting in the face of the unfortunate man. Then the rabbi ordered everyone to be silent and made a long speech, and then the decision was that Chaim should leave his wife and children and go to Jerusalem for eternal residence, and on the way tell in every society, that is, Jewish, about his crime , and ask people to trample him underfoot and spit in his face. But poor Chaim did not go on such a journey, since the Jewish brethren killed him. If they do this to fellow believers, is it any wonder that Jews should treat Christians - these pagans, according to the teachings of the Talmud - more mercifully. As for Christians who converted from Judaism, there are no limits to the persecution of them by their former co-religionists. Among the most striking examples of this indomitable hatred of the Jews against their converted brothers, we will point out the outstanding fact of the abduction in the first quarter of this century of the children of the famous expert in oriental languages, Drach, the rabbi, who studied the writings of the Talmud for so long and so thoroughly and eventually converted to Christianity. We borrow several passages from the touching stories of this unfortunate father, so cruelly tested by fate. After the true light enlightened the honest worker of science and softened his heart, this worthy descendant of Abraham felt that the Talmudic faith in him was wavering. Every day, deep and constant reflections separated him more and more from the Talmud. In vain did the most insurmountable ties bind him: an old father, an old mother, a young family and kinship, brilliant successes in rabbinical science and a magnificent future, so tempting for a Jew, smiling at him and overshadowing him from the steps of the synagogue; he renounced everything and declared himself a Christian. But as soon as this happened, at the same time betrayal found a place at his home: his loved ones cursed him; abusive relationship the furious fanatics who poured out their anger on him would have led another to despair, but he was supported by his conscience and firmness in the new (Christian) faith. Meanwhile the most sensitive blow was to strike his parental feelings; him three small children were kidnapped; and this blow was dealt to him by his mother herself abducted. The Jews, secretly forewarned, converged on this daring enterprise and carried out the abduction with such unanimous consent and precision that even the most active searches of the authorities did not reveal any trace.

The same Drach conveys to us the following fact in his essay. One Jewish a child, playing with Christian children, one day entered a church, and from then on, despite the threats of his parents, continued to go there, as if in these the visits had a certain charm for him. This behavior was so annoying his mother, that she decided to secretly kill him, for fear that the matter would not end conversion to Christianity. She fulfilled her terrible intention by obeying the law Talmud, which commands: “If you see that your child is disposed towards Christians, kill him.” According to the teachings of the Talmud, one must always take care of exterminating one’s ill-wishers and people with Epicurean tendencies who undermine the welfare of the Jews and turn them away from the ways of God1 . These the instructions are not in vain for the Jews and are brilliantly justified by a number of actual incidents, constantly reported in literature and journalism, and often remain without any refutation, probably for the impossibility, due to the reliability of the facts, of proving the contrary.

Chapter 12

Notes of the Jew Bogrov about the killing of his son by a father

The notes of the Jew Bogrov provide the following fact. About 20 years ago in In one city lying near the Dnieper, there lived a rich Jew, a fanatic and an ardent Hasid. His only beloved son, a young man who showed great promise become a learned rabbi and a great Hasid, met by chance with non-believers and began to adopt from them the external signs of formation. Little by little, his courage finally increased to the point that instead of shoes he began to wear lubricated caldrons. boots, threw off his sable hat and put on a cap, bought suspenders and a tie, stopped shave your head and trim your sidelocks symmetrically. The unfortunate father suffered and was tormented for a long time. Finally, when I was convinced that neither severity nor affection could reverse his lost son on the path of truth, he convened a secret council - a rabbinical court. They tried and judged and finally decided: a rebel son, a freethinker, an apostate of the faith and a heretic put to death. 1 Tract.

"Berakhot", l. 58, ch. 1.

My father hired Jewish killers. Under the pretext of a walk, they lured the convict ride along the Dnieper, were taken far from the shore and inhumanly drowned, claiming consequence that the boat accidentally capsized and they themselves barely managed to escape by swimming.

Chapter 13

The case of the Shapiras, sentenced to hard labor work for the death of a baptized Jew

The case is in the St. Petersburg Senate Archives under No. 266, on 931 pages. In 1855, on May 10, the case of Shapira - Zus was considered in the St. Petersburg Senate Alperovich and David; both Jews were sentenced to hard labor and punished spitsruten for the killing of a baptized Jew. Shapira Zus and David, owners of a rich Jewish printing house in Slavuta, Volyn province. One of typesetters of this printing house was baptized, and after the baptism, through negligence, he came to his associates in the printing house in order to collect a debt from some. Jews They captured a baptized person and tortured him in order to force him to renounce Christianity. The admonished person was locked in the basement for several days. Having found some paper and coal Having written two notes, the prisoner threw one through the window hole into the street, and the other I kept it with me. A few days later he died from torture. The Jews brought the body he was taken to the printing house and hanged, and let the police know that the baptized person had come to printing house and, repenting, hanged himself. During inspection, a note was found in his pocket. the deceased, and from this note the police were able to discover the crime. Owners Shapira's printers were arrested and convicted. When David was being driven through the line, the hat of the man being punished fell from his head, and out of piety he did not go without it, so the soldiers were forced to carry it. From St. Petersburg both were sent to Siberia, but in Moscow they were left in Zaryadye, allegedly due to poor health and impossibility of traveling to Siberia. The Jews themselves admit that it cost them a lot money to keep Shapira in Zaryadye. The Jew Zus died in Moscow and was buried on Jewish cemetery, where fellow believers go to worship him even from distant cities of Russia, considering him a martyr for the faith. During their lifetime, many Jews came, asking for their blessings - besides, they were engaged in predictions and so on. David, on the occasion of the manifesto, was released to his homeland.

Chapter 14

About the murder of a baptized Jewish woman

In Cherkassy, in early January 1876, the corpse of a young man was pulled out of the Dnieper girls sewn into a bag. The forensic investigator and The police officer, having examined the corpse, was convinced that the deceased was a Jew, a girl of about 16 years old. Judging by the numerous wounds that littered the heads of the deceased, the absence of one ear and tongue, it was explained that before she was immersed in water, she was killed. Having drawn up the protocol, the judicial investigator immediately gave orders to the warden about committing the body to the earth, without telling only by what rite. Listen supervisor of the investigator - the case would have sunk into archival eternity. But the warden didn't listened to the investigator and left the corpse unburied until the matter was clarified. Cherkassy Jews began to besiege the warden at every step, either with requests or threats so that he would comply with the investigator's demands. A week goes by another - the warden does not give up; finally, word spreads throughout the city that a young Jewish woman fled from the village of O., located 66 miles from the city of Cherkassy, along with her groom to the village S, to the priest, so that he, having baptized her, would marry her Christian groom. This Jewish woman fell into the hands of the Jews, who, having killed her, abandoned her unfortunate woman into the river. The Jews realized that the matter had been clarified, that the police had only present the corpse to those who knew the murdered woman - and arrests will begin. The next day, as a result rumors that clarified the identity of the Jewish woman, the local police department received from council of the local hospital a threatening paper in the following sense: taking into account that the corpse lies for more than two weeks and, having decomposed, fills a building outside the city with a stench, and can develop an infection and threaten public health; and bearing in mind that even the governor himself prohibits keeping in hospital buildings dead, and that, finally, such sad actions expose arbitrariness and inaction police, - the hospital council asks the police department immediately dead body hand over to the earth. Council, caring for the health of the people, which is in danger of decaying the corpse of a murdered woman could ask for the corpse to be transferred outside the city, to the cemetery chapel, and not at all seek a burial that would help conceal the crime. Despite such paper, however, the warden not only did not waver in his firmness, but came out against this paper with an answer, referring to the frost, which, keeping the corpse in a numb state, did not allow it not only to decompose, but even change the color of the dead woman’s body to some extent. Following this, the assistant bailiff, Mr. Roshkovsky, recently discovered that in July last year a 15-year-old the daughter of a Jew, a tenant of one of the local estates, having converted to Christianity, lived with his father's godfather, a wealthy peasant - Prodaivody. Jews under different They began to visit this peasant with excuses, but he always kicked them out of the yard. Finally, in the fall, some Jewish women came to him to supposedly buy chickens and, having seen the crossroads, managed to say a few words to her, as one might think, very tempting, because this last one disappeared in the evening of the same day and ended up with the Jews, who, as was heard and has already been discovered by the investigation, they brought her to the river. Ripping it off peasant clothes and a cross and throwing her into the water, they dressed her in Jewish clothes and betrayed her torment. She was taken from one village to another to the Jews and tortured in each house. Finally they brought her to the house of the Jew Bondarenko, where she remained for a long time; then to Several fellow believers came to Bondarenko; they took the cross and, cutting off ears, tongue, chopped up, taken 40 miles to Cherkassy and thrown into the water. Jewish Bondarenkova, during interrogation by the investigator, testified that several people came to visit her a man of Jews was taken from the neighborhood for unknown reasons and taken away; who were her guests? She doesn’t know, nor does she know why or where the girl was taken. Investigator, seeing Bondarenkova’s obvious concealment of her guests and her own obvious participation in tortured by the cross, put her in prison. It is heard that Mr. Roshkovsky has already managed to find the sleigh on which guests came to Bondarenkova and on which the dead woman was taken to the river. You can also hear that the last minutes of his the unfortunate woman spent her martyrdom under the merciless hands of her brothers and loved ones Rodney. The father, grandfather, and brothers of the deceased have already been convicted of a crime and sent to prison. The Christian population of Cherkassy, recognizing the unfortunate martyr, the victim for the sake of faith, they put together a decent coffin for her, dressed her, adorned her with flowers, accompanied by the city clergy, he was carried out of the police station into the cathedral. In the morning, during the then fair, the townspeople with urban and rural by the clergy who arrived to provide the last honor to the martyr who suffered for faith, they took her to the cemetery. The martyr's coffin was carried on their shoulders by the most the most respectable representatives of the city, and the coffin lid, decorated with flowers, despite the snowstorm was carried by girls belonging to the highest city society. More than 15 priests and choristers walked in front of the coffin; the coffin was surrounded by banners from all the city churches, and more than 4 thousand people followed the coffin.

Chapter 15

The murder of two baptized Jewish women

In 1879, in the month of September in the Kovno province of Shavelsky district, in In the town of Radzivilishki, one Jewish girl was baptized, her relatives grabbed her, took her into the forest and killed her in the most terrible way in the forest. This crime was discovered, and the Jews were all arrested and sentenced to hard labor. The deceased was solemnly buried. The Jews at the grave of the deceased, out of anger and revenge, produced all sorts of desecrations that are indecent to talk about in print.

A correspondent from Lublin reported to the newspaper “Golos” in 1880 that there was a in the local village of Leshkovitsy, in the Venre River, the corpse of a drowned woman was found, a young the women appear to be Jewish. Her hands are tied behind her with a rope around her neck. obvious signs of violence were found. Obviously, a crime was committed outrageous property; during a search of the drowned woman, documents were found on her, from which clearly shows the name and surname of this unfortunate victim. She's a married woman recently married a Christian and before the wedding changed her the old Jewish religion to Lutheran. The Jews guarded her for a long time and then completed their good deed according to the Talmud.

If you collect such facts, then from newspaper reports alone you could would compose a whole book. But what good is that, since the Jews will not change to the best, for they follow their Talmud. Our authorities need to pay attention and burn all the foreign Talmuds, and whoever would have found one after that, then evict him to the Arkhangelsk province, subjecting him to strict police supervision, so that such a Jewish Talmudist did not apply Talmudic teaching to people, but only to polar bears. In this way, Jews can be made less harmful to the state and Christianity.

Rothschild conflagration

About the fire in the Black Town of Rothschild oil barns

The first barn that caught fire was 100 fathoms from a row of houses, densely populated by workers and minor employees of oil industry firms. Moment horrible! Everything around is on fire; fiery lava flows along Police Lane, flooding the highway, cutting off the retreat along it to the Shibaev plant; against the lane and at the Chaknaverov plant, a pipe burst due to strong heating (somewhere further); fuel oil or oil gushes out like a fountain, watering both the area and the crowd looking for a way out; near the village of Useypa Lava also flows; everything is burning; everywhere from the flames the soul-tearing screams of those burning; complete panic; lava near the village of Useipa threatens the gates of the Rothschild kerosene plant; to her they block the road, hastily making a rampart of sand; the crowd, jumping out of various courtyards, is rushing, maddened, along the highway limited by fire, looking for a way out; the only way out is the courtyard of the Rothschild chemical plant; the crowd is heading to the gate to get through the factory yard to the seashore, but the iron gate is locked... What they say it was here! It made my hair stand on end! No pleas, no crying, no threats touch the heart of the Rothschild guard. “Order not to let in!” The crowd is eager through the fence, 4 arshins high, but what can be done here? Somehow transplanted an old woman holding Mr. Karneev’s two children in her lap. Only when there are already several the brave men were thrown over the fence, the gates were opened by force, and the remnants of the crowd disappeared into the yard. Another part, even earlier, randomly rushed through the flames and ran out to the Shibaevsky plant. This moment caused many victims. Who forbade entry into the gate? From whose lips could this criminal thing come? order? Is it possible to establish this moment with investigative precision? The orders all came from the city by telephone. And this is what they say about this case: “On The younger Feigl was in the plant at the time of the fire. They report to him that people are burning and They're breaking through the gates, there's flames all around, there's nowhere to escape, what to do? The younger Feigl phone asks senior Feigl: people are burning, breaking into the gates of the chemical factory, what to do? - “Don’t let me in!” Yes! "Don't let me in!" Messrs. Feigl and Sr. junior, had to decide whether to endanger Rothschild's property or to give salvation to the crowd that was threatened with the fate of a living torch. "Don't let me in!" - that's answer.

The desire to save fuel oil should also pale in comparison to this. You can still be there “maybe,” it was to think that the danger to the village was distant or unlikely; Here It's not even there. What these two things have in common is savings. There are no people there it was to dig in ditches and fill up the village with ramparts; people went at a high price; here - a running hot torch could threaten Rothschild's property. People are nothing cost or very cheap. You, however, already read people’s stories in the local newspaper “Caspian” price. A child is valued, for example, at 60-80 rubles. Two burned - get 120 or about this rubles and get lost. Adults are slightly more expensive. The wife burned out - 200-300 rubles, the husband - a little more expensive.

Machine Translated by Google

Please tell me whether it is worth fencing all sorts of barns and putting them in danger Rothschild property, if everything is so inexpensive? There may or may not be a fire... And you don’t always have to pay for all those who burned!

The committee, which made known the extent of the disaster, finished its work, and The work of the committee to bring the number of victims to light is far from satisfactory society, and especially the Baku one, which is more closely acquainted with the catastrophe - a society among which they persistently say that in nine coffins there were at least 50 people.

Let's return again to the facts about the persecution of Jews who want to be baptized. In 1899, in Krakow, Mrs. Jakob, who had converted to Christianity, was attack by Jewish fanatics led by her brother. Mrs. Jacob was seized and carried away to room adjacent to the store where she made purchases, but further torture the police interfered.

About the killing of those wishing to convert to Christianity by Jews without much difficulty, collect thousands of pieces of evidence from official sources alone information, but this is not seen as necessary, because everyone is generally happy Jewish fanaticism is known, and even that every prudent Jewish Talmudist will not contradict and reject this well-known truth.

All these facts in which hatred is manifested with such inhumanity Jews to their fellow tribesmen and fellow believers who are converting to Christianity, it is impossible more understandable and, perhaps, natural, because they are based on a religious theoretical foundation, which lies in the teachings of the Talmud. Yes, infallible Maimonides states in his treatise on murder that when an Israelite kills a Jewish convert, the Jewish court cannot condemn him. Law on murder affects only the one who rebels against his neighbor, and a Jew who converts to Christianity is not his neighbor. It would be unnecessary to prove that an Israeli cannot be condemned for killing a goyim, a non-Jew. ““Noahide”

- that is, a simple person living according to the commandments of Noah, alien according to origin to Abraham - if he kills another Noahide and becomes Jewish proselyte before this act, is also not subject to any punishment, but if he killed an Israelite and converted to Judaism only after that, he must die, especially if he was a Christian; it must be so because the Jews were commanded to look upon Christians as beasts and treat them as unclean animals. If an Israelite unwittingly killed a settled proselyte or slave (who converted to Jewry), then he must be exiled. Also, if settled a proselyte accidentally kills another established proselyte or slave, then he is condemned to link; if a settled proselyte accidentally killed an Israelite, then at least did it without intention, is condemned to death." 1 Gilchot

Rezeah, 5.15. “If an Israelite killed a proselyte who had settled in, the great council would not condemns him to death, for it is said: “Whoever does evil to his neighbor”1 .

The Talmud decreed the death penalty for those who fell away from the Jewish faith. “It is not permissible for a Noahide - who became a proselyte, was circumcised and immersed - to again distance himself from the Lord and remain as before as an established proselyte; He must be in all respects a true Israelite; otherwise it kill"[2]

In the event of war with the goyim, the Talmud commands: “The Israelites must put up with pagans on two conditions: 1) that the goyim become quitrents and tributaries of the Jews;

2) and that after renouncing idolatry they would accept the seven commandments of Noah." Further The Talmud continues: "If the goyim do not accept peace or the seven commandments, then it is necessary continue the war with them and kill all adult men, take away all their money and children, but do not kill either children or women, for it is said: "...except for wives and children"[3]. Also and our teacher Rabbi Moses commanded us to force everyone from all over the world to accept seven Noahic commandments, and kill those who do not accept them"[4].

Modern Jews quite apply to the teachings of the Talmud "Avoide-Zura", where we are talking about the murder of Christians, a comment by Toysfes, which softens this law Talmud, as we have already explained above, in the sense that "you should not kill Christians - It's better to let them pay us tribute and serve us." With this Talmudic commentary in sufficiently explains the desire for unscrupulous exploitation Christian population, which is rightly accused of being Jews. But in vain we would consider these aspirations to belong only to today's Jews: the exploitation of Christians is a historical and most characteristic feature of Jewry living according to the laws of the Talmud. 1 Ibid. 2 "Gilchot Melachim", fol. 10, ch. 3. 3 Deut. 20.14; "Gilchot Melachim",
l. 10, ch. 9. 4
"Gilchot Melachim", 84.

Chapter 16

History of the Tatar yoke and barbarism of the Jews

The history of the Tatar yoke shows us that the main merchant of Russians slaves was Srul Nachman, the most good-natured creature in the world - Warsaw Jew.

This man was always in rags, impossibly dirty, always tipsy and constantly immersed in prayer. He bought only Russian slaves; when the Tatars made raids on the Russian principalities, then they recruited slaves directly for Srul, firstly, because he lent them out for incredible interest with all sorts of rubbish and mostly Greek wine, which he got from somewhere at an unheard of price cheap price, and secondly, because from trading in Russian slaves he made himself a special, very profitable trade for profit. Here is a detailed story about him operations. One morning Srul got up very early as usual and splashed himself water to perform the ritual of ablution, although, in essence, I never washed myself, I swung for an hour and a half in my crappy headquarters, chanting prayers and at the same time vigilantly looking to see if all his slaves were present, and considering whether it would be possible today make some particularly successful transaction. Then, wrapped in old and also a crappy cap, thrown over some kind of crappy caftan, and shod in leather shoes, he went out to his goods.

This product presented a very sad picture. Slaves were more partly a man, because Srul found women, especially young ones, very profitable to sell to neighboring Cheremis, Bulgarians or Khazars as wives or just as workers, then what was left and what was better and fresher, he sent to Samarkand. He only had men left, and then only strong men who could make hikes almost without rest with unimaginably bad food from Ryazan or Yaroslavl to the areas of present-day Taganrog, or Astrakhan, of course, on foot under the blows of the Tatar whip. Food was given whatever was available, that is, simply carrion. Srul locked the slaves at night in wooden blocks, i.e. sawn logs in which round holes were made, large enough to insert legs above the feet. 10 people were locked in each log,

Machine Translated by Google

15 each, and then they were allowed to sit, sleep in the open air, in the rain, on bare ground, in mud. From exhaustion on the road, from hunger, cold and whips, not a single overnight stays were not complete without deaths between slaves. In addition, others, seeing a terrible future and wanting to avoid being sold into eternal slavery, willingly decided to commit suicide - with the only consolation that their bones were at least will remain in their native Russian land. The slaves had no clothes, at least strong, because the Tatars took off all their good clothes on the road and drank them the same Horde, among the same Jews: Sruley, Yankele, Shmuley... so the outfit of slaves consisted of rags, scraps of matting and everything that could be picked up on the Horde street, tied in knots and put on oneself. The food was also not luxurious. The Jew sent in batches they begged for alms and picked up all sorts of scraps that were lying around abundance near the headquarters of the Tatars, merchants and foreigners, near the Khan's cookery, - and finally he bought (and mostly traded for various rubbish) sick cattle. In addition, he accepted various contracts for the Horde nobility, hiring for visitors to build, dig, sew, carry heavy loads, which cost him a lot cheap, since he didn't pay anyone a salary. Srul also had nothing at his headquarters except a pile of reeds, a few dirty felts and four huge barrels Greek wine Under one of them, money buried in the ground was kept.

Every morning, the caring Srul, getting up early, ran to check slaves and inquire if everything is safe and how many are sick and dead. Once it seemed to Srul that these faces were even plumper because yesterday he treated him to a whole half of a camel bought from a flayer. Camel meat like it is known that it is not extremely soft, especially carrion, but the captives ate he was praised and thanked by the owner with such pleasure and was so praised that Srul imagined himself as their generous benefactor.

Chapter 17

About the crucifixion by the Jews on the cross of St. Eustratia

After the Tatar invasion of Russia, Bonyak and the Polovtsians attacked Kyiv, ruining city and, having plundered the Pechersk Monastery, captured the monk Evstratiy with 30 monastery workers and 20 townspeople who took refuge in the monastery. These The Tatars sold all the prisoners to one Jew, a slave dealer, from a Greek city Korsun. This Jew inseparably followed the Tatar polonya and bought everyone indiscriminately prisoners. The Jews desecrated the monk Evstratiy and 50 captive Orthodox people from Kyiv to Korsun, and there they began to force them to accept the Jewish faith. faith. The monk Evstratiy strengthened his comrades in the Orthodox faith with his preaching, and the compulsion of the Jews - firmly and decisively everyone refused and denied Judaism. Then the Jews, in irritation, told the slaves that if they did not go to Jewish faith, they will be starved to death. They were locked in a barn without food or water, where With ardent exhortation and strengthening in faith by the monk Evstratiy, everyone decided to martyrdom. Within five days half died, after another five days everyone died, with the exception of one monk Eustratius, who was in the monastery accustomed to fasting and therefore could go without food for a long time. The Jews were extremely irritated with the monk Eustratius, as the culprit of everything, they felt sorry for the money given for slaves who, having not brought any benefit to the Jews, died. The time was before Easter, Holy Week, and the Jews had Easter. Jews for their amusement came up with the idea of desecrating Jesus Christ in the person of the monk Eustratius, who was taken out outside the city on the seashore, at a gathering of Jews, they nailed him to a cross and hanged him, exactly fulfilling the reproaches described as being performed on Jesus Christ. They seduced the nailed monk on the cross, offering food and drink, promising to remove from the cross, if only he converts to Judaism. Eustratius firmly reproached the Jews for their blindness and glorified Jesus Christ. Then the irritated owner, a Jew, grabbed spear, thrust it into the left side of the monk on the cross, and thus finished off the holy martyr Eustratia of suffering. By nightfall, the Jews took the martyr's body from the cross and threw it into the sea. Devout Christians took out and buried the body of Saint Eustratius. He was subsequently ranked to the face of the holy martyrs, and his body currently rests in the Kyiv caves. The Orthodox Church celebrates his memory on March 28.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 18

About Jewish barbarism during the Russian-Turkish war

Talmudic Jews do not miss a single instance of causing any harm, insults and death, albeit slow, to Christians. This can be confirmed undeniably all those living among the Jews in areas where the “chosen people” are in the majority. There is no need to look far for examples: just remember poor "pogotsev", Russian peasants hired by Jewish intermediaries for work to supply the Russian army in the Russian-Turkish war. How many of these unfortunate died thanks to the inhumanity of the Jews. The sad epic of these unfortunate people arouses sympathy for them and stirs up talk in society. In the first month the Jewish brokers did not pay them anything because they arrived without luggage in Bucharest, where the chief agent was located; they just started getting paid from Bucharest. In addition to the fact that their horses died without food, they were often robbed when they were grazing horses at night. There were Cossacks with the transport, but they only guarded the echelon Jews who had travel money and everything necessary. The echelon Jews wore an officer's uniform, a saber and, most importantly, a whip, with which they mercilessly beat the Russian epaulettes in case of any misunderstanding. The Jew values dearly every opportunity that gives him the opportunity to enjoy double pleasure: to fill your pocket with gold and to abuse a Christian. In outrage, he takes on the role of executioner and torturer; at the same time destroys and destroys its victim not immediately, but slowly, gradually, finding the greatest pleasure in the agonizing torment, groans and suffering of the tortured; like a worm, gradually eating away at the root, it reaches the heart and overturns the unfortunate prey. These are slow and gradual erosions of everything Russian peace-loving and The Jews are reproducing the gullible people throughout vast Russia. All the newspapers were filled with eyewitness stories about the “exploits” of the Warsaw, Mankovskys, Grombachs and all other monster brokers who mercilessly robbed, ruined and killed more than one thousand unfortunate Russian chasers. Difficult to find words are strong enough to express the disgust that this gang has managed to to instill in oneself, everywhere in the army. About these opponents of Christianity and their agents they wrote a lot, but apparently it was not easy to understand them, and they remained faithful to the end to his Talmud. Eyewitness correspondents wrote in many newspapers about the “exploits” of our Talmudic heroes. The epaulettes, following the army, crossed the Balkans and They rode their exhausted horses to San Stefano. The misfortunes of these ragged, hungry, exhausted poor people were so great that they saw with delight and were waiting for their contracts to expire and to receive payment from the local Jewish agents to whom, due to misfortune and inexperience, they sold themselves. By Upon arrival, the agents announced to them that the messengers should go back for payment from San Stefano to Bucharest, for travel where they, out of mercy, agree to pay advance payment of three credit rubles. After this “generosity” it is easy to imagine the whole the horror and hopelessness of the plight of the chasers, who considered one thing a joy

Machine Translated by Google

the opportunity to get rid of the damned bondage and, although penniless, to quickly get to by steamship to Odessa and homeland. But it seemed to the Jews that they had not yet had enough fun over poor people: Jewish agents, in order to get rid of the epaulettes as quickly as possible, not only assured that they have the right to free rail travel to Rushchuk, but also They were given supposedly free tickets for this purpose. To the authorities of the Romanian railway there were a lot of unfortunate people on the road with such tickets signed by various agents. These notorious tickets were nothing more than simple pieces of white paper in a small letter with a laconic inscription: “Ticket for free travel to Bucharest; issued from the office to such and such a messenger No. Then signature and stamp in blue paint in huge letters “free”. About what kind of travel and where - it is prudent was kept silent. One can judge the disappointment of an illiterate peasant when the military commandant of the station proved to him as convincingly as possible that such a piece of paper has absolutely no meaning, and travel requires buy a ticket at the road fare, and at the same time in gold. 3rd class ticket from San Stefano before Yamboli it cost more than 10 rubles. gold. Seeing themselves deceived, the poor found themselves in a desperate, hopeless situation; they cried and moaned. It seemed to help such for the mass of people it was not only difficult, but also impossible. Still generous the commandant did not abandon the unfortunates: after persistent efforts, he managed to persuade railway authorities in favor of the epaulettes, and these sufferers were transported to Yamboli. Eyewitnesses say that many dead drivers, who died of exhaustion, were taken out of the carriages returning from San Stefano! Jewish brokers made huge money from this tragedy. Familiar the officer said that he witnessed such a picture when, sent from the army to Odessa, went to the office of a state bank, to the deposit department. Almost At the same time, some Jew came to the receptionist, apparently a regular bank, with a deposit of several thousand rubles in the name of a certain Dora Grombach (surname one of the small contractors for epaulettes). “Money for the drivers?” - asks with the receptionist smiled. “Yes,” answers the Jew. “Here,” the official turned to the officer, “Grombakh took a small contract, and as soon as he secured the carts, already the second hundred thousand reports." - “Well, when is it possible! - the Jew said cheekily. - God willing, war If it lasts (!!!) - we’ll put in a hundred more.”

SECTION 2. DOGMATIC

TREATISE I ON PARADISE AND ANGELS

Chapter 1 Two paradises - earthly and heavenly

The ardent imagination of the rabbis gave itself wide rein in the recognition of two paradises, heavenly and earthly. The earthly paradise is a transitional step to the heavenly one, and it is necessary so that souls, after separation from the body, can get used to it somewhat the indescribable light that awaits them in heavenly paradise and which they preliminary preparation for it in the earthly could not be endured.

The Talmudists' idea of heaven is interesting. According to Rabbi Judah, there are two heavens, and according to Rabbi Resh-Lakish, there are seven heavens: the first heaven, closest to us, like a curtain, appears in the morning and departs in the evening, renewing itself daily creation; in the second heaven the sun, moon, stars and constellations are established; on the third there are millstones that grind manna for the righteous; on the fourth - are Jerusalem, temple and altar, near which stands the Archangel Michael, offering victim; on the fifth - the ranks of ministering angels, who sing a song at night and remain silent during the day; on the sixth - there are storage facilities for snow and hail, a room for dew and other atmospheric phenomena; finally on

In the seventh heaven there is righteousness, judgment, alms, the treasury of life, peace, blessings, the souls of the righteous, the souls of those who are born, and also the dew by which The saint will subsequently revive the dead .

Above the seven heavens stand the sacred animals holding the throne of glory, on in which the ever-living God sits . Eden, where the first people lived before the Fall (in Hebrew it means "pleasure"). The Book of Genesis, without referring to the country, says that the earthly paradise was watered river, which then branched into four others, two of which were called Tigris and Euphrates. But the commentators of the Torah, each based on some evidence, some on the ground, others on a misinterpretation of the Jewish text, decisively do not agree among themselves regarding the location of earthly paradise. Main the Jewish commentator Rabbi Rashi, also called Rabbi Shelamo Yitzchaki, the main authority in the Talmud, invented a font without signs, that is, without vowels. This a new font exists called Rashi. This font is written on parchment The Pentateuch “Seifer Teire”, holiday scrolls “Megillah”, “Mezuze”, “tefillin” and so on, the book of Medrash and others. Some say heaven is on the other side hot zone and was separated from people by a wall of fire; others place earthly paradise under the equator and the moon; then they assign him a place in the vicinity of Damascus in Palestine, near sources of Jordan; then in Armenia, since the Tigris and Euphrates, Rioni and Arake; they say that paradise was on the shores of the Caspian Sea, on the island of Ceylon, or on the coast of the Baltic Sea, or in Sweden, or in the polar countries.

As for heavenly paradise, as the abode of angels and righteous souls, then The Talmud gives it the most material features. 1 Hagiga, l. 12, Art. 2. 2 Ibid., l. 13, Art. 1.

Thus, paradise, according to the Talmud, is filled with the most beautiful fragrances; this is clear from the fact that when Elijah sprinkled the cloak of one rabbi with leaves from the trees of paradise, he such a pleasant smell was reported that the rabbi managed to sell it for 150 talers . The Talmud describes the Jewish paradise most fantastically: “In the Garden of Eden, the length and width of which has no end or limit, two gates made of jasper, emerald and others expensive stones, and six hundred thousand angels, shining with heavenly radiance, stand on these wonderful gate. In the middle of the garden is the tree of life, whose lovely branches are spread out from one end of the garden to the other, and five hundred thousand different tastes and smells it has wonderful tree. Canopies and crowns of jasper, emerald and gold throughout the garden, and between canopies - partitions of brilliant clouds and lightning, and behind each three hundred and ten wonderful and beautiful boundless worlds. Whole rivers of honey, wine and beautiful oil and springs of rose water, emitting a wonderful fragrance, sparkle and flow between trees, and in each corner of the garden there are eight hundred thousand fragrant trees and six hundred thousands of angels singing in the most tender and sweet voices. And the sun is in its seven increased light does not cease to shine for a minute, and its golden rays, meeting and refracting in the jasper, emeralds and sapphires filling the garden, intensify their shine - and this whole place is filled with a great and wonderful light... And above the tree of life transparent and shiny clouds rise... They encircle the garden from all sides - and fragrances flow and fill the whole world with fragrance from end to end, etc.”

Chapter 2

Treating the righteous in Paradise with the meat of the Leviathan fish

After the coming of the Messiah, the righteous will be treated to food in the kingdom of heaven. salted fish meat of the female Leviathan, then the meat of the huge bull Bohemoth, who eats hay from a thousand mountains in one day . 1 Ibid., l. 15, art. 1.

Tract. Erubim, l. 16, art. 1. 2 Treatise of Bowa Mecius, l. 144, art. 2.

The third course is prepared from the meat of very tasty and fatty birds magnitudes, one egg of which, when it fell with its yolk, drowned sixty villages The fourth dish is very fat geese.' Drink heavenly - excellent old wine preserved by God from the sixth day of the creation of the world2 . Of course Of course, paradise with all these delights is the lot of the righteous alone, that is, the Jews; all other nations, like atheists, will go to hell3 . Subsequently, things alien to the Talmud began to penetrate into Jewish literature. opinions on the reward of the righteous beyond the grave. “In the Hereafter there is neither food nor drinking, no marriage, no trade, no hatred, no quarrel, but righteous they will sit with crowns on their heads and enjoy the light coming from God." [4]

To be close to God, to see Him - this is the whole reward of the righteous, this is everything that the pious Pharisee sought! About the relationship of body to soul in this case is completely silent. The confidence with which the Pharisees preached the existence retribution and generally another life beyond the grave, only caused the Sadducees to smile regrets. The Sadducees used to say: “The Pharisees are tormented in this world and no no reward awaits them in the Hereafter!”5 The words “this light” and “hereafter” must be here understood as expressions borrowed by the Sadducees from the Pharisees, for, as we know, for the Sadducees there was only one light, and not two. The Jews have faith retribution beyond the grave had not yet completely taken hold of minds even in the third century after Christ. One teacher, Rabbi Yehuda, tells us the following story from the words of Rabba6 . When Moses was on Mount Sinai, God told him that in the future someone would be born named after Rabbi Akiba, who hangs whole letters on each line of letters (Holy Scripture) mountains of laws (religious). 1

Treatise Bova-batra, l. 74, art. 2. 2 Ibid., l. 73, art. 2. 3 Treatise Sanhedrin, l. 99, Art. 1. 4 Tractate Berakhot, l. 17-1. 5 Abot Dr. Nathan b, IX, 3-1. 6 Manakhot, l. 29, p. 2.

Then Moses exclaimed: “You have such a man, and You want through me give the Torah? - “Be quiet! - Jehovah exclaimed, “this is My will!” "What a reward have you prepared for him? - asked Moses. “Look,” Adinoy answered him. And Moses I saw Rabbi Akiba being flayed alive. (Rabbi Akibe for rebellion and rebellion the Romans flayed the living man in 135 AD) “Lord of the world!

- Moses exclaimed, - such is the reward for devotion to the Torah! (literal translation: here is the Torah and here is its reward).” “Be silent,” answered Adinoi, “this is my will!” But here is another no less typical example1 . Moses turns with the following question: “Why does one righteous person live happily, while another does not? One wicked man lives happily, another does not? Adinoi allegedly answered Moses like this: “The righteous lives happily if he is the son of the righteous; it's unfortunate if he's a son unrighteous; the wicked lives happily if he is the son of the righteous; It’s unfortunate if he is the son of an unrighteous person.” This solution was found unsatisfactory, because in this In this case, a person’s personal merits cease to play the role of merit. We worked and found another answer. “Thus said Jehovah to Moses: Happy is the righteous if he is in everything relationship can be called as such, unhappy if he is in all respects may be called as such; the wicked is happy if he is not, so to speak, spoiled to the point of marrow, and unhappy otherwise" [2] .

Machine Translated by Google

The Talmud says the following: “All the predictions of the prophets relate to the time of the Messiah - as for the future life, no one except God saw it . ”3 Commentator Rashi notes: “No prophet saw this.” What, therefore, will happen to us when we give our soul to God, no one knows. 1 Tract. Berakhot, l. 7, art. 1. 2 Ibid., l. 7, p. 2. 3 Tract. Shabbes, l. 63, page 1.

The Jewish name for Paradise is Gan-Eden, a biblical word meaning "garden" Edenian." Even in a later period, the idea of an earthly paradise still existed: precisely such a view is found in the Talmudic haggadah regarding this point. This saying reads: “Resh Lakish said: if Gan-Eden is in the earth Israelite, then the city of Beth Sheon is the door to it; if he is in Arabia, then Beth-Goram there is a door to it; if he is in Mesopotamia (i.e. in Mesopotamia), then Dor-masconite there is a door to it" [1] . What is being said here not about the primeval, but the afterlife, the future? Eden, is obvious from the content of the entire passage, of which this saying constitutes part: in this passage we are talking about Gehenna and its seven names or branches, in general - about the future life. But we must assume that already during the time of the Talmudists there was opinion about the heavenly place of paradise. Later Talmudists, especially Kabbalists, for reconciliation of opposing opinions allowed the existence of two Edens, the upper - heavenly, and the lower - underground. The latter is more material in its nature than the first, to which it constitutes a transitional stage2 .

According to the teachings of the Talmudic sages, God created seven things before creation world: the law of Moses, repentance, paradise, Gehenna, the throne of glory, the sanctuary and the name of the Messiah . IN in relation to Gehenna they say that its very space was created before creation world, and the fire that fills it was created on the second day of creation. Ten things were created on Saturday evening, between twilight: the opening of the earth to absorb the wicked, the hole of the well (Hagar), the mouth of the donkey (Balaam), rainbow, manna, rod (Aaron), Shomir (magic worm), writing, art of writing and tablets (Moses). Other rabbis add that at this time something else was created: the tomb of Moses, evil spirits, the ram of Abraham4 . 1 Erubin, l.

19. 2 The same opinion is found even later in Luzzato; “Maamar ha-ikum”, § 5, also “Shevet Mussor” 11, l. 12. 3 Pesachim, l. 54, p. 1. 4 Pirke Abot 5, 6, Wed. Pesachim, l. 54, p. 2.

According to the rabbi, Adam was created with two faces, and under the rib - of course, one of his faces, namely: the back face, from which Eve was created; and in the opinion Rabbi Samuel, Adam had a tail, from which Eve was created1

But even in this case the masses have their own strong, independent opinion. WITH Since time immemorial, she has known only one paradise, one Eden - in heaven, near God. In general, the mass centralizes all afterlife institutions around the person of God: both the court and hell and heaven are all in heaven and in the heavenly department. Despite the fact that the Jewish masses place paradise in heaven, their ideas about In heaven they generally have a very obvious earthly character. But here, first of all, it is necessary

Machine Translated by Google

notice one feature that concerns, however, not so much the content itself ideas about paradise, how much degree of their development and comparative intensity in mass. The fact is that ideas about life in paradise are much less developed among the masses than ideas about life in Gehenna. This is partly explained by the psychological the fact that pictures of the terrible, painful tend to be more strongly imprinted in people's minds than pictures of quiet happiness and bliss - especially in this case where the torment of Gehenna appears to be grossly physical (burning, scourging and etc.), while heavenly pleasures, as such, cannot be imagined grossly material, cannot, for example, consist of voluptuousness or gluttony. In general, of the two arguments used to instill religiosity in the masses - the fear of hellish torment and the promise of heavenly bliss - the first argument is stronger affects the masses: people would rather do something to avoid terrible suffering than to achieve great pleasures. Fear is always powerful. WITH on the other hand, moralizing popular literature, keeping this in mind psychological fact, is much more concerned with imagining hellish horrors than heavenly hopes: she knows that through intimidation she will sooner achieve her goal than via mitigation.[1] Finally, Jews in general are distinguished by their stoic character, and are therefore very bad inventors of pleasure. All this explains the lesser development in the mass of “heavenly” ideas, in comparison with “hellish ones”. But besides insufficient development in the ideas of the masses about paradise is still relatively large confusion caused by the fact that ideas about posthumous bliss are often mixed with ideas about bliss and the “feast” that will follow resurrection of the dead or in messianic times. Highlighting the latest submissions from first, we end up with a rather meager register of popular beliefs regarding actual posthumous paradise.

The Jewish paradise is, of course, not the Mohammedan paradise, but it is also not the sublimely abstract Maimonidean paradise. In Gan-Eden, popular belief allows great, but at the same time refined and moderate physical pleasures. Paradise, by Jewish folk concepts, this is an immensely vast vertograd, luxurious and brilliant, where magnificent fruits grow and rivers of balsam flow, where in wonderful musical sounds flow continuously in the fragrant air, in a word - where is everyone the five human senses are under intense tension from the endless pleasure. In this land of eternal light, eternal life and eternal happiness all the righteous are found. All of them are more or less close to the source itself life and light - to God; the greatest righteous people are often in His community and how would be part of His court. Although they live in paradise physically, in a pure and sublime sense of this word, nevertheless, spiritual, contemplative life prevails there: they glorify the Lord, study His laws, and the great righteous are even rewarded listen to truths and revelations from the lips of God himself. In general, in heavenly life they combine pure, sinless physical pleasures with the most sublime spiritual pleasures caused mainly by the nearness of God.

In order to better understand the spirit of popular beliefs regarding heavenly life, it is necessary to pay attention to some Talmudic teachings on this subject. tales that enjoy universal dissemination and popularity, and to a certain extent degrees regulating the people's ideas about life in Eden. Now we will be able to prove this in fact. How about everyone else aspects of the afterlife, and in particular - regarding life in paradise, Talmudic ideas are very close to the folk ones, which they are inspired by and, in in turn, regulate them. Contrary to Rav’s opinion that in the future world “there is neither food nor drink,” we find in the Talmud several tales about the “paradise feast” that God asks the righteous[1] about the “paradise dance” in the presence of God[2] ; we also find legends about crowns on the heads of the righteous[3], about canopies arranged for everyone of them[4], and much more in the same spirit. But most of all characterizes the views Talmudists for heavenly life, the popularly known aggadic legend about the “golden table" by Rabbi Hanina ben Dosa.

---

[1] Berachot, l. 61, p. 1.

Machine Translated by Google

Rabbi Hanina ben Dosa was, according to Talmudic tradition, the greatest righteous man of his time and at the same time the greatest poor man. Proclaimed daily heavenly space on behalf of God (bat-kol): “The whole world is nourished only thanks to to the merits of my son Khanina, and Khanina is content with one measure of pods in within a week." “One day,” says the Haggadah, “Rabbi Hanina’s wife turned to to her husband and said: “How long will we all be in such poverty?” "What do we do? - asks Khanina. “Yes, beg God,” the wife replies, “so that He will give you something from the goods reserved for the righteous in the next world.” Rabbi Hanina prayed for this God,” and suddenly a hand appeared and gave him one leg of the golden table. Soon he sees in a dream that all the righteous are eating in heaven on gold tables with three legs, and he himself sits and eats on a golden table with only two legs. He comes to his wife and says: “Would it be pleasant for you when everything the righteous will eat on tripod tables, and you and I will eat on the table to which Is one leg missing? Then his wife advised him to ask God to the golden leg sent was taken back to heaven. He did so, and the leg was accepted back"[1].

The other side of heavenly life is characterized by the Talmudic legend of the rabbi Eliezer ben Pedat. The latter was so poor that, having bled himself once, he could not had no food with which to fortify himself, and was forced to eat what he came across by chance gave him a garlic leaf, which made him dangerously ill and unconscious. When fellow scientists came to him to inquire about his health, they saw how he (in a dream) cried, grinned, and how a fiery spark separated from his forehead. When he follows then he woke up, they asked him why he cried, laughed and why the spark separated from him. Rabbi Eliezer replied: “I saw the Deity and said to Him: “How long will I live in this need?" - and received the answer: "My son, Eliezer, do you want me to destroy the world and then recreate it again, so that you can then again be born at a happier hour?" Then I said: "Lord of the whole world, is it really all should this be done just to make me happy? Open it up for me at least, have I lived more years than I have left to live?" "More lived,” was the answer. “In that case,” I said, “I no longer demand anything.” for the sake of my earthly happiness. But what will you give me in the next world?" - "I will give you thirty rivers of fragrant balm (aparsmon), in which you will bask and enjoy." - "And nothing else?" - I asked. - "But you need something leave it to your comrades too,” was the answer. “Lord of the world!” - I said. - Am I asking? is this from a person who can’t give much?” - Then I suddenly received a click in the forehead and heard the words: “Eliezer, you, my son, stand to be beaten!”

---

[1] Pesachim, 119.
[2] Taanit, 31.
[3] Megillah, 15.
[4] Bababatra, 75.

[1] Taanit, 24.

Machine Translated by Google

Even more characteristic and definite is the aggadic legend of Rabba-bar-Abuga. Rabba I once found Elijah the prophet standing in a pagan cemetery. After talking with him, Rabba told him that due to poverty he was not able to engage in teaching the way he would like it. "Then Elijah led him, put him in Gan-Eden (paradise) and said: "Take off your cloak and put into it as much as you like from the fruits that they lie here." Rabba picked up a cloak full of fruit. Coming out of paradise, he heard a voice: "Who was in such a hurry to eat his share (of heaven) on earth, like Rabba-bar-Abuga!" Hearing this, he opened his cloak and shook out all the fruits from it. But still the cloak he was consumed by the smell of the fruits of paradise, and subsequently he sold this cloak for 13 thousand denarii, which he divided among his sons-in-law."[2]

Golden tables where the righteous eat, rivers of sweet balm, wonderfully fragrant heavenly fruits - what are they, if not purely folk representation? Meanwhile, the rabbis introduced all this into the Talmud, obligatory and divine law for the Jews. These tales embodied the Jewish belief that a truly righteous person usually suffers in poverty in this world. The Talmud explains this as follows: "Just as a sinner is exacted in the next world even for his lightest sin, so the righteous is exacted for all even light sins in this the world; and just as the righteous are rewarded in the future world for every good deed, even an insignificant one, so sinners are rewarded for all their good deeds affairs in this world . " 1

Ibid. 2 Tract.

Bova Metzia, l. 114. 3 Tanait, 12-13

There are many descriptions of heaven in Jewish theological literature. bliss. The description of heaven made in the above-mentioned "Treatise of Rabbi Yehoshua ben Levi" and cited for the most part parts in edifying books. By the way, this description says: "Two pearly gates lead to Gon-Edo and at each gate there are 60 million Jehovah's servant angels, shining like the splendor of heaven. And when he gets there righteous man, they take off the robe in which he is buried and clothe him with eight dresses woven from golden clouds, and two crowns were placed on his head, two of diamonds and the other of gold, and eight myrtle branches were given into his hands, and They extol him, exclaiming: "Go, go and eat your bread for joy!" Then the righteous brought into a place washed by wonderful rivers overgrown with myrtle and other trees. For everyone there is a special canopy installed, according to their dignity. And under each canopy stretches four rivers: from oil, balm, wine and honey; inside there is a pearl table on the canopy, and 60 angels serve at it, serving every righteous person. Unfortunately, all these righteous people, who have been hungry all their lives, will immediately pounce on such tasty and fatty food as Leviathan fish meat and drinking from rivers flowing with honey and milk, they will get bear disease, from which everyone the heavenly aromas will spoil and the angels will push them out of heaven. In the heavenly vertograd there is no night, countless numbers of the most luxurious trees grow, in the middle of which there is a "tree of life" of immeasurable size, under the canopy of which sit scientists and are engaged in the interpretation of the Talmud... In the depths of the heavenly helicopter city there are seven branches. In the first, most important, there are those killed in the name of faith, like Rabbi Akiba and his comrades1 . In the second - those who drowned at sea; in the third - Rabbi Jochanan ben Zakkai and his companions, the main authors of the mishna; in the fourth - people on whom a cloud descended (in the desert); in the fifth, people who have completely repented of their sins; V sixth - virgins who have never sinned; in the seventh - the poor who were engaged torah and led a God-fearing life. Jehovah Himself sits between them and explains to them the word of God, i.e. Talmud2 . 1 Talmud, tract. "Bova-batra", l. 10. 2 “Shevet-Mussar”, part II, l. 12-18.

Chapter 3

About angels and their origin

The soul of a righteous Jew enters heaven, lives there until the coming of the Messiah and appears every Saturday at the cemetery to wash. That’s why they put booths in Jewish cemeteries with fresh water. Since heaven is the home of angels and righteous, then we will look at the teaching of the Talmud about angels. The Talmud teaches that in addition to angels created in the first days of creation, God creates new ones every day for his glorification. These angels exist only for one day in which they sing praises Jehovah, and then disappear1 . They emerge from the fiery river flowing under the throne God, and they return to it. From every word that comes from the mouth of God a new angel is created2 and in general, God continues to create crowds of angels to this day. From God even once burned a great number of them with his little finger3 . Here Talmudic account of this daily birth and disappearance angels. Emperor Hadrian - may there be no rest for his bones - once asked the rabbi Joshua, son of Hanai: “Is it true that, according to your teaching, no host of angels can sing praises to God twice, but that God creates new ones for himself every day songwriters? The rabbi answered: “Yes.” Adrian asked: “Where do the angels go? end of the day? - “They go back to where they came from.” - “Where are they from? appear? - “From the river of fire.” “What kind of river is this?” - asked Adrian. "She's like The Jordan never stops flowing, day or night.” - “Where does this river come from?” -"From sweat "chaot" - those who emit this sweat" (We will see the meaning of this river further) 4

1 Tract. "Behai", ch. 7, l. 37; tr. "Pirke el.", ch. 4 etc. 2 Pesikt. rav., l. 35, art. 2. 3 Tract. Hagiga, L. 14, art. 1.
4 Tract. Hagiga, L. 14, art. 1; tr. Bereshit-Babba, l. 70, ch. 3.

Adam was created by God in the image of the angels and was so huge that he reached from one end of the world to the other, from the earth to the firmament of heaven; when he sinned, then God put his hand on him and thus belittled him . Adam, the first man, was created in such a way that Eve was given in him. ABOUT The Talmud says differently about the creation of Eve from Adam's rib. According to Rabbi Rab, Adam was created by God with two faces, and by rib we mean one of his faces, and namely: the back face, from which Eve was created; and Rabbi Samuel says that Adam had a tail from which Eve was created2

In addition, angels are created from various other elements, such as: water, wind, fire, depending on the position they are intended for. Thus, the angels used for embassies come from the winds, which is why they are fast, like a whirlwind; the angels who constantly stand before the throne of Jehovah came out of the fire, as it is said: “With His intimate servants he creates a consuming fire”; angels owning seas, came out of the water, etc. This is not enough, every word of God, every sigh air from His chest gives life to new hosts of angels, as they say: “In a word The heavens were made by Jehovah, and by the breath of His mouth were all their armies.” 1 Hagiga, l. 12, Art. 1; Sanhedrin, l. 38, art. 2. 2Tract. Berakhot, l. 61, art. 1.

Chapter 4

About the ten types of angels and their names

According to this origin, Talmudists and Kabbalists There are ten general types of angels: 1) Erelim (powerful); 2) Ishim (husbands); 3) Bene Gelogim (sons of God); 4) Tarshishim (precious stones); 5) Hash-manim (hot coals); 6) Malachim (messengers); 7) Shi ~ hire; 8) Cherub; 9) Orphanim (wheels); 10) Seraphim. Each of these ranks of angels has its own representative: Michael was made ruler over Erelim, Zephaniah over Ishim, Hothniel over Bene Gelogim, Uziel over Malachim, Tarshish over Tarshishim, Tzadkviel over Shinanim, Cherub over Cherubim, Raphael over Orphanim and Jehulus over Seraphim.

The administration of the world in all parts of the world is distributed among these angels, and moreover, in such a way that each angel has his own special occupation. Mercy and hatred, virtue and affection, fear and peace, birds and fish, winds and wild animals, medicines, the sun, moon and stars have their own special angels, and the rabbis know the names of everyone and each one especially. One part of the said angels among the ninety million is worth always before the throne of the Shekinah. That is why the prophet says that Jehovah is the king of all earth, for the word "Eretz" in Kabbalistic calculations means ninety thousand times nine thousand.

Rabbi Hiya teaches that in relation to this number of angels standing before God and Solomon made a throne with 90 thousand seats. But the most important part angels are scattered throughout the entire space of the visible world. Each individual item to the last speck of dust, each individual physical phenomenon has for itself own angel. So, the angel Jehuel was placed over the fire, and with him seven others fire stewards: Serafiel, Gabriel, Nuriel, Tammael, Shimshiel and Sarniel. Prince Michael was placed over the water, and with him were seven subordinate princes: Ranael, Ariel, Malki-el, Gabriel, Minniel, Danniel. 1 Tract. Ialkut-had. 118;

Run to the Pentatekn., l. 9, Art. 1.

Above the wind and storm - Ruhiel and with him his subordinates Ha-fanya, Uriel and Azael; There is an angel Iorkemo above the blizzard. Over fire and thunder and over maturation vegetables - Gabriel; above the city - Uriel; Ehiel rules over the wild beasts and with him are three assistants: Paziel, Gaziel, Hoviel; is the boss of the birds Anpiel and his assistants: Baaliel and Aziel. Disposes of livestock Goriel and with him: Laziel, Parviel and Gvuziel; over the reptiles - Samniel and Mepha-nagel; Daniel rules over the fish, and with him there are three princes: Aziel, Pakniel and Pakpuriel. Among plants, 2000 species have special angels1 ; but in general everything fruit trees are under the jurisdiction of Alpiel, and fruitless trees are under the jurisdiction of Saroel; The rocky, barren area is subjugated to the angel Magthuniel. Over human history, the highest overseer Saldan-fen, under whom countless other overseers sharing the supervision of various manifestations of human activity and life: for example, over relations between the sexes are observed by the angel Kafiel, one of the Seraphim; above Sandalphil-Seraphim looks at various manifestations of mercy and favor; manifestations of apprehension and fear depend on Garziel; friendship relationship - from Sanzaniel; the distribution of physical strength between people is entrusted to Azmiel, one of the Shashmanim; memory abilities - to Sarniel; healing is in charge of Yuniel, one of the aphanim2 .

There are also special angels of sleep: their number is sixty times ten thousand. Main The occupation of these angels is to control the sleep of people at night. They change by three guards of the night; where they flutter their wings, everything calms down and falls asleep[3]. 1 Tract. Pesachim, l. 118; tr. Sanhedrin, l. 95 (Rashi); Ammudecta Schibba, l. 40. 2 Tract. Hagiga and so on. book 3 Tract. Bereshit men., l. 37, etc. book

Chapter 5

About the purpose of creating angels

The Talmud also teaches about the purpose of the creation of angels: in the discussion of their creation, all rabbis agree that they were created by the end of the week precisely so that no one could think that Michael the Archangel attached the vault of heaven to the south, and Gabriel to the north. Angels were created to be servants of Jehovah and protectors of people. IN as servants of God, they are called daily by His breath from the sea of light, the waves of which pour over the thrones of the Lord. As guardian angels, they, two by two, accompany each person and for each new good deed a person acquires a new guardian angel, who forever protects each of him step. According to the teachings of the Talmud, angels accompany a person not only in this life, but also beyond outside the coffin.

When the righteous dies, he is met by three hordes of angels: the first says: “Let him come in peace,” the second horde: “Who lived righteously,” and the third concludes: “Let him come in peace and rest in his grave.” When the righteous leaves the light, then he is met by three hordes of evil angels.

According to the Talmud, every single person and every insignificant speck of dust have their own angel, as well as their own star of happiness. Area of your control every angel jealously protects against any third-party interference. So, when needed was to cool the Babylonian furnace with the three youths, Gabriel, the prince of fire, believes this cooling is his business and argues with the prince of the city, who wanted to tame the heat of the furnace rain and hail. In addition, since each item has its own special steward, then according to rabbinical rules it is impossible to mix heterogeneous objects, so as not to bring the angels in charge of these objects into conflict. The rabbis base this rule on the fact that they extend it to the last possible meaning of one place from the book of Leviticus (19-29), where it is said: “You shall not bring your livestock with another kind, do not sow your field with two kinds of seeds, in clothes of different colors don't dress in fabrics"[1].

1 Tract. Pesachim, l. 118, art. 1-2; tract. Yalkut hadash, l. 147, ch. 4; tract. Megilech atikat, l. 32, ch. 2; tract. Sanhedrin, l. 95, art. 2.

Chapter 6

Angel of Death Gamoves

Finally, there is also the angel of death, called Gamoves, to whom naive the rabbis determine the size or magnitude of its five hundred year journey on the basis that it would take an ordinary person 500 years to travel to heaven time, and the angel Gamoves, having taken the soul out of the body, transfers it at that very moment to Adina; therefore, it is as long as 500 years of road. This angel is dotted all over the body with countless eyes and holds in his hand a knife or saber, “lighta-shefer”, with which he kills people. Having cut a man's throat, he pours three green drops: one to destroy all signs of life; another to give body color yellow; the third to give the body an unpleasant odor. By killing like this in the image of a man, Gamoves washes his knife in water located or in the house deceased, or in two adjacent houses. The water in which Gamoves rinsed his sword becomes poison. That is why Jews immediately after the death of a fellow believer pour out all the water located not only in the house of the deceased, but also in the two nearest houses.

According to rabbi-kabbalists, a person is constantly accompanied by two angels: Itsershov (good) and Itsegora (evil). The last one is on the day of the Jewish New Year, when The Lord pronounces judgment on the Jews and appears before them as an accuser. By This is the reason why the trumpet is blown for 30 days in a row, in order to confuse the evil angel and prevent him from opportunity to find out which day is Rot Goshana (New Year). In the next world the good angel Matat does the same thing .

Like the earth, the firmament has its angels. The main boss over region of stars and planets Hardaniel. Further, all the celestial spheres and all the stars and planets have separate angels who guide them constantly to their destined this way across the sky so that they do not collide. These angels of the spheres and heavenly bodies Ofanim have the same meaning to the stars as the soul has to the body; that is why the entire vault of heaven appears in the law as living and glorifying God: “Heaven they will tell the glory of God” (Ps. 19:2). The angels of the great ones are of particular importance here luminaries, the sun and the moon, of which the first is called Galgaliel, the leader of 296 angelic hosts, and the last is Opha-niel. Some of these angels rule the sun during the day, and others at night, and, moreover, says Rabbi Alexander, that four angels are walking in front of the solar disk, so that the sun does not scorch the earth, others are behind, so that it does not completely hid the light and did not cool the earth[1] .

Chapter 7

About the Spell of Angels

Let us return to the actions of the angel Gamoves. The religious mood of the Jew, the concept of Jehovah's extreme severity on sins, makes the dying moment Judaism is extremely alarming. Anxieties of this kind are depicted in one Talmudic legend, very widespread and included in the addition to the prayer book "maamod"[2] .

1 Tract. Yalkut hadash, l. 168, art. 1; tract. Yalkut Shimoni on Ps. 96, 2. 2 Tract. Berakhot, l. 28.

When Rabbi Joachanan ben Zakkai (Hillel’s successor) fell ill, they came to him students to visit him. As soon as he saw them, he began to cry. Then the disciples said to him: “Light of Israel, strong hammer, main pillar, why are you crying?” And he answered to them: “If they took me to the king of flesh and blood, who is here today, and tomorrow in grave, whose wrath is not eternal wrath, whose chains are not eternal chains, and from whose death is not eternal death and whom I can still bribe with money or to propitiate with words - I would still have to cry. Now they are leading me before the face of the King of kings, the All-Holy One, who lives and exists forever and ever, whom wrath is eternal wrath, whose imprisonment is eternal imprisonment, whose death is eternal death, and which I can neither bribe with money nor appease with words. And here before me lie two roads: one leading to Gehenna, and the other to heaven, and I I don’t know which road they will take me, how can I not cry?” Moral of this the story given in all moralizing books is clear to the simplest mind: if one of the greatest righteous people could fear so much for his immediate fate in world of the future, then what should we do, sinners?.. Fears about the future life are also added in the mind of the Jew the idea of a painful exodus of the soul,

About the suffering associated with the separation of the latter from the body. The act of death is inextricably linked in popular belief with the idea of the angel of death (malakh Gamoves), a monstrous creature, covered from head to toe with eyes, holding a bloody sword in his hands and extracting the soul from the body with this sword. Following the Talmudic legend is identical with popular belief. "About the Angel of Death" they say, says the Haggadah, that everything is full of eyes and at the time of a person's death stands above his head with a naked sword in his hand, and on this sword hangs a drop bitter substance. As soon as the patient notices him, he (the patient) shudders, fear opens his mouth, and the angel of death shakes a bitter drop into his mouth; from this drops a person dies, it decomposes, it turns his face yellow1 .

In popular belief there is only the belief that the angel of death directly cuts the throat of a dying man with a sword, but in such a way that there is neither a cut nor blood afterwards it is seen. This belief is so strong among the people that a custom is based on it, everywhere between strictly enforced by Jews. This custom is that in all areas adjacent to the house the deceased's houses, they pour out all the water that was in these houses when the deceased gave up his soul; this is done due to the assumption that the angel of death is on the reverse on his way from the house of the deceased, he rinsed his bloody sword in the water of one of nearest neighboring houses. This custom is recognized as mandatory in the Code of Shulchan Aruch, where its motive is stated2 . The commentary to this place says: "Tashbetz, a famous rabbi, writes that he saw a man drinking from this water (near the house deceased) and then the deceased." 1 Tract.

Awoide-Zura, l. 20. 2 Tract.

Shulchan Aruch; tract. Iore-Dea § 339, paragraph 5.

However, the greatest righteous do not die a painful death by the sword the angel of death, but lightly and calmly from the touch of the mouth of God (neshika) on them.

According to the Talmud, six of our first parents died such a death: Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Aaron and their sister Miriam; this opinion is based on interpretation of the biblical expression that these persons died "al pi Adonai," which means "by the command of God," and literally "through the mouth of God." 1 Tract. Bova Batra, l. 17.

As for ordinary righteous people, their death also occurs through the angel of death, but it is not as painful as the death of sinners. "U the soul of the righteous departs easily and without torment, just as a hair is easily extracted from milk; for sinners, the soul is removed from the body with pain and with the same difficulty, with how thorns are pulled out of wool," as they say in the apocryphal Talmudic treatise "Khibut ha-kever".

The period of grave suffering, the beginning of which is known in popular belief under the name "hibut ha-kever" (grave blows), - this belief is used by Jews very popular. It is as follows: when the body of the deceased is already lowered into the grave, a terrible "angel of the underworld" (malakh-dom) appears there, returns vitality to the body, puts it on its feet and menacingly asks the dead man's name; The dead man, out of fright, remembers nothing and does not answer. Then the angel is a red-hot iron strikes the body of the dead man with a rod, to whom this blow causes terrible pain, and the body falls to pieces. On the second day, the angel of the underworld again appears in the grave, again composes and revives the body of the deceased and does the same as the day before. This The same procedure is repeated on the third day. There is a custom, observing which a Jew considers himself somewhat insured against forgetting his name during interrogation grave angel The custom is that every day before the end like this called the "prayer of eighteen" (shomona esre) to recite a biblical verse (mostly from the psalms), starting with the letter with which the name begins praying, and ending with the letter that ends the same name. This alone

Machine Translated by Google

Of course, it does not yet relieve the suffering of the grave, but it helps to alleviate the latter for people who were distinguished in earthly life by righteous deeds and godly behavior. The entire period of grave suffering does not end with grave blows. According to Jewish belief and confirmed by the Talmud, worms formed in body of a dead man, cause terrible torment, since the body at first is still retains a certain sensitivity and vitality. Frequently repeated Talmudic saying says: “Worms are as painful to the body of a dead man as needle pricks - for a living body."

The Jews have a belief that only those buried in the land of Israel, in Palestine does not suffer from grave worms. The Jews have a custom regarding this - to place a pinch of Palestinian soil in the grave under the head of the dead man.

The soul of the Jew experiences five moments of punishment between death and heavenly court. “The first punishment occurs when the soul departs from the body; the second is when his (dead man's) deeds parade in front of his bed during the transfer to cemetery and fill the heavenly space with shouts of his sins, this is based according to the Talmudic saying2 , the third punishment is committed when the body is lowered into grave, the fourth punishment consists of “grave blows”; fifth - suffering from worms3 . The entire period of this preliminary grave judgment lasts 30 days. “During these 30 days, soul and body are judged in the grave together, and all this time the soul is on the ground, not being able to ascend to his place4 .

1 Tract. Berakhot, l. 18. 2 Tract.
Ketubot, l. 104. 3 “Shevet-mussar”, part 1, l. 98 and so on. 4 Ibid.

When this period of preliminary confinement of the soul in the grave ended, the soul ascends to heaven in order to appear reincarnated before the judgment of Jehovah and give an account of all your earthly deeds. Here begins the second period of the afterlife life.

Knowing the service of each angel and the complete dependence of world phenomena on them, one can change the course of natural and historical phenomena through invoking angels and their spell, which the Shekinah itself cannot resist. For example, here's a story about this incantatory invocation of angels from the book “Yalkut Shimoni”. When enemies came to Jerusalem with the goal of ruining it to the ground, the inhabitants of the city conspired among themselves, in case of great danger, conjure the angels so that they come to them help with your elements. One Jerusalemite took it upon himself to curse the angel of the waters so that he would surround the city with a wall of water and would not allow the enemy to reach it. Another had to call on the angel of fire so that if the first angel of water failed surrounded the city with a wall of fire. The third one was supposed to curse in the same way angel of iron But Jehovah, in order to destroy this advice, changed the names of the angels, so that when danger came and the people of Jerusalem began to call: “Such and such an angel, come, do this and that for us” - the answer they received was that these angels were already occupying others posts. Only Hanamael, Jeremiah's cousin, managed to curse the angel of the firmament, who, in view of the enemy, raised Jerusalem high into the air, but this is not at all it helped because Jehovah brought him back. Then Hanamael cursed another whole host angels who appeared on the wall of Jerusalem in full armor and one with their appearance they put the Chaldeans to flight; but Adinoy again changed names and services these angels, and they had to refuse to help the Jews'.

1 Tract. Yalkut Shimoni on the lament of Jer. 167; 3.4.

In the Middle Ages, there were especially many spell sheets circulating between the Jews and formulas aimed at the activities of angels. Regarding the order of relations angels to earth and people Talmudists establish the following principles: 1. Angels, appearing on earth, must take on a human body, because in their body they cannot be visible. The angels take this body from the snow that lies under the throne the holiness of God and from which the world was created. Moreover, some angels, descending on earth, borrow bodies from air, water, etc. 2. Having descended to earth, an angel cannot remain here for more than seven days, because after this period returning to heaven is impossible for them, and in this case, having become grounded, they become permanent inhabitants of the earth, what happened to the angel Azael and to those angels who in the antediluvian world were called sons of God, deceived by beauty daughters of men and those who delayed returning to heaven. 3. No angel, descending to earth, has two instructions to fulfill, and vice versa, never to Two angels are not sent to earth for the same work. 4. Ordinary language, which the angels speak and which can be decent in relation to them is the tongue Jewish. That is why, says Rabbi Yehuda, a person should never express their needs in prayer in the Chaldean or Syriac language, because this language angels don't understand. However, according to other explanations, the languages Chaldean and Syriac also known in heaven. So, the high priest Jochanan heard a voice from the sanctuary heavenly, speaking in the Chaldean language: “The young men who come out against Antioch will be victorious.” Another time Simon heard a Chaldean voice from the sanctuary righteous: “The thing that the enemy told you about will not happen; Gaskalgaz (king Greek) died, and his plans were ruined." Thus the Chaldean voices from heaven show that this language is known there too. The rabbis explain this contradiction by the fact that the angels only dislike the Chaldean language, although some of them know him, especially Gabriel, who taught Jacob 70 languages, including Chaldean, is equal like Akhtariel, Methotron and Sandalphon, bringing every prayer to God, be it Syrian or any other; for this they weave prayers into a wreath and place them on Shekinah's head1 . The angels' dislike of the Chaldean language must have weaken after He-glos translated the law into this language, and Jonathan and all Bible2 . God Himself first used the Chaldean language with Abraham, revealing Himself to him when he was not yet circumcised. Not understanding this language perfectly, the angels do not then rebelled against the patriarch; otherwise Abraham was in danger from some envious heavenly spirits3 . 1 Tract.

Shabbes, l. 12, Art. 2 and Tos. 2 Tract.

Berakhot, l. 3.1. Tos. 3 Tract. Yalkut hadash, l. 117, 2; tract. Ialkut Rubeni, 125; tract. Berakhot, l. 3.1; tract. Shabbes, l. 12, 2, tract. Sota, l. 33.1.

Chapter 8

Methotron, an angel independent of God himself

Among all the angels, Metotron deserves special attention, an angel partially independent of God himself, the king over the entire heavenly army. Rabbi Behai says: “The very name Metotron has two different meanings, indicating his properties: the meaning of the Lord (lord, owner) and messenger, since this name the Romans called noble women who owned many slaves (matrona); and in language in Greek the word means “messenger.” In addition, this word contains a third the meaning is a guardian, since in the Chaldean language “materat” means “fear”. So Thus, based on these meanings of words, we teach that Methotron is the lord over with all the powers and armies of heaven and ruler of the house of God. He is lord over all lords, king over all kings. He is an angel - the prince of the law, the prince of kingdoms, the prince of heaven and earth. Moreover, he is also called the prince of presence, because he constantly sees the face of God, and about him Jehovah said: “My name is in him” (Is. 23:21); that is why the word “Metotron”, translated into numbers, gives the same amount as the name of God Shaddai - 314. This Metotron is also called ancient and new; he looks ancient when, across 900 firmaments, he brings the prayers of the Jews to God; but when he weaves these prayers into the wreath of God and returns satisfied to human requests, his appearance again becomes young and new . 1 Work Behai, interpretation on the book. Moses 98.4; tract. Emek Hamelech, l. 198, 3. But this greatest angel, in charge of all created things, is none other than Enoch, familiar to the Jews from their ancient history. Rabbi Ismael, who saw Metotron, asked him one day: “Why are you so honored that you bear the name of God and are placed above all princes, above all angels and more powerful than all the mighty?” Then in response Methotron said: “Because I am Enoch, the son of Jared. When, before the flood, the human race was mired in sins and did not want to know Jehovah, saying: “Get away from us!”, God took me to the highest heaven so that I could be a witness to everything that was happening in the world. He entrusted me with the supervision of the entire chariot of fire and all the needs of his divine majesty. For this purpose He turned my flesh into flames and my veins into burning threads, my bones into hot coals: He gave the shine of heat to my eyelashes and the appearance of luminous points to my eyeballs, made the hair on my head into fiery tongues, and all my members into burning torches, so that my whole body became a huge fiery space. Fiery sparks fly from my right hand, fires are ignited from my left hand; around me is wind, whirlwind and devastating storm; in front of me and behind me is the noise of overthrowing and falling objects.” God gave Metotron from his greatness sixty thousand times ten thousand miles in length and breadth. It takes five years to go through the space of his growth. Near the heavenly river Dinnur there is an elevated place and on it stands a ladder reaching from earth to heaven, which Jacob saw; This ladder can only be used by Methotron. To take Enoch from the earth, God sent a great cherub with a fiery chariot and fiery horses, who brought him to the highest heaven. But as soon as Enoch appeared, sacred animals hissed in the sky, cherubim, ophanim, and seraphim rose up and began to say: “Where does the smell of the man born of me come from?” And God answered and said: “My servants, my army, my cherubim, do not insult this man, because he alone of all my children deserves my reward! He was a skilled craftsman, and while others did not want to know me at all, with every movement of the needle in his hands he constantly repeated: “Blessed be His great name forever.”

However, this intercession of Jehovah did not initially save Enoch, or Methotron, from danger from the angels, and he had to endure great oppression, especially from Anpiel, before he entered into his great office.

Chapter 9

The visible world is divided into 7 heavens

According to the book "Zohar", the rabbis divide the visible world into 7 heavens or spheres (this opinion was also included in the Koran of Mohammed). In the seventh and final heaven they place 12 angels (in Hebrew "Maluchem" or "Mazolois"). These angels have animal forms, spin like a wheel, and there is also the chair of Adino, under which the souls of Israel are placed.

The great miracle worker of ancient history, Elijah, also appeared as one of the highest angels to heaven. His angel name is Sandalphon. By his heavenly greatness he equals Methotron. Standing on the ground, he reaches out to the heavenly beasts with his head and incomparably higher than his other comrades; his growth is five hundred years' journey. Jealous of for the benefit of the Jews, he continues to often appear on earth among them under all kinds of species. When Israel is in danger from Haman, he rushes to the graves of the prophets and righteous, conjures them to rise from the grave to intercede for their people, and notifies Mordecai of the fateful decision made in the court of Ahasferus regarding Jews of the Medo-Persian Kingdom. Does anyone refer to the letter of the law for the purpose of limit his mercy and selflessness, whether the servant is ashamed and offended by the fact that he is bypassed with food from the family table - Elijah is immediately a protector oppressed. Very often, the prophet works miracles for the Jews; such is, for example, a miracle him with Naum Hamza. This godly man was once sent with the rich gifts to the emperor in Rome. But on the road, stopping at a hotel and simply telling the robbers who met there that he was carrying treasure, Nahum was robbed; instead of gold at night, its boxes were filled with earth. When he doesn't Suspecting what had happened, he came to the imperial palace, the boxes were opened and The deception was discovered, Nahum was sentenced to death. But suddenly there appeared among the Romans Elijah, taking the form of one of the judges, and saying: “Perhaps this land is the land of the father our Abraham,” he threw in front of him a handful of earth, from which swords immediately grew. The same land brought by Nahum provided great services to the Romans during the capture one enemy city, the walls of which could not be destroyed by certain battering machines. As a reward for this wonderful land, Naum received the same boxes with Roman gold...

Chapter 10

Elijah the prophet constantly appears to the Jews

Another example of Elijah's extraordinary appearance. One day Rabbi Yehuda, Rabbi Jose, Rabbi Shimon and Yehuda ben Gerem gathered for a conversation. Then Yehuda said: “Glorious people are these Romans! They started bazaars, built bridges, and built baths.” Rabbi Jose did not answer anything to this; but Rabbi Shimon replied: “These are all Romans they do for their own whims and self-interest: markets to buy slaves; baths to indulge in debauchery in them; bridges to collect tolls from them.” Then Rabbi Yehuda ben Gerem went and reported this review to the emperor, who decreed: Rabbi Yehuda, who praised the Romans, should be elevated in the state, Rabbi Jose, who was silent, should be exiled imprisoned on the island of Cyprus, and Shimon put to death. But this last one managed to escape and, together with his 12-year-old son, hid in one of the caves. So as not to wear out their clothes, they threw them off, buried themselves in the sand and only prayed got dressed. Elijah found them in this state. Arriving at the entrance to the cave, he announced that the emperor had died and his decree had lost force, and thus brought to the will of self-imposed pious Jews. Like the son of his tribe, caring for its moral revival, Elijah is completely imbued with family feeling. When on a boy, on the eighth day from his birth, it is performed circumcision, he is present in the parents' house and protects the child so that circumcision does not caused him harm. In explaining the Jews, amid persecution and oppression, he supports the people's hope for deliverance and liberation. On Easter for In every Jewish family, a glass of wine is placed on the set table, followed by It is precisely this herald of religious peace and freedom of the people who must appear to announce to Israel that Edom (Rome), stained with Jewish blood, is approaching its fall. At the same time, Jewish tradition made Elijah the personification of a brilliant mind, wisdom, wit, theological learning; he is in able to solve all the most difficult problems, although he postpones their clarification until his future coming. The last appointment of the prophet Elijah is already hinted at by the first book of Maccabees (4; 46). But, jealous of the truth, Elijah is strict towards opponents of the law: for example, once appearing in the form of an Arab merchant with a sword, Elijah struck one a Jew because he did not turn his face to the synagogue during prayer. And vice versa, for your Attachment to Gentiles Elijah often gets himself into great trouble. Thus, he was severely punished for revealing to the world something mysterious that he had seen on sky1 .

1 This punishment is conveyed by the Talmudists in a wide variety of forms. Tractate Berakhot, l. 3, Art. 1; tract. Sanhedrin, l. 108, art. 2; tract. Shabbes, l. 33, art.; tract. Awoide-Zura, l. 18, art. 2.

This is the teaching of the Talmud about heaven and angels. It is obvious how much in these two teachings The Talmud withdrew from the spirit and letter of the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament, giving free rein unbridled imagination and coloring its ideas with oriental poetic colors. It is unlikely that pagan anthropomorphists went to such minute details in materialization of the ideal world of ethereal spiritual beings, to which the Talmudic theologians, inspired by ignorant wild imagination, reached .

1 In conclusion, we indicate, in the opinion of one modern Talmudic scholar, the religious attributes of a Jew in paradise. On top of the chlamys (zup) with many hooks, at the bottom of which a tales-coton sticks out, is thrown a tales-tsitses, from which in the form long threads (linen) fall down from the fringes. Wrapped in the naked left hand retzues (straps) tefilim-shel-iad (hand tefilim). The head is removed next image: 8 candles are stuck around, lit by Jews on the day of Hanukkah (holiday Maccabees); on the top of the head from under the skullcap there is a tefilim-schen-rum (head); one in his hand he holds a zerig (apple of paradise), and in the other a lulev (palm of the martyr); V To complete the picture one can see the circumcised poenis, as a symbol of Jewish belonging to the chosen people.

TREATISE II ON HELL AND DEMONS

Chapter 1 Description of hell and its branches

According to the teachings of the Talmud, there are two hells: upper and lower. Lower hell rabbis intended for those Jews who did not keep the covenant of circumcision and did not observe Saturdays; the upper one is designated as the residence for those who have transgressed other commandments and died without repentance.

Talmudists write: “One day the Lord will sit in the garden of Edom, having on the right hand is the heavenly senate, on the left is the sun, moon and stars. Surrounded by souls the departed righteous, he will talk about the new teaching that will be given through messiah Then Zarubabel, the son of Shalfiel, will recite the Kaddish prayer, which the whole peace, even the Israeli sinners in hell, conclude with such a loud “Amen”, that the Lord Himself will hear him; the angels will ask: “What does this noise mean?” - And it will be reported that this is a loud “amen” pronounced by those in hell, for forgiveness of sins. After this, Jehovah will have mercy on them and will give back what he had kept. He gives the key to hell to the archangels Michael and Gabriel and commands them to open the gates hellish and release the condemned. Then both archangels will dissolve all forty thousand hellish gates and release the convicts; those of them who, sitting in the very depths, will not be able to get out without help, will be led out by the archangels by the hand. But all this is joyful and the expected general uprising will not occur until after hearing the trumpet call of Michael Archangel, who will first publicly and solemnly trumpet:

Machine Translated by Google

"Shteitov thias gameisim", i.e. "Rise, you dead." Then all the dead will rise and they will rest on their sticks, which were placed in the coffin for this purpose when burial, and with their help they will be transported through underground passages to Jerusalem. With the dead all the living will gather from all the ends of the earth, and all the Jews together will rejoice in Jerusalem, in that glorious city, where from eternity great blessings have been prepared for the people of Israel. The Mushiyah, the Messiah, the savior of the Jews, will appear at this sacred gathering, and will make a magnificent feast only for the Jews; all others the tongues will then envy the Israelites, they will serve them at the feast and in every way please. After this, the Jews will be introduced into the kingdom of glory into which they were introduced at life of Moses, to whom, as it is written in the book “Gdulas Moishe”, were shown various precious chairs prepared by God in Paradise for the Israelites the righteous, and also for him, on whom they will sit at the coming of the Messiah and They will triumph forever in the kingdom of heaven.”

Chapter 2

The Suffering of Sinners in Gehenna

The suffering in hell makes a strong impression on the Jewish people. Talmud calls the torment that awaits sinners “eternal,” but in other places he, on the contrary, says that these torments are only temporary.

Already in the Mishnah there is an opinion, repeated in the Talmud and Midrash, that stay in hell does not last more than 12 months. This opinion is attributed Rabbi Akibe. Rabbi Joa Khan ben Nuri, polemicizing with this latter, finds, however, such a period too long and, based on various places in the Bible, proves that the period of stay in Gehenna cannot exceed seven weeks.

Rabbi Yehuda ben Eli says: neither hell nor purgatory exists for punishment of sinners, but the fire that comes out of them (from sinners), i.e. fire bad passions - he will burn them![1]

Rabbi Meir's teacher tells about the famous teacher Elisha ben Abuya in the Talmud the following: “Whole clouds of fire rose from the tomb of Elisha ben Abuya and smoke. They called Rabbi Meir, who immediately spread his cloak - fire and smoke disappeared"[2]

1 At Hamburger - II, p. 1255. 2 Ibid.

Hell and Gehenna are divided into many compartments; in each of them they punish different: in one it is stricter, in another it is more lenient. The soul of a Jewish sinner cannot spend more than 12 months in hell. Every Friday night there is torment in hell stop, but after 24 hours they begin again with renewed vigor. The entire Gegenem publishes then the sound is similar to the barking of a dog, and this sound, according to the interpretation of the rabbis, means: “Give up the souls of those who decide,” that is, sinners.

Hell, as the dwelling of demons, appears in the Talmud as a combination of rot and abomination, crying and darkness. In each of its departments there are 6000 chests, and in each chest there are 6000 barrels of bile1 .

Hell is sixty times larger than heaven, which is understandable, since it intended for all the wicked and, by the way, for the uncircumcised (Christians), who wave their hands back and forth (i.e., pray, cross themselves), and for the Mohammedans, who, although circumcised, wash only their hands and feet, but about cleansing the heart care2 . The word "gehenna" is equivalent to the Greek - hell, is an abbreviated Hebrew word "gay-gynom" meaning "valley of howls." The valley of this name was located near Jerusalem, northeast of it. During the era of the first temple, when Jews very often indulged in idolatry, in this valley stood an altar on which sacrifices were made to Molech. The cult of the latter, as is known, consisted of that on the red-hot hands of a copper idol, inside of which a fire was lit, they placed small children who were thus burned, filling the valley with terrible screams. For this reason, in the Bible this valley is called "gay-benigin" - valley baby crying. King Ahaz of Judah "brought sacrifices in the valley of Ben-Ginom, and children he burned his own in the fire . "3 The righteous descendant of this king, Josiah, "abolished Tophet (name of the idol) that is in the valley of Beni-Ginoma, so that no one burns his son or his daughter on the fire to Molech4 . The place "gay-ginom" is mentioned in the Bible in Yehoshua (XV, 8) and in Jeremiah (I, 32). Subsequently, during the era of the second temple, when the Jews completely abandoned idolatry, they became disgusted with this terrible valley . 1 Resolve gokm., l. 37, art. 2; tract. Taanit, l. 10, page 1.

2 Zero h. par. Told. Jizch. f. 27, 2; Bechaj, 1 tbsp. ÿ. 6, f. 34, 4, p. 51, f. 220; The port-bridge. masch. leseh. F. 19.4; Talm. Fr. roseh. hasch. 17.1; 1. ÿ f. 171, 3, p. 38. 3 ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ ÿÿÿ ÿÿÿÿÿÿÿÿ. XXVIII, 3. 4 Da. II ÿÿÿ. XXIII, 10. 5 May. Mars XIX, 6.18.

It was completely neglected, and they only carried sewage into it, due to why the air there was constantly contaminated. People have an idea about this place, as about something terrible, damned and disgusting. And when during The Maccabees, and especially in the era of the emergence of Christianity, the people began to develop concepts about the Last Judgment after the resurrection of the dead, about reward after death, about heaven and hell, the popular imagination naturally brought together the idea of hell with popular beliefs about the "valley of wails." From this rapprochement The concept of "fiery hell" probably originated. It was assumed that when Jehovah will judge the people in the Valley of Jehoshaphat, He will cast condemned sinners into the terrible valley of Ginoma, where the earth will open under them and the eternal fire will devour them. Subsequently, when Jerusalem was destroyed, the Jews scattered throughout Europe, the local legend about the valley of Ginoma began to be forgotten, and the word "Gehenna" gradually turned into a common noun for hell and finally began to mean in general the underground dwelling of sinners condemned by Jehovah at the posthumous trial.

Among Palestinian Jews, the connection between the legend and the term "Gehenna" is much more preserved longer, and is still in the Haggadah on behalf of Rabbi Joachanan ben Zakkai the following legend: "Two palm trees stand in the valley of Ben Ghinom, and from under them constantly smoke comes out"[1] - a legend, apparently based on an ancient belief. IN later Talmudic legend recognizes this place between two palm trees "the door of Gehenna", and the existence of two more doors leading to Gehenna, of which one is in the desert (Arabian), and the other on the ocean (ibid.). We find little about Gehenna in the Talmud. In one place it is said that "Gehenna has seven names: Sheol, Abadon, Beor-shahat, Bor-shaon, Tit-gayeven, Tsalma-mavet and Eretz-tahtis[2]

1 See Erubyn, l. 19. 2 Ibid.

Subsequently, these seven names were transformed into seven branches of Gehenna, of which each has its own name. Gehenna in Haggadah seems fabulously huge. The earth is 1/60th part of the heavenly vertograd in space, the paradise vertograd 1/60th of heaven itself (Eden), heaven 1/60th of Gehenna. So the whole earth would go to Gehenna like “a tire to a pot”[1]. Gehenna, according to the Haggadah, was created in the first days of creation2 . Gehenna fire is 60 times stronger than ordinary fire3 .

Machine Translated by Google

According to the above legend about the “gates of Gehenna,” one could believe that Talmudists assumed the place of Gehenna was underground. But in the same Haggadah there is also opposite indication. “In the school of Elahu they taught that Gehenna is above heavenly space, and in others - behind the gloomy mountains"[4].

This uncertainty caused rabbinic theology, which relied exclusively to the Talmud, the same confusion regarding the place of Gehenna that we see in others. To reconcile the contradictory testimony of the Talmud, medieval Jewish theologians assumed the existence of two Gehennas: the lower underground and the upper heavenly. In the first there are the most serious sinners, condemned to eternal or very prolonged torment; in the second, unimportant sinners are found, staying there temporarily to atone for their sins and then enter paradise. Even the righteous must spend a short time in upper Gehenna, for “no a righteous man who would not sin.” It goes without saying that the torment at the bottom Gehenna seems much more serious than in the upper one.

Among the Jewish masses, the prevailing opinion is almost exclusively about heavenly hell. Just as the judgment of God takes place in heaven, so Gehenna and paradise are, according to their concepts, in sky. Jews point to the part of the sky purple from sunset as the place where the fiery river of Gehenna has poured out, the flames of which at certain moments shine through the vault of heaven outward.

Beliefs among the Jewish people about hellish punishments boil down to the following. Gehenna is a huge inferno, filled with fire and burning materials. She divided into seven departments or floors, located one within the other. The lower floor, the more terrible and painful the punishment. In the lowest basement floor The most inveterate sinners are languishing in eternal torment in Gehenna. The punishment is that sinners are roasted, burned, fall, come to life again and are roasted again. Another type of hellish torment, as the masses imagine it, is that demons - servants of Gehenna (malakhe-habala), - first throw the sinner into a sea of flames or molten lead, and when the sinner begins to writhe and scream furiously from heat, a hellish angel picks him up and throws him into a sea of ice and snow; when here the sinner begins to scream from the terrible cold, he is picked up again and again thrown into the fiery sea; then again into the icy sea - and so on, continuously...

Chapter 3 Different types and branches of Gehenna

Moral books of the Jews strengthen among the people the element of horror in ideas about Gehenna. The books that describe all the horrors are: “Shevet Mussar”, “Etz-ha-Chaim” and others. “Lower Gehenna,” it is written, “occupies a huge space and contains in itself millions of people. It expands as sinners arrive. There's a lot departments, one worse than the other, so that everyone receives the degree of punishment given to him... Gehenna fire is 60 times stronger than ordinary fire. And there are coals in Gehenna each one is as big as a mountain; and rivers of molten resin and sulfur flow there; and there is 1 Tract. Taanit, l. 10. 2 Tract. Pesachim, l. 54; tract. Nedorim, l. 39; tract. Berakhot, l. 57. 3 Hamid, l. 32. 4 See Shevet-musar, II, 14-18.

---

Machine Translated by Google

all kinds of demons and devils, extremely ugly, punishing sinners. These devils were created by the crimes of sinners, for whoever commits a sin creates for himself in Gehenna one devil. In addition, there are special demons created specifically for service in Gehenna. The bodies of sinners are tortured with the most unnatural tortures. Some are hanged and strangled; others are killed and strangled, others have their eyes gouged out; the fourth are hanged by the head - all according to the degree of sin committed." All this is described based on the vision of one of the Talmudists. Rabbi Yehoshua ben Levi said: “One day I was walking along the road and met Elijah the prophet. “Do you want to stand at the gates of Gehenna?” - he asked me. - "Yes!" - I answered. He took me there. And he showed me people hanged by their hands and feet, by their noses and tongues, and women hanged by their breasts. And I saw people being forced to eat their own flesh, and others being fed burning coals; and I saw people sitting alive, and worms were eating them away. “About these people,” said Elijah, “it is said (Is. 66): “And their worm will not die.” Other people were fed sand, which made their teeth crunch, as Psalm 6 says: “Thou hast broken the teeth of the wicked.” And he showed me people who were thrown from fire into snow and from snow into fire... And every devil torments a person for a known sin until he suffers for all his sins. It is like a debtor who has many creditors. They bring him to the king for trial, and the king says: “What should I do with him? Take him and divide him among yourselves!” So God hands over the sinner to the angels of hell, who deal with him each in their own way.”

[2]

1 Ibid., II, 15. 2
Maseket-Gergin § 2.

The famous book of Rabbi I. Gurvich “Shne-Lukhot-Gabrit” says the following: “Seven Gehennas exist and in each there are seven divisions, and in each division there are seven rivers of fire and seven rivers of ice, each of which is a thousand cubits wide, a thousand, and three hundred cubits long. And every sinner is carried through all these compartments and burned in them; and the devils assigned to the sinners again revive them, put them on their feet and declare all the sins they have committed and say: “Now take a walk along the rivers of ice and fire because you have transgressed the commandments of God.” Moreover, in each compartment there are seven thousand holes, and in each hole there are seven thousand snakes, constantly stinging and poisoning sinners with their poison, who, having fallen dead, are again resurrected by devils and continue to suffer. "In the Haggadah there are quite definite instructions regarding the duration of the afterlife punishment, i.e. the time during which ordinary sinners can atone for their guilt. All people in the afterlife are divided, according to the Talmud, into three categories:[1] righteous, sinners and average people; the perfect righteous enter directly into heaven; inveterate and unrepentant sinners who deny the foundations of religion are plunged into Gehenna. Average people, that is, those who have committed both godly deeds and sins in their lives, are punished in Gehenna for 12 months, and then, redeemed, they are awarded heavenly life2 .

The idea of a 12-month punishment for common sinners is deeply established in popular belief, as well as in rabbinic literature. A very important religious decree is based on this belief - the reading of Kadisha (prayer for the repose of the soul): the surviving sons of the deceased are obliged to publicly read the established Kaddish in the synagogue for a year after the death of their parents, every day after morning, afternoon and evening prayers. With this reading they greatly alleviate the suffering of parents in Gehenna .

For this reason, a Jew considers it a great misfortune to die without leaving a son. Moral rabbinic literature is filled with various miraculous phenomena from the afterlife, where sons are reproached for not caring about the remembrance of their parents deceased4 .

1 Shevet-mussar, l. 17, p. 2. 2 Tract.

Ibios, 4; Rosh Hashanah 17; also "Menorat Gemaor" by I. Aboab, p. 45 - Vilna ed. 1865 and many others. etc.

3 Tract. Shulchan Aruch § 371, paragraph

4. 4 See "Memorat-Ha-Maor" by Isaac Aboab, pp. 47-48; book "Kab Gayasher" (Vilna edition, 1864), filled with similar stories.

There is a widespread belief among the people that on Saturdays sinners are freed from hellish punishments: on Saturday night, with the lighting of candles, sinners are released from Gehenna, and on Sunday night, after evening prayer, they are driven there again. Devout Jews therefore observe the custom of praying in front of the altar instead of office on the evening of the end of Saturday and, if possible, delay prayer so that deceased parents enjoyed longer holidays. Everyone is Jewish they try to light candles as late as possible, believing that this will keep them on the Sabbath rest of the soul. In the book of Zohar, in the book of Genesis and in the prayer book "Derech Ha-Chaim" with the prayer on the evening after Saturday mentions this, that after the lighting on Saturday candles, hellish torment begins with new bitterness for sinners.

Kabbalists also claim that if at a certain moment after Saturday evening at the end of the prayer, put your ear to the synagogue "mezuzah", into which is embedded and If a prayer is placed in the doorpost, you can hear the cries of sinners returning to Gehenna on weekdays.

Chapter 4

Rapid reproduction of demons and Gehenna fiery for sinners

According to the teachings of the Talmud, demons represent many separate categories. No kind of living being is born so easily or spreads so quickly as unclean spirits. The world owes the first appearance of demons to God himself, who created them at the beginning together with the foremother of the human race. What God created Satan is can be seen from the book of Genesis, where, when talking about the creation of a wife, it first appears the initial letter of the word "samekh", i.e. Satan, in the words: "Vafisgor Ghazar lyakhtenah" (filled his place with flesh); this means that before the creation of Eve there was no Satan, and The first Satan appeared in the world together with his wife. But the very creation of Satan contained a mockery of his existence: he came into the world naked, that is, without of any body, representing one matter without form, which is why it is said in Scripture: "And the serpent (the tempter of man) was naked among all the animals." It happened this way: on the last day of creation, God had a lot to do and, having created demons when it was already getting dark, he did not have time to form their flesh when it appeared matron (Saturday) with her preparations, and God was forced to leave the demons half-created1 . Since the complete creation of demons was prevented partly by man, in the course of which God forgot to give form to the devil, then from here comes irreconcilable hatred of demons towards the human race.

However, according to another legend, on the contrary, the devil's hatred of man was the reason for its illegal appearance. When God created man, he called all the highest and lower spirits, so that each of them gives something to a person (this is the meaning of words addressed by God to the spirits: "Let us create man"). But the devil not only informed the man of no gift, and also tried to divert him from doing good deeds to him and God himself, saying: “What is man, that you remember him?” As punishment for this ill will God did not give the devil himself any form . The material for the creation of demons were four elements: light, air, water and land3 . The souls of demons consist of matter, which is under the moon and no matter what no longer suitable4 .

1 Tract. Yalkut hadash, l. 107, 27. 2 Ibid., l. 115,116 pp. 2 3 Tract. Leda, l. 17, p. 2. 3Tract. Tub haor, l. 9, p. 2.

In addition, some demons were created from the life drops of the first man, just as in Greek mythology, Uranus was born from drops of blood world of titans. Next to this is the Talmudist legend about some kind of evil spirit female, who at once produced many demons and resembled a wife Sagarosa in Indian mythology, a growing pumpkin from which 60,000 heroes emerged at once .

Chapter 5

Adam gave birth to demons

After his expulsion from paradise, Adam did not have children for a long time, namely one hundred and thirty years, having decided not to spread offspring who had fallen under the curse, which is why it is said: “Adam I had already lived one hundred and thirty years since he gave birth to a son in his own likeness.” In these hundred for thirty years Adam became close friends with the society of earthly spirits and gave birth to a legion house demons and lroch. [2] And only after learning that the Israelites would receive the law after 26 generations, Adam made peace with Eve. For her part, Eve, who had not used it for a hundred thirty years old by the favor of her husband, entered into relations with a society of demons and produced many female demons were born, while Adam gave birth to male spirits gender3 . To spread their offspring, demons even now enter into marital relations with people4 . Such connections are sometimes free, for example, one a Jew married the daughter of Asmodeus, the prince of evil spirits, and more often violent ones - so, he Asmodeus forcibly carried away some of Solomon's wives .

Any wife who has survived three husbands should be suspected of having relations with demon: this is eine Manusverderberin. From violent connections with evil spirits no man is free. Taking advantage of the defenselessness in which human innocence is found in a dream, demons attack a person and arouse in him voluptuous impulses that give life to millions of demons. These spirits born from drops of human vitality, seek the death of their producers in order to take advantage of their bodily appearance, without having their own bodies. Therefore, when When burying a person, it is necessary to perform a spell of demons and walk around seven times around the coffin of the deceased, after which the demons lose all power over the body.

1 Tract. Ialkut, l. 107, p. 1; Rab Behai “Explanation on the book. Moses", l. 8, p. 1; Tract. Ialkut Rubeni, l. 17, p. 3. 2 Tract. Ialkut Rubeni, l. 3 and tract. Leda; tract. Erubim, l. 18, p. 2.. 3 Trakt. Behai, ch. 1, l. 16; tract. Nishm, L. 114, p. 2 4 Trakt. Hagiga, L. 16, p. 1. 5 Tract. Menachem, ch. 1, l. 33 and many rabbis.

Chapter 6

Machine Translated by Google

Souls turn into demons

Then the souls of all godless people turn into demons. Yes, in the form of demons the souls of people who died during the flood wander around the world. From the builders Tower of Babel, some became unclean animals, and others became demons. The transition of human souls into demons is the greatest punishment for them, because that demons are never calm, but always wander from place to place. Similar Some good angels turned into evil spirits. Kabbalists teach that two are good angels, Asa and Azael, objected to God against the creation of man due to the inevitable his fall into sin. God answered that sin is inevitable for the inhabitants of the earth, and that even they - angels, living on earth, cannot help but sin, and commanded them to come down to earth to experience myself. They really sinned, they were seduced by the beauty of the daughters of men and lost access to the sky. From them came giants, heroes and other famous people and devils.

Continuous evil spirits now come from Adam. But described the process of this origin is very indecent and disgusting, which is why we leave him without explanation. However, a person can kill such evil spirits if he baking matzah for Passover will strain hard1 . 1 Tract.

Leda, Melachem.

A common source of the spread of evil spirits is marital relations between themselves. “Our rabbis teach,” says one Talmudist treatise - that there are six things in which demons are similar to angels and people. At three in things they are similar to angels: they have wings like angels, they fly with angels from one end of the world to the other and know the future; in three respects they similar to people: they eat and drink like people, like people die and reproduce.” [1]

Chapter 7

Four Mothers of Evil Spirits

Particular attention is paid to the foremothers of evil spirits: Lilith, Naama, Igeret and Mahala2 . Each of them produced entire legions of demons and shadows, ruling in different seasons and living in the land of the mountains of darkness in the north. This four wives of Sammael, the prince of evil spirits, who owns four kingdoms: Damascus (in which the temple of the idol Rim-moni); Tire, Malta and Grenada. IN In each of these kingdoms, Sammael has a special residence where his wives live, and namely: Lilith in Damascus, Naama in Tire, Mahala on the island of Malta and Igeret in the kingdom Granadsky3 . 1

Tract. Hagiga, L. 16, p. 1. 2 Tract.

Pesachim, l. 112, art. 2. 3 Solomon hoped to have power over them, to call them his servants and use them for his services

Each of these wives has its own special properties, but they are especially dangerous to the people of Igeret and Lilith. Igeret with 180,000 destroying devils leaves his royal dwelling in night on Thursday and Saturday and causes harm to everyone who is encountered along the way. Therefore, on both these nights, not a single living person should go out into the field or even onto street. Even more dangerous is Lilith, whose history is connected with the history of the first man. When God created Adam and saw that it was not good for him to be alone, he created for him the first wife from the earth and named her Lilith. Since the two first men were thus created from the earth, they had disputes about seniority, and it ended with Lilith, not wanting to obey Adam and uttering a mysterious name, by force the last one flew into the air and disappeared into the sea, in the very waters in which the Egyptians subsequently died. Adam, meanwhile, complained to his creator for the unauthorized act and flight of his wife, and God sent three angels after her - Senai, Sansenoi and Sammangelof, threatening her with punishment if she did not return to her to my husband. Lilith was punished by having one hundred of her children die every day. Angels went and found Lilith, who was engaged in a terrible task - killing everyone young children. Boys under eight days old and girls under twenty were in her power. The angels wanted to forcefully bring Lilith to Adam, but she appeased them because she vowed not to touch those children who would have talismans with names or the figures of these three angels1 .

Machine Translated by Google

1 Tract. Sef. b. Syrah, l. 9, Art. 2; tract. Emek hammelech, l. 84, Art. 2

Chapter 8

Adam's second wife - Eve

As a result, the rabbis ordered that stones be hung from small children. the names of these angels, so that Lilith would remember her oath and leave the child alone. Thus, another wife was created for Adam - Eve, and Lilith became the king's wife earthly spirits and continues to show its cruel power over minors generation of Jews. Lilith is predominantly in the power of children conceived without maintaining all legal purity. When a child laughs in a dream, this is a sign that something is wrong with him. Lilith plays in order to kill him, and therefore at the first appearance of a smile on You must cast a spell on the child's lips and blow into his nostrils three times.

Lilith has in her charge 480 destructive gnomes (the number of the name Lilith), with with which she walks at certain times and fills the air with piercing screams. (Etymologically, Lilith means 'screaming'). In contrast, Sammael's third wife, Mahala, wanders the world, surrounded by 478 gnomes (the number of her name), forever jumping and dancing [2]. Only once a year precisely on the day of purification, these two crowds, one dancing and the other crying, meet each other and start fighting . 1 Tract. Ialkuthadash, l. 108, 3. 2 Mahala etymologically means "dance". Right there. 3 Tract. Hagiga, L. 16; tract. Emek Hamelech, l. 84, art. 2; tract. Sefer bensi-ra, l.9, art. 1-2.

All dark forces, no matter where they come from, are under the highest by the authority of Sammael, who has 12 assistants in administration subordinate to him, in in turn, keeping with them a thousand assistant chiefs. Main activity demons under the control of Sammael, is to cause harm at any case. But most demons cannot cause much harm to a person (of course, to a Jew) and limit themselves to empty pranks with him, frightening the cowardly, attacking the defenseless. They deceive the traveler, point out to him the most uneven and incorrect road, fooling him with views of forests, bushes, transparent rivers, villages, hotels, etc. And when a person succumbs to their deceptions, then they burst into loud laughter. Who hasn't heard their wild laughter while wandering around on an unknown road in winter weather on a dark night? But among these demons there are, however, some very dangerous ones that threaten a person's very life.

Chapter

9 Bes Ketev noon

In addition to the aforementioned wives of Sammael, these include: 1) Ketev, the midday demon. He reigns from the beginning of the fourth hour in the afternoon until the end of the ninth. Kind of him quite special: he has a calf's head, one horn comes out of the middle of his forehead, and he himself is round, like a barrel, and does not walk on the ground, but rolls. It cannot be seen with the eyes; whoever sees it, man or animal, dies immediately. His complete dominion on earth from the 17th day of June to the 9th of July. Therefore, Rabbis Johachanan and Shelah ordered teachers Jews do not allow children to leave school between the fourth and tenth hour, especially during the specified period of time.

2) Bedorgon is a small demon, no larger than a palm, but has 50 heads, 56 hearts and all covered with letters of the alphabet. Every person who hits this demon dies, and vice versa, this demon, having hit a person, dies itself. So he does all sorts of dirty tricks to make a person hit himself and thereby kill him.

3) Kerdiakos is a demon, visible only to drunkards, on whom he is exclusively attacks.

4) Tormis - the spirit of guile, cunning, deceit and theft, son of Lilith'. The place of residence of demons is: 1) the air, where they are through the heavenly curtains they look into the kingdom of light and find out the future, they induce sleep in people; 2) the abysses of the sea, where they try to undermine the foundation of the world, and 3) the special northern limits of the earth2 . If the demons were released from these places, they would destroy the whole world. Others from They live in Jews and serve as the cause of their sins. Demons dance between the horns bull coming out of the water, and between women3 who are returning from a funeral. In addition, they willingly stay near the plains, because the dry soil thirsts for rain4 . Demons are also found in walnut trees, under which it is therefore dangerous to sleep, because in There is a devil on every leaf5 . 1

Tract. Emek-gamelekh, l. 130, art. 1; tract. Bereshit Rabba, l. 201, ch. 4; tract. Ialkut rubeni, l. 116, ch. 3.

2 Tract. Behai, ch. 17, l. 90, 1 and 2. 3

Tract. Pesachim, l. 112, art. 2; tract. Iore-dea, l. 348. 4 Tract. Berakhot, l. 6, art. 1. 5 Tract. Ialkut had., l. 108, art. 2.

God created four countries of the world, says the book “Ialkut-Rubeni”: the country the east, from where light comes out into the world, the country of the south, from where the shadows of happiness come to the earth, the country of the west of the sun, where heat and cold, rain and snow are stored and, finally, the country midnight. God left the latter without any processing, and from there, from the very edges earth, demons and spirits of evil come out. So, in the north great spirits are kept imprisoned evil, Asa and Azael. They live on dark mountains, bound by huge iron chains, the ends of which are lowered into a deep abyss1 . These two demons are wonderful because all magic and sorcery come from them, so that the mountains on which they kept in prison, through them became the kingdom of magic. Learned from them magic Balaam, who held the Jews in Egypt with his spell, and King Solomon ruled through them over the birds and all the devils, and through them forced Queen Saba to visit him .

Chapter 10

Demon Asylum

The nut tree3 should be considered a haven for demons in the plant kingdom , and a goat in the a animal kingdom. Demons also live in rubbish and garbage pits, which is why they never one should not throw rubbish near doors and windows, because a demon will dwell in it and will observe what is happening in the house; They also live in drainpipes. So the Talmud says that one porter was carrying a barrel of wine and stopped just to rest under the drainpipe. The devil who lived there rushed onto the barrel and, breaking it, spilled the wine. A porter came with a complaint to a Talmudist who played trumpets sound and spell summoned the guilty demon for interrogation and forced him to a certain deadline to pay the cost of the wine he spilled.

1 Tract. Emek-gamish, l. 18, art. 1; l. 132 and other books. 2 Ibid.
3 Tract. Yalkut-

hadash, l. 108, p. 2.

Latrines, says the Talmud, are dangerous from three things: snakes, scorpions and demons. In Tiberias, for example, there was a case of a person being damaged by epilepsy by a demon in latrine. As for night time, during it in all deserted in places you can meet a demon, and therefore you should not go to such places, but it is necessary to choose the most crowded roads and streets. Out of danger to avoid getting caught under the power of demons, one should not walk on a moonlit night through deserted places and, as warns the Talmud not to congratulate anyone at night, for the person being congratulated can easily be the devil. In the morning you need to wash your hands early, as the evil spirit sits on unclean hands. Particularly dangerous from demons are the nights when the damaged moon begins fill. Jews have elaborate prayers for travel, in which angels are called upon for protection, obliged by their names and positions to accompany a person in protecting him from the devil's wiles. Even in houses at night it is necessary to be in society and not sleep alone in a room, so as not to be damaged by demons. In addition, men and women should be wary at night lest the story of Sarah, the daughter of Raguel, and her suitors be repeated to them. In general, demons boldly fly over a sleeping person, taking advantage of his absence at that time.
supreme soul, and sit on their hands1 . 1
Tract. Berakhot, l. 6, p. 1; tract. Kholin, L. 105, p. 2; tract. Shabbes, l. 67, art. 1; tract. Gitin, L. 70, Art. 1; tract. Megillah, l. 3, Art. 1; tract. Shabbes, l. 151, art. 2.

Chapter 11

Demons need food

Like everything earthly, demons need food and drink, but due to their subtility the lightest food is enough for them. Namely, demons feed on the heat of fire and dampness of water. Depending on what material is missing in their body, they rush onto the flame or into the water. One rabbi, says the Talmud, had in his service the demon who brought him water and did all other things according to his command. One day the devil did not come with water for a long time, and when the rabbi reprimanded him, the devil He said in his justification that many demons had gathered at the spring to drink water, and they with their unclean mouths they disturbed the source. Demons also willingly drink blood animals, therefore it is prescribed in the law to hide the blood of animals from demons into the ground. On this basis, even now Jewish slaughterers, after slaughtering an animal, immediately They cover the pool of leaked blood with ash.' Finally, demons, just like people, are mortal; The demon, like man, is formed from three elements. The balance of the elements is health; the predominance of one over the other is disease, and the displacement of any element is death. In general, demons die from the same reasons as humans. During the flood, along with all the demons would have died as humans if God had not ordered Noah to take them into the ark along with unclean animals2 . Many demons die a violent death from their comrades. Thus, Rabbi Abba helped one demon to kill another demon, his opponent, and I saw with my own eyes how black blood flowed out at the site of an inveterate fight or duels. Only the main demons that make up the family of Sammael3 do not die . 1 Tract. Hagiga, L. 16, art. 1; tract. Kholin, L. 105, art. 2. 2 Tract. Leda, l. 115, ch. 3.

3 Tract. Nishman Chaim, l. 118, art. 1.

No matter how hostile the demons are to the kingdom of light at present, in the future century they will all be cleansed. The Talmud indicates that each of us, that is, exclusively from Jews, has one thousand demons on his left hand, and ten thousand on his right. Who wants to make sure of their existence, let him sprinkle ashes around his bed. On another day he will see traces of chicken paws in the ashes. If anyone wants to see themselves demons, let him sprinkle powder from a burnt black cat in his eyes.

Both when choosing a cat and when saving powder, compliance is required rather difficult and complex conditions, which can only be done for learned rabbis, as described in detail in the Talmud, in the treatise "Berakhot."

The Talmud warns its faithful that man is in constant danger from the demons surrounding him, who land on him in droves, like flies in summer time, and they pursue him on all the roads of his path. Therefore he should always take care to keep yourself away from them, to drive them away incessantly by remembering the miracles of God and thereby making them powerless and harmless to oneself, by which one can even enslave demons into one's power by bringing selected verses and phrases from the Talmud.

Chapter 12

About biblical demons

We find no traces of demonism in the Pentateuch of Moses. The opinion of some Jewish scientists that the biblical serpent is the incarnation of the New Testament devil, in the present time is completely abandoned. The idea of a demon-devil is closely associated with the idea of the struggle between good and evil, light and darkness. According to the teachings of Zoroaster, the gloomy Angramainu, having become an enemy of the bright Aguramazdo out of envy, enters into him into a fierce struggle and tries to win over the person who is the best creation of Aguramazdo. We see nothing like this in the biblical account of serpent; there is no trace of any struggle between two hostile principles; the misfortune that befell the inhabitants of Eden is seen as a God-sent test. The center of gravity of the biblical Fall is transferred to man himself; He sinned because he listened to the treacherous serpent and was tempted by his words. Serpent has no independent meaning here, it does not represent any principle particularly hostile to God, it does not carry a person along with it out of envy, just as Zendavesta's Angramine does.

In the book of Job, as we know, "Satan" plays a very significant role. But he too has nothing in common with either the Persian Ahriman or the New Testament devil. He also does not represent any independent force hostile to the Divine; on the contrary, Satan is in the book of Job an obedient instrument of the Divine will, he is recognized along with other angels as the "son of God" and only carries out the punishments sent down on people, not at all rejoicing in the suffering of Job and without grieving at all for his joys. Satan does not sow evil out of love for him, he does not the genius of evil, he is only an instrument of God's wrath, befalling sinners for their sake for their own good, to bring them to their senses or to atone for their guilt. About any Dualism is out of the question here.

If we turn to the Mishnah, edited in the second century after Christ, then we will see that traces of demonism in the six sections of this huge collection are very are insignificant and there is no talk anywhere about any special hostile to the Divine beginning. On the contrary, many passages in the Mishnah clearly indicate energetic struggle luminaries of Judaism with mystical ideas that have spread among some segments of the people beliefs. Thus, Rabbi Ishmael, who lived in the second century after Christ, armed himself against the identification of illness with “demonic possession”, an identification that, as is known, was then in wide circulation mainly in non-Jewish spheres1 .

In the Book of Wisdom 2:24 we read: “Because of the envy of the devil, the light death; those who fall into her arms are convinced of this.”

Chapter 13

O Demon Asmodeus

In the book of Tobias, Asmodeus, the king of spirits, plays a prominent role, who is mentioned and in the Babylonian Talmud2 . 1

Tract. Avoyde-Zura, 27. 2 Tract.

Gitin, paragraph 68.

Before moving on to the characteristics of this new demon, it is useful ask what time the book of Tobiah dates back to. Not only the Mishnah, but the entire The Jerusalem Talmud (which appeared in the 4th century) does not mention Asmodeus at all. Those places Bereshit Rabba (l. 36) and Vayikra Rabba (l. 5) in which he is spoken of refer to the 6th and 7th centuries. after R. X. In view of this, some scholars (Kohut) believe that the book Tobias was written not in Palestine, but in Persia, and, moreover, not earlier than the 3rd century after R. X. Thus, there can be no question of any influence of the apocryphal Asmodeus to ideas about the devil that were finally formed much earlier. Upon closer examination of those legends in which Asmodeus appears, it turns out that in character he bears very little resemblance to the Persian Ahriman or the New Testament devil, and that the similarity between them, in any case, is only external. Like his Persian prototype, Asmodeus is the king of the "sheidim" spirits and indulges immoderately in sensual pleasures, but he is not the embodiment of the principle of evil and destruction: the name of God not only disarms him, but can even move him to Good deed; the treatise “Gitin” (l. 68) tells how King Solomon, having defeated the with the help of God, hordes of demons led by Asmodeus forced this latter participate in the construction of the temple. Asmodeus, like all creation, is in the power God's and can, on a par with wild animals and the destructive forces of nature serve also useful purposes. The evil spirits “sheidim,” says the Talmud, constitute part of the universe.

Once seeing a blind man who had lost his way, Asmodeus led him onto the road, because he heard that this blind man was a truly pious man and that those who helped he will be rewarded with participation in the Hereafter. Asmodeus, therefore, still hopes for eternal bliss. How immeasurably great is the difference between him and the condemned man? eternal torment and wanderings of the devil!

In Deuter. Rabbah (ch. XI) features another demon - Samail, the enemy Archangel Michael, but he also submits to God and, at His command, “frees souls from the body,” that is, plays the role of the angel of death; God sends him to take the soul of Moses, who did not want to part with a pure, sinless body. From this we see that in the Bible and in the original Talmud the story demonology is very limited, but only the later Talmudic sages divided the history of demonology into countless categories.

TREATATE III TEACHING OF THE TALMUD ABOUT THE SOUL

Chapter 1

The Jewish soul and its superiority over the Goyim

After God, there is nothing more perfect in the world than the Jewish soul. In my own way she is even higher in dignity than the angels, who, although they serve under Jehovah, removed from him by an immeasurable space.

Jewish souls were created at the beginning of the creation of the world and before their union with their bodies they are in seventh heaven1 . Thus the Talmud clearly shows the idea of the pre-existence of Jewish souls. God took care to produce the souls of the Jews within six days, even before creation

peace2 . 1 Tract. Hagiga, L. 12, p. 2. 2

Tract. Leda, l. 70, art. 2; Rashi, treatise. Hagiga, L. 5, art. 1; Leda, l. 72, art. 1.

Rabbinic theological books often mention that "the soul is a part of God and stands in relation to Him as a son stands in relation to his father." The souls of the Jews, being part of God, constitute God's most precious possession. The souls of the Jews have something advantage over the souls of other nations, which form part of the being of God, and as a result, every Jew represents a pearl of God, or a visible a material particle of God, just as every son is a part of his father's being. That's why Every Jewish soul is dearer and more pleasant to God than all the souls of other nations, since the souls of all other people, non-Jews, come from the devil. Elsewhere it is said that the souls of other peoples, that is, the souls of the goyim, are the souls of unclean animals and beasts. Further, the Talmud teaches that looking at the soul of a Jew is the greatest pleasure for God and that one Jewish soul is more valuable in the eyes of God than the souls of all other peoples taken together. Every Jewish soul is very dear to God, and He cares about every soul has special care. The desire and need of one Jewish soul is more important before God the needs and desires of the souls of an entire non-Jewish people, and the general desire of the souls of all the Jewish people has for God the power of law, directing the course of events. Due to his great affection for Jewish souls, God constantly has intercourse with them. Every Jewish soul living on earth is often called by God to heaven then only to enjoy and be comforted by her contemplation.

Chapter 2

Gentile souls come from the devil

In all other peoples of the world, souls come from the devil (as has already been said), even from cattle and beasts, because, as the Talmud explains in various treatises, the seed foreign, not Jewish, is the seed of the beast2 . 1

Tract. Hagiga, L. 12, p. 2. 2 Tract.

Leda, l. 70, Art. 2; Rashi, treatise. Hagiga, L. 5, art. 1; Leda, l. 72, art. 1.

All pre-created souls are kept by God in heaven in a repository called "guf" (or "gif"). God sends one soul at a time first than the mother will give birth to the child, and each soul represents a figure or shadow of the very body into which it will be appointed to enter. All these shadows, which have not yet descended to their appointed their bodies, each in a special form assigned to it, stand before God, who warns them to avoid sins when they come to earth1 . Souls in the free everyone knows the state; nothing is hidden before them, but at the moment when they pass into the human body, the angel touches the lips of the newborn baby, who forgets everything. The touch of an angel to a baby, according to the Talmudists, is nothing more than a decent click of the thumb under the nose; the result of this click remains: for the soul - oblivion of everything that it knew, and for body - the acquisition of two nostrils - as a result of this click of the great angelic finger and a dimple remains under a person's nostrils.

1 Tract. Leda, l. 70, p. 2; tract. Hagiga, L. 5, art. 1; tract. Leda, l. 72, art. 1.

When the time comes for a child to be born, God chooses a soul that matches the body of the future person and gives it to the body. A trembling soul after hearing the verdict

0 entering the world, falls to her knees and prays that God would not send her into this valley of sorrow. But God does not have the power to abolish the law, and the angel carries away the soul from heaven in his hugging her, singing a farewell song to her.

This myth served as material for Lermontov's famous poem "By An angel flew to the midnight sky..."

Rabbi Eliazar writes about the soul this way: "Know, O Israelites, that as soon as they are buried body, now they begin to judge the soul in the most strict way," this court is called "hibit gakever", i.e. the afterlife judgment, and after the judgment each soul is rewarded according to their deeds: those who, during their earthly life, prepared themselves for future by good deeds, move to another spiritual world "oilom gabo or genetic", where they will live forever; the same ones who, when separated from earthly life, were burdened with sins, they go to hell.

Chapter

3 God's conversation with dead souls

Almost all the rabbis write in more detail about the afterlife in the book "Etz-Hachaim". It is also written there what kind of conversation God will have with dead souls, and how many times the sinner's soul is judged. God himself descends to the deceased and says to him: "O you, man! How much concern I had for you! Even before you were born, I was already working so that your mother kept you safely in the womb and did not throw you out; only you was born, I have already prepared food, having given milk to your mother's nipples, I have preserved you for all the paths of your life. But what did you pay me for all this? Absolutely nothing; you're nothing You haven't done anything good in your whole life, you were a careless slave and didn't think at all about your soul his. And now, because of your carelessness, a difficult time is coming for you, it's coming my terrible judgment. What answer will you give me? Here the poor soul will almost burn from shame, fear and silence; every word of God will torment her like sharp needles or a sword.

But all this is not enough to punish the sinner; he is sent out into the world, so that he would suffer in this world for his sins. Even the righteous must pass ordeal filled with angels "Malche Habalo" who weigh and consider human affairs; for example, in the first ordeal they consider, lived whether a person is according to the will of God and his law: in the second, whether he prays to God; in the third - whether he honored the holidays and preserved the Sabbath; in the fourth - did he give alms, etc. But all the ordeals are not easy for an unfortunate sinful soul to go through; everywhere there is an obstacle to her, everywhere woe to her. Wherever there are no satisfactory good deeds, there are already she has to suffer until she is cleansed of all her sins.

Every ordeal contains a kind of fierce torment: one thing is done with fire, another with a bogey, a third with thunder, a fourth with hail, and all must be passed through, and go a long way. Each of the ordeals contains a space of a thousand arshins length and three hundred arshins in width. And you have to go through all this! Yes, okay if you have to pass them unhindered within 12 months; but another sinful soul, like Rabbi Eliazar assures that she will have to wander for many years through these ordeals until she is saved by the prayers of the righteous or endures all the fierce torments for their sins. When the soul is purified by fire, as metal is purified in a furnace, then one of the angels will appear to it, constantly serving at the throne of God, named

Archangel Michael, with the comforting news that the end of her torment had already come. WITH with this word he will lead the soul to the fiery river, redeem it in the heavenly source and then will already lead her, the immortal soul, into the palace of God, dressing her in a light robe (tales), seat her on a precious chair near the throne of God Himself, and this soul will be forever glorify your Creator with the angels.

What will happen to those who are condemned for their sins to eternal torment, such as, for example, sinners who rejected the resurrection of the dead, about whom it is written in the book "Etz-Hachaim" that they will suffer from generation to generation. They will be resurrected on the day of the general judgment, everyone will certainly be resurrected, every Israeli, according to the assurance of Etz Hachaim, how many no matter how much he sins before God, no matter how much he suffers, he will still be resurrected with his body. The Lord will have mercy on his people and forgive them their sins. Chapter 4 A Limited Number of Jewish Souls

According to the teachings of the Talmudic sages, all Jewish souls created by God and prisoners in the heavenly storehouse "Guf", there are sixty times ten thousand, i.e. 600,000. The determination of the sum of all souls, says the book "Yalkut Hadash", is sixty times ten thousand - is based on the law. Because every verse of the Bible contains six hundred thousand meanings of interpretation, or it can be interpreted in six hundred thousand modes, then each such interpretation refers to one soul. In the future Each soul will read life according to its own interpretation, which is unique to it. However, there are many souls of the highest caliber who are not limited to one his interpretation, and the soul of Rabbi Moses - may peace be with him! - even hugged everyone six hundred thousand interpretations[1] .

[1] Bedenschatz, ch. 3, l. 135; tract. Yalkut-hadash, l. 155; Shefat, L. 4; Shene-lyuh. gab., l. 262, ch. 3; name rabbi, Shefat, l. 4, art. 1; Menachem, ch. 53, l. 221; Yalkut-hadash, l. 154, art. 2; tract. Nesh. tr. Ibamot, l. 94, Art. 2; tr. Taanit, l. 27, art. 2.

Every night the Jewish soul goes to heaven and there does its work. interpretation, going through one verse every night. Since there are six hundred Jewish souls thousands, then the number of all living Jews cannot exceed this figure. According to teaching The Talmud comes out like this: if at present the Jews have bred over 10 million, then among them, as one must assume, there is only a small part bearing Jewish souls given from the Guf store, and the rest of the Jews must to be without a soul. According to the teachings of the Talmud, there are only 600,000 souls in the Guf store, and from there they are spent at birth, sinful souls do not return to general store, but must go to their destination for many years of repentance, depending by sins. Souls reside in various animals, stones, trees and water, but how Now all modern Jews are sinners, then their souls are at repentance. In addition, at Jews should each have two souls; during sleep, one soul flies away to collect dreams, and the other remains to guard the body so that the evil spirit does not take possession of it. Third Soul "shume-isaire" comes from hell on the Sabbath day for the rest that a Jew must give pleasure. If the Jews multiplied to 10 million, but there were only souls six hundred thousand, then almost all Jews are now without a soul.

"The living Jews," says the author of the book Nischmatha-dam, "are six hundred thousand, and there is never less, at least even by one person. God holds the scales and watches behind their balance, which fluctuates when the Jew departs. This is not none of those who know the wisdom of six hundred thousand doubts. I heard from astrologers that there are six hundred thousand stars in the sky."

Chapter 5

About the souls of baptized Jews

Remarkable is the teaching of the Jews about the souls of those who left the faith of their ancestors and accepted Christianity. These apostates are called “meshumeds,” and their souls doomed to eternal wandering in the consciousness of their insignificance. It is called "kafekal" One devout Hasid, having heard that the air that had made its way into the hole the bowl of soup standing in front of him hisses, not only did he not eat this soup, but even He immediately poured it out and ordered the chicken boiled in it to be buried in the ground, since this hissing was produced by the soul of a sinner living in the body of a boiled chicken. The book “Zohar” says: “There is a river in the future world called “Nogar-Dinur”. The soul before coming to heaven after long wanderings and purification by fire must certainly plunge into this river. But she risks drowning there, drowning forever, irrevocably. The soul of a tzaddik (miracle worker) should not be immersed in this sacred river, she only bathes in the mikveh (sacred font), then flies across the river (in the sacred font), then flies across the Nogar-Dinur river and on the other bank meets the angel Matata, who accepts her very much respectfully and, smashing to smithereens the souls of non-Jews trying to cross this the river, covers the road with them to the station, where the Rabbi goes.”

The sinful Jewish soul, even before it begins its purification, sometimes must space for many years. One pious Hasid explains the teachings of the Zohar this way: about this: “God created the earth or firmament, in Hebrew “adama”, grass, “tzimos” - animals “hai”, and provided all this for the reasonable use of man "Madaber". Man is obliged to return these gifts to God, but since he cannot do this maybe he should thank the Lord for them with prayer and good behavior. But Many sinners use the gifts of God for evil, and for this they are sentenced to death. multiple births into the world in the form of plants or animals.”

According to Kabbalists, everyone has a “Kneses Yisruel,” i.e., a member of the chosen people, the Jews, have three souls: one of them is animal and two are supernatural, transcendental. These are Ruach, Neshume and Nefesh. Gentiles have only one soul, an animal, Ruach. According to the general belief of Talmudic teachers, the soul of a Jew is part of the Divine “kholek eloga” - and among Christians the soul has only the power of reviving.

Part 6

About the extra shower on Saturday

On every Saturday, says the Talmud, every righteous Jew receives the said two souls still have an additional soul, so that only righteous Jews during throughout Saturday they carry within themselves this festive soul “shume-isaire”[1]. Appearing in Saturday, the additional soul, says Rabbi Rashi, awakens a strong spirit in every Jew appetite for food and drink, especially for holiday dishes, kugel and tzimmes2 . Before the fall of man, the souls of the Jews were closely connected with each other, intertwined like threads in a knot. Likewise, in the future life the souls of the Jews will be closely connected in one inextricable knot3 . 1

Tract. Taanit, l. 27, p. 2. 2 Ibid., Art.

1. 3 Tract. Hagiga,

L. 5, art. 1; tract. Ialkut, l. 155.

The rabbinical sages compared souls in their original state to a burning a wick twisted from many threads. So when the first person received a soul, then, due to the close connection with each other, all six hundred thousand souls entered into it, even the soul of Eve was one with the soul of Adam. These souls circled around the first of a person, like a swarm of bees, filling his nostrils, ears, hair, etc. But, as a result of it recklessness, when the serpent threw an unclean thought at Eve, the connection between souls fell apart, and then for the first time the souls of men and women, who at the beginning were one whole and inseparable, separated. Women's souls separated from men's and entered into a special chamber at the temple of the God of Israel. Then Eve's soul separated from souls of Adam. Since then, souls, representing themselves as a burning brand, crumbled from being struck by thousands of sparks, are kept in prison and, in a certain order, are spent on of people; when their entire supply is exhausted, then the son of David will come, that is, the Messiah[1] . 1 Tract. Menachem, l. 6, page 1.

Machine Translated by Google

All souls, after their separation, appeared to Adam in paradise. Shekinah - let it be his name is blessed! - having created man, he led him around his domain, showing him all the spirits and souls that through him should receive existence. Between Jewish souls, one soul attracted the special attention of Adam with his unusual thinness and lifelessness. “Oh, Lord of the world,” said Adam, What kind of soul is this that I don’t see any signs of life in it?” God, let him be blessed! - He answered that this was King David. Adam took pity on his descendant and gave he is seventy years old of his life. That is why King David lived seventy years, and in his life Adam is seventy years short of the thousand originally determined him to live. At great moments in the life of the people, souls take an intimate part in interests of Jews; Thus, all souls were present with the Jewish people at Sinai.

And at present, the connection of souls living on earth in bodies with bodies that still in heaven, maintained by constant mutual visits. For example, souls Jews, especially those who practice the law, are in heaven every night. Rabbi Yehuda told: there is no night on which the angel Metotron would not take all the souls who know law. And the angels who stand before God, and all the heavenly souls, never begin their night song of praise until the souls of all the righteous of the earth are gathered. Such it is precisely the meaning that the words have (Song of Songs, 2:13): “On earth the time of songs has come, and The voice of the turtledove is heard in our country. Flowers are those who study the law and strive on him; the time of song is the time of night words in the sky, and the voice of the turtle dove in our country - this is the voice of Metotron, calling the righteous.” However, not always and not all souls go to heaven at night: some walk on earth and wander at the gates of hell or across earthly abysses. Depending on the places in which souls wander at night, a dream is compiled, whether it is favorable or bad. On the contrary, in the great days of the earth, when the mysteries of heaven are performed on it, the souls living with God visit the earth. “Why is there no fasting on the first day of the week?” - asks the Talmudic treatise[1] and answers: “Rabbi Jochanan says that this is directed against Christians who distinguish this day (Sunday). Shemuel ben Nachmani says: because it is the third day after the creation of man, who on that day was still too weak to endure a day's fast, and Resho Lachish said that this was done for a reason extra souls." In the evening, from Friday to Saturday, every Jew receives from God from heaven an extra soul who spends the Sabbath holiday with him, and with the end of the Sabbath comes back[2] . This is precisely the meaning of the words: “Vafinatesh” (Is. 31:17), which should be read: “Vai, afeda, nefesh,” that is: “Alas! The soul is lost,” this is how a Jew expresses his grief at parting with his heavenly soul after the Sabbath. That's why in On the Sabbath, a Jew must have the best dishes at his table and his house must be clean more formal[3] . Together with the owner, the additional soul performs the table prayer. 1 Tract. Taanit, l. 27, p. 2; The same - Berakhot, l. 16, p. 1. 2 Ibid., l. 27, p. 2. 3 Ibid., p. 1.

Chapter 7

Machine Translated by Google

Every Jew has three souls within himself

As we have already said, according to different rabbis and different places in the Talmud, every Jew, in addition to an additional soul, carries within himself three souls: one animal and two supernatural - nefesh, ruach and neshume, each of which has a special, it characteristic appearance, character and range of actions. When Adam sinned, all souls were subjected to disorder in their threefold composition and were then purified in a special way in parts. Abraham gave justification to the six hundred thousand "neshamot" who were in the Neshema of the first man. Isaac told the justification to the six hundred Ruahot, who were in the hands of the first man. Finally, Jacob gave justification to the six hundred thousand nefeshot that were in the nefesh of the first man. The last of these souls is tight connected with the body, while others are weaker and often leave it. One of these higher souls constantly directed towards the sky, the other underground. When you close your eyes to the outside impressions, dreams in the most bizarre forms will rise in clouds in your head: these are the highest wandering souls telling the soul that lives constantly with the body what they see in heaven and under the earth[1] .

[1] Tract. Yalkut-hadash, l. 155.4.

But if Jewish souls are closely connected with each other, then they have nothing common with the souls of other peoples; the latter are as vile in the sight of God as the first ones are pleasant.

Initially, before the construction of the Tower of Babel, there was one source of souls, which is why all peoples spoke the same language. But since the confusion of tongues God divided all the nations of the earth into seventy parts and assigned each part to a special the prince, whose duty was to produce from himself souls for his people and store them through the influence of stars and planets. These princes became the gods of the peoples and support their power in the world by sending their souls into it, which they formed and stored in the space of the firmament on seven planets: Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Sun, Venus, Mercury and the Moon, so that souls are placed in each planet ten pagan gods. Only in the region of the moon, the lowest of all planets, it turned out empty space in which the souls of demons, brownies, etc. fit. Administered But the Shekinah (God) left only Jewish souls. Needless to say, how the souls of the pagan peoples are imperfect in comparison with these latter. Gentiles are not may even be called people, because they do not have the highest part of the soul, which should distinguish a Jew, but there is only a lower soul, nefesh. The souls of other peoples are not enjoy immortality (which is the privilege of the Jewish people alone) souls), because they do not come from the source that is said to be lives forever (Dan. 12:7), and from another beginning, “Kelita,” called death and shadow mortal. As coming from an eternal source, the dead souls of the Gentiles must and to be called by names not human, but by the names of the most unclean animals, i.e. snakes and pigs[1] .

[1] Tract. Emek gamelekh, l. 23, 4; Maarekh., l. 206.

Chapter 8 On the origin of the souls of peoples

There is another teaching in the Talmud about the origin of the souls of peoples - more general character. The prophet Isaiah speaks of the great ringed serpent, Leviathan, which Jehovah struck. This Leviathan, according to the explanation of the rabbis, is an evil god - Shatan, hostile to the Shekinah. He has a wife, Lilith, from the clan of Onocentaurs, from whose connection gave birth to the souls of all pagan peoples in the world. This lustful deity with his fertility was dangerous for the kingdom of the God of Israel; therefore, to achieve the goal peacemaking and give predominance to the kingdom of good over evil, Jehovah castrated Shatan and so thus made it impossible for the further spread of the kingdom of darkness. “Why,” asks the wise compiler of the book Hesedle Abraham, “is there currently still unclean souls, if Jehovah, blessed be his name! - castrated the evil one God? And he answers: “The evil ones currently existing and newly born the souls of demons do not come from Leviathan and Lilith, since birth from them became impossible, but from atheists and pagans. He who commits sin does so by his evil deed creates a demon, and there can be as many demons as there are sins happening on earth. These personified sins on the day of judgment will testify about people, saying: such and such so-and-so created me."

Machine Translated by Google

Regarding this Talmudic doctrine of pre-existence, comparatively a small number of souls are naturally perplexed: how such a limited supply of Jewish souls has not yet been exhausted, and from where they borrow their souls are later Jews? The answer to this misunderstanding is the teaching of the Talmud about transmigration of souls.

Chapter 9

The doctrine of the transmigration of souls and their calling after death

The doctrine of the transmigration of souls is unshakably held by Talmudists and Kabbalists. “Belief in the transmigration of souls,” says Rabbi Menasse ben Israel, “is a common faith our entire church. All the greatest sages of Israel believe and teach that this faith is the true foundation of all the foundations of the law"[2]. "Whoever has any views against soul transmigration, let him cope with the interpretation of the wise Abarbanell on the law in Parama "Kilera", where all doubts regarding this issue are resolved. Patriarch Abraham was the first to discover that the soul does not disappear after death, but passes into other bodies: not Knowing this, people who lived before Abraham did not distinguish themselves from animals.

The transmigration of souls itself takes place according to special laws. Soul coming out of one bodies, usually looks for another, homogeneous body, and only as a result special punishment or reward, the opposite occurs[3]. Souls of men in a straight line the paths turn into men; female to female, but for special reasons, both souls can also pass into the bodies of pagans, into domestic and wild animals, into birds, fish, even into plants, water and other inanimate objects. 1 Tract. Amelech. Shifa, 51, ch. 3 and 4. 2 Tract. Emek gamelech. 3 Tract. Leda H., L. 159, p. 2; l. 160, ch. 12.4 maam.

All these provisions are supported by Talmudists with facts from ancient Jewish history. stories.

“The soul of the first man had only two bodies worthy of wearing it - the king David and the Messiah. Our God-wise teachers say that in the name of the first man the initial letters of three names are connected: Adam, David and the Messiah. This means that before the fall of Adam, his soul passed into David, and when this latter sinned in deal with Uriah, Adam’s soul passed from him for purification into the Messiah.” However, according to According to other rabbinic interpretations, Adam's soul passes even earlier into Enoch. "When The first man was created and he was given one sovereign soul. But when he sinned, then this soul left him, leaving the body to his lower soul, Kalifhot, and she herself began to wait for Enoch, into whom she passed. Therefore it was decreed about Adam that he should die, but Enoch, who had a supreme sovereign soul, did not die.” Cain's soul, for his great crime, was thus split into three part, that its highest part, Neshama, moved to Getro, its other part - Ruach - to Koroha, a third of its non-fesh is in the Egyptian whom Moses killed, which is why the scripture says that Cain will have his crime avenged seven times. The soul of Japheth passed into Samson; soul Terah, the father of Abraham, passed into Job[1] , the soul of Eve in Isaac; Rahab's libertines Hebra, the soul of the Manger in Eli, and the soul of Esau, according to Rabbi Abarbanel, entered Jesus, that Esau who, according to the legend of the Talmud, was a barbarian and a robber[2] .

Wicked Jews (that is, their souls) who killed a Jew or abandoned a Jewish faith - after death they pass into plants, then into animals, then into goyim people, and finally again into Jews. This journey is arranged out of the mercy of God with the goal is for the entire Jewish people to participate in eternal life[3] .

1 Tract. Ialkut-rubeni, l. 18, 24, 61, p. 1; Ialkut had., l. 127, ch. 3: Tract. Adam Abarb. book Ref., l. 54, ch. 3. 2 Tract. Bova Batra, l. 16, p.

2. 3 Tract. Abodat is like that. 11, l. 48, p. 2;

tract. Leda H., L. 163, 2, 4, maam.

Chapter 10

About the transition of male souls into female bodies

Men's souls pass into women's bodies only as punishment for grave sins. If someone does not give alms to the poor (of course, Jews) or, having wisdom, does not communicates it to his fellow believers, then the soul of such a person is punished by relocation to female body. So, the male soul was in the body of Tama-ri, and then passed into Ruth, who therefore was not able to give birth until God blotted out the male sparks in her souls [1] .

Women's souls can first of all pass into women. “Know,” says the Ruben's treatise - that Sarah, Anna, Shunamite and the widow of Harpad had one soul of Eve." Sometimes, as mentioned above, as a reward for virtue, a woman’s soul can go to the men's room. So, Eve's soul was in the body of Isaac. However, there is information about the transition of women’s souls special teaching. According to this theory, a woman’s soul never goes into other bodies, but suffers punishment in Sheol. If there are cases of transition of female souls into other bodies, then only for the sins of their husbands. In general, from the relationship between spouses you can learn about the state of their souls prior to life. Weddings of persons who have fresh souls that have not yet been in other bodies are celebrated without any difficulties and quarrels, while the marriages of persons possessing souls are already belonging to other bodies are always difficult and accompanied troubles from different sides. Women's souls, like some of men's, pass into the bodies of pagans; so the soul of Ruth comes from a Hebrew root, for sins was sent into the world of the pagans, and when Boaz came into the world, she was again returned to the Jewish body. Thus, conclude the rabbis and pious Gentiles can have a share in the Hereafter because they are Jewish at heart and not pagans[2] . 1

Tract. Ialkut rubeni, ch. 9, l. 61. 2 Tract.

Yalkut hadash, l. 23, p. 2.

If the soul is sent into the female body only as punishment, then into the body of the pure On the contrary, only the righteous soul enters the animal. Since pure animals are so image, carry within themselves the souls of the righteous, this explains why the law prescribes special care for them, and why Jehovah was pleased with the sacrifices that consisted in the shedding of the blood of pure animals. Whoever sacrificed an animal had to imagine that he brings a human soul. That's why, in all kinds of when slaughtering an animal, you need to use a knife without scars to cause death the animal as lightly as possible and thereby alleviate the suffering of the righteous soul. Who eats dick?

Machine Translated by Google

an animal, torn from a living body with blood, eats the flesh of its brother; that's why and it is said: “Do not eat the soul and the body”[1] . To get rid of such a fate, go to the body of an animal and to suffer when killing it, David prayed in his words Psalm: “Deliver my soul from the sword and my only begotten from the dogs”[2]

Chapter 11

Criminal souls pass into unclean animals

On the contrary, unclean animals are filled with criminal souls . Such kind of punishment is mainly assigned to people who violate the sanctity marital relations. Since in this case the person exhibits rude animals inclinations, then as punishment for this his soul is sent to walk on all fours in the rudest animals, each of which, no matter how insignificant it may seem, can be represent the bearer of the sinful soul of man, as Scripture says: “You are the God of spirits of all flesh"[4] . “Your soul must not commit abomination in everything that is on earth creeps"5 , 1 Deut.

12.21. 2 Ps. 22,

21. 3 Tract.

Emek gamishi, l. 16, ch. 2 and 3; etc. 4 Num. 16.26. 5

Lev. 20.25.

that is, for life in the bodies of lower animals, Jehovah prescribes a law for the soul. If but a person is carried away by these abominations, then, says Jehovah: “I will make of you abomination,” that is, unclean animals. In particular, who has criminal connections with their mother-in-law, according to the Talmud he turns into a stork and in this form is persecuted by others storks; whoever is with his father's sister turns into a pagan; who is with his brother's wife - in the wild donkey, as it is said: “And man will be born a wild donkey”; whoever is with someone else's wife turns into an ordinary donkey, from which the mysterious meaning of the words is clear: “If If you see your enemy’s donkey fallen under a burden, help him load it.”[2] , because this donkey could be your half brother. Further, whoever has connections with his daughter-in-law turns into a mare; whoever is with his father's wife (not his mother) - into a camel; and who with by his mother, he becomes a donkey. Similar punishments are assigned to the atheists and the proud. This is how the builders of the Tower of Babel suffered, only the best punished by confusion of languages, and the rest were turned into monkeys, cats, mice and etc. Ishmael's soul passed into Balaam's donkey, and then into a donkey that belonged to Rabbi Pinaas ben Jair. Laban's flock, which passed to Jacob, consisted of 1074 human souls, which subsequently passed into human bodies, and behold an explanation of why the Jews were so prolific in Egypt.

1 Job 11,12. 2

Ex.23.5.

Regarding the migration into birds, Rabbi Moshe Shalante, who was the supreme judge Zephat (kabbalistic name for Jerusalem), said that once Rabbi Yitzchak Luria of blessed memory, traveling through the Holy Land, came to one spring, surrounded by olive trees, and lay down on the grave of the rabbi Yehuda bar-Ilai; Meanwhile, a raven sat down in the olive bushes, repeating the words: “Collapse, collapse”; then Isaac Luria said to Rabbi Moshe Galante, who accompanied him: “Did you know? are you the man who was called Sabbetai?” “I knew,” answered Galante. - It was bad and an extremely cruel person." To this Luria said: “His soul passed into this crow for his cruelty and greed with which he treated the poor, taking away they have property and tear off the last clothes from their shoulders. God bless you his name! - sent his soul into the raven. And with this cry he asks me I prayed for him." Then Luria said, turning to the raven: “Go on your way, atheist, I will pray for you.” And the raven flew away.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 12

The transition of souls into small insects

Sometimes souls pass into the smallest insects; just like souls proud people turn into bees. The prophetess Devora turned into a bee for being proud treated Barack. The prophetess Hulda, who spoke about the king, was also turned into a bee David: “Tell that man” without calling him king.

As for fish, which are called clean in the law, only souls of the righteous. The rabbis prove this idea with a special argument. Proof: this is the same addition of the word “righteous” and the word “fish”. From here it can be understood that the former sometimes appear in the form of the latter. Therefore it is necessary Jews eat fish as often as possible1 . Then the souls pass into plants. Whoever feeds a Jew unclean food will the punishment will turn into the leaves of the tree and will spin between heaven and earth with every minute danger of being torn away with every breath of wind, which will happen constitute the greatest torment. When the leaf falls away, the soul passes to another, so that suffer the same fate until the time for her release comes2 . 1 Tract. Yalkut hadash; l. 20, ch. 4. 2 Tract. Emekgamelek, l. 153, p. 2.

The souls of those who often lie pass into inanimate objects; these people are dead will turn into dumb, soulless objects. Rabbi Isaac Luria says that the names: Nabal, Lavan, Balaam consist of the same letters, because these persons had one and the same soul, precisely as follows: Laban’s soul went into stone, then, after being cleansed, she entered Nabal and, revealing herself to be slandering and blasphemy against David was again turned to stone, as they say: “And he became (The pile) is like a stone.” Transgression of the will of God is punished in the same way and a curiosity for which Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of salt. Rabbi Isaac Luria once pointed out to his disciples a stone in the wall in which the soul was imprisoned, and when This quoted the words of the prophet. Habakkuk: “Then the stone from the wall will scream.” This the latest evidence confirms that souls, turning into stones, do not lose their senses and awareness of one's condition. On the contrary, Jehovah then sends them into such rough environment to let them feel their sins in society with lower and lower objects the coarsest breed1 . 1

Therefore, in Jewish cities, the Jews avoid revenge and cleanse the stone pavements, namely, so that stones covered with dirty rubbish do not suffer so much from forged wheels, since these stones contain Jewish souls. All police efforts forcing Jews to keep the pavements clean leads to nothing.

Chapter 13

The transition of souls into water

The souls of those who shed innocent human blood move into the water. Such the soul will pass into the water, and this is precisely the mysterious meaning of the words: “All a person would cry his life if he knew what a terrible punishment it is to drown forever in water! For this punishment, places are chosen where water is in constant movement, which is why the soul suffers, constantly suffocating and not having a moment of rest when constant movement. In this case, the attempts of the soul to emerge from the water or go out to relax on the coastal sand. The guardian angel immerses the soul again every time into the depths, as soon as she shows her pale face on the surface of the water. Therefore, whoever drinks water should not immerse his mouth in the source, so as not to swallow a soul that may be a godless soul. Moreover, souls often live in water mills, where they are obliged to constantly turn wheels and stones with water. These punishments are imposed on wives for the criminal relations of their husbands with other people's wives. The general meaning of the Talmudic teaching about soul migrations is that these journeys of the soul are acts of God's mercy, in order to do everything the Jewish people are participants in eternal life1 . It cannot be said that in some places there was no true and good account of the soul in the Talmud. Let's give the following teaching: "As God fills the whole world, so the soul fills the whole body, as God sees (everyone) and himself is invisible, so the soul sees (others), but itself is invisible; how God feeds everything the world, so the soul nourishes the whole body; just as God is pure, so is the soul pure; just as God is hidden, so is the soul hidden."[2]

1 Abodat gak., l. 48, p. 2; Leda H., L. 168, ch. 4, maam. 2 Berakhot, l. 9, page 1.

At the beginning of the morning prayer the Jew says: "God! The soul that you give me gave, pure, and You created it, You formed it, You breathed it into me, You keep it in me, You will take it from me over time and return it to me in the future."

Chapter 14

The transition of the soul into the wind

The last and most difficult soul migration is that the soul, rejected by the whole world, even the inanimate, spills into the air and turns into wind. He who has sinned greatly by slandering his father rejects, like Epicurus, being God and the divine origin of the law, the immortality of the soul, rewards and punishments future life; in the same way, whoever had relations with foreign wives, slandered a Jew before the king, etc., is punished by painful wandering above the earth's surface without a moment's rest. This soul constantly rolls like the wind, with hill to mountain, from mountain to hill under the scorching heat of the desert and in winter weather, through forests and seas, to the last borders of the earth. At the end of the earth stands an angel who gives the soul a terrible push in the opposite direction, and again it rolls through mountains and valleys to the other end of the earth, to return back from the push of another an angel standing on the opposite side of the earth. Souls of pagans and demons, like those not intended for a future life do not pass on to other bodies. One day Sammael and all the seventy princes appeared before God and said: "O Lord of the world, yes Blessed be your name! You are our common Father, because we are all the work of our hands Yours. Why did You choose the descendants of Abraham over all of us and through the migration the shower made them participants in eternal life! Why don't You do this to us?" Then God, blessed be His name! - answered: "Did you do what you did Abraham, who knew me from infancy, and out of love for me, ascended to the fire of the Chaldeans. Did you see how I freed him from the sacrificial fire with my own hands? So what? You? You didn't believe in me."

Chapter 15

About the expulsion of a settled spirit from one woman

In the book "Emek Hamelech"[2] there is a wonderful story "Venad".

1 Tract. Nashmat khoim, l. 162, p. 1. 2 Sheet 16, ch. 3-4.

Machine Translated by Google

One day they sent Rabbi Isaac Luria with a request to come and drive out a spirit that had settled in a woman. Having no leisure, the rabbi sent his student Chaim. Arriving at the house of a demon-possessed woman, the rabbi saw that a human had settled in her. soul and demanded confession from her. The soul began the confession as follows: "I sailed from Alexandria, a city of Egypt, by ship in order to land in the city of Rashite. We had already reached the place where the Nile rolls its waves into the sea, when suddenly a misfortune happened: the ship sank, and I drowned" - "Why," interrupted my soul Rabbi, "didn't you confess your sins while you were still in the body?" The soul answered and said: "Alas! I didn't take a moment to remember my sins, because the water came up to my throat, and, losing consciousness, I soon fell into the sea." - "What What happened next," asked the rabbi, "when did you leave your body?" And the soul answered, and said: "And when it became known in Rashit about the death of the ship, the Jews who lived there went out of the city to the shore, gathered all the Jews who were with me on the ship, and immediately buried us. I considered myself happy and thanked heaven for the mercy; but - oh horror! - Before the Jews who buried me had time to leave the grave, a terrible angel appeared; the fiery sword was in his hand. It flashed with a strong blow on my coffin, and the coffin scattered like a piece of wood. And the angel shouted with thunder: "Rise, atheist, for judgment." Wherein he grabbed me, put me in a sling, and threw me with a swing so that I flew away from the city Rashita to the gates of Sheol. As soon as I fell at the gates of the underworld, a thousand thousand souls of atheists ran out from there, condemned for the sins that burdened me. They raised a cry, cursing me, and said: "Get away, get away from here, you atheist, bloodsucker, there is no meth for you in the underworld." Rejected by hell, I went to wander with mountains to mountains, from hill to hill, and three destroying angels constantly walked with me. Often other destroying angels and evil spirits came our way; then even tougher My tormentors attacked me and the blows of their fiery swords were even more merciless. All my joints could be counted. On such a painful journey I reached Gormis, a large city neighboring India, lying on the way from Babylon. Here I was allowed to go to a Jew, where I hoped to rest from hellish wandering and scourging. But, to my extreme chagrin, I noticed that I had found myself in bad company; the people here were godless and lived freely with pagan wives. I could not feel good about the many unclean spirits that lived here as people and in people. That's why I soon left there even more wicked than she was before; and again went to wander from mountain to mountain, hill to hill in continuation of many years, until she came to the Judean desert and settled in the body one deer. Due to extreme weakness in my new home, I met new torment: the soul of an animal is not similar to the soul of a person and is extremely disgusting, so that I could not get along with her for one minute. In addition, food the animal was unbearable for me. Meanwhile, a new guest came to me, a cub the deer, and the struggle of three souls in the body of one animal, so tormented the poor deer that one day, from internal torment, she rushed off the cliff and died. Then I went out and went to wander in the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Israel, and entered the body of one priest; but this priest immediately sent for the Turkish imams, who with their with spells and badges hung around his neck, they forced me, having suffered enough, to come out; not that these evil spirits could be stronger than me, but since they there were many, I was afraid that some of them would come into contact with me. Then, finally, I came to Zefat, which is now newly built, and entered the body this woman." Then the rabbi asked: "How long will you suffer and how long will you suffer?" your main sin, for which you suffer?" - "I had illegitimate children, and torment mine will continue as long as the last of them lives in the world." With these the people, who had gathered in large numbers in the house of the demon-possessed woman, burst into tears at the words; many realized that they would have to experience the same suffering. Then Chaim asked: “What gave you the right to settle in this woman? What was she guilty of? And the soul answered: “This the woman did not believe that the children of Israel came out of Egypt on Passover night, when all Jews rejoice, and “Hallel” (a well-known prayer) was considered trifles, worthy ridicule. She said in her heart: such miracles have never happened!” Having received permission from an angel to watch this woman, I once spent the night with her. She needed to light a fire, but despite all her efforts, she could not get any one spark. Then, with annoyance, she threw a stone and said: “Ugh, devil!” In that for a moment I was allowed to enter it, and now for twenty-five years I have been tormented in it.” Then said the rabbi, turning to the woman: “Do you believe by faith that God, let His name be blessedly, He created heaven and earth, and that there is no one who could say to Him: why Did you do this? “Yes, I believe,” answered the wife. “Do you believe,” the rabbi further asked, that God, “blessed be His name!” - brought us out of Egypt by dividing the sea? The wife answered: “Yes.” “Do you believe with complete faith that you are being punished for your former sins? “Yes,” the wife answered and began to cry. Then the rabbi addressed spell to the spirit and commanded that it leave the body through the little toe of the left foot (because the member through which the spirit leaves the body is paralyzed). The spirit came out, but the torment of “on Vonad” forced him to watch for a long time at the window and door of this woman so that seize a favorable moment for yourself to enter it again. Then they turned to Isaac Luria, may the world of paradise be with him! - who sent that disciple of his, Rabbi Chaima, see if the mezuzahs (embedded Jewish prayers in the door frame) or not. Chaim came and saw that the doors of the house were completely without mezuzah. The rabbi ordered that a mezuzah be placed on the door, and since then the spirit left his wife in peace and went on to wander further.

Machine Translated by Google

This is the narrative of the Talmud and its teaching about Jewish souls and the process relocating them. However, the highest Jewish aristocrat and modern an educated person must believe and recognize this as the main dogma of his religion contrary to his self-awareness and general common sense. Jewish historian Josephus states: “God gave Solomon an opportunity to learn the art of communicating with demons for the benefit of to people. Solomon left behind spells to cure all sorts of diseases and magic formulas, with the help of which it is possible to bind demons in such a way that they never they will no longer risk returning to people. This art is still very strong flourishes among us. So, for example, I had to hear about a certain Eleazar, our fellow tribesman, as he once did in the presence of Vespasian, sons, thousands and masses troops, delivered all those possessed by evil spirits. At the same time, he did the following way: he brought to the nose of the demon-possessed the finger on which he was ring with the root of the plant indicated by Solomon included in it, and thus extracted the possessed have demons from their nostrils. The patient immediately fell dead to the ground, and everyone present was ready to swear that he would never come to his senses again if it were not for Solomon and the spell formulas he compiled. Wanting, however, to completely convince those present that he really has the indicated by force, Eleazar ordered to place a cup filled with water or a vessel for washing feet and ordered the demon to overturn the vessel when leaving the patient’s body, so that all spectators could actually be convinced that the evil spirit had indeed left the possessed. This was done to ensure that everyone had the opportunity be convinced of the deep wisdom of Solomon.

TREATISE IV ON THE KILLING OF CHRISTIANS BY THE JEWS

Chapter 1 Barbaric murder of Christian women Franziska Mnishek

Machine Translated by Google

In 1885, in Galicia, in the Pleshov district, near the town of Lucina, the barbaric murder of the girl Franciszka Mniszek was committed by the Jewish Rieter family with the assistance of the peasant Stakhlinsky. The Rieter family consisted of a Jew Rieter, about 60 years old, his wife and two adult daughters. Their estate was located on the edge of the forest near a deep ravine, in a completely secluded area. In this Jewish family, a young Christian woman, Franciszka Mniszek, was a servant. The result of this service was Mniszech's pregnancy. Then, under the influence of her sister’s reproaches, she left the service of the Jews and settled with her. But from time to time she went to the Jews, as the culprits of her pregnancy, to ask for help for her maintenance. Just at this time, the Ritters were planning to marry off their eldest daughter. At a family council, the old Rieters decided that it would be the greatest misfortune for themselves and for the young spouses for a Jewish fetus to be born from a Christian woman. The last time the former maid Francis came to the Rieters was in December to ask for provisions for the holidays and after that she disappeared without a trace. Despite all the searches by local authorities, there were no traces of her anywhere. Six months later, shepherds grazing cattle in the forest, attracted by the barking of dogs, noticed a piece of a woman’s dress sticking out from under a heap in the depths of the ravine. And then the corpse of the unfortunate Franciszka Mniszek appeared with her womb cut out and her braids cut off. Suspicion of the crime fell, of course, on the Riters and on Stakhlinsky's neighbor, a drunkard and notorious scoundrel who was in the Rithers' employ. Stakhlinsky was immediately arrested and taken to prison in the nearby town of Lucina. On the way, he confessed everything to the gendarme accompanying him and sincerely spoke with all the details about this terrible crime and his participation in it. When it was Mniszech who asked the Jews for potatoes, then for this supposed purpose, Ritter and his wife took her to the basement, and Stakhlinsky walked behind them, armed with an ax and agreed in advance for money and vodka to assist in committing the murder. As soon as Mnishek found herself in a deep basement, from where no voice could come out, the Jewish woman from behind threw a scarf over her head, and Stakhlinsky knocked the unfortunate woman to the ground with a blow from the butt of an ax. Then Rieter’s wife held the fallen woman by the legs, Stakhlinsky by the head, and Rieter himself stabbed her with a knife. At night, the Riters, having previously cut out the fruit of the dead woman’s womb and cut off her braid, carried the corpse into the forest and hid it under the branches at the bottom of the ravine, where it was later found by the shepherds. The arrested Ritters did not confess to committing the crime. But the jury in the city of Rzheshov, after conducting a thorough medical examination of the corpse, having found all the signs of a ritual murder, nevertheless unanimously sentenced the Ritters to death, and the sentence was sent to Vienna for final approval by the judicial department. Here, the Rieters' influential tribesmen found an opportunity to find fault with some informality and got the original verdict canceled. The case was ordered to be transferred to the Krakow court for a secondary trial with the participation of professors from the University of Krakow as experts. Moreover, the accusing prosecutor was instructed not to call this crime a ritual murder. The Krakow jury, after listening to the testimony of witness Stakhlinsky and a very detailed explanation from experts, unanimously sentenced the perpetrators of the crime to death for the second time. Despite this, the Vienna Cassation Department, under the influence of the almighty Jewry in Vienna, having noticed the omission of one unimportant formality, cassated the verdict and ordered the case to be tried again by a new section and jury with the participation of other experts, also from among the professors of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Krakow. But, to the credit of the Polish judges, this jury also unanimously sentenced the Ritters to death for the third time. It happened here unexpected thing. Prisoner Stakhlinsky, who was in prison, distinguished by his strong physique and flourishing health, suddenly dies. According to the prison doctor, his death was due to consumption. Thus, the only and very important witness in this terrible crime was eliminated. The result of all this was that the sentence against the Rieters was not carried out, and soon an order was received from Vienna, to the greatest surprise of all, for the criminals to be released without even having their case reviewed. The opinions of the 36 jury judges who decided the Ritter case, and the 9 professors who participated as experts, were left without any attention, and the crime remained unpunished. What was also surprising in this case was the fact that the local Jews had advance knowledge of the fate that awaited the Ritters, because on the eve of their release a mass of Jews surrounded the prison expressing joy at the successful conclusion of the case.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 2

About the killing of the Christian maiden Maria Drich by the Jews on November 17, 1883, submitted to the Christian police supervisor of the city Lyutsin, Vitebsk province, an announcement on behalf of the Lyutsinsky 2nd guild merchant Zimel Lotsov that on the night of the said date, the soldier's daughter, Lotsova, who lived with him, Lotsova, left as a worker, Maria Kazimirovna Drich, having stolen the following things during her escape: three copper candlesticks, a pot of red copper, wheat flour for 5 rubles, rye for 6 rubles, flax 12 poods for 50 rubles. and shoes worth three rubles. From the footprints left in the snow, it was noticeable that that night they drove up to his house, Lotsov, on a cart from the city, and then headed towards Sebezh. Despite this statement, Maria Drich, who disappeared from Lotsov's house, did not appear anywhere in the surrounding area and her whereabouts were not discovered by police searches. On March 23, 1884, the Lyutsin tradesman Ivan Kalinin, while remaking fishing pins on the Pylda (Insuada) River, near an old leaky boat submerged in the water in the middle of the river and the stakes stuffed there, saw some clothes and was convinced that it was the corpse of a woman, about than he then told the police, and after removing the corpse from the water to the shore, it turned out that the one found in the river was Lotsova's missing worker, Maria Drich. An external examination established that Drich was dressed in a summer jacket of an unspecified color, a torn canvas shirt and rags like a skirt, her feet were bare, her neck and torso were girded along the arms and legs; a scarf in the form of a cover was tied on the head, covering the head and face, two bricks were hung from the neck, weighing together from 8-10 pounds. Based on the data of the forensic autopsy of the corpse, the Lyutsinsky district doctors Sanderson and Sadovsky and the medical department of the Vitebsk provincial government concluded that the death of Maria Drich occurred from strangulation in the literal sense of the word, with some soft object (pillow, napkin, etc.) that her already lifeless corpse was thrown into the river, that the corpse of the strangled Drich lay in the water for at least several months, and that Drich was deprived of her innocence during her lifetime. Those accused in this case and put on trial were: Lutsinsky 2nd guild merchant Zimel Abramov Lotsov, 50 years old, his wife Estera Yankeleva Lotsova, 40 years old, Drissen townspeople Shmuila Leiba Getselovich-Gurevich, 22 years old, and Mussa Khaimova Maykh, 25 years old. All of them were charged with a crime under Article 1454 and 13 Art. Penal Codes. The most important testimony: 1) the stepmother of the late widow of a retired private Agatha Drich, the Lyutsinsk bourgeois Marfa Oshchenkova and the peasant woman of the village of Grechi Elena Ivanova. Before the Intercession of 1883, Maria Drich conveyed to them that she was in a love affair with the eldest son of Zimel Lotsov, Yankel, and that Yankel intended to accept Christian faith and marry her, Drich; 2) the same Elena Ivanova, the peasant woman Matryona Sinitsyna, the noblewoman Rynanya Stefanovich and the Rezhitsa bourgeois Daria Maslennikova testify that on the night of the event, i.e. November 17, 1883, there was a large gathering of Jews in the house of Zimel Lotsov. According to Ivanova, there were more than fifty of them, and Maslennikova herself saw how in 10 Jews arrived at Lotzov's house. Such a gathering of people attracted the attention of Stefanovich, and when the latter asked her neighbor, the Jewish Soshka, about the reason for the gathering of Jews in Lotsov's house, she received from her, while Maslennikova was there, the answer that Zimel's daughter was being betrothed and the son was being circumcised. In fact, there was nothing of the kind in Lotsov's house that evening. In addition, from the said witnesses, Elena Ivanova certifies that during a meeting with her on the said evening, Maria Drich cried and said that her heart felt that she would no longer survive this night, since she heard that the Jews gathered in the house of Zimel Lotsov uttered the word " kosher." When the witness advised Maria to leave the Jews and she wanted to cross the threshold, Zimel Lotsov, his wife and son-in-law held Maria by the hands and did not allow her to leave the house; 3) following the disappearance of Maria Drich from the house of Zimel Lotsov on that night, his family, as certified by testimony, began to spread rumors that Maria had been found in some village, and a little later they said that she was sitting with her child in the Rezets prison castle , and is now being held in the Dinaburg prison. Such rumors were spread by the Lotsovs, of course, not without a purpose, with the intention of quelling rumors about the missing maid; 4) Maria Drich alone, without a doubt, could not commit the theft declared by Zimel Lotsov, including 12 pounds of flax and several pounds of flour. Simel's indication that that night he noticed traces of a cart in the snow near the house, according to which he assumes that someone drove up from the city for Maria, contributed to her escape and theft, is devoid of any credibility for the following reasons: a) if Simel had really noticed the traces he pointed out, then, without a doubt, he would have immediately taken measures to find those responsible for the theft using those traces, but nothing of the kind was done to them; b) in the morning, after the disappearance of Maria Drich, three copper candlesticks declared stolen by Lotsev were found by the tradesman Dobrynin and the peasant Greitan thrown into a ditch near the large Sebezhskaya road, two miles from Lotsov's house, which in no case could have happened if Maria had been anyone - taken away. The person who took her away, of course, would not have thrown part of the stolen property into a ditch; c) according to Zimel and according to the certificate of witnesses Ivanova, Stefanovich and Maslennikova, during Maria's stay in Lotsov's house for a year, none of the strangers came to see her, and the witnesses are fully convinced that Maria, due to her moral qualities, did not commit the theft declared by Lotsov could and d) even if we assume that Maria, having decided to commit theft, persuaded someone to drive up to Lotsov's house for this, then without a doubt, to fulfill her intention, she would not have chosen the night of November 17, on which in Lotsov's house, as established the testimony given was a whole crowd of Jews, and a more convenient one in which there would be only the owners in the house; 5) the body of Maria Drich was found in the Pylda River, only one and a quarter versts away from Zimel's house, and a path ran to that place from this house. Witness Kalinin suggests that the corpse was brought to the river on poles, since in the rainy and wet autumn of 1883 it was impossible to ride up to the river on a horse and in order to carry the corpse on poles, he was tied hand and foot; 6) to the neck of Maria's corpse, as stated in the inspection report, two bricks were tied, and at Simel's house, as can be seen from the case, there is a warehouse of bricks; 7) only Zimel and his family were interested in the disappearance of Drich and had her well-known motives for the murder, namely: the firm intention to prevent Yankel's son from accept Orthodoxy and prevent marriage with a Christian.

Machine Translated by Google

In view of the above considerations, in the murder of Mary involved as accused Lotsov, but, without admitting guilt, Lotsov stubbornly denies certified by many witnesses of the gathering in his house on the night of the mass event Jews. In refutation of the above testimony and a host of others, no less grave and weighty, the defense cited the testimony of a whole legion of Jews, testimony that deceitful, confusing and implausible. The Jews, of course, were interested in the accusation of ritual murder was not confirmed.

Prosecutor Deitrich said approximately the following in his speech: There is not the slightest doubt that Drich was killed on the night of her disappearance, and, moreover, by strangulation, since there are no external signs there was no violence on the corpse, and medical experts unanimously establish that this method of taking life. If we compare the external examination of the corpse and the area where he was found, with the testimony of the bailiff Brown and other persons, then it turns out, firstly, that Drich was deprived of life in the hut where she spent the night, because it was impossible allow her, in the second half of November, when the first snow fell, to go out into the street or into the yard in one shirt, skirt and jacket, completely barefoot, without shoes and stockings, as determined by inspection of the deceased's corpse; secondly, the arms and legs tied tightly, the bent position of the corpse indicate that Drich is already the dead body was carried on poles to the river, such was the general impression of all those who saw a corpse pulled out of the water; thirdly, the body of the deceased was thrown into Pylda not in the place where it was found, otherwise the rest of the bricks tied to the corpse would have been found here loops left in different places of the corpse, as witnesses testify. Can It's safe to say that Drich was thrown into the river much higher and into hollow water: she was carried by the current to the stake, where Pikalev found the corpse.

The prosecutor does not even allow the thought of robbing Drich, since the robbers they could take off her jacket and shoes, but not her stockings; besides, robbers would have used another method of taking life, they would have strangled her or broken her head, but they would not have suffocated Maria "with something light, like a pillow," as experts say, and which they probably did not have at hand at all. Let's say time that the robbers strangled Maria Drich, but then the question arises: what was the goal for them to tie the hands and feet of the corpse, tie bricks, take it to the river and throw it into water? After all, robbers value time; it is in their interest, having stunned and even killed the victim, to quickly remove everything from him and leave, so as not to be caught at the crime scene, and not mess with the corpse. Obviously, there was no point for the robbers and grounds for hiding the corpse, this could have been done by the person in whose interests there was the disappearance of Maria Drich without a trace. If in this way Drich was killed in the hut where she spent the night, then the question is: in which hut? Considering this issue from all sides, analyzing it to the smallest detail, Mr. Prosecutor comes to the conclusion that killing Drich by cutting off the air supply to the respiratory tract was committed none other than in the house of Zimel Lotsov. This position is confirmed testimony of Gribovsky, who left Lotsov's house on the evening of November 16, followed by Drich locked the gate; witness Ivanova certifies that Maria in the evening of the same day remained in Lotsov's house itself, that when she wanted to take her away with her, her husband and Lotsov's wife did not allow Maria to leave the house. Moreover, the accused themselves do not deny that on the night of November 17, the deceased Drich was in their house. Having installed direct connection between Lotsov's house and Drich's corpse found in the river Pylde, adding to this the conclusion from the autopsy report, indicating that the murder had to occur in a situation known to be favorable for such a method of deprivation of life as strangulation, the prosecutor stated that if it is categorically established that Drich was deprived of life in the house of Zimel Lotsov, then we have the right to contact him with a question and demand an account of the deprivation of life Mary, we have the right to ask him: on the night of November 17, 1883, your maid, Drich, was deprived of life in your house; Already dead, they tied her hands and feet, tied up bricks, took her out of the house and threw her into the river, so tell us who did this? Analyzing Lotsov's explanations about the disappearance of Drich, who committed the theft, the prosecutor found that the story about the theft was pure fiction, “it is nothing more than a resourcefulness made in order to protect oneself.” Not to mention the details, the very act of committing the theft seemed impossible because the dogs would have started barking frightfully at the mere approach of strangers to the house, since Drich alone was not able to drag flax over the fence, and besides, the people who decided to steal were not they will drive up to the fence directly from the road along which people constantly pass. Then, if Drich decided to commit theft, when she ran away, she would certainly take her things with her, meanwhile they all remained in Lotsov’s house. The desire to put the solution of the crime on the wrong track goes even further - from the stories of witnesses it is clear that the Lotsovs spread rumors that Drich had been found and was sitting in prison with a child, the fiction goes so far as to say that Maria Drich’s brother even went on a date with her. The circumstances surrounding the crime indicate that it could not have been committed without accomplices, but, unfortunately, the preliminary investigation was unable to establish who was in Lotsov’s house on the night of November 17, except for Gurevich and Maykh, and that Yankel Lotsov was not was at home that night, this is proven by positive data. Having made a few more comments, the prosecutor asked himself: why, for what purpose was the murder committed? After all, there must have been at least some motivating reasons, “after all, even a chicken is killed for some occasion and reason”? To admit wanton murder in this case is to assume that the killer was crazy; the purpose of robbery could not have been here, because Lotsov was a rich man, and Drich was a beggar, there could be no talk of revenge, since there was no reason for the unfortunate girl, who entered the service of a rich Jew, to have disputes with him that would provoked revenge on his part. Obviously, in this case there was a reason that, in Lotsov’s eyes, made Maria Drich’s continued existence in the world inconvenient. The reason that forced Lotsov to “wipe the late Maria off the face of the earth,” according to the city prosecutor, is as follows. A number of witnesses testify that Yankel Lotsov fell in love with his father’s beautiful maid, whom he first began to court, and then entered into a relationship with her and became so attached to her that he wanted to convert to Catholicism and marry Maria Drich. If among Christians the case when a son betrays the faith of his fathers causes trouble, then the latter are incomparably stronger among Jews in relation to persons who accept Christianity. At the trial, Itsek Lotsov, when asked whether Yankel did not want to marry Drich and whether he was in a close relationship with her, answered that this could not be, “this is such a shame, which cannot be imagined greater.” If, therefore, one relationship with a Christian is a shame in the eyes of the Jews, then the possibility of converting to Christianity is a terrible thing, capable of arousing fanaticism. “You, Messrs. “Jurors,” the prosecutor continues, “you live among the Jewish population, you know what counteractions they use in cases where one of the Jews wants to convert to Christianity.” Such persons must be protected, they must be taken away, because if they fall into the hands of the Jews, they will disappear once and for all.” (This part of the speech was included in the protocol at the request of the defense). To the life of a person who can cause dishonor

Machine Translated by Google

the whole family, the Jews treat them completely cold-bloodedly, and in this case it was necessary to decide on one of two things: or lose his son, with whose side threatened to convert to Catholicism, or destroy the Christian woman. The latter was much more profitable, since if Maria Drich was not in the world, then her son would will not convert to Christianity. So, the goal that Lotsov sought was to prevent his son from converting to the Christian faith. If at the same time remember that on the night of the murder many Jewish men gathered at Lotsov's, that the husband and Lotsov's wife and their son-in-law did not let Drich leave the house when she wanted to leave with Ivanova, then it is necessary to come to the conclusion that on the fateful night in the house of the defendants there was a meeting on what to do, at which the most radical the measure is to destroy Drich. This motive, this driving reason must be considered sufficient to admit that a Jewish fanatic, motivated by his own co-religionists, decided to kill, and if the jurors come to this conclusion conclusion, then it will become clear to them that the motive for committing
It was Zimil Lotsov who carried out the murder, and not anyone else."

The civil plaintiff did not say a word. The jury convicted all defendants the acquittal. On the acquittal of the jury, the prosecutor of Vitebsk district court filed a cassation protest with the Government Senate, which reviewed on June 5. Having heard the conclusion of the comrade chief prosecutor, the Government Senate for the 1st department of criminal cassation department passed the following resolution: "The Government Senate from the protocol court hearing and those comments of the prosecutor, the correctness of which certified by the court, finds: 1) that the prosecutor in his indictment speech expressed to the jurors the following demands of the defendant's defense entered into the protocol and the words left in that protocol without objection: "you live among Jewish population, you know that Jews who converted to Christianity need to happen take away, otherwise they will disappear without a trace"; 2) that the defendant's defender in his defense speech uttered the following expressions: "the investigator was unable to discover the culprits; those who are obliged to observe the investigation, they were also not opened; thus murder remained undisclosed, but it was necessary to find the culprits, and now on the bench obviously innocent people are put on trial and here at the trial they insist on their accusation." They say that prejudice is rooted in the dark mass, but you see that they are above, here, in court, from the height of the prosecutor's tribune they preach wild passions! The prosecutor in his speech said that Jews who converted to Christianity must be hidden, otherwise they will disappear; Thus, more than half of the honest population of the city of Lucin is faced with the accusation that they are capable of for religious purposes to commit murder. During my long, 20-year practice, I have never heard such an accusation. The prosecutor's words are recorded in the protocol, and I

I am sure that they will not remain without consequences for him; 3) that there is only one chairman interrupted the defender only once when he used the words: "wild passions from above prosecutor's tribune", turning to him with the words: "I would ask you to be somewhat more carefully"; 4) that although the prosecutor in his comment on the protocol sets out the words spoken differently, but this modified version of the said words is not awarded court and in any case has the same meaning as the version recorded in protocol, the defender of the defendants, although in the explanation of the cassation protest and objects to the accuracy of the expressions attributed to him by the prosecutor, but this the objection in view of the court's certification cannot be taken into account. The Governing Senate, without touching on the issue of compliance of admitted the prosecutor and the defense counsel of the defendants in speeches of expressions that were their duty

Machine Translated by Google

of the former and the rank of the latter duties and, discussing these expressions only in the procedure for cassation consideration, cannot but recognize them as extremely inappropriate, clearly contradicting the requirements of Articles 137, 739, 744 and 745 of the Constitution. ug. court, that seems especially significant in the present case, which violated the necessary for the proper administration of justice, the dignity and tranquility of judges and those who contributed into the material to be discussed by the jurors when they decide decisions, such data that, given the circumstances of the case under consideration, should not have nothing in common. At the same time, the Governing Senate finds that Chairman, whose duties by virtue of Art. 611. mouth ug. court. management lies the course of the trial and the removal from it of everything specified in the said article and whose responsibility should fall for any significant violation the order of the trial, which could have been averted by him, did not accept no measures within his power to eliminate those taken by the prosecutor and defender of violations, because his request to the defender to be somewhat calmer has nothing to do with the measures provided to him by law. On based on the above, recognizing that delivered under such conditions proceedings of the case, the decision of the jury and the court verdict cannot have meaning of the court decision (Decision of the Senate of 1871 No. 1838) and finding that the indication the prosecutor did not respond to the incorrect admission of the civil plaintiff in this case deserves respect, since the court, in view of the petition filed before the court hearing brother of the murdered woman, in which the claim was brought against certain persons, concluded certain requirements and directly resulted from the crime attributed to to those persons, had, according to Articles 6 and 7. mouth ug. court. legal basis to admit the petitioner as a civil plaintiff in the case (decision 1874 No. 331). The governing Senate determines: the decision of the jury and the verdict of the court cancel and transfer the case for a new trial in another composition of the same court to this the court, to which it sent a decree about this with the return of the case. About the above steps Chairman of the Court Kizilov, Prosecutor Deitrich and Defender Pris. pov book Urusova, about the first to convey the authority to respect the joint presence 1 and cas. departments of the Governing Senate, the second - to bring to the attention of the Minister Justice by transferring a copy of this resolution to the chief prosecutor's affairs, and about the latter - to order the Vitebsk district court to report the decision of the council to the pris. attorneys at the St. Petersburg judicial chamber." There followed a severe reprimand from the Minister of Justice with a warning for chairmen and judges. Prince Ususov was temporarily removed from the right of defense and expelled from St. Petersburg. Jews - murderers - Drich are sentenced to hard labor.

Chapter 3

About the murder of the baptized Jewish woman Domna

(From the court chronicle of the Elisavetgradsky Vestnik. 1886) The branch of the Podolsk District Court in the city of Letichev considered the case on the Jew Prizant was accused of incitement due to religious fanaticism on the murder of his daughter, who converted to Orthodoxy and married a Russian. Before A sick, decrepit old man of 64 years of age, a certain Sh. Prizant, a tradesman of the town of Obodovka, Olgopsky district, was brought before the jury. In appearance there was no way to assume that before us stands an inveterate villain, in whose heart the all parental feelings for their own child. The circumstances of this case the following: Sh. Prizant ran a tavern for 14 years in a row in one village of Yam-polsky district: one of the private visitors of this tavern, namely the peasant Terenty Bondarchuk, captivates Prizant's 14-year-old daughter, Khaya. One fine morning I started

1877 Chaya runs away from her parents' house to her lover's house; 2 weeks after the escape, she converts to Orthodoxy and marries that same Bondarchuk. After this sad event for him, Prizant and his entire family left their home and moved to live in Kryzhopol, Olgopsky district. According to the testimony of the witnesses themselves interested in this case, namely the Bondarchuk family, including the husband of the murdered Domna

(formerly Khaya), neither Prizant himself, nor his children and relatives ever, either before or after baptism, threatened her in any way. Just before receiving St. After baptism, Domna saw her father, and then she never saw any of her former relatives. In general, these witnesses could not say anything against Prizant. The young people lived in peace and harmony for exactly 2 years without 2 weeks, but disaster was about to happen, and Terenty, shortly before the disaster, became a watchman at a booth located 6 miles from the Kryzhopol station on the Odessa railway. D. Domna cannot stand the separation from her husband and on December 13, 1878, just before the evening, she goes on a date with him. She came to her husband safe and sound, spent the night with him, and the next day she went back to her home, to the village of Malye Kisnitsy. But she never returns home, she is killed on the way, and her body is found the next day in the attic of an uninhabited tavern that burned down on the night of December 14-15, near the town of Myastkovka. Only God knows who killed her, for he alone witnessed this heinous crime. But since a baptized Jewish woman was killed, the Jews were considered her killers. And now 2 witnesses confirm these guesses with their testimony. One witness met Domna on the very morning when she was returning home from her husband; he met her about 8 miles from the booth. An hour later, the same witness meets a sleigh drawn by a couple, which rushed in the same direction in which Domna was walking. There were three people sitting in the sleigh; according to the witness, they were Jews; he saw their faces well, but he did not see Prizant between them. Another witness already at noon saw the same sleigh on the road leading to Myastkovka, but they were no longer rushing as in the morning, but, on the contrary, were walking very slowly. There was a man sitting in the sleigh and two others were pushing the horses with sticks. In addition, there was a pile of straw in the sleigh. According to this witness, these people also seemed to him to be Jews. The third witness, who was then accompanying a party of recruits, saw from a distance how the Myastkovo tavern caught fire on the evening of December 14th. According to him, the tavern caught fire as if by itself. The gathered people soon put out the fire, and the next day, December 15, when they began to dismantle the roof of the aforementioned tavern, they found Domna’s burnt corpse in the attic with signs of violent death through strangulation. From all this, the prosecution drew the conclusion that Domna was strangled on December 14, 1878 by precisely those Jews whom witnesses saw in the sleigh, that the murderers took the body to the Myastkovo tavern, threw it in the attic and, in order to completely hide the traces of the crime, set it on fire, suggesting , in all likelihood, the corpse will burn along with it. The trail of these killers, despite all the efforts of the police and judicial authorities, has gone cold forever. There was also no evidence against Prizant himself in the murder of his daughter. Here are all the circumstances of this trial, all the evidence, or, better to say, guesses, on the basis of which Sh. Prizant was tried for inciting other, unknown persons, to murder his own daughter because of religious fanaticism. The jury, after deliberating for 10 minutes, returned a not guilty verdict to the defendant.

Chapter 4

On the attempted murder of a baptized person

Machine Translated by Google

Jew Franz Platkowski

(Court chronicle. “Kievlanin”, 1889 No. 6) On July 10,

1888, at dawn, the Brzostek brothers set off from their village Lyaskovizny, Ostrovsky district, Lomzhim province. to the government forest for mushrooms, and in the forest to at a distance of 2 versts from the village they noticed a man lying on the ground with disfigured face and swollen eyes. This man could neither eat, drink, nor speak, and was unconscious for 10 days. He turned out to be reserve private Franz Platkowski, who 14 years ago transferred from the Jewish religion into a Christian one, married a peasant woman, then entered military service, served in the Caucasus and, having been discharged 3 years ago into the army reserve, returned to his homeland. He settled with his wife and 4 children in the village. Bosevo, Ostrovsky district, doing shoemaking skill. Platkovsky's earnings were extremely limited; at times he I had to walk around the surrounding villages and collect alms; in these surrounding his Jewish relatives lived in the villages, he stopped having all sorts of relations and family meetings occurred only by chance. For initial After questioning during the investigation and trial, Franz Platkovsky explained the following. On Saturday, July 9, he left the village in the morning. Bosevo collected alms and came to village Dlugosedlo, where his uncle Jew David Platkovsky and the latter's son-in-law, cab driver Yankel Kokhman. In the evening he met his uncle on the street David Platkovsky, who, having greeted Franz, began with participation asked him about his financial situation and then invited him to go to him, David, for a meeting with his father, who allegedly expressed his intention to help Franz a few rubles. Believing David, he went with him, but at the edge of the village, when they passed by a one-horse cart parked near the church, David instantly grabbed Franz and, with the help of his son-in-law Kochman, who jumped off the cart, forcibly dragged onto a cart. The attackers took Franz to the government forest, direction to the village Laskiness. On the way they tied him up and put a sack over his head; in the forest they pulled me off the cart, crushed my throat with my knees and, despite desperate resistance, forcibly parted the jaws, poured sulfuric acid into the mouth and doused this liquid all over the face. In the end, Kochman hit Franz on the cheek with a bottle and said in Hebrew: “Well, now it will be enough!” Then, having fainted Platkovsky for actual death, the villains covered him with brushwood and left. Having come to his senses, Franz Platkovsky crawled out from under the brushwood and lay in the forest until until the Brzosteki brothers came across him. Platkovsky is the only He considered the reason for the attempt on his life to be revenge from relatives for accepting Christianity. “The Jews,” he said, “recognize such a fact as a great disgrace.” for the rest of the family; no one wants Franz's two younger sisters living with their father marry because their brother is a Christian.” The Jewish kahal had the intention of sending the accused to America, but this was not managed. They were promptly arrested and on November 18, 1888 they appeared before Lomzym District Court, stubbornly denying its guilt and strengthening prove your alibi. The victim, Franz Platkowski, once a handsome man, came to trial helpless and blind and almost lost his human appearance.

Defendants David Platkovsky and Jan Kokhman were sentenced to deprivation of all rights condition and exile to hard labor: the first - for 6 years, the second - for 4 years.

Chapter 5

The murder of the baptized Jew Andrei Garun

(“Kievlanin”, 1881 No. 215-221)

April 20, 1879, in the town of Vishnevets, Kremenets district, Volyn province. at While draining water from the Gorini River, the body of a boy of about 16, apparently of Jewish origin, was found in a swamp. On the head of the corpse there was a bag tied around the neck with ropes, which were also wrapped around the torso and legs. Moreover, to the head another bag was tied, with a torn bottom, and inside the bags there was buckwheat husk. When examining the corpse on its head, both shoulders, left buttock and near the back passage were damaged, which, according to the doctor, had already been caused after death, most likely by aquatic animals, since the corpse was in water for more than a month. Upon presentation of the corpse to the local Jews, the latter did not know any of their acquaintances in he was not recognized; when the Christians began to examine the corpse, the wife of the sexton Theodosius Gurtovicheva recognized him as the Jewish boy Abram, who first lived in the town of Vishnevets, and then was baptized in the Pochaev Lavra, where he lived with two Jewish boys who also converted to Orthodoxy, but then went somewhere from the Lavra disappeared.

Upon presentation of the corpse to the witnesses: Kondratiev, Ulyanov, Buroy, Yazmyuk, Boish, Belinder and others, they all recognized the corpse as Abram Itska Shmikler, named at the baptism of Andrei Garun, and witnesses Kondratyev and Ulyanov testified that, according to the late Garun, he was a relative of Vishnevetsky Rabbi Igerleib, and witnesses Bury and Yazmyuk stated that before receiving baptism Harun lived in the Berenzons' house, engaged in the preparation and sale of cereals and that the murder of Harun could only have been committed by Jews for his adoption of Orthodoxy. During searches carried out in the Berenzons' house and grain farm, a vest was found, boots and trousers, recognized by witnesses as belonging to Andrei Garun, on in which they were put on before his disappearance from the Lavra. In addition, during the same searches at the Berenzons, 2 bags of the same size and fabric with one of the bags tied to the corpse of Andrei Garun.

During a search carried out in the house of a rabbi who lived in the borough of Vishnevets Ingerleiba, in a locked chest of drawers, he was found among women's clothes. hemp rope, which apparently lay in the swamp and turned out to be exactly the same in thickness, material and workmanship as one of the ropes found with the corpse Haruna, and Ingerleib's wife explained that on the said rope they had tied in cat in the house.

Then, during further investigation, it was found that Abram Itsyk Shmikler (aka Andrei Garun, Markevich and Galenberg), during his mother's life he lived with her and brother Mendel in the borough of Vishnevets, in the house of his aunt Tsivia Berenzon; after death Harun's mother went to one of the residents of the Vishnevets borough as a belfer (assistant Jewish teacher), but he visited the Berenzons quite often, and his brother Mendel Schmikler remained in the Berenzon house. Then in May 1878, Harun, wanting to accept Orthodoxy, went to the Pochaev Lavra, where he was placed in the singing house together with the Jewish boys Kondratyev and Ulyanov, who also arrived in Lavra for the adoption of Orthodoxy.

Kondratyev's relatives and Garun's brother Mendel repeatedly came to Lavra and threatened them and Ulyanov if they accepted Orthodoxy. About it the circumstance was reported to the governor of the Lavra, by order of which The local team was assigned a guard to guard Garun, Kondratyev and Ulyanov. Before being baptized, he told someone who lived in the Lavra hotel Yakov Andreevsky, that his relative is Vishnevetsky, spiritual rabbi Ingerleib,

Machine Translated by Google

being outraged by the desire of him, Harun, to accept Orthodoxy, he fantasizes the crowd Jews. As a result of this, Harun repeatedly expressed to various people his fear of Jews who constantly persecuted him, and once pointed out to a witness Andreevsky at a stooped Jew passing by (who turned out to be later Margulis), saying: “This hunchbacked devil doesn’t give me peace, he walks behind me like a shadow, he asks me not to be baptized, promising to deliver, when I want, 100 rubles collected by the Vishnevets Jews specifically for me.” In addition, from among the Jews who pursued Harun, the latter pointed witnesses to his uncle - Moshka Berenzon and his brother Mendel Schmikler. Living in a singing house overlooking the garden of the tradesman Kostetsky, Harun, together with Kondratyev and Ulyanov often met in the garden with the daughter of the garden tenant, Freida Salzman, who with appearance of various Jews in the garden, she began to scold the boys who had converted, attributing to them fruit theft; the boys, in turn, answered her with abuse. To the witness's question Andreevsky, why is she persecuting them so much? Freida Salzman said that they need stoned because they accepted the “pig faith, and especially Abram Itzik Haruna, who by accepting baptism discredited the eminent surname of Vishnevetsky rabbi." Such a hostile attitude of Freida towards cross-bred boys existed, according to witness Andreevsky, before Kostetsky appeared in the garden under the name Salzman's companion, the Jew Margulis; with the advent of the latter relation Freud's approach to Harun has completely changed and has become not only soft, but even tender. Harun was allowed to pick fruits from the trees and eat as many of them as he could. wishes. Margulis and Freida constantly talked to Harun and begged him not to eat pork, not wear a cross and convert to Judaism. When did Harun not agreed, they threatened him, saying: “If you remember, you’ll see what happens to you". The same threats were made by Tsivia Berenzon, who, reproaching Harun for being baptized, told him: “Well, wait, we’ll catch you, you’ll know, you’ll see what we’ll do to you.” A week before Harun disappeared from Mendel Lavra Every day Shmikler came to the window of Harun’s room with some Jews, and within 2 days Tzivia Berenzon also came. Finally, on September 13, in the afternoon of Margulis and Freud Zaltsman begged Harun to leave the Lavra, saying: “Come with us, your brother will bring you have the frock coat that your uncle gave you.” On the same day before the all-night vigil Harun was seen talking with Margulis in Kostetsky's yard, but after finishing The all-night vigil Harun was not in the Lavra. The next day or the third after that Margulis settled accounts with his companion Shmul Zaltsman in the garden Kostecki did not appear again. After the disappearance of Harun Freud, Salzman, when meeting with Kondratiev and Ulyanov asked them: “Where is your third?”, and when they answered that he was at home, then Freida said that he was not at home and that they would be where he was. 5 days after disappearance of Harun, Freud told witnesses Kostetsky that Harun was already border and that a letter about this was received from there. Then, during an investigation carried out in Austria, it was found that on September 13 in the evening, when everyone in the Pochaev Lavra went to church for the all-night vigil, and Harun was left alone in the garden, the Jews who were there, including three people, caught Harun and, gagging him with a bun, said that if he screamed or called someone to help, then they will take his life. After this, the said Jews put Harun in prepared cart, covered him with straw and, sitting on the cart, took him to Austria, in the town of Zalozec, to his relative Lippe Horowitz, so that the latter forced Harun to convert to Judaism again. After living with Horowitz for three weeks, Harun went to Horowitz’s acquaintance, Daniil Fedorovich, to whom he stated that in In Zaloztsy he was in danger from the Jews, and that he would like to go to Pochaev.

Machine Translated by Google

Unable to fulfill Harun's request, Fedorovich sent him to the priest Gutkovsky, who, after listening to Harun's story, left him in his apartment, but the Jews, having learned about this, gathered in a crowd in the Gutkovsky courtyard, with Lippa and Matlya The Horowitzes entered his apartment and began to demand the extradition of Harun, saying that the latter was their relative. As a result, Gutkovsky applied for assistance to the local gendarmerie commander Ivan Zhuk and asked him to accept Garuna under his protection. After this, Harun was taken to the office caraway administration, where he lived for three weeks, and during his absences He was accompanied from the office by guards. In the month of December, when he became go out unaccompanied, having once left the office, he was already more didn't come back. Living in the office of the caraway administration and one day coming to Gutkovsky, Harun pointed out to him a Jew standing not far from them, saying that this is his brother, who is engaged in the cereal trade in the city of Vishnevets. In addition, Harun told Ivan Zhuk that after his abduction from the Pochaev Lavra he was taken to the borough of Vishnevets, to the house of the Jew Moshka, whose wife is engaged in the cereal trade. He was kept there for 2 weeks, and then, when he arrived in Vishnevets from Austria Moshka's relative is Lippa Horowitz, then he, Harun, was the last to be taken to Austria in Zaloztsy. The above story of Harun about his stay in the Vishnevtsy borough, in the house Berenzonov, after his disappearance from the Lavra, is confirmed by the testimony of a witness Panchukova, who saw Harun in Berenzon's house in 1878, before the Jewish holiday Tabernacles (September 30). Questioned as accused: Moshko, Tsivia and Chauvel Berenzon, Mendel Schmikler, Jos Inger-Leib, Shia Weinstein, Freida Salzman and Chaim Margulis, not pleading guilty to either the murder of Andrei Garun or complicity in this murder, testified: Berenzon, Schmikler, Ingenleib and Weinstein that they had never seen the boy whose corpse was presented to them, and added: 1. Mendel Shmikler - that his brother Abram Itsek was never in Vishnevets did not live and that Tsivia Berenzon, as well as Ingerleib, are not related to him. 2. Tsivia, Moshko and Shovel Berenzon - that Mendel Shmikler is not a relative of them at all, but lived in their house as an employee. The boots and vest found on them during the search belongs: the vest to Chauvel, and the pants to Moshka. The boots were sewn by the Jew Brodsky, and the vest by Volka Gontkvitel. In addition, Tzivia Berenzon showed that although she had to go to Pochaev almost every week, but when she was there, she never was not suitable for the Lavra house and with Jews who wanted to be baptized, talked.

Witnesses Brodsky (Lopata) and Gontvikel, questioned at the direction of the Berenzonovs Berenzonov did not confirm references to them. 3. Shia Weinstein - whatever Mendel Shmikler and Rabbi Ingerleib are not related to him, but Tsivia Berenzon is his sister, but he doesn't know whether he is his sister or his step-in-law.

Then, during a second interrogation, defendants Mendel Schmikler, Shia Weinstein and The Berenzons, having changed their original testimony, explained that of them Mendel Schmickler was indeed the nephew of Weinstein and Zivia Berenzon, and that although they saw Harun at the time when he lived with one of the residents of the Vishnevets borough as a belfer, this was in 1877, and not in 1879. Living in Vishnevets, Harun did not come to the Berenzons, and they only met him on the street. But the said explanation of the accused is refuted, firstly, by the testimony witness Panchukova, who saw Harun in the Berenzons' house in September 1878, after Harun had already been baptized in the Pochaev Lavra, and secondly, the testimony of the witness Semyon Bury, who met Harun in the borough of Vishnevets in March 1879 Thirdly, Yos Ingerleib, that he is not a rabbi at all, and holds this position in m. Vishnevets is his son, the Jews turn to him, the accused, only for divorce clarification of various issues and that neither the Berenzons, nor Weinstein, nor Schmikler are related to him; Why, during a search, there were ropes in his chest of drawers between women's clothes - he does not know, since his wife is in charge of the clothes. Fourthly, Freida Salzman - that when she was in Kostetsky's garden, she did not know Andrei Harun at all and did not persuade him to accept Judaism, and also did not have any conversations about Harun with Andreevsky; meeting the boys who lived in the monastery in the garden, she did not even know that there had been crosses between them. She had never seen the hunchbacked Jew - Margulis - and her father had never had such a Jew either as a caretaker in the garden or as a companion.

Machine Translated by Google

Then, upon presentation of Chaim Margulis to Freida Salzman, she changed her initial testimony that Margulis was her uncle and that he came into her garden only 2 or 3 times to buy plums and nuts; fifthly, Margulis - that he was neither a watchman in Kostetsky's garden nor Shmul Zaltsman's partner in renting the garden and came to the garden only 3 times to buy plums and nuts; he was not at all Andrei Garun or other cross-bred boys knew and did not ask any of them to accept Judaism. He never approached the house where these boys lived and did not talk to them. But the said explanations of Frida Zaltsman and Chaim Margulis do not deserve faith, in view of the testimony of the witnesses stated above: Kondratiev, Ulyanov, Karp, Andreevsky and Kostetsky, as well as the testimony of witnesses: Ios Budnik and Osip Mayevsky, of whom the first certified that in the fall of 1878. before rumors spread that Margulis had taken Andrei Garun away from the Lavra, he, a witness, had repeatedly met Margulis in Pochaev m., talking in confidence with Shia Weinstein, and Osip Mayevsky, who explained that, while in prison, he had heard from Freida Zaltsman , that the cross was taken away from Pochaev by some Jews who were buying apples in the orchard, and that she, Zaltsman, does not know whether she should confess to this matter or not. In addition, the Jew Moshko Berenzon asked him, Mayevsky, for a pencil and paper, saying that he intended to write to Rabbi Vishnevetsky that the brother of the murdered convert wanted to confess in this case. In view of all of the above, the following are accused: Moshko, Tsivia, Itskova and Shovel The Berenzons, Mendel Shmikler, Shia Weinstein, Ingerleib are that, by prior agreement among themselves, as a result of Andrei Harun's acceptance of Orthodoxy, in March 1897 in the town of Vishnevets, Kremenets district, they took Garun's life, putting sacks on his head and drowning him in the river Gorina, and Chaim Margulis and Freida Zaltsman that, without taking any part in committing the murder of Andrei Garun, but knowing both about the murder that had already been committed and about the persons who committed it and having the opportunity to bring this to the attention of the government, they did not carry out this responsibility.

When asked by the chairman whether the defendants: some admit themselves guilty of taking the life of Andrei Harun, a convert from the Jews, and others - that, knowing about this murder and who committed it, they did not inform the government, all the defendants answered negatively. The first witness to be interrogated was the wife of staff captain Brazchitskaya, about 50 years old, former godmother of the murdered boy Harun. Her testimony made a strong impression on those present. Tearfully, with sighs, she showed how she loved this boy for his ardent desire to become a Christian, how she talked with him about Christian virtues. On the day of Andrei Garun's disappearance from the Pochaev Lavra (September 13, 1878), she, not noticing him in the church, was going to scold him for not praying earnestly to God - and the next day she suddenly found out that her beloved godson was gone in Lavra. Seeing real things on the table evidence: a vest found during a search in the Berenzons' house - she almost burst into tears. Witness Gurtovicheva, who first recognized the corpse found in the Gorini River in Vishnevets, the baptized Jew Andrei Harun, spoke in detail about how, after removing the corpse from the water, not one of the Jews invited by the bailiff and who voluntarily gathered around the corpse, numbering 200 people, recognized him as their former co-religionist, despite the fact that Andrei Before accepting Christianity, Harun lived permanently in the town of Vishnevets. According to the testimony of bailiff Makarevich, rumors spread that Andrei Garun was killed by his relatives because he was a member of the family of the local spiritual rabbi (tzaddik), famous in the eyes of Jews, Yos Ingerleib. According to a search carried out by the same bailiff Makarevich, a hemp rope wrapped in silk was found in one of his chest of drawers, and when comparing this rope with the rope that was tied around the bag on the corpse of the drowned man, an identity was found. At the same time, both ropes were shown to the jury. During searches in the Berenzons' house, 2 bags of the same size and fabric were found with one of the bags tied to the corpse of Andrei Garun.

Some of the witnesses testified that before the disappearance of Harun from the Pochaev Lavra, he, Harun, often complained about the persistent persecution of him by the Jews and one day, alarmed, he ran to the house of Kostetsky, who had a house and garden near the Pochaev Monastery, and hid from his brother, who nevertheless, he went to the window and began to exhort him not to betray the Jewish faith, and a monetary reward was promised to him. His aunt, Tsivia Berenzonova, also made a similar admonition, and several times a whole mass of Jews approached the walls of the Lavra and raged. According to the testimony of witness Andreevsky, who lived in Kostetsky's house, the daughter of the tenant of Kostetsky's garden, Freida Zaltsman, a 14-year-old girl, repeatedly cursed at Andrei

Harun, and made various threats to him, begging him "not to eat pork meat." The Jew Margulis, who went to Kostetsky's garden to buy fruit, also addressed Garun with the same speeches. Freida Zaltsman knew that Harun was kidnapped and sent by force to Austria, for one day, shortly after Harun's disappearance from the Lavra, the witness Andreevsky, passing by his door, heard Freida say to Kostets-kom: "Andrey is abroad, a letter has been received." . After Harun's disappearance from the Lavra, witness Panchukova saw Harun in Vishnevets in the Berenzons' house, from where, according to her, he went somewhere with some Jew and never returned. Then, in November 1878, Andrei Garun found himself abroad, in Austria in Salz, where, according to his own stories to various people in Austria, he lived for 2 weeks with one of his relatives, Lippa Horowitz, from whom he suffered various oppressions, and therefore, through a certain Fedorovich, he asked the local priest Gutkovsky to save him. Having learned about this, Lippa Horowitz and a huge crowd of Jews surrounded the house of Father Gutkovsky and demanded that he hand over Harun. Gutkowski had to turn to the local gendarmerie commander for help, who took Harun to the local commune office.

Priest Gutkovsky and artisan Fedorovich, summoned to court through The Ministry of Foreign Affairs from Austria appeared as witnesses and gave their testimony in Russian. After they gave their testimony, the chairman expressed gratitude to them for responding to the call of the court and not refusing to come to the Russian court to give their testimony. Defendant Shovel Berenzon, son of Moshko and Tsivia Berenzon, in confirmation that the vest found during a search in his parents' house was his property, asked the court, through a defense lawyer, to allow him to try on a vest. He was allowed to do this, and in the presence of the jury he put on a vest, and he turned out to suit him. In addition, the defense lawyer asked the court to make an order bringing Chauvel's outer dress from the office of the Kremenets prison castle Berenzon, which he gave to another defendant, Mondel Schmikler. Wherein it turned out that the specified outer dress and vest are on the table of real evidence and sewn from the same fabric. The judicial debate began with a speech by Comrade Prosecutor M.F. Seligerov, who at the beginning of his speech, touching in detail on the religious beliefs of the Jews, said that every Jew who honors the sacred beliefs of his fathers is obliged to kill every apostate, and that such a duty lies mainly with those closest relatives of the apostate, and then throughout the entire Kahal. Hence the logical conclusion is that and in this case, the direct culprits, according to the prosecutor's assumption, are the closest relatives of Andrei Harun, who converted to Christianity, namely rabbi Yos Ingerleib, Tsivia Berenzon - his aunt, her husband Shia Weinstein, his uncle - Tsivia's brother - Mendel Shmikler, his brother, and Shovel Berenzon, son of Moshko and Tsivia.

The prosecution put forward as evidence against: 1. The relentless pursuit by them and the whole Jewish kahal Andrei Harun when he was in the Pochaev Lavra, his abduction from the Lavra, taking him abroad and the same relentless pursuit of him in Austria. 2. The presence in the Berenzons' house of the vest and pants that the murdered man was wearing. Andrey Garun during his stay in the Lavra. 3. The presence of the Berenzons in the house two bags, similar in size and fabric to the bag that was found at dead body. Further, the comrade prosecutor drew attention to the fact that in the name of religious fanaticism made a human sacrifice. Relative to the rest two defendants - Chaim Margulis and Freida Salzman - the prosecutor's comrade demanded guilty verdict, without doubting that these persons knew for certain that a crime was committed and the government was not informed about it. Witness testimony Andreevsky is a sufficient guarantee of that. Justice requires, the prosecutor concluded, that such crimes be adequately punished. The time has passed when evil happened and happened with impunity. The interest of society and truth requires condemnation.

Attorney at Law I.P. Manukov caught the attention of the jury assessors to the last words of the prosecutor, explaining that justice must be done "just court", and not to make sacrifices in the name of social or religious interests. Without going into a discussion of theological issues about what religion best, the defender noted that the teachings of Christ did not cancel the preaching of Moses, but only changed and replenished it, preaching love and mercy.

When asked about the guilt of the defendants, the jurors admitted: Moshko and Tsivia Berenzonov and Shia Weinstein guilty of murder, but deserving leniency, and Khaim Margulis in miscommunication; Mendel Schmikler, Chauvel Berenzon and Freida Salzman were found innocent. The perpetrators were convicted hard labor.

Chapter 6

About the murder of the baptized Jewish woman Julia by her relatives

Strongly wanting to be baptized, the Jewish woman Elka ran away from her parents to Christians and she begged them to help her in the matter of baptism.

After completing all the formalities required by law, in almost six months, with permission from the authorities by the parish priest Matsyukevich in April 1868 An 18-year-old girl, Elka Kaplan, was baptized and received the name Yulia in baptism, daughter

Machine Translated by Google

Labels of Movshovich and Rivka - the spouses of the Ka-plans, fish and leather traders in the city Augustow. Baptized Julia was left for a while in the parish of Barglove with the priest Matsyukevich. The Jews, through various malicious actions, wanted to capture and take away this, but under the vigilant supervision of the priest and the zemstvo guards of Mr. Barglov, this could not be achieved. When it became dangerous for the priest to keep her, for there were Jews all around laid out their nets to capture it, then, according to the general advice, they secretly came up with send her to her godmother Mrs. Ptak at the Grabovo estate, from where she soon disappeared without a trace.

The burgomaster of the city of Avgustov, Malishevsky, as interested in this matter, monitored the actions of the Jews, moreover, he now learned about the disappearance of the baptized Julia from gatekeeper Adolf Andratsky, that some girl who looked like a Jew was killed unknown by whom in Grodno district. Then the burgomaster Malishevsky on May 30, 1869, in relation No. 1703, asked the judicial investigator of the Grodno district and other judicial places to inform the burgomaster about the found dead body of a woman. The judicial investigator, dated June 18, 1869, No. 366, notified August burgomaster Malishevsky, that in the 3rd investigative area there was We are investigating the case of the found dead body of an unknown girl in Shest Pond, near the master's courtyard of Kamennaya Berestovitsa. As can be seen from the inspection report, on the body there was a rope on which hung a bag with three stones weighing about a pound, a corpse he was dressed in a thin canvas shirt with scalloped trim, the shirt was buttoned two earthenware buttons, the drowned girl was about 17 years old, built healthy, average height, black hair on head and eyebrows, long hair on head hair, round face, flat nose, round chin, clean and tender body, hands and her legs are small, her ears are pierced for earrings, her face looks like a Jew, her body there were no signs of violence in the drowned area, the hymen was not destroyed.

After such a detailed description of the drowned girl by the forensic investigator there was a perfect resemblance, clear in all respects with the newly christened Elka Kaplan. The clothes described turned out to be exactly the same as those worn by intersection, which was positively confirmed by godmother Mrs. Ptak, from home which Julia disappeared.

Comparing the facts that the Jew Yosel Kaplan, the brother of the father of the baptized Elki, a resident of the city of Augustow, having received an open sheet on July 15, 1868, at the same time he traveled around Avgustovsky and Grodno counties, and the murder of the girl followed on August 7, 1868, after which the number mentioned Kaplan and returned home, one can assume that this is barbaric the crime is the work of the fanatic Yosel Kaplan, the uncle of the deceased, who, driving around everywhere, looked for Elka Kaplan and asked about her, about what many testified during the search for Elka. Then the Jews started a false rumor that Elka was in Prussia.

At the request of the August burgomaster Malishev-Ski, Suwalki the governor appointed an investigation into the official Mayevsky in the presence deputy head of the Suwalki gendarme team. This is the case according to the indicated the traces began to be carried out as it should, and the murder would have been open, but the Jews opposed this. They did not allow the corpse to be exhumed. Boss Augustovsky district reported to his superiors that he had received information that Yosel Kaplan, accused of murdering the girl Yulia, went to Grodno for counteracting the ongoing investigation. To prevent this, Kaplan was arrested. But then the Jewish kahal began to act, sparing no expense. Nvrey sent their messengers to St. Petersburg, who submitted a petition to the Senate, asking to recall and remove the official Mayevsky from the investigation. The Jews managed to do and achieve their goal, although it cost them a lot. The official Mayevsky was recalled, the murderer Yosel Kaplan was released from arrest.

The Polotsk Criminal Court was ordered to terminate the murder case, because that Jews could have been compromised in this case, and that the case should be directed against Burgomaster Malishevsky. Polotsk was appointed to consider this case. assessor Chernotsky, who was summoned to St. Petersburg and was given instructions to finish the matter without any consequences.

The new investigator left the murder case he had started and started a completely different case, allegedly about replacing the daughter of the Jew Kaplan Elka with another. Meanwhile, the Jews erected slanderous accusations against Augustow burgomaster Malishevsky, who was dismissed from his post and spent another 2 months under arrest, he barely managed to stay alive from the terrible Jewish machinations, and he is currently living in Suwalki, grief-stricken and disgraced by the Jewish machinations, and the Jewish kahal triumphs, mocking the justice of the jurisprudence of the goyim. All correspondence of this A wonderful work of 200 sheets is in the hands of the author.

The Vilna Herald reports an outstanding case of persecution Jews of a Jewish girl who wished to convert to Christianity.

In the borough of Kemelishki, Sventsyansky district, a Jewish girl from the borough of Kreslavka, Vitebsk province, lived with the rector of the local Roman Catholic church, Father Plaskovitsky. Inda Kecheneberg, who expressed a desire to convert to Christianity and was sent by the Vilna Roman Catholic Spiritual Consistory for studying the tenets of the Christian faith. Her mother and other relatives several times came to convince her to return to her parents and remain in Judaism, but she always expressed a firm intention to be baptized. On June 14, Kecheneberg was held with another peasant girl down the street. It was about noon. There's no one on the street there were, except for a few Jews scurrying back and forth. One of them, approaching Kecheneberg suddenly threw a burka over her head and with the help of several other unknown Jews, as well as Jews from Kemelishek, threw her onto a nearby steam-window cart, on which two Jews were also sitting, and they drove the horses. One the peasant saw this and wanted to stop the horses; but the Jew aimed at him from revolver, threatening to shoot. The frightened peasant backed away, and the Jews left. On the way, they wrapped the abducted girl more tightly in a burqa and, closing head with oilcloth, put it on the bottom of the cart and, sitting on it, quickly drove horses. After traveling some distance, they turned in the opposite direction. The police officer was informed about the abduction, who immediately set off on pursuit and overtook the Jews near the river. Viliya, where steam was prepared for the Jews. Noticing pursuit, the Jews who kidnapped the girl threw a revolver on the road, struck the kidnapped Kecheneberg received several blows to the head; they tried to pour some kind of powder into her mouth and finally, throwing her out of the cart, they decided to hide. With help When the peasants arrived in time, the constable managed to detain them. They identified themselves as residents of the Kreslavka borough, one Borukh Luriy, the other Abram Soskin. The third Jew detained was the farmer of the Kemelish volost Meer Schmidt, who The first two hired a cart. The inquiry is carried out by a forensic investigator.

Chapter 7

Murder of a Jewish woman who wanted to be baptized Esther Kylie by her family

The burgomaster of the city of Kalvaria reported to the district court of the same city that on the night of 21 May 1863 Esther Kayla Zvy, divorced, 37 years old, living in her own house together with her parents, she was barbarously tortured in bed. Mayor of the city

Kalvarii diligently set about solving this crime and reported to the court the following explanations: that Esther had no one besides her parents, due to denunciations, her mother locked the shutters and doors in the evening, which were also locked in the morning, so the murderers had to be released by her parents or hidden by them, in addition, Estera’s room was so close to her parents’ room that they the slightest knock could be heard from her, that all her relatives hated her because she remained in a loving relationship with a Christian, and then was forced by her relatives to marry a young Jew, but soon she sought a divorce and announced that she wanted to convert to the Christian faith, that back in 1861 she complained to the magistrate that her relatives were persecuting her and threatening to kill her, that an attempt for the murder, it was made by her relatives that the husband of her niece Movsha Leizer Mendelbaum, who has a tavern in Kovno, brought from there one Prussian mason, who took kill Esther before Easter 1863, when this attempt failed, Esther's relatives and other relatives gathered for a council under the command of a rabbi from an unknown city, who explained to those assembled that, according to the teachings of the Talmud, the murder of a Jewish woman who had apostatized from the faith of her ancestors was not a crime, that on the eve of the murder a the last council, at which Movsha Laizar Mendelbaum and Ilya, known to us, were Tsvy, nephew of the murdered woman; after this advice the murder was committed, and that after it Mendelbaum and Ilya Tsvy left for Kovno. Information collected above by the burgomaster, police investigations and family relations of the mentioned Jews to the deceased immediately directed suspicion at Estera's relatives as the perpetrators of the murder, since no one the door was not opened, nothing was taken, only Estera was treated with frenzy. The belief spread in Kalvaria that she was killed because of religious Jewish fanaticism.

During a forensic examination, many wounds were found on Estera’s body and scratches, two large scabs from match burns were visible on the chest, on the neck and body there were many bruises from blows and pinches, there were two wounds on the left shoulder right down to the bone; on two large burn marks on the back; three ribs in the left side were severely broken pressure; there is a wound on the nose with bone fragmentation; there are large bruises under the eyes on the face; above the collarbone on the left side of the neck there is a deep and wide wound inflicted by a sharp weapon, nearby there is another one similar to this one, on the right side of the forehead there is a large wound with crushing of bones from a blow with an ax or block of wood; there are two wounds on the head from a blow a solid weapon. Traces of blood were seen on the nearest wall, which were even on the ceiling in large quantities. The wounds described above, and mainly on head and chest, according to the doctor, were sure to be fatal. Obviously this was none other than Estera’s inveterate enemies, whom she had in her family, because that several years ago she had an affair with an officer and gave birth to him in Kovno son and wanted to convert to the Christian faith; Jews, in order to prevent this, forcibly they married her to a young Jew; she lived with him only for two weeks and against his will parents divorced him. Persecuted under pain of death, Esther submitted a request to the head of the district, asking him to protect her from her relatives. In front of several Christians, she expressed her secret about accepting the Christian faith, asking them for help, which further angered the Jews, who attacked her in droves. Even the Jews strangers testified under oath that Esther's murder was the work of her relatives, angry at her only because she neglected this religion. One of the witnesses, a Catholic, said that Estera, telling him her secret about accepting the Christian faith, complained that her relatives wanted to kill her and wanted to register her property in his name, that is, a house in Kalvaria, and even gave him 300 rubles to hide . This anxiety of Estera was not pretense, since from the letters of her relatives one can see hatred towards her. This truth confirm letters translated by a sworn Jew found in Movsha Leuser,

Machine Translated by Google

Mendelbaum and Ilya Tsva. The aforementioned Movsha Mendelbaum is called a skilled Talmudist by the confessions of his co-religionists; According to his laws, every Jew who does not observe religion becomes unfit for life, and the extermination of such a person is not a sin, but a virtue and service. He did not confess to the murder of his relative Estera Tsva, but said that in 1863 he was in Kalvaria three times, but he could not explain these visits, therefore, when giving evidence, he fell into lies and contradictions, that in 1863 he brought with with him to Kalvaria some German mason, about whom they now said that he had brought him to kill Esther, but this plan was not fulfilled. Mendelbaum could not explain why he brought him to Kalvaria, although he paid him daily; The lies of his confessions became clear after a judicial investigation. In May 1863, he brought another German, Rudolf Bahring, from Prussia, also to kill Esther. Mandelbaum, explaining why he came to Kalvaria on May 18, that is, two days before the murder of Estera, lied and most of all insisted that he did not bring Bahring with him, and that he was not in Kalvaria during the night from Wednesday to Thursday, but witnesses and his relatives, exposed by him, contradicted this. Under the pressure of evidence, he admitted that in the morning he left Kalvaria at about 3 a.m., but forgot his papers, so he turned back, but, having learned about the murder, did not go even out of curiosity to her parents. He explained this by saying that he could not bear the sight of the deceased. On the Thursday morning after the murder, Mendelbaum was seen in the synagogue praying more diligently than usual, and now a rumor has spread that he participated in the murder. That Mendelbaum took part in the murder of Esther is most of all proved by Bahring's consciousness, expressed in his presence, that he came to Kovno as a potter, there he met Mendelbaum and in 1863 he installed two stoves for him and lived with him for two months, for which Mendelbaum did not resist. Then Mendelbaum introduced him to his father-in-law Ilya Tsvy and, after talking a little in private, they persuaded Bakhring to go with them to Kalvaria, saying that he would earn 40 rubles there. Bahring agreed to this, and Saturday stayed with Mendelbaum, and on Sunday morning with Mendelbaum and Ilya Tsvy and Tsvera Shats left for Kalvaria. When they arrived, they left him in the tavern and moved on, saying that they would come for him. After some time, Mendelbaum came to him and, taking him out of town, told him about Esther, that she had an affair with a Christian officer and was thinking of converting to the Christian faith, and began to persuade him to kill Esther. Bahring admitted that he agreed to this, and then Mendelbaum, showing him Estera's apartment, located next to the court, left. On Monday morning Bahring went looking for an apartment; there he met Mendelbaum and he scolded him for acting so carelessly that in this way he could destroy both himself and him, saying that it was best to kill her in the morning and that her mother knew about this and would open the door for him, and that after the murder he will receive money in Kovno. On the evening of Monday, May 18, Bahring entered Estera's room, but when he saw her, he felt sorry for her and did not kill her, but warned her again. After Bahring was removed, Estera called her parents to her and announced to them what Bahring had said; the father replied that this man was crazy and wrote down his last name. Estera responded to her father that this man was telling the truth, since he knew all the details of her life. Then Bahring left Kalvaria without success; in Kovno, he then met with Mendelboom and he told him that if he did not have the courage to kill Esther, then he should go to Prussia. Bahring expressed such precise and detailed consciousness in the presence of Mendelbaum in court. Mendelbaum contradicted this and was very agitated, the court took notice of this and noted this in the case. Bahring said this further: having warned Estera, he did not consider it necessary to inform the police about this and insisted that he had only been to Kalvaria once and that Mendelbaum had traveled before with other G

Bahring on Monday at about ten o'clock, how he spoke with Esther Zwa and how he was brought to prison, everyone now recognized him. Others testified under oath that they saw Mendelbaum traveling with Bahring, and Estera herself told the Christians who were at the investigation that the German was brought by Mendelbaum to kill and that he himself warned her and refused to kill her. All these testimonies prove that although Bahring himself is a bad person, but he did not want Estera's death and so the poet warned her, and at the trial he told Mendelbaum the real truth in the face. From Monday to Wednesday Estera had two days to demand help from the police, but did not caring to prevent the murder of fanatics, she fell victim to their hatred. Estera's father died soon in prison, his mother was released from prison by order of the Senate due to lack of evidence, but left under police supervision, and Mendelbaum was sentenced by the Governing Senate to 20 years of hard labor, and after period for permanent residence in remote Siberian provinces.

After this verdict, Mendelbaum appealed; Governing The Senate made two more final verdicts, but Mendelbaum still filed a petition, asking for the investigation to be carried out again, and after much futile labor was confirmed again the same sentence.

Chapter 8

Biblical ritual (Egla arufa)

According to the Bible (Deut. XXI, 1-9), "if the corpse of a murdered man is found in the field person and the face of the killer is unknown, representatives of the people - the supreme the high priest and the elders of the Sanhedrin leave Jerusalem, heading to the place where the body was found, and determine which city is closest to the scene of the incident. Then the officials of that city are called. They converge in the bed of a dried-up stream. They bring there a two-year-old young heifer, slaughter her, and all the officials of the nearest city wash their hands near the dead man. and they say: "Our hands did not shed this blood and our eyes did not see it."

The Talmud, interpreting these words of the Bible, asks: who would suspect this criminal murder of the city elders and what excuses do they have? (Mishna, tr. Sotah, VIII, 3). Rashi's commentator on the Mishnah says: "This dead man, whom no one had ever seen before did not see, whom no one knew, for whom no one demanded revenge relative, was undoubtedly a criminal living in solitude, who attacked at night on a passer-by, fell under the blows of the person defending himself against him!" (Rashi's commentary on Mishneh, l. 45, p. 2).

The commentator continues: "Our hands did not shed this blood, our eyes we have not seen," the elders of the city had to say, "our eyes have not seen the plight of this man, who, in spiritual despair, decided to crime. If it were not so, we would support him, we would raise him to legs, we would give him strength and try to make at least one ray of light penetrated into the dark depths of his soul" (ibid.).

After the elders had spoken these words, the high priest and the clergy had to fold their hands in prayer and say: "Forgive, Adina, your people of Israel, which you saved, and may it not fall on the head of the people this innocent blood of yours israel." What strict morality did Moses have? murder without exception of religion, for the Bible does not say about origin of the dead person found. What did the Talmud do contrary to such a clear law? Moses? The Talmud not only commands to kill and exterminate by all means the goyim, that is, strangers, but in the same way does not spare fellow believers for the slightest disobedience to the laws Talmud - puts to death and painful torture his fellow believers.

How many barbaric court cases of this kind do we have, exposing inhumanity of skating judges.

Chapter 9

Ancient statistics about killing baptized Jews by their families

In 1534, in the Czech Republic in Prague, the Jews killed their own son Leiba ben Kalai, who wanted to be baptized in order to marry a Christian girl. Parents strangled him in a smoke bath, for which Kalai were executed (Prince Zhukhovsky from Sandomierz bibl.). In 1643, in the Czech Republic, in the town of Kolin, a Jewish woman poisoned her own son because he began to praise the Christian faith (book of official Zhukhovsky, p. 31).

In 1665, in the Czech Republic, parents buried their young daughter alive because she ate pork on the road with Christian girls (ibid.).

In 1666 in Prague, the baptized Jew Vaclav converted 13 Jews to Christianity, for that he was shot by his own father; the perpetrators were executed (ibid., p. 31). In 1693, the Jew

Lazarus killed his baptized son because he was 76 Jews converted to Christianity (ibid.). In 1696, Rabbi Samuel was baptized in Poland; the Jewish kahal sentenced him to death penalty, the Jewish murderer was captured and handed over his judicial staff - 50 Jews were arrested and, after their exposure, were executed (ibid.). In 1789 in the Czech Republic, a Jewish father killed his son because he read Christian Gospel. In 1390 in Krakow, a baptized Jew, repenting that he had been baptized, asked authorities himself to martyrdom, then at the stake he shouted with joy that he was dying Jewish (ibid.). In 1686, in Kalisz, a baptized Jew was killed on the way to the field because he announced Jewish secrets to Christians (ibid.). In 1712, the baptized former rabbi Serafinovich testified under oath at the trial in Lublin Tribunal that he himself personally killed two Christian babies in Lithuania to receive Christian blood (ibid.).

Chapter 10

On the killing of a baptized Jewish woman Marianna, daughter of Misan (Extract from acts published by the Vilna Archaeographic Commission, vol. XXIX, No. 63 - 1680 June 28 days).

Tribunal decree awarding the elders of the Jewish Brest synagogue, as well as the Jew Misan with his wife and son to death, payment of two hundred kopecks of groschen Lithuanian for the kidnapping and killing of a Jewish woman who converted to the Christian faith Marianna, daughter of Misan.

“The fate of this day is six hundred and eighteenth, the month of June and twenty-eighth day. In the right of His Grace Mr. Konstanty Florian of the Pre-zdets court Beresteysky and Mrs. Malzhonki of his grace, his grace Pan Zikgmunt Lazovoy, treasurer Tekhanovsky, 3 infidel Jews Beirekh Meerovich, Faibish Shmuilovich, Leiba Mashkovich, Moshko Pinkasovich, Ileya Shaevich, the elders of the entire synakgoka kagalu of Beresteysky, also 3 infidel Misan Jew and the tenant of the Rogozenskoe tavern and his wife, relatives of Mrs. Mar1anna Shokalskoe and his brother behind Manecha’s call about the tyrant’s secret and trickery way, sending away 3 courtyards of his favor, Mr. Beresteysky named 3 Ditovtsy, in the Beresteysky voivodeship lying, and then with the same look changed Shokalskaya voluntarily her to the faith of the Holy Roman Catholic and through his grace, Pan Zikgmunt Lazovoy, mourner Tekhanovsky and to her mercy Mrs. Prezdetskaya, under the ship Bereteyskaya, like relatives of horseradish she was horrified, the muzzle and the bodies of that lady don’t know where the backside is, then to the backside the body of that lady Shokalskoe and before the recitation of the right pens, about harm and expenses. Izh the infidels at the top, beckoned Jews, having been called, are not right in front of us they made no information about their lack of satisfaction and did not give us their side and they didn’t commit it, but we are going to judge them in a fate curled to fall in speech, but don’t respect it then before us the court with the product of the plenipotent actors showed that they had changed the Jews, the old man of the Kagal of Beresteysk, as he was also a wretch, carried with him, unanimous Nowadays, not only on the peciio of the Christian faith and the condemnaya one, destroying it with the right Pospolity about brewed peace, dared and vazhilis godlessness, zametal, trans-ko in you will secretly introduce the remaining young lady Shokalskaya to the holy Catholic faith to muzzle and season about death, why do we judge the runaway one, anyhow the will of the rightful Qur'an could have been stifled, with the right and the complaint called, - all the Jews, like obvious man-fighters, that is: Beirekh Maerovich, Faivish Shmuylovich, Leyba Moshkovych, Moshka Pynkosovych, Ilya Shayevich, seniors Misan, the tenant of Rogozensky, his wife and son, there is a fourth stink in the throat, even to her they didn’t get the right, the teds were on the road and on the lapan; Moreover, the Tiranskoe-Shokalskoe golovshchizny was muzzled for two hundred kopecks of Lithuanian groschen with two kopecks written and memorable given to us, on all the good Jews of Berestey lying, moving, gondolas, shops, rentals, sums of money, on bail where you have been for many centuries, also at the school of those Jews, etc.”

About 70 years ago, the Warsaw Jews decided to steal jewels found on the icon of the Mother of God in Czÿstochowa. On holiday Nativity of the Virgin Mary in Czÿstochowa, the icon of the Mother of God is decorated with diamonds worth millions. To bring this plan to fruition, they chose In Warsaw, a Jewish woman who pretended to be fictitiously baptized received the name Maria and, having become a feignedly devout Catholic, donated an unprecedentedly rich wax candle several arshins in size for the icon of the Czestochowa Mother of God high and very thick, composed of several parts, decorated with gold and silver The donor requested that this candle be lit on the holiday Nativity of the Virgin Mary for the whole day. This candle was placed in advance in front of the icon of the Mother of God.

It happened that one elder hieromonk dreamed of such a warning - so that the candle is not lit, otherwise the entire chapel of God will be destroyed Mothers.

As a result of this dream, the candle was examined and the dream came true. For disassembly and To unscrew the candle, specialists and jewelers were called from Warsaw, who carefully dismantled the candle piece by piece, it turned out that it was all filled highly explosive. A Jewish woman who was fictitiously baptized immediately after the donation disappeared and disappeared forever, and the ill-fated candle is still kept in Czÿstochowa.

Chapter 11

The Case of the Beating of the Patrol and Christians in General Jews in Minsk in 1898

Prosecutor Deish's speech

“The matter to be decided by you, contrary to all my expectations, is very has been greatly delayed and complicated and is currently, although abundant, so contradictory, chaotic and to some extent stupid material that is sometimes difficult to understand. This happens mainly due to the fact that most of the material is nothing more than material superficial, unnecessary ballast in a case from which it is best to abandon it, especially since the simplest plot of the case seems, in my opinion, completely simple and clear. In these views, not wanting to bother your already intense attention, I I will try to be as brief as possible and will only deal with such circumstances and data of the case, which within the scope of my task seem important to me and having significant significance in the case.

First of all, I will dwell on the accusation brought against to the defendants. According to the indictment, the defendants were brought to our court under Article 269. Penal Codes, i.e. accused of participating in a public gathering that committed by the combined forces of violence against the lower ranks stationed in Minsk parts, due to motives arising from tribal and religious enmity. 269 art. Code contains two parts, since the indictment does not contain indications under which part of this article the defendants are accused, then I consider it my duty to make a reservation that I support the charge under the 1st part of Article 269, so How do I admit that those patrols of the Kolomna Regiment, under the command of Corporal Levchenka and second lieutenant Gallaszek, who were subjected to violence by the Jews, cannot be classified as military forces called up by the administrative authorities for dispersion of public gatherings and those indicated in the 2nd part of the said article, since everyone judicial investigation has undoubtedly established that both of these patrols were not sent to disperse the crowd, and to perform some special duties military service on behalf of his superiors. Having thus indicated the charge that I bring against the defendants, I I think it is necessary to dwell in some detail on the main feature of this charges - on the commission of a crime due to motives arising from tribal and religious hatred. Refer to the history of the Jewish people, the history of their relations with others Christian peoples, on his catal device and the features of his worldview and I will not touch his creeds, just as I will not touch the Talmud, etc., since reasoning about such subjects would take me beyond the limits of judicial speech and would be would be aimless. To prove what is beyond doubt, to prove what is not subject to proof, at the very least - fruitless labor. Existence among Jews' enmity towards Christians is such a universally recognized and conscious each of us is a fact, which there is no need to prove and it is enough only to state it. For me it is much more important to prove that the historical, centuries-old enmity manifested itself in the present case and was the only incentive for the attack by the side of the Jews against the soldiers and some Christians. Prove the fact of appearance in this the cause of this enmity, as well as to refute its existence with testimony testimony, in my opinion, is impossible, and all attempts in this regard, both in indictment and during the judicial investigation led only to the listing small, completely insignificant cases of street clashes between Jews and Christians, which cannot have any significance in comparison with the importance of the subject your resolution of the issue and cannot in any way serve as evidence manifestations of Jewish enmity in this matter. It seems to me that the resolution is much better the question that interests us, we can find in a quick outline of everything that took place on April 15, 1897 in Minsk.

Let's remember how it all happened. The matter began with the fact that at the Nizhny Bazaar A dispute began between several Jews and several soldiers released from the barracks to the city on the occasion of a holiday over military service. We talked about who serves and how. The argument turned into a quarrel, and the quarrel into a fight. It makes absolutely no difference to me who hit first - whether a soldier or a Jew soldier, and who was the first to spit on the other. I don't attach much importance to this initial quarrel and fight. Similar fights occur every day in all cities and among all nations. For me, the subsequent moments and the attitude of the Jews towards this petty and usually-| mu fact. Let's see how such fights end and under what conditions such fights occur. Let's take, for example, our Russian crowd. There is a fight on the street, in the bazaar, the crowd can be huge, but still several people fight, and the crowd remains an indifferent spectator and only the biggest thing, which is the humor characteristic of the Russian person, sometimes encourages the fighters. The crowd has enough nobility not to attack one of the sides and thereby change the strength of the fighters. How can this be explained if not by the fact that such a crowd does not harbor any tribal or other hostility towards the fighters and has no incentive to interfere in the fight. Is this what we see in the present case? At the noise of a fight between a small number of Jews and soldiers, whole masses of Jews began to flock from all sides, so that after a very short time the entire area of the Lower Bazaar and all the streets and alleys adjacent to it were crowded with Jews, whom, according to the most competent witnesses in this regard, - the regimental commander of the city of Fedorov - about 10 thousand people gathered, and the police chief of the city of Zakalinsky - about 20 thousand people. Of course, it is completely unthinkable to give even an approximately correct number of Jews gathered. But what is important to me is the undoubted fact that there were two, or at most three dozen soldiers at the Lower Bazaar, and several thousand Jews. How do these thousands of Jews feel about the fight that took place? It would seem that they did not and could not have any relation to the fighting soldiers, since, I repeat, there were only a few soldiers, and they physically could not in any way offend or offend the Jews who were gathering from all sides. Nevertheless, huge crowds of Jews, without any reason on the part of the soldiers, arm themselves with sticks, stones and other objects, attack the soldiers, separate them and inflict beatings and wounds on each individual, and only thanks to a happy accident - the appearance of officers and policemen - these individual soldiers are carried away legs and escape with relatively minor injuries. But such an attack was not limited to one area of the Lower Bazaar: wherever individual unarmed soldiers appeared, crowds of Jews attacked them and beat them with iron sticks. I have registered 12 cases of such attacks on individual soldiers. Let us only remember in this regard the testimony of witnesses: the secretary of the district court Lopushansky, the bailiff Pekarsky, Lieutenant Zatsepin, the policemen Stanishevsky, Mironchik, Rutkovsky and Gulik and the victims of the lower ranks: Lukin, Mikheev, Ivannikov, Lomatsky and others. All of them certified that the Jews attacked them without any reason and inflicted severe beatings, which were also confirmed by a forensic medical examination of the victims.

At the same time, it is worthy of note that in no case did the Jews enter into single combat with soldiers, and in all cases they attacked one in crowds.

According to the testimony of Mr. Lopushinsky, he saw two crowds of Jews, about 150 people Each one beat three or four soldiers until they bled. Then we saw such an outrageous fact that when one soldier, bloodied beyond recognition, fleeing from the crowd of Jews pursuing him, jumped into a passing carriage horse-drawn railway, the Jews stopped the carriage, pulled a soldier out of it and continued to beat him. The following facts are also characteristic: in order to save soldiers from the cruelty of Jews, police officers had to deliver them under their supervision to the police station. Another fact: not only individual soldiers were saved from the rage of the Jewish crowd. Assistant Bailiff Kniga saw two parties of different soldiers, about 15 people each, who were fleeing from pursuers of a much larger number of Jews, who beat them with sticks and stones. This fact is significant. In order to put a Russian soldier to flight, something more than an ordinary attack is needed. The Russian soldier, who does not easily give up his place in a battle with a real enemy, flees from such a shameful enemy. Obviously, the Jews allowed themselves cruelty and outrageous violence against the soldiers, and, most importantly, they significantly outnumbered them and persecuted them in droves. There weren't many soldiers on the streets at all. In this regard, one of the regimental commanders certified that only five people from his regiment were discharged to the city on April 15. If we, in accordance with this, count the lower ranks dismissed from other units, and even if we increase their figure several times, we will come to the conclusion that for the compact crowd of thousands of Jews there were only 100 to 200 soldiers scattered in different units cities. What, if not the tribal enmity of Jews towards Christians in general and soldiers in particular, can explain this series of attacks and cruelties against innocent and unarmed soldiers?.. But this is not enough, the insolence of the Jews goes further, beyond the limits of the possible, they attack on patrols of the Kolomna Regiment - three people under the command of Corporal Levchenko and 21 soldiers under the command of Second Lieutenant Gallashek. Remember the testimony of witnesses on this matter. As soon as Levchenko's patrol approached the Lower Bazaar, a crowd of Jews, without any reason, surrounded this patrol, separated Levchenko and the privates Gusev and Zaikin who were with him, and individually inflicted beatings and wounds on each of them and took away their guns. A crowd of Jews knocked one of the patrolmen, Zaikin, to the ground, attacked him with a cry of "hurray" and began to trample him underfoot. Patrolman Levchenko was protected with a saber by Lieutenant Zatsepin, who arrived on the scene in time, and took everything bloodied out of the furious crowd of Jews. The crowd dragged the third patrolman along the pavement, wanting to take his gun away, but he insisted that they would kill him before the gun was taken away. The Jews showed even greater insolence when attacking Gallashek's patrol, which, like the first, was surrounded by a dense crowd, throwing logs and sticks at it and beating the lower ranks of this patrol. In addition, the crowd of Jews began to disarm the soldiers: the defendant Movsha Kaplan took the gun from Private Zakharov with one hand, and struck him on the head with a stake with the other, and another Jew broke the butt of Private Tsvirko's gun with a stake. Then the Jews turn to their traditional biblical method, begin to stone the patrol soldiers and pour water, boiling water and slop on them from the windows and balconies of neighboring houses. All this forces Second Lieutenant Gallashek to fight his way through with rifle butts and hastily leave the Nizhny Bazaar. Here you go, Messrs. Judges, those circumstances to which I considered it necessary to draw your attention when discussing the question of whether tribal and religious hostility on the part of Jews towards Christians were manifested in the present case. I think that yes, that it manifested itself, since nothing else than this enmity can explain a whole series of cruelties and violence on the part of the Jews against innocent, mostly unarmed and outnumbered soldiers who could not only offend, but also offend Jews.

Machine Translated by Google

It may be objected to me that if the crowd of Jews, when attacking the soldiers, was solely driven by hostility against Christians, then why were there no attacks on other Christians and lower ranks of the police, which took place unhindered in Jewish crowd and the soldiers were taken out of it, why, finally, there was no violence officers. To such objections, I must say that there were cases of attacks on individual Christians who turned up at the hands of Jews; such cases, by testimony of witnesses Pekarsky, Zatsepin, Oleshkevich and others, I have recorded nine, and in all these cases the Jews attacked passing Christians without any reason, beat them only because they were Christians, and some of them, like Alexander Dreizin, suffered head wounds. What As for the police officials, the Jews did not allow themselves to commit violence against them. actions for a very simple reason. It was possible to attack soldiers with impunity, since the soldiers are strangers and do not know any of the local residents and according to the conditions in their barracks life they almost never have contact with Jews; not the police officials who should know and know the inhabitants of their area and can always indicate and name the persons who would participate in such violent acts. The best proof of this is the testimony of the city watchman Kushner, who certified that the Jews stopped beating the soldiers upon his appearance only because he knew by sight and by name so many Jews in Minsk. The Jews apparently showed their hostility only where they could act with impunity, and not they were afraid of being recognized and named. There was no violence against the officers either for a very simple reason - all insolence has its limits, and the Jews knew well that in the event of an attack on the officers, the matter would take a more serious turn for them and would not end in a real trial.

But then the event happened, the preliminary investigation began, accused, and the usual method of the children of Israel appears on the scene - slander. Slander against everyone and everything, first of all they slander Christians and soldiers. They say that on April 15th in There was a pogrom in Minsk. Pogrom is a terrible word in the ears of a Jew, and indeed The pogrom itself is a serious phenomenon. But let's look at what exactly the pogrom of April 15 was expressed in and whether it actually happened. If there were attacks Christians to Jewish homes, as attested by some Jewish witnesses, and if Jewish property had been damaged, then undoubtedly all this would have been immediately reported to the police and judicial authorities and would be formalized official acts. We don't see anything like that. There is not one in the case document related to this subject. Truth in court witness, bailiff Pekarsky, for the first time stated that on the evening of April 15 he received from some Jews statement about broken glass, but he did not attach any importance to this fact and sent to verify the statement of the mayor Bovdey. You heard this witness. He found only a few broken windows in Beckerman's tavern and two or three neighboring houses, and five or six bottles of liquor broken at the exhibition in Beckerman's window. What Is it any wonder that glass and bottles were broken? The Jews threw a whole bunch of stones to Gallaszek's patrol stationed in this place; stones flew in all directions and could break glass and bottles. Finally, Bekkerman himself at the preliminary investigation testified that he did not see the soldier at all and that there was no attack on his tavern was, and only then did he change his testimony in front of you and stated that the glass and bottles were beaten by patrol soldiers who burst into his room, and that he did not declare this during the preliminary investigation only because the judicial investigator I didn't ask about this. But even at the trial he was not asked about this question, and he himself began to talk about the attack of soldiers on his tavern. They further say that proof of the pogrom was the fact that the Jews began to take out their liturgical books from the synagogue. Let's say it was like this. But what does this have to do with Christians and soldiers? I think that some Jews, not understanding what was going on, were afraid pogrom, and perhaps respectable but not strong-willed elders of the Jewish synagogue under the influence of this fear they wanted to move their books to a safer place; but, I repeat, Christians have nothing to do with it. We have been presented with other evidence of the pogrom was not, so from the words of the Jewish witnesses themselves one can only come to conclusion that the only victim of the notorious pogrom was the ill-fated canary of the witness - the Jew Leikin. Next, they allow themselves to slander the regimental authorities, who allegedly replaced the gun, which was added to the case as evidence. You From the judicial investigation they themselves were convinced of what a blatant lie this was. Finally slander comes to unheard of impudence: 15 Jewish witnesses before us certify that Second Lieutenant Gallaszek, walking with a drawn saber at the head of an armed patrol, commanded his soldiers to “Beat the Jews and destroy their property.” Not to mention that this testimony is refuted by all other data in the case, I do not think It is impossible to dwell on such slander, it is so absurd and outrageous. Enough about such insinuations. You yourself will appreciate such evidence and this cute way of defense. Therefore, the prosecutor, having refused to charge the defendants Goberman and Feiman, proceeded to present the evidence against each defendant individually and in conclusion expressed the conviction that the chamber would pronounce a guilty verdict in the case, which awaits every truly Russian person, whose best feelings cannot help but be outraged by the fact that the Jewish crowd allows itself to attack and beat Russian soldiers and commit violence against Russian armed patrols, and at the same time expressed confidence that if a guilty verdict does not teach Jews to treat respect for the Russian military class, it will force them to at least respect physical integrity of the Russian soldier. Speech by a sworn attorney Malysheva (office of Shmakov).

Machine Translated by Google

The speech of sworn attorney Shmakov was preceded by the following brief speech pris. pov Malyshev, who, feeling unwell, gave the floor to his comrade: “The presence of my comrade Shmakov relieves me in front of the chamber from obligations to apply to the present case. Article of law according to which the defendants are accused, this article is social and relates to the well-known territory to which Minsk undoubtedly belongs. Police Chief Za-Kalinsky certified to us that all the inhabitants of Minsk are 96 thousand, and of them 60 thousand are Jews. This gives reason to believe that there was precisely tribal enmity on the part of Jews, and not what the defense is saying. Even the testimony of some witnesses The defense leads to the same conclusion. Administrative and military authorities were on their feet, the phones did not stop working, finally the police chief demanded a platoon of artillerymen, who were taken to a special room. Then came new reinforced patrol, which was attacked, had their guns smashed (points to evidence). We were generally told about the enmity of Jews towards Christians Kushner, Fedorov and Marchenko. I pay special attention to the words of the colonel Fedorov, as a person who participated in major affairs, in pacifying the Uniates and disorder in Warsaw.” The Trial

Chamber determined: the Jews of the defendants of Minsk, Abram Kaplan, Srul Gubich, Movsha Kotin, Yudel Romanov, Elya Kugel, should be deprived of all special personally and according to the status of the assigned rights and advantages and send them to correctional prison departments for two years each. After completion of the assigned work term to be placed under special supervision of the local police for 4 years. Litigation the costs of the case should be assigned to the convicted defendants.

Machine Translated by Google

Chapter 12

The barbaric action of the Jews in Ancient Lithuania

